The question has therefore arisen in my mind as to whether in the recent past we have pursued the most practical course in the legal defenses we have presented to the courts when unwarrantable injunctions have been issued and we have been cited to show cause why we should not be punished for alleged violation of the injunctions—for contempt of court. Labor's antagonists have sought to entangle us in all forms of litigation involving large expenditures of the hard-earned money of the workers; they have to a considerable extent made impossible much constructive uplift work of our men and of our movement. The conclusion reached in one case has not had its definite determination by which the courts of other or of equal jurisdiction have limited their course. The question of doubt which has arisen in my mind as to the course we have pursued raises the further thought whether at some time we shall not appear in our own persons and in our own defense without the aid of attorneys; that is, whenever, after due study and consideration of the facts relative to an unwarrantable injunction in a labor dispute, it is decided by the union or unions interested that the members have good grounds for holding and maintaining that their fundamental, constitutional, and inherent rights are invaded by the injunction, and if arrest ensues, those workers who are taken before the courts shall decline to employ the services of counsel, but shall themselves assert their rights under the law and then abide by the consequences—if imprisonment follows, the victim in any case to accept his fate; the members of the union concerned to take care of his family or dependents, and the usual agents of publicity, especially the labor press and the spokesmen for the unions, to appeal the case to public opinion. By such a course any usual terrors of jail imprisonment will be annulled. It is clearly no disgrace to have been convicted under court decrees which the masses of the people know are oppressive and ill-grounded, which form mere fiat law which has not been made through elected representatives in the course of legislation, and the general terrorism of which, by recent votings, the citizens of whole States have shown that they oppose.

The laborers of this country want to know where they are with regard to the law. In labor injunction cases in general they hold that not they themselves, but the courts, have been violators of the law. To continue the perplexing wrangle over what is the law, to keep up the hair-splitting by bench controversialists, to live under the uncertainties raised by contradictory court decisions, is unworthy of a people who believe themselves to be free. Let the masses themselves proceed to cut the Gordian knot in this question and by the effective measures suggested rid labor and the people generally of the obstacles to their legitimate progress erected through the manifest partiality of the injunction courts.

POLITICAL CHANGES AFFECTING LABOR.

At length it has become evident to all open-minded men that important changes are impending in our methods of government, and especially with reference to the status of political parties. Voters are now demanding better reasons for their support of a particular candidate than his nomination by a party or his indorsement by some official or unofficial boss. The spirit of revolt and change is abroad in the land, and the spirit of liberty which first inspired the revolutionary leaders in 1776 has again entered the hearts of the American people. The people who form the rank and file of political parties are more progressive than their leaders. They will no longer submit to the rule of evasion and false pretense found in platforms, Presidential messages and public addresses. They demand straight talk and open, honorable methods.

I hope to find henceforth that the millions of intelligent men of labor, having passed beyond the influence of campaign buncombe, have come to understand that the welfare of the people and the promotion of the cause of labor are more important than any party candidacy or empty partisan success.

In the progress being made toward popular rule, now seen not only in our own country, but in all nations, labor can justly claim an important, if not indeed a leading, part. In this movement, international boundaries may be disregarded. The manhood and intellect associated in the war for the rights of man, differentiated from the claims of wealth, privilege and hereditary rank, belong to no particular race, class, or nationality. The spirit of liberty and self-assertion overleaps mountain ranges and speeds across the seas separating empires and continents. It can not be stayed by Kings, nor Emperors, nor even by Presidents, nor by armies and navies, nor by injunctions and jail sentences.

We have often been ridiculed for claiming too much for organized labor. But, where today would have been the initiative, referendum and recall, direct nominations and direct election of United States Senators, had it not been for the energetic and persistent demand, advocacy and support of workingmen—of "labor leaders," if you please, of twenty years ago? You may have observed of late that the press has moderated its tone in speaking of "labor leaders" in derision, showing a tendency to admit the designation to its rightful place in the language.

The initiative and referendum are now in full force in several States, are indeed recognized in the constitutions of nine States, and are operative on fundamental, and occasionally financial, propositions in all, or nearly all, the States of the Union, and besides in many cities on local propositions. California, with a population of two and a half millions, is the latest convert, by an enormous majority to true democracy. Labor has been fighting for this reform in that State for twenty years or more. While in a broader sense it was a long stride upward and onward for all the men and women of that State, let me ask what chance the recent amendments to California's constitution would have ever had if her brave and loyal "labor leaders" had not demanded them years ago, and continued to demand and advocate them? And so it has been in a greater or less degree in every State where the people have had the sense and courage to strike off the shackles of the corporate agent working as a corrupter of legislative bodies, and to rebel against an autocratic boss-owned and syndicated judiciary. We are no longer journeying in the wilderness. We are no longer in the season of mere planting and hoping. We are in the harvest time.

The last battle line of the opposition is at the provision for recall of Judges. But that part of this general reform has been in force in several cities for several years and in four States during a shorter period. It was only within the last half century that the experiment of an elective judiciary was tried in the States of this Union. Rarely has an honest, independent Judge, putting forth proper effort, been refused a re-election. No case of a worthy, deserving Judge being recalled, or a case where the recall of a Judge was of even doubtful propriety, can be cited.

Why all this fuss and fury in opposition? Is there any reason, based upon the fitness of their social relations, the character of their offices or the nature of their calling, for the placing of judicial officers on pedestals above other public servants? This semi-deification of the judiciary, this sanctimonious cant about "mob rule," some of which was in President Taft's message vetoing the Arizona admission bill, is mere cant and drivel. The people who pay the taxes, bear the brunt of wars, do the work of the world, have as clear a right to recall and discharge unfaithful officers, including the judiciary, as they have to choose them in the first instance. And they are as capable of forming an intelligent opinion in the one case as in the other.

As a matter of fact, speaking with the utmost sobriety, and in unison with most respectable authority, we have never had the benefit of a real representative democracy in this country, because of the absence from our constitutions and laws of the right of initiative, referendum, and recall. In opposing them, sordid capital and buttressed privilege are merely making a last desperate struggle against the inevitable.

True progress has never been by rapid strides, notwithstanding that a change from the old to a new order comes with a suddenness which is almost startling, when after a long period of dissension and preparation the people are ready. Labor has been patient and persistent, enduring many wrongs and sacrifices. There should be no retreat from the points of vantage it has conquered.

Labor's contentions of many years have at length become merged into, or have rather co-ordinated with, those of the progressive of all parties. The people as a whole, irrespective of class, condition, calling or partisan alignment, have declared for freedom in fact, and not merely in name. They are taking affairs political into their own hands. They will no longer tolerate the sale of legislation to the highest bidder or the granting of franchises to the richest bribe-giver. Under the coming régime, assuredly there are to be no more court decrees entered as prepared in advance and ordered by the attorney for the stronger party—stronger politically or financially. Along with these abuses will depart the midnight injunction and the policeman's ready club, at the behest of those claiming a property right in the labor of the vicinage, whether at work or on strike. In lieu of the political boss and his machine, we shall have leadership of intelligence, pleading for public justice, with adherents proportioned in number to the strength of the arguments. The stuffed ballot-box, the false count, and the perjured election return will likewise disappear. With these opportunities, with these stimulating inducements to free thought and action, the cause of public justice will be advanced in all directions. Labor, acting from the point of enlightened self-interest, and yet with a full sense of responsibility respecting the just rights of all others in society, will manfully and patriotically meet its enlarged responsibilities.

Under the prevailing system of cut and dried platforms and slated nominations, preceded by fake primaries, the ballot in our hands has not been, in any adequate sense, either a protecting shield against wrong or a means of redress. We may not for some time be entirely rid of the rule of parties. If they be an evil, they are such as are incident to all governments based on popular suffrage. I deem it unwise, or rather impolitic, to waste our energies now in efforts to abolish political parties. Perhaps they are institutional in all free governments. But if we can not now destroy them, we may, by more assiduous and regular exercise of our privileges and rights of citizenship do much in the way of controlling them.

Under existing conditions, we must obtain various measures of legislation at the hands of dominant parties in legislative bodies, and if party affairs are to remain in the hands of corporate agents and corrupt bosses as heretofore, then our interests will be imperilled and the desired relief retarded, no matter which party has the majority.

But political parties should, after all, be treated as means to an end. The success of a party should never outweigh the accomplishment in legislation or administration of the important purposes of labor. In casting our ballots we should ever distinguish, whenever possible, between our friends and our enemies, and between these should be no division on party lines among us. On general party issues it would be useless to attempt bringing about unity of action, and perhaps it is better in the long run that such is the case. But when we are seeking legislation from Congress on so vital a matter as curtailment of judicial power in the matter of injunctions and in all matters involving our personal liberties, including the right of free speech and free press, we should be a unit in opposition to candidates who stand in the way, no matter how exalted the office sought by them.

LABOR GROUP IN CONGRESS.

The fifteen members of the House of Representatives holding trade union cards of membership frequently held conferences with the officers of the American Federation of Labor, counselling with us as to the best methods by which they could be of service to the cause of labor and to the people generally. At the meetings no resolution was either adopted or proposed. The measures before Congress or its committees were freely discussed. The general consensus of opinion expressed, impressed itself upon the minds of these Representatives. While no conclusion of a binding character was reached, yet the labor group in the House of Representatives, regardless of political party affiliation, acted in unison and with advantageous results.

For convenience as well as the record I give the names of the labor group who are members of the House of Representatives in Congress, with the names of the organizations of which they are members and the parties to which they are attached:

Wilson, W. B., Coal Miners, Democrat.
 Lee, Robert E., Blacksmiths, Democrat.
 Martin, John A., Locomotive Firemen, Democrat.
 Cary, Wm. J., Commercial Telegraphers, Republican.
 Berger, Victor L., Typographical, Socialist.
 Hughes, Wm., Textile Workers, Democrat.
 Buchanan, Frank, Str. Iron Workers, Democrat.
 McDermott, James T., Commercial Telegraphers, Democrat.
 Lewis, David J., Coal miners, Democrat.
 Smith, Chas. B., R. R. Telegraphers, Democrat.
 Anderson, Carl C., Musicians, Democrat.
 Sherwood, Isaac R., Typographical, Democrat.
 Roberts, E. E., Metal Miners, Republican.
 Farr, John R., Typographical, Republican.
 Maher, James P., Hatters, Democrat.

The good this group of labor men has already accomplished, the good they can and no doubt will do in Congress, should imbue the men of labor and all liberty-loving citizens with the duty, the responsibility, and the advantage of not only securing the reelection of the members of this group, but also increasing the number and the possibilities of their influence and power for just and humane legislation.

OCCUPATIONAL DISEASES.

Resolution No. 114, adopted at St. Louis, recommended that the American Federation of Labor should urge the further enactment of legislation giving greater protection to the workers in factories, mines, etc., through the provision, in a scientific way, of safety measures for the preservation of the life, limb, and health of the workers, and especially through the adoption of comprehensive means that would eliminate the unnecessary suffering and economic loss occasioned by occupational poisons and by such diseases as are peculiar to certain occupations.

Communications were addressed to all of our State Federations and city central bodies asking them to exert themselves in behalf of the enactment of legislation in their States in harmony with the spirit of this resolution. The following is a brief summary of such safety and health-preserving legislation as was passed during the last legislative period of the States:

- Illinois: (1) Legislation establishing fire fighting and rescue stations at coal mines.
- (2) A State commission appointed to inquire into and render a report to the Legislature on occupational diseases. (3) A special investigation undertaken on mining accidents and casualties.

Kentucky: (1) Adequate life-saving apparatus made obligatory in and around coal mines. (2) Mine foremen to be licensed and examined by State officials.

Louisiana: (1) State bureau of mines established, with a State inspector in charge.

Maryland: (1) Shirt-factory floors to be sprinkled with water every morning made mandatory. (2) Examination and licensing of plumbers made mandatory. (3) Better ventilation laws for coal mines. (4) Stationary engineers and those in charge of steam boilers to be licensed after examination.

Massachusetts: (1) Medical inspectors for schools made mandatory. (2) State inspector of health authorized to prosecute manufacturers employing persons under eighteen years of age in unhealthy occupations. (3) State inspectors of health authorized to fix a standard as to permissible degrees of humidity in textile factories. (4) Plumbers to be examined, licensed, and registered. (5) A State commission of five appointed to investigate the general subject of factory inspection and report its findings to the Governor.

New York: (1) Children under 16 prohibited from operating drill presses, paper-cutting machines, and other dangerous machinery. (2) Factory inspection law amended, strengthening the sanitary and ventilation requirements of factories and work-shops. Also providing for proper supply of pure drinking water, suitable and convenient washrooms, clean and sanitary separate toilet-rooms for the sexes. Created State Commission to investigate sanitary machine and fire dangers. (3) All accidents occurring to employees must be reported to the Commissioner of Labor within forty-eight hours after occurrence. (This requirement should be made mandatory in all States.)

Ohio: (1) Mine laws practically rewritten, greatly improved and strengthened. (2) Safety appliance law extended, standardizing equipment, and also ordering proper protection of railway frogs and switches. (3) All persons operating steam boilers must be duly examined, licensed, and registered. (4) All accidents to factory operatives to be immediately reported to the State factory inspector. (5) Elevator and elevator shaft sections of factory inspection law strengthened. (6) Penalty for failure to guard dangerous machinery increased. (7) Penalties for failure to carry out orders of State factory inspector increased and State factory inspectors and State building inspectors granted co-equal powers in the protection of men engaged in the construction of buildings.

Rhode Island: (1) Passenger elevator section of factory inspection law improved. (2) Bakery shop inspection law strengthened by increasing the number of inspectors and making more rigid the ventilation and sanitary regulation of bakeries.

Virginia: (1) The factory inspection law improved and strengthened as to sanitary requirements, adding a penalty for violation. (2) Public washhouses and laundries placed under the authority of city inspectors of health. (3) Safety appliance law on railroads, standardizing equipment.

California: (1) Full crew bill on railroads enacted. (2) Protecting electrical workers and other building mechanics. (3) Physicians treating patients suffering from lead, phosphorus, arsenic and mercury poisoning, also anthrax or compressed air illnesses are directed to report all particulars to the State Board of Health. (4) Appropriation of $5,000 for an investigation to reduce the prevalence of tuberculosis. (5) Tenement house law amended, improved, and strengthened regarding ventilation and sanitation.

Kansas: (1) All coal mines to be provided with suitable washrooms for employees. (2) All coal mines to have a telephone system installed.

Washington: (1) Legislation for full crews on all railroad trains enacted.

During the Sixty-first Congress a determined effort was made to obtain adequate legislation to eradicate the dangers to the health of employes in match factories. Bills were introduced by Representative Esch of Wisconsin for this purpose, which were referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. Every one whose assistance it was possible to enlist was urged by us and other sympathetic organizations to bring pressure to bear on Congress to obtain this much needed legislation. I addressed the following appeal to each member of the House Ways and Means Committee:

JANUARY 28, 1911.

DEAR SIR: The Esch Phosphorus bill, H. R. No. 30,022, is freighted with the greatest potentiality for good. It will save the workers from endless suffering, expense, disfigurement and early death; it will contribute to the well-being, the safety, the comfort, and the economy of the general public. It is one of the real measures before the third session of the Sixty-first Congress that would earn well-merited public praise, and place our country along with others in the vanguard of civilization, from the standpoint of real, practical, serviceable and necessary conservation of human life.

In behalf of the great rank and file of the American Federation of Labor, in the name of humanity, I respectfully ask you to exert your every talent and energy to see to it that this life-conserving measure is enacted before the close of the Sixty first Congress. May I have the pleasure of saying to our membership that you have pledged yourself in behalf of H. R. No. 30,022, and that you will do your utmost to see that it becomes a law during this Congress?

Thanking you in advance and hoping to hear from you, I am, very truly yours,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,
President, American Federation of Labor.

To this letter the following members of the committee replied, representing themselves in sympathy with the measure: Representatives Ellis, McCall, Randell, Payne, Needham, Harrison, Broussard, Pou, and Hill.

On February 21 Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania, member of the committee, reported, in lieu of the bills introduced by Mr. Esch, a joint resolution authorizing President Taft to appoint a committee to make a thorough examination of the match factories and the disease common in them known as "phossy" jaw. That resolution passed the House February 27. The Senate passed it on March 4, after making a few minor amendments. It was sent back to the House later the same day, when everything was in the utmost confusion during the closing moments of the session. While the turmoil was at its height, Mr. Dalzell called the resolution up and deliberately moved to disagree with the Senate amendments and asked for a conference, to which the House agreed. A few moments later Congress adjourned sine die. The conferees had no time to meet and, of course, will never report upon the match bill; consequently this measure died in conference. Who will pass judgment upon this inhuman act of Dalzell of Pittsburg?

MINERS' SAFETY—U. S. BUREAU OF MINES.

The Bureau of Mines was created by Congress in the year 1910 as a result of a demand coming, not alone from the mining industry, but from the organized labor movement, backed by the general public sentiment. The chief purpose of the bureau is the development of greater safety and efficiency in the mining industry, or, expressed in another way, its duty is to develop means whereby health, life, and limb, as well as the mineral resources, may be best conserved.

The bureau is making diligent investigations of mining, especially in relation to the safety of miners and the conservation of the mineral resources. Of the common causes of the mine accidents, such as falls of roof and coal, gas and dust explosions, mine fires and the misuse of explosives, all of which are often closely related, each must be studied and fought in a manner peculiar to itself. The misuse of black powder and other explosives is sometimes considered the least important of the causes of mine accidents; but its importance is much greater than statistics indicate, as it is the true cause of many of the fatal mine fires, gas and dust explosions, and falls of roof that are credited to other causes.

Both the quantity of explosives and the number of purposes to which they are applied are increasing. They are now made at 150 plants, in different parts of the United States, and the product of a single year is estimated at nearly 500,000,000 pounds. Nothing in all this material is a safe, or safety, explosive when in the hands of careless or ignorant persons either in shipment or use.

In addition to the large losses of life and property resulting from improper use of explosives in mining, the recent statistics of the Railway Bureau for Safe Transportation of Explosives have shown more than 400 persons killed or injured and over $3,000,000 worth of property destroyed by explosives in transit by rail. The fact that three years of co-operative effort under the supervision of the bureau has reduced these losses to almost nothing encourages the hope that similar co-operative effort may likewise greatly lessen losses of life and property from the use of explosives in mining.

The additions to the large death roll of our mines make a recurring appeal to the public for fair treatment of the coal mining industry, and to the miners and to the managers that they join in every possible effort for greater safety. It may never be possible under conditions such as exist today to prevent mine accidents entirely. Little can be accomplished in that direction by either the operators or the miners working alone, but experience in all countries shows that through the hearty, determined co-operation of both, the accidents may be greatly reduced. This will require wise laws and regulations, based on fact and experience, and the strictest possible discipline.

The accidents resulting from the improper use of explosives in mining can most certainly be prevented, (1) through the use of the best and safest explosives; (2) through the handling and firing of these explosives in the safest manner by carefully selected and trained men; and (3) through strict and competent supervision.

Among the important problems before the Bureau of Mines is the reduction of the number of deaths in the mines, and it is gratifying to note that in the last three years, for which statistics are obtainable, there has been a decrease of 25 per cent.

In the year 1907, 3,125 miners lost their lives, or 4.86 in every 1,000 employed; in 1909, the last year for which there are official statistics, 2,412, or 3.62 in every 1,000 employed.

The record of the three years is as follows:

Year.	Killed.	Injured.	Death rate per 1,000 employed.
1907	3,127	5,316	4.86
1908	2,451	6,772	3.60
1909	2,412	7,979	3.62

In 1907 Great Britain, in each 1,000 men employed, had 1.13 killed; France, 1.1; and Belgium, 0.194, or less than one man in every 1,000 employed, showing that three or four times as many men were killed in the United States in that year as in any of the European coal-producing countries.

Since the bureau was organized, it has placed seven fully equipped rescue cars in the principal coal fields of the country—Wilkesbarre, Pa.; Trinidad, Colo.; Evansville, Ind.; Rock Springs, Wyo.; Billings, Mont.; Huntington, W. Va., and Pittsburgh, Pa. In addition, the bureau maintains rescue stations at Pittsburgh, Pa.; Knoxville, Tenn.; Birmingham, Ala.; Urbana, Ill.; McAlester, Okla., and Seattle, Wash.

Each rescue car and station is in the immediate charge of a mining engineer and a practical miner who is trained in rescue work. The stations and cars have complete outfits of oxygen helmets, which permit breathing for two hours in a deadly atmosphere; oxygen reviving apparatus used in bringing asphyxiated miners back to consciousness; a collapsible steel cage, to take the place of one shattered by an explosion; a portable telephone for use in the mine; safety lamps, etc.

Within the last twelve months 5,000 miners throughout the country have been thoroughly trained in rescue work. It is hoped that these men will volunteer their services whenever there is a disaster.

Each Bureau of Mines rescue car has a specified territory over which it travels, visiting the mining camps. At each stopping place, demonstrations in the use of the oxygen helmet are given, also lessons in first aid to the injured. In the evening, the mining engineer gives an illustrated lecture to the miners on greater safety in mining. Thousands of miners have attended these lectures in the last few months and have gone back to their hazardous work with a keener sense of its dangers, a desire to be more careful and to live up to the precepts of safe mining. All of this must necessarily have a salutary effect.

More than 5,000 men are injured in the coal mines of the United States every twelve months. Some recover sufficiently to return to work, but several thousands of men are so maimed and crippled each year as to be useless to themselves and burdens to their families. Many of the injured men who are taken from the mine die later, perhaps within a few months. In instances, the death of these men or their crippling for life is due to the fact that they did not receive intelligent emergency treatment at the time of the accident.

It is to better this condition of affairs that the Bureau of Mines carries on each car a practical miner trained in first-aid-to-the-injured work. This employe, while not engaged in actual rescue work, teaches the miners how to care for an injured comrade. Simple lessons in bandaging wounds and providing splints for broken legs are given at every mining camp visited. The miners are taking special interest in this feature of the work, and it promises to have an important bearing on the reduction of the death rate.

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

Mr. Sulzer of New York has reintroduced his bill for the establishment of a Department of Labor. It is known as H. R. No. 13. It has been referred to the House Committee on Labor, and the prospect for a favorable report upon it from that committee during the next session of Congress is encouraging.

In spite of the fact that the House Committee on Labor in the Sixty-first Congress decided to report this bill favorably, and so instructed its chairman, Mr. Gardner, of New Jersey, he failed to report it before that Congress adjourned.

No organized opposition has made itself apparent on this measure. Congressmen generally seem to favor the establishment of a Department of Labor, and it is confidently expected, if continued pressure is brought to bear from the members of organized labor and other broad-visioned citizens on the members of Congress in behalf of the creation of such a department, that such requests will meet with an early and favorable response.

CIVIL SERVICE EMPLOYEES' RIGHTS.

During the Sixty-first Congress, at the request of the American Federation of Labor, Representative Poindexter and Senator Jones of Washington, introduced in Congress bills for the purpose of restoring to Civil Service employes of the United States Government the rights of free speech and of mutual voluntary association. No material progress was made with these measures other than what could be done in the direction of crystallizing sentiment in behalf of these principles. At the St. Louis Convention resolution No. 52 was adopted, "protesting against executive orders that deprived Federal Civil Service employes of their constitutional rights as citizens to petition Congress for redress of grievances and the right of free speech," etc. In response to this resolution, the American Federation of Labor drafted a new bill, which was introduced in the Senate by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, and is known as S. 1162; and in the House by Representative Lloyd of Missouri, as H. R. 5970. They were referred to the committees on reform in the Civil Service. Prompt action was taken by the House committee. The bill, introduced on April 18, 1914, had its first hearing on April 20, with all of the members of the committee present. Secretary Frank Morrison, Oscar F. Nelson, President of the National Federation of Post-Office Clerks, and myself, with other labor representatives, made arguments before the committee in behalf of the Lloyd bill. Considerable interest was manifested upon the subject, and the hearings were extended throughout the session. Copies of the printed hearings have been widely distributed. In opposition, Second Assistant Postmaster-General Stewart and representatives of the National Association of Manufacturers appeared before the committee. From all indications the House committee appears to be favorably disposed to the general principles contained in the Lloyd bill, H. R. 5970, and from a canvass of the House it develops that many members are in favor of legislation upon this subject. The members of Congress themselves apparently feel deeply aggrieved because of the drastic character of the executive orders, issued by ex-President Roosevelt and President Taft, forbidding Civil Service employes and subordinate officials from approaching Congressmen on matters affecting their welfare while in the Federal employ. Congressmen take the position, and in my mind it is a perfectly correct one, that they are representatives of all of the people, including those who are employed by the National Government, and, in order that they may be correctly and amply informed upon public matters, no restriction should be placed in the way of any of their constituents from approaching them, either with a complaint or with a request for a remedy for grievances.

The Senate Committee took no action upon the La Follette bill, S. 1162, during the last session, but Senator La Follette issued a circular letter with a scheduled list of questions, and sent them broadcast among the railway mail clerks, so that he might be thoroughly fortified with the most accurate information when he makes his argument for his bill before the Senate committee.

Every endeavor will be made during the next session of Congress to secure the enactment of this legislation, in order that all Government employes may thoroughly and completely enjoy all of the prerogatives contained in that clause of the Constitution of the United States which reads: "Congress shall make no laws abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or of the right of the people to peaceably assemble and to petition Congress for a redress of grievances." We, of the American Federation of Labor, consider this to mean all the people of our nation—including those who may be permanently or temporarily employed by our Government, and we intend to see to it that these constitutional rights shall not be transgressed or invaded by whosoever occupies the White House or holds a position as a Cabinet officer.

LABOR OF CONVICTS.

To the St. Louis Convention I reported that the House Committee on Labor had through its chairman made a favorable report upon the convict labor bills before that Congress. I also urged that every effort be put forth in the forthcoming session of Congress to obtain favorable action on these measures. Such efforts were duly made, but Chairman Gardner (of New Jersey) declined to call the bills up, even after he had been assured that the Speaker (Cannon) would give him recognition for that purpose. Consequently the bills died upon the calendar of the Sixty-first Congress.

In the session just closed, Mr. Gardner introduced both measures again. They are known as H. R. 1239 and H. R. 1240. The first prohibits officials of the United States Government from purchasing convict-made goods for public use in the Government service; the second is the same that has been so frequently and profusely indorsed by employers, publicists, penologists, and humanitarians in general co-operation with organized labor, but which is always being caught in some peculiar dilemma in its tortuous passage through Congress; first with one mishap or excuse, and then with another. It is therefore deemed advisable to urge the friends of this measure to inaugurate a most determined and vigorous campaign for the enactment of this essential legislation during the next session of Congress. And, in view of the fact that the House Committee on Labor is more favorably disposed than the former committees to give a reasonable consideration to matters submitted to it for consideration, the prospects are bright for favorable action upon this measure.

Because the views and sentiments are in such complete accord with the avowed position of labor, I can not refrain from making a reference here to that part of the report made before the American Prison Association last month, at Omaha, Nebraska, by its President, Mr. T. D. Patton, in which he said, in part, the following:

"We are today building on the foundations which were deeply and strongly laid in the years gone by, by men who were moved by an impulse not born of man, but divinely implanted, and who were led to undertake the inauguration of measures which have finally resulted in the accomplishment of such humane results as are now generally observed in the prisons of this and of other countries. Not alone this, but this movement, under the fostering care of this organization, has been largely instrumental in securing the co-operation of other kindred organizations and societies, whose beneficent ministries are being expended, not on the prisoner directly, but upon those who are called upon to suffer by reason of the prisoner's wrongdoing; and these united efforts mark the onward progress of organized co-operation on the part of various organizations, which are justly entitled to and are freely given our highest encomiums of praise, because of the magnificent results they have accomplished.

"The enactment of such wise legislation as is best calculated to properly protect society and to provide, under humane discipline and restraint, an adequate punishment for the offender; the securing of the proper and regular employment of the prisoner in prison, under wise State law; the obtaining of a rightful portion of the prisoner's earnings for the use of his dependent family; the systematic investigation of their real needs, and the furnishing of prompt relief to the worthy, and possible effort for their rehabilitation or removal to more favorable surroundings, are some of the things for which we strive and which we are achieving."

Prisoners should be required to work not for private profits of contractors, nor even for the financial profit of the State, but for the benefit of their dependents and for their own reformation.

UNIFORM LAWS TO PROTECT HUMAN LIFE.

The work of prosecuting our endeavors to secure a uniformity of State laws for the protection of the health and lives of the workers is being continued. While we have not reached that position which we can proclaim is satisfactory, yet we have been much more successful than formerly, as the technical details of this report verify.

Our correspondence is steadily increasing from all parts of the country on some detail of this vital question, and the only regret we have is that there are times when we do not have in our possession the very last word on the subject inquired about. Therefore I am constrained again to urge every central body and every State Federation to maintain a permanent Legislative Committee, to keep us supplied with the latest happenings in their localities, and to whom we can apply and in turn supply local and State information concerning legislation.

SEAMEN'S RIGHTS.

During the Sixty-first Congress strenuous efforts were made by the International Seamen's Union to obtain legislation that would accord to seamen the possibility of self-help and make of them free men, and in addition improve the safety of travel at sea and make more attractive the opportunities that the sea offers for American boys. Exhaustive hearings were held before the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries, at which President Furuseth, of the International Seamen's Union, Secretary Olander of the Lake Seamen's Union, and Secretary Flynn, of the Marine Firemen and Water Tenders' Union, made masterful arguments in behalf of the bill (H. R. 11193), introduced by Representative Spight of Mississippi. On account, however, of the fierce opposition by Mr. McKinlay, from the Second California District, Mr. Humphreys of the First Congressional District of Washington and the sharp political practices of the Chairman of the Committee, William R. Green, of the Thirteenth District of Massachusetts, no report was made upon the bill.

Through the sympathetic co-operation of Senator La Follette, two Senate documents were printed and widely distributed. These have been of material assistance in giving publicity to the need of remedial legislation affecting maritime law and for the restoration to the men who follow the sea all of the honor, rights, and privileges which free-men hold dear.

During the present Congress, Senator La Follette has re-introduced the same bill. Its number is now known as S. 468, and Representative Wilson has introduced an identical bill in the House, known as H. R. 11372. Both have been referred to the Senate Committee on Commerce and the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries.

In justice, I urge all members of organized labor to aid the seamen in their worthy efforts to obtain the legislation they are seeking.

INSURANCE LAWS AND TRADE UNIONS.

This subject was again called to the attention of central labor bodies and State Federations in a special circular, and some considerable correspondence ensued that has been helpful, but in view of the fact that a dangerous situation might develop and menace our interests if strict vigilance is not exercised, I therefore again urge the membership in all of the States to exert themselves to secure the enactment of such definite legislation dealing with insurance matters as will permanently prevent any interference with the rights of organized labor in the humane work of caring for the sick, the injured, and the bereaved ones. It is particularly requested that the officers of our Federation be promptly advised concerning any proposed insurance legislation in any of the States at any time.

R. R. TRACK INSPECTION—LOADING VESSELS REGULATION.

Resolution No. 78, of the St. Louis Convention, directed the Executive Council to take such steps as they might deem proper to secure the passage of legislation by Congress providing for Government inspection and supervision by skilled inspectors, under the Interstate Commerce Commission, of the physical condition of the interstate railroad tracks, so as to insure to the traveling public the greatest possible degree of safety from accidents that might occur through defective tracks.

This matter was taken up with the Railroad Employees' Department, and after giving the whole subject careful consideration it was agreed that it would be wise to hold this matter in abeyance for the time being. The same course is being pursued in regard to the Government regulations in loading vessels.

SECOND-CLASS POSTAL RATES.

The Dodds Trade Union and Fraternal Publications Bill, H. R. 22,239, which passed the House June 6, 1910, in the Sixty-first Congress, was not reported out of the Senate Committee on Post-office and Post-roads by Senator Penrose, the Chairman, in spite of many thousands of petitions and resolutions which were received by him and other members of the committee from trade unions, fraternal organizations, and other associations, urging the passage of the bill.

When the Post-office appropriation bill was before the Senate, on March 3, 1911, Senator Owen of Oklahoma offered the Dodds bill, which had passed the House, as an amendment, and he vigorously urged its adoption, but a point of order was made against it by Senator Kean of New Jersey, who contended it was new or general legislation included in an appropriation bill, and it was ruled out of order by the chair, the Senate sustaining the ruling.

The Post-office Department induced the committee to propose raising the rate on advertising matter on second-class mail to 4 cents a pound, and this proposition was incorporated in the bill, but it raised such a furious protest from all parts of the country that Senator Penrose withdrew it from the bill on the floor of the Senate. A new section was later added to the bill providing for the appointment of a special commission to take the whole subject-matter of second-class mail under investigation and report to the President by December 4, 1911. The members of the commission appointed are: United States Supreme Court Justice Charles E. Hughes; A. Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University; Harry A. Wheeler, President of the Chicago Association of Commerce.

About fifty editors, representing an equal number of official trade union journals, met in Chicago on July 31, to consider the proposed increase of postage rates on second-class matter and the various rulings and interpretations placed upon the laws to enter second-class matter as applied to trade union publications and the labor press.

After a careful and mature consideration the conference unanimously expressed its protest against any increase in postal rates of any kind regardless of classification, and indorsed the Dodds bill.

Two committees were formed by the conference, one of which was to appear before the commission to acquaint it with the attitude of the labor press and the labor movement on the subjects the commission had to consider. This committee was composed of Matthew Woll, President of the International Photo-Engravers' Union, and Editor of the American Photo-Engraver; W. J. Adames, Editor of the Carmen's Journal, and myself. We appeared before the commission August 10 and presented to it the views of organized labor upon the subject-matter, describing in detail the declarations of the Chicago Conference of Labor Editors; namely, that organized labor and the labor press were unalterably opposed to any increase in postal rates whatever, and we entered our protest against the administrative discrimination now prevailing against the trade union publications. At the same time, we called the commission's attention to the fact that the present effort of the Administration and Postmaster-General Hitchcock is the first attempt on record of any civilized government to increase postage rates and make the interchange of ideas among intelligent people more difficult and expensive.

We also called the commission's attention to the fact that no one, excepting the Postmaster-General, proposed changes in the present postage rate on second-class matter, and by effective comparison with other departments of the Government the demands of the Postmaster-General were shown to be illogical and inadvisable for the public good. We also urged the commission to recommend the abrogation of the present arbitrary rules and restrictions upon a free press, and particularly the ruling against the right to publish advertisements in trade union publications.

The Third Assistant Postmaster-General, Mr. Britt, undertook to reply to the statements made by labor's representatives, but instead of disproving our statements he supplemented and gave greater weight to our protest and argument. Upon examination by me, Mr. Britt not only admitted that there was a wide scope of discretionary power now in the hands of the Post-office officials, but made other statements conflicting with the past attitude of the Post-office officials, all of which, no doubt, may have some bearing upon the report of the commission.

Our committee was frequently questioned while pressing its arguments before the commission, and great interest was aroused by our presentation of facts. What effect our arguments may have had upon the commission can not be stated at this time, but can be best judged when the report of the commission is submitted. Reports of the conferences and of the committee were duly printed and widely distributed in pamphlet form.

In the meantime, during the recent extra session of Congress, Mr. Dodds reintroduced his bill known as H. R. 3972. Mr. Martin of Colorado introduced H. R. 9319, and Senator Burton of Ohio introduced S. 1713, the two latter being identical measures, only applying to the interests of trade union and fraternal society publications. These bills have been referred to the proper committees on Post-offices and Post-roads, but no public consideration was given to them by the committees during the last session. We should take vigorous steps to urge the Congress to enact this legislation. Our interests and the public interest demand from us this imperative service.

IMMIGRATION.

The Sixty-first Congress during the short session refused to take up for consideration the immigration bill, requiring an educational test for immigrants, by Mr. Gardner of Massachusetts, which had been placed on the discharge committee calendar in the previous session, and it refused to take up for consideration the bill by Mr. Hayes of California, introduced by him for the purpose of obtaining legislation excluding Asiatic immigrants.

The Commission appointed by the Fifty-ninth Congress, February 29, 1907, to inquire into the general subject-matter of immigration, made its final report to Congress December 5, 1910. The Commission recommended several methods of restricting immigrants, among which were:

- (1) "The exclusion of those unable to read or write in some language.
- (2) "The reduction of the number of each race arriving each year to a certain percentage of the average of that race arriving during a given period of years.
- (3) "The exclusion of unskilled laborers unaccompanied by wives or families.
- (4) "The limitation of the number of immigrants arriving annually at any port.
- (5) "Material increase in the amount of money required to be in the possession of the immigrant at the port of arrival.
- (6) "Material increase of the head tax.
- (7) "The levying of the head tax so as to make a marked discrimination in favor of men with families."

No more splendid indorsement of the far-sighted economic position taken on this great question by the American Federation of Labor would be possible than these specific recommendations from the Immigration Commission, unless it could be the following addition to its recommendations by the Commission, in which it said:

"All these methods (quoted above) would be effective in one way or another in securing restrictions in greater or less degree. A MAJORITY OF THE COMMISSION FAVOR THE READING AND WRITING TEST AS THE MOST FEASIBLE SINGLE METHOD OF RESTRICTING UNDESIRABLE IMMIGRATION.

I think we may congratulate ourselves that this particular part of the Commission's recommendation adds emphasis to the foresight and the wisdom of the members of the organizations affiliated to the American Federation of Labor, because of the fact that this suggestion and demand came originally from such bodies.

Anticipating the report of the Immigration Commission in its recommendation of the illiteracy test, the House Committee on Immigration decided, on January 13, by a vote of 6 to 4, to report out the bill, H. R. 15,413, by Mr. Gardner of Massachusetts, which provided for the educational requirement. The committee also decided that this illiteracy test bill should have preference for consideration in the House over the other bills reported by it to the House. It was reported on January 20, but never called up from the calendar, in spite of the persistent endeavors of the author, Mr. Gardner of Massachusetts, and other friends of the bill. Mr. Gardner even went so far as to introduce a resolution calling upon the Rules Committee to report out a special ruling so the bill could be considered, and I wrote the members of the Rules Committee, on January 21, urging action on their part.

All the committeemen were personally polled by our Legislative Committee and other representatives of immigration restriction organizations who were advocating the educational test bill, and many thousands of resolutions and petitions were received by Congressmen in behalf of the bill from trade unions and other organizations, but the effort was apparently in vain. Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania, Chairman of the Rules Committee, sat stubbornly "on the lid" and refused to budge; he and his stand-pat colleagues evidently believing that free trade in labor, literate or illiterate, is positively the safest and surest method by which the vested interests can obtain an unlimited supply of low-priced, docile labor.

During the present Congress Mr. Gardner of Massachusetts has reintroduced his bill requiring an educational test for immigrants. It is known as H. R. No. 1343.

Mr. Burnett of Alabama, the new Chairman of the House Immigration Committee, has introduced bill No. 8155, which covers in a greater measure the recommendations of the Immigration Commission. It includes a broad educational qualification. It increases the head tax from four to five dollars, and contains other salutary provisions for the purpose of improving the regulations in regard to immigration. These bills have been referred to the Committee on Immigration, but no action has yet been taken. Many other bills, too numerous to specify, have been introduced by other representatives for the purpose of the better regulation of immigration.

PACIFIC COAST TRIP.

For several years a number of central bodies and other unions in the organized labor movement of the Pacific Coast have urged that I undertake a lecturing and organizing trip through their section of the country, stating, by formal resolutions, that it would be helpful to our cause, especially in bringing a clear understanding to the public with regard to trade union philosophy, policy, and achievement. Twice resolutions were introduced by delegates from the Pacific Coast at conventions of the American Federation of Labor, which unanimously adopted them, authorizing and directing me to accept the invitations, but owing to litigation in the courts and the sentence hanging over my head it seemed to me that I had no right to undertake a trip which would carry me so far from headquarters and from the jurisdiction of the court. Responding to the importunities, I stated that if the Supreme Court reversed Justice Wright's sentence I should endeavor to arrange to make the Pacific Coast trip.

The Supreme Court decision reversed the sentences, and though Justice Wright initiated a new contempt proceedings at once, he later announced that the case would not be taken up until October. When learning these facts, in May last the San Francisco Labor Council, by unanimous vote, repeated and insisted upon my acceptance of the invitation to visit the Pacific Coast at as early a date as possible. In the course of the correspondence on the subject during the next two months, I pleaded the difficulties in the way of sparing sufficient time for the trip, and the large amount of physical exertion incident to the journey, and the various forms of union work during it which I should necessarily be called upon to undertake. On the other hand, many of our friends of the Pacific Coast, speaking in their representative capacity, urged that the proper place for me to speak on Labor Day, in view of results, would be San Francisco, and that also more good could come from a short campaign in Los Angeles and the neighborhood than possibly could be effected by me anywhere else in the country. It was represented that a noteworthy solidifying and strengthening effect might be expected from the meetings which would take place on the coast during my travels there. No one else, they insisted, could bring to the movement the same attention that might be brought by the President of the American Federation of Labor. The correspondence to date on the question was turned over by me to the Executive Council at its meeting in June. After discussion of the various methods in which I might best employ my time, it was decided that it would be well to partially drop the routine work at headquarters and to set aside the various other engagements that had been made and that I be authorized to visit the Pacific Coast at my convenience.

Accordingly, an itinerary having been carefully arranged, I left Washington for the West on August 17, and after successfully following the route of travel laid out and fulfilling the engagements that had been made for me, I returned to Washington on October 4. In detail my itinerary was as follows:

- August 18, arrived at Chicago.
- August 19, arrived at Denver.
- August 21, arrived at Salt Lake City.
- August 23, left Salt Lake City for Butte.
- August 25, left Butte for Missoula.
- August 25, left Missoula for Spokane.
- August 27, left Spokane for Seattle.
- August 28, left Seattle for Vancouver.
- August 29, left Vancouver for Seattle.
- August 30. Addressed public meeting at Tacoma.
- August 31, left Tacoma for Portland.
- September 1, left Portland for San Francisco.

September 5, left San Francisco for San Jose.
 September 6, left San Jose for Santa Cruz.
 September 7, left Santa Cruz for San Francisco.
 September 9, left San Francisco for Los Angeles.
 September 14, left Los Angeles for San Diego.
 September 15, left San Diego for Los Angeles.
 September 15, left Los Angeles for Bakersfield.
 September 17, left Bakersfield for Fresno.
 September 23, arrived San Francisco.
 September 25, left San Francisco for Sacramento.
 September 28, left Sacramento on return trip to Washington, during which I stopped at Denver and at St. Louis.

On the trip I delivered thirty-four public addresses of from one and a half to two hours' duration; made about twenty short speeches, and held a large number of conferences with representative men upon important phases of our movement.

The course of my journey was marked by interesting and important events. I can not say that anywhere I met with any serious disappointment or in fact disappointment of even a trivial nature. On the contrary, from the time that I arrived in Denver and made an address there until the day when I made my last speech on the trip in Sacramento my presence was the occasion for manifestations of enthusiasm and expressions of confidence in the labor movement such as I had never before witnessed. The press gave to the incidents of my journey, and to my utterances on various occasions during it, an extraordinary amount of space. Indeed, the Western country recognized the significance and timeliness of the visit. The press seized the occasion for indirectly, when not directly, exhibiting both a sympathy with the trade union movement and a concurrence of opinion with our authorized spokesmen regarding the most important events in the recent history of organized labor. I have no complaint whatever to make regarding my treatment, either in the news columns or the editorial columns of the entire Western press, with one or two exceptions, which were to be expected. An appreciation was shown of the consistent and well-considered attitude of the American Federation of Labor toward the great social questions of the day. In short, the newspapers "printed the news" relative to my utterances and to the great assemblages which greeted me and to the reception of my views by my audiences.

The public meetings which I addressed were much of the same character, whether they took place in Denver, in Spokane, in Missoula, in Portland, in San Francisco, or Los Angeles. Everywhere the gathering was mainly made up of a fine type of intelligent wage-workers, with, on all occasions, a considerable representation from the professional, official, and business elements of society. My audiences evidently believed I had something to say, and they listened so as to hear me say it. On only one occasion was there the slightest interruption. I purposely occupied the necessary time in making my addresses to reach the general understanding, taking up a subject and so treating it that all present might have a correct impression of the subject and know my opinions as to how labor in general interpreted it. The greatest occasion naturally was that of Labor Day, on which I addressed a gathering in Shellmound Park, San Francisco, estimated at 25,000 persons. The features of the demonstration of that day, such as a parade of 45,000 workers in the principal streets of San Francisco, a decoration which was general in many parts of the city, enormous crowds on the sidewalks and in the squares, and the reading of two essays written by school children on the lessons that Labor Day teaches—these will of a certainty be long remembered in the city by the Golden Gate.

My reception in Los Angeles, considering the crusade that has been carried on by powerful enemies against trade unions, was nothing short of triumphant. Labor took the opportunity of declaring itself, its sentiments, its purposes, and its opposition to the forces which would bring dissension and disintegration to trade unionism in Southern California.

In the course of my seven weeks' trip, I was daily brought into communication with men representing other institutions than that of united labor, and in every case I was listened to with respect, and almost invariably with expressions of sympathy for the cause of labor as represented in trade unionism. The meetings were held in the largest auditoriums, "stadiums," and halls that the cities afforded and with one exception they were crowded to overflowing.

In looking back over this memorable trip, I feel that all the efforts that were made by every one who participated in the work of getting it up and in the various meetings that were held were amply repaid. It is a common desire among men to give public expression to the faith that is in them, and the gatherings in the various cities I visited brought out thousands upon thousands of men beyond the usual membership of the unions which might be expected to be in attendance at such meetings. The wheel-horses of our movement in the various cities had but one verdict to pronounce on the outcome of the project of bringing the President of the American Federation of Labor to the Pacific Coast. In saying that the movement is the stronger as the result of that series of meetings, I trust I am not guilty of thrusting my personality before the membership. Quite apart from the personal commendations of my efforts on the coast, I have received a number of letters from the active trade unionists since my return. I quote from a letter under date of October 2 from Andrew J. Gallagher, Secretary of the San Francisco Labor Council, as a type of the general expression. It is as follows:

"I trust you arrived home safely, and while I know that you were not over-well, because of such strenuous trip, I hope that at least the recollection of your visit will reward you for the energy expended.

"Now that your trip is concluded, permit me to say, without any desire to flatter or over-estimate things, that you may return home conscious of having performed a great service for the cause. The result of your visit has been a strengthening influence for our people, and a tremendous impetus to our movement; indeed I do not know of any happening in the labor world in recent years that has stiffened the backbone of labor to the true realization of their purpose as your advice, instructions, and appeal to them.

"It is hardly probable that we may see you again, but we hope that it won't be long before the West will be again calling upon you."

The American Federation of Labor is indebted to the strong, forceful, courageous body of men who form the leadership in the unions on the Pacific Coast. In the face of the denunciations of their enemies, I declare that I found them animated by high principles, the best evidence of which is the solid support given them by the men in the trade union movement. That movement has been of the highest benefit in the cities and industrial centers of the West. Without it, wages would be at a point far below what they are, and the long day would be the prevailing one instead of the eight-hour day, as it is. It is to the credit of trade unionism that commercial men in that part of our country are doing a better business than when wages were lower and the working people unable to consume what they do now. Society is the better off in all the West for trade unionism. The working people there have the spirit to advance the labor cause. They are progressive, capable, independent. They have correct conceptions of their rights. Their future is safe in their own hands. Their affiliation with the American Federation of Labor is one of loyalty and solidarity.

MIGRATORY LABORERS.

Resolutions 44 and 86 of the St. Louis Convention, relating to migratory laborers, were referred by it to the Executive Council. By reason of my then contemplated visit to the Pacific Coast States, the Executive Council referred the subject-matter to me for investigation. I have seen and spoken with some of the migratory laborers and their spokesmen, and held prolonged conferences with the representative labor men of the Pacific Coast who have given this subject of migratory and casual labor their closest observation, and the following is the result of my investigations, with the recommendations I submit for your consideration and action.

The lot of the migratory laborer in the United States today is in some points worse than slavery. The slave was at least sufficiently well-nourished to enable him to perform his allotted tasks. He was assured of a shelter and in case of illness of as much care as a thrifty farmer will give to his horse or other domestic animals. But the very large proportion of unskilled or casual workers who at the present time usually find employment only on short jobs or at season work suffer a precarious existence. As they move from place to place, they often go hungry, and while at work their food is usually of a poor quality, ill prepared. Many of them do not earn enough to establish a home or to pay for medical attendance when sick or suffering from accidents. The character of much of the work performed in the United States does not permit of the steady employment of a regular body of men. Railroad extension work, the construction of bridges and highways, much work in lumbering, waterway, canal, and drainage, and in the building trades, which are mostly carried on in the less inclement seasons of the year, are characterized by idleness for months together of tens of thousands of men. In agriculture, large bodies of men are employed during the seasons of ploughing, seeding, planting, and harvest, only to be left without steady work the rest of the year. In all, it is difficult to estimate how many men are thus living in the United States today, but the number reaches into the millions.

The Pacific Coast has its own immediate problem with regard to migratory labor, though within a few years to come local conditions will probably be so changed as to present few features distinguishable from those of the general labor situation of the United States. As has been the case for years, the question of moving the migratory laborers to the place where and at the time when needed has been a serious one affecting the Pacific Coast trade unions. While there may be congestion at one point, there may be a dearth of labor at another. While there is the general division of laborers into Asiatics and whites, there is a sub-division of non-American whites into "colonies" of Mexicans, Italians, Greeks, Russians, and others. The private employment bureaus of the Pacific Coast have been and are badly conducted. On consideration of the facts as they now exist, the establishment of State employment agencies would, in the judgment of some of the union officials of the Coast, be of benefit to the unskilled wage-workers in general and might have a tendency to aid in the special organization of the migratory workers.

The early completion of the Panama Canal, however, will without doubt bring about a total change in the labor situation of the Pacific Coast, both internally and with relation to other countries. It has already been calculated, and semi-officially published, by the agents of the steamship companies, that immigrants from Europe may be landed via the Panama Canal at Pacific Coast seaports for a less sum than is required to pay the passage to inland points in States of the Middle West. It is to be remembered that the enormous fleets of foreign vessels which are in the immigration trade are seeking business the world over. All countries, except their own, are in every case the same to them. In the pursuit of their interests they are engaged in moving vast bodies of immigrants so that the gross result will tend to be the equalization of the wage rates for less skilled grades of labor in all the civilized, or indeed semi-civilized, world. In a single year, aided by the climate, the present transatlantic fleet could carry 500,000 wage-workers from the southeast of Europe to the Pacific Coast ports, while also transporting the average yearly number to the Atlantic Coast ports. This is a more than probable forthcoming condition to be faced by our fellow trade unionists of Washington, Oregon, and California.

My own investigations of the subject of State and national labor exchanges and distribution bureaus in this country have shown me that they are inevitably linked up with the schemes of the steamship combine to bring immigrants to, and distribute them over, the United States. (See article on "Schemes to 'Distribute' Immigrants," July, 1911, issue, American Federationist.) In general the wage-workers seeking situations through State labor exchanges are persons engaged in hotel, restaurant, and domestic service. But whatever other laborers have been moved in gangs by such exchanges have usually been freshly landed from foreign shores. The movement of American wage-workers commonly takes place through trade union labor bureaus, newspaper advertisements, and the information given one another by fellow workmen of the same or kindred trades. It is a serious question how State labor exchanges may be established, immigration being as it is, without their becoming simply one more advantage and benefit to the corporate or private capitalists whose business is to carry labor to markets for it which in many cases are already vastly oversupplied or which may readily be supplied by our own migratory laborers elsewhere idle.

Turn which way we may, the fact invariably confronts us, in our endeavor to ameliorate the lot of the laborers now in America, that there must be a restriction of immigration. Restriction, as recommended by the United States Immigration Commission, is, if not the first step toward organizing migratory laborers, at least an essential step. There are sufficient workers on the Pacific Coast at the present time, were their shifting about intelligently systematized, to perform all the pressing work there throughout all the seasons of the year. The main trouble has been that the employers have not paid any adequate attention to the laborer as a social entity except at the moment when one is to be hired. Society has not concerned itself seriously about the casual worker. State labor exchanges might answer the purpose of distributing what laborers are on the Pacific Coast, but, we repeat, with the influx of hundreds of thousands more, they would in connection with the agencies and systems of information maintained by the steamship combine, simply give advantage to the newcomers over the labor already in the country as is now the case in the East.

It might be well to establish a Department of the American Federation of Labor in which trade union migratory laborers should be enrolled.

A card in one union must, in case one is formed, permit the holder to transfer his membership to any other union in the Department.

The organization in the whole country, with respect to this class of laborers, would have the same relationship to the American Federation of Labor as that of the international unions through the other departments. Trade union methods in the operation of labor bureaus, in devising systems of relief, insurance, etc., might be established in the case of these laborers.

A well-conducted migratory labor exchange, or office of information, would be of far more help to the migratory laborers' union than any State labor exchange could possibly be. Such a union office could make itself thoroughly acquainted with the character of contractors and other large employers of labor. They could ascertain what any given job was to be, what the food, and what kind of sleeping quarters were to be given the men, with the pay, the hours of labor, time of payment, kind of payment, and all other particulars which the laborer has a right to know, but singly can not obtain.

The American Federation of Labor recognizes the fact that the migratory workers must be organized, and that the labor and expense of so doing must be borne by the organized workers. Its maintenance must be by the members themselves. A patronizing attitude would react and prove the undoing of the entire project to help them to help themselves, and to have them take their position side by side with the others in the ranks of the organized labor movement. Through the exertion of great energy in the labor movement of California ten unions of migratory or casual laborers have been organized in that State within the past year and chartered by the American Federation of Labor. That work must be aided and supplemented by our Federation.

THE MCNAMARAS-OTIS' CAMPAIGN FOR REVENGE.

When, on October 2, 1910, the newspapers published accounts of a terrible disaster in Los Angeles, in which, by the burning of a part of the Times building, twenty-one human beings lost their lives, our whole country was shocked and grieved. To no circle of society did the news bring greater distress, anxiety, or horror than to the trade unionists, for with the relation of the circumstances connected with the accident came the announcement that the owner of the Times and men who were allied with him in opposing organized labor had seized the occasion to denounce unionists and unionism. But, as every active member of every international or local union in the country can certify, trade unionists with one voice rose up and declared their feeling that such deeds of violence as were alleged would be the undoing of trade unionism and their desire that if it could be shown that the explosion which started the fire was wilfully caused by human agency the persons implicated should be condignly punished, no matter who they might be. As was done by all prominent union officials, I made every effort possible to gain publicity to my views on the occasion. Without the possibility of consultation on the subject, labor men, on the instant, everywhere sincerely and earnestly exhibited similar sentiments with regard both to the loss of life and the accusations of their enemies. To them and the cause, from every point of view, the event was a misfortune, an injury, a disaster.

While the débris of the wrecked Los Angeles Times building was still aflame, after the explosion which caused the consuming fire, Gen. Harrison Grey Otis, proprietor of the Times, although many miles from the spot, lost not a single moment in laying the cause of the disaster, in words of fury and hatred, to the trade unions. He could then have known little of the circumstances which might solve the mystery of the explosion, excepting as he might have been well acquainted with the fact that for some time there had been in the building a leakage of gas. He had no facts whatever, except his insane enmity, upon which to base his charge against the unions. Had he been a conscientious man, or a cool and sensible man, he would have awaited the developments of a forthcoming investigation. But Otis, in a bitter tirade, exhibited to the world his rancorous spirit toward trade unionism, his violence of character, and his thirst for revenge on union men.

As everybody knows, the dragnet investigation of the explosion and fire, after the lapse of months, left the case simply one of mystery. For half a year it was plain to all observers that circumstances were favorable for the hatching of a plot against such union men as should be selected as the objects of Otis' diabolical revenge. Time and again the thought must have occurred to union officials: Which of us shall be the ones to have charges framed up against him? With Otis' money, of which he has millions, to be used in hiring detectives, "the biggest lot of blackmailing thieves that ever went unwhipped by justice," a plot could be concocted involving any man in the United States whose organization or whose principles had ever attracted the poisoned pen of Otis. It was not until nearly seven months had expired that, in a series of events intentionally made theatrical, organized labor and the public were apprized of the fact that Otis' victims had at length been found. The Secretary and two other members of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' International Association had meantime had weaved about them a body of purely circumstantial evidence sufficient to justify, not their arrest and transportation to California by the regular processes of law, but what amounted to their kidnapping attended by the slightest degree of legal formality possible.

I may be permitted to interrupt the narrative at this point to say that from that day to the present the proceedings of Otis' agents and detectives have time and again served to throw suspicion on their honesty, on their alleged facts, and hence upon their entire side of the case. The daily press in general indicated, by their slighting the information, that it was too much for their credulity to ask them to believe in the placing of suitcases near the home of General Otis and of the Los Angeles Secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association the day of the explosion, except as the transparent acts of superserviceable detectives. Moreover, it is preposterous to suppose that if John J. McNamara were a dynamiter he would have any of the explosive substance either in the basement of the building containing the offices of the Structural Iron Workers' Union or in any outbuilding belonging to or rented by a member of his family. The slipping of dynamite into the hand-baggage of the two other members of the union would be a trick of legerdemain easily accomplished by any of the thieves and blackguards who are alleged by undoubted authority to be in so great a majority in their sneaking profession. The finding of clockwork dynamite bombs in various parts of the country could easily be arranged for by the veriest amateur in sleight-of-hand play.

The manner of the stealing away of John J. McNamara, without opportunity given him to make a proper defense, rendered it obligatory upon union labor to take up his case for examination and for the protection of other labor representatives who might at any time be treated in a similar manner. Therefore, as early as May 6, the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor issued a circular declaring it to be the duty of union labor to defend the kidnapped men in the courts and to promptly prosecute those men most closely concerned in their wrongful and illegal arrest. This call met immediate response in the ranks of labor throughout the country. In accordance with a general sentiment, the Executive Council, together with the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department, the Executive Board of the Metal Trades Department, and the executive officers of the Union Label Trades Department, met in joint session in Washington, D. C., on June 17, for the purpose of formulating such tentative plans as might be found to be immediately necessary. The joint committee adopted as a plan of action an appeal to all national and international labor organizations to contribute an amount equal to 25 cents per member, the international officers to raise the amounts from their respective membership or locals in the form and manner best adapted to each organization, the total amounts to be transmitted weekly to the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, who should also be Secretary of the McNamara Legal Defense Committee. The same appeal was directed to be made to the local and Federal Labor unions directly chartered by the American Federation of Labor, and central bodies were asked to select committees for the purpose of collecting funds from workers and friends not contributing through other channels. A conference was also arranged for, to take place in Indianapolis, Indiana, on Thursday, June 29, for the purpose of discussing energetic co-operative action in the collection of funds and the defense of the McNamara case. The organizers of international unions, the officers of all labor organizations, and the labor and reform press were at the same time urged to keep continually before the people the defense of the kidnapped men. In addition, a permanent committee on ways and means was created, consisting of Frank M. Ryan, President of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Association; Samuel Gompers and Frank Morrison; James Short and William J. Spencer, President and Secretary respectively of the Building Trades Department; James O'Connell and A. J. Berres, President and Secretary respectively of the Metal Trades Department; John B. Lennon, President, and Thomas F. Tracy, Secretary of the Union Label Trades Department. It was directed that the disbursement of all moneys should be upon the advice and through Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, who was empowered to employ (subject to the approval of President Gompers and Secretary Morrison) attorneys and assistants for services in the case.

The activity of our enemies was quickly shown in the circulation and publication in the press of exaggerated statements of the immense sums of money which were to be contributed for this defense fund, the transparent purpose being to forestall the collection of the money necessary.

At the conference in Indianapolis, June 29, a large number of officers of international unions were in attendance. The entire subject-matter of the defense of the McNamara brothers and the prosecution of the kidnappers was thoroughly gone into. After the discussion of all the facts of the case developed up to that time, confidence in the innocence of the imprisoned men was felt and unanimously expressed. It was decided that not only should the kidnappers be prosecuted, but that every effort be made to prevent a recurrence of such outrages in the future. The unions were urged to advance the amount equal to 25 cents per member at once to the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, reimbursing their treasuries by subsequent collections from the members.

At the regular quarterly meeting of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in June it was decided that the President and Secretary should issue a circular calling on all central labor bodies to arrange for public meetings of protest against the illegal and outrageous kidnapping of the McNamara brothers and the denial to them of the constitutional rights guaranteed to persons suspected of crime. It was also recommended that Labor Day be celebrated more generally than ever by demonstrations and addresses, and that the proceeds of the celebration be devoted to the legal defense fund in the McNamara case and the prosecution of the kidnappers. The following is a paragraph from this appeal of the Executive Council:

"The prosecution, or more properly speaking, the persecutors, have at their back the unlimited wealth and power of corporate interests. The liberty and the lives of our men must not be frittered away for want of ample means. The best legal talent, faithful to their clients and our cause, have been retained. It is easily conceivable that it requires more work and ability, entailing more expense, to unearth and expose false accusations than it requires to manufacture them. Upon labor is imposed a difficult and tremendous responsibility, which it is our purpose not to evade in the slightest degree, but it will be necessary for the great rank and file of the organized labor movement of America to respond in hearty accord, generosity, and promptness with every effort and suggestion made."

For convenience and the record, I quote the following circular letter:

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 27, 1911.

To All Workers:

For right is right, since God is God,
And right the day must win;
To doubt would be disloyalty,
To falter would be sin.—Faber.

From Los Angeles last October came the news that a terrible catastrophe had occurred in that city—that the Los Angeles Times building had been destroyed, with the loss of a number of lives. The first word spoken, even before the flames had completed their destruction, by the emissaries of the Times contained positive declarations that organized labor was responsible for the disaster. Qualifying statements were conspicuous by their absence. Wide publicity was given, warped and unsupported allegations against the organized workmen of the entire country were featured, vast sums of money were dangled in the faces of unscrupulous men to fasten the crime upon some member or members of the trade unions. The National Manufacturers' Association, flanked by the Erectors' Association, Citizens' alliances, detective agencies, and a hostile press brought their, every influence to bear and appropriated every available circumstance to bulwark and fix in the public mind a mental attitude that the charges made against organized labor had been proven beyond the peradventure of a doubt.

The authors of the charge, after months of intrigue and searching investigations, utterly failed to substantiate the flamboyant and positive accusations that had been made. The public mind was slowly emerging from the hypnotic spell in which it had been enveloped, and mutterings of suspicion began to be heard against the originators of the indictments against labor men. The position of the hostile employers' associations became exceedingly desperate. The Times management, with its years of relentless warfare against humanity, fearing that its Belshazzar feast of organized labor's blood was about to be denied, redoubled its efforts, and demanded that a sacrifice must be furnished that its unholy appetite might be appeased, specifying that some union workman or workmen must be supplied to assuage its unnatural and abnormal hunger.

The record of events is too well known to make it necessary to recount them in detail. That "the end justifies the means" became the slogan, is patent. With all the forces of greed compactly joined, there began a campaign of vandalism, the like of which has never before found lodgment on the pages of our American Republic's history. A prominent member of union labor was selected, J. J. McNamara, and one at whom the finger of suspicion had never before pointed, whose life had been characterized by an uprightness of purpose and loyalty to the cause of labor, and whose activities in every walk had drawn to him the commendation of his fellows. To give the stage the proper setting and to involve other trades than the iron workers, J. B. McNamara, the brother, was selected for the sacrifice.

With intrigue, falsehood, and an utter disregard for all forms of law, applying individual force, conniving with faithless officials, the two McNamaras were rushed in feverish haste to the scene of the alleged crime. The rights of these two men have been trampled upon, wilfully, flagrantly, and wantonly.

Every man, even the meanest, under the constitutional guarantees of our country, is entitled to a trial by a jury of his peers, and every man is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty. Thus far the proceedings have been outside the pale of those guarantees. The charge has been lodged against organized labor, and two of its members are now before the bar to answer to these charges. What is the duty of the organized labor movement? What shall be our course? What efforts shall we put forth to see to it that justice shall finally obtain?

The intellect, heart and soul of the men of labor yield to no body or class of citizens in their fidelity in obedience to the law, and their history is replete with instances of sacrifice that humanity may be protected. If within the ranks of labor there are those who commit infractions of the law, then they should be punished, but there should not be instituted a double standard of justice—one for the wealthy malefactor and another for the workman.

The organized labor movement believes that the McNamaras are innocent. Upon that belief there devolves upon us another duty. The accused men are workmen, without means of their own to provide a proper defense. The assault is made against organized labor equally with the McNamaras. If we are true to the obligations we have assumed, if it is hoped to forever settle this system of malicious prosecution of the men of labor, our duty is plain.

Funds must be provided to insure a fair and impartial trial. Eminent counsel has been engaged. Arrangements are proceeding that a proper defense may be made. The great need of the hour is money with which to meet the heavy drains incident to the collection of evidence and other necessary expense.

Every man who was connected with the kidnapping of the McNamaras will be prosecuted to the full limit of the law. It is proposed that the interests of organized labor shall be fully protected, and punishment meted out to detective agencies that assume to be superior to the law. The rights of the men of labor must, shall be, preserved.

The men of labor, unlike the hostile organizations arrayed against us, have not vast sums of wealth to call upon, but they are imbued with the spirit of justice, and are ever ready to make sacrifice for principle.

The trial of the McNamaras is set to commence on October 11. In the name of justice and humanity all members of our organizations are urgently requested to contribute as liberally as their abilities will permit. All contributions toward the legal defense of the McNamara cases and for the prosecution of the kidnappers should be transmitted as soon as collected to Frank Morrison, 801-809 G street N. W., Washington, D. C., who will forward a receipt for every contribution received by him, and after the trials a printed copy of the contributions received, together with the expense incurred, will be mailed to each contributor.

Fraternally,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,
President, American Federation of Labor.

Attest: FRANK MORRISON, Secretary.

Approved by the McNamara Ways and Means Committee.

To raise necessary funds for the defense, the Committee on Ways and Means has devised various projects:

(1) The issuance of a McNamara stamp which might be affixed at the back of envelopes or upon letter-heads for use in official and other correspondence in the trade union movement and by sympathizers generally; these are sold at 1 cent each.

(2) The issuance of McNamara buttons, protesting against kidnapping, sold at $4 per hundred.

(3) The committee has had made a motion picture, which has been and is being exhibited to convey to the public generally rightful pictorial information as to several instances connected with the outrageous entry into the offices of the Iron Workers and the kidnapping of McNamara, part of the proceeds of the picture to be turned over to Secretary Morrison.

The committee recommends:

That the members of national and international unions contribute liberally through their respective locals and internationals.

That central bodies appeal to workmen and other right-thinking, liberty-loving citizens for voluntary contributions.

That labor and friends of labor and to the cause of justice hold protest meetings against the kidnapping and the persecution of the McNamaras.

That the labor and friendly papers publish and keep standing an appeal for aid and assistance to the defense fund and the kidnapping prosecution; that the names of contributors be published in the labor press and that the proceeds be weekly transmitted to Secretary Morrison.

And, further, by every honorable means within our power, the obligation be met in order that sufficient funds may be at the disposal of counsel and their assistants and for defraying the necessary expenses of experts and witnesses. Every dollar thus far received has been, and all moneys received in the future will be, placed in the hands of counsel in these cases for proper expenditure.

The trial opened at Los Angeles October 11 in impaneling of the jury, the progress of the trial being watched with the closest interest, not only by labor union membership but by the country in general. Any review of the trial, so far as it has proceeded, it is not my purpose to present at this time.

In considering this case, attention should be given to the article "The McNamara Case," appearing in the June, 1911, issue of the American Federationist, and the editorial in the July issue under the same title.

THE TRIANGLE SHIRT-WAIST FACTORY FIRE.

In the first week of April last 143 employes of the Triangle Shirt-Waist Company came to their death through the burning of the company's factory in Washington Place, New York. No event ever taking place in this country occasioned severer denunciation of a firm of employers. It came out that the employes working in the two upper stories of the ten-story building were so placed while at work that escape during a panic was almost impossible. Doors which opened inward were locked; barely space for one person to move at a time was left between the rows of sewing machines; the goods being worked up were of a flimsy and inflammable character, and no fire drills had ever been performed by the force. The Chief of New York's Fire Department later testified that it would have taken more than an hour for the employes to make their escape through the fire exits provided.

When the fire occurred most of the employes, of whom nine-tenths were women, were left to the dreadful choice of burning in the workrooms or leaping to their death from the height of the ninth or tenth story of the building.

A public demonstration of labor took place in New York on Thursday, April 6, at the time at which many of the victims were being buried in another part of the city. The number of persons marching at the demonstration was estimated at from seventy-five to one hundred thousand. The procession was one of the largest of wage-earners ever taking place in New York. It attracted half a million spectators along the lines of march, in spite of a heavy downpour of rain and the muddy streets.

In the numerous investigations, official and otherwise, following the burning of these poor wage-earners, the fact was brought to light that very few factories in the clothing trades in New York were fire proof or so arranged as to prevent similar catastrophes. The Legislature of New York created a Commission of nine (to which I have been appointed a member) to act without compensation, for the purpose of making a thorough investigation of the safety of workers in regard to sanitation, dangerous machinery and fire. The Commission has had several sessions and contemplates thoroughness in its investigation and recommendations.

In view of the cruel and blind selfishness of a class of employers in regard to the health and safety of workers in several parts of our country, it is urgently recommended that our State Federations and city central bodies in industrial centers demand not only the enforcement of existing law in factories, workshops, mills, and mines, but also the promotion of inquiry as to the needed laws for better—aye, humanly considered, absolutely necessary—sanitary home and workshop conditions, including safety from dangerous machinery and from fire and panic.

LADIES' GARMENT WORKERS' STRIKE.

Cleveland is one of the chief centers of importance in the ladies' garment trade. It being the policy of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union to improve and to more nearly equalize conditions all over the country, an attempt was made to so organize the Cleveland workers at that calling as to enable them to support the requirements of the general scale. A combination of rich and powerful employers determined to break down all attempts at organization. The consequence was a strike, which was declared early in June. By the middle of the month the number out was about eight thousand. On the first of August, the number out was still six thousand. For weeks and months since, the strikers stood firm.

The strike has been characterized by oppression by the police, by a stubbornness of the combined employers which puts their business in jeopardy, by the loyalty of the strikers to one another, and by the extraordinary amount given in relief by the wage-workers of the trade throughout the country. The strike has cost the union $20,000 a week.

Much of the time of the strike has covered a good part of the dull season in the trade.

The Cleveland manufacturers have for years pursued a selfish and dictatorial course toward their employes. It has been the custom elsewhere in the cloak and skirt shops, union or non union, to adjust prices on the various styles of garments through a committee representing the piece workers, known in the trade as a "price committee." The Cleveland manufacturers are the only ones in this country who never have followed that system. The employes were obliged to accept the prices fixed by the employer or leave the shop. They have never known what their wages were until their pay envelope was opened. The Manufacturers' Association on every occasion has rejected the peaceful advances of the officers of the international union. They stood for no collective bargaining in any form. They insisted upon dealing with their employes, who are chiefly women and children, individually.

The demands of the strikers are a fifty-hour week, no Saturday afternoon and no Sunday work; the abolition of charging for use of machines, power and material; the abolition of subcontracting; a minimum scale for week workers, and price committees for piece workers. Regardless of the immediate outcome of this contest, if labor and the sympathetic public will give their moral support to the struggling ladies' garment workers, their cause will surely triumph.

THE BALDWIN STRIKE.

On the 26th of last May, 1,200 of the 14,000 employes of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, in Philadelphia, Pa., were laid off, the cause, as alleged by the managers, being merely a reduction of the working force. But among the 1,200 were sixty out of seventy-five of the shop committeemen of the machinists, together with officials of the dozen other crafts in the Allied Locomotive Builders' Council. Two days afterward (28th), this council called special meetings of all the local unions having members working for the Baldwin Company, and at these meetings (30th) the council, in conjunction with the representatives of the international unions concerned, was authorized to take up the issue, and if necessary to call a strike in the works. A committee representing the various trades and the international officials called on Superintendent John Sykes, of the company (31st), who refused to go into conference with them, but expressed a willingness to meet delegated employes of the company. A committee so composed, on conferring with him, the same afternoon, and again on June 1, found that he would make no promises regarding reinstatement of the men. On June 4, in the afternoon, the international officers, after a three hours' discussion, decided that a strike would be inopportune. The same evening, after a discussion of equal length, the workmen's Locomotive Builders' Council concurred in this decision. Excitement ran high among members, and some of them attempted to call a strike, late the same night, after the conclusions of their two representative bodies became known. For a week afterward some of the Baldwin employees clamored for a strike, and then numbers began quitting the works, until on June 13 about 12,000 of the 14,000 were out. Their spokesmen alleged that the company's system of "espionage, punishments, discharges, and victimization" was beyond human endurance, and that, despite the advice to the contrary of their council delegates and international officers, they had determined to take the risks of a strike. The company (July 8) refused to entertain any committee from the men unless it was understood that the men return as non-unionists. Public sentiment in Philadelphia was strongly with the strikers, and the latter stood by their colors with stubborn resisting power, but as the weeks went by it became plain that their funds were insufficient. By the middle of August the contest was over.

The lesson that was taught by this action of the wage-workers for a great corporation is the necessity for thorough organization, for a large treasury, and for heeding the advice of officials of experience, who possess a knowledge of the state of trade and employment throughout the country. It is true that on occasions, when practically all the workers of a calling may reasonably be expected to respond to the demands of the more outspoken and venturesome, everything may be risked on a general walkout and a complete tie-up of an industry. Enthusiasm, public opinion, financial aid from many quarters—these may, in such circumstances, stand in the place of the usual reliance of established trade unions on their financial resources. Successes, and notable ones, have thus been gained; but the international officers and the local union delegates may usually be trusted to foresee the chances for or against victory.

EFFICIENCY.

The year has witnessed a discussion on a national scale of the doctrines and practice of "Scientific Management." This new economic gospel has its prophets and its policies, and for a brief time had its crusade. While its leaders professed that its objects comprised many reforms in management, arguments in favor of what came to be popularly called "efficiency" principally turned upon the idea of getting more product out of the toil of the laborer. The phases of efficiency presented to the wage-workers were those of systems long known, both to indoor and outdoor workers. Included in the scheme were the bonus and piece systems, together with methods of contracting and of fining which have long been fought by trade unionists, and also a method of sweating, by which if a stated task were not completed the promised bonus for it was entirely lost and wages fell to a point at which they would have stood on the ordinary day's production.

Many absurd or unfounded claims were for a time advanced in support of the so-called "Scientific Management." It was said, for example, that in the course of its application, now extending over more than a decade, it had never occasioned a strike. The truth is that only during the last year its attempted introduction has brought on a series of labor disputes, the employees in the navy yards and on other Government work having struck against it by the means immediately at their hand, namely, an appeal to Congress against the changes, and especially the sweating, the system brings into practice.

As one book after another, or one pamphlet after another, was issued on the subject, numerous public addresses being made meantime by its supporters, it became more and more evident that the men whose names were chiefly associated with it were not in agreement as to the principles of "efficiency" and its application. It is to be said today that the system has been far from uniformly successful. It has been abandoned in some of the largest works where some years ago it was adopted. The fallacy in the statement that wages were increased by the application of scientific management is now generally recognized. For the time being, after its adoption, the wages of a small proportion of a force may be raised, whereas much of the work usually done by skilled men is turned over to unskilled helpers, working far below the wages usually paid to mechanics. It is plain that the system is not adaptable to most of the work done on time. It has been said that in America 50,000 persons were working under the system. If so, the fact can not be proven by any detailed statistics taken by any census, so far as trade unionists have been able to ascertain. It originated in, and has been chiefly confined to, the workshops of certain large companies which have been notorious employers of non-union and freshly-arrived foreign labor. In large shops it has long been known that certain operations which are performed without variation day after day may only require a low-wage machine attendant, and if the preliminary stages of the work have been systematized, of course the output will be large at a low cost. In small shops, however, and in industries in which the shopwork is not the main factor, the field for the pyramidal labor arrangement, or organization, of scientific management is small. Moreover, the promoters of the system have so extravagantly advertised its claims, and especially their charges of wilful loafing against American laborers, that the general conclusion is that they are mere discoverers of a "mare's nest." They have expected the public to give credence to the absurdity that workmen in general "soldier" to the extent of "one third or even one-half of a proper day's work." The public has refused to believe this slander on the American workingman, and the workers themselves have everywhere challenged these traducers to bring forward proofs of their assertions. In view of the fact that America's workers are the greatest producers per man and in the aggregate in the whole world, it is an offense against the common sense of men to ask them to believe that, in shops where foremen are ever on the alert, where the penalty for loafing is discharge, where all the men strive to be among those kept on in dull times, where the great majority of them are responsible fathers or supporting members of families, the workers would by common consent endeavor to deceive and defraud their employers by delivering only half a day's work for a full day's work. All of "Scientific Management" which is built upon this basis of detraction must obviously be disbelieved.

As the discussion now stands, the wage-workers have by far the best of it. The system has not been taken up by employers in general. The number that have shown much interest in it form a very small proportion throughout the country. Railroad managers have treated the estimated possible savings to industry by "efficiency" prophets with contempt. It may also be said that employes have been slow to believe that such wonderful improvements could be made in management as they have proclaimed. In a book issued by one of the authors supporting the system, the statement is made that where one point relating to the wage-earner was to be improved, nine points relating to the employer could be improved. Inasmuch as the advocates of "efficiency" have failed to make much of a success on the one point pertaining to the workshop, we respectfully invite their attention to the nine points in the office department which await their labors.

The verdict on efficiency has been pronounced by society. It has already been relegated to a place on a shelf among the nostrums, sensations, and paraphernalia of magic workers of the past. The American public has not welcomed the spectacle of steel works where, under an inspector, stop-watch in hand, one man is carrying five tons of pig iron where he formerly carried one, or of a bicycle shop where one girl does the work formerly done by three, when she is not carried out fainting, or where in a textile mill a girl is paid for the ordinary day's work after she has striven and strained and almost completed the allotted bonus task of doing two days work in one.

It may be interesting to state that the Committee on Labor of the House of Representatives, Hon. William B. Wilson, chairman, is conducting an investigation into the claims of so-called "Scientific Management" or "Efficiency."

LABOR DAY AND LABOR SUNDAY.

Labor Day is now an American continental holiday as well established as the Fourth of July in the United States. No conspicuous new feature is to be recorded in its observance of recent years, although it may be said that the tendency is less to make it a day of devotion to sports, a considerable proportion of the laboring people now devoting the day, or a part of the day, to a serious study of the important social questions before the people. Meetings and parades on a scale seldom surpassed were held in most of the principal cities. The turn-out of the workers was in some of the larger centers of population double what had been expected, and the enthusiasm and determination of the workers in support of trade unionism and in defense of union principles caused unusual comments in the daily press.

Labor Sunday was better observed than ever before. The churches are manifesting a desire to become more helpful to union labor and are certainly coming to a better understanding with its supporters. In many churches in the country, labor men were invited to address the congregations in advocacy of our cause. The number of prominent professional men who contributed articles to the labor periodicals, especially to the American Federationist, on the occasion of Labor Day, was noteworthy, which is indicative of the turning tide in favor of union labor even among those who can not be regarded as wage-workers.

ORGANIZERS.

The total number of organizers at present holding commissions issued by the American Federation of Labor is 1,594, an increase over last year of 132, when the number was 1,462. This corps of organizers, of course, does not include those directly representing the local and international unions, but is composed only of men and women working without compensation for the labor movement as a whole under the direction of our Federation.

In their labors our organizers especially illustrate the zeal, courage and intelligent effort which may always be relied upon in movements intended to promote the common good. There is not one of these organizers but has considered the various methods by which he, or she, might aid their fellow-workers, and has selected organization as the most promising in achievement. Most of them have proceeded with their labors year in and year out, asking no remuneration other than the feeling of having performed a duty. They have been unselfish. They are honored by their co-workers, who know and appreciate them. They deserve the sincere thanks of the delegates here assembled, which I take pleasure in expressing on behalf of the great movement in which we are enlisted.

THE LABOR PRESS.

The labor press is yearly becoming more harmonious in its aims, its teachings, and in its strict trade union policy. It is less liable today than ever to drift off into advocacy of movements aside from that of trade unionism, which occasionally succeed, but only for a while, in misleading the working classes. The promotion and maintenance of the organizations of wage-workers and the advancement of our cause being the chief aim of labor editors, the latter, taught by experience, are today fighting a clearer-cut trade union battle. The news matter furnished from the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor has been generally reprinted to a considerable extent in the labor press of the country.

We renew our recommendation to trade unionists thoroughly to support their local labor paper. Every industrial center is the better off for having an organ representing the sentiment of the organized wage-workers, ever ready to be the defender of the trade unionists in any dispute which may break out with the employing classes. The work done for the cause of the trade unions by a good labor paper can never be fully repaid. The labor press of America is a credit to the movement. Without it, education, not only in trade unionism but with respect to all the various classes of social reform, would be sadly incomplete. In a number of instances during the last year, labor papers have been the courageous exponents and champions of the rights of the people. They should not be forgotten by their constituents. Thousands of labor men have been brought into the movement through what they have read in the labor press, and thousands in the ranks could never obtain a correct impression of current labor topics were they to depend on periodicals other than the labor press. It is to be said today of the hundreds of labor newspapers in this country that never were they more deeply united, never had they a better understanding with one another and their readers, and never were they held in higher esteem by the rank and file of the wage-workers in their respective territories.

AMERICAN FEDERATIONIST.

I believe we can point with pardonable pride to the contents of the Labor Day edition in September of the American Federationist. The number of men prominent throughout the country who contributed articles or sentiments for that edition is remarkable. It is to be remembered that many men of the professional and business classes run the risk of injury to their personal interests in expressing sentiments favorable to trade unionism in the national organ of the trade unions.

The many able articles contributed during the year to the pages of our official organ, taken together, form a body of literature relating to labor topics such as few other publications have endeavored to command. Any one who has read the last twelve numbers must have received a fair education with regard to the labor movements of the world.

It was never expected that the publication of an organ for our national movement would result in declaring dividends. Its purpose is educational. That is, it has been, and is intended to be, the medium by which the earnest and serious reader may be educated in the principles of trade unionism, and may obtain the views of prominent trade unionists and of qualified writers regarding the events of the day.

The splendid work of our organizers from month to month is duly recorded in the American Federationist, giving an insight into the details of advancing the cause in all parts of the great territory in which our Federation is at work. It has come to our knowledge that on several occasions the contents of the American Federationist during the past year has caused our opponents to change the conduct of their campaign or to give up contemplated moves against trade unionism. We have also been informed quite frequently of alteration in the opinions of employers who have been prejudiced against our movement. It is our endeavor, in conducting our national magazine, to present the cause of labor in such form and in such manner as to commend it to the minds of reasoning men. We feel sure that this policy has been appreciated by our trade union readers.

While it is true that it has never been expected to be a paying venture in the sense of making sufficient money above expenses to add anything to our treasury, the magazine ought at least to pay for itself. The delegates are therefore asked to do what lies in their power on their return home in obtaining new subscriptions for their own magazine, the American Federationist.

CONCLUSION.

Despite all opposition of the most relentless kind the American labor movement grows and thrives; its beneficent influence for the common uplift of labor and of all our people extends to all fields of useful activity and is becoming more generally recognized. The power which labor holds within its grasp is understood by our opponents as well as—aye, perhaps better than—by many of the toilers themselves. The fact is that labor's opponents, like the Tories of the past, many of whom are still with us, are afraid to trust the people, forgetful of the fact (and some never learn) that the entire history of the human race has been, as particularly exemplified by the people of our country, that power vested in a free people is safer, more progressive, and humanizing than power vested in a few or in an autocrat. With power in the hands of labor and of the people generally comes a quickening sense of responsibility. And though errors are liable to occur, they bring experience and an avoidance of recurrence. The errors or encroachments of the few or of an autocrat teach them no lessons and are rectified only by the people's revolt. How perfectly safe freedom is, is a truth not yet fully understood.

I have sincere pleasure in reporting that my relations with my colleagues of the Executive Council have continued to be all that could be desired as between men engaged at serious work for an honorable cause. The Council is as one man with respect to the policies and operations of the labor movement as exemplified in the American Federation of Labor. Its sessions during the year have been business-like and harmonious.

I also am enabled by the facts to report that in our work at headquarters we have been gratified throughout the last year at the testimony, reaching us from all parts of the country, of the satisfaction of the masses of the wage-workers with the continual progress of trade unionism. That satisfaction is usually entertained to the highest degree and expressed most emphatically by the veterans whose experience has covered decades; though, on the other hand, the enthusiasm of the newer recruits is frequently boundless in consequence of their sharing for the first time in the helpfulness of their organized fellow-workers. In either case, the recognition and appreciation of our movement is a source of encouragement, than which none could be better in character.

This report, naturally, considering the large number of matters constantly coming up for discussion by the wage-workers on a national scale, leaves many subjects either untouched or inadequately presented under its various headings. A question in preparing it has at every stage been the selection of the more pressing phases of our labor problem. I have endeavored to put before you the points which, to my mind, are most necessary for your consideration. That the task might be better done I am only too deeply sensible. But, in the stress of my daily routine, with the time I am called upon to employ in traveling, and the endless special work of adjudicating cases referred to me in jurisdictional controversies and the like, my days for preparing the annual report are none too many. Such as the report is, I turn it over to your hands for your consideration, feeling that under the circumstances I have done my best to render it worthy of our cause.

Fraternally yours,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,
President, American Federation of Labor.

SECRETARY MORRISON'S REPORT.

To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor:

FELLOW-UNIONISTS—I have the honor to submit a report to you of the receipts and expenditures for the past twelve (12) months, beginning October 1, 1910, and ending September 30, 1911.

It is with a great deal of pleasure that I report at the close of this fiscal year $189,579.56 in the treasury. Of the amount on hand, $133,782.34 is in the defense fund for the local trade and federal labor unions, and can be used to pay benefits only in the case of a strike or lockout of the members of these local unions. The balance, $55,797.22, is in the general fund. Of that fund only $15,155.29 is available for the general expenses of the American Federation of Labor. The balance, $40,641.93, is divided as follows: In the fund created by the one-cent assessment levied in accordance with the recommendation of the Norfolk Convention, and the receipts from the appeals issued for the same purpose, i. e., to be used for the legal defense of the officers of the American Federation of Labor and officers and members of affiliated unions in the injunction suit, $22,433.15. In the fund created by the three-cent assessment for the Hatters' strike, $226.45. In the fund created by the two-cent assessment levied to take an appeal from the decision rendered against the United Hatters in favor of Loewe & Company, $17,909.48. In the fund created by the one-cent assessment levied in accordance with the recommendation of the Norfolk Convention, for the purpose of placing organizers in Los Angeles and other cities, $72.85.

The total receipts from all sources are $182,188.68; the total expenses are $175,524.08; leaving a balance of receipts over expenditures of $6,664.60.

The following are the receipts and expenses for the twelve months ending September 30, 1911:

RECEIPTS.

Balance on hand September 30, 1910.....		$182,914 06
Per capita tax.....	$122,968 90
Supplies.....	9,805 44
Interest on funds on deposit.....	4,372 10*
American Federationist .....	18,213 98
Assessment, Los Angeles.....	19 06
Assessment, for legal defense.....	19 00
Assessment, United Hatters three-cent (3-c).....	182 54
Assessment, two-cent (2-c).....	7,638 80
Defense fund for local trade and federal labor unions.....	16,010 75
Premiums on bonds of officers of affiliated unions.....	2,988 55
	<hr/>	182,188 08
Total.....		$365,103 04

EXPENSES.

General.....	$137,973 74
American Federationist .....	20,013 58
Defense fund for local trade and federal labor unions.....	4,192 00
Premiums on bonds of officers of affiliated unions.....	1,414 38
Assessment, for legal defense.....	70 78
Assessment, United Hatters, two-cent (2-c).....	10,955 62
	<hr/>	175,524 08
Balance on hand September 30, 1911.....		$189,579 56

RECAPITULATION.

In general fund.....	$55,797 22
In defense fund for local trade and federal labor unions.....	133,782 34
Total.....	<hr/> $189,579 56

*Treasurer Lennon collected $600 additional interest; but his check for that amount, mailed at Bloomington, Ill., Friday evening, September 29, did not reach headquarters until Monday morning, October 2, too late to be included in the receipts of the fiscal year ending September 30, 1911, but it is included in the receipts for October 2, 1911.

The following is the grouping under their respective heads of the detailed monthly expenses:

Appropriations:

Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.....	$600 00
Union Label Trades Department.....	87 73
Rent.....	4,597 00
Refunds of premiums on bonds and supplies returned.....	27 20
Premiums:
Bonds, local unions.....	1,426 38
Treasurer's bond.....	125 00
Secretary's bond.....	30 00
Fire insurance.....	21 60
Committee on Industrial Education.....	119 90
Expressage, freight, and drayage.....	1,267 71
International Secretariat per capita tax for 12 months on 1,700,000 members.....	608 02
Legislative expenses.....	2,455 27
Newspapers, magazines, and books.....	109 53
Office fixtures.....	21 75
Postage stamps.....	2,438 58
Printing and binding bound proceedings of St. Louis Convention.....	1,571 85
Stamped envelopes.....	900 48
Supplies and printing.....	13,361 56
Telegrams.....	803 51
Expenses American Federation of Labor delegate to St. Louis Convention of the Union Label Trades Department.....	50 00
Expenses American Federation of Labor delegate attending Convention of the International Secretariat, Budapest, and visiting other countries according to instructions of the Executive Council, American Federation of Labor.....	850 00
Expenses on account of illness of Miss Z. J. Taylor, delegate from Topeka, Kans., to St. Louis American Federation of Labor Convention.....	17 50
Expenses doctor bill and hospital services to Frank L. Coffey, delegate from Lincoln, Neb., to St. Louis American Federation of Labor Convention.....	189 50
Expenses entertaining fraternal delegates from Great Britain and Canada.....	426 45
Expenses of fraternal delegates to British Trades Union Congress and Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.....	951 20
St. Louis Convention:
Committee rooms.....	232 00
Expenses Secretary attending St. Louis Convention.....	168 95
Messenger, Sergeant-at-Arms, and Assistant Secretary.....	307 07
Printing and supplies.....	121 23
Printing daily proceedings.....	1,320 50
Stenographers.....	995 70
Telegrams, telephone, stamps, porters, baggage, stationery, reading proof, sending out daily proceedings, rent of typewriters, photographs.....	121 25
Salary:
President.....	5,000 00
Secretary.....	4,000 00
Treasurer.....	500 00
Office employees.....	27,063 73
Janitor service.....	23 25
Expenses:
Auditing and Credential Committee.....	268 95
Executive Council meetings.....	4,018 57
President.....	1,340 20
Secretary.....	564 82
Defense Fund:
Strike benefits.....	4,192 00
Assessment:
For United Hatters of America (2-cent).....	10,925 62
For legal defense (1-cent).....	70 78
Appeal:
Legal defense fund.....	11,504 17
Organizing expenses.....	46,962 05
Printing and publishing American Federationist .....	20,913 56
Total.....	$175,524 08

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES 1881 TO 1911.

I herewith furnish a table giving the receipts and expenditures for the past 31 years:

YEAR.	Receipts.	Expenditures.
1881.....	$174 00	$154 00
1882.....	268 20	252 25
1883.....	690 19	352 32
1884.....	387 42	548 30
1885.....	584 08	450 53
1886.....	474 11	635 06
1887.....	1,989 62	2,074 39
1888.....	4,512 55	3,933 67
1889.....	6,838 40	6,573 33
1890.....	23,949 74	21,070 57
1891.....	17,702 36	13,190 07
1892.....	17,684 61	18,324 60
1893.....	20,864 62	21,383 36
1894.....	15,346 43	17,302 08
1895.....	13,751 75	15,612 42
1896.....	16,290 18	15,452 95
1897.....	18,639 92	19,113 33
1898.....	18,894 15	19,197 17
1899.....	36,757 13	30,599 22
1900.....	71,125 82	68,373 59
1901.....	115,220 89	118,708 59
1902.....	144,498 21	119,098 74
1903.....	247,802 96	196,015 57
1904.....	220,995 97	208,991 15
1905.....	207,417 62	196,170 10
1906.....	217,515 18	218,540 04
1907.....	174,330 26	159,860 84
1908.....	207,655 23	196,887 86
1909.....	232,577 64	203,702 07
1910.....	193,470 84	177,359 84
1911.....	182,188 68	175,524 08
Total.....	$2,430,668 81	$2,241,089 25

RECAPITULATION.

Receipts.....	$2,430,668 81
Expenses.....	2,241,089 25
Balance on hand September 30, 1911.....	$190,579 56

ONE-CENT ASSESSMENT.

This assessment was levied on November 29, 1907, to place organizers in Los Angeles, Cal., and other cities where the manufacturers were, and are now, endeavoring to disrupt labor unions. There was a balance of $53.79 September 30, 1910. There has been received into this fund during the fiscal year $19.06, and no money paid out; hence there is a balance of $72.85.

ONE-CENT ASSESSMENT.

This assessment was levied November 29, 1907, to be used for the legal defense of the officers of the American Federation of Labor and officers and members of affiliated unions in injunction suits. There was a balance of $54.33 September 30, 1910. There has been received into this fund during the fiscal year $19.06, and paid out of it $70.78 on account of attorneys' fees and expenses to Ralston, Siddons & Richardson; hence there is a balance of $2.61.

THREE-CENT HATTERS' ASSESSMENT.

This assessment was levied on February 20, 1909, to assist the protracted strike of the United Hatters of North America. There was a balance of $63.91 September 30, 1910. There has been received into this fund during the fiscal year $162.54, and no money paid out; hence there is a balance of $226.45.

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

APPEAL FOR VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTIONS.

The following is an itemized statement of the amount received from the appeals issued to local unions requesting appropriations to be used for the legal defense of the officers of the American Federation of Labor and officers and members of affiliated unions in the injunction suit, and an itemized statement of the moneys paid out of that fund during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1911:

RECEIPTS.

Balance on hand September 30, 1910.....	$34,024 71
Receipts from October 1, 1910, to September 30, 1911.....
Total .....	$34,024 71

EXPENSES.

On account of attorney fees and expenses:

Parker, Hatch & Sheehan.....	$5,562 97
Balston, Siddons & Richardson.....	6,275 53
Balance for cost of writ of certiorari to Court of Appeals.....	19 40
Cost of appeal from Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia.....	270 92
Cost of reporting arguments in contempt case.....	180 00
Expenses for month of October, 1910, Samuel Gompers, President.....	183 75
Expenses incurred in attending conferences relative to the injunction and contempt proceedings, John Mitchell.....	66 00
Stenographic services in the contempt proceedings against officers of the A. F. of L.,.....	35 00
Total .....	$11,594 17

RECAPITULATION.

Receipts .....	$34,024 71
Expenses .....	11,594 17
Balance on hand September 30, 1911.....	$22,430 54

TWO-CENT ASSESSMENT.

This assessment was levied on the membership of all affiliated organizations on April 22, 1910, upon the application of the officers of the United Hatters based upon the instructions of the Denver Convention of the American Federation of Labor to the Executive Council to take whatever action was necessary to carry into effect the resolution adopted by that Convention, pledging the moral and financial assistance of the American Federation of Labor in their struggle. The proceeds of this assessment are being used to defray the expenses in taking an appeal from the decision of the Federal Court of the State of Connecticut, under which the Loewe Company was awarded damages against the members of the Hatters in the sum of $222,000, to the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of New York and New England.

RECEIPTS.

Balance on hand September 30, 1910.....	$21,196 80
Receipts from unions, October 1, 1910, to September 30, 1911.....	2,289 40
Refund from Anti-Boycott Association of costs incurred in appealing Hatters' case.....	5,348 90
Total.....	$28,835 10

EXPENSES.

On account of attorney fees and expenses:

Parker, Hatch & Sheehan.....	$5,014 55
Bristol, Stoddard, Beach & Fisher.....	2,524 27
Frank L. Mulholland.....	1,975 23
Fee of clerk of Circuit Court of Appeals.....	825 00
Balance for printing appeal in case of Lawlor vs. D. E. Loewe et al.....	596 57
Total .....	$10,925 62

RECAPITULATION.

Receipts .....	$28,835 10
Expenses .....	10,925 62
Balance on hand September 30, 1911.....	$17,909 48

CHARTERS ISSUED.

During the twelve months ending September 30, 1911, there have been issued 326 charters to National and International, Central, Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions.

Of this number, three were granted to the following Internationals:

White Rats Actors' Union of America.

American Brotherhood of Slate Workers.

Western Federation of Miners.

Trade unions, 207; Federal Labor unions, 55.

Sixty-one Central bodies, as follows:

Arizona:	Kentucky:	Oklahoma:
Prescott.	Lexington.	Durant.
Tucson.	Maine:	Henrietta.
Arkansas:	East Millinocket.	Muskogee.
Russellville.	Rumford.	Oregon:
California:	Massachusetts:	Baker.
Petaluma.	Norfolk County.	Medford and Vicinity.
Richmond.	Michigan:	Roseburg.
Santa Rosa.	Ludington.	Salem.
Stanislaus County.	Minnesota:	The Dalles.
Colorado:	Crookston.	Pennsylvania:
Alamosa.	International Falls.	Hazleton.
Silverton.	Virginia.	Point Marion.
Connecticut:	Mississippi:	Quakertown and Vicinity.
Meriden.	Meridian.	Porto Rico:
South Norwalk.	Montana:	Juncos.
Florida:	Cascade County.	Tennessee:
St. Augustine.	Lewistown.	Knoxville:
Georgia:	Nevada:	Texas:
Augusta.	Ely.	Bridgeport.
Illinois:	New Jersey:	Cleburne.
Calro.	Atlantic City and Vicinity.	Paris and Vicinity.
Lincoln.	Passaic.	Temple.
Olney.	New York:	Texarkana.
Indiana:	Hudson Falls.	Washington:
Frankfort.	North Carolina:	Klma.
Iowa:	Rowan County.	Wenatchee.
Mason City.	North Dakota:	West Virginia:
Kansas:	Grand Forks.	Huntington.
Arkansas City.	Ohio:	Wisconsin:
Coffeyville.	East Palestine	Beloit.
Fort Scott.

CHARTERS ISSUED 1897-1911.

YEAR.	In-ternational.	De-part-ment.	State.	Central.	Trade Unions.	Federal Unions.	Total.
1897	8	.....	2	18	154	35	217
1898	9	.....	0	12	129	53	203
1899	9	.....	1	35	303	101	449
1900	14	.....	5	96	484	250	849
1901	7	.....	4	123	575	297	916
1902 (eleven months)	14	.....	6	127	598	279	1,024
1903	20	.....	3	171	743	396	1,333
1904	11	.....	5	99	179	149	443
1905	3	.....	1	67	143	73	287
1906	6	.....	4	53	167	87	317
1907	3	.....	1	72	204	93	373
1908	0	2	4	73	100	55	234
1909	3	2	2	40	77	52	176
1910	2	0	1	83	152	95	334
1911	3	0	0	61	207	55	326
Totals.....	112	4	39	1,130	4,215	1,981	7,481

International .....	8
Central .....	61
Federal Labor Union .....	55
Local Trade Union .....	207
Total .....	326

VOTING STRENGTH.

The following table, shows the voting strength of the affiliated unions of the American Federation of Labor for the years 1908 up to and including 1911. This table is based upon the average membership reported or paid upon to the American Federation of Labor by affiliated organizations:

ORGANIZATIONS.	1908.	1904.	1905.	1906.	1907.	1908.	1909.	1910.	1911.
Allied Metal Mech. Intl.	118	70	a	a	a	a	a	a	a
Bakery & Confectionery Wkrs. Intl. U. of A.	154	162	120	106	110	105	107	127	183
Barbers' International Union, Jour.	308	236	227	231	241	255	255	265	285
Bill Posters	10	18	14	14	14	14	14	14	14
Blacksmiths, Intl. Brotherhood of	70	106	100	82	98	100	100	100	100
Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders	174	190	184	128	157	152	126	161	199
Boot and Shoe Workers' Union	297	321	320	321	320	320	320	325	327
Bookbinders, Intl. Brotherhood of	81	65	66	68	89	79	71	73	79
Bottle Blowers' Asso. of U. S. and Canada	61	66	70	78	80	88	93	100	100
Brewery Workmen, International Union	800	905	840	860	*	400	400	400	450
Brick, Tile, and Terra Cotta Workers'	55	73	41	64	43	28	25	38	34
Broom and Whisk Makers' Union, Intl.	11	11	10	10	9	8	8	6	7
Brushmakers' International Union	7	7	6	5	*	*	*	2	2
Building Employees of Amer., Intl. Union of	8	*	*	*	*	*	*	*	*
Carpenters and Joiners, Amalgamated	45	50	48	43	58	81	73	71	78
Carpenters and Joiners, United Bro. of	1090	1554	1482	1637	1929	1796	1640	1904	1946
Carriage and Wagon Workers	49	55	32	81	31	15	15	11	20
Carvers' Union, International Wood	24	21	16	16	16	18	13	12	13
Car Workers, International Association of	128	102	50	49	50	44	50	50	46
Cement Workers	55	44	38	42	58	73	90	90	90
Chainmakers' National Union	6	6	6	6	6	6	8	2	c
Cigarmakers' International Union	888	405	414	391	399	409	398	432	438
Clerks, Bro. of Railway	500	500	500	500	500	500	150	50	50
Clerks, Intl. Protective Asso., Retail	500	500	500	500	500	500	150	150	150
Clerks, National Post-office	25	29	26	21	28	18	15	21	22
Cloth Hat and Cap Makers, United	*	*	*	*	*	*	*	*	*
Clothingmakers, Special Order of	10	30	30	20	35	19	10	10	10
Commercial Telegraphers	12	12	13	18	18	8	6	6	6
Compressed Air and Foundation Workers'	72	71	56	55	58	49	41	41	43
Coopers' International Union	b	b	b	b	b	b	b	b	b
Coremakers' International Union	5	6	7	8	8	8	8	8	9
Curtain Operatives, Amalgamated Lace	3	3	3	3	3	3	3	3	3
Cutting Die and Cuttermakers, Intl. Union	183	210	210	210	302	321	188	160	189
Electrical Workers, International Bro.	21	22	22	22	26	25	20	21	21
Elevator Constructors	142	176	175	175	175	168	161	160	160
Engineers, International Union of Steam	9	9	9	9	9	9	9	9	9
Engineers, National Bro. of Coal Hoisting	143	180	122	123	125	173	107	81	80
Firemen, International Bro. of Stationary	48	33	34	32	63	78	46	47	40
Fishermen's National Prot. Asso., Lobster	21	21	9	7	7	8	8	8	*
Freight Handlers, Bro. of Railroad	21	10	10	10	10	7	5	7	5
Flour and Cereal Mill Employees	8	4	4	4	4	4	2	2	c
Foundry Employees, International Bro. of	15	15	15	14	14	14	14	14	14
Fur Workers, International Association of	457	457	319	240	334	439	534	542	525
Furnace Workers and Smelters of America	**	**	**	**	**	**	**	**	**
Garment Workers of America, United	20	17	17	16	14	12	11	12	12
Glass Workers' Union, Flint	58	61	58	61	61	61	61	61	61
Glass Workers' International Asso., Amal.	6	6	2	2	11	11	11	11	11
Glass Workers of America, Amal., Window	9	11	12	10	6	*	*	*	*
Glass House Employees' International Asso.	80	20	11	8	8	8	8	8	9
Glass Snappers, Window	8	3	3	3	5	5	5	5	5
Glove Workers	8	3	3	3	3	3	3	3	3
Gold Beaters' Protective Union, National	8	3	3	3	3	3	3	3	3
Grinders' National Union, Table Knife	8	3	3	3	3	3	3	3	3
Grinders and Finishers, Pocket Knife Blade	2	2	2	2	2	2	2	2	2
Granite Cutters' International Asso. of A.	94	99	103	113	126	180	181	184	185
Hatters of North America, United	85	85	85	85	85	85	85	85	85
Heat Frost, Genl. Insulators, and Asbestos	83	85	47	50	97	112	88	114	127
Hodcarriers and Building Laborers	44	42	42	41	44	61	72	72	49
Horseshoers of United States and Canada	891	494	387	345	363	386	368	370	430
Hotel and Restaurant Employees, etc.	150	135	100	100	100	100	60	80	45
Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers' Amal. Asso.	180	115	100	100	100	100	100	100	100
Iron Workers, Bridge and Struc. Intl. Asso.	24	24	7	4	6	4	3	4	3
Jewelry Workers' International	30	22	18	13	23	16	18	187	668
Ladies' Garment Workers, International	44	59	43	40	40	58	50	50	50
Lathers, Int. Union of W. W. and Metal	80	65	46	55	81	40	25	29	26
Laundry Workers, International Union	48	46	40	40	40	40	40	37	26
Leather Workers on Horse Goods	36	25	10	10	10	8	8	8	6
Leather Workers of America, Amal.	30	23	11	18	17	18	17	21	21
Lithographers' Intl. P. and B. Asso.	400	500	478	340	320	315	213	208	250
Lithographic Pressfeeders	488	557	485	500	560	621	484	560	671
Longshoremen's Association, International	4	4	4	5	5	5	5	5	5
Machinists, International Association of	87	123	120	120	132	135	100	87	100
Machine Printers and Color Mixers	12	6	19	17	20	22	24	27	28
Maintenance of Way Employees, Intl. Bro. of	15	15	15	15	15	15	15	15	15
Marble Workers, Intl. Association of	15	15	15	15	15	15	15	15	15
Mattress, Spring, and Bedding Workers	15	15	15	15	15	15	15	15	15

VOTING STRENGTH—Continued.

ORGANIZATIONS.	1903.	1904.	1905.	1906.	1907.	1908.	1909.	1910.	1911.
Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen .....	253	344	62	50	53	63	63	54	31
Metal Workers' Intl. Alliance, Amal. Sheet.	126	153	130	129	153	161	160	162	172
Metal Polishers, Buffers, and Platers, etc.	128	128	103	109	100	100	100	100	100
Metal Workers' Intl. Union, United .....	87	96	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Mine Workers of America, United .....	2173	2577	2619	2379	2549	2525	2670	2327	2504
Miners, Western Federation of .....									513
Mine Managers and Assts. Mutual Aid Asso.	4	4	4	4	+	+	+	+	+
Mineral Mine Workers, United .....	7	a	**	**	**	**	**	**	**
Molders' Union of North America, Intl. ....	300	300	300	450	500	500	500	500	500
Musicians, American Federation of .....	140	220	308	354	375	375	394	400	500
Oil and Gas Well Workers' Union, Intl. ....	4	4	4	++	++	++	++	++	++
Painters of America, Brotherhood of .....	536	607	542	555	624	648	596	635	676
Paper Box Workers, International Union of		12	9	7	+	+	+	+	+
Papermakers, United Brotherhood of .....	107	88	50	35	31	43	10	16	24
Patternmakers League of N. A. ....	29	37	36	40	50	55	50	52	56
Pavers and Rammers, Intl. Union of .....			10	12	15	15	15	15	15
Paving Cutters' Union of U. S. of A. & Can.	9	12	13	15	18	20	26	32	32
Photo-Engravers' Union of N. A., Intl. ....		17	22	22	28	29	32	35	37
Piano and Organ Workers' Union of A., Intl.	65	99	90	80	50	50	40	40	40
Pilots' Association .....	5	*	*	*	*	*	*	*	*
Pilots' Association of the Great Lakes, Lake				10	+	+	+	+	+
Plasterers' Intl. Asso. of U. S. & Can., Oper.						+	145	152	147
Plumbers, Gasfitters, Steamfitters, etc. ....	152	165	150	150	160	180	184	200	237
Potters, Stoneware .....	++	++	++	++	++	++	++	++	++
Powder and High Explosive Workers .....	7	7	5	6	5	5	2	2	2
Potters, National Brotherhood of Operative	61	58	56	56	58	59	59	58	59
Potters, National Union of America .....		c	c	c	c	c	c	c	c
Printing Pressmen, International .....	144	160	170	166	166	172	178	186	190
Printers, Plate, of U. S. A., Intl. Steel and Copper .....	9	10	11	12	12	12	12	13	13
Print Cutters' Asso. of A., Natl. ....	3	3	4	4	4	4	4	4	4
Printers, Machine Textile .....	4	4	4	4	**	**	**	**	**
Pulp, Sulphite, and Paper Mill Workers .....							10	7	28
Quarry Workers, International .....	12	26	36	38	41	45	45	50	35
Railway Carmen of A., Bro. ....								228	209
Railway Clerks .....	13	6	++	++	++	++	++	++	++
Railway Employes' Amal. Asso., St. & Elec.	256	300	300	300	320	320	333	367	393
Railway Expressmen .....	14	3	++	++	++	++	++	++	++
Roofers, Comp. Damp & Waterproof Wkrs.					10	10	10	11	12
Rubber Workers .....	10	2	1	+	+	+	+	+	+
Sawsmiths' National Union .....	3	3	3	3	3	3	3	3	3
Seamen's Union of America, Intl. ....	139	201	195	194	248	255	168	160	160
Shingle Weavers .....	13	14	16	17	18	17	18	18	15
Shipwrights, Joiners and Calkers .....	26	34	24	20	19	16	16	9	7
Slate and Tile Roofers .....	5	7	6	5	6	6	5	5	5
Slate Workers .....	8	8	9	18	30	27	21	14	7
Spinners' Intl. Union .....	25	25	22	22	22	22	22	22	22
Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers	*	*	*	54	55	56	56	56	56
Steel Plate Transferers' Asso. of America				1	1	1	1	1	1
Stereotypers & Electrotypes' Union of N.A.	21	24	28	28	29	31	35	40	42
Stonecutters' Association, Journeymen .....				85	83	89	80	86	86
Stone Mounters' International Union .....	16	17	15	15	15	14	10	9	11
Switchmen's Union of North America .....				81	92	93	80	80	87
Tackmakers .....	1	2	2	++	++	++	++	++	++
Tailors' Union of America, Journeymen .....	138	159	160	166	167	161	132	117	120
Teamsters, Chauffeurs, etc., Intl. Bro. of .....	320	840	783	402	396	377	320	358	382
Telegraphers, Order of Railroad .....	95	150	150	150	150	150	150	200	250
Textile Workers of America, United .....	150	105	100	100	114	129	100	100	100
Theatrical Stage Employes, Intl. Alliance .....	45	50	55	60	60	62	80	91	98
Tile Layers and Helpers, Intl. Union .....	14	17	14	19	21	19	17	19	21
Tin Plate Workers, Intl. Protective .....	18	16	14	14	14	14	15	8	3
Tip Printers .....	2	2	2	2	1	2	2	2	2
Tobacco Workers' Intl. Union of America .....	52	56	54	55	51	46	43	41	40
Travelers' Goods & Leather Novelty, Intl.	16	15	13	9	7	5	5	6	8
Tube Workers of United States & Canada .....	15	15	++	++	++	++	++	++	++
Tunnel & Subway Constructors, Intl. Union								13	17
Typographical Union, International .....	435	467	467	438	428	440	475	491	518
Upholsterers, International Union of .....	25	30	28	26	26	28	28	28	28
Watch-case Engravers, International .....	4	3	3	2	2	2	2	2	2
Watch-case Makers, International .....		d	d	d	d	d	d	d	d
Weavers, Elastic Goring .....	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1
White Rats Actors' Union of A. ....	11	11	11	11	11	11	11	11	80
Wire Weavers' Protective, American .....	3	3	3	3	3	3	3	4	4
Woodsmen and Saw Mill Workers .....			11	12	10	3	7	6	+
Wood Workers, Amalgamated .....	273	283	260	150	93	40	41	32	31
Centrals .....	549	569	601	538	574	606	594	632	631
Locals .....	828	553	1046	759	713	616	608	647	680
State Branches .....	29	32	34	36	37	38	39	39	38
Total vote of Unions .....	15238	17355	16338	15639	16425	16892	15880	16737	18093

* Charter revoked. + Suspended for non-payment of per capita tax. ++ Disbanded.

a Merged with Machinists. b Merged with Molders. c Surrendered charter. ** Withdrew.

CHARTERS—Reports from the Secretaries of 85 of our National and International organizations furnish us with the information that 2,345 charters have been issued during the past year and 1,358 surrendered—1,129 of the charters surrendered were locals of the National and International unions, and 229 affiliated direct with the American Federation of Labor.

GAIN IN MEMBERSHIP—The gain in membership reported by the Secretaries of 63 International organizations over the membership on the first of September last year is 117,506.

STRIKES—Reports from 71 National and International organizations and from local unions directly affiliated with the American Federation of Labor show that there were 1,359 strikes, in which there were 170,526 involved. Of that number 104,655 were benefited and 16,176 not benefited. The total cost of the strikes reported on was $4,709,550.69. Adding to that amount $173,302.06, donations made by local unions to other unions, we have a grand total of $4,882,852.75 expended to sustain members on strike during the past year.

ORGANIZATIONS.	Charters issued.	Charters surrendered.	Gain in membership.	No. of strikes won.	Strikes compromised.	Strikes pending.	Strikes lost.	No. involved.	No. benefited.	Not benefited.	Reduction in hours per day.	Gain in wages.	Cost of strikes.	Donations to other unions.
A. F. of L., directly affiliated locals	262	229	5,799	16	6	2	2	711	419	.....	.....	.....	$4,525 70	$5,703 57
Asbestos Workers.	3	1	200	1	.....	.....	.....	35	.....	.....	.....	.....	25,512 00	11,000 00
Bakers.	38	8	1,734	12	8	4	.....	1,250	561	.....	1 1/2 hr.	10%	12,200 00	.....
Barbers.	42	19	2,012	4	4	.....	.....	561	180	20	2	40%	800 00	.....
Bell Posters.	1	.....	10	4	3	.....	.....	200	.....	.....	.....	33 1/2%	120 00	.....
Blacksmiths.	45	12	.....	6	4	.....	.....	1,800	.....	.....	.....	2%	13,000 00	.....
Bookbinders.	40	46	.....	81	41	.....	1	2,804	1,229	472	.....	22 1/2%	115,022 15	705 60
Book and Shoe Workers.	11	2	124	12	5	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	12,273 50	.....
Brewery Workmen.	8	6	.....	8	8	.....	.....	212	5,000	.....	.....	.....	811 27	12,000 00
Brick, Tile, and Terra Cotta Wks.	10	14	3,052	34	19	3	2	2,900	.....	.....	.....	.....	72,011 00	16,304 00
Bridge and Structural Iron Wks.	5	17	.....	3	.....	.....	1	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Broommakers.	11	3	1,300	3	2	.....	.....	200	.....	.....	1	40%	3,000 00	700 00
Brushmakers.	.....	7	26	5	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	249,177 20	125 00
Carpenters, Brotherhood.	158	154	8,764	38	15	20	3	8,000	7,000	1,000	1	2% to 5 1/2%	3,394 97	2,114 00
Carpenters, Amalgamated.	24	4	650	.....	.....	.....	.....	1,000	920	80	.....	20%	400 00	.....
Carriage and Wagon Workers.	8	2	1,100	4	3	.....	1	290	100	190	.....	40%	11,620 81	.....
Carvers, Wood.	.....	.....	.....	6	2	.....	4	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Car Workers.	.....	.....	3,500	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Cement Workers.	20	8	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	221,044 70	.....
Cigarworkers.	11	14	.....	55	24	3	21	9,064	3,395	85	.....	.....	15,769 46	200 00
Clocks, Retail.	69	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	434	307	127	.....	.....	.....	.....
Cloth Hat and Cap Makers.	4	1	178	26	17	.....	1	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Commercial Telegraphers.	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Compressed Air Workers.	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Coopers.	12	6	300	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	2,716 85	.....
Curtain Operatives, Lace.	3	.....	97	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Cutting Die and Cutter Makers.	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Electric Workers.	31	5	4,500	6	6	.....	.....	.....	7,000	.....	.....	3%	12,000 00	90 00
Elevator Constructors.	4	68	.....	2	.....	1	.....	1,800	1,800	.....	.....	25%	.....	.....
Engineers, Steam.	46	6	500	18	8	3	7	286	71	150	2 to 4	50% to 1.50%	2,302 50	.....
Engravers, Watch-case.	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....
Firemen, Stationary.	14	4	6,000	4	3	1	.....	217	217	.....	4 1/2	.....	3,700 00	200 00
Fitters, Steam.	14	3	250	5	2	.....	.....	640	300	.....	.....	.....	.....	4,200 00
Foundry Employees.	11	1	.....	1	.....	.....	.....	200	18,000	6,000	.....	.....	.....	8,000 00
Freight Handlers.	45	19	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	38,000	.....	.....	.....	.....	138,823 07	117 00
Garment Workers.	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	.....	15,802	402	.....	.....	.....	800,000 00	15,000 00
Garment Workers, Ladies.	39	7	.....	19	10	.....	4	.....	.....	.....	1	.....	.....	.....

CHARTERS, GAIN IN MEMBERSHIP, AND STRIKES—CONTINUED.

ORGANIZATIONS.	Charters issued.	Charters surrendered.	Gain in membership.	No. of strikes.	Strikes won.	Strikes compromised.	Strikes pending.	Strikes lost.	No. involved.	No. benefited.	Not benefited.	Reduction in hours per day.	Gain in wages.	Cost of strikes.	Donations to other unions.
Glass Bottle Blowers.....	6	3	350	2				2	180		180		c	$5,277 90	$5,374 50
Glass Workers, Amalgamated.....	5	7	50												125 00
Glove Workers.....	7	2	45
Granite Cutters.....	22	8		19	14		5		2,650	2,650			25%	66,880 26	6,300 00
Grinders, Pocket Knife Blade.....	2	1
Hatters.....	73	29	1,756	16	12	4	1		4,000	4,000			40%		4,850 00
Hodcarriers.....	22	11		2	2				60	60			50%	1,200 00	687 87
Horsehoers.....	72	56	5,242	42	29	7	4	2	744	534	210	1	5%	20,488 55	13,197 52
Hotel and Restaurant Employees.....	6	15													50 00
Iron and Steel Workers.....	1
Jewelry Workers.....	16	19
Laundry Workers.....	19	17	2,600	1	1				700	700				75 00
Leather Workers on Horse Goods.....	3
Leather Workers, Amal.....	3		462
Lithographers.....	3		100						600	600			35%		125 00
Lithographic Press Feeders.....	37	26	5,060	1	1				600	600			30%		4,000 00
Longshoremen.....
Machine Printers & Color Mixers.....	59	29	10,000	60	35	12	13		12,000	20,000			10%	386,900 19
Machinists.....	6	2		11	7	1	1	2	2,600	730			36%	15,000 00	6,400 00
Maintenance of Way Employees.....
Marble Workers.....	22	19		5	3		2		1,040	350		1½ to 2	50%	30,000 00
Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.....	17	20	1,000	15	9	1		3	500	150					1,850 00
Metal Polishers.....	36	12	400	16	11			1	1,400	1,400			10%	24,700 00
Metal Workers, Sheet.....	112	159	1,247	8		2	5		20,000					1,942,566 18
Mine Workers.....	25	13	3,000	8	3				3,000	500				228,832 25	16,262 56
Miners, Western Federation of.....	20	12					82							329,746 24
Molders.....	40	15	1,000
Musicians.....	105	86	4,020	2
Painters.....	12	1	1,500	8	7			1	400	269			10%	3,000 00	3,000 00
Papermakers.....
Pattern Makers.....
Payroll and Hammermen.....	9	3	300	6	1	5			450	450			15%	17,000 00	960 00
Printing Cutters.....	6		277	4	1		3		272	272		2-6 to 2-3		52,463 97	62 40
Photo Engravers.....	4	4	1,200	1					80	80				2,322 50	450 00
Piano and Organ Workers.....									18	8	10		3%	408 00	712 50
Plate Printers.....	49	20		m 3	37	3	1	1	8 0	700				66,318 00
Plasterers.....	55	15		108			65	3
Plumbers.....	2		584	1					121					5,382 76	700 00
Post-office Clerks.....	1		32	d 1			1		32						1 00
Potters.....
Powder & High Explosive Wks.....

CHARTERS, GAIN IN MEMBERSHIP, AND STRIKES—CONTINUED.

Char- ters issued.	Char- ters sur- ren- dered.	Gain in mem- ber- ship.	No. of strikes won.	Strikes com- pro- mised.	Strikes pend- ing.	Strikes lost.	No. in- volved.	No. ben- e- fited.	Not ben- e- fited.	Reduc- tion in hours per day.	Gain in wages.	Cost of strikes.	Dona- tions to other unions.
Print Cutters	36	4	1,400	3	2	1	125	115	10			$82,000 00	$140 00
Printing Pressmen	4	1	300	3		1	500	500				1,500 00	9,400 00
Pulpan and Sulphate Workers	9	1	300	9	9		600	600		1	82%	4,137 00	150 00
Quarry Workers	3
Railroad Telegraphers	124	31	9,592	1		1						42,084 99
Railway Carmen
 Railway Clerks	25	4	2,000	18	12	4	10,000	9,000	1,000			24,875 00	10,169 54
Railway Employes, Street	5	1	145	3	1	1	212	200	12	1	40%		500 00
Roofers, Composition							75	6,000	6,000
Sawmills							12,000	6,000				18,000 00	500 00
Seamens	3	1		2	1	1	150	150			25%
Shingle Weavers	2	4	50	3	3
Slate and Tile Roofers
Slate Workers
Spinners	41	1	11,000	2	1	1	200	100	100	$\frac{1}{2}$ hr.		500 00	800 00
Stage Employes				60	54	5	4,500	4,200		$\frac{1}{2}$ to 1 hr.	25 to 50%	3,500 00	3,500 00
Steel Plate Transferrers	7		267	6	4	2	61	61				1,004 25	17 00
Stencotypers and Electrotypes	24	2	2,090	66	66		2,650	2,650				960 50	80 00
Stencotypers	1	1	271	6	3	3	119	47	72			4,670 00
Stove Mounters	9	3	69
Switchmen	20	13		18	7	5	320	139	30
Tailors	100	64	1,066	8	7	1	244	224		k	20%	9,901 00	2,324 65
Teamsters	29	13		3	3	1	225	225				9,777 00	2,128 90
Textile Workers	5		145	2	1	1	100	63			37%	1,000 00	500 00
Tile Layers
 Tin Plate Workers				10		1	20					620 00	700 00
Tin Printers
Tobacco Workers
Travelers' Goods and Leather	4	1	250	2	1	1	250	50	200		3%	400 00	48 00
Novelty Workers	26	14	8,217	25	7	11	60	60			25%	65,651 18	500 00
Tuan and Subway Constructors	4	2		3	2	1	189	67	46%		50%	4,000 00	200 00
Typographical Union							280	108
Upholsters
 Weavers, Elastic Goring
 Weavers, Wire			5,000	91	91		480					1,800 00	30 05
White Rats Actors			184
Wood Workers
Totals	2,315	1,358	117,596	1,359	642	291	170,526	104,655	16,179			4,709,550 09	173,302 08

a in one city; b for 40 members; c \$1 per member per week in one city; d lockout; e 76 involved in pending disputes; f gains in wages for all members totaled \$4,167,734.00; g lockout; h for 900 men; i \$1 to \$3 per week; j for 10,000; k  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 1 hour; m lockouts; n 200 returned to work under same conditions; o for 1,098 men.

*Per day. + An hour. **No report.

BENEFITS PAID TO MEMBERS BY INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS DURING THE PAST YEAR.***

ORGANIZATIONS.	Death benefits.	Death benefits members' wives.	Sick benefits.	Traveling benefits.	Tool insurance.	Unemployed benefits.
A. F. of L. locals	$2,814 00	$75 00	$4,076 56	$905 04		$744 00
Bakers	1,847 85	500 00	17,499 25			150,000 00
Barbers	24,955 00		40,886 00
Boilermakers	3,500 00
Bookbinders	4,450 00
Boot and Shoe Workers	11,500 00		75,402 08
Brick, Tile & Terra Cotta Wkrs.	400 00
Bridge & Structural Iron Wkrs.	12,300 00
Broommakers	2,000 00		1,000 00
Brushmakers	100 00			125 00
Carpenters, Brotherhood	279,717 07	34,775 00
Carpenters, Amalgamated	1,450 00		8,970 83	150 25	$3,629 00	28,899 61
Carriage and Wagon Workers	1,050 00
Carvers, Wood	2,750 00				1,040 00
Cigarmakers	226,717 53		189,438 59	39,828 77		39,917 00
Clerks, Retail	10,410 00		25,690 00
Coopers	3,150 00
Curtain Operatives, Lace	2,900 00	200 00
Cutting Die and Cutter Makers	875 00
Electrical Workers	11,300 00
Engravers, Watch-case			157 00
Firemen, Stationery	6,500 00	1,250 00	840 00
Fitters, Steam	2,500 00
Foundry Employees	250 00		485 00
Glass Bottle Blowers	58,664 60					12,854 00
Glass Workers, Amalgamated	425 00
Hatters	58,164 09
Hodcarriers	3,150 00
Hotel and Restaurant Empl's	41,135 78		34,345 75
Iron and Steel Workers	3,350 00	700 00	8,130 00
Jewelry Workers			56 00
Lathers	5,900 00
Lithographers	12,300 00
Lithographic Pressfeeders	300 00
Machinists	55,110 00
Meat Cutters and But. Work	1,550 00
Metal Polishers	5,350 00
Metal Workers, Sheet	11,400 00
Miners, Western Fed. of	32,711 90		136,429 21
Molders	72,448 85		156,791 60			25,806 00
Painters	90,125 00	11,075 00	12,675 00
Patternmakers	2,800 00		5,170 32		979 70	4,200 50
Paving Cutters	3,200 00
Photo-Engravers	2,125 00		5,355 14			27,414 60
Piano and Organ Workers	2,100 00	400 00	3,987 56			1,209 60
Plasterers	18,450 00		38,960 00
Plate Printers	2,000 00
Plumbers	12,800 00
Potters	4,325 00
Powder and High Ex. Wkrs.						68 00
Print Cutters	1,000 00
Printing Pressmen	18,500 00
Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers						1,000 00
Quarry Workers	850 00
Railroad Telegraphers	92,500 00
Railway Carmen	3,217 00
Railway Employes, Street	24,300 00		20,452 17
Roofers, Composition	2,500 00		1,000 00
Shingle Weavers	1,185 00
Slate and Tile Roofers	1,100 00
Slate Workers	250 00	50 00
Spinners	600 00	100 00				20,000 00
Stage Employes	4,000 00	800 00		2,000 00		6,000 00
Steel Plate Transferrers				20 00
Stereotypers & Electrotypers	4,700 00
Stone Cutters	16,000 00
Stove Mounters	1,300 00
Switchmen	129,367 50
Tailors	11,027 70		21,196 35
Textile Workers	385 00					50 00
Tip Printers
Tobacco Workers	950 00		5,993 00
Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers			300 00
Tunnel and Subway Con.	1,600 00		500 00	1,600 00		500 00
Typographical Union	47,920 00
Weavers, Elastic Goring	200 00					20 00
Weavers, Wire	500 00		768 65
White Rats Actors	217 50		2,000 82	14,155 65
Totals	1,471,381 37	49,925 09	818,556 88	58,784 71	5,648 70	218,742 71

†Paid locally. *See top of following page for further information.

Your attention is called to the fact that the amounts herein reported as having been expended by the international unions on account of various benefits in the past year, are those paid directly by the internationals, and therefore the totals represent but a small proportion of the aggregate sum paid by trade unions in the way of benefits. A number of international unions have not as yet established benefit features, and others pay only partial benefits. It must be borne in mind that in every trade, local unions have existed independently prior to the formation of the international union, and almost without exception, they provide death, sick, out of work, etc., benefits for their members. In these instances benefit features have thus become identified and recognized as belonging to the jurisdiction of a local union. This system has retarded international unions in establishing and extending benefit features, for the reason that it is difficult to bring locals that have to support their own benefit funds to consent to increase the tax to such an amount as would enable the internationals to secure the means for such purpose. In most instances, benefits paid by internationals are supplemental relief, paid to members in addition to the benefits provided by their local unions.

NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL UNIONS.

- Asbestos Workers.—Charters issued, 3; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 200. Number of strikes, 1; pending, 1. Number involved, 35. No reductions in wages in the past year.
- Bakers.—Charters issued, 88; surrendered, 8. Gain in membership, 1,734. Number of strikes, 12; won, 8; pending, 4. Number of persons benefited, 1,250. Gain in wages averaging 10 per cent per member per day. Hours of labor reduced one-half hour per day. Death benefits, $1,817.85; death benefits, members' wives, $500; sick benefits, $17,490.25; unemployed benefits, $50,000. Donations to other unions, $11,000. Cost of strikes, $25,512. As a result of the organization hours of labor have been reduced from 15 to 18 per day to 8 and 9 per day, and wages increased from $9 to $10 per week to $18 and $20 per week, with better sanitary conditions.
- Barbers.—Charters issued, 42; surrendered, 19. Gain in membership, 2,012. Number of strikes, 4; won, 4. Number of persons involved, 561; benefited, 561. Gain in wages of 40 cents per member per day; one-half hour reduction in the hours of labor per day. Death benefits, $24,955; sick benefits, $40,896. Cost of strikes, $12,200.
- Bill Posters.—Charters issued, 1. Gain in membership, 10. Number of strikes, 4; won, 3; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 200; benefited, 180; not benefited, 20. Gain in wages of 38½ cents per member per day. Average reduction of hours of labor, 2 per day. As a result of the organization wages have been increased on an average of $2 and $3 per week.
- Blacksmiths.—Charters issued, 45; surrendered, 12. Number of strikes, 6; won, 4; pending, 1; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 1,800. Average gain in wages of 2 cents per hour. Gains in other respects, recognition of federated trades and better shop rules. Attempts to reduce wages were successfully resisted. Secured an eight-hour agreement with the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad. Cost of strikes, $13,000.
- Boilermakers.—Charters issued, 40; surrendered, 40. Number of strikes, 84; won, 41; compromised, 3; pending, 25; lost, 15. Number of persons involved, 2,864; benefited, 1,229; not benefited, 472. Average gain in wages of 22½ cents per day. A number of contracts were signed and agreements secured without strike. Death benefits, $3,500. Donations to other unions, $705.60. Cost of strikes, $115,022.15.
- Bookbinders.—Charters issued, 11; surrendered, 2. Gain in membership, 124. Number of strikes, 12; won, 6; pending, 7. Death benefits, $4,450. Cost of strikes, $12,273.50.
- Boot and Shoe Workers.—Charters issued, 8; surrendered, 6. Number of strikes, 8; won, 8. Number of persons involved, 212; benefited, 5,000. Secured an agreement, involving 2,500 members, resulting in an increase in wages aggregating $300,000 a year, without strike. Saturday half-holiday secured in many factories. Death benefits, $11,500; sick benefits, $72,252.08; disability benefits, $3,150. Donations to other unions, $12,000. Cost of strikes, $811.27.
- Brewery Workmen.—Charters issued, 10; surrendered, 14. Gain in membership, 8,052. Number of strikes, 34; won, 19; compromised, 10; pending, 3; lost, 2. Advantages gained without strikes, wages increased and hours of labor reduced through contract renewals. No reductions in wages in the past year. Donations to other unions, $16,904. Cost of strikes, $72,011.
- Brick, Tile and Terra Cotta Workers.—Charters issued, 5; surrendered, 17. Number of strikes, 3; compromised, 2; pending, 1; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 2,900. Attempts were made to reduce wages in some instances, but they were successfully resisted. Death benefits, $400.

- Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.—Charters issued, 11; surrendered, 8. Gain in membership, 1,800. Number of strikes, 8; won, 2; compromised, 1. Death benefits, $12,800.
- Broommakers.—Number of strikes, 7; won, 5; pending, 1; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 200. Increase in wages of 40 cents per member per day. Death benefits, $2,000; sick benefits, $1,000. Donations to other unions, $700. Cost of strikes, $8,000.
- Brushmakers.—Gain in membership, 26. Death benefits, members' wives, $100. Donations to other trade unions, $125. Traveling benefits, $125.
- Carpenters, Brotherhood.—Charters issued, 158; surrendered, 151. Gain in membership, 8,764. Number of strikes, 38; won, 15; compromised, 20; lost, 3. Number of persons involved, 8,000; benefited, 7,000; not benefited, 1,000. From  $2\frac{1}{2}$  to 5 cents per hour gain in wages. Average reduction in hours of labor of 1 per day. Death benefits, \$379,107.07; death benefits, members' wives, \$31,775. Cost of strikes, \$349,177.20.
- Carpenters, Amalgamated.—Charters issued, 24; surrendered, 4. Increase in membership, 650. Death benefits, $1,450; accident benefits, $3,925; unemployed benefits, $28,899.61; sick benefits, $8,970.88; tool benefits, $3,629; traveling benefits, $150.25; superannuation benefits, $10,264.84. Cost of strikes, $3,364.97.
- Carriage and Wagon Workers.—Charters issued, 8; surrendered, 2. Gain in membership, 1,100. Number of strikes, 4; won, 3; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 1,000; number of persons benefited, 920; not benefited, 80. Average gain in wages of 20 cents per member per day. Successfully resisted piece-work system and open shop. Death benefits, $1,050. Cost of strikes, $400.
- Carvers, Wood.—Number of strikes, 6; won, 2; lost, 4. Number of persons involved, 200; benefited, 100; not benefited, 100. Gain in wages in one city of 40 cents per member per day. Death benefits, $2,750; tool insurance, $1,040. Cost of strikes, $11,620.81.
- Car Workers.—No report.
- Cement Workers.—Charters issued, 20; surrendered, 8.
- Cigarmakers.—Charters issued, 11; surrendered, 14. Number of strikes, 56; won, 24; compromised, 3; pending, 21; lost, 8. Number of persons involved, 9,664; benefited, 3,395; not benefited, 85. Death benefits, $228,717.53; sick benefits, $189,438.59; traveling benefits, $39,828.77; unemployed benefits, $39,917. Cost of strikes, $221,044.70.
- Clerks, Retail.—Charters issued, 69. Death benefits, $10,410; sick benefits, $25,600.
- Cloth Hat and Cap Makers.—Charters issued, 4; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 178. Number of strikes, 26; won, 17; pending, 1; lost, 8. Number of persons involved, 434; benefited, 307; not benefited, 127. Successful in adjusting prices in a number of instances without strikes. No reductions in wages in the past year. Cost of strikes, $15,789.46.
- Commercial Telegraphers.—Seven per cent increase secured for 300 telegraphers. Donations to other unions, $200.
- Compressed Air and Foundation Workers.—No report.
- Coopers.—Charters issued, 12; surrendered, 6. Gain in membership, 800. In all new contracts signed, an increase in wages was secured, and in some instances reduction of hours. Death benefits, $3,150. Cost of strikes, $2,716.85.
- Curtain Operatives, Lace.—Charters issued, 3. Gain in membership, 97. Death benefits, $2,900; death benefits, members' wives, $200.
- Cutting Die and Cutter Makers.—Death benefits, $375. As a result of organization hours of labor have been reduced 10 per week, and wages increased 25 per cent.
- Electrical Workers.—Charters issued, 81; surrendered, 5. Gain in membership, 4,500. Number of strikes, 6; won, 6. Number of persons benefited, 7,000. Gain in wages averaging 30 cents per member per day. One local increased wages from $4.50 to $6 a day. Death benefits, $11,800. Donations to other unions, $90. Cost of strikes, $12,000.
- Elevator Constructors.—Charters issued, 4. Gain in membership, 68. Number of strikes, 2; won, 1; compromised, 1. Number of persons involved, 1,800; benefited, 1,800. Forty members in one city secured an increase in wages of 25 cents per day.
- Engineers, Steam.—Charters issued, 46; surrendered, 6. Gain in membership, 500. Number of strikes, 18; won, 8; compromised, 3; lost, 7. Number of persons involved, 286; benefited, 71; 200 returned to work under same conditions; number displaced, 15. Gains in wages vary from 50 cents to $1.50 per day. Working day reduced 2 to 4 hours. Large number of agreements made with employers, without strike, benefiting several thousand. Cost of strikes, $2,302.50.
- Engravers, Watch-case.—No increases in wages in the past year. Sick benefits, $157. Donations to other unions, $200.

- Firemen, Stationary.—Charters issued, 14; surrendered, 4. Gain in membership, 5,000. Number of strikes, 4; won, 3; compromised, 1. Number of persons involved, 217; benefited, 217. Gain in wages averaging  $2\frac{1}{2}$  cents per member per day. Hours of labor reduced 4 per day for 900 men. Death benefits, \$5,500; death benefits, members' wives, \$1,250; sick benefits, \$340. Donations to other unions, \$4,200. Cost of strikes, \$3,700.
- Fitters, Steam.—Charters issued, 14; surrendered, 8. Gain in membership, 250. Number of strikes, 5; won, 2; pending, 3. Number of persons involved, 640; benefited, 300. 25 cents per member per day gain in wages. Organization has prevented reductions in wages; secured a minimum scale and increased wages on an average of 5 per cent. Death benefits, $2,500. Donations to other unions, $3,000.
- Foundry Employes.—Charters surrendered, 1. Death benefits, $250; sick benefits, $435. Donations to other unions, $117.
- Freight Handlers.—Charters issued, 11; surrendered, 4. Number of strikes, 1; lost, 1; number of persons involved, 200.
- Garment Workers, United.—Charters issued, 45; surrendered, 19. 36,000 members were involved in strikes during the year; 13,000 benefited. Gain in wages averaging 10 per cent. Gains in other respects: tailors furnished needles; no charge for damages without showing the tailor or cutter the garments damaged; no charge for spools and oil cans. Donations to other unions, $15,000. Cost of strikes, $133,823.07.
- Garment Workers, Ladies.—Charters issued, 39; surrendered, 7. Number of strikes, 19; won, 10; pending 5; lost, 4. Number of persons involved, 15,802; benefited, 902. Hours of labor reduced 1 per day. In some cases wages and hours were adjusted by mutual agreement and conferences with employers. Attempts to reduce wages were successfully resisted in most cases, and in others settlement was effected on the basis of a compromise under which union standards were maintained. Cost of strikes, $300,000.
- Glass Bottle Blowers.—Charters issued, 6; surrendered, 8. Gain in membership, 350. Death benefits, $53,664.60; unemployed benefits, $12,854. Donations to other unions, $5,374.50.
- Glass Workers, Amalgamated.—Charters issued, 5; surrendered, 7. Gain in membership, 50. Number of strikes, 2; lost, 2. Number involved, 180. Minimum wage increased $1 a week in one city, without strike. No reductions in wages in the past year. Death benefits, $425. Donations to other unions, $125. Cost of strikes, $5,277.30.
- Glove Workers.—Charters issued, 7; surrendered, 2. Gain in membership, 45. Agreements have been signed with several manufacturers securing an increase in prices and better conditions.
- Granite Cutters.—Charters issued, 22; surrendered, 8. Number of strikes, 19; won, 14; pending 5. Number of persons involved, 2,650; benefited, 2,650. An average gain in wages of 25 cents per day. Half-holiday on Saturday secured for part of the year; full half-holiday will be inaugurated after 1913. Forty branches secured 25 cents increase without strike. Donations to other unions, $6,300. Cost of strikes, $66,830.26.
- Grinders, Pocket Knife Blade.—Charters issued, 2; surrendered, 1. Increased wages and shorter workday were secured in some localities without strike. Organization has just inaugurated a sick benefit.
- Hatters.—Death benefits, $58,164.00. Donations to other unions, $4,350.
- Hodecarriers.—Charters issued, 73; surrendered, 29. Gain in membership, $1,756. Number of strikes, 16; won, 12; compromised, 4. Number of persons involved, 4,000; benefited, 4,000. Gain in wages averaging 40 cents per member per day. Death benefits, $3,150. Donations to other unions, $697.67.
- Horseshoers.—Charters issued, 22; surrendered, 11. Number of strikes, 2; won, 2. Number of persons involved, 60; benefited, 60. Average gain in wages, 50 cents per day. An average reduction of 1 hour per day in the hours of labor. Cost of strikes, $1,200.
- Hotel and Restaurant Employes.—Charters issued, 72; surrendered, 56. Gain in membership, 5,242. Number of strikes, 42; won, 29; compromised, 7; pending, 4; lost, 2. Number of persons involved, 744; benefited, 534; not benefited, 210. Average gain in wages of 5 per cent. Several cities gained a six-day week. Death benefits, $11,135.78; sick benefits, $34,345.75. Donations to other unions, $13,197.52. Cost of strikes, $20,488.55.
- Iron and Steel Workers.—Charters issued, 6; surrendered, 15. Death benefits, $3,350; death benefits, members' wives, $700; sick benefits, $3,130. Donations to other unions, $50.
- Jewelry Workers.—Charters issued 1. Sick benefits, $56.
- Lathers.—Charters issued, 24; surrendered, 19. Attempts to reduce wages were successfully resisted. Death benefits, $5,900.
- Laundry Workers.—Charters issued, 19; surrendered, 17. Gain in membership, 2,000. Number of strikes, 1; won; number of persons involved, 700; benefited, 700. Reduction of hours and slight raise in wages secured in some localities without strike. Eight-hour day for several of the western locals through legislation. Cost of strikes, $75.

Leather Workers on Horse Goods.—No report.

Leather Workers, Amal.—Charters issued, 8.

Lithographers.—Charters issued, 8. Gain in membership, 402. Eight-hour day has been extended almost universally throughout the trade. Death benefits, $12,300.

Lithographic Press Feeders.—Gain in membership, 100. An increase in wages of from 8 to 12 per cent secured for every member, without strike, being second increase in four years. Death benefits, $300. Donations to other unions, $125.

Longshoremen.—Charters issued, 37; surrendered, 26. Gain in membership, 5,000. Number of strikes, 1; won. Number of persons involved, 600; benefited, 600. An average gain in wages of 30 cents per member per day. Donations to other unions, $4,000. No reductions in wages in the past year.

Machine Printers and Color Mixers.—One strike pending to secure better conditions in a non-union establishment.

Machinists.—Charters issued, 59; surrendered, 29. Gain in membership, 10,000. Number of strikes, 60; won, 35; compromised, 12; pending, 13. Number of persons involved, 12,000; benefited, 20,000. Ten per cent increase in wages. Reduction of 1 hour per day in the hours of labor for 10,000 members. Death benefits, $55,110. Cost of strikes, $386,900.19.

Marble Workers.—Charters issued, 6; surrendered, 2. Number of strikes, 11; won, 7; compromised, 1; pending, 1; lost, 2. Number of persons involved, 2,600; benefited, 730; balance in strike pending. An average gain in wages of 36 cents per member per day. Union shop and minimum wagescale for three shops secured without strike. One attempt to reduce wages is now being resisted by strike. Where organized, the trade has secured the 8 hour day. Donations to other unions, $6,400. Cost of strikes, $15,000.

Meat Cutters.—Charters issued, 22; surrendered, 19. Number of strikes, 5; won, 3; pending, 2. Number of persons benefited, 1,040. Wages increased 50 cents per day, and hours of labor reduced  $1\frac{1}{2}$  and 2 per day;  $9\frac{1}{2}$ -hour day secured in two cities. Wages increased \$3 per week in 16 cities, without strike. Death benefits, \$1,550.

Metal Polishers.—Charters issued, 17; surrendered, 20. Gain in membership, 1,000. Number of strikes, 15; won, 6; compromised, 1; pending, 2; lost, 3. Number of persons involved, 500; benefited, 350; not benefited, 150. Slight improvement in wages and hours. As a result of organization, wages have been increased from $1.75 per day to $3.50 and $4, better blower laws in nearly every State, 9-hour day secured and in some instances 8. Death benefits, $5,350. Donations to other unions, $1,350. Cost of strikes, $20,000.

Metal Workers, Sheet.—Charters issued, 36; surrendered, 12. Gain in membership, 400. Number of strikes, 15; won, 11; pending, 3; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 1,600; benefited, 1,400; not benefited, 200. An average gain in wages of about 10 per cent per member per day. Good progress has been made in the past year toward establishing the 9-hour day in railroad shops and factory work; 8-hour day prevails for members in the building trades. Death benefits, $11,400. Cost of strikes, $24,700.

Mine Workers, United.—Charters issued, 112; surrendered, 159. Gain in membership, 1,247. Number of strikes, 8; compromised, 2; pending, 5; lost, 1. Cost of strikes, $1,942,566.18.

Miners, Western Federation of.—Charters issued, 25; surrendered, 18. Gain in membership, 8,000. Number of strikes, 8; won, 3; pending, 3. Number of persons involved, 8,000; benefited, 500. Advantages gained through legislation in Nevada and Colorado. Wages were maintained against threatened reduction in Ontario; 10 per cent increase in wages in Kansas and Carolina; hours reduced from 10 to 8 in mills in Utah. Death benefits, $32,711.90; sick benefits, $136,429.21. Donations to other unions, $16,262.56. Cost of strikes, $328,832.25.

Molders, Iron.—Charters issued, 20; surrendered, 12. Thirty-two strikes pending. Death benefits $72,448.85; sick benefits, $156,791.60. Unemployed benefits, $25,866. Cost of strikes, $329,746.24.

Musicians.—Charters issued, 40; surrendered, 15. Gain in membership, 1,000.

Painters.—Charters issued, 105; surrendered, 86. Gain membership, 4,020. Death benefits, $90,125; death benefits, members' wives, $11,075; sick benefits, $12,675.

Papermakers.—Charters issued, 12; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 1,500. Number of strikes, 2; pending, 1; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 400. Five additional mills adopted 8-hour day. Cost of strikes, $3,000. From June 1, 1910, to October 1, 1911, increase in wages for all employes in mills aggregates about $1,000,000. Operation of paper mills making newspaper, hanging paper, and bag paper is quite generally under the 8-hour day, while mills making book, writing, bond and other papers are, with few exceptions, working 11 hours per day and 13 hours per night. Maximum wage, 54 cents per hour; eight years ago, 33 cents per hour.

- Patternmakers.—Gain in membership, 600. Eight strikes and 5 lockouts; 7 strikes won; 1 strike and 5 lockouts pending. Number of persons involved, 308 in strikes and 96 in lockouts; benefited, 299; death benefits, $2,800; sick benefits, $5,170.32; tool insurance, $979.70. Unemployed benefits, $4,200.50. Donations to other unions, $3,600. Cost of strikes, $16,542.79.
- Pavers.—No report.
- Paving Cutters.—Charters issued, 9; surrendered, 3. Gain in membership, 300. Number of strikes, 6; won, 1; compromised, 5. Number of persons involved, 450. One hundred and twenty-five secured 15 per cent increase and a slight gain for the balance. Death benefits, $3,200. Donations to other unions, $900. Cost of strikes, $17,000.
- Photo-Engravers.—Charters issued, 6. Gain in membership, 277. Number of strikes, 4; won, 1; pending, 3. Number of persons involved, 272; benefited, 272. Hours of labor reduced, 2-6 to 3/4 of an hour per day. Increase in wages and apprentice ratio are among advantages gained without strike. Death benefits, $2,125; sick benefits, $5,355.14; unemployed benefits, $27,414. Cost of strikes, $52,463.97.
- Piano and Organ Workers.—Charters issued, 4; surrendered, 4. Gain in membership, 1,200. Number of strikes, 1; compromised. Number of persons involved, 80; benefited, 80. Secured a minimum wage scale for day work of 35 cents an hour for Chicago and vicinity. Death benefits, $2,100; death benefits, members' wives, $400; sick benefits, $3,987.56; unemployed benefits, $1,209.60. Donations to other unions, $450. Cost of strikes, $2,322.50.
- Plate Printers.—Number of strikes, 2; compromised, 1; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 18; benefited, 8; not benefited, 10. Three per cent increase in wages. Attempts to reduce wages were successfully resisted. Death benefits, $2,000. Donations to other unions, $712.50. Cost of strikes, $408.
- Plasterers.—Charters issued, 49; surrendered, 20. Thirty-one locals asked for an increase in wages or better conditions. Three lockouts. Number of persons involved, 900; benefited, 700. Attempt to reduce wages in one instance successfully resisted. Death benefits, $18,450. Cost of strikes, $2,400.
- Plumbers.—Charters issued (to August, 1911), 55; surrendered, 15. Number of strikes, 106; won, 87; compromised, 3; pending, 65; lost, 3. Death benefits, $12,800; sick benefits, $38,900. Cost of strikes, $66,318.
- Post-office Clerks.—Reports substantial gains during the past year, and bright prospects for steady progress.
- Potters.—Charters issued, 2. Gain in membership, 684. Number of strikes, 1; pending. Number of persons involved, 121. Renewed two-year agreement for some branches, with slight increase in wages. Death benefits, $4,325. Donations to other unions, $700. Cost of strikes, $5,382.76.
- Powder and High Explosive Workers.—Charters issued, 1. Gain in membership, 32. One lock-out; pending. Number involved, 32. Forty-seven members gained an increase in wages without strike. Unemployed benefits, $38.
- Print Cutters.—Maintained previous year's conditions. Death benefits, $1,000. Donations to other unions, $140.
- Printing Pressmen.—Charters issued, 36; surrendered, 4. Gain in membership, 1,400. Number of strikes, 3; won, 2; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 125; benefited, 115; not benefited, 10. 12 per cent gain in wages per member per day. Increase in wages secured for 60 per cent of the membership, without strike. Death benefits, $18,600. Donations to other unions, $9,400. Cost of strikes, $82,000.
- Pulp, Sulphite, and Paper Mill Workers.—Charters issued, 4. Gain in membership, 300. Number of strikes, 3; pending, 2; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 500. Unemployed benefits, $1,000. Donations to other unions, $150. Cost of strikes, $1,500. As a result of the organization, Sunday work has been eliminated, 8-hour day generally established, and wages increased 20 per cent.
- Quarry Workers.—Charters issued, 9; surrendered, 1. Number of strikes, 9; won, 9. Number of persons involved, 600; benefited, 600. Thirty-two cents average gain in wages per member per day. Hours of labor reduced 1 per day. Gains in other respects, time and a-half and double time for overtime and holidays. Twenty-two branches, affecting 1,212 men, increased wages from 1 to 3 cents per hour. Death benefits, $360. Cost of strikes, $4,137.
- Railroad Telegraphers.—Charters issued, 3. Death benefits, $92,500. Increases in wages for members, aggregate $2,100,000.
- Railway Carmen.—Charters issued, 124; surrendered, 34. Gain in membership, 9,592. Secured renewal of agreements with several large systems with a substantial increase in pay, averaging 2 cents per hour per man in the United States and from 8 to 5 cents per hour per man in Canada. Death benefits, $3,217. Cost of strikes, $42,084.99.
- Railway Clerks.—No report.
- Railway Employes, Street.—Charters issued, 25; surrendered, 4. Gain in membership, 2,000. Number of strikes, 18; won, 12; pending, 4; lost, 2. Number of persons involved, 10,000; benefited, 9,000; not benefited, 1,000. Increase in wages varies from 1/4 cent an hour to 5 cents an hour, aggregating over $2,000,000 per year. Death benefits, $24,800; sick benefits, $20,452.17. Donations to other unions, $10,169.54. Cost of strikes, $24,875.
- Roofers, Composition.—Charters issued, 5; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 145. Number of strikes, 3; won, 1; compromised, 1; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 212; benefited, 200; not benefited, 12. Gain in wages averaging 40 cents per member per day. Reduction in hours of labor averaging 1 hour per day. Attempts to reduce wages were successfully resisted. Death benefits, $2,500; sick benefits, $1,000. Donations to other unions, $500. As a result of organization, wages have been raised from $1.75, $2, and $2.25 for a 9 and 10 hour day to an average of $4 for 8 hours.
- Sawsmiths.—No reductions in wages the past year. Wages increased, in some cases, 10 and 15 cents an hour.
- Seamen.—Charters surrendered, 1. Number of strikes, 2; won, 1; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 12,000; benefited, 6,000; not benefited, 6,000. An average gain in wages of $2.50 per member per month. Hours of labor reduced 1 per day. Other improvements: better food, better quarters. Cost of strikes, $18,000.
- Shingle Weavers.—Charters issued, 3; surrendered, 1. Sick benefits, $1,185. Donations to other unions, $500.

- Slate and Tile Roofers.—Charters issued, 2; surrendered, 4. Gain in membership, 50. Number of strikes, 3; won, 2. Number of persons involved, 150; benefited, 150. Gain in wages averaging 25 per cent per member per day. Death benefits, $1,100.
- Slate Workers.—Death benefits, $250; death benefits members' wives, $50.
- Spinners.—Number of strikes, 2; won, 1; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 200; benefited, 100. Hours of labor reduced one-half hour per day. Death benefits, $500; death benefits, members' wives, $100; unemployed benefits, $20,000. Donations to other unions, $300. Cost of strikes, $500. As a result of organization, the working week for members has been reduced 2 hours.
- Stage Employees.—Charters issued, 41; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 11,000. Number of strikes, 60; won, 54; compromised, 1; pending, 5; 4,200 members secured a wage increase averaging from 25 to 50 per cent. Reduction in hours secured averaged from  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 1 hour. Death benefits, \$4,000; death benefits, members' wives, \$800; traveling benefits, \$2,000; unemployed benefits, \$6,000. Donations to other unions, \$3,500. Cost of strikes, \$3,500.
- Steel Plate Transferers.—Wages improved in the past year without strike. Traveling benefits $20. Donations to other unions, $17.
- Stereotypers and Electrotypers.—Charters issued, 7. Gain in membership, 207. Number of strikes, 6; won, 4; pending, 2. Number of persons involved, 61; benefited, 61. No reductions in wages in the past year. Death benefits, $4,700. Cost of strikes, $1,004.25.
- Stone Cutters.—Charters issued, 24; surrendered, 2. Gain in membership, 2,000. Number of strikes, 66; won, 66. Number of persons involved, 2,650; benefited, 2,650; Sixty-six branches secured increases in wages, aggregating $205,000 a year. Nine additional branches secured Saturday half-holiday. Death benefits, $16,000. Cost of strikes, $900.50.
- Stove Mounters.—Charters issued, 1; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 271. Number of strikes, 6; won, 3; pending, 3. Number of persons involved, 119; benefited, 47; not benefited, 72. Death benefits, $1,300. Donations to other unions, $39. Cost of strikes, $4,670.
- Switchmen.—Charters issued, 9; surrendered, 3. Gain in membership, 69. Death benefits, $129,507.50.
- Tailors.—Charters issued, 20; surrendered, 18. Number of strikes, 18; won, 7; compromised, 1; pending, 5; lost, 5. Number of persons involved, 320; benefited, 189; not benefited, 80. Gain in wages averaging 20 cents per member per day for members benefited by strike. Price bills were signed in one or more stores in 44 cities, without strike, averaging a gain of 10 per cent in wages. All attempts to reduce wages were successfully resisted. Death benefits, $11,027.70; sick benefits, $21,195.35. Donations to other unions, $2,324.65. Cost of strikes, $9,901.
- Teamsters.—Charters issued, 100; surrendered, 61. Gain in membership, 1,666. Number of strikes, 8; won, 7; pending, 1. Number of persons involved 244; benefited, 224. Gain in wages of from $1 to $3 per week. Hours of labor reduced one-half to one hour per day. Donations to other unions, $2,128.90. Cost of strikes, $9,777.
- Textile Workers.—Charters issued, 29; surrendered, 13. Death benefits, $385. Number of strikes, 3; 1 compromised; 1 pending; 1 lost. Number of persons involved, 225. Cost of strikes, $10,000. Legislation secured in Massachusetts reducing working hours from 56 to 64 per week and prohibiting the firing of weavers for imperfect work.
- Tile Layers.—Charters issued, 6. Gain in membership, 145. Number of strikes, 2; won, 1; pending, 1. Number of persons benefited, 60. Gain in wages averaging 37½ cents per member per day. Gained union shop and increased wages in several cities without strike. Cost of strikes, $1,000. Donations to other unions, $500.
- Tin Plate Workers.—No report.
- Tip Printers.—One lockout; lost. Number involved, 20. Cost, $620. Unemployed benefits, $50.
- Tobacco Workers.—Hours shortened and wages raised from 3 to 7 per cent in several instances. Death benefits, $360; sick benefits, $5,968. Donations to other unions, $700.
- Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers.—Charters issued, 4; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 250. Number of strikes, 2; won, 1; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 250; benefited, 50; not benefited, 200. Gain in wages averaging 8 per cent. Hours of labor were reduced in some instances from 10 to 9, others from 9½ to 9. Donations to other unions, $48. Cost of strikes, $40.
- Tunnel and Subway Constructors.—Charters issued, 1. Gain in membership, 80. Number of strikes, 1; won. Number of persons involved, 60; benefited, 60. Gain in wages of 25 cents per member per day. Death benefits, $1,600; sick benefits, $500; traveling benefits, $1,600; unemployed benefits, $500. Donations to other unions, $500. Cost of strikes, $150. As a result of organization conditions have been improved from $2.50 a day for 10 hours to $3.50 for 8 hours, and on all new contracts, $3.75.
- Typographical Union.—(Year ending June 1, 1911.) Charters issued, 26; surrendered, 14. Gain in membership, 3,247. Number of strikes, 25; won, 7; pending, 11; lost, 7. Number of persons involved, 189; benefited, 67; not benefited, 46; 76 involved in pending strikes. Local No. 6 of New York City secured two notable settlements; namely, with the Butterick Publishing Company and the De Vinne Press, both disputes of five years' standing, as a result of the general movement of the I. T. U. to inaugurate the 8-hour day. Local unions in 166 cities secured substantial increases in wages, for their members, under new agreements. Gains in wages for the members for the year total $1,167,724. Death benefits, $47,920. Defense expenditure, $65,651.18. Old-age pensions, $128,042.53.
- Upholsterers.—Charters issued, 4; surrendered, 2. Number of strikes, 3; won, 2; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 290; benefited, 198. Gain in wages of 50 cents per member per day. 1,500 men secured increase in wages of 50 cents per day, without strike. Donations to other unions, $200. Cost of strikes, $4,000.
- Weavers, Elastic Goring.—Death benefits, $200; unemployed benefits, $20.
- Weavers, Wire.—Death benefits, $500; sick benefits, $768.65.
- White Rats Actors.—Gain in membership, 5,000. Number of strikes, 91; won, 91. Number of persons involved, 480; benefited, the entire membership. Death benefits, $217.50; sick benefits, $2,000.82; traveling benefits, $14,155.65. Donations to other unions, $304.65. Cost of strikes, $1,800. Organization has succeeded in practically abolishing arbitrary cancellation of contracts.
- Wood Workers.—No report.

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

AMERICAN FEDERATIONIST.

The receipts on account of the American Federationist for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1911, are $18,213.98, which is $2,699.58 less than the expenses. Notwithstanding that fact, the receipts from the American Federationist for the past eight years has come within $385.06 of paying expenses. To offset that amount there are $3,478.15 unpaid bills due the Federation for advertisements that have been published prior to September 30, 1911.

The following is a statement of the receipts and expenses for the twelve months ending September 30, 1911:

RECEIPTS.
Receipts.....	$18,213 98
EXPENSES.
Commissions on advertising contracts.....	$9,478 19
Contributions.....	75 00
Outs.....	40 85
R. G. Dun & Company.....	75 00
Hauling.....	30 75
Postage stamps.....	316 91
Postage pound rate.....	296 80
Printing American Federationist .....	7,611 02
Printing Bulletins.....	22 50
Printing and supplies.....	46 00
Refunds.....	1 00
Salaries.....	2,919 44
Total.....	$30,913 56
RECAPITULATION.
Receipts.....	$18,213 98
Expenses.....	30,913 56
Excess of expenses over receipts.....	$2,699 58

The following are the receipts and expenses of the American Federationist since it was first issued:

YEAR.	Receipts.	Expenses.	Surplus.	Deficit.
1893-94.....	$2,418 30	$2,684 66		$266 36
1894-95.....	8,184 21	2,075 98	$508 23
1895-96.....	1,917 61	2,100 08		182 47
1896-97.....	8,408 39	8,094 87	313 52
1897-98.....	2,337 83	2,541 75		203 92
1898-99.....	3,171 00	4,083 19		912 19
1899-00.....	4,162 03	4,466 91		304 88
1900-01.....	10,498 22	10,900 54		402 32
1901-02.....	17,170 70	25,406 46		8,235 76
1902-03.....	27,718 43	42,888 68		15,169 25
1903-04.....	32,639 89	30,699 92	1,939 97
1904-05.....	25,726 67	24,929 86	796 81
1905-06.....	26,912 67	26,868 12		44 55
1906-07.....	26,810 66	23,580 70	1,749 96
1907-08.....	20,722 41	20,649 84	72 57
1908-09.....	20,148 73	22,708 67		2,559 94
1909-10.....	21,326 50	20,621 19	705 31
1910-11.....	18,213 98	20,913 56		2,699 58

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR HEADQUARTERS.

The following statement shows that during the twelve months ending September 30, 1911, there has been issued from headquarters an average of 1,522 letters, circular letters, and packages per day, as follows:

Packages of supplies forwarded by express and post.....	3,657
Packages of literature and miscellaneous supplies for organizers and others.....	155,969
Official and circular letters in two-cent envelopes.....	64,772
Circulars and circular letters in one-cent envelopes.....	241,271
Total.....	465,669

ORGANIZING EXPENSES.

The following list of organizers, who were engaged in various States under salaries from the American Federation of Labor, shows that there has been expended for organizing work during the past twelve months $46,962.05. Of this amount, $2,020.15 was paid to district or volunteer organizers, in sums ranging from $5 to $50, for organizing central bodies and local trade or federal labor unions, and adjusting strikes and grievances of local unions affiliated directly or indirectly with the American Federation of Labor:

NAME OF ORGANIZERS.	STATE WHEREIN WORK WAS DONE.	Amount received.
1. Hugh Frayne.....	New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey.....	$3,225 63
2. Stuart Reid.....	Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, District of Columbia.....	3,118 38
3. J. D. Pierce.....	New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania.....	3,057 76
4. Cal Wyatt.....	Michigan, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New York.....	2,999 85
5. C. O. Young.....	Washington, Oregon.....	2,882 15
6. T. H. Flynn.....	Pennsylvania and Ohio.....	2,818 52
7. E. T. Flood.....	Ohio, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan.....	2,808 61
8. H. L. Elchelberger.....	Maryland, Pennsylvania, Delaware.....	2,703 28
9. W. E. Terry.....	Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, District of Columbia, South Carolina, Mississippi, Florida.....	2,594 00
10. J. A. Flett.....	British Columbia, Ontario, Quebec, Canada; New York.....	2,588 48
11. Jacob Tazelaar.....	New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire.....	2,384 26
12. J. J. Fitzpatrick.....	Illinois.....	1,896 00
13. M. G. Hamilton.....	Pennsylvania, Missouri, Florida, Colorado, District of Columbia, Washington, California, Oregon, Idaho.....	1,641 65
14. Santiago Iglesias.....	Porto Rico.....	1,561 00
15. Wm. Bork.....	Pennsylvania.....	1,096 10
16. Joseph Tytkoff.....	New York, New Jersey, Connecticut.....	985 00
17. C. A. Miles.....	New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts.....	818 45
18. F. H. McCarthy.....	Massachusetts.....	676 20
19. J. J. Cunningham.....	Massachusetts, Rhode Island.....	608 90
20. J. B. Lennon.....	Iowa, Illinois, Michigan.....	539 52
21. P. J. Shea.....	North Carolina, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia.....	480 30
22. J. D. Chubbuck.....	Minnesota.....	345 03
23. Arthur Hickland.....	New Jersey.....	314 00
24. Cornelius Ford.....	New York, New Jersey.....	240 98
25. C. D. Seals.....	District of Columbia.....	238 85
26. E. C. Davison.....	Virginia.....	182 55
27. O. C. Wilson.....	New Jersey, Iowa.....	169 33
28. Phillip Jago.....	New York, Vermont.....	158 26
29. F. M. Moody.....	Tennessee, Arkansas.....	158 24
30. S. A. Bramlette.....	Kansas.....	152 85
31. Abraham Shelnies.....	New York, Massachusetts.....	137 85
32. Jerome Jones.....	Georgia.....	133 13
33. H. M. Walker.....	Texas, Oklahoma.....	111 65
34. J. F. Anderson.....	Illinois, Kansas, Missouri.....	100 00
35. O. F. Nelson.....	Illinois, Minnesota, Indiana, Ohio.....	89 73
36. Frank Paquin.....	Pennsylvania.....	84 01
37. A. Bernard.....	New York.....	84 00
38. E. N. Nockels.....	Missouri.....	84 00
39. A. E. Ireland.....	Pennsylvania.....	80 55
40. M. M. Donoghue.....	Montana.....	80 00
41. R. P. Pettipiece.....	British Columbia, Canada.....	80 00
42. C. C. Zeigler.....	Oklahoma.....	80 00
43. J. O. Walsh.....	California.....	71 60
44. C. W. Woodman.....	Texas.....	68 50
45. F. L. Rist.....	Ohio.....	67 00
46. John Mitchell.....	Pennsylvania.....	66 00
47. G. B. Howley.....	Minnesota.....	64 80
48. J. E. Galligan.....	Pennsylvania.....	55 00
49. A. A. Roe.....	Kansas.....	50 00
	Paid to District Organizers in amounts less than $50.....	2,020 15
	Total.....	$46,962 05

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

LOCAL TRADE AND FEDERAL LABOR UNIONS.

On September 30th of this year we had 680 local trade and federal labor unions with a membership of 28,579 in good standing, and a defense fund of $133,782.34 to protect the members of these unions in case of strike or lockout. Many strikes that would have cost the American Federation of Labor a large sum were averted during the past year through the assistance of organizers of the American Federation of Labor in adjusting the differences with employers and securing conditions desired by the unions.

DEFENSE FUND.

The following is an itemized statement of amounts received from and paid to our Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions, giving average membership, number of weeks benefit, and the amount received by each organization during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1911:

RECEIPTS.

Receipts from Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions for Defense Fund..... $16,010 75

EXPENSES.

	Average membership.	Weeks.	Amount.
Plate and Sheet Glass Glaziers, No. 12836, New York, N. Y.	104+	7	$2,920 00
Bed Spring Makers, No. 12103, New York, N. Y.	29+	5	598 00
*Tobacco Strippers, No. 12722, Bayamon, P. R.	18	6	312 00
Readers' Protective, No. 12841, Tampa, Fla.	25	2	200 00
Banders' Protective, No. 12860, Caguas, P. R.	6	6	144 00
Ladies' Felt and Straw Hat Workers, No. 12815, Boston, Mass	5	1	20 00
Total.....			$4,192 00

Returned and redeposited in Defense Fund:

Tobacco Strippers, No. 12722..... $168 00

RECAPITULATION.

Balance on hand in Defense Fund, September 30, 1910.....	$121,963 59
Received in Defense Fund.....	16,010 75
	$137,974 34
Paid out of Defense Fund.....	4,192 00
	$133,782 34

Balance in Defense Fund for Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions, September 30, 1911.....

There was received into the Defense Fund $16,010.75 and paid out $4,192, thus adding a small but substantial amount to the fund already on hand. The fund is large enough to give ample protection to the members provided a great number are not on strike at any given time. It is probable that the strike of the Machinists Helpers and Laborers on the Illinois Central and Harriman lines, which was called on September 30, may be of sufficient duration to materially reduce the defense fund for the local trade and federal labor unions. Even if such is the case, it will demonstrate clearly to the members the necessity for such a fund and the great assistance it is to maintain their struggle until such time as an adjustment is reached with the representatives of these railroads.

The following table will show that since the time the fund was inaugurated in 1902 up to and including this fiscal year there has been received into the fund $207,706.70 and paid out $73,984.36:

	Receipts.	Expenses.	Balance on hand.
1902.....	$20,423 00		$20,423 00
1903.....	49,663 40	$6,690 00	63,396 40
1904.....	33,722 55	15,972 00	81,146 95
1905.....	16,966 63	8,197 18	94,916 40
1906.....	15,556 02	13,643 40	96,829 02
1907.....	17,143 65	10,893 78	108,078 59
1908.....	14,327 20	12,124 00	106,282 09
1909.....	11,383 05	788 00	115,877 14
1910.....	12,570 45	6,484 00	121,963 59
1911.....	16,010 75	4,192 00	133,782 34
	$207,706 70	$73,984 36

CHARTERS REVOKED, SUSPENDED, SURRENDERED, DISBANDED, JOINED INTERNATIONAL UNIONS, AND RESTORED.

INTERNATIONAL UNIONS. Suspended 2; International Union of Shipwrights and Joiners, membership 908; International Union of Woodsmen and Saw Mill Workers, membership 600. Revoked: International Union of Flour and Cereal Mill Employees, membership 819. Surrendered 2: on condition that local unions would receive charters direct from the American Federation of Labor: Fur Workers' International Union, membership 159; Chainmakers' International Union, 200.

Charters have been issued by the American Federation of Labor to local unions of Flour and Cereal Mill Employees, Fur Workers, and Chainmakers, whose total membership is 596, being 78 less than the membership of the three international unions when their charters were taken up.

STATE BRANCHES. Disbanded, 1: South Carolina State Federation of Labor.

CENTRAL BODIES. Revoked, 8; disbanded, 10; suspended, 43; charters restored, 4.

LOCAL TRADE UNIONS. Disbanded, 24; suspended, 110; joined international, 1; merged with other unions, 4.

FEDERAL LABOR UNIONS. Disbanded, 19; joined international unions, 2; suspended, 60.

VOTING STRENGTH OF FEDERATION, 1897 TO 1911.

Year.	No. Votes.	Year.	No. Votes.	Year.	No. Votes.
1897.....	2,747	1902.....	10,705	1907.....	16,425
1898.....	2,881	1903.....	15,238	1908.....	16,892
1899.....	3,632	1904.....	17,363	1909.....	15,890
1900.....	5,737	1905.....	16,338	1910.....	16,737
1901.....	8,240	1906.....	15,621	1911.....	18,698

MEMBERSHIP.

A résumé of the growth of the American Federation of Labor, numerically, during the past thirty-one years can not but encourage the trade unionists to redouble their efforts to educate, organize, and federate the wage-workers of the world. The growth of the American Federation of Labor from 1881 to 1893 was gradual. During that time it increased from 50,000 to 275,000, and remained about that number up to 1899. In 1899 it reached very nearly 350,000; in 1900 it passed the 500,000 mark; in 1901 750,000; in 1902 it passed the million mark, and in 1903 very nearly reached the million and a half point, and in 1904 shot up above the million and a half, reaching a membership of 1,676,200. Thus the growth of the American Federation of Labor from 1899 up to and including 1904 was phenomenal. This marked increase in membership could not occur other than by organizations being formed rapidly within a short period, and as a natural consequence it must be expected that in adjusting the membership of the unions the membership must decrease somewhat from the high-water mark which it reached while the organization wave held sway.

There was a decrease in the membership in 1905 and 1906 from the high-water mark of 1904. This decrease was almost entirely caused by internal strife which led to secession and a number of ill-advised and unsuccessful strikes of a few international organizations.

During 1907 and 1908 the membership climbed up over 1,500,000 and receded again to a little below the 1,500,000 mark, when the tide again changed, and in 1910 it passed the 1,500,000 mark, and this year the increase in the membership of the international organizations and the addition of the 51,300 which came with the affiliation of the Western Federation of Miners, forced the average paid-up and reported membership of the international organizations to 1,761,836, which is an increase of 190,723 over the membership of last year, and 85,636 members over the high-water mark of 1904.

That the membership of the International Unions is steadily on the increase is indicated by the fact that the paid-up and reported membership of the directly affiliated local unions and international organizations for the month of September of this year is 1,768,614, which indicates that notwithstanding the hostile forces that are working against the labor unions, that the coming year will show an increase over the membership reported upon this year.

The following is the average membership reported or paid upon for the past fifteen years:

Year.	Membership.	Year.	Membership.
1897.....	264,825	1905.....	1,494,300
1898.....	278,016	1906.....	1,454,200
1899.....	348,422	1907.....	1,538,970
1900.....	548,521	1908.....	1,596,886
1901.....	787,537	1909.....	1,482,872
1902.....	1,024,599	1910.....	1,662,112
1903.....	1,466,800	1911.....	1,761,836
1904.....	1,676,200

So that the delegates and the membership at large may, at a glance, realize the marvelous growth in membership of the American Federation of Labor, I have prepared a chart, to indicate the membership for each year since 1881, up to and including 1911—thirty-one years. The column for 1911 has passed over the 1,750,000 mark, and has started on its way upward to the 2,000,000 mark, which I feel sure will be reached within a few years.

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

UNION LABELS.

There are now 58 labels and 10 cards issued by the following organizations, which have been indorsed by the American Federation of Labor:

ORGANIZATIONS USING LABELS.

American Federation of Labor.	Glass Workers.	Papermakers.
Bakers and Confectioners.	Glove Workers.	Photo-Engravers.
Bill Posters and Billers.	Grinders and Finishers, Pocket Knife Blade.	Piano and Organ Workers.
Boilermakers.	Hatters.	Plate Printers.
Blacksmiths.	Horseshoers.	Powder Workers.
Bookbinders.	Jewelry Workers.	Pressmen, Printing.
Boot and Shoe Makers.	Lathers.	Print Cutters.
Brewery Workmen.	Laundry Workers.	Sawsmiths.
Brickmakers.	Leather Workers.	Shingle Weavers.
Broommakers.	Leather Workers on Horse Goods.	Slate Workers.
Brushmakers.	Lithographers.	Stove Mounters.
Carpenters and Joiners, Brotherhood.	Machine Printers and Color Mixers.	Tailors.
Carriage and Wagon Workers.	Machinists.	Textile Workers.
Carvers, Wood.	Marble Workers.	Tip Printers.
Cigarmakers.	Metal Polishers.	Tobacco Workers.
Cloth Hat and Cap Makers.	Metal Workers, Sheet.	Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers.
Coopers.	Molders.	Typographical.
Engravers, Watch-case.	Painters.	Upholsterers.
Garment Workers, United.		Weavers, Wire.
Garment Workers, Ladies.		Wood Workers.

ORGANIZATIONS USING CARDS.

Actors.	Firemen, Stationary.	Musicians.
Barbers.	Hotel & Restaurant Employees.	Stage Employees, Theatrical.
Clerks.	Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.	Teamsters.
Engineers, Steam

The followings crafts and callings are using the American Federation of Labor label: Badge, Banner, Regalia, Button, Novelty and Lodge Paraphernalia Workers, Bottlers (Soda and Mineral Water), Canvas Gloves, Coffee, Spice, and Baking Powder Workers, Nail (Horse-shoe) Workers, Neckwear Cutters and Makers, Paper Box Makers, Suspendermakers, Garter, Arm Band and Hose Supporter Makers, Flour and Cereal Mill Employees, Soapmakers, Turpentine Workers.

CONCLUSION.

In conclusion, I desire to express, through the delegates present, my appreciation of the splendid efforts put forth by the organizers, and the assistance and encouragement received from the officers of the international organizations, and from my colleagues of the Executive Council.

Respectfully submitted.

FRANK MORRISON,
Secretary, American Federation of Labor.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, Greeting:

At the close of, this, my twenty-second year as Treasurer of the Federation, I submit my annual report, with a high appreciation of the favors that organized labor has for so many years conferred upon me. I have served as best I knew, with no object in view except to be helpful in promoting the social, intellectual, and industrial uplift of the wage-workers of our great continent. The minds of the world's workers are full of unrest and discontent, and if "righteous discontent be indeed the mother of progress," then, indeed, may we be hopeful for the future; for surely the righteousness of the discontent of the working classes with the restrictions and impositions they so unjustly have to bear is not open to question. Children of tender years are still to be found in industrial life. Women are still exploited, simply because they are women and have to do a man's work for a wage far below that paid to men for the same employment. Thousands and tens of thousands still work more than eight hours a day, depriving them of opportunities of pleasure and of home life that are essential to the production of the best citizenship.

Within our jurisdiction, wage-workers beyond number are paid less than a living wage, and because of this character growth is made largely impossible.

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

The industrial world does not yet understand and appreciate the truth of the trade union's contention that no industry has a right to live that pays less than a living wage; and by a living wage we mean not merely existence. We mean childhood, womanhood, and manhood of the best and highest type. These things, as well as many others, cause the general discontent and unrest. We are proud of the fact that our movement has been the great factor in stirring the masses to think and then to become discontented with industrial injustice, and then, by means of the practical methods of the trade union, work and fight for their abolition, and when I look back over the period that I have served as your Treasurer, I am proud of what has already been accomplished, and when I look forward, am filled with hope and confidence that the future has in store victories and progress greater than any that the past has known. This discontent and unrest, caused largely by the injustices perpetrated upon the toilers, finds a safe and evolutionary means of relief in the trade union; there they find the force that has made their burden lighter; in it they find that practical brotherhood of man which is ever working for human uplift. Here we find a field of effort that produces results that all can see and know to be permanent and effective. We extend to all men and women of labor a cordial invitation to join with us in the trade union for the gradual, but sure, emancipation of labor. To you, one and all—officers, delegates, and members at home—I extend my regards and my assurance that during the years that may still remain to me, I shall give, as my judgment and conscience dictate, the best service of which I am capable to the great principles of right and justice as promulgated by our Federation.

I herewith submit a statement of receipts and expenses for the year ending September 30, 1911.

INCOME.		EXPENSE.
Received of Secretary Morrison:		Paid warrants:
1910.		1910.
October 31 .....	$14,271 08	October 31 .....	$12,624 73
November 30 .....	10,061 10	November 30 .....	15,378 14
December 31 .....	16,023 43	December 31 .....	17,499 91
1911.		1911.
January 31 .....	14,228 96	January 31 .....	16,412 81
February 28 .....	12,277 12	February 28 .....	17,671 82
March 31 .....	14,113 72	March 31 .....	12,771 34
April 30 .....	16,162 62	April 30 .....	17,368 16
May 31 .....	13,894 85	May 31 .....	15,163 64
June 30 .....	13,700 62	June 30 .....	12,681 72
July 31 .....	13,133 84	July 31 .....	12,658 09
August 31 .....	14,859 46	August 31 .....	11,140 24
September 30 .....	29,971 89	September 30 .....	14,854 48
Oct. 1, 1910, balance in hands of Treas. .	180,914 96
Total funds .....	$363,108 64	Total expenses .....	$175,624 08

Total funds .....	$363,108 64
Deduct total expenses .....	175,624 08

Leaves in hands of Treasurer .....	$187,579 56
Leaves in hands of Secretary .....	2,000 00

Total funds, September 30, 1911 .....	$189,579 56
---------------------------------------	--------------

The funds of the Federation in possession of the Treasurer are deposited in the following banks at Bloomington, Ill. All certificates draw 3 per cent interest; the amount of interest collected during the year and forwarded to Secretary Morrison was $4,972.10.

In Peoples Bank on certificates .....	$30,737 24
In State National Bank on certificates .....	45,000 00
In First National Bank on certificates .....	35,000 00
In German-American Bank on certificates .....	25,000 00
In McLean County Bank on certificates .....	30,000 00
In McLean County Bank subject to check .....	21,842 32

Total funds in hands of Treasurer .....	$187,579 56
---	--------------

Amount of funds handled during my twenty-two years incumbency .....	$2,890,980 56
---	----------------

Trusting that the performance of my duties as Treasurer will meet with your approval, I remain,

Fraternally yours,

JOHN B. LENNON,
Treasurer, American Federation of Labor.

BLOOMINGTON, ILL., October 1, 1911.

Second Day—Tuesday Morning Session

The Convention was called to order at 9:30 a. m., Tuesday, November 14th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees: Conway, Smith (Fred), Dubinsky, Williams (John), Roach, Price, Lewis (T. L.), McCullough (E. S.), Hedrick, Dold, Gallagher (John J.), Taber, Commons, Gavlak, Coffey, Kelly (William E.), Hurley, Conner (T. J.), Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Schneider (John), Hobbs, Wendt, Davis, Fuller, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Creamer, Donnelly, Saum, Schaub.

President Gompers stated that an error had been made in the announcement of the appointment of committees, and stated if there were no objections the name of John Mitchell would appear in the permanent proceedings as chairman of the Committee on Organization, instead of chairman of the Committee on Local and Federated Bodies.

Delegate Moorhouse, Secretary of the Committee on Credentials, reported as follows:

On the protest of Andrew J. Kennedy, President of the Heat and Frost Insulators and Asbestos Workers' International Association, against the seating of Thomas J. McNamara as a delegate from that organization, the committee recommended that the protest be entertained and that Andrew J. Kennedy be seated with 8 votes.

On motion of Delegate Carey (D. A.) the recommendation of the committee was concurred in.

The committee recommended that John J. Mallin, International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers be seated, with 28 votes.

On motion of Delegate Carey (D. A.) the recommendation of the committee was concurred in.

The committee recommended that Andrew J. Furuseth, of the International Seamen's Union of America, be seated, with 80 votes.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was concurred in.

Delegate Johannsen—I understand action was deferred on my credential and that it was laid over until I could be here.

Delegate Tobin (J. F.)—I want to know whether Brother Johannsen can tell this Convention whether the local union of Shoe Workers illegally suspended from the San Francisco Labor Council will be reinstated at once?

Delegate Gallagher (A. J.)—Two weeks ago the union referred to was notified to send its delegates, and was given full re-affiliation with the Labor Council of San Francisco.

Delegate Tobin (J. F.)—That is satisfactory. I move the seating of Delegate Johannsen as a delegate from that body. (Seconded and carried.)

Secretary Morrison read the following telegrams, which were made part of the proceedings of the Convention:

"Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 13, 1911.

"Frank Morrison, Secretary American Federation of Labor, Convention Hall, Atlanta, Ga.:

"The Brotherhood of Railway Clerks extends to the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled its congratulations upon rapid growth made during the year, wishes for it a most harmonious and profitable gathering and assures the delegates of its regrets that, due to the fact it is fighting to maintain the American citizenship of its members on the Illinois Central Railroad, it cannot be represented at this Convention.

"R. E. FISHER,
"Grand Sec'y-Treas."

"Butte, Montana, Nov. 13, 1911.

"Frank Morrison, Secretary A. F. of L., New Kimball Hotel, Atlanta, Ga.:

"Organized labor of this county and state extends congratulations to Thirty-first Annual Convention in session assembled, and urges consideration of Butte for next convention. Thirty-five thousand union men and women to welcome you.

"R. M. PARTELOW,
"Sec'y. S. F. of L."

"Omaha, Neb., Nov. 13, 1911.

"Samuel Gompers, President American Federation of Labor, Atlanta, Ga.

"Personal congratulations. We trust your convention will act conservatively for the best interest of the wage-earners and the industrial and public utility enterprises of the nation. The laborer should be equitably compensated for his toil. Accept best wishes.

"J. C. ROOT,
"President Woodmen of the World."

"Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 9, 1911.

"Frank Morrison, Secretary Convention

American Federation of Labor, Atlanta, Ga.

"Brothers, Greeting:

"The Sacramento Strike Committee of the System Federation send their best wishes in your deliberations on the questions before you. Trusting that harmony will prevail and that you will take speedy action on resolution sent you regarding the strike on the Harriman lines.

"Fraternally yours,

"Strike Committee."

"New York, Nov. 13, 1911.

"Convention Hall, American Federation of Labor, Samuel Gompers, President, Atlanta, Ga.

"Best wishes for successful Convention. Three cheers for the Labor movement under the banner of the American Federation of Labor. Remember our innocent McNamara brothers.

"District Council No. 1, New York,

"J. HARRIS LAVNER,

"Secretary United Garment Workers of America."

"Cleveland, O., Nov. 13, 1911.

"Frank Morrison, Secretary American Federation of Labor, Convention Hall, Atlanta, Ga.

"Extend greetings. May your labors be pleasant and all legislation be for the best interest of organized labor throughout the country. With hope that the efforts for freedom and liberty McNamara brothers will be with success.

"T. HASKINS,

"General Auditor United Garment Workers of America."

Report of Committee on Rules and Order of Business.

Delegate Carey (J. T.), Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Greetings:

We, your Committee on rules and order of business, beg leave to submit the following report:

We recommend the adoption of the following rules for the government of the Convention.

Rule 1. The Convention shall be called to order at 9:30 a. m., and remain in session until 12:30. Convene at 2 p. m. and remain in session until 5:30 p. m., except on Saturday, on which day the session shall be from 9:30 a. m. to 12:30.

Rule 2—If a delegate, while speaking be called to order, he shall, at the request of the chair, take his seat until the question of order is decided.

Rule 3—Should two or more delegates rise to speak at the same time, the chair shall decide who is entitled to the floor.

Rule 4—No delegate shall interrupt another in his remarks except it be to call him to a point of order.

Rule 5—A delegate shall not speak more than twice upon a question until all who wish to speak shall have had an opportunity to do so.

Rule 6—A delegate shall not speak more than twice on the same question without permission from the Convention.

Rule 7—Speeches shall be limited to ten minutes, but the time of speaking may be extended by vote of the Convention.

Rule 8—A motion shall not be open for discussion until it has been seconded and stated from the chair.

Rule 9—At the request of five members, the mover of a motion shall be required to reduce it to writing.

Rule 10—When a question is pending before the Convention, no motion shall be in order, except to adjourn, to refer, for the previous question, to postpone indefinitely, to postpone for a certain time, to divide or amend, which motions shall have precedence in the order named.

Rule 11—Motions to lay on the table shall not be debatable, except as limited by Roberts' Rules of Order.

Rule 12—A motion to reconsider shall not be entertained unless made by a delegate who voted in the majority, and shall receive a majority vote.

Rule 13—That the reports of committees shall be subject to amendments and substitutes from the floor of the Convention, the same as other motions and resolutions.

Rule 14—Any delegate failing to present his card within 30 minutes after the Convention is called to order shall be marked absent, but in the event of unavoidable absence he may so report to the Secretary and be marked present.

Rule 15—It shall require at least 30 members to move the previous question.

Rule 16—All resolutions shall bear the signature of the introducer and the title of the organization he represents and shall be submitted in duplicate.

Rule 17—No motion or resolution shall be voted upon until the mover or introducer has had a chance to speak, if he or she so desires.

Rule 18—No resolutions shall be received after Thursday's session, November 16, without unanimous consent of the Convention.

Rule 19—When a roll-call vote has been taken, and all delegates or delegations present have had the opportunity to record their votes, the ballot shall be declared closed.

Rule 20—When a roll-call ballot has been ordered, no adjournment shall take place until the result has been announced.

Rule 21—Roberts' Rules shall be the guide on all matters not herein provided.

Rule 22—The main body of the hall shall be reserved for delegates.

Order of Business.

1—Reading Minutes of previous session, which will be dispensed with unless called for.

2—Report of Committee on Credentials.

3—Report of Officers.

4—Report of Regular Committees.

5—Report of Special Committees.

6—Unfinished Business.

7—New Business.

8—Election of Officers.

9—Selection of next meeting place.

10—Good of the Federation.

11—Adjournment.

Respectfully submitted,
T. A. RICKERT, Chairman;
J. T. CAREY, Secretary;
JEROME JONES,
JOHN SULLIVAN,
WM. H. O'BRIEN,
PETER HASSENPFUE,
GEORGE H. ULLRICH,
WM. J. PFLEGER,
D. G. BIGGS,
T. J. CAROLAN,
J. W. BRIDWELL,
M. M. DONOGHUE,
JOHN J. GRANEY,
WILLIAM A. DAVIS,
ROYAL DANO.

In the report of the Committee as read Rule 16 did not provide for the introduction of resolutions in duplicate. On motion of Vice-President Duncan the rule was amended by adding "and shall be submitted in duplicate."

The report of the Committee was adopted as amended.

Vice-President Duncan, for the Executive Council, read the following report:

REPORT OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL, ATLANTA, GA., NOVEMBER 14, 1911.

To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor:

GREETING: We, your Executive Council, following the custom of years, submit to you herein our annual report for the fiscal year of 1911.

The Executive Council held meetings during the year as follows:

At St. Louis on Sunday and Monday immediately after the adjournment of the St. Louis Convention:

At headquarters in January, 12 days.

At headquarters in June, 6 days.

At headquarters in October, 6 days.

At Atlanta since our arrival here.

Our president submitted by mail to the Executive Council during the year, 93 documents, dealing with various matters, some of the most important of which we shall make part of this report.

No doubt it will be necessary for meetings of the Executive Council to be held from time to time during the sessions of this convention. Each year the work of the annual conventions seems to increase in volume and to become more engrossing, the necessity for close attendance upon committee meetings more urgent. In view, therefore, of these facts, it is hoped that wherever and whenever possible matters requiring our consideration will be held in abeyance until our meeting immediately after the adjournment of this convention.

New Unions Chartered—Organization.

The reports already made to you by our President and Secretary have indicated in detail the number of unions, national, international, state, city central, directly affiliated local and federal, which have been chartered during the year, and what has been the gain thereby to our Federation. In some instances the international unions have temporarily disbanded owing to adverse conditions in the trade, the locals becoming directly affiliated to the A. F. of L. until such time as circumstances may so change as to warrant the reorganization of the international. In one instance it was found advisable upon investigation to withdraw the charter of an international union, that of the Flour and Cereal Mill Workers. This was done in conformity with instructions given by you at our St. Louis convention.

Where an international union has from inherent weakness disbanded, the local unions are directly chartered by the A. F. of L. without cost to them, and where theretofore they used an international union label, the label of the A. F. of L. is granted. Under the stimulus of direct affiliation the membership of such disbanded international unions has increased and we entertain the hope of an early restoration of such international unions.

Whenever and wherever possible during the year, representatives of the A. F. of L., attended the conventions of international unions, as well as the annual meetings of the State Federations of Labor.

It should further be stated that efforts were continued during the year to bring about the affiliation of the Bricklayers and Masons' International Union with the American Federation of Labor. It was contemplated that a representative of the Executive Council should attend the convention of that organization, but we were advised that no convention would be held this year.

A representative of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association was present at one of the sessions of our meeting in January in regard to the matter of the affiliation of that body with the American Federation of Labor.

Organizer David Kreyling of St. Louis attended the Convention of the National Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association on January 16, with the object in view of placing before that convention the advantages of affiliation with the A. F. of L. as per Resolution No. 135 of the St. Louis Convention. Although the Convention Committee, to which the matter was referred, reported favorably on the proposition to affiliate, yet it was negatived by the convention.

Secretary Morrison attended the Convention of the Masters, Mates and Pilots and explained to that body the laws of the American Federation of Labor and the relationship between it and affiliated international unions.

We recommend that efforts to secure the affiliation of these two organizations be continued during the coming year.

We have also endeavored to bring about the affiliation of the National Association of Letter Carriers with the A. F. of L.

The application of the Post Office Clerks for extension of jurisdiction so as to include the letter carriers did not commend itself to us as being feasible, advantageous, or practical.

Our endeavors along this line should not cease until every unaffiliated international union and every wage-earner of the North American continent have thrown in their lot with our great American Federation of Labor.

Organizers.

The special corps of organizers continued from year to year rendered valuable services which have been supplemented by that of the organizers who were appointed either permanently or temporarily during the year.

Requests and recommendations for the appointment of special organizers have been many. Necessarily in view of the very limited funds available for such work, it was not possible to comply in every instance.

We recommend the continuation of the organization work as far as warranted by the state of the federation funds. We further recommend to our international unions and to all organized labor, that every effort be made to bring within the beneficent fold of our movement all workers who are as yet unidentified with the unions of their respective trades and callings.

In view of the constantly increasing demand for the assistance of special organizers, the extension of special organization work and the need for funds with which to conduct not only this work, but the fulfillment of our great uplift mission, we further recommend an increase in per capita tax from one-half cent to two-thirds cent per member.

Building Trades Department—U. B. of Carpenters—Steam Fitters.

The Building Trades Department of the A. F. of L. at its convention in St. Louis just after the close of the A. F. of L. Convention, suspended from representation therein the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers.

At our meeting in January, the officers of the Buildings Trades Department made application for the revocation of the charter of affiliation with the A. F. of L. of these two organizations. Action upon the application was deferred until our June meeting, President Gompers in the meantime, being authorized by us to co-operate with the officers of the Building Trades Department for the purpose of endeavoring to bring about an adjustment of the trouble with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and the amalgamation of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers with the United Association of Plumbers. Efforts along this line, however, were without success.

At our meeting in June, the following letter was received:

"Washington, D. C., June 13, 1911.
"Mr. Samuel Gompers, President,
American Federation of Labor,
Washington, D. C.

"Dear Sir and Brother:

"Pursuant to the instructions of the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department, I herewith transmit to you for submission to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor the following statement and request:

The Building Trades Department, American Federation of Labor, in convention in St. Louis, November 28th to December 5th, inclusive, approved a recommendation made by the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department of which the following is a copy:

"That the grievance against the International Steam Fitters and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners be referred to the coming convention with a recommendation that, if the organizations still refuse to obey the mandates of the Tampa Convention, they be suspended from the Department. It is further recommended that like action be taken by the A. F. of L."

The substance of the foregoing action is that of the unions named therein failed to comply with the decisions reached by the Tampa Convention of the Building Trades Department, and for such failure or refusal as the case may be, the unions in question were suspended by the Department and like action requested by the American Federation of Labor.

As you are aware, this subject-matter was transmitted to you and by you to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor on the occasion of your last meeting, but as we understand the matter, sanction of the recommendation has not been given; instead a proposition in the case of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers to amalgamate with the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters, and Steam Fitters' Helpers has issued, and in the case of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance, a conference was proposed.

The result is that more than four months have elapsed without any definite action having been taken, which in large measure has rendered the work of the Department ineffective, causing in addition distress among the several locals and a willful and deliberate manifestation to ignore the subsequent decisions rendered by the Executive Council of the Department, especially in the case of minor jurisdictional disputes. This action is regrettably working great havoc on the welfare and progress of the Department, which to say the least augurs no good for the future; indeed unless some definite, positive stand is taken to uphold the decisions of the department in the respect outlined in the foregoing quotation, then the affiliated organizations might just as well consent to abandon the effort of protection that the Department in reality carries with it through the present form of organization; so much so is this the case that it becomes absolutely essential, indeed imperative, that we have a decision from your council forthwith, upholding the action of the St. Louis Convention of the Building Trades Department with respect to the two organizations herewith named.

There are before the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department at this time several questions of an intricate nature that of necessity should be settled once and for all, and that will redound to the credit, strength and prestige of the Department, but as before stated it is useless to proceed in these matters unless we are to have a confirmation by your council of the action taken by the St. Louis Convention in the case previously referred to.

We therefore earnestly appeal to you to give the cases complained of the attention they deserve without delay and render a positive and final opinion in the premises, so that the future course of the Department may be determined.

Anxiously awaiting the same on behalf of the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department, I have the honor to remain,

Fraternally yours,
(Signed) Wm. J. SPENCER,
Secretary-Treasurer,
Building Trades Dept."

President Short and Secretary Spencer presented the letter in person, requesting that definite action be taken thereon. We gave much time, consideration and discussion to the subject and thereafter we sent the following reply, embodying therein the decision of the Executive Council relative to not only this but kindred matters involved:

Washington, D. C., June 17, 1911.
Mr. William J. Spencer, Secretary,
Building Trades Dept., A. F. of L.,
Ouray Building, Washington, D. C.
Dear Sir and Brother:
The letter which you at the direction of the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department, A. F. of L., handed me, was submitted to the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. for its consideration. As you know, at a joint meeting of the Executive Council of the Department with the Executive Council of the A. F. of L., the subject matter of the requests contained in the letter, as well as those questions which led up to the present situation, was gone over in detail, at length, and comprehensively, and therefore much of that which was orally conveyed as the expression of our views upon the matter is not necessary to be recounted here.

We have, however, given further attention to the laws of the A. F. of L., and of the Department, and have taken into consideration the present situation of the Department, and its local councils, as well as the unsatisfactory conditions which obtain in the building trades in many centers of the country; and with all we have had in mind the desire to be helpful to the Building Trades Department for its success and perpetuity.

At the St. Louis Convention of the Building Trades Department, November-December, 1910, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers of America were suspended from the Department, and these international unions are not now a part thereof. The action of the Department in suspending these two international unions carried with it also the request that they be suspended by the American Federation of Labor, and your Executive Council through you has made that request.

In connection therewith, we desire to express our belief that to carry into effect the advice, conclusions, or decisions in the Building Trades Department and in the local building trades councils, it is not only desirable but most helpful that the organizations affiliated to the Department, and to its councils, shall yield a ready compliance thereto, of course having in mind that such advice, conclusions and decisions are in conformity with fundamental principles of labor and of the organic laws and principles of the American Federation of Labor.

Your Executive Council asks the American Federation of Labor to suspend therefrom the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers of America. In connection therewith your attention is called to Article 9, Section 12, of the Constitution of the A. F. of L., which reads as follows:

"The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor shall only have power to revoke the charter of an affiliated national or international union when the revocation has been ordered by a two-thirds' majority of a regular Convention of the American Federation of Labor, by a roll-call vote."

You will readily observe that under this law the Executive Council has no power to suspend an international union,

(which carries with it the revocation of its charter). The fullest limit to which our authority extends is to make such report and recommendation to the forthcoming convention of the A. F. of L. at Atlanta, November, 1911, and this course we shall pursue, as in our judgment the circumstances warrant, with the hope that our respective executive councils and conventions may work out an adjustment of this and similar contentions which will tend to retain and cement still more the bonds of unity and fraternity of all our affiliated organizations and members as fully in harmony as the movement in which we are engaged will permit.

We present to your consideration the fact, which the history of the labor movement demonstrates beyond cavil or doubt, that to revoke charters, suspend organizations, enforce compulsory obedience to edicts and decisions, have invariably led to a rebellious spirit resulting in bitter conflict, relentless antagonisms, and disintegration and dissolution. While realizing the necessity that discipline in the labor movement must be observed at least to some degree, yet this fact is self-evident; that the best, most enduring and advantageous discipline in the organized labor movement is that discipline which comes with time and experience and is suggested and later self-imposed. It is something not yet generally understood how perfectly safe freedom is, and this truism applies to the administration of the organized labor movement as much as it does to any government on the face of the earth.

Imbued with this experience and conception, we have great apprehensions of the advisability of the suspension or revocation of charters of international unions based upon the contentions over trade jurisdictional disputes. We submit that such contentions can better be adjusted by the contending parties being in affiliation with the general organizations of labor than by being in enforced suspension with their charters revoked.

It is a truism that a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and it is also true that so long as the chain is retained intact, even its weakest link may be strengthened. In the effort to maintain the chain of unity among the rank and file of the organized labor movement if it is unwise to cast aside a weak link, how much more injurious is it to cast out the stronger?

The cause which has brought about this contention, is first, the jurisdictional dispute between the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance. The Tampa convention of the Building Trades Department decided that the work in dispute should come under the jurisdiction of the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance. That decision was confirmed by the department convention at St. Louis, 1910. Upon the U. B. of Carpenters declining to yield obedience to the decision, it was suspended from the department. It is not our purpose to here discuss the merits of the award. We find the situation as it is; that the U. E. of Carpenters is now unattached to the Building Trades department, where it properly belongs, and we are constrained to repeat the thought we have already expressed, that enforced compulsory obedience to edicts and decisions has never proven either advantageous or successful, and that suspension of international unions and revocation of charters are not calculated to harmonize existing differences, nor bring the members of an international union so suspended into a better frame of mind in order that an award may be accepted by them. We urge upon the consideration of your department that in any event the opportunity to secure compliance with the expressed judgment of duly constituted authorities in the labor movement, is increased when the international unions most vitally interested are in affiliation and fellowship with the department of which they are a material part.

We, therefore, recommend that the Building Trades Department, A. F. of L., at its first opportunity, reinstate the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America in full affiliation to the Department; that in the meantime and thereafter, every effort be exerted by that organization, the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance, the Building Trades Department, and the American Federation of Labor, by correspondence, conferences, and by every moral suasion within our power, to bring about an adjustment of the matters in dispute to the satisfaction and advantage of the organizations primarily in interest. We assure the Department that the good offices of the executive council and of the American Federation of Labor will be continued to be exerted and renewed to assist the Department and the organizations involved to effect a solution of the trade jurisdictional dispute between the two organizations.

In the second case, that is, in the controversy between the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers, of the United States and Canada, and the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers of America, we recognize a matter of dispute entirely different in character as compared with the dispute between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance; a dispute which has existed for years, to the detriment not only to the immediate organizations involved, but to the entire building industry. This dispute has passed through all the channels of mediation, arbitration, investigation and decisions by the American Federation of Labor, and by the Building Trades Department, without satisfactory results. These investigations, arbitration awards and decisions, have been uniformly to the effect that there ought not to exist two distinctive, separate organizations in the pipe fitting trades; that the best results to the workers in the industry would be best conserved by all being united in the one general organization of these trades, namely, the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers, of the United States and Canada, for general purposes, yet each branch of the pipe fitting trade to have as much autonomous administration as is consistent with the general interest of all.

The views which we have expressed to you orally, the opinions expressed herein, and the recommendations which we submit to your Department and to the two organizations named, we earnestly hope will be taken into favorable consideration and prompt action by all, and will form the basis of our report and recommendations to the Atlanta convention of the American Federation of Labor.

While it should not be necessary, yet we do take advantage of this opportunity to again assure you, and through you, the Building Trades Department, and the great rank and file of labor, that we will go to the limit of our opportunity, authority and power in supporting your department in doing the best possible for the general betterment of the organizations and members in the Building Trades.

With earnest wishes for the greatest success, we have the honor to remain,

Yours fraternally,

SAMUEL GOMPERS, President.
 JAMES DUNCAN, First Vice-President.
 JOHN MITCHELL, Second Vice-President.
 JAMES O'CONNELL, Third Vice-President.
 D. A. HAYES, Fourth Vice-President.
 WILLIAM D. HUBER, Fifth Vice-President.
 JOS. F. VALENTINE, Sixth Vice-President.
 JOHN R. ALPINE, Seventh Vice-President.
 H. B. PERHAM, Eighth Vice-President.
 FRANK MORRISON, Secretary.
 JOHN B. LENNON, Treasurer.

Secretary Spencer informed us that the matter would be submitted to the executive board of the Building Trades Department. He then, on July 7th, wrote President Gompers as follows:

July 7, 1911.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, President American Federation of Labor, Ouray Building, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir and Brother:

By direction of the executive council of the Building Trades Department, I write to inform you that the decision of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in the case of the request of the Building Trades Department for the suspension of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers and of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, was laid before the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department at its session in the city of Indianapolis, June 29, 1911, and after mature consideration, the opinion was reached that since the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department is not vested with authority to override or subordinate a decision of the Building Trades Department rendered in convention assembled, and again since the constitution of the department does not confer powers upon the Executive Council to reinstate an organization that has surrendered its membership because of refusal to comply with the laws of the organization, unless the law shall have been conformed to, the Executive Council finds itself without power to reinstate the United Brotherhood of Carpenters, and Joiners in accordance with the decision of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor.

You are, therefore, advised that the decision as rendered by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor will be referred to the next convention of the Building Trades Department, which will convene at Atlanta, Ga., November, 1911.

Trusting that this will be satisfactory, I am,

Fraternally yours,

(Signed) WM. J. SPENCER,
Secretary-Treasurer, Building Trades Department.

The two subjects brought to the attention of the Executive Council from the Building Trades Department are not similar in any particular excepting that both organizations were suspended by the Building Trades Department.

In the contention involving the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, it was an instance of jurisdictional dispute between two affiliated organizations which, excepting in this instance, had no other direct trade relationship, the one to the other, than one building trade has to other building trades.

The relationship of affiliated building trades to the American Federation of Labor and Departments is dual, and therefore in fundamental law, suspension of charters primarily rests with the American Federation of Labor. This, and the fact that in the American Federation of Labor revocation of charters has not been considered a cure for jurisdictional contentions, prompts our recommendation to this convention that the application of the Building Trades Department to revoke the charter of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners be not concurred in, and instead that the Building Trades Department be informed that for the above reasons and in the interests of harmony to reinstate the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners to full affiliation therein; and that all efforts and influence of the American Federation of Labor and of the department should be applied to adjust the jurisdictional contention in interest, thereby making for the best interests of the disputants and for the progress and solidarity of the labor movement.

In the instance of the contention affecting the pipe fitting industry the interests directly involved raise the following questions:

First: Concentration of effort and efficiency in one general pipe fitting organization; or,

Second: Segregation of certain portions of the industry into separately managed and distinctly administered associations.

In regard to the latter question, the segregated portion of the industry does not, and for many reasons cannot, cover or comprehend in all parts of North America, the portion of the industry it essays to govern in largely populated cities and their immediate environments.

Therefore, in this instance, the Executive Council holds that both for harmony and for practicability, the pipe fitting trade should be represented in the A. F. of L., also in the Building Trades Department, by one general association of the pipe fitting industry—the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers, of the United States and Canada; and, further recommends that the Executive Council of the A. F. of L., be instructed, and the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department be requested to carry this into effect.

United Brotherhood of Carpenters—Amalgamated Wood Workers.

In our report to you at the St. Louis convention, when taking up this subject, we said:

On that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "United Brotherhood of Carpenters—Amalgamated Wood Workers," the committee reported as follows:

Your committee recommends the adoption of the recommendation of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, namely: "That unless the Amalgamated Wood Workers' International Union comply with the decision of the Toronto convention of the American Federation of Labor, and become amalgamated with the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, on or before April 1, 1911, the action and decision of the Toronto convention shall become effective on that date."

That report was referred to the adjustment committee which, after due consideration, made the following report to the convention:

United Brotherhood of Carpenters—Amalgamated Wood Workers.

The Toronto convention endorsed an agreement for the amalgamation of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Amalgamated Wood Workers' International Union into one organization and instructed your Executive Council to carry into effect the details of the proposed agreement. At our meeting last March we directed our president that if either organization failed to ratify the agreement, he should call a conference of the executive officers of both organizations in conjunction with one member of the Executive Council for the purpose of carrying out the instructions of the Toronto convention.

President Gompers immediately entered into correspondence with the executive officers of both organizations with that purpose in view. The Executive Board of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters gave the opinion that as the plan of consolidation as authorized by the Toronto convention is practically the same as previously adopted by the Minneapolis convention and approved by a referendum vote of the entire membership of the United Brotherhood, under date of May 13, 1907, that that vote still stands, and that a matter once disposed of by referendum vote of the entire membership becomes the action of the entire organization unless ordered by the next general convention to be re-submitted for a vote. Later, after the national convention of the United Brotherhood, we were advised that the convention accepted the plan of consolidation with the Amalgamated Wood Workers as proposed by our last annual convention, the consolidation to take effect November 1, 1910.

The delegates from the Amalgamated Wood Workers' International Union, as shown by the official proceedings of the Toronto convention, opposed the passage of the report of the committee on adjustment on this subject. The General Executive Council of the Amalgamated Wood Workers and the membership at large approved this action. The officers of the Amalgamated Wood Workers therefore expressed themselves as willing and ready to confer with the representatives of any body of organized workers with a view to the settlement of controversies, but they declined to enter into any conference with the U. B. of Carpenters with the object of effecting an amalgamation of the two organizations.

We were reluctant to exercise the implied power contained in the action of the Toronto convention, in so far as concerned the revocation of the charter of the Amalgamated Wood Workers, inasmuch as the United Brotherhood of Carpenters has accepted the Toronto agreement of amalgamation and the Amalgamated Wood Workers' International Union has rejected it, we recommend that unless the latter organization complies with the decision of the Toronto convention of the American Federation of Labor and becomes amalgamated with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters on or before April 1, 1911, the action and decision of the Toronto convention shall become effective on that date.

After thorough discussion of the entire matter at St. Louis several motions were made. That convention then decided that the same course be taken in regard to the Amalgamated Wood Workers and Carpenters as was taken in regard to the Elevator Constructors and Machinists, that is, that it be referred to the Executive Council and a further effort be made to bring about an honorable adjustment.

When these matters were under consideration at our January meeting, we directed President Gompers and Secretary Morrisson to enter into correspondence with both organizations and endeavor to bring about amalgamation.

When the action of the St. Louis convention and your Executive Council was officially conveyed to the executive officers of both organizations, the officers of the U. B. of Carpenters expressed themselves as being ready and willing to bring about amalgamation of the two organizations immediately and at the same time suggested that amalgamation could be more quickly effected by conference than by correspondence.

The officers of the Amalgamated Wood Workers referred the matter to their general council. The action of that body was, by the secretary, conveyed in a letter to President Gompers as follows:

Under date of April 19th, you were advised that your communication of April 4th last, in reference to the decision of the St. Louis convention, would be referred to our general council for their consideration.

The subject matter was considered by our general council through correspondence, and I am instructed to again advise you that because of the definite instructions of our last convention held in Chicago, March 15-20, 1909, our general council is prevented from meeting in conference or delegating authority to a committee to meet in conference with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters that has for its purpose the consideration of amalgamation.

I am instructed to say, however, that in deference to the action of the A. F. of L. St. Louis convention, our general council is willing to agree to submit the plan of amalgamation, designated by that convention and mentioned in your communication, to a vote of our membership for their disposition.

This proposition is contingent on the other organizations in interest also agreeing to submit to their membership for action the plan of amalgamation as recommended by the St. Louis convention.

When this information was conveyed to the officers of the U. B. they in turn stated:

The terms proposed by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America were given us by authority of the Toronto convention of the American Federation of Labor. These terms were agreeable to and accepted by our general executive board, and later by our sixteen biennial convention held in Des Moines, Iowa, in September of last year, without opposition. It is therefore not necessary to submit said propositions to our membership for referendum vote.

As it is plainly evident to us that the Amalgamated Wood Workers do not want to comply with the orders of the St. Louis convention and as that convention authorized, instructed and empowered the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor to take such action as will bring about amalgamation of the two organizations, we demand that a amalgamation shall take place immediately, or that the Wood Workers' International Union be suspended immediately from the American Federation of Labor.

As directed by us at our June meeting, President Gompers continued his efforts to bring about a conference with the officers of both organizations and finally brought them together at Indianapolis on June 30th. There was no definite action taken at that conference, except that an understanding was reached that President Gompers should draft a proposition based upon the principle of the St. Louis convention decision, the members of the general council of the Wood Workers who were present agreeing to submit such a proposition to the entire general council, the general council in turn to decide whether the proposition should be submitted to the membership for a referendum vote.

The proposition, as drafted by President Gompers, is as follows:

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16, 1911.

Mr. John G. Meiler, General Secretary,
Amalgamated Wood Workers' International Union of America, 3538 North Albany Avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Sir and Brother:

You will recall that at the conference held in Indianapolis, at which were represented the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the representatives of your organization, it was agreed that I would submit a proposition based upon the principle of the St. Louis convention decision, to be submitted to your general council. On account of being absent from the office a great deal on official business, and other matters pressing upon me, it was impossible for me to give this matter my attention until the present time, and in accordance therewith, the following proposition is hereby submitted to you, and through you to your general council:

1. The Amalgamated Wood Workers' International Union of America shall be known in the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners as District No. —. Said district to have jurisdiction over all men engaged in their industry at the present time who are members of the Amalgamated Wood Workers.

2. The present international officers of the Amalgamated Wood Workers shall be the district officers and conduct the affairs of the district in accordance with the laws of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. The salary of the officers to be the same as now paid.

3. The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners will grant charters and supplies free of cost to all unions in good standing in the Amalgamated Wood Workers and assign them numbers in accordance with the list of unions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

4. All money in the treasury or in hands of other officers, or in any way held as the money of the Amalgamated Wood Workers, shall become the treasury and money of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, District No. — and be held for the purpose of conducting the financial affairs of that district.

5. All members engaged as shop or mill men in the wood working industry who are now members of the Amalgamated Wood Workers, shall carry their membership in the union connected with said district. Members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, who may be employed now or in the future in shop or mill work, shall transfer to the union having jurisdiction over this work, where the member or members may be employed in the Amalgamated Wood Workers' District No. —.

6. The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners agrees to pay 50 per cent of the legitimate salary and expenses of all business agents now paid by and under salary of the Amalgamated Wood Workers, and in accordance with the constitution of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, said business agents shall have their offices in the same office as the business agents of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, in order that the unnecessary expenses of conducting two offices may be avoided.

7. All per capita tax due to the A. F. of L. and to the Building Trades department and to such other departments or organizations as the consolidated organization may become attached to, shall be paid out of the general fund of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

8. The Amalgamated Wood Workers, District No. — of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, can hold conventions, adopt laws to govern the district and carry on the affairs of said district practically on the same lines as is now being done by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, with the exception that all rules, regulations and laws adopted by the Amalgamated Wood Workers, District No. — shall be in conformity with the general constitution of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

9. All members of the Amalgamated Wood Workers, District No. — affiliated with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, shall pay to their local union the same amount of dues per month as is paid by the members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, and the same per capita tax shall be paid by said district to the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners as is now paid by the local unions of that organization, each union affiliated to conduct its financial business in accordance with the constitution of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

10. The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners agrees to give all members of the Amalgamated Wood Workers in good standing at the time of amalgamation a credit of six months' good standing membership, so that they will be entitled to the death benefits of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners as soon as the amalgamation takes place.

11. All unions of the Amalgamated Wood Workers, District No. — of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners shall be entitled to send delegates to the convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners on the same basis as all other unions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners are entitled to.

12. It is hereby agreed that all members of the Amalgamated Wood Workers transferring to and becoming a part of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, shall be entitled to all benefits, privileges and assistance of the Brotherhood and its general officers as are given to all members and unions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

This proposition as submitted is almost identical with the proposition endorsed by the St. Louis convention in the matter of the Amalgamation of the Elevator Constructors with the International Association of Machinists. The only matter omitted from the original proposition as adopted at St. Louis is the one specifying amounts to be paid to strike and victimized members. The other clause as left out from the agreement provides for an assessment which does not have any bearing on the subject of wood workers and carpenters.

Fraternally yours,

(Signed) SAMUEL GOMPERS,

President American Federation of Labor.

Secretary Meller, of the Amalgamated Wood Workers, later submitted the following terms of amalgamation for that organization with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners:

1. The Amalgamated Wood Workers'

International Union of America shall be known in the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, as Department of Factory Wood Workers. Said department to have jurisdiction over all men engaged in said industry.

2. The present international officers of the Amalgamated Wood Workers shall be the officers of said department and conduct the affairs of said department, in accordance with the laws of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. The salary of the officers to be the same as now paid.

3. The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners will grant charters to all unions in good standing in the Amalgamated Wood Workers and assign the numbers in accordance with the list of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

4. All money in the treasury or in hands of other officers, or in any way held as money of the amalgamated Wood Workers, shall become the treasury and money of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners' Department of Factory Wood Workers, and be held for the purpose of conducting the financial affairs of that department.

5. It shall be agreed that all factory wood workers shall transfer to unions of this department; wherever there are seven or more wood workers in a center, they shall form a separate Local Union, under the jurisdiction of said department.

6. The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners agrees to pay 50 per cent of the legitimate salary and expenses of all business agents now paid by and under salary of the Amalgamated Wood Workers and in accordance with the constitution of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; said business agents shall have their offices in the same office as the business agents of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, in order that the unnecessary expense of conducting two offices may be avoided.

7. All per capita tax due to the A. F. of L., to the Building Trades department and to such other departments or organizations as the consolidated organization may become attached to, shall be paid out of the general fund of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

8. The Department of Factory Wood Workers of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners can hold conventions, adopt laws to govern the department and carry on the affairs of said department practically on the same lines as is now being done by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, with the exception that all rules, regulations and laws adopted by the Department of Factory Wood Workers shall be in conformity with the general constitution of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

9. All members of the Department of Factory Wood Workers shall pay to their local union the same amount of dues per month as is paid by the members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, and the same per capita tax shall be paid by said Department of Factory Wood Workers' local unions to the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners as is now paid by the local unions of that organization each union affiliated to conduct its financial business in accordance with the constitution of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

10. The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners agrees to place all members of the Amalgamated Wood Workers in full benefits, as soon as amalgamation takes place, according to their membership in the Amalgamated Wood Workers.

11. All unions of the Department of Factory Wood Workers of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners shall be entitled to send delegates to the convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners on the same basis as all other unions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners are entitled to.

12. It is hereby agreed that all members of the Department of Factory Wood Workers of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners shall be entitled to all benefits, privileges and assistance of the Brotherhood and its general officers as are given to all members and unions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners.

13. It is hereby agreed that a separate fund be provided out of the per capita tax paid by the members of the department of Factory Wood Workers into the general treasury. Said fund to be in the custody of the officers of the Department of Factory Wood Workers.

Secretary Duffy, for the General Executive Board, of the United Brotherhood and in its behalf, demanded revocation of the chapter held by the Amalgamated Wood Workers.

Having been unable to secure the amalgamation of the Carpenters and Wood Workers, the entire matter is again placed before you for instructions as to what further action you desire taken.

U. B. of Carpenters—Amalgamated Carpenters.

The Executive Council submitted to the St. Louis convention a comprehensive report regarding the subject matter of the long continued dispute between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners. The same can be found on pages 105, 342 and 343, of the printed official proceedings of the St. Louis convention. That report was referred to a special committee which in turn reported to the St. Louis convention, and the entire subject matter was referred to the Executive Council to bring the representatives of both organizations together. It embraced also Resolution No. 31, introduced at the St. Louis convention by the delegates from the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners.

We regret to be compelled to report that the situation is practically the same as it was at the adjournment of the St. Louis convention insofar as concerns the amalgamation of the two organizations, despite our efforts to carry out the instructions given us.

Therefore, the Executive Council holds that both for harmony and for practicality the carpentry trade should be represented in the American Federation of Labor, and also in the Building Trades Department by one general organization of the carpentry industry, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and we further recommend that the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. be instructed, and the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department requested, to carry this into effect.

Electrical Workers.

Again we are compelled to report that the controversy between the affiliated and unaffiliated International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers remains unadjusted. The St. Louis convention referred the entire matter to us. At our meeting in January the representatives of both branches of the Electrical Workers were present. The situation was thoroughly gone over. Every opportunity was afforded the representatives of both sides for the expression of their respective opinions and beliefs. We, as an Executive Council in executive session, gave to this subject our very best thought and prolonged discussion. We finally decided upon a specific course providing for the amalgamation of the two bodies as follows:

The St. Louis convention of the American Federation of Labor referred to the Executive Council the matter of the division existing among the Electrical Workers, with directions to make every possible effort in its power to amalgamate the warring factions into a united and harmonious organization.

After hearing the representatives of the Electrical Workers, and giving much consideration to the directions and actions of the St. Louis convention of the Federation, and Peter W. Collins, secretary; and the Electrical Workers officered by J. J. Reid, as president, and J. W. Murphy, as secretary, will be held at the same time, to wit, September 14, 1911.

The Executive Council finds that by constitutional provision the regular conventions of the Electrical Workers officered by Frank J. McNulty, president.

The Executive Council, therefore, requests that both conventions be held in the city of Minneapolis, or such other city as may be agreed upon by both organizations.

The Executive Council urges all parties interested to make every possible effort to bring about thoroughly representative conventions, and that President Gompers shall upon receipt of the necessary information as to date and place of holding conventions, issue a circular to all local unions of Electrical Workers submitting this document and urging them to be represented by their proper and legal number of delegates.

The Executive Council directs that after the proper organization of the two conventions for the transaction of business that each convention shall elect a committee of five to meet jointly together with the President of the American Federation of Labor, the President of the Building Trades Department and the President of the Metal Trades Department, or representatives appointed by them, to consider and devise rules and plans for amalgamation. As soon as this joint committee has completed their work, the committee shall report their conclusions and recommendations to each convention for ratification.

Upon ratification by both conventions, the two conventions shall unite and meet as one convention of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and shall be governed, as to procedure by the rules and recommendations of the joint committee on amalgamation, proceeding to transact all business that should properly come before the Brotherhood convention.

The funds in bank in hands of the officers and property of both organizations, shall at the close of the convention be placed so as to be subject to the disposal of the newly elected officers of the amalgamated Brotherhood in accord with such directions as shall have been made by the joint convention.

The members of the Executive Council, or their representatives, shall remain with the convention acting in an advisory capacity, rendering every assistance in their power to permanently unite the organized Electrical Workers into one harmonious Brotherhood, and shall immediately report upon the result of their efforts to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor.

The Executive Council urges and expects the officers of both factions of the Brotherhood, the one unaffiliated with the Federation, as well as the one that is a part of the Federation, to work steadfastly and earnestly toward the end which the St. Louis convention had in view when it referred the matter to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, namely, the amalgamation of all organized Electrical Workers into one solid and harmonious organization fitted to accomplish the great work of trade union activity in the interest of the Electrical Workers of America.

It was further provided by our decision that a preliminary meeting should be held between the representatives of both organizations of Electrical Workers with President Gompers for the purpose of carrying into effect the proposed plan of amalgamation.

In compliance with our directions, President Gompers communicated with President McNulty, of the affiliated Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and with President Reid, of the unaffiliated Brotherhood, conveying to them our directions and the plan of amalgamation. He then entered into correspondence with them for the purpose of arranging for the preliminary meeting for the representatives of both organizations. Mr. Reid stated that his executive board would hold itself in readiness to send their representatives to attend the conference at any time and place that would be indicated. President McNulty stated that the matter had been referred to his executive board for a decision. President Gompers, on May 4th, definitely designated May the 29th, at the Washington headquarters as the time and place for holding the preliminary conference, and so notified both parties. On May 13th and on May 19th, Mr. Reid and Mr. McNulty wrote to President Gompers as follows:

INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS.

Springfield, Ill., May 13, 1911.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, President, American Federation of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir and Brother: I visited you at Washington, April 5th, and at that time you stated that you had again written Mr. McNulty for a statement relative to his attitude on the decision of the Executive Council of January 16. You advised me to wait until you had received a reply therefrom and up to this time I have waited patiently to hear from you should you hear from Mr. McNulty or not.

This month we have to submit a referendum to our members to decide the place of holding our International convention next September. Now I am waiting to learn whether Mr. McNulty and his membership are to hold such a convention at Minneapolis as your Council decision mentions unless another city was mutually agreed upon.

I request such information from you as to any knowledge you have, or procure, on the subject of city in which the McNulty faction are to hold their convention.

Any advice you may give me on the subject will be appreciated.

Fraternally yours,

(Signed)

J. J. REID,
General President.

INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS.

Springfield, Ill., May 19, 1911.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, President A. F. of L. and Executive Council of A. F. of L., Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir and Brother:

I beg leave to reply to the communication received from you some time ago, referring to the controversy among the electrical workers.

In view of the very great principle involved in this matter, the interests of all Electrical Workers, the history of the attempts by the seceders to disrupt and disorganize our Brotherhood, and particularly in view of your own very great interest in the whole controversy, our executive board, who were authorized by our convention to deal with the matter, has very carefully considered the entire situation. They have given great consideration to your recommendations and likewise to the interests of our Brotherhood, and have instructed me to send the following reply to you.

We beg leave to point out that the situation has in no way changed except that we are now very much nearer a trial, since the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. went on record stating that as soon as the law suits were disposed of you would tender your friendly offices to bring about an amalgamation.

The questions raised in this law suit can never be settled until they are settled rightly. Until they are settled in court, any member or local union of our Brotherhood could file a law suit and raise the same issues. This will be impossible, however, when said issues are settled by the courts. The history of this law suit is ample proof of that fact.

Knowing the things the seceders have done in the past we are warned of the things they might and could do in the future, and it would not serve the best interests of our Brotherhood or its future welfare if we entered again into negotiations with them pending the decision of the court on the issues raised by themselves.

A very short memory will recall that the seceders violated grossly every agreement they entered into with us, and undertook by a sham or subterfuge, to create the impression that they were dismissing this law suit in May, 1910, on the pretext that you were holding a conference between the seceders and our officers in New York city. You know that such was not the case and the seceders knew that, but still they endeavored to mislead both the court and yourselves. They also, at that time, wrote letters to the banks threatening them with law suits if they paid this money out to the Brotherhood. Your Executive Council at their meeting in June, 1910, recognized this fact and stated in this connection that "Good faith in this or any similar proceeding is in doubt."

The seceders, instead of carrying out any agreement entered into with us, have made every effort to complicate the situation and to postpone a trial of this case, and are still preventing these questions from being decided by the courts, which alone have the power to forever settle the issues that are now raised, and the question that anybody else might raise along the same lines in the future.

We earnestly hope for an early trial and full disclosure of all the questions raised by the seceders in this law suit, so that organized labor in general can know the falseness of the claims made by the seceders. Such decision is necessary for the continuance of the principles upon which our Brotherhood is founded, and without such a decision any number of disgruntled members or disappointed office-seekers can impede the progress of our organization as some of them are doing now.

Under the circumstances we cannot agree to your suggestions, and respectfully request that you will co-operate with us to the end that nothing will be done that will tend to further delay the trial of the law suits of Cleveland, which now stand at the head of the calendar, as that and only that will produce unity and harmony in our Brotherhood and guarantee freedom from legal entanglements in the future.

In closing we beg to state that we sincerely appreciate your good offices so kindly tendered to us, and assure you that we will be glad to further co-operate with you as soon as the legal rights of our Brotherhood are established, which will be at the time the court decides the questions raised by the seceders.

With best wishes, I beg to remain,

Fraternally yours,

(Signed)

F. J. McNULTY,
International President.

The conference for May 4th therefore was not held.

On August 4th President Reid wrote President Gompers as follows:

INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 4, 1911.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, President American Federation of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir and Brother:

Complying with the recommendations of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor held in Washington, D. C., January 16-27, inclusive: "In re . . . the matter of the division amongst the Electrical Workers . . . which recommendations and decision you communicated to me February 18, 1911, I advise you that the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers have amended their laws to comply as far as possible with the recommendations of the Executive Council, to-wit: "The executive council therefore requests that both conventions be held in the city of Minneapolis or such other city as may be agreed upon by both organizations.' We will meet in convention September 18, 1911, in the city of Rochester, N. Y. I am informed that the McNulty-Collins faction will convene in Rochester, N. Y., on the same date. I direct your attention to that part of the Executive Council's decision of January 16-27th as follows:

'The Executive Council urges all parties interested to make every possible effort to bring about thoroughly representative conventions, and that President Gompers shall, upon receipt of the necessary information as to date and place of holding conventions, issue a circular to all local unions of Electrical Workers, submitting this document and urging them to be represented by their proper and legal number of delegates.'

To further co-operate with you our general secretary is mailing you under separate cover the addresses of the secretaries of our local unions.

I have the pleasure at this time in extending to you an invitation to address our convention and sincerely trust you will find time to attend.

With best wishes, I am,

Fraternally yours,
(Signed) J. J. REID,
General President.

President Gompers then wrote to President McNulty as follows:

August 16, 1911.
Mr. F. J. McNulty, President International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of America, Pierick Bldg., Springfield, Ill.

Dear Sir and Brother:

Enclosed you will please find a copy of a letter which has been received from Mr. J. J. Reid, representing the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers unaffiliated to the American Federation of Labor. You will note that the unaffiliated organization of Electrical Workers has decided to hold its convention at the same time and place as the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers of which you are president, that is, at Rochester, New York, September 18, 1911.

Enclosed you will please find a copy of the action of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in the Electrical Workers' case, as directed by the St. Louis convention. You will notice that the Executive Council directed that at the city where the conventions of the two bodies of Electrical Workers are to be held, that the president of American Federation of Labor, the president of the Building Trades department, and the president of the Metal Trades department shall go there to aid in considering and devising rules and plans for the amalgamation of the two bodies of Electrical Workers.

Of course, before I advise the presidents of the departments to be present at Rochester for the purpose of carrying into effect the instructions of the A. F. of L. convention, I want you to advise me whether you, on behalf of your Brotherhood, will so conform your course to the end that the presidents of the departments or their representatives, and the president of the A. F. of L., or his representatives, can carry into effect the instructions given and as more fully set forth on pages 2 and 3 of the enclosed action of the Executive Council. You will please advise me in regard to the above on or before September 1st.

Trusting that I may hear from you at your earliest convenience, and that your reply will be favorable, and that unity may be established, I am

Fraternally yours,

(Signed) SAMUEL GOMPERS,
President American Federation of Labor.

To that letter Mr. McNulty replied:

INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF
ELECTRICAL WORKERS.

Springfield, Ill., August 30, 1911.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, President American Federation of Labor, Ouray Bldg., Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir and Brother:

Your favor dated August 16, 1911, awaited my arrival at our international office today. In reply beg to call your attention to our letter sent you in answer to your favor of April 3, 1911, which makes the position of our Brotherhood clear in the premises.

A joint convention previous to the trial of the suits in Cleveland is impossible and can never be held, regardless of who may desire it, as any effort to hold such a convention would result in a multiplicity of law suits which would complicate the situation more than it is at the present time. No one knows this better than Messrs. Reid, Murphy, Sullivan, etc.

Every effort made by us to bring about an adjustment was made sincerely. The opposition took advantage of those efforts to further complicate the situation. Now that they must come into court and face the issues they themselves raised, they desire to sidestep by urging a joint convention, but as a joint convention can not determine the legal rights of individual members, or prevent them, in the future, from tying up the funds of our Brotherhood, making it impossible for us to use the funds for the purpose for which they were created, we do not intend to enter into any other negotiations with the seceders until the suits at law are settled in Cleveland, which will settle once and for all the legal rights of dissatisfied and disgruntled members, and prevent them from destroying the usefulness of our Brotherhood by keeping us in continual litigation similar to the litigation that confronts our Brotherhood at this time.

We recognize and realize that your good offices are tendered to us in good faith, and I assure you that we would be pleased to co-operate with you in carrying out your suggestions if the same were practicable and would bring about the desired end.

We sincerely thank you and your colleagues for the services that you tender and assure you that the same is appreciated, but we must decline them for the above mentioned reasons.

With best wishes, I am,

Fraternally yours,

(Signed)

F. J. McNULTY,
International President.

In view of the above correspondence, it was deemed an entire waste of time to have either our president or the presidents of the Building and Metal Trades departments of the A. F. of L. proceed to the convention city. Despite the declarations, however, the affiliated and the unaffiliated organizations of Electrical Workers of their own volition appointed committees to confer with a view of reaching an adjustment of their differences. The agreement they reached, with the names of the joint committees signed, is as follows:

We, a joint committee, recommend for adoption, by each convention lawfully and under constitution assembled, the following recommendations as a result of our deliberations:

FIRST: That each convention lawfully assembled, does immediately place their attorneys representing them in the Gelb suit directly under control and direction of their respective committees, whose signatures are attached hereto.

SECOND: That each committee be empowered to proceed at once to Cleveland, Ohio, with credentials signed by the general officers of each organization and under seal, for the purpose of taking up the matter of the Gelb suit with court in charge, and from court each side shall ascertain the standing and record of the case, and further shall learn why, from said court, the Gelb case cannot be tried immediately. After ascertaining what these obstacles are, these representatives shall remove same through attorneys, and inform the court that it is the wish and earnest desire of each convention, that suit be decided at once upon its merits.

THIRD: That it be the sense of each convention, lawfully assembled, that absolutely no obstacles nor interference shall be tolerated from any officer or member of either organization, but that all officers and members of each organization shall, upon demand, co-operate with their respective committees, that their instructions may be carried out to the letter.

FOURTH: Upon a decision being rendered by the court, that organization being ruled against shall immediately upon such decision being rendered, adjourn and affiliate with successful litigant, under such provisions as shall be recommended by the respective committees.

FIFTH: In event each or either organization is adjourned at time court decision is rendered, that respective committees are and will be retained, and empowered to use any and all means necessary to bring about unity among all the Electrical Workers affected, and shall continue so until same is accomplished.

Respectfully submitted,
EUGENE E. SMITH,
W. J. DYSON,

HARRY A. FREED,

WM. F. KELLY,

GUY T. WHITE,

H. W. RAVEN,

L. C. GRASSER,

M. BIRMINGHAM,

M. P. GORDON,

CHAS. P. FORD,

M. BIRMINGHAM,

Chairman of Joint Committee.

EUG. E. SMITH,

Secretary of Joint Committee."

September 26th, 1911.

The unaffiliated organization adopted the report but burdened it with the condition that its system of District Councils in cities must be adopted by the organization affiliated, a system which had been in vogue before the division and which had been discarded by the affiliated Brotherhood of Electrical Workers as being ruinous.

Our affiliated organization adopted the agreement with a declaration that it waived no legal rights it held before the courts. This was interpreted by the unaffiliated organization as in conflict with the provision in the agreement that no appeal should be taken from the decision rendered in the pending case before the court. To remove that impression the affiliated organization's convention thereupon and without reservation declared its approval of the agreement as drafted and agreed upon by the committees from both organizations and continued its committee. The unaffiliated organization's convention withdrew and discharged its committee from further conferences and adjourned.

At our meeting at headquarters during the week of October 16-21, desirous of having these matters authentically placed before us, we invited Mr. McNulty, president of the affiliated Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, and Mr. Reid, president of the unaffiliated organization, to meet with us and present the facts, the facts elicited being as we have just stated them. We finally asked this question of both Mr. McNulty and Mr. Reid: "Are you willing to recommend the settlement of the differences between the affiliated and unaffiliated brotherhoods of Electrical Workers upon the exact terms of the agreement drafted and reported by the joint committee of the representatives of both organizations at the Rochester conventions?"

President McNulty replied that he would recommend to his organization and the committee representing it a settlement on the exact terms contained in the joint committee's report.

President Reid replied to the same question that the matter is not in his hands but he would submit to the membership of his organization anything the Executive Council would furnish him.

Inasmuch as Mr. McNulty for his Brotherhood regards the agreement reached by the joint committee at Rochester as binding upon his organization and Mr. Reid has answered that he would submit to the membership of his organization any recommendation made by the Executive Council,

We urge that this convention recommend to Mr. Reid that the joint agreement reached at Rochester be submitted to a referendum vote of his membership, and that the unaffiliated organization authorize and direct a committee to meet with the committee of the affiliated organization with the view of carrying the provisions of the Rochester agreement into effect, and thus amalgamate the two organizations into one comprehensive brotherhood of electrical workers, affiliated to the American Federation of Labor.

Machinists—Elevator Constructors.

The amalgamation of these two organizations, despite the efforts of your Executive Council, has not been affected. In the official printed proceedings of the St. Louis convention, on pages 101-5, and pages 155-57, and pages 279-281, will be found the entire proceedings of that convention in dealing with this subject, which by the convention was referred to the Executive Council. At our meeting at headquarters in January, we devoted much time to the consideration of this subject. The representatives of the two organizations were present, and were afforded the fullest opportunity for discussion. It was agreed that a conference should be held between the representatives of the two organizations on the second Monday in March, 1911, in which President Gompers and another member of the Executive Council should participate. The officers of both organizations were duly notified to that effect. In reply to that notification, Secretary Young, of the Elevator Constructors, sent President Gompers the following letter:

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 27, 1911.
Mr. Samuel Gompers, President American Federation of Labor, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir and Brother:

Yours of the 18th instant received informing us that President O'Connell has arranged for a meeting with his board during the week of March 13th in Washington, and you suggest that our representatives arrange to be present. I acquainted our representatives of your plan, and they have informed me, that it is impossible for them to be present on the week mentioned as they have been elected to attend our State Federation meetings.

They will be most pleased to arrange for a meeting at any other time that will meet the approval of all concerned, and which you will advise us of the same.

Fraternally yours,
(Signed) WILLIAM YOUNG,
Secretary-Treasurer.

In his reply thereto, President Gompers said:

February 28, 1911.
Mr. William Young, Secretary International Union of Elevator Constructors, 1952 N. 19th St., Philadelphia, Pa.
Dear Sir and Brother:

Your favor of the 27th instant to hand and contents noted. In it you say you have acquainted the representatives of your organization with my "plan" and they inform you that it is impossible for them to be present on the week mentioned (March 13), as they have been elected to attend the State Federation meetings.

First, let me say that neither the conference nor the suggestion of the conference is due to any plan of mine. It was the result of an agreement between the representatives of your International Union and of the International Association of Machinists.

I submitted the information you impart to President O'Connell of the International Association of Machinists, and he expressed the utmost surprise thereat, and declared that your International Union is in honor bound to have its representatives present at the conference in this city on March 13th.

Your attention is called to the fact that the Executive Council meeting of the American Federation of Labor at headquarters, January 16-27, President Jas. F. Murphy of your International Union, and Brother Frank Feeney were here and in conference with the Executive Council and with President James O'Connell, of the International Association of Machinists. The subject matter of the conference was discussed and on behalf of the International Association of Machinists, President O'Connell urged the meeting of the conference at a very early date. Brother Feeney of your organization stated that it was his desire to go south for several weeks, and that inasmuch as he was to be a participant in the conference it should be deferred until some later date. It was then agreed by Brothers Murphy and Feeney, for your International Union, and President O'Connell for the International Association of Machinists, that conference should be held in Washington, March 13. Minutes of the meeting of the Executive Council show this clearly and that the Executive Council was made a party to the agreement.

Having all these matters in mind, President O'Connell issued a call for a meeting of the Executive Board of the I. A. of M. to meet in Washington for the purpose of meeting with the representatives of your organization, and so that the Executive Board being in session, could make the most liberal terms possible and to make them effectively. President O'Connell called attention to the fact that members of the Executive Board are:

Mr. Jam. A. Reynolds, State Senator, Cleveland, Ohio.

Mr. Hugh Doran, Chicago, Illinois.

Mr. Edward L. Tucker, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Robert Cook, Seattle, Washington.

Mr. A. E. Ireland, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania.

Two of the members of the Executive Board are employed in the navy yard and arsenal and have applied for, and obtained from their departments, leave of absence for the week of March 13. The members of his Executive Board will therefore travel long distances for the special purpose of attending this conference and he says that the Executive Board meeting cannot and will not be called off.

Of course I do not underestimate the importance of attending the meetings of State Federations, but I submit that after an agreement has been made to hold a conference of such tremendous importance as the one under discussion that when the date of the conference is reached to suit the convenience of the representatives of your organization, attendance at this conference overshadows the attendance at a meeting of a state federation convention.

In view of all these matters, I again advise you that the conference of the representatives of the International Union of Elevator Constructors and the International Association of Machinists will be held in Washington, D. C., beginning Monday morning, March 13, 1911, in accordance with the agreement as to time, date and place, entered into between the representatives of your International Union and the representatives of the I. A. of M. You will therefore kindly invite and notify the representatives of your International Union to be present at the conference.

With best wishes, I am,

Fraternally yours,

(Signed) SAMUEL GOMPERS,
President American Federation of Labor.

N. B. I am sending a copy of this letter to President Murphy of your International Union, and to Brother Frank Feeney.

In his reply on March 4th, Secretary Young said:

I feel that Brother Feeney overlooked the appointment he made with President

O'Connell on January 16th, when he accepted the duties as delegate to the State Federation convention of Pennsylvania. Now knowing that special arrangements have been entered into by some of the members of the Machinists' International Executive Board, our representatives will at once leave for Washington after the State Federation convention has ended. The convention will not last over three or four days. Trusting that you will inform us if President O'Connell and the members of his executive Board can make it convenient to meet our representatives according to above proposition.

A conference was thereupon held on March 15th at the A. F. of L. headquarters. President Gompers represented the Executive Council. Secretary Morrison was also to be present but was unavoidably called out of the city on that date. After full and free discussion of the entire matter, an agreement was reached as follows:

Washington, D. C., March 17, 1911.

Realizing the necessity for the thorough organization of the working people and the closer unity of the organized workers, and despite the fact that the International Association of Machinists and the International Union of Elevator Constructors are powerful and effective forces in the interests of the workers of their respective trades, it is nevertheless a self-evident truism that because of the close kinship of these trades, that amalgamation of these two organizations would accomplish greater results to protect and promote the rights and interests of the workers thereof, and for the furtherance of the great uplift work for all the workers, the undersigned, representing their respective organizations, agree upon the following terms of amalgamation:

1. On and after June first, 1911, the International Union of Elevator Constructors shall become part of the International Association of Machinists, and shall be known thereafter as 'Elevator Constructors' District No.—.' Said district to have jurisdiction over all men engaged in elevator construction work on buildings or wherever elevators may be erected.

2. The present international officers of the I. U. of E. C. shall be the district officers and conduct the affairs of the district in accordance with the laws of the I. A. of M. The salary of the officers to be the same as now paid.

3. The I. A. of M. will grant charters and supplies free of cost to all unions in good standing in the I. U. of E. C., and assign them numbers in accordance with the list of lodges of the I. A. of M.

4. All money in the treasury or hands of other officers or in any way held as the money of the I. U. of E. C. shall become the treasury and money of Elevator Constructors, District No.—, and be held for the purpose of conducting the financial affairs of that district.

5. All members engaged in the construction of elevators in buildings, or elsewhere, where same is to be used, shall carry their membership in a lodge connected with Elevator Constructors, District No.—. Members of the I. A. of M. who may be employed now or in the future in the erection or construction of elevators, holding membership in another lodge, shall transfer to the lodge having jurisdiction over this work in the locality where the member or members may be employed in Elevator Constructors, District No.—.

6. The I. A. of M. agrees to pay 50 per cent of the legitimate salary and expenses of all business agents now paid by and under salary of the I. U. of E. C. in accordance with the constitution of the I. A. of M.; said business agents who have their offices in the same office as the business agents of the I. A. of M. are located in order that the unnecessary expense of conducting two offices may be avoided.

7. Whereas, the constitution of the I. A. of M. requires that members, to be entitled to strike or victimized benefits of $6.00 per week to single men and $8.00 per week married men, shall be in three months' good standing to be entitled to same; it is hereby agreed that upon the amalgamation of the two organizations all members of the I. U. of E. C. transferring to the I. A. of M. shall be immediately placed in good standing and entitled to strike and victimized benefits as provided for in the constitution of the I. A. of M.

8. All per capita tax of the A. F. of L. Building Trades department, and such other departments or organizations as the consolidated organization may become attached to, shall be paid out of the general fund of the I. A. of M.

9. The Elevator Constructors, District No.—, of the I. A. of M., can hold conventions, adopt laws to govern the district, and carry on the affairs of said district practically on the same lines as now being done by the I. U. of E. C., with the exception that all rules, regulations and laws adopted by Elevator Constructors, District No.—, shall be in conformity with the general constitution of the I. A. of M.

10. All members of the I. U. of E. C., affiliated with the I. A. of M. shall pay to their local union at least $1.00 per month dues, and each local lodge shall pay to the grand lodge the standard rate of per capita tax prescribed by the constitution of the I. A. of M., as follows: Journeymen initiation stamp, $1.50; apprentice initiation stamp, 75c; reinstatement stamp, $1.50; monthly due stamp, 55c; apprentice monthly due stamp, 25c; unemployed stamp, 20c; It being understood that the above per capita tax covers the subscription to the monthly journal, the same to be supplied to each lodge in proportion to the number of members in good standing. Each lodge affiliated to conduct its financial business in accordance with the constitution of the I. A. of M.

11. The I. A. of M. agrees to give all members of the I. U. of E. C. in good standing at the time of amalgamation a credit of six months' good standing membership, so that they will be entitled to the death benefits of the I. A. of M. as soon as the amalgamation takes place.

12. All lodges of the I. U. of E. C. becoming part of the I. A. of M. shall be entitled to send delegates to the convention of the I. A. of M. on the same basis as all other lodges of the I. A. of M. are entitled to.

13. It is hereby agreed that all members of the I. U. of E. C. transferring to and becoming a part of the I. A. of M. shall be entitled to all benefits, privileges and assistance of the association, and the general officers of the I. A. of M. as is given all members and lodges of the I. A. of M.

14. The above agreement being mutually accepted, can be altered only with the consent of both parties thereto, that is, the International Association of Machinists on the one hand, and Elevator Constructors, District No.—, on the other.

15. The representatives of the International Association of Machinists (being the general executive board thereof), having power conferred upon them, do accept this agreement upon attaching their signatures thereto.

16. The representatives of the International Union of Elevator Constructors agree to submit this agreement to the membership of their organization for ratification.

17. The representatives of the International Union of Elevator Constructors agree to notify the president of the American Federation of Labor on or before May 1, 1911, of the result of the referendum vote of the membership of the International Union of Elevator Constructors upon the ratification of this agreement.

18. The president of the American Federation of Labor, by direction of the convention and of the Executive Council of the A. F. of L., agrees in the name of the American Federation of Labor to guarantee the faithful enforcement of the conditions in this agreement provided.

For the International Association of Machinists,

(Signed) JAS. O'CONNELL,
(Signed) A. E. IRELAND,
(Signed) HUGH DORAN,
(Signed) ED. L. TUCKER,
(Signed) R. G. COOK,
(Signed) JAS. A. REYNOLDS.

For the International Union of Elevator Constructors,

(Signed) J. F. MURPHY,
(Signed) FRANK FEENEY,
(Signed) A. EAGAN.

For the American Federation of Labor,
(Signed) SAMUEL GOMPERS.

In conformity with paragraph 16 of the agreement, Secretary Young on April 19th advised President Gompers as follows:

"As per instructions of the recent conference held in Washington relative to the amalgamation of the Elevator Constructors with the Machinists, I herewith forward you the result to date of the referendum vote taken.

The following locals voted unanimously not to amalgamate, with the exception of Philadelphia and Denver, which reported one vote each for amalgamation:

- Local No. 1, New York.
  - Local No. 2, Chicago.
  - Local No. 3, St. Louis.
  - Local No. 4, Boston.
  - Local No. 5, Philadelphia.
  - Local No. 6, Pittsburg.
  - Local No. 7, Baltimore.
  - Local No. 9, Minneapolis.
  - Local No. 10, Washington.
  - Local No. 12, Kansas City.
  - Local No. 14, Buffalo.
  - Local No. 15, Milwaukee.
  - Local No. 17, Cleveland.
  - Local No. 19, Seattle.
  - Local No. 21, Dallas, Texas.
  - Local No. 25, Denver.
  - Local No. 27, Rochester.
  - Local No. 31, Houston.
  - Local No. 32, Atlanta.
  - Local No. 33, Des Moines, Iowa.
  - Local No. 34, Indianapolis.
- We have yet to hear from—
- Local No. 8, San Francisco.
  - Local No. 16, New Orleans.
  - Local No. 18, Los Angeles.
  - Local No. 23, Portland.
  - Local No. 24, Birmingham, Ala.
  - Local No. 26, Vancouver, B. C.
  - Local No. 28, Omaha.
  - Local No. 30, Memphis.

My reason for forwarding to you at the present time the vote taken is so that you may be advised of the ultimate results, inasmuch as the present records show an overwhelming vote against amalgamation, the locals not yet heard from, amount to not more than 254 members. Immediately upon receipt of the vote of the locals not yet heard from, I will forward the result of their vote to you. The present status is 1856 against amalgamation and two for amalgamation.

In reference to the above contention between the organizations in interest, your Executive Council recommends that the subject matter be left with the Executive Council to take such further action as may be helpful to bring about full understanding and adjustment between the two organizations.

Blue Stone Cutters—Granite Cutters—Pavers and Rammermen.

In making our report upon this case to the St. Louis convention, the convention in view of the recommendation we made, ratified the agreement entered into in New York city November 11, 1910, between the Granite Cutters' International union, the Blue Stone Cutters, and Organizer Hugh Frayne, representing the American Federation of Labor and the Building Trades department. The report of the committee and the action of the convention thereon will be found upon pages 108, 109, 136, 165, 289, 290, and 291 of the official printed proceedings of the St. Louis convention. It was reported to us at our January meeting that the Blue Stone Cutters had failed to conform to the provisions of the agreement of November 11th and that neither the Pavers and Rammermen nor the New York C. F. U. had complied with the conference proceedings for the amalgamation of the Blue Stone Cutters with the Granite Cutters' International Association. We thereupon called upon the officers of the Pavers and Rammermen's International Union to immediately disassociate from membership therein the Blue Stone Cutters in question and also upon the C. F. U. of New York that in conformity with the action of the St. Louis convention, the Blue Stone Cutters should be either denied representation in the C. F. U. or become part of the Granite Cutters' International Association as provided by the agreement and the St. Louis decision. After conferences and much correspondence, both the Pavers and Rammermen's International Union and the C. F. U. officially notified President Gompers that the Blue Stone Cutters had withdrawn from the C. F. U. and had been denied affiliation by the Pavers and Rammermen's International union. We regret to say, however, that the affiliation of the Blue Stone Cutters with the Granite Cutters has not been effected.

Painters—Car Workers.

In conformity with the instructions of the St. Louis convention and dealing with the subject matter of resolution No. 119 a conference was finally arranged between the representatives of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America and the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America. This conference was held at headquarters in Washington on April 20, President Gompers and Secretary Morrison representing the Executive Council.

It affords us much pleasure to be able to report that though no written agreement was made, yet an understanding was reached by which the organizations will co-operate in furthering the interests of the Carmen without prejudice as to the claims to which each organization is entitled.

Teamsters—Bakers.

At the St. Louis convention, the delegates from the International Brotherhood of Teamsters introduced a resolution, No. 136, requesting that the convention should instruct the officers of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union to turn over to the Brotherhood of Teamsters all drivers who are now members of the former organization. The convention directed that inasmuch as no conference had been held between the representatives of the two organizations that the President of the A. F. of L. should arrange a conference at the earliest possible date, with the object in view of bringing about a satisfactory agreement.

After considerable correspondence, a date and place for the conference mutually satisfactory to both organizations was arranged, that is the headquarters of the A. F. of L. in Chicago, on April 7th. The representatives of the Bakers were present at the time and place stated; the representatives of the Teamsters were not on hand. President Tobin thereafter stated that the general Executive Board of his organization was in session; that he could not leave to attend the conference; that he delegated certain representatives of his organization in Chicago to represent the International Union; that the representatives of the Bakers refused to meet with the Chicago representatives of the Teamsters, claiming that they had agreed only to meet with President Tobin.

Mr. Tobin then suggested another date when it would be possible for him personally to meet in conference, but the officers of the Bakers stated that their general Executive Board considered the case closed so far as their organization and the St. Louis convention decision was concerned, and that their Executive Board would not hold another meeting until April, 1912.

The matter is submitted to you and your advice is requested as to what further steps shall be taken.

Western Federation of Miners—Charter Granted.

The discussion upon the application for charter of affiliation made by the Western Federation of Miners to the American Federation of Labor consumed much time both prior to and at the St. Louis convention. That convention thereupon decided: "That the whole question at issue be referred to the Executive Council with instructions to try to bring about an amicable adjustment, to the end that the Western Federation of Miners may obtain a charter without over-riding the principles of the American Federation of Labor."

After comprehensive correspondence and extended conferences with representatives of all the organizations in interest, the Executive Council, having in mind the statements made to the St. Louis convention of the A. F. of L. and to the Executive Council by the representatives of the Western Federation of Miners, which were substantially that the Western Federation of Miners had for years not interfered with mechanical workers, not members of the Western Federation of Miners and who were members of international unions, and that they could see no reason for such interference in the future, urged that the policy of the Western Federation of Miners as indicated by the declaration of its representatives would be continued, and therefore directed:

That a charter be issued to the Western Federation of Miners on the basis of the jurisdiction of the United Mine Workers of America. It was found that there was some difference between the coal mining and the mineral mining organizations in respect to the organization and employment of machinists which did not relatively apply to other trades, and, therefore, it was made a provision of the issuance of the charter that members of machinists' locals now existing in mining camps are not to be required to join the Western Federation of Miners in order to follow their trade in the mining camp.

The charter was issued May 9, 1911. Since the issuance of the charter several protests have been entered. We have endeavored to meet them and to overcome them. President Gompers, on his Pacific Coast trip, held conferences at Butte with representatives of several of these organizations and with the Western Federation of Miners, but the results have proven of little or no avail. Our actions were prompted by the direction of the St. Louis convention, and we can but express our hope that the declarations made at that convention and the moral obligation that all trade unionists must feel to be fair and considerate of the rights and interests of their fellow-workers, will have their influence upon the course pursued now and for the future, recognizing that after all our duty is to unite, to federate, and to instill the spirit of fraternity and solidarity.

Sheet Metal Workers—Stove Mounters.

The St. Louis convention had under consideration the application of the Stove Mounters' International Union for change in title so as to read "Stove Mounters and Range Workers' International Union." The committee to which this matter was referred recommended that the title of the Stove Mounters be so changed as to read "Stove Mounters, Malleable and Cast Iron Workers' International Union." The convention directed that both organizations should appoint a committee of two each, for the purpose of holding a conference and determining the several disputed points of jurisdiction. The conference was held on February 24-25, but no agreement was reached, the Stove Mounters maintaining that they should continue to conduct the organization in accordance with the understanding reached between the Stove Mounters' International Union and the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance, immediately after the Toronto convention. Inasmuch as no agreement was reached and nothing accomplished by the conference and the St. Louis convention not conceding the proposed change in title of the Stove Mounters' International Union, that organization continues to conduct its business under the old title.

Carriage and Wagon Workers—Blacksmiths—Upholsterers—Painters.

In connection with the subject matter of resolutions Nos. 22 and 81 of the St. Louis convention, dealing with the disputed claims of jurisdiction between the Blacksmiths', Carriage and Wagon Workers', Upholsterers', and Painters' organizations, as directed by that convention, a conference was arranged between the representatives of the respective organizations. We are pleased to report that an agreement was reached as follows:

Headquarters American Federation of Labor.

Washington, D. C., April 19, 1911.

The St. Louis convention of the American Federation of Labor, acting upon the report of the committee on adjustment in reference to resolutions Nos. 22-81, directed that the entire subject matter covered by these resolutions be referred to the executive Council with instructions to call a conference of all parties with a view to clearly defining the lines of jurisdiction.

The Executive Council directed President Gompers and Secretary Morrison to act for the executive Council in the matter. In compliance therewith, the officers of the various organizations named were invited to participate in a conference to be held on this 19th day of April, 1911, at the offices of the American Federation of Labor.

The undersigned, representing their respective organizations, realizing the difficulty of maintaining jurisdiction, and while it may not be expedient or advantageous here to insist on our jurisdictional claims, therefore, for the purpose of endeavoring to assist in organizing the carriage, wagon and automobile industry, the following agreement is hereby made, the purpose thereof to be liberally, rather than technically, construed and complied with:

1. It is the right and the privilege of any workman employed in any carriage, wagon, or automobile establishment, to belong to his respective trade or organization or the Carriage and Wagon and Automobile Workers' International Union.

2. It shall not be necessary for any worker employed in a carriage, wagon, or automobile establishment to belong to more than one organization party to this agreement.

3. The bona fide cards of good standing membership in any one of the organizations to this agreement shall be recognized as all-sufficient in carriage, wagon and automobile establishments; the choice of membership in either of the organizations, parties to this agreement to rest with the workman.

4. Initiation fee in localities where unions now exist shall not be less than $3.00, unless by mutual consent.

5. In any carriage, wagon, or automobile establishment where there are employed members of more than one of the organizations, parties to this agreement the matter of an agreement relative to wages, hours of labor, and conditions of employment, shall be made by a joint committee of the employees of the establishment, or a joint committee of the locals whose members are or may be affected.

6. The officers of the organizations, parties to this agreement, shall meet not less than once each year, for the purpose of perfecting, amplifying, or modifying this agreement, and they shall have power to delegate the functions herein provided for themselves to the local unions in the several respective localities.

7. The representatives of the organizations, parties to this agreement, pledge themselves to co-operate for the more thorough organization of the workers in the carriage, wagon, and automobile establishments, and to take such action as shall best protect and promote the rights and interests of the workers in this industry.

FOR THE INTERNATIONAL CARRIAGE AND WAGON WORKERS' UNION.

(Signed) WM. P. MAVELL,
(Signed) L. F. MAIRE, Per M.

FOR THE INTERNATIONAL BROTHERHOOD OF BLACKSMITHS.

(Signed) J. W. KLINE.
(Signed) ED. J. RYAN.

FOR THE UPHOLSTERERS' INTERNATIONAL UNION OF NORTH AMERICA.

(Signed) WM. KOHN,

For the American Federation of Labor.

(Signed) SAMUEL GOMPERS,

(Signed) FRANK MORRISON.

The representatives of the Brotherhood of Painters, however, did not sign the agreement, stating that they did not care in any way to modify or hamper the jurisdiction accorded to the Brotherhood and upon which the Brotherhood would at least in theory, still insist. They stated, however, that no aggressive move would be made by them to impede the efforts of the Carriage and Wagon Workers to organize the trade.

Printers—Bookbinders—Single Wrapping.

By Resolution No. 37, of the St. Louis convention, introduced by the delegates from the International Typographical Union, the resolution requesting that the convention should go on record as declaring that single wrapping is part of the mailing trade and under the jurisdiction of the I. T. U., your Executive Council was instructed to make a ruling and render a decision in the matter.

This matter was taken up at our January meeting and the presidents and other representatives of both organizations were present. After considerable discussion it was decided that a conference should be held between the representatives of the two organizations, President Gompers to represent the Executive Council, for the purpose of endeavoring to bring about an adjustment. This conference was held on March the 21st. At that conference representatives of both parties insisted that inasmuch as they were unable to come to an agreement, it was incumbent upon the Executive Council to render a decision in conformity with the instructions of the St. Louis convention. Therefore, at our next meeting in June, when the representatives of both organizations were again present, and after still farther efforts on our part to secure an agreement between them, we gave the following decision:

After examining the evidence and hearing the oral arguments, and until the two organizations interested effect a mutual agreement on the subject, it is the sense of the Executive Council that "single wrapping" where now performed in commercial bindery houses by members of the Bindery Workers' Union should not be disturbed, and that there should be no interference with the right of the Bindery Workers' Union, to organize non-union workers engaged at single wrapping in commercial binderies. But when the work in question is performed in purely printing offices, it comes under the jurisdiction of the International Typographical Union.

Theatrical Stage Employees—Electrical Workers—Jurisdiction Over Moving Picture Machine Operators.

There is little that we are enabled to report to this convention in addition to the report which we made to you at St. Louis, as follows:

As directed by the Toronto convention, President Gompers continued his efforts during the year to secure an agreement between the representatives of the Theatrical Stage Employees and the representatives of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers in the matter of the disputed question of jurisdiction over moving picture machine operators. He met in conference with the representatives of both organizations on February 21. After a general discussion by representatives on both sides, it was mutually agreed that the entire matter should be referred to the Executive Council, whose decision would be final and binding upon both parties; and that the representatives of both organizations should file a brief of their respective cases within thirty days from the date of the conference. The brief of the Theatrical Stage Employees was duly filed. The Electrical Workers failed to file their brief and the matter still remains unsettled.

The officers of the Theatrical Stage Employees submitted their brief during the St. Louis convention. President Gompers repeatedly endeavored during the year to arrange a conference between the representatives of the two organizations in conformity with the directions of the St. Louis convention. June the 10th was finally agreed upon by both sides as a satisfactory date for the conference to be held at the headquarters in Washington. The representatives of the Theatrical Stage Employees came to Washington for that purpose. The representative of the Electrical Workers was unavoidably detained beyond the hour set for the conference. The reprerepresentatives of the Stage Employees, owing to pressing engagements in New York, were unable to remain longer than the time agreed upon for the conference. Since that time the representatives of the two organizations have been unable to agree upon a mutually satisfactory time and place for holding a conference.

It should be stated that during the year, the secretaries of central bodies in various localities have written to the Washington headquarters requesting advice as to the organization under the jurisdiction of which the moving picture machine operators should properly be placed, as the local unions of Electrical Workers and of Theatrical Stage Employees were in conflict in regard to the matter.

We recommend that efforts be continued during the coming year to adjust the questions of difference between these two organizations.

Photo-Engravers' Strike and Injunction.

The members of the International Photo-Engravers' Union were engaged in a difficulty with their employers in Boston by reason of their endeavor to establish a forty-eight hour week, the payment of overtime and double time for Sundays and holidays, a minimum wage scale, and the protection of their right of association and organization. The employers, through the aid of the courts, declared this strike illegal and prevented the organization from paying strike benefit to its members. Injunctions were issued to this effect. The Photo-Engravers, however, began paying out-of-work benefit to their members who were out of employment. As a result of this they were summoned into court at the instance of the employers to show cause why they should not be punished for contempt, for violating the terms of the injunction. However, the court did not sustain the contention of the employers, and, as a result, shortly after the decision was rendered, an agreement was entered into by the employers in this industry in the city of Boston with the Photo-Engravers' Union, whereby the question has been amicably adjusted and in the direction of favoring the contentions of the members of that union.

Cigarmakers' Strike, Tampa.

For a considerable period of time prior to and during the last convention, some 9,000 cigarmakers were engaged in what was called a strike in Tampa, Fla., but which was really a lockout. The Cigar Manufacturers' Association of that city inaugurated this difficulty by systematically "laying off" a large number of cigarmakers each week until practically all of the members of the Union were locked out. This condition of affairs continued about seven months. Every effort was made by those who were engaged in this difficulty locally, as well as by the officers of the Cigarmakers' International Union, to bring about a conference with the cigar manufacturers of Tampa, so that an amicable adjustment of the matter might be reached.

The manufacturers refused at all times to meet either the committees of the local unions, or the representatives of the International Union, claiming that the whole matter had been left in the hands of an organization known as the "Citizens' Association." This so-called "Citizens' Association," whose avowed policy was the establishment of the so-called "open shop" in Tampa, likewise refused to meet with the committees. This so-called "Citizens' Committee" established a reign of terror in Tampa and endeavored to coerce the locked out cigarmakers to return to work. High-handed proceedings were carried on by this "Citizens' Committee." They armed themselves with rifles and revolvers, paraded the streets, and in automobiles, and went so far as to refuse to permit the officers of the unions in Tampa to carry on the business of their organizations. They raided the halls in which the members of this organization were meeting in a peaceful, lawful manner, and compelled them to disperse these meetings. They also raided the offices of the local unions and had several of the officers arrested. In violation of all law and rights they deported and forced out of Tampa men who were innocent of any wrongdoing, legal or moral.

The Mayor of Tampa (the editor and proprietor of the leading paper for that city), was the head and front of the so-called Citizens' Committee, and the brutal course pursued by him and his associates, which was clothed with his official action as mayor, was lauded in his newspaper. Under these circumstances no relief or protection could be had at the hands of the local government. President Gompers upon direction of the Executive Council thereupon appealed to the governor of Florida to make an investigation and to protect the rights, the liberties and the lives of the men who were so grossly abused and outraged.

The contest was continued for a considerable period of time, but finally, under a truce the cigarmakers returned to work as union men. After having returned to work, three of the officers of the Cigarmakers' Union were indicted under an old and obsolete statute in which it is declared that they were engaged in a conspiracy, because they advised their fellow workers not to return to work until an adjustment of the difficulty had been made. These proceedings were continued in the courts, and as a result of the enforcement of this statute, Messrs. Dela Campa, Bartlum and Russell were convicted of conspiracy and each was sentenced to one year's imprisonment.

The cases were fought vigorously by the Cigarmakers' International Union in the courts of Florida, but under the law it was impossible to appeal these cases to the supreme court of that state.

A short time after the men above mentioned were sentenced, public sentiment was of such a character, believing that the men were unjustly convicted, that the matter was brought to the attention of the Board of Pardons of the State of Florida, who after giving the matter their consideration, issued a pardon or parole, to Bartlum and Russell, pending their good behavior. A similar pardon or parole was granted to Dela Campa, which, however, contained a provision that before it became operative he must consent to leave the state and not return within its borders for a period of six years. This additional parole was refused by Dela Campa, and he is still confined to the turpentine camps of Florida serving out the sentence originally imposed, and all because he stood by and assisted his fellow workmen in their efforts to obtain right and justice.

We should not only demand the unconditional pardon of Dela Campa, but also insist upon the future guarantee of all the rights to which the people of Florida are entitled under the constitution of our Republic. Outrages of the character as they occurred in Tampa tend to intensify the feeling among our people that equality before the law is a sham and a delusion. Your attention is called to the article and correspondence in the December, 1910, American Federationist under the caption, "The Attempt to Drive Union Labor From Tampa."

Los Angeles Situation.

For several years we, as an Executive Council, have devoted a section of our report to the situation in the labor movement in Los Angeles, this by reason of the fact that the metropolis of Southern California has been made the special target of those who seek to crush out and ultimately destroy our labor movement.

Wholly apart from the Los Angeles situation as particularly referring to the trial of the McNamara brothers now in progress there, and which is dealt with fully in President Gompers' report, we are pleased to be able to say that there has been an increase in the number of unions formed and an increase in membership in the unions of more than 7,000; all this within the past year.

Our President reports that upon his visit to Los Angeles he was greatly gratified to find that the spirit of the men of labor of that city is undaunted by the many obstacles and the bitter opposition confronting the labor movement.

Transportation Department.

There was some discussion during our last convention as to the advisability of forming a transportation department of the A. F. of L. The entire subject was referred to us for conference with the representatives of the several transportation organizations as to the practicability of organizing such a department. The officers of each organization eligible were consulted, and the final conclusion reached was unfavorable to the proposed project for the present.

Organized Farmers.

At the time of our meeting at headquarters in January, the Executive Board of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America was also meeting in the city of Washington. Four members of that body, representing the states of Colorado, Texas, Georgia and Washington, were present during one of our sessions to officially convey to your Executive Council that it was the expressed wish of the Farmers' Executive Board to co-operate in every possible way with organized labor to bring about more satisfactory conditions to the wage-earners of our country and to inquire in what way the Farmers' organizations could be of assistance to further the cause of all labor. It was stated that the Executive Board of the Farmers' organization had decided to institute a campaign for the purpose of educating their members to work for the securing of remedial legislation, and that Washington's birthday, February 22d, had been decided upon as Farmers' Day. Needless to say, the farmers' committee was most cordially received, and a most interesting conference ensued during which the committee was fully advised as to the particular matters of legislation, the enactment of which organized labor seeks.

The St. Louis convention gave authority to the Executive Council to send a representative of the A. F. of L. to attend the next annual convention of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union. That convention was held at Shawnee, Okla., September 5th, and for several days thereafter. Mr. Henry M. Walker, of El Paso, Texas, was duly appointed as the representative of the A. F. of L., and attended that convention. His report substantially is as follows:

Aside from the many problems apparently of particular interest to the actual farmer the convention accorded to numerous representatives of organized labor opportunities to address it.

The convention unanimously adopted the following:

Resolved, That the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, recommends a closer co-operation between the union men of the farm, railroads, mines, mills, factories and shops, to the end that a greater good may result to the masses.

Resolved, That the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America stands firmly for the enforcement of order and compliance with the laws of our states and nation; more especially by those who occupy an apparently semi-official position.

We demand the punishment of crime through the enforcement of law.

We denounce the act of kidnapping a citizen of one state (regardless of the crime of which he may be charged), and splitting him away to another state without due process of law, is of itself a crime that strikes at the very foundation of our civilization. A crime which if permitted to go unrebuked and unpunished must inevitably have a far-reaching effect in lessening respect for law, and encouraging further acts of anarchy and vandalism. A crime that will go far towards destroying the security, not only of our property, but of our homes and the lives of ourselves and families.

From information gathered through personal conversations with delegates from the various states, it was ascertained that co-operation in some form or other, between the union farmers and the union laborers is meeting with success in a number of the states and that in either case the farmers favor closer co-operation.

In one of the Southern States the Farmers' State Union and the State Federation of Labor publish a state paper, in which they jointly keep their principles, purposes and policies before their members and the public-at-large.

In one state, it was learned, that thirty-seven co-operative stores are successfully conducted. In other states, in which other lines of business are carried on by the mutual co-operation of farmers and laborers, success has crowned the work. The farmers are demanding the initiative, referendum and the recall.

It was ascertained that the Executive Committee for the Farmers' State Union of Oklahoma adopted the following:

We feel that it is appropriate, as well as our sacred duty, to give an expression against the outrageous kidnapping of J. J. McNamara, Secretary of the Iron Workers' Union, by a hired detective agency, without due process of law. We join our protest with the millions of toilers who feel this outrage most keenly and we denounce this kidnapping as villainous, un-American, and a burning disgrace to modern civilization. The weakness of the cause of plutocracy is clearly shown by this unlawful outrage.

We recommend that the work in co-operation with the Farmers' organization shall not only be continued, but that as far as practicable, advisable and advantageous, that it shall be extended. We further recommend that the Executive Council be authorized to have a representative of the A. F. of L. attend the next annual convention of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union. We take this occasion to express our appreciation of the action taken by those conventions of the organized farmers, and we recommend that they be invited to send regular fraternal delegates to our conventions of the American Federation of Labor.

Union Label Law Digest.

We are pleased to be able to report that the compilation and printing of the Digest of the Union Label laws have been completed and the volumes distributed to the various organizations which contributed to the fund to defray the expenses of the work.

Union Label Leagues.

Considerable misapprehension or misunderstanding seems to exist among some of the central labor unions affiliated to the American Federation of Labor as to the rights of the locals of the Women's Union Label League to be represented in the central bodies, with the same rights and privileges as locals of affiliated national and international unions.

In all such cases the central bodies in interest have been fully advised as to the laws, policy and practice of the American Federation of Labor governing such matters, and that these locals should be allowed representation by fraternal delegates only just as organizations of a similar character are allowed representation by fraternal delegates in the conventions of the American Federation of Labor. In some instances the central bodies have insisted that these locals should be granted the privilege of a voice and vote in the meetings in as much as the constitution of the American Federation of Labor does not specifically declare otherwise.

Central bodies, like the conventions of the American Federation of Labor, are made up of the representatives of organized wage-earners, legislated by wage-earners for wage-earners. While we realize the value of the services rendered by Union Label Leagues for the cause of union label agitation, yet, in the matter of legislation determining the course which organized labor should pursue in any given set of circumstances, the best interests demand that any matters upon questions affecting the course of labor, those who are primarily affected must, of necessity, determine that course by their votes. This is not a reflection upon the Union Label Leagues, nor is it a denial of any of their rights or under-valuation of the effective services they render, but if our labor movement is to maintain its character of a wage-earner's movement, its course and policy must be determined by the organized wage-earners themselves.

We would, therefore, recommend that this convention should make a specific declaration upon the subject for future guidance of affiliated city central bodies.

Counterfeiting A. F. of L. Union Label.

One of the organizations, through its delegates, made complaint to the St. Louis convention of several manufacturers in New York city who were counterfeiting the union label of the American Federation of Labor, this matter being through Resolution No. 56.

President Gompers visited New York and together with the A. F. of L. official representative of that city, had a long conference with the District Attorney who promised his full assistance in the prosecution of the counterfeiters. In fact, an arrangement was made whereby a detective and an assistant district attorney were assigned to the particular work of the detection and prosecution of those who undertake to secure contributions from business men and employers of labor in the name of organized labor and who counterfeited the union label.

This action on the part of the District Attorney has been greatly helpful in protecting the good name of labor in New York and also protecting the business public against such imposters. It should be further stated that some arrests have been made and the parties who thus fraudulently used the name of organized labor are now serving the sentences imposed upon them by the proper legal authorities.

American Federation of Labor Office Building.

There is little that we are able to report to you at this time in addition to our report at St. Louis. A number of additional sites have been submitted to us which we have considered and the feasibility of which we have discussed, but we are not now prepared to make any report of a specific plan for an office building.

We recommend, however, that consideration of this matter should be continued during the coming year, and the Executive Council authorized to carry into effect any plan for the erection of the A. F. of L. office building within the limits of the instructions of the previous conventions.

A. F. of L. News Letter.

Pursuant to action taken by the St. Louis convention of the American Federation of Labor, directing the Executive Council to prepare and distribute a weekly news letter, free of cost, to all publications devoted to the cause of labor, or of a reform character, arrangements were completed and the service was inaugurated on April 8, 1911, on which date the first letter was forwarded to the publications for which it was intended. We are gratified to report that the news letter has been of immense value to all publications issued in the interests of labor.

Careful attention has been given to the amount of matter printed by the various publications receiving the news letter. The number of columns published of the first letter sent out reached in the aggregate approximately 140 columns, distributed over a very fair per cent of all the labor, reform and other publications receiving the service. The use of this matter has been continually on the increase until the maximum amount of matter published reached over 500 columns per week. Computing on the basis of the number of publications received and checked at headquarters, this is an average of over four columns per labor paper for each issue. It must be understood that these figures cover only the weekly labor and reform press, not including the official journals of national organizations. The latter journals are using a large amount of matter in addition to that already noted. It must be remembered, however, that the national journals from their very character contain in the main official matter of the organization issuing same, but it is a noticeable fact that many of the national journals have, since the inauguration of this service, gradually increased their publication of the same.

There have been launched this year, since the inauguration of the news letter, about twelve new weekly labor publications.

As a result of the dissemination of this news much correspondence has ensued relative to the service, not alone coming from the labor and reform press, but from daily, weekly and other publications not devoted exclusively to labor. Many of these communications make application for the service and, where it does not conflict with the labor press, the news has been furnished. It is notable that the weekly labor press as a whole has been beneficially affected by the furnishing of this news service, many of which publications have increased in size.

Without question, if it be possible in the future to extend this service to the point where it will be possible to maintain at headquarters a general publicity bureau, there are many avenues through which trade union news can be disseminated. For your information it can be stated that there are a very large number of weekly papers distributed throughout the entire country, that would, if possible, print a limited amount of trade union news. This is called to your attention from the fact that in a number of instances weekly papers not connected in any manner with labor are publishing portions of the news letter.

It is suggested and urged that the weekly news letter be continued and that efforts be made looking toward the furnishing of this service to all publications in every part of the country that are not in conflict with those devoted exclusively to labor. It will require a considerable period of time to obtain the full effect of a general publicity news letter, but the results thus far have been gratifying and the experience gained thus far, if continued along the same lines, will be inestimable value to our labor movement of the future.

We have sent the weekly news letter to a few labor publications of Europe and have received highly commendatory letters from these sources. In two instances it has been suggested that we extend the issuance of the weekly news letter for the International Labor movement. However, since at our suggestion the International Secretariat at its meeting in Budapest in August, empowered the executive officer to issue bulletins of this character, we have deemed it unwise to undertake the new obligation.

Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation Laws.

The St. Louis convention instructed the Executive Council to investigate the entire subject matter of liability and compensation and report to the next convention of the American Federation of Labor such recommendations relative to legislation, as in our judgment will secure just laws on these subjects along the lines of uniformity.

In our President's report to the St. Louis convention he stated that up to that time thirty-seven states had enacted some form of Employers' Liability law; very few of which, however, had been liberally or humanely interpreted for the workers by the courts. This failure is accounted for because of the peculiar judicial reasoning of the judges in their determination to follow earlier decisions on the defenses of "assumption of risk," "contributory negligence," and "fellow servant" rulings; with the addition of another employers' defense termed "waiving of rights."

Up to that time, however, seventeen states had abrogated the defense of "fellow servant" responsibility in liability laws applicable to transportation service.

Colorado eliminated this defense in all employments.

Seven states have modified the "fellow servant" rule without abrogating it.

Some others had modified the rulings of "contributory negligence."

This is referred to, to call attention to the complications with these vicious obstacles which have been employed by law-makers and law administrators to maintain the burden of accidents upon the injured person, his family or other dependents. Each and all of these defenses were devised in the past years before employment had become so diversified, extensive or intensified as modern industry and transportation have now developed.

It must be remembered that the American Federation of Labor has for years called public attention to the need of effective remedies. It has registered its protest in a formal but emphatic way before Congress and the officials of the government, calling specific attention to the need of satisfactory Employers' Liability laws, and urging the enactment of workmen's automatic compensation laws. This agitation has been persistently carried on since, finally developing a great educational system by which the American Federation of Labor has been practically the clearing house for information to the people on detailed information covering these subjects.

Some good results in the way of legislation have also been secured. First, the sixtieth Congress enacted a law covering inter-state employment on railroads, intended to cover the deficiencies of the act of 1906, which was declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court in February, 1908. The same Congress enacted an automatic compensation law in behalf of government employes engaged in hazardous occupations. While it is true the benefits attached to this law for death and permanent injury are far from being sufficient, yet we can congratulate ourselves for the high standard modern automatic principle established on this subject, and that the benefits of this law have been a blessing to many workers in the government service.

The sixty-first Congress further amended the Federal Employers' Liability law, making it still more advantageous to employes on inter-state railroads.

During the past two years the states of Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Montana, Washington, Idaho, Kansas and Missouri, together with the Federal Government, have had commissions at work making exhaustive inquiries and reporting to the several legislatures the results of their findings upon these two subjects, with the result that, up to our latest advices, the states of Massachusetts, Mississippi, New Jersey, New Hampshire, New York, Ohio, California, Florida, Illinois, Kansas, Vermont, Washington and Wisconsin, have, during the recent sessions of their several legislatures, either amended their present statutes or enacted new ones that will prove great blessings to the workers in the states mentioned, and in addition, which will be an incentive for the people of neighboring states to follow along similar lines. For instance, the state of Mississippi removed the defense of "contributory negligence" as a bar to recovery. Ohio abrogated all of the old defenses, namely, "fellow servant," "assumption of risk," "waiving of rights," and modified the "contributory negligence" defense to one of "comparative negligence" to be submitted to the jury, the law to cover all employments in the state. Ohio also passed an elective compensation act, by which any employer who refuses to accept the provisions contained in it is denied any of the defenses to which we have already referred.

New Jersey, Illinois, New Hampshire, California and Vermont passed measures substantially on the same lines as Ohio, insofar as the "defenses" in employers' liability are concerned.

Florida enacted a moderate bill as a first step.

Kansas amended its Employers' Liability Act to conform to the Federal Act.

One of the laws enacted by New York was by its highest court declared unconstitutional, but steps have already been taken by the people of that state to so amend the constitution or the law that the courts will be deprived of the prerogative to set aside the will of the people.

Wisconsin has enacted a very satisfactory measure.

The Massachusetts Commission submitted its recommendation to the courts of that state for examination before recommending the legislature to enact it. The court gave its approval to the proposed measure.

The state of Washington enacted possibly the most progressive compensation act of all the states, in that it created a state insurance department, through which every industry is taxed a percentage of its payroll, the entire funds thus collected therefor going to pay for injuries received in the course of employment, the state bearing the burden of the administration. A case under this act was speedily carried to the courts of the state, and on September 27th, under decision of Justice Fullerton, concurred in by the full court; this excellent measure was declared as being constitutional, the last words of the decision reading: "We conclude, therefore, that the question violates no provision of either the state or the Federal constitutions."

The compensation laws herein referred to that have been adopted by the several states, have embraced the feature of being compulsory as applied to the state and municipalities within the state, but permitting them to be elective on the part of private employers. Where the acts have been accepted as compulsory in all cases the former liability laws have been repealed. Under the elective* system the doctrine of the common law, on this subject remains in full force; consequently, parties involved may elect to operate under the compensation measure, or may take it into court and sue under substantially the common law for the recovery of full damages, but where the employer refuses compensation, the injured workman or his dependents may then sue under the existing liability laws in which the defenses of the employers are largely abrogated.

In Kansas, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Minnesota, Illinois and Ohio, the compensation laws are elective, which form permits employers and employees to contract with each other for the substitution of the liability for compensation in the place of liability for damages obtained in court under an Employers' Liability Act.

In California, Wisconsin and Minnesota, they are elective as applicable to private parties, but compulsory to the state and its sub-divisions. The compulsory form gives the injured workman the right to compensation in every case (except where the injury is caused by his own serious and wilful misconduct), and this compensation must be accepted to the exclusion of all other remedies except in cases of injury resulting from the employers' serious and wilful misconduct; in which cases the remedy would be allowed under the regular file in court.

The Washington law carries with it a compulsory insurance feature.

The Minnesota law embraces an elective, co-operative insurance plan. Co-operative insurance is a scheme by which the fund is obtained by premiums from both the employer and employees or from the employer alone.

In Maryland the law only applies to two counties, namely, Allegheny and Garrett, and only two industries are included; namely, coal and clay mining.

---

*The use of the term "elective" is technical and applies to the choice of workers or their families in choosing to trial by courts for damages or to avail themselves of compensation.

During the consideration of these laws in the several states, one of the subjects that perplexed the commissions most was, to what extent the law should apply in the matter of industrial occupation; consequently, local conditions influencing industrial activities in a state naturally guided the legislatures on this point.

In Kansas, New Hampshire and Washington, an enumerated list was compiled as to what were considered especially dangerous or extraordinarily hazardous

In New Jersey and Ohio all industries are covered (as they should be).

In Illinois, California and Wisconsin, the application is general, but an exception is made against "casual employees."

The Phillip's Act, of the State of New York, Section 2, Chapter 352, laws of 1910, has been described as an elective law in its purest form, and it is advised that this statute must not be confused with the Compensation Act, Chapter 674, of the laws of the same year, which was declared unconstitutional, and in which the New York Court of Appeals held that under the fourteenth amendment and the "due process of law" clause in the Federal constitution, that employers should not be held liable for damages or compensation unless fault on their part is proven to be conclusive and convincing. The court held that "if it is competent to impose upon an employer who has omitted no legal duty and has committed no wrong, a liability based absolutely upon legislation that his business is inherently dangerous, it is equally competent to visit upon him an especial tax for the support of hospitals, etc., upon the theory that they are devoted largely to the alleviation of ills primarily due to his business. In its final analysis that is equivalent to taking the property of one man and giving it to another, and that cannot be done under our constitution."

This much of the New York court decision is quoted in order to familiarize you, and all others interested, in part as to what that decision covered. Therefore, it is deemed wise that provision should be made in ample time to forestall any repetition of such extraordinarily strained judicial reasoning. Consequently, as a supplement to adequate compensation, legislation and efficient Employers' Liability laws, due consideration should be given, if necessary, to suitable amendments of state constitutions, so as to prevent similar decisions as in the New York case from being repeated. Such amendments might read as follows:

Proposed Amendment to the State Constitution.

"The legislature may impose such conditions on any contracts of employment as shall be designated to protect the health or promote the safety or well being of any of the parties thereto or the public, or to make provision for the payment of compensation with or without the right of trial by jury and with or without regard to fault of employees injured by accidents of employment, or to persons dependent upon them, either by or employers by employers and employees or otherwise, in such manner as the legislature may prescribe, and in the exercise of the powers herein conferred the legislature shall not be limited under any other articles or sections of the constitution."

The agitation of such a proposed amendment to a state constitution wherever necessary would in some cases be sufficient moral influence to render favorable decisions already pending in courts.

It is our opinion that in all cases where an effort is being made to amend the present Employers' Liability laws in a state or an effort being made to enact new ones, that these uniform demands should be made:

1. A complete and total abrogation of all the old common law defenses enumerated under the heads of "fellow servant," "assumption of risk," "contributory negligence," "waiving of rights," with this additional suggestion:

2. That in compensation laws the right of the workman to sue for full damages should be reserved.

3. The feature of benefits is liable to be for some time a vexed question, and, in our opinion, is one that will develop according to experiences met with in the various jurisdictions, and which as time goes on will be easy to add to a measure by amendment when once the humane principle of automatic compensation is written into the statute books of the states.

In accordance with the directions of previous conventions, the Executive Council prepared sketch models of Employers' Liability laws and Workmen's Compensation Acts and plentifully distributed them among the affiliated organizations. In addition we also furnished these tentative drafts for use by the commissions which had these subjects under consideration. We feel confident that these drafts of proposed laws have had their fair meed of influence.

From the foregoing you will observe that the several States legislating on the subject of workmen's compensation have enacted laws in many respects dissimilar in character, and inasmuch as valuable information has been secured since our last report on this subject to you, which would be of advantage in drafting a bill reflecting the needs and desires of our fellow-workers, we recommend that the Executive Council be instructed to draft a new bill and urge its passage by the several State Legislatures which have either not acted at all or which have not passed adequate compensation measures.

Industrial Accidents.

It is to be regretted that the great work of establishing a national system for the prevention of industrial accidents is as yet in its preliminary stage. This is our reluctant verdict, though we have in mind the laborious efforts in this respect made not only by the A. F. of L. as such, and by other trade unions, but by various civic bodies, employers' trade associations, and some large industrial corporations. The whole subject still requires special study, the public needs instruction with regard to it, and co-ordination in the work of the several agencies now giving it attention is desirable. We suggest that a national association for the prevention of accidents should be formed. Together with representatives of trade unions, it should be composed of such men from the professions and from those departments of the industries, other than the wage-earners, who from their knowledge and training could assist in the work to the best advantage. The association could avail itself of the reports, and the printed matter in general, which have already appeared, and may in future appear on the subject, it could make plain the difficulties to be encountered in the reform, and it could lay out a program through which the most direct work might be accomplished by the entire association, especially avoiding duplication of effort.

Industrial Education.

Most unfortunately for the cause of the vocational education and trade training bill, advocated by labor, Senator Doliver passed away before his ambition and our great hopes of speedy legislation in this direction could be realized. His great loss, combined with many other obstacles constantly taking place in both Houses during the 61st Congress, prevented the bill from being advanced.

During the present Congress, Senator Page of Vermont, who is favorably inclined towards this measure, and who is a member of the Senate Committee on Agriculture, introduced the bill S. No. 3, on the first day the senate was in session during this Congress. Largely on account of the great interest Senator Page has taken in industrial education, the Senate Committee on Agriculture recently passed the following resolution, which, in our estimation, is a matter of great encouragement:

RESOLVED, That Senator Page, as a sub-committee of one, be instructed to correspond with leading educators and others interested in the purposes of the proposed measure, and to report to the full committee the result of his investigation, and to submit a bill amended to conform to the suggestions he might receive from such correspondents, or any he might have to make, and that the committee approves the general purposes of the bill.

The United State Bureau of Labor has completed the investigation it undertook at our request. Copies of this report are now ready for distribution, the contents of which we believe will be helpful in the prosecution of this very desirable effort.

We are pleased to say that many influential organizations are working in co-operation with the American Federation of Labor, as evidence of which we herewith include in our report the communication recently received from the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education:

New York, N. Y., Oct. 17, 1911.
To the President and Executive Council,
American Federation of Labor.
Gentlemen:

The executive committee of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education wish to lay before you the following suggestions, looking towards further co-operation of the A. F. of L. in the work of forwarding measures for industrial education in the United States.

It is the judgment of the undersigned that state legislation providing for state supervision and state assistance must necessarily precede any large development of industrial education in this country. If this be the fact, it is obvious that it is a matter of much importance that such legislation be framed with care and intelligence, and a full knowledge of the situation.

Furthermore, the experience of the past six years shows that the surest guarantee of this result is the agency of a representative state commission to study the special conditions presented by the industrial and educational situation in each state, and to report a program for legislative consideration.

We urge, in consequence, that the influence of the Federation be exerted through its State Branches in co-operation with other agencies, towards the creation, in states where the situation warrants provisions for industrial education, of such investigating commissions, and towards the inclusion in these commissions of representatives of the employers, of organized labor, and of education.

We further urge that in states where branches of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education exist, the State Branches of the Federation seek to co-operate in this movement with such branches.

In urging such co-operation it should be understood that in the judgment of the undersigned the legislation to be aimed at is such as places emphasis upon

First, Continuation schools, both of the part-time day type for the younger boys and girls, and of the evening type for more mature workers; and,

Second, Upon the all-day trade preparatory school for boys and girls between fourteen and sixteen years of age.

In the matter of federal legislation looking to national aid for industrial education, it is urged that the influences of the American Federation of Labor be exerted towards the appointment, preliminary to such legislation, of a national commission on which the Commissioner of Labor, the Commissioner of Education, and a representative of the Department of Agriculture shall have places, together with perhaps four other members representing education and the manufacturing, labor and agricultural interests.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) JAMES P. MUNROE, Pres.

(Signed) HOWELL CHENEY,

(Signed) JOHN GOLDEN,

(Signed) A. LINCOLN FILENE,

(Signed) ARTHUR L. WILLISTON,

(Signed) C. R. RICHARDS.

Representative Wilson, of Pennsylvania, has introduced bill H. R. No. 12156, which is identical with S. No. 3, introduced by Senator Page. Both of these bills are before the Committees on Agriculture, and it is our purpose to urge the enactment of same as speedily as possible.

We trust that the same co-operation which has been forthcoming in the past from the State Federation, and from all of our forces, will be continued in future until effective federal and state legislation has been enacted for the purpose of advancing genuine and beneficial industrial vocational trade training.

As you know, the Special Committee on Industrial Education appointed by the American Federation of Labor, submitted to the Toronto Convention of 1903 a report which, after due consideration, was incorporated in the official printed proceedings of that Conventions. That report, together with the declarations of the Convention on that subject, was printed and widely distributed as an American Federation of Labor document. The committee asked for further time, which was accorded. The purpose the special committee had in mind was to have the Bureau of Labor of the United States undertake an investigation of the general subject of industrial education and vocational training, not only in the United States but in other countries. Inasmuch as we have been successful in having the Bureau of Labor make that investigation and the results thereof have been printed and are obtainable without cost to the men of labor and others, we recommend that the special committee be requested to submit to the 1912 Convention of the American Federation of Labor a full report upon this subject.

Pure Foods—Pure Drugs.

Due to untold greed, the health and the lives of the people of our country have been placed in jeopardy through adulterations and substitutes in the foods and the drugs sold to the masses of our people. The Congress of the United States has enacted laws for the better protection of the people in regard to this traffic by the passage of what is known as the pure food law, five years ago. Those who have profited, and still profit, by the imposition upon the people of impure foods and drugs, have become more active in the recent past; they have perfected combinations by reason of the great profits resulting from their traffic and have endeavored to circumvent the law, even to the extent of trying to remove a faithful public officer who has stood between them and the people. When such men in their greed for profit alone endanger the health and the lives of myriads of men, women and children—the workers—the duty devolves upon our movement to take such action as shall safeguard our own.

With this object in view, taking cognizance of the efforts made by other associations of men to be of service to the people in regard to this movement, the Executive Council at its recent meeting adopted the following:

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council appoint a committee of three to meet with representatives of all bodies and persons having for their object the securing of legislation or administration to secure pure food and pure drugs for the people of this country.

We have selected President Gompers, Vice-President O'Connell, and Secretary Morrison as the committee.

New Mexico's Constitution.

From many quarters in New Mexico urgent requests have come for our co-operation in securing needed amendment of the proposed constitution for the prospective state of New Mexico. It will be recalled that the convention which formulated the constitution of that prospective state contained a provision which would make it practically impossible to amend the constitution after that state would have been admitted to the Union. It was to secure for the people of New Mexico the opportunity for the amendment of the constitution of New Mexico whenever deemed necessary or advisable by them, having aided in this respect both with the progressive constitution of Oklahoma and of Arizona, that we deemed it our duty also to comply with the requests from New Mexico. We have heretofore placed three of our organizers in that field to aid to the fullest in securing immediate change in the constitution of that prospective state. Our latest information is, we are pleased to report, that the amendment to the constitution has been adopted.

International Secretariat—Budapest Congress.

The International Secretariat held its congress in Budapest, Hungary, August 10-13. At our January meeting we adopted the following as instructions to Vice-President Duncan, as delegate from the American Federation of Labor to that congress:

1. We do not favor anti-patriotism or anti-militarism in the sense as proposed by the representatives of the Confederation General du Travail of France;

2. We do not favor the general strike as proposed by the Confederation General du Travail of France;

3. We favor the organization of an international federation of labor, the representatives of the international trade union centers not to be confined to the secretaries thereof;

4. That every means be taken to prevent the exportation of strike breakers from one country to another, whether a strike is in actual existence or contemplation;

5. For legislation in the several countries more uniform in character, governing hours of labor of women and men in dangerous trades, and for the abolition or restriction of the labor of children under the age of fourteen in any gainful occupation;

6. For safety appliances, sanitary conditions of labor, housing reform and improvement of the workers;

7. The publication of an official monthly journal or bulletin by the International Secretariat or International Federation of Labor in several languages, in which shall be given the state of trade in each country, conditions of labor, progress in legislation and all other matters affecting the labor movement in the various countries.

At our June meeting we adopted the following resolutions for Vice-President Duncan to present to the International Secretariat:

RESOLVED, That the International Trade Union congress recommends to the trade union centers (General Federation of Congresses) of all countries the discussion of the proposition of establishing an international federation of labor, the autonomy of the trade union movement of each country being ordained and guaranteed, the purpose of the federation being for the protection and the advancement of the rights, interests and justice of the wage-workers of all countries and the establishment of international fraternity and solidarity.

RESOLVED, That it shall be the purpose of the labor movement of all countries to endeavor to the fullest extent to prevent the workers from one country being induced to emigrate to other countries during periods of industrial depression, or when trade disputes exist, or are in contemplation; that it shall be the duty of the recognized representatives of the labor movement of the country affected to notify the international secretary, who in turn shall at once communicate the situation to the representatives of the trade union movement of each country.

RESOLVED, That the International Secretariat when receiving any document from any source other than an affiliated national centre in which the integrity or character of the loyal party of a particular national centre is assailed, that copy of the document shall be forwarded to the official representative of the National centre in interest. In the event of an answer being made by the proper authorities of the national centre and received by the International Secretariat, the latter officer shall retain the same. If the proper authorities of the national centre in interest enter valid objection to the dissemination of the original document it shall be held by the International Secretariat and reported to the next conference of the International Secretariat which may order both documents sent to the various affiliated national union centres with such opinion or judgment as the conference of the International Secretariat may determine.

We further authorized Brother Duncan to extend an invitation to the International Secretariat to hold its meeting in 1915 in San Francisco, California, and that Mr. Carle Legien, president of the Trade Union Federation of Germany and general secretary of the International Secretariat, be invited to visit the United States and deliver a series of addresses here under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor.

We have been informed the Budapest meeting was harmonious, progressive and successful, and quite fully attended by delegates from the several countries affiliated therein. The propositions put forward for consideration by the Secretariat by your representative were all discussed and favorably received. A synopsis of the proceedings will be made to this convention by delegate Duncan along with comments on the action taken also on some phases of the European labor movement, and which we commend to your attention.

Boy Scout Movement.

Within a few years a movement has grown, known as the "Boy Scout" movement. Some discussion of the subject has been had through the literature issued by the advocates of that movement, and through the press. A division in its ranks arose, so that there are now two forms, as well as administrators and policies. The members of the Executive Council have been approached by the representatives of that movement with a view of its clearer presentation to and approval by us. On the other hand, a number of our fellow unionists and some of our affiliated organizations, have expressed their disapproval with the movement, and some of its purposes and policies. In consequence of the fact that we have been so completely engrossed in other work requiring our constant attention, we have been unable to give the subject investigation, and therefore have been unable to form a clear judgment as to the merits or demerits of that movement. We therefore recommend to this convention that the Executive Council be authorized and directed to make an investigation into the boy scout movement, to afford all parties an opportunity for the presentation of their views and aims upon the subject, and that the Executive Council after full and fair investigation be authorized to express its judgment and the position of the American Federation of Labor toward it, or if in the opinion of the Executive Council the matter should first be reported to the next convention of the American Federation of Labor for action that that course be pursued.

Conservation Natural Resources.

The third annual Conservation Congress met at Kansas City, Missouri, September 25, 26, 27. Mr. John T. Smith, Secretary of the Missouri State Federation of Labor, was appointed to represent the A. F. of L. Committee on conservation of Natural Resources. In his report he states that an amendment to the constitution of the congress was unanimously adopted, providing for an Advisory Board, consisting of one person from each national organization concerned in conservation represented at each congress, with a chairman to be selected by them from their number, and during the interval before the next succeeding congress, this advisory board shall report to and co-operate with the executive committee.

After the adoption of this amendment, the representatives of all national organizations at the congress were requested to meet with the Executive Board for the purpose of organizing the Advisory Board. As our representative at the congress was only acting as the representative of the conservation committee of the American Federation of Labor, he advised the Executive Board that he was not eligible to act on the Advisory Board, but that the representative of the A. F. of L. would be duly appointed.

We, therefore, appointed President Gompers to act on the Advisory Board of the Conservation Congress and recommend that the Conservation Committee of the A. F. of L. be continued during the coming year.

White Rats Actors' Union—Benefit Performances.

The officers of the White Rats Actors' Union of America have recently been in correspondence with the officers of the A. F. of L. in regard to a matter of such importance that it seems you should be advised thereof. In brief, it is that the officers of the White Rats Actors' Union suggest a series of benefit performances for organized labor one day in each year, the proceeds from these performances to be donated to the labor movement, the performers to give their services free.

We recommend that this convention authorize the appointment of a committee to confer with the representatives of the organization in question to consider the offer and to devise ways and means for practically putting into effect the suggested plan, so far as it relates to raising funds for the proper defense of the McNamara brothers and the prosecution of the kidnappers.

Labor Representation Committee's Report.

Atlanta, Ga., November 13, 1911.
To the Executive Council, American Federation of Labor.
Colleagues:

By authority of the conventions of the American Federation of Labor, as well as in accordance with your instructions, the Labor Representation Committee has not only kept in mind the instructions given relative to legislation and administration affecting the interests of labor, but we have been active in pressing home upon the law makers and the executive department the rights to which the workers of our country are entitled. From time to time we have reported to you, and through you to the conventions of the American Federation of Labor, and our work has met with approval and endorsement and directions have been given to further continue in these efforts. The matters of specific legislative demands which the American Federation of Labor has formulated, and the actions of our officers and our committee, are enumerated more specifically in the reports which both the President and the Executive Council contemplate presenting for consideration to the Atlanta Convention. Hence it is not necessary to burden this with duplication.

We recommend to the Executive Council, and if you approve in turn, you recommend to the Atlanta Convention, that the Labor Representation Committee be continued and authorized and empowered to act in unison with the Executive Council, for the purpose of taking such action as may be deemed advisable and necessary for the successful consummation of the legislative demands and executive action by our federal government.

Fraternally yours,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,

Chairman;

JAMES O'CONNELL,

Vice-Chairman;

FRANK MORRISON,

Secretary.

Labor Representation Committee.

The Executive Council takes pleasure in commending the work performed by the Labor Representation Committee, and recommends to this convention that authority and instruction be given the Labor Representation Committee as stated in the report of the committee just quoted.

The President's Report.

We have read the report and recommendations which the President of the A. F. of L. has submitted to this Convention and in order to avoid duplication herein of the subjects with which he deals, we heartily approve the same and commend them to the favorable consideration of this convention, and to all organized labor.

Conclusion.

With a view to reaching conclusions that would be practical and advantageous not only to our great movement itself, but also to the cause of labor and humanity which our movement is instituted to advance, the multifarious matters which have been referred to us and which have come before us in other ways have been given the most careful consideration. The American labor movement aims to be the potent factor in securing the largest measure of economic, material, political, social, and moral advancement for the wage earners and for all the people of our continent. In furtherance of these high aims, the potentiality of organized, concentrated effort has been recognized, and the directions given us with which we are in entire accord, have been to eliminate duality and rivalry to the fullest possible extent. The consensus of opinion as expressed and declared by the Conventions of the American Federation of Labor has been that in a given trade, or in trades so nearly akin to each other as to make them one, or practically one, there should be one intelligent, comprehensively administered national or international organization. We have endeavored to crystallize these declarations and instructions into the practical recommendations which we have submitted in this report for action by this convention.

Despite the fact that the reports which have been and are herewith submitted to you are voluminous, there is a considerable number of matters of greater or lesser importance which it is impossible to incorporate therein. We are conscious of having had but one single purpose guiding our deliberations and our conclusions, and that is the hope of being of the best possible aid to our fellow workers and our fellow man in this struggle of labor for the attainments of a better time and a higher life for all.

Fraternally submitted.

SAMUEL GOMPERS,

President,

JAMES DUNCAN,

First Vice-President,

JOHN MITCHELL,

Second Vice-President,

JAMES O'CONNELL,

Third Vice-President,

D. A. HAYES,

Fourth Vice-President,

WILLIAM D. HUBER,

Fifth Vice-President,

JOS. F. VALENTINE,

Sixth Vice-President,

JOHN R. ALPINE,

Seventh Vice-President

H. B. PERHAM,

Eighth Vice-President,

JOHN B. LENNON,

Treasurer,

FRANK MORRISON,

Secretary,

President Gompers—Some time during the sessions the Chairman will assign the various subjects upon which the Executive Council has reported to the Appropriate Committees.

President Gompers presented to the Convention Mr. C. F. Barrett, President of the Farmers' International Union, stating that he would address the Convention at a later date.

President Gompers—Delegate Kerker, of the Bakers' International Union, has notified us that Delegate Myrup, of that organization, has been detained at his home by reason of illness, and asks that his name not be included in the list of absentees. Delegate Myrup was appointed on the Committee on Organization, and inasmuch as he cannot serve the chair will appoint Delegate Henry Koch, the other delegate from that organization, as a substitute for Delegate Myrup. If there are no objections that appointment will be made. Hearing none, it is made.

In accordance with the instructions of the Convention the following telegram has been sent:

"Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 14, 1911.

"J. J. and J. B. McNamara, Los Angeles, Calif.

"Your message of fraternal greeting, expression of hope for success of our Convention and the cause of Labor, and appreciation of Labor's efforts in your behalf, was read to the delegates and visitors, and was received with a great demonstration of sympathetic appreciation. By unanimous vote the Convention directed me to send you the assurance of the delegates of their belief in your innocence of the crime with which you have been charged, and to pledge to you our continued moral and financial support to the end that your innocence may be established.

"SAMUEL GOMPERS,

"President American Federation of Labor."

President Gompers stated that a series of preambles and resolutions had been received from an affiliated organization, the Theatrical Stage Employees, signed by the officers, and covering in detail the history of a dispute with an employer. He stated that the document contained several thousand words and asked the wishes of the Convention in regard to including the entire matter in the proceedings.

Delegate Carter moved that the document be referred back to the delegates from the organization in question, with the request that they condense the matter contained in the preamble and resolutions presented, in order that the action which the organization desires from the American Federation of Labor may be stated in the preamble and resolutions, omitting the argument and detail. (Seconded and carried.)

Badges and souvenirs were distributed to the delegates by the local Entertainment Committee.

The local Entertainment Committee was requested to arrange for a photographer to take a group picture of the Convention at some convenient time.

Resolutions No. 1 to No. 22, inclusive, were received and referred to Committees.

At 1:30 p. m. a recess was taken until 2:45 p. m. of the same day.

Second Day--Afternoon Session

The Convention was called to order at 2:45 p. m. Tuesday, November 14th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Pfeil, Thomas, Smith (Fred), Dubinsky, D'Andrea, Williams (John), Roach, Coakley, Price, Lewis, Dold, Gallagher (John J.), Taber, Commons, Gavlak, Hatch, Kelly (Wm. E.), Anderson (W. H.), Ferry, Hurley, Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Hobbs, Wendt, Davis, Fuller, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Creamer, Donnelly, Saund-Engdahl, Schaub.

Report of Fraternal Delegates to the British Trades Union Congress, Held in Newcastle-on-Tyne, September 4-9, 1911.

Delegate Tobin (D. J.), read the following report:

To the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, Greeting:

As your delegates to the forty-fourth British Trades Union Congress, held in Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, we beg leave to submit the following report:

The Congress convened Monday, September 4th, and concluded Saturday, September 9, 1911. Mr. Wm. Mullen, Chairman of the Parliamentary Committee, presided over the deliberations of the Congress. There were present 521 delegates as against 505 last year, representing a membership of 1,662,133, showing an increase of 14,418 during the past year.

We found the problems confronting the workers of Great Britain somewhat similar in character to those confronting the workers of our country. Their method of dealing with the subjects brought before the Congress are somewhat different from ours, as has been reported by previous delegates. Resolutions are submitted to the various Unions for their consideration, the same being returned and compiled and printed as addenda and submitted to Congress.

The work of the Congress is very much simplified by having all resolutions and amendments submitted to the Parliamentary Committee, which meets one week prior to the opening of the Congress to act upon same. After the reading of the report of the Parliamentary Committee the Congress gets down to business at once. There is very little discussion allowed on resolutions or important matters by the delegates attending the Congress and there is very little opportunity offered for amending propositions submitted by resolutions to the Parliamentary Committee. Freedom of action by individual delegates is not allowed in the Congress as much as it is in our Convention. We think that our method is far superior and there is a greater opportunity allowed for arriving at a safe conclusion on an important question than there is in the British Trade Union Congress.

President William Mullen's address was an able one, covering the work of the Parliamentary Committee during the past year. There is one significant phase of the doings of the year that calls for special comment. During the months prior to the opening of the Congress, the entire country was staggered with the general strike amongst the transport workers and the delegates attending the Congress and the working people in general seemed to rejoice very much at the result of the strike, which was brought to a close about the time that we arrived in England, both sides agreeing to arbitration. However, during the remaining days we were in England we heard considerable discontent among the many labor leaders as to the action of the Commission, and as to the delay occurring in reaching an immediate decision. We noticed also within the last few days in the newspapers of our country, that the labor leaders in England had some reason for fear in the action of the Commission who were investigating the grievance existing between the workers and the employers, because the Commission has decided that the railroad companies of Great Britain would not be bound by their decision to recognize the union, the principle for which the men went on strike.

The report of the Parliamentary Committee submitted to the Congress contained much information for the delegates attending the Congress, but it would not be of material benefit to our Convention in its entirety, so we quote herein one or two important passages which appeared in the report:

No one can gainsay the fact that the twelve months which have passed since the holding of the previous Congress have been marked by strenuous and continuous activity both in the industrial as well as in the political world. The delegates meeting in Sheffield had scarcely separated when the country was face to face with another general election (the second within the year), and the electors were called upon to decide an issue of the greatest importance from a democratic point of view, namely, whether the members of the House of Lords should be permitted to continue to exercise the right of vetoing progressive legislation, a right which they had persistently and, latterly, ruthlessly exercised, regardless of the real interests of the community as a whole.

Happily, the decision of the nation upon this important point was as clear as it was emphatic and decisive; and, despite the frantic efforts made by the lords and their friends to prevent the will of the people from being given full effect, the Parliament bill has been placed upon the statute book, and the way thereby cleared for the social legislation which this country stands in such need of. The most gratifying feature of the General Election of December last was the manner in which the Labor Party maintained its position in the country.

Concurrently with the passing of the Veto Bill, the Government has carried out its promise to introduce and pass a measure providing for the payment of members, a measure advocated by Congress almost from its first meeting, held in Manchester in the year 1868.

Among the most important questions considered by the Congress was a resolution submitted by the Brass Workers and Metal Mechanics amending the Shops Club Act, which is as follows:

That this Congress reaffirm its opinion that the Shops Club Act should, in order to protect the liberty of the workers, be so amended as to make it illegal for employers or their agents to dismiss employees simply because they are Trade Unionists or co-operators; and, further the Parliamentary Committee be instructed to bring the matter before the Home Secretary, and render every assistance to the promoters for securing the enactment of the Trades Union Bill on the subject.

There were several other resolutions introduced by the Congress representing the following:

- Radius Agreements.
- Guarantee Societies.
- Abolition of the Half-Time System.
- Office Inspection.
- Work Shop Accommodation for Tailors.
- Abolition of the Half-Time System.
- Industrial Life Insurance.
- Nationalization of Railways and Canals.
- Establishment of a fund of $150,000 for their own Labor Paper.
- Direct Employment in Government Departments.
- Amalgamation of Trade.
- Evictions.
- Workmen's Compensation.
- Appointment of Commission.

And others too numerous to mention, the subject matter of which we do not desire to tire the delegates attending the Convention by discussing. Information on same can be procured by any delegate who desires, by referring to us for same.

We found the British Trades Unions away behind our people in the matter of establishing the Label on Trade Union goods. They know very little about the Label. It can be found in nothing with perhaps the exception of hats, and even in that line very few hats are manufactured or sold with the Label in them. On printing matter, boots, shoes, clothing or anything of that kind there is no Label and in speaking with the different officials of Labor attending the Congress and in endeavoring to advocate the adoption of the Label, some of the men seemed to think that it was an utter impossibility.

England is also behind us in their Labor press. There is no large organization in the country that has its own Labor paper or magazine. There is no newspaper or magazine of any kind devoted entirely to the publication of Labor news. They are now trying to raise a fund to start a labor newspaper. While we in this country have several hundred Labor papers and magazines, over there they have none.

We found the condition of the workers, in general, far inferior to ours. The increased cost of living has made itself manifest in England as well as in our country. While food products are perhaps not so expensive as ours, still in proportion to the wages received, the cost of living has increased perhaps more than it has in our country. The working hours are much longer. The eight-hour day is not in operation to any great extent in the British Kingdom.

We, your delegates, desire to offer the following recommendation or suggestion:

In view of the fact that the Labor leaders of this country who happen to be fortunate enough to be elected as fraternal delegates are not receiving fabulous salaries and having very little money set aside, and as many of them who are elected as fraternal delegates never have had an opportunity of seeing anything on the other side of the water, we believe that a little more money should be paid to the fraternal delegates than it has been customary to receive up to this time.

We trust that this Convention will not, for a moment, consider that we are talking from a personal standpoint, because of the fact that the undersigned will never again be fraternal delegates, but that our whole object in making this statement, is to try to make it easier for those who will follow us. We, therefore, recommend that the amount be increased from $400 to $700, also transportation.

We think that the American Federation of Labor is a large enough institution to pay this amount of money once a year on such an important mission.

In closing we desire to thank the Convention for electing us as delegates to the British Trades Union Congress. The trip has been educational and instructive to us and every moment of our time was spent in endeavoring to learn something that might be helpful to us on our return.

We were very much pleased with our trip. We had an enjoyable time after a day or two when we made ourselves known to the delegation in general, but we could not find the same feeling of friendship, the same warm-heartedness the same open arms in England that we left behind us in America.

We were delighted with many of the acquaintances we made, and while there are a great many able men in the Labor movement in England, we think that our Unions in this country and our Convention of the American Federation of Labor compare very favorably with any on the other side.

We never loved America any better than when we sighted land on our return.

Respectfully submitted,

WM. MACFARLANE,

DANIEL J. TOBIN,

Fraternal Delegates.

President Gompers—The report will be received and made part of the proceedings of the Convention.

Report of the Fraternal Delegate to the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.

To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor.

At the Sixteenth Biennial Convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, held in Des Moines, Iowa, in September, 1910, it was unanimously decided to send a delegate to the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, so that existing misunderstandings and disputes might be amicably adjusted, if possible. It fell to my lot to fill that important mission.

At Duluth, on my way to the Congress, I received a telegram from President Gompers and Secretary Morrison informing me that the elected fraternal delegate, Brother Tracey, could not attend the Congress, and at the same time asking me to act in his stead. This I willingly consented to, and I therefore had the privilege, as well as the pleasure, of representing the A. F. of L. in the 27th Annual Convention of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress, held in Calgary, Province of Alberta, from September 11th to 16th, 1911, inclusive.

I consider the Convention one of the most successful ever held by the Congress. All sorts of subjects of vital interest and importance to the wage-workers of the Dominion came up for consideration, discussion and action.

The officers' reports dealt with such subjects as:

The Eight-hour Bill.

Immigration.

The Japanese Treaty.

The Lemieux Act.

Political Action.

Reciprocity.

Industrial and Technical Education.

The Miners' Strikes in the Eastern Provinces.

The Relation between the Congress and the A. F. of L. and other matters.

Each province in Canada has a vice-president and an executive committee of three, whose duty it is to closely look after the affairs of the province they respectively represent, and report to the annual meeting of the Congress progress made, matters adjusted, success achieved, work undertaken, opposition met with, unions organized, etc.

In the report of the Executive Committee for the Province of Alberta, reference is made in no uncertain language to the jurisdictional disputes in the Building Trades and to the action of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor in dealing with these disputes. I herewith quote that part of the report referred to:

Building Trades.

The Building Trades craftsmen have met with a strenuous opposition from an aggregation of contractors, etc., called "The Builders' Exchange," the policy of which is an ever-increasing activity against organized labor and whose slogan is the "Open Shop."

This movement against Trades Unionism is not confined to any one locality, but is active in every center where labor attempts to better its conditions.

At Edmonton and Calgary the Builders' Exchange ordered advertisements to be published in newspapers in Great Britain, United States and Canada, asking for mechanics to go to Edmonton and Calgary, promising steady work, and right at a time when every craft had its big quota of unemployed.

There have been clashes in all the cities between the two forces, and had the labor market shown any marked degree of over-crowding, organized labor would have had the fiercest fight for existence in the history of Trades Unionism in Alberta.

In addition to having an active enemy to watch, the building craftsmen have been subjected to having jurisdictional and factional fights forced upon them by the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, and Canadian Trades Unionists have been ordered to discriminate against brother unionists for certain alleged offenses which are supposed to be peculiar to and have their origin in the United States. Albertan Unionists have been denied admission to, and unseated from local Building Trades Council, but whose standing is never questioned in our Trades and Labor Councils.

This internal warfare, forced upon Canadian Unionists by the A. F. of L. Building Trades Department, was instrumental in disorganizing the Lethbridge Unionists, that they, to protect themselves, returned the charter to Washington, D. C., and severed connections with the Building Trades Department. At Edmonton the attention given to this same matter has brought dissension and had feelings among the unions which, if allowed to go further, will have disruptive influences. In the city of Calgary there has been no concerted action when dealing with the Builders' Exchange, largely through the same cause, and most of the fighting was carried on by individual unions.

In regard to this serious matter, we are of the opinion the time has arrived in the history of the Canadian Labor movement that in order to justify its continued existence as the head of organized labor in Canada, the Trades and Labor Congress must declare for absolute supremacy in not merely legislative matters alone, but also all economic questions which concern the welfare of Canadian Trades Unionists as a whole.

(The foregoing remarks must not be construed as against International Trades Unionism, as this Executive Committee are ardent Internationalists.)

The delegates representing the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America introduced the following resolution, which was concurred in without a dissenting voice or vote and made applicable to all international organizations having unions in Canada:

Whereas, The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America experience much trouble, annoyance and expense when shipping supplies, buttons, rings, charms, badges, books, literature, charters and outfits from the home office in Indianapolis, Ind., to Local Unions in Canada, with the customs authorities, although all expressage, postage and other charges are prepaid by the home office; and

Whereas, The customs department has held such goods and supplies as hereinbefore mentioned until said customs duty and charges were paid, thereby causing undue delay in delivering; and

Whereas, These goods are supplied by the home office to all affiliated Local Unions and do not come in competition with Canadian manufacturers in any manner; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Minister of Customs be petitioned and requested to exempt all Local Unions of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America in Canada from payment of duty on supplies shipped from headquarters in the United States.

The same delegates also introduced the following resolution, which I know will be of more than passing interest to the representatives of international organizations here present:

Whereas, The United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, an international organization with headquarters located in Indianapolis, Ind., pays per capita tax on its entire Canadian membership to the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress when due, amounting to about $1,000 per year; and

Whereas, Said international organization has no direct representation in the Congress at its annual meetings; and,

Whereas, Said international organization has many Local Unions in Canada, all of which are entitled to at least one delegate each to said Congress, with voice and vote; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the future the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America be represented in the Congress by five delegates, four of which shall hold membership in Canadian Local Unions, one to represent British Columbia and Alberta, one to represent Saskatchewan and Manitoba, one to represent Ontario and Quebec, one to represent New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, and the fifth to be known as a delegate at large, who shall be an international officer of the organization. Said five delegates to have a voting strength equal to the number of Local Unions said organization has in Canada. These five delegates to bear credentials from the international office in Indianapolis, Ind., properly signed by the international President and Secretary, with seal affixed.

As this resolution, if adopted, would mean a complete change in the representation of international organizations in the Conventions of the Congress, it was referred to the Committee on Constitution and Law. After careful investigation and consideration the committees recommended that the representation of all bodies in the Congress remain as it is, and in addition thereto that each international organization paying tax direct to the Congress on its full Canadian membership be represented by one delegate.

This was amended by adding after the word, "delegate," "who shall hold membership in a Canadian Local Union." A lively discussion ensued, after which the report as amended was adopted.

I consider I would not be fulfilling my duty as your representative if I did not inform you that a resolution was introduced, claiming that:

"Craft Unions have proven to be inadequate to successfully combat the present day aggregations of Capital; that their activities are almost entirely absorbed by jurisdictional disputes; that an internal warfare exists among them, preventing any continued successful co-operation in and given industry, and that therefore the Convention should go on record as endorsing the principles of Industrial Unionism." This caused an animated and lengthy discussion. The resolution, however, was finally adopted.

Immediately afterwards a motion was unanimously carried that this action on the part of the Convention must not be construed as endorsing the principles of the Industrial Workers of the World.

The Executive Council was instructed to communicate with the British Trades Congress, inviting that body to send a fraternal delegate to the next Convention of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress and to make arrangements for interchange of fraternal delegates between the two bodies in the future.

In conclusion I wish to say that the Congress, with all its handicaps and drawbacks, is doing a great work for the uplifting and upbuilding of the wage-workers of the Dominion. It should be supported, assisted and encouraged by the American Federation of Labor and International Unions affiliated therewith. In fact, I do not hesitate to recommend that all international organizations having Local Unions in Canada should pay per capita tax to the Congress on their entire Canadian membership, so that the Congress may be in a position to meet its liabilities, continue the good work in which it is engaged, place organizers in the field, and work hand in hand with the American Federation of Labor for the common good of all.

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK DUFFY,
Fraternal Delegate.

President Gompers—The report will be made part of the official proceedings. We will now hear from the delegate to the International Secretariat.

BUDAPEST SECRETARIAT CONVENTION.

Report of The American Federation of Labor representative to the Budapest, Hungary, Convention of National Trade Centers, August 10, 11 and 12, 1911; with some references to the International Labor Movement, witnessed and studied on the way from America to Hungary and back.

To the American Federation of Labor assembled in convention, Atlanta, Ga., November, 1911.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: Pursuant to the honor and mandate conferred on me by the St. Louis Convention of the American Federation of Labor, and provided with proper credentials from your executive officers, I left America and journeyed East, in sufficient time to be in Budapest, just prior to the opening of the International Convention.

On arriving in Liverpool, I found stirring times among trade unionists in that city, especially along the water front. The spirit of unrest had spread all over Great Britain, but was most intense in the great commercial cities and ports touching on the ocean and seas.

Excitement was at fever heat and officials of the different trade and labor associations were working overtime in their efforts to get redress for the people they represented, without suspension of work, or any serious outbreak of hostilities which might further inflame an exceedingly pent-up situation. Your delegates to the British Trades Congress have their report on the situation in Great Britain, and I will not hazard a contention on jurisdictional lines with them, by invading their territory and their subject, but a few words about the situation before they arrived on the other side will not, I hope, be considered a trespass, or out of order.

Apart from the commotion I have referred to, and among the important events which took place, was the somewhat unexpected death of Mr. William C. Steadman, who, until the serious illness which resulted in his death, had been secretary of the Parliamentary Committee of the British Trades Congress since succeeding Mr. Samuel Woods in 1905. He had been a hard-working official and was a genuine working-man leader. In early life he learned barge building in a London ship yard, and after he was a journeyman became secretary of the London Barge Builders'

Union. Later in life he was elected to the London County Council, held that position for fifteen years, and was one of the band of labor members, who did so much for the health and better government of the great metropolis. He entered Parliament in 1898, and was as conspicuous for his honesty and steadfastness in the House of Commons as had marked his course as an official in the trade union movement, or as a member of the London County Council.

I visited a number of industrial centres in England, and on reaching London, prior to crossing to the continent of Europe, I had the honor of meeting nearly all of the Labor group in Parliament. Their kind invitation to compare notes with them, on the famous terrace of the House of Commons was gladly accepted, as was also a further invitation to visit the House of Commons in session, on what was called John Burn's day. This was carefully and diplomatically arranged by our mutual friend, William Brace, M. P., who was a fraternal delegate from Great Britain to our St. Louis Convention last November, and through which I was conducted to a special visitor's seat, by the proper officer with more pomp and ceremony than I had ever previously experienced.

They are an excellent lot of men, those trade union and socialist members of Parliament. They fraternize in commendable manner, and it was noticeable that among them there were a large number of the men the British Trades Congress had sent as fraternal delegates to American Federation of Labor conventions.

John Burns has lost none of the athletic sprightliness of earlier years. He has a clean, honorable and aggressive record. His forensic ability and his practical adaptation of municipal reforms name him easily as the greatest authority on municipal government of our time. His colleagues in the Labor group say for him that he has become bureaucratic in his development as a cabinet minister. This has caused some difference of opinion between them and him, so much so that he is now considered more of a radical-liberal than an expounder and leader of the labor party. Be this as it may, few working men have made the same parliamentary record as he has done, and at all times will credit to himself and honor to the organized labor movement.

To mention the others in detail would occupy too much space and time, but it can be said each is fulfilling his part in commendable manner, and all of them conjointly agree that in Ramsay MacDonald they have their greatest parliamentary leader, and none of them will be surprised to know at any time of his selection as a second working-man member of the British Cabinet.

On affairs dealing purely with labor interests, the Labor group is a unit, and proposes to apply their argument and their votes for, or against, the liberal government, just as the latter favors or opposes labor measures; although upon general policy outside of labor bills, almost the entire Labor group votes with, and supports the liberal government.

Speaking of groups, it was noticeable indeed, how close a friendship and clear understanding existed among the Irish members of Parliament and the Labor group. Both feel that they have been long submerged by English aristocratic influences, and, consequently, pool their issues accordingly. Nowhere in Great Britain nor, of course, in Ireland, did I find organized workmen doubting for a moment that home rule for Ireland was imminent; and all are agreed that the mental, moral and executive ability of the patient leaders in the campaign for an Irish parliament is sufficient guarantee of progressive and stable government for the Emerald Isle, and through which industry will be given an impetus which will raise the importance and increase the population of Ireland beyond general expectation.

During the time I was enjoying the friendship of the Labor group at the House of Commons, I witnessed a parallel of what is not unknown on this side of the water, but presented in a new dress. When bills are before legislatures here, calling, for instance, for improved conditions for street railway workers, it is customary for the corporations to round up a number of employees (perhaps coercion would be a better word), and to pay their way to the capitol of the state, to testify against the remedial legislation desired, to protest against the change and to claim that they were better off than they would be if the bill became law. Legislators usually know why they are rounded up, and it is questionable if their testimony has much influence. Well, in London on the afternoon of August 3, a deputation of pit-brow girls from the coal mines at Wigan, Lancashire, waited on the Home Secretary at the House of Commons, along with the mayor and mayoress of Wigan, in protest against the portion of the Coal Mines Bill, then before a committee of the House, and which aimed to eliminate female labor at the pit heads. They were carefully selected for the purpose, strong, healthy and husky female coal-mine workers. The deputation consisted of forty-two women and girls, the most of them wearing Lancashire clogs, the half of them with shawls on their heads in place of hats, and wearing coarse aprons. All of this was intended to impress the Parliamentary Committee, for they did not attempt to deliver addresses. That was left to a few members of Parliament, whose constituents favored the employment of women at the pit heads.

After the Interested M. P.'s spoke their piece, the Mayor of Wigan said he favored the employment of women at the work described, but consumed the most of his time in a glowing tribute to their moral character, and as that had not been called in question, this argument merely occupied time. Just then the Rev. T. F. B. Twenlow, Vicar of Wigan, stepped forward to add his influence to the employment of women at the pit heads and on such a subject such a man was certainly in a sorry plight.

The committee creditably voted to report the clause to the House of Commons for adoption, as prepared in the Coal Mines Bill. The vote was taken with the advice of the Government to the contrary, so the Home Secretary, speaking for the minority of the committee, urged the Lancashire lassies to be untiring in their efforts in securing pledges from members of Parliament, to vote with the Government against the clause, when the bill came up in the House for a vote. Thus, to the surprise of many, Mr. Churchill gave his influence in favor of retaining female employment at the pit heads, while on the other hand organized labor is practically a unit in favor of the clause as drafted in the bill.

I left London for Paris. In a general sense, Paris means France. Gay Paree is well named.

It is neither my purpose nor desire to describe the city and its environments. That is generally fairly well known. Parisians, however, impress a visitor with their disregard of the position and cruelty of their poor women and with cruelty to their horses. Among the many menial and degrading things women in Paris, and in fact, nearly all over Europe, have to do, is to fill the positions of street scavengers. Barefooted, and with brooms which appear almost equal to their own weight, and with a barrel-barrow and shovel, they go about their duties, not as if they were to the manner-born, but because they can not help it. The only language Parisian horses know is the whip. Cabby never takes the quadruped into his confidence about starting on a trip, or in looking for a patron. The whip is everlastingly in use, and if welts on the horses from the use of it were sufficient for the French society for the prevention of cruelty to animals to act, their houses of correction would overflow, and boulevard cab-drivers would be conspicuous by their absence from public thoroughfares.

I went to Berlin and found a city co-equal in beauty, though in somewhat different direction with Paris. They had their slums, too, but not so plentiful as in the French city. The boulevards, avenues, monuments, art galleries, palaces, theatres, public gardens, relics and evidence of past history, were all in evidence as per the usual descriptions given us. Words cannot overestimate the magnificence and grandeur of those places and things. One stands in wonder and in amazement at what one beholds. Nothing I have ever read or heard overestimates or explains in excess those great public institutions, functions and highways. After I had been shown the best that was to be seen in both cities, I demanded to be shown how the workers and the poor lived. Little has been told us in descriptions of those great countries about the undercrust of human society, and in the fewest possible words in which it can be described, I have no hesitation in stating that the magnificence on the one side, as above referred to, is equalled by the depths of misery on the other side. I fail to imagine how words could be formed together to justly depict the misery and the degradation of the working and the idle poor in European cities.

They have two great movements in Germany, and which easily makes it the leading country on the continent of Europe. They have a first-class trade union movement composed of nearly 2,020,000 members. It is doing herculean work in many directions. In some particulars it is so far in advance of our labor movement in this new world, that it will take us a long time to catch up, but we should be unrelenting in our efforts to do so. In some directions the German movement is as far behind our efforts as in the other direction they lead. The other great struggle referred to is political. German workmen have a well-organized political movement and when its purposes as such sufficiently diverge, as also do the purposes of the trade union movement, they in time meet and the two bodies then act unitedly. Each has its particular duty to perform, and each is doing it as well as the circumstances permit. Those among us who have viewed the European socialist movement from the tactics of certain socialists in North America are mistaken. The leaders in both movements in Germany frankly informed me that an applicant for membership in the socialist movement, whose trade or whose occupation was organized, and who did not belong to his union, was not admitted to membership as a socialist. They looked out of the corner of their eyes at me and asked how a man could be a good socialist if he were not a trade unionist, if his occupation were organized, or even if he were a poor or indifferent trade unionist. I need not make a comparison between their action and certain efforts in this country, the great difference has often been made too evident to us all.

Yet all is not well among them. They have their party dissensions with a smattering of flank movements, just as we have seen and heard of here. This is also true of the socialist movement in Great Britain. In Germany and elsewhere on the continent, there is just the semblance of an alleged organization glorying in the title of Christian trade-unionists. Thank God, they are few in number. The clergy, I think, pulls down its dignity in fostering the aggregation. The members pay very low dues, about one-fifth of the amount paid by the regulars. The avowed purpose of this outfit is to hold itself in readiness to participate or not to participate, by direction of the clergy, in any economic or political struggle involving workers' interests. This is bad enough, but worse still is the fact that when the clergy holding authority over those men, disapprove the contention of the workers' organizations, the off-shoot in question is then used as strike breakers. In British socialist contentions those who have left or never belonged to the regular organization fight the majority politically, as well as trade union activity, for no other purpose than to try to thwart possibility of success, because the greater membership refuses to be governed by or to join these faddists. No brand of religion is back of them. The British call them "impossibilists," which word for convenience they have abbreviated to "Imps." Pardon the remark, but when I heard the abbreviation used, I facetiously remarked that the abbreviation was complete enough, as well as sufficiently expressive.

Militarism government in nearly all of the countries on the continent of Europe. Even railroad officials, including platform men in Germany, have the noted military bearing, and men filling such positions, who have reached or are beyond middle life, have gone from the army into their new sphere. This and the military pension system has made the German army popular, especially among men who are not sure of their successes in the industrial struggle for existence. There is little difference between the police and the soldiers. All more or less look alike. They are practically similarly accoutred, and from the high dignity to the merest state or corporation official there is the appearance of militarism, which signifies that force is government.

Against all of that, clamoring for democratic government by evolution if possible, but by revolution if need be, is the socialist political party organization. There are other groups which in a way protest against imperialism, but the one organized party which is a living, active protest against imperialism and force of government, is the socialist party. When one discusses our system of government to a European official as compared to theirs, the latter immediately says that is socialism. In short, while the European socialists may have much more in mind than is now evident in their militant campaigns, viewed with an American eye, their purpose would not lose in comparison, in practice even, if it were labeled European democracy.

The European movement is an education in itself. The harmony which exists between the trade unionists, attending to trade affairs and the socialists attending to political affairs, is everywhere in evidence. Where a trade dispute exists there the socialists are helping, and where a political contest is going on the trade unionists perform their part in supporting the socialist program, and between the two the future welfare of the masses of the people will be worked out, perhaps along lines of legislation and evolution, provided that the process is not unwarrantably retarded; but if by revolution then let us wish that the result will be equal to our own revolution, which laid the foundation for the best system of popular government that has so far stood the test of time and practice.

What I have said about Paris and Berlin, also applies to Vienna and the cities of lesser importance in between, excepting that leaving Berlin, the farther east I went, the different conditions of life and living as between the rich and the poor, and which I have but poorly described, became in divergent ratio proportionately intensified.

This brings me to Budapest.

BUDAPEST, HUNGARY.

First Day.

The Seventh International Conference of the Representatives of National Trade Union Centres, (International Secretariat), was called to order, August 10, 1911, 9 a. m., in the Building Workers' Home, (Bauerbeiterheim), Budapest VII, Arena-ut 68, by Jaszai, representing Hungary. His colleague from that country, Karoly Teszarsz, was vice-chairman, and J. Sasenbach, representing Germany, was made recording secretary.

Twenty-seven delegates, representing eighteen countries, and two official interpreters (both union men, each of whom spoke three languages) composed the convention. Norway, owing to a great strike, and Finland, were not represented.

Representatives of the press attended each session. The meetings were publicly conducted.

Herr S. Jaszai, in declaring the meeting open for business, stated that a few years ago, such conventions could not have been held in Hungary, owing to government interference.

A resolution to follow the usual course in reference to translation of addresses was adopted. This meant that delegates should be grouped for convenience of interpretation, and where circumstances permitted that sotto voce transmission of information would be followed, but on lengthy addresses and official statements, interpreters would publicly address the delegates in the different languages.

A resolution, without much discussion or formality, was passed not to accept municipal or state hospitality from official sources, owing to opposition of the government to organization of labor and to tyranny generally towards the working class, but that the proffered hospitality of Hungarian workmen's organizations would be accepted and their functions attended.

The French delegation interposed an inquiry, which after some informal discussion was formally and definitely offered in substance as follows: "Can a delegate to this meeting be required to answer a question as to whether he belonged to any political or civic organization outside of the trade centre he represents."

As the discussion progressed, I discovered that the inquiry, in a veiled manner, was directed against my credential as representing organized labor of North America. A misguided man named Foster, from Chicago, Ill., claiming to represent an alleged organization of labor in America, called the International Workers of the World, had been for some time in Paris, and had succeeded in convincing the French delegates that he represented a labor organization in America, and was entitled to be recognized by the Secretariat, instead of the A. F. of L.

representative. He is said to have had in Paris a program of strong French flavor, namely, low dues, no defence fund, the general strike, revolution, and to settle all our social and political ills at the ballot box. Evidently his program was mapped out on French lines and captured the French delegation. He had thereafter taken his program from Paris to Berlin to encourage the German delegation to support his position and plea. They, however, had nothing in common with his tinfoil proposition and his wind-bag methods. Their labor movement is built on a solid foundation and makes for real progress, so he was not in his element in their company. He had made his way to Budapest, and the French enquiry above referred to, was part of his tactics. The tentative question was discussed and strongly combated, during which the Frenchman had much to say about civic institutions in America and the kind of men composing them. They had made no investigation, but had taken the lurid and unwarranted statements of the Chicago man as gospel. Their statements were so ridiculous that the chairman peremptorily ruled the question out of order.

A motion was then made that the International Workers of the World be not admitted to affiliation in the International Secretariat as a National Trade Union Centre.

During the discussion on the motion, misguided Foster lost control of his temper and gave the convention ocular demonstration of what an I. W. W. really is. His language was foul, vulgar and vehement. He even threatened assault, and subsided only to prevent expulsion from the room. He spoke in English, and I had his language interpreted to the delegates, but his actions were equally detrimental to the purpose he had in mind as was the interpretation. The Frenchmen were not dismayed at their tri-color being smudged with I. W. W. mire. They suggested that if the Foster aggregation were not admitted, that the A. F. of L. should be kept out of the International Secretariat until both organizations became reconciled to a uniform policy.

After general discussion, Foster was given an opportunity to tell his own story in his own way. My natural impulse was to protest against him being in the meeting, except as a visitor, but he was invoking martyrdom, and I figured that if he were given plenty of rope he would figuratively hang himself. I grinned and bore the ordeal, however, of witnessing one kind of an American, in a foreign land, making a veritable mess of an unsavory situation. He claimed that in America the I. W. W. was the only body that organized unskilled workers; that 85 per cent of their skilled members were also in the A. F. of L. unions; that those unions would not admit Socialists and revolutionary foreigners into membership; that the people he represented were 100 per cent. Socialists and Revolutionists, who were preparing for the international strike, which would strike terror into the hearts of capitalism, including the A. F. of L. The climax in his harangue was that he understood that other trade union officials and I had been known to sit and eat at the same table with a President of the United States, with Bishop Potter, and with Archbishop Corrigan, of New York, and that, therefore, we were not qualified to represent the working class.

The Austrian, German and British delegates forcefully combatted Foster's statements, the British and German delegations putting in evidence that they and their colleagues had often participated in the same kind of meetings in their countries, as had been referred to in America, and if there were anything to it, the alleged charges would also apply to them. My reply to Foster's illogical, contradictory and vicious melange can be better imagined than described or repeated. Delegate Appleton, of Great Britain, said I metaphorically prepared a bed of needles and without ceremony let Foster fall upon it. In substance, I explained their efforts at efficiency in strike breaking, that they were seldom in evidence unless during strikes, that they purposed to make strikes failures and to that end they tried to array workers of one nationality against other nationalities, who were all in one union and on one strike; that the American Socialist Organization repudiated them; that in economics and in politics they were nomadic, and that misguided Foster's alleged paradox about American unions not admitting Socialists to membership, while putting in evidence that 85 per cent. (?) of I. W. W. skilled members were in A. F. of L. unions, was as near to the truth as any of them might hope to reach. It will suffice to say, that after the whole of the first official day, plus over an hour after scheduled adjournment, had been taken up with this unwarranted and ridiculous discussion, all delegates in the conference, excepting the Frenchman, voted in favor of the motion.

I almost need to apologize for taking so much of your time on this subject, but as I heard more of it in Budapest in one day than I had ever heard in America, and as it occupied one-third of the whole time the convention was in session, you are entitled to know something of the fracas and the result.

During the first part of this discussion a decision from the Amsterdam conference, in 1905, was quoted against the French enquiry, namely, "All theoretical question and those which affect the tendency or tactics of the trade union movement in the separate countries, will not be discussed." The French delegates evaded a reply to the point of order; but later in the proceedings, when their own tactics of low dues, no defence fund to support strikes, but instead relying on communistic soup and tightening their belts as their stomachs shrunk during a strike, were criticised by a Belgian delegate, they promptly raised the Amsterdam decision and claimed a protection under it which they had tried to deny to the tendency and tactics practiced in America.

Second Day.

The International Secretary's report for one year, July 1, 1910, to June 30, 1911, was read, showing:

Subscriptions for the year from the different countries .....	Mks. 9,054.19
(This item includes Mks. 2,550 paid by the A. F. of L.)
Interest .....	38.70
Sales of reports of 1909 conference .....	609.60
Balance on hand commencement of fiscal year .....	3,627.67
Total .....	13,330.16
Total expenses for year, including printing .....	9,604.90

Balance on hand June 30, 1911 .....	3,725.26
-------------------------------------	----------

The report was adopted and the salary of the International Secretary was increased from 300 to 500 marks a year, a mere pittance compared to the duties performed.

The International Secretary called attention to the need for closer relationship between the National Trade Centres and his office, especially previous to and during disputes. He gave as an instance that Norway, where there was a general strike, and which had prevented their delegation from being at Budapest, had directly appealed to other countries for financial assistance, without first communicating with International Secretary Legien's office, as per the constitutional regulations to that effect, and that in consequence, very little money had been collected to help them.

A discussion followed on extending the scope of the Secretary's report, which was agreed to. Secretary Legien suggested that National Trade Centres in addition to receiving free copies of the report usually furnished to them, should purchase as many more as would be feasible, both for information and for reference.

In furtherance of the idea expressed, I recommend that the A. F. of L. for itself, and affiliated organizations for themselves, purchase a sufficient number of the reports for use and reference, and that trade journals reprint therefrom so that the fullest publicity, the greatest solidarity and the wisest comity among the workers of the several countries can be obtained.

The appeal for financial assistance to metal workers in Spain (a communistic soup and low dues organization) was not supported, as they are not affiliated to the Spanish Trade Centre.

A. Thornberg, Sweden, thanked the Trade Centres for the moral and financial assistance granted them during their great strike. They had fully survived the shock, had a membership again equal to before the strike, and had many concessions granted them which were denied prior to the conflict.

Two sets of delegates contested to represent Bulgaria. One pair was said to represent the intellectuals, the other pair, the workers. The former was said to be not progressive, but academic, and the latter, few in numbers, but militant. A motion from the Austrian delegation to put them both out of the National Secretariat until they settled their contentions and united, and that a general effort to organize the Balkan States be made, was referred to International Secretary Legien to visit both of their conventions while he was trying to organize in the Balkans and to endeavor to amalgamate them.

A motion was adopted authorizing the International Secretary to not delay his reports to accommodate National Trade Centres that were dilatory in forwarding their reports.

Third Day.

The third day opened with continued discussion on a Swiss resolution, which in substance provided that when international financial assistance was desired in case of industrial disputes, the International Secretariat should only take part in the appeal for help if at the same time several Trade or Industrial Federations of a country were involved, and if the necessary funds could not be raised in the country, and by the trade organizations involved. Further, provided that the National Centre in need of help has furnished a formal call for assistance with full explanation, which should include a brief report of the cause and development of the dispute and a review of the numerical and financial strength of the unions in need; assistance not to be continued if the organization involved did not supply information on the development of the contention. The appeal when issued to National Trade Centres to contain a brief statement on the reasons for the appeal, with suggestions as to the best manner to conform thereto. Holland amended the Swiss motion that only under exceptional circumstances should such an appeal be issued, and then only provided the workers involved are so many that the financial means at their disposal in their own country are not adequate. An amendment by the delegate from Croatia, that all National Trade Centres should establish separate funds by means of regular subscriptions, for the purpose of assisting great industrial struggles in foreign countries, was withdrawn, and the Swiss motion, as amended by Holland, was adopted.

The three general resolutions I had the honor to submit were practically unanimously adopted. They provided substantially as follows:

First. That the International Secretary, when receiving any document from any source, other than an affiliated National Centre, assailing the integrity or character of a National Trade Centre, shall forward a copy of same to the official representative of the National Centre assailed, for reply, and if the latter contains valid objections to the document being sent out, it, with the reply thereto, shall be held and reported to the next convention.

Second. That the Budapest International Conference recommends to the Trade Union Centres of all countries, the discussion of the proposition of establishing an International Federation of Labor, the autonomy of the trade union movement of each country being ordained and guaranteed.

Third. That it shall be the purpose of the labor movement of all countries to endeavor to the fullest extent to prevent the workers from one country being induced to emigrate to other countries during industrial depression or when trade disputes exist, or are in contemplation.

To my second resolution recommending discussion towards establishing an International Federation of Labor, the French delegation asked that a motion of theirs be added. It provided for the transformation of the International Secretariat into an International Trades Congress to be composed of delegates of each trade with power to act on trade questions, etc. The German and other delegations supported the American proposition, but opposed the French amendment. The French delegates thereupon stated their reason for joining the two resolutions was that invariably French propositions were rejected, even although others of a similar nature by other delegations were adopted, and they had hoped by joining their motion with the American proposition, to secure its adoption on the strength of the original motion. The attempted French coup d'état was not successful, but a Scandinavian diplomatically helped France by moving that the French idea be referred to National Trade Centres for discussion, and which was adopted.

Belgium and Holland moved that instead of meeting every two years, the International Secretariat hereafter shall meet every three years, at the same time and place where the International Trades Union and Socialistic Congress is held. Objection was made to two such conventions being in session at one time. A number of delegates attended both, and combinations might be formed which would work injury to both meetings. The motion was then changed to read that hereafter the Secretariat meet every three years.

I opposed the motion in both forms and for additional reasons than those for which the motion was changed. I invited the International Secretariat to meet in San Francisco in 1915, and took this opportunity to urge acceptance. My invitation was informal at Budapest, because a subsequent convention will be held at which formal action would be in order; but to meet every three years, instead of every two years, would have prevented meeting in San Francisco in 1915. The delegates viewed the invitation and the probability of meeting at the Golden Gate, as being nearly impossible of accomplishment. Those from the far East, who themselves, in some instances, had even to bear the most of their own expenses to Budapest, saw an impossible barrier against going as far as San Francisco. I had told them a union mayor and union heads of municipal departments would welcome them, for I expected that Mayor McCarthy would be re-elected. My statement, the city, the situation and the event (celebrating the opening of the great Canal) appeared so good to the convention that the amended and the original motions to meet every three years were withdrawn.

The German delegates suggested the advisability of all European Trade Centres immediately beginning the formation of a general fund which could be used to defray the expenses of all European delegates to San Francisco, and which would permit representatives being present from countries as yet poorly organized and who could not otherwise attend. The project is now under consideration, and will be settled at the next Secretariat Convention. I do not, however, hold out much hope, for the scarcity of money among the workers in Europe is not conducive to creating a fund to send delegates such a distance.

The British delegation nominated London as the place to hold the next convention, and the Swiss delegation named Cologne. Decision was deferred and later on the subject will be submitted to the different Trade Centres for action.

Holland moved that all trade unions should join their respective National Centres and invited the International Trade Federations and Secretariats to admit those unions who are members of their own National Centre of trade unions. And further, to bring pressure to bear upon non-affiliated unions to induce them to join the National Centre of their country. Adopted.

A motion by Holland on "home work" was laid over for investigation and report to the next International Conference.

Sweden moved that this conference invites the representatives of the working classes in all Parliaments to do all in their power in order to get bills enacted into law prohibiting night work in all industries where it is not absolutely necessary. Adopted.

A general discussion took place on how best to deal with union men going from one country to another. The European delegations all favored admission of men from one country to another on presenting paid-up cards and without paying new initiation fees. The British delegation, and I, could not pledge all the unions we represented to do so, owing to the benefits paid out by several American and British unions, many of such benefits going into effect immediately on a member joining, etc., but we favored further consideration being given to the subject, so that in this as in other ways, the toilers could the better co-operate for the fullest possible recognition and advancement of all organized labor.

France moved that one language hereafter be used at these conventions, and named Esperanto as the official language. J. Sassenbach, of German, led in the argument against Esperanto, and urged that if one language were to be selected that it should be English, which at the present time was more universally spoken than any European language. James O'Grady, M. P., of the British delegation, made a short, eloquent speech against Esperanto and the French motion was voted down.

The following extracts from the Annual Report of the International Secretary of the National Trades Centres will be interesting:

"The Executive Board of the Canadian Trade and Labor Congress wrote about representation at the Budapest Conference. Correspondence showed that the Canadian unions are part of the American Federation of Labor, and, of course, would not be entitled to send their own delegate to this Conference."

"All countries with a somewhat important trade union movement, with the exception of Australia, are now represented in the National Secretariat. They number twenty at the present time, namely: Great Britain, France, Netherlands, Belgium, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Finland, Germany, Austria, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Hungary, Croatia, Bulgaria, Roumania, Switzerland, Italy, Spain and North America."

"The total number of affiliated trade union members has increased, during the financial year under revision, from 5,722,600 to 6,033,500. The increase is not due to new affiliations, and proves that our affiliated unions have been able to overcome industrial depression, still felt in many countries and on the whole, even made some progress. Four countries only, reported loss in membership, partly as a result of depression and of industrial disputes, but also in Austria, for instance, of a number of unions dissolving or leaving the National Centre on account of National friction."

"The Sixth International Conference held in 1909, at Paris, passed a resolution requesting trade union centres to use all possible means to bring about the abolition of the compulsory legitimization cards, which had been introduced by Prussia and several other Federated States of the German Empire for workers of foreign nationality. To this effect the following replies in substance had been received:

"Great Britain: A detailed circular letter dealing with the subject had been published and thereupon brought public attention to it."

"Holland: A Socialist member of Parliament during the debate on the budget, put the question to the Foreign Minister and moved that the Minister see that the stipulation of the German-Dutch treaty be better respected by Germany. A vote on the motion was not reached."

"Denmark: A member of the Danish Parliament, on behalf of the Socialist-Democratic Federation, under date of February 9, 1911, addressed a letter to the Foreign Minister on the subject, part of which stated that Prussia and some other German Federated States had introduced compulsory legitimization cards for workers of foreign nationality, which cards must be presented to the police and signed when workers entered a place or situation. Danish workers had complained against the system and regret was expressed that the late Foreign Minister had not been able to bring about the desired alteration by Germany. These cards were delivered by a private concern, the 'Agricultural Workers' Centre,' to which the fees for the cards must be paid. This was an Agrarian Society, organized to supply laborers for landlords, and the privilege had been conferred on the society by the German government. This unfair system of compulsory cards only applied to foreigners working or looking for work in Germany, while others staying in that country for any purpose, international swindlers, for instance, are exempt from the expense and the inconvenience attached to the system. That the cards had been introduced solely for the purpose of annoying honest workers.

"The Danish Foreign Minister replied under date of March 2, 1911, that out of the many countries near to Germany, only Italy and Holland had entered their protest against those cards. The Italian Ambassador had not received a definite reply, and Holland had dropped the matter, as complaints of Dutch workers had not recently been made. The Swiss Ambassador at Berlin, who had asked for information on the cards, had been informed the German government considered these compulsory legitimization cards were necessary, owing to the large number of workers coming from Slavonian countries, whose passports are often written in languages not understood by German officials; in many cases passports were forged and numerous inconveniences, such as violation of labor contracts, were the result of this state of affairs, and the police regulations were inadequate with regard to the difficulty, so there was reason to believe that it was useless at the present time to suggest to Germany that these regulations be cancelled, and that Italy was the only country at that date which had not dropped its protest against the cards, and that the 'German Agricultural Workers' Centre' had been established at Berlin by the German Ministers of Foreign Affairs, of Agriculture and of Finance, and were under control of them and the Minister of Commerce."

"Germany: The German Reichstag had adopted a resolution, moved by the Socialist-Democratic group, that the system of compulsory legitimization cards should be abolished, but the German Federated Council had not yet rendered a decision on the subject."

"Austria: The subject had been discussed in the Official Journal of the Trade Union Committee and the Socialist-Democratic members of Parliament had repeatedly asked questions in the House, but so far without success."

"Serbia: The Government stated, in reply to a petition of the National Centre of Trade Unions, that the whole measure had originally been drafted by Germany against workers from Austria and Russia, and that the workers of other countries had later on been included owing to the two countries named having protested against the apparent discrimination. That all countries involved now had better opportunity of keeping their workers abroad under control, especially those who later on returned to their native country; that Germany considered the card system necessary and did not apply it to their own workers, because they had other means of keeping them under control, and that Germany considered the system necessary, as it prevented the violation of labor contracts by foreign workers, as every change of employment is entered on the cards and because of these facts the cards are a facility to foreign workers, because they give security to the employer who prefers workers with those cards to those without them."

"Switzerland: The Swiss Trade Unions had petitioned the Federal Council and a Social-Democratic member of Parliament had raised the question in the House. The German reply had been similar to that given to Serbia; no satisfactory results had been secured."

"Italy: Socialistic members of Parliament had questioned the Minister of Foreign Affairs on the German compulsory legitimization cards. The Minister replied, this card system constituted a violation of International law, and promised to do everything within his power to get the Prussian government to abolish the system. Nothing, however, had been achieved. The Italian Socialist members of Parliament intend to renew their attack on the system during the session of the Italian Parliament which meets in November (this month). The Italian trade unions had moved public opinion by means of the trade union and socialist press, but felt that the question could only be settled by way of diplomacy."

The cards above referred to, while in a way performing what the Prussian and other Federated States in the German Empire claimed for them, in reality covertly institute and continue an international black-list against workers who agitate for improved working conditions, who lead in contentions connected therewith, and who urge their fellow men to refuse to continue supplying labor power to employers who, through this obnoxious card system, impose unbearable conditions in contracts for employment and then blacklist the workers who protest.

C. Legien, President of the Federated Trade Unions of Germany, was unanimously re-elected International Secretary, and was given authority to hire assistance. He and J. Sassenbach, the other German delegate, were authorized to visit Eastern Europe, especially the Balkan States and Turkey, with a view to initiate and encourage trade union organization and legislation.

By instruction of the Executive Council of the A. F. of L., I invited Herr C. Legien to visit America to deliver addresses in our industrial centres, to study our trade organizations and as much as possible of the details of their accomplishments. He accepted the invitation and intends to visit America next spring time.

He speaks German only, and will be accompanied by Herr Baumeister, of Berlin, one of the interpreters at Budapest, who speaks three languages very fluently, German, English and French, and who is one of the brightest among the young men in the European labor movement.

Thus the Seventh International Conference of representatives of National Trade Union Centres passed into history. Adjournment, like the opening of the meeting, took place without demonstration. All the delegates were invited to attend the opening of the Hungarian Trades Congress in the same building the following (Sunday) morning, at nine o'clock.

The Secretariat convention was noticeable for courtesy, toleration, desire to accomplish and general fraternity among the delegates. The only disturbing element was the display of mental pyrotechnics by misguided Foster, of the I. W. W., and as he was not a delegate, but simply "buted in," his tactics could not be figured up to the actual business of the convention. Numerous trade meetings were attended by the delegates, and the hospitality of the Hungarian Trade Union Organizations on one evening, and of the Social Democratic Organization of that country on another evening, were pleasant social sidelights to the even tenor of discussion in the convention.

On the way to the second function we sailed on the Danube, which divides the city, until we reached an historic island on which is a famous restaurant, and its manager, inspired, no doubt, by the earnestness and hospitality of our entertainers, added an additional laurel to his fame, in providing an excellent Hungarian menu.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT HUNGARY GENERALLY.

Hungary, with twenty millions of population, has 700,000 electors.

The natives, with a show of Hungarian pride, continually remind visitors that Hungary is a kingdom governed by a king and a parliament, and that while Franz Josef is emperor of Austria, he is king of Hungary, and with the same show of feeling they indicate that they want no emperor in their country.

An income of 200 kronens, or crowns, a month in cities makes a citizen a voter. In rural districts if a citizen owns a house or land he can vote, but men who work for a living, unless they own property, or have the above income, have no vote.

The Hungarian Parliament is composed of 450 members, but no working man or one who could be said to represent working men either on a workman's platform or on any other political platform is among them; in fact, speaking generally, working men in Hungary have no political rights.

In Budapest, by far the leading city in the country, poor people pay in rent about 500 crowns a year for one room, and occasionally rent a portion of that same room to a lodger to sleep for a few hours.

Nearly all of the property in Budapest is owned by so-called Nobles and Barons. Jews rent from them nearly all property, and do nearly all commercial business, such as banking, running stores, shops and factories. They also re-rent rooms, tenements, small shops, etc., to poor people, and are blamed by the native poor for overcharging, and many forms of usury.

The Hungarian, and especially the Budapest landlords, have a good organization and refuse to rent rooms, shops, factories, etc., for less than the arranged or established rates named by their organization.

I was informed that working people had organized a semblance of a strike against the extortionate rate of rent and unbearable conditions of houses and shops rented by them. The result was that because of the strike they were refused homes and shops to rent under any circumstances by members of the Landlords' Organization, who thus retaliated by a thoroughly organized and a rigidly conducted boycott. This caused such destitution among the participants in the strike that eventually the Hungarian Government gave them permission to occupy an old and unused barracks infested with rats, and for which they had to pay in rent 500 crowns per year per room in which, and in addition to their other miseries, they had to contend with the rodents for such food as in the circumstances the boycotted people could buy, beg or pick up.

Inhabitants of Hungary and portions of Austria are today in about the same conditions as were the people high and low in Germany and Prussia one hundred years ago, only that the former have not evidently the same ambitions as had the latter; yet it is the general impression that Hungarian civilization is as far in advance of the conditions in the neighboring Balkan States as it is behind modern German civilization.

The working people's day-dreams of emulating German progress are almost balanced by their dread of Slavonic invasion, for when the native Hungarians become troublesome to the Barons, bankers and property owners by demanding improved compensation or conditions of life, they are immediately confronted with the importation of Slavs and even with hundreds of Croats who are imported to take their places, and the latter are said to be even poorer, more docile, and cheaper workers than the Slavs. Thus the way to progress among the working people in Hungary is beset by difficulties untold to us in such reports as we receive from Eastern Europe.

Yet there is a rift even in Hungarian clouds. I was informed that five years ago the same class of men and women I saw at work were employed twelve and thirteen hours per day. Their working hours in many instances are now down to nine and one-half per day, and in the last few years they have succeeded in securing increases of wages of one hundred per cent. on the rate they received for the longer workday. All of this, too, has been accomplished without legal permission by the Government to hold trade union meetings.

In other words, while without authority by edict of any kind to meet and transact business, state authorities tolerate or rather do not object to them meeting under retain police regulations. Some of the requirements are that one or two representatives of the Police Department attend the meetings, sit next to the presiding officer, make notes of the business transacted, and report every half hour or so by messenger to the Chief of Police what is being said and done, who is saying it, and how it is done.

The delegates to the International Secretariat, perhaps protected by passports, did not have their business so censored or reported, but the Hungarian Trades Congress, which met on the Sunday, 9 a. m., after our Convention had adjourned the previous Saturday afternoon, was attended at the opening and all during its sessions by two police officials in decorated uniforms who asserted their authority on sitting down alongside of the presiding officer by placing their swords in the scabbard quite noisily on the table, so that the jingling sound would make their presence and their official weapons known and feared.

The sight of women employed as hod carriers and building laborers, carrying on their heads or by hand barrows of mortar, brick, and stone, and in pairs carrying lumber, iron and debris up or down gangways as the case might be, at 50 cents a day in summer and 35 cents a day in winter, gave me a nervous chill. Strong of body, stout of limb, arms bare to the shoulders, poorly clad or fed, without shoes or stockings, and carefully selected under the law of the survival of the fittest, they, as human beings begrimed, without hope, without smiles or evidence of the sunshine of life, offered a pitiable contrast to the human butterflies of Hungarian society.

As I watched the drudgery imposed on those poor women, a thought in comparison came to me that in yonder ivy-mantled castle within a cannon shot of where I then stood, were Princess Gladys, she of Vanderbilt pedigree, spending lavishly good American dollars which figuratively had been wrung from the sweat of American labor, and her princely nabob partner living in luxury filched in a way from the manhood and womanhood of Hungarian peasantry, and I involuntarily exclaimed with the poet,—truly

"Man's inhumanity to man Makes countless thousands mourn."

If this were all, despair would displace ambition. This cannot long endure. I was informed that in several districts of that magnificently and naturally endowed country where architecture enchants, where public structures and monuments are superb, where art flourishes, where streets and public parks are laid out to please, where gold instead of justice is paramount, where the upper crust revels in luxury and the under crust in abject poverty, where misery is abundant, morality nil, child labor in its worst form, human life a commercial asset, womanhood degraded, her honor smirched, and where the sword means government, that through trade union and socialistic agitation play-grounds for children are becoming popular, many additional public schools are being erected (I doffed my hat to each one I saw), the school age is being extended, and with an ever-increasing proportion of scholars in attendance.

In addition to this evidence of a future and better civilization I was informed that hundreds of Hungarians are returning from America to the native homes they left as peasants, improved in appearance, with somewhat of education, well clad, ambitious, revolutionary, possessed of the wherewithal to acquire and hold property, thereby becoming voters, buying and working their way into the bourgeoisie, or middle-class citizenship which makes them electors and qualified to be elected. They are bent on making progress, on installing a better time, and in some instances where numbers permit, they emphasize their acquired American tendencies by insisting in political and other public meetings on being addressed in the English language.

In this way those who have been with us, who have seen and felt our freedom as compared to theirs, our democracy and our civilization, on their return to their native country are helping to influence the election of men into official positions who hold progressive views, and who in time will transmit their influence with good effect to the Hungarian body politic.

Thus you see economic, social and educational evolution is visible in spots. Too much credit cannot be given to the faithful, patient, but persistent trade unionists and to the hustling, protesting, and militant Socialists of Hungary for the humanitarian and political work they are performing, and for the excellent foundation for development of a future democracy they are laying.

Nearly eighty per cent. of the people in Hungary are practically illiterate. This includes the thousands of Slavs, Croats and other aliens continuously within her borders, drafted thither by designing capitalists and by scheming employers, and who are invariably illiterate, for a little education would be dangerous to the nefarious system to which I refer.

Social and political conditions in Hungary differ so much from ours that comparison is difficult. The Socialist party is the only organized political protest against aristocracy, feudalism, militarism, and the present system of baronial or vested interests.

It matters little by what name that protest is designated, the fact is evident that it is a contest between an effete and slowly disappearing aristocracy and a young, liberty-breathing demand for freedom under democracy.

Who can say with such influences as work, even although it is an up-hill fight, that through such tendencies as I have just mentioned, as well as from cultivating native aggressiveness, guided and encouraged by constructive action in other countries and with the general development of solidarity among all working people wheresoever dispersed, even Hungary will rise from her economic and political slough of despond and will take her place among more progressive nations.

On leaving Budapest my route would have taken me through Italy and Switzerland, but I was advised not to go to Italy, as cholera was discovered in several Italian cities which I had arranged to visit. Quarantine regulations would have seriously interfered with my subsequent arrangements, and I very reluctantly abandoned visiting that very interesting and historic country.

I reached Vienna, but cholera from Italy had also reached that city. After leaving Vienna I went to Munich, Nuremberg, Wurzburg, Frankfurt on the Main, and sailed down the Rhine from Mayence to Cologne, then to labor centers in Holland, Belgium and France. Each country and city I visited had its own individual as well as general interest. The progressive movement among the common people only differed in detail.

Munich is fairly well organized, and the workers deserve credit and encouragement. This is the great beer-brewing center in Europe. Its beer gardens, like those in Vienna, mean something different than the mere words convey here. Thither poor families, carrying their meagre luncheon with them, repair in the evening to seat, sip the local beverage, listen to music, and to put in the evening in domestic and fraternal exchange of views with whomsoever they may meet, and their richer neighbor from an outlying boulevard may be occupying the next table. These resorts constitute the domestic method of such commingling of the classes as takes place over there.

I cannot help if it jolts our temperance friends to say that, generally speaking, on the continent of Europe where wine and beer are consumed, and where the places dispensing them are seldom, if ever closed, intemperance in the use of intoxicating drinks is almost unknown. This does not apply with the same accuracy to cities like Brussels and Paris, where the demi-monde lead society.

In morality, one having in mind one's Sunday-school lessons and who has been in Europe, wonders why Sodom and Gomorrah were destroyed and Brussels and Paris do flourish. There are other wicked places in Europe than those two cities, but in the latter frivolity is supreme, while in the former sheer poverty has driven the unfortunates from misery to shame.

Munich is in Bavaria. Bavaria is a kingdom of the German Empire. The King of Bavaria has been locked up crazy for over a quarter of a century. I hope the Kaiser and the lesser Kings in the War Lord's Dominions will not feel mentally uneasy at my remark that Bavaria seemed to be the best-governed of the German states.

I said that in some ways the German unions are leading the world. I have reference to compensation and to insurance features. I cannot here go into general details, nor is there need for it, as each specific insurance feature fostered and favored by German and British unions has been made public in our Labor Press and has been treated in detail by some of my colleagues on the Executive Council.

I may, however, without perhaps tiring you, refer to one new feature, namely, life insurance. One insurance company of Germany, The Victoria, in a short time cleared in profits a sum equal to $25,000,000. The Dresden Trades Congress decided to establish an insurance system, and never in the history of the Capitalistic Press was such a rumpus raised as against this convention.

Old companies had been paying stockholders from 40 per cent. to 60 per cent. on investments, hence the above mentioned press protests. The German trade union system of life insurance goes into effect in January, 1912, under the title of The People's Provident Co., and when securely established, the German unions propose to also put in use a Workers' Fire Insurance system.

This is going on in a country where about 175,000 workers, men and women from the Slavonic races, visit them yearly, accepting employment under contract by the nefarious card system which I have referred to, staying in their country about five months of the year and receiving in wages 15 cents to 50 cents a day of fourteen to sixteen hours in the poorest paid employments, but in some instances from ten to sixteen hours a day. These workers are moved from place to place in fourth-class or cattle cars, and everything possible is done, including supervising marriage regulations, so that they may be kept in their own class.

The syndicate managing this process is located in Prussia, but the head office is in Berlin and requires 700 clerks to transact its official business.

The Co-operative Store System is well established throughout Europe, but is in best shape in Belgium, and which is another instance of peculiar contrasts, for organization of labor is not proportionately high in that country. Its hold on the Co-operative Store System is sufficiently complete, however, to dictate the selling price of bread all over Belgium.

I returned to England, went to Ireland, thence to Scotland, went through the Trossachs and arrived in Newcastle-on-Tyne during the sessions of the British Trades Congress, and where I had the pleasure of meeting Fraternal Delegates W. B. Macfarlane and D. J. Tobin, and whom I desire to compliment for the practical and business-like way they performed the duties with which the St. Louis Convention honored them.

For reasons already assigned I will not invade their jurisdiction, but speaking of jurisdictional questions the British Trade Congress has an admirable outlet, first by having years ago decided not to take up those questions in the Trades Congress, and second, by indirectly referring them to the British Trades Federation. In magnitude the latter is just entering upon the same interesting period of contention and discussion on this subject that in the past has caused so much dispute and friction in A. F. of L. Conventions. They call it overlapping, but by whatever name a rose may be called, its perfume is just the same.

In further reference to the trade union movement on the Continent, and especially at this stage of my report, as it applies to the labor movement of Great Britain and America, I found a deep-seated feeling in England and Scotland against workers from Germany taking their places for low wages, and frequently during suspensions of work to influence better working conditions. Our fellow unionists in Ireland had little to say about men from the Continent, for emigration continues to be more in evidence than immigration. Having heard something of the above-mentioned complaint before I went to the Continent, I made inquiry about it so that I could tell American workers what was the cause of the complaint which seemed to be the chief point of contention between the British and the continental unions.

I found it was extremely difficult for the Germans to explain the cause to the British, for effort to do so was usually considered to mean more of an excuse than an explanation. The Germans, however, aver that the charge about cheap native workers from their country taking the places of the British during disputes, etc., is not well borne out.

We are accustomed to view the phrase, "Go West, young man" as an Americanism. The idea is really more European than American, for the trend and tendency of migration there is invariably West. Armenian, Balkan and Slavonic races move by large numbers into Hungary and Austria. They find improved conditions. They are moving towards Germany, where they find conditions still better, and they are by increased productivity and compensation preparing to go farther West. If they have not enough money to go to America they move from Germany to Great Britain, where they complete the course of European migration, some remaining, the greater portion in one way or another finally going to North America.

The German worker is not as well compensated as the British worker, and there is inducement for the German to look for better conditions, but much of the contention in Great Britain against Germany, on investigation would be found to be a protest against those from farther East, who in the first place were a menace to the German worker and later to the British.

It is a great international question, and while the process is a source of much annoyance and hindrance to the British, who among us can really blame people brought up under such conditions of poverty and misery as those to which I have referred, for trying to go West to better their condition?

Governments as presently constituted can not cope with the situation, for the influence of all governments seem to be unusually friendly to the rich few and proportionally calloused and cold-blooded against the poor many. Time will change this, as governments become revolutionized towards democracy, but the process is so slow that if it were not for the beneficent features possible under International Trade Unionism, the hearts of the active workers who are striving for improved conditions of life would literally break under the strain.

Here is where International Trade Unionism will play its strongest part. By an intermingling of the representatives of the different countries a better understanding will be reached, the points which have brought success in different parts of the great movement in the civilized world will be brought out, adopted and developed, while the snags and mistakes which impeded the way to material progress and to human liberty will be noted and can be avoided.

Right now a craving for betterment and for freedom is permeating all movements of middle class and lowly society. It may be labelled international insurgency against aristocratic, governmental and judicial tyranny, but whatever its caption may be, the movement for universal uplift of submerged and exploited citizenship was never so much in evidence as at present. They cry for relief from tyranny and the demand for just definition and administration of laws has the dynasty of China on the brink of oblivion, and from there to the capital city of our own country round about in both ways the human tremor is felt. The protests of the older established trade unions are being heard around the world and are bearing good fruit. In the most isolated portions of the universe as well as in the parts most in evidence, we hear the sound and feel the pulse of the general demand for more equitable and more just conditions of life.

The efforts we have made in our time and the efforts others in the past have made before us, have not been lost energy, and although to the difficulties to which I have referred in Eastern Europe may be traced considerable of the lack of faster advancements in Western Europe, in Great Britain, and to some extent in our own country, it is a condition with which we will very largely have to deal in the economic field, and I do not despair of future accomplishments, although I regret that the procession is moving slowly.

Standing under the shadow of The Hague Temple of International Conciliation and Arbitration and cogitating much on the thoughts I have expressed in this report, my meanderings in Europe riveted in my mind the encouraging sign of the times that such international meetings as those I had attended were cementing fraternal thought along international lines, and was more than ever bringing the workers of all countries to understand that in other pursuits as well as on the industrial field an injury to one is the concern of all. The feeling is growing apace, especially among organized workers, that war internecine, or between nations, must cease. Men will refuse to be involved in controversies whose trend and purpose lead to working people of one country killing and maiming working people of another country through alleged patriotism, but which invariably leads to further governmental power with extension of oppression over the governed.

Bear in mind no mental rumination had not in it that this excellent spirit of true international patriotism among the workers of all countries emanated from the classic structure under the shadow of which I stood. Instead, I realized and was proud of the fact that the Hague Tribunal had been a result of the growth and inculcation of the great efforts I have tried to explain.

I appreciate the honor of having your credential to-Budapest. I gave the best that was in me to faithfully and well represent you, and I close my remarks about Europe and America with an earnest hope, in which I trust you will all join, that long may the beneficent teachings, truths, principles and purposes of International Trades Unionism continue to evolve for the betterment of the human race.

Respectfully submitted,
JAMES DUNCAN,
Representative.

After reading the portion of the report in reference to Mr. Foster, of the Industrial Workers, Vice-President Duncan said:

During the proceedings a letter received by this man from Chicago was passed around among the delegates. As only a few of the delegates could read the letter, which was in English, I had it interpreted for the others. The letter is as follows:

Industrial Workers of the World,
518 Cambridge Building,
Chicago, Ill., July 21, 1911.
Vincent St. John,
General Secretary-Treasurer.
W. E. Trautman,
Ass't. Sec. and Gen. Organizer.
Mr. W. Z. Foster,, Care Mr. Fritz Kater,

C-54 Alte Schonhausen Strasse 20, Berlin, Germany.
Fellow Worker:

Am mailing you by registered mail this date, general delivery, Budapest, Hungary, dope that we have on hand to date. If we are successful in getting additional dope, will send it on as fast as we get hold of it.

If suggestions are in order and this letter reaches you in time, I would suggest that you get into Budapest as early as possible, look up Basch and hold down the town. Basch may also have some dope that will be of assistance to you.

Have had documents marked so as to help you out in getting at the matter without having to search through the papers. The bound volume of "Socialist Review" has index marked. Try and take good care of all these documents as they will come in handy in the future no doubt.

With best wishes, I am,

Yours for Industrial Freedom,
(Signed) VINCENT ST. JOHN,
General Secretary.

Vice-President Duncan—All I have to say in addition to the letter is that I am somewhat fearful the "dope" had effect, because soon after the fracas to which I have referred in my official report took place Mr. Foster came to grief in Budapest. The following day a Hungarian, who had been in this country and could speak some English, came to me and said a subscription paper was being passed around to get Foster out of jail and enable him to return to Berlin. He had been arrested the night before because of some trouble he had with a street car conductor for not paying his fare. I told our friend that since the Roman occupation of that part of the country the roads had been in excellent condition, that pedestrianism was good for the health, and I would therefore refrain from interfering with Mr. Foster's opportunity to benefit his health by walking back to Berlin.

Delegate Tveitmo—I move you that this Convention tender a rising vote of thanks to Delegate Duncan for the able manner in which he has represented the Trades Union movement of America in Budapest, and for the highly interesting and masterly report he brought to us.

The motion was seconded and carried by a unanimous rising vote.

President Gompers—It is a unanimous vote, and the thanks of the Convention are extended to you, Delegate Duncan. The report will be made part of the official proceedings of this Convention.

The local Entertainment Committee announced the following program of entertainment:

Wednesday, at 2 o'clock, an oyster roast at a brewery.

Thursday, 2 o'clock, barbecue at White City, cars to be in waiting at the door of the Convention hall at 2 o'clock.

Friday night, theater party at Forsyth, tickets to be distributed to delegates, all of the lady delegates and visitors to be included in the party.

President Gompers—The local committee in corresponding with the President on the subject of entertainment was admonished not to take up much of the working time of this convention. The committee was quite lavish in its proffers of entertainment. However, they pared it down to these two entertainments for tomorrow and Thursday afternoon, the other entertainment to be in the evening. It is suggested that possibly on Wednesday and Thursday the Convention might convene at 9:30 and remain in session until 1:30 or 2 o'clock, then adjourn for the entertainments.

On motion the suggestion in regard to the time for convening and adjourning on Wednesday and Thursday as suggested by President Gompers was adopted.

During the session resolutions numbers 23 to 62 inclusive, were introduced and referred to the proper committees.

At 5:30 p. m. the Convention was adjourned, to reconvene at 9 o'clock a. m., Wednesday, November 15th.

Third Day—Wednesday Morning Session

The Convention was called to order at 9:30 a. m., Wednesday, November 15th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees: Pfell, Yount, Friel, Smith (Fred), Roach, Croakley, Price, Dold, Gallagher, (John J.), Gaviak, Kaefel, Kelly (William E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hick, Torrey, Hurley, Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Schneider (John), Wendt, Davis, Welsh (Edward F.), Fuller, James, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Creamer, Donnelly, Saum, Engdahl, Schaub.

Delegate Moorhouse, Secretary of the Committee on Credentials, reported as follows:

We have examined the credential submitted from the Brotherhood of Railway Freight Handlers, and recommend that Fred Smith be seated, with 40 votes.

On the credential of the Commercial Telegraphers, in lieu of Perry Thomas, we recommend the seating of Thomas Pinson, he having been duly accredited by his organization, with 10 votes.

On the credential of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers we recommend the seating of G. E. Soyster, with 63 votes, in place of C. E. Mulhall, who is detained by illness. G. E. Soyster is duly accredited by his National organization as an alternate.

We are in receipt of a further protest from T. J. McNamara, of the Heat and Frost Insulators and Asbestos Workers of America, against the seating of A. J. Kennedy. Your committee recommends that inasmuch as A. J. Kennedy has already been seated as a delegate, no further action be taken.

D. A. CAREY, Chairman.

S. L. LANDERS,

E. FRANK MOORHOUSE, Secretary.

Delegate Carey—I move the adoption of the report of the committee. (Seconded and carried.)

Secretary Morrison read the following telegrams:

"Washington, D. C., Nov. 14, 1911.

"Mr. Frank Morrison, Secretary American Federation of Labor, Atlanta, Ga.:

"The Central Labor Union of Washington, D. C., sends fraternal greetings to the officers and delegates to the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"JOHN B. COLPOYS, Secretary."

"New York City, Nov. 13, 1911.

"The Convention of the American Federation of Labor, New Kimball House, Atlanta, Ga.:

"The United Hebrew Trades of New York send you their hearty congratulations. We wish you success. We were also this year very successful in getting the masses of the Jewish speaking workers of New York into the ranks of the trade union. Long live organized labor!"

"B. WEINSTEIN, Secretary."

"Richmond, Va., Nov. 14, 1911.

"Frank Morrison, Secretary A. F. of L. Atlanta, Ga.

"The Executive Boards of the Virginia Federation of Labor and Farmers' Co-operative Union in joint session send fraternal greetings to the A. F. of L. and extend cordial invitation to hold 1912 convention in Richmond.

"S. PHIL METZ, President.

"E. C. DAVISON, Secretary."

"Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 14, 1911.

"American Federation Convention, Main Editorial Hall, Atlanta.

"While the strikers of Cleveland did not succeed in obtaining their just demands their spirit is still unbroken and are ready to take up the fight again when the opportunity will present itself. At present we continue fight by asking organized labor not to buy Cleveland made goods. Let convention urge organized labor to do likewise. With many congratulations and best wishes for the Convention, I am yours for the cause of labor,

"ISRAEL FEIT,

"Second Vice-President Int. Ladies Garment Workers' Union for Cleveland Ladies Garment Workers."

Report of Auditing Committee.

Delegate Moorhouse, for the Committee, reported as follows:

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 13, 1911.

To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor:

Greeting:

Your Auditing Committee having examined all books, receipts, expenditures, vouchers, etc., beg leave to submit the following report:

The total income of the American Federation of Labor from all sources from October 1, 1910, until September 30, 1911, inclusive, was $182,188.68, as follows:

Per capita tax	....$122,958.90
Supplies	..... 9,805.44
Interest	..... 4,372.10
Assessment United Hatters (3 cts.)	.. 162.54
Defense fund	..... 16,010.75
Premiums on bonds	2,988.55
AMERICAN FED-ERATIONIST	... 18,213.98
Assessment Los Angeles	..... 19.06
Legal Defense Fund	19.06
Assessment United Hatters	..... 7,638.30

Total receipts for the year..$182,188.68
Balance on hand September 30, 1910 .....

Grand total.....$365,103.64
The expenses from October 1, 1910, until September 30, 1911, inclusive, were $175,524.08, as follows:

German American Bank, September 1, 1911, No. 14018	.....$10,000.00
German American Bank, September 30, 1911, No. 14105	..... 15,000.00
First National Bank, September 30, 1911, No. 9004	..... 15,000.00
First National Bank, September 30, 1911, No. 9005	..... 15,000.00
First National Bank, November 1, 1911, No. 9186	..... 5,000.00
The Peoples' Bank, July 6, 1911, No. 8471	..... 10,000.00
The Peoples' Bank, September 1, 1911, No. 8807	..... 5,737.24
The Peoples' Bank, October 13, 1911, No. 8915	..... 5,000.00
The Peoples' Bank, November 1, 1911, No. 8966	..... 10,000.00
The State National Bank, June 8, 1911, No. 106995	..... 10,000.00
The State National Bank, June 8, 1911, No. 106996	..... 10,000.00
The State National Bank, June 8, 1911, No. 106997	..... 10,000.00
The State National Bank, September 18, 1911, No. 107868	..... 5,000.00
The State National Bank, October 13, 1911, No. 108058	..... 10,000.00
McLean County Bank, September 1, 1911, No. 2391	..... 5,000.00
McLean County Bank, September 20, 1911, No. 2393	..... 5,000.00
McLean County Bank, September 20, 1911, No. 2394	..... 5,000.00
McLean County Bank, September 20, 1911, No. 2395	..... 5,000.00
McLean County Bank, September 20, 1911, No. 2396	..... 5,000.00
McLean County Bank, September 20, 1911, No. 2397	..... 5,000.00
Total	.....$165,737.24

On deposit in the McLean County Bank, of Bloomington, Ill., subject to check of John B. Lennon, Treasurer	.....21,842.32
On deposit in the Riggs National Bank, Washington, D. C., September 30, 1911, subject to check of Frank Morrison, Secretary	.....$21,529.71
Outstanding checks	..... 19,529.71
Balance	..... 2,000.00
Total Balance in banks September 30, 1911	.....$189,579.56

In conclusion, we desire to express our appreciation of the excellent system in vogue at Headquarters in conducting the business of the American Federation of Labor.

A thorough and searching examination of the books, records, vouchers, etc., was made, and we desire to compliment President Samuel Gompers, Secretary Frank Morrison and the efficient staff for their work.

DAVID A. CAREY, Chairman.
SAMUEL L. LANDERS,
E. FRANK MOORHOUSE,
Secretary.

General account	...$137,973.94
AMERICAN FED-ERATIONIST	.... 20,913.56
Defense Fund	..... 4,192.00
Premiums on bonds	1,448.38
Legal defense assessment	..... 70.78
Assessment United Hatters (2 cts.)	.. 10,925.62

Total expenses for the year..$175,524.08

Recapitulation.

On hand, October 1, 1910	.....$182,914.96
Total receipts	..... 182,188.68

Total receipts .....$365,103.64
Expenses ..... 175,524.08

Balance on hand, October 1, 1911 .....$189,579.56
Showing that the receipts exceeded the expenses by $6,664.60.

We find the total sum of $189,579.56 balance on hand, as follows:
Certificates of deposit shown us by President Samuel Gompers, as held by Treasurer John B. Lennon, deposited in the following banks of Bloomington, Ill.:

Delegate Carey—I move the adoption of the report of the committee. (Seconded and carried.)

Assignment of Subjects to Committees.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT. That portion of the report of President Gompers under the caption "Organization and Growth," referred to the Committee on Organization. That portion under the caption "The International Secretariat," referred to the Committee on Resolutions. That portion under the caption of "Organizers," referred to the Committee on Organization.

Executive Council's Report.

That portion of the report under the caption "New Unions Chartered—Organization," referred to the Committee on Organization. That portion under the caption "Organizers," referred to the Committee on Organization. That portion under the caption, "Organizers," relating to increase of per capita tax referred to the Committee on Laws. That portion under the caption "Building Trades Department—U. B. of Carpenters—Steam Fitters," referred to Building Trades Committee. That portion under the caption "United Brotherhood of Carpenters—Amalgamated Wood Workers," referred to Committee on Adjustment. That portion under the caption "Amalgamated Carpenters—U. B. of Carpenters," referred to Committee on Adjustment. That portion under the caption "Electrical Workers," referred to Building Trades Committee. That portion under the caption "Machinists—Elevator Constructors," referred to Committee on Adjustment. That portion under the caption "Teamsters—Bakers," referred to Committee on Adjustment. That portion under the caption "Theatrical Stage Employees—Electrical Workers—Moving Picture Operators," referred to Committee on Adjustment. That portion under the caption "Organized Farmers," referred to Committee on Organization. That portion under the caption "Union Label Leagues," referred to the Committee on Law. That portion under the caption, "A. F. of L. News Letter," referred to Committee on Education. That portion under the caption "A. F. of L. Office Building," referred to the Committee on President's Report. That portion under the caption "Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation Laws," referred to the Committee on President's Report. That portion under the caption "Industrial Accidents," referred to the Committee on Resolutions. That portion under the caption "Industrial Education," referred to the Committee on Education. That portion under the caption "Pure Food, Pure Drugs," referred to the Committee on Resolutions. That portion under the caption "New Mexico's Constitution," referred to the Committee on Resolutions. That portion under the caption "International Secretariat," referred to the Committee on Resolutions. That portion under the caption "Boy Scout Movement," referred to the Committee on Resolutions. That portion under the caption "Conservation Natural Resources," referred to the Committee on Education. That portion under the caption "White Rats Actors' Union—Benefit Performances," referred to Special Committee to be appointed in accordance with the recommendations of the Executive Council. That portion under the caption "Labor Representation Committee's Report," referred to the Committee on President's Report.

In the report as originally read the portion of the Executive Council's Report under the caption "Amalgamated Carpenters—U. B. Carpenters," was referred to the Building Trades Committee. Delegate Duffy (F.) requested that it be transferred to the Committee on Adjustment. No objection being offered at the time, President Gompers stated that it would be so transferred.

Delegate Wilkinson—I move that the portion of the report dealing with the dispute between the Amalgamated Carpenters and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters be given back to the Building Trades Committee to which it was originally assigned.

Vice-President O'Connell—I second the motion, Mr. Chairman.

Delegate Kelly (W. J.), raised a point of order that the transfer had been adopted by unanimous consent and a reconsideration would be necessary before the motion before the house would be in order. The point of order was declared not well taken.

Delegate Wilkinson spoke in favor of the motion.

Delegate Duffy (F.) opposed the motion.

A viva voce vote was taken on the motion offered by Delegate Wilkinson. The chair not being able to decide on an aye and nay vote called for a show of hands. The motion was then declared lost by a vote of 99 in the negative to 60 in the affirmative.

Vice-President Huber—I wish to again decline to serve as chairman of the Building Trades Committee. My best judgment tells me I have no business on that committee.

President Gompers—Is there objection? Delegate Carter moved that declination of Vice-President Huber be accepted. (Seconded and carried.)

President Gompers—The chair will make an appointment later on. Until that appointment is made, the delegate next on the committee, Delegate Short, will act as chairman.

The announcement was made that Delegate Kline, appointed as chairman of the Committee on Treasurer's Report, had been called away from the Convention, and that Delegate Skemp would act in his place.

On motion of Delegate Wilson (W. B.), the addresses of fraternal delegates was made a special order of business for 10 o'clock a. m. Thursday.

During the session Resolutions Nos. 63 to 83 inclusive, were submitted and referred to the proper committees.

No committees being ready to report, at 10:30 a. m. the rules were suspended, and a recess taken to 1:30 p. m. of the same day.

Third Day—Wednesday Afternoon Session

The Convention was called to order at 1:30 p. m., Wednesday, November 15th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Pfell, Smith (Fred), Roach, fer, Kelly (Wm. E.), Anderson (W. H.), Ferry, Hurley, Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Schneider (John), Wendt, Davis, Welsh (Edward F.), Fuller, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Cramer, Donnelly, Saum, Schaub.

President Gompers—The committees are not ready to report. What is the pleasure of the Convention?

Delegate Barnes (J. M.)—I move that the rules be suspended and that the Convention adjourn to 9:30 tomorrow morning. (Seconded.)

After announcement of committee meetings, resolutions 84 to 95 inclusive, were introduced and referred to the proper committees.

At 2 o'clock the convention was adjourned, to reconvene at 9:30 a. m., Thursday, November 16th.

Fourth Day---Thursday Morning Session

The Convention was called to order at 9:30 a. m., Thursday, November 16th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees: Pfeil, Smith, (Fred), Roach Coakley, Price, Dold, Gaviak, Kaefer, Kelly (William E), Anderson (W. H.), Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Hobbs, Davis (William A.), Fuller, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Saum, Schaub.

Delegate Moorhouse, Secretary of the Committee on Credentials, reported as follows:

Your committee has received the credential of the Glove Makers' International Union, and recommend that Agnes Nestor be seated, with nine votes.

D. A. CAREY, Chairman.

S. L. LANDERS,

E. F. MOORHOUSE, Secretary,

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Secretary Morrison read a communication from the United Garment Workers' organization in St. Louis, announcing the termination of the trade dispute between the members of that organization and the firm of Marx & Haas, clothing manufacturers, and expressing gratitude to organized labor for help rendered during the struggle.

Secretary Morrison read the following communication:

"New York, November 15th, 1911.

"Mr. Frank Morrison,
American Federation of Labor Convention, Atlanta, Ga.

"The Water Front Federation of New York and Vicinity by unanimous vote of its delegates in regular meeting assembled and representing one hundred and sixty thousand transport workers in this port endorses and pledges its support to a transport workers' department of the American Federation of Labor.

"W. S. CARTLEDGE,
"Secretary Water Front Federation of New York and Vicinity."

"Seattle, Wash., Nov. 15, 1911.

"Frank Morrison,
Care of American Federation of Labor Convention, Atlanta, Ga.

"The Seattle Hotel Men's Association extends to your body a cordial invitation to hold your 1912 Convention in this city. Our beautiful climatic conditions, together with the scenic beauties which surround our city, also a positive assurance that the hotel rates will remain normal at all times, will assure the visiting delegates to this Convention a good time in the queen city of the Northwest.

"SEATTLE HOTEL MEN'S ASS'N.,
"H. E. Kennedy, Secretary,"

"New York, Nov. 15, 1911.

"Mr. Frank Morrison, American Federation of Labor Convention, Atlanta, Ga.:

All Maritime Unions of the Atlantic, composed of Sailors, Marine Firemen and Marine Cooks, Stewards and Waiters and covering the greatest Maritime District in the United States, endorse and pledge their united support to a transport workers' department of the American Federation of Labor. Verbatim resolutions adopted follow by mail.

"H. P. GRIFFIN,
"Secretary Marine Cooks' and Stewards' Union of the Atlantic.

"JAMES VIDAL,
"Secretary Marine Firemen's Union of Atlantic and Gulf.

"D. SASSEN,
"Atlantic Coast Seamen's Union, New York."

"Caguas, Puerto Rico,

"November 6, 1911.

"Mr. Samuel Gompers, President American Federation of Labor, Atlanta, Ga.

"Dear Sir and Brother:

"Federal Labor Union No. 13134, of Caguas, Puerto Rico, sends greetings to the officers and delegates assembled in convention in Atlanta, Georgia.

"Although when this letter reaches you the Convention will have assembled, and though not represented in the Convention by a delegate, we thus convey by mail our hearty good wishes for the Convention.

"We are hoping much from the work of the Convention and trust that the condition of the people of Puerto Rico, as regards the rights of citizenship, will not be overlooked by the Convention.

"The workers of Puerto Rico are in full sympathy with the efforts being made for the defense of the McNamara brothers.

"Again we desire to repeat the expression of our best wishes for the work of the Convention.

Fraternally yours,

"FEDERAL LABOR UNION, No. 13134,

"By Lorenzo Bouillia Flores.

"Financial Secretary."

BAKERY AND CONFECTIONERY WORKERS' INTERNATIONAL UNION OF AMERICA, LOCAL NO. 48.

"Caguas, Puerto Rico, Nov. 7, 1911.

"To the Officers and Delegates, Convention A. F. of L., Atlanta, Ga.

"Greeting:

"Although when this letter reaches you, the Convention will have been in session for several days, yet we desire to convey our best wishes for the success of the Convention.

Fraternally yours,
 "ANDRES ORELLANO,
 "Secretary Financial.
 "IGNACIO RODRIGUEZ,
 "Secretary Recording."

President Gompers announced that Frederick W. Gardner, President of the Buck Stove and Range Company, had sent a letter requesting that a number of attractive souvenirs be distributed to the delegates, and instructed that they be distributed during the time set for the introduction of resolutions.

Delegate O'Connor (T. V.), moved that the telegram from the Water Front Federation of New York be made part of the record of the Convention. President Gompers stated that if no objections were offered all the communications read would be made part of the proceedings.

President Gompers announced that upon the adjournment of the session the delegates were requested to proceed to the State Capitol, where a group photograph of the Convention would be taken.

At 10 o'clock President Gompers announced that the hour had arrived for the addresses of fraternal delegates. President Gompers stated that the fraternal delegates had arranged their order of speaking and introduced as the first speaker Mr. J. Crinlon, representing the British Trades Union Congress.

Fraternal Delegate Crinlon—Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen: In the name of the British Trades Union Congress I convey to you their hearty greetings, and in the name of two million, four hundred thousand organized workers of Britain their sincere wishes for your success in this, your thirty-first Convention.

Mr. Chairman and Friends, it is my intention to touch as briefly as I can upon industrial questions that are before the British public. And in so doing I wish to bring it under the heading of the Federation of Trades Unions, a federation which is conducted principally on the same lines as your own federation. The federation is looked upon as the militant part of our trades union movement, is an offspring from the Trades Union Congress, and has the great Labor disputes, strikes and lockout that take place in our country to deal with. We recognize that we have too many unions and far too few trades unionists. We have many unions similar to each other, but still claiming their own autonomy, with few members in their individual societies. The federation has set about to bring about a better understanding by having fewer unions and having members more amalgamated or federated than they have been in the past.

When the Federation of Trades Union came into being in 1899 there were forty-three societies and three hundred and forty-three thousand members connected with it. Today it possesses no less than one hundred and forty societies with seven hundred and fifty thousand members. This will show you that we are taking a step in the right direction. Considering that it is only thirteen years since the formation of our Federation we can claim that we have done much useful and serviceable work in behalf of the industrial toilers of Great Britain.

In recent years we have used our persuasion to the effect that we have been able to bring about an understanding with the general laborers, numbering some twelve organizations, to federate together in, practically speaking, one common union. This has had the good results many of you have read of in this country in the recent upheaval we have had, where the dockers, the seamen, the carters and many other labor organizations, that for long, long years had been asking, pleading, I might say, to the employers for an improvement in their working conditions, were able to improve their conditions. For many years they had pleaded, but all their pleadings having fallen on deaf ears. They made up their minds to put up with their conditions no longer. The result was the cry of "Down with tools!" and by downing the tools those men proved they were not to be trifled with any longer, and their position is much improved today by that action.

Many people in our country had hoped to find, because it was they said an interference with trade, a paralyzing of the industries of the country, that some drastic measure might be taken to prevent a recurrence of that action. But before that can be accomplished workers of our country will have to be accounted with, because long enough have they stood silently and borne the brunt of the capitalist classes. Now they are determined that it shall not again come to pass that the laborer will not be able to command a decent return for his labor and decent conditions to live under. No matter what the criticisms may have been, those in the movement believe they were justified in the action they took.

I am only sorry that I have to stand here and say that I think the mistake that was made—a mistake that should have been foreseen years ago—was made by the railway workers in our country. Had they been inside the federated movement of the country they would not have come out as badly as they did, and it would not have come to pass that a commission was suggested by the government when these men had victory almost in sight. This commission, the men were led to believe, would be favorable in its findings toward them. You have all read for yourselves what those findings were. Those men back at their work are, practically speaking, in the same position they were before they left it. The findings of the commission—what were they? That the men shall have the right to select whom shall be their secretary. It may be their general secretary or it may be a secretary agreed upon and appointed by the men to go along with a committee. A committee of what kind? A committee that is working for some of the railway companies, men who cannot go honestly, without fear of their situations being jeopardized, to voice the feelings and sentiments of their class.

I say that such a proposal is not worthy of picking up to read, because I hold the men have a right to say whom they will appoint and whether or no it will be officers they will select to represent them in official position, not men selected from the company, who have to meet and deal with these questions with them across the table. Furthermore, their finding is that there shall be no interference with the management or discipline of these great railways. What underlies that? Do I need to tell you? You understand quite as well and perhaps better than I do what underlies it. Men may be marked for taking an advanced view, men may be marked for having the courage to say they will not submit to any kind or condition of labor or wages that may be paid. What will be the result? Marked men must go. If any one questions the rights of the men it will be said, "Hands off! You have no right to interfere with the management or discipline or the way we run those locomotives across our lines!"

Such a state of affairs is not worthy of men, but that is the findings of the commission that was appointed. All I have to say is that while we as a federation of trades unions do stand for the working men who are looked upon, as I said before, as a militant part of our movement, this is the finding of the commission and the men have accepted it for the time being. But while the time is coming when they can act again in the matter they should prepare the financial side of the question, and then if they cannot get a hearing in a reasonable and proper manner from the great railway magnate, then, by all means, let them strike and stick to it, and heed no commissions or government interference until they have the victory they deserve.

As there are several other fraternal delegates to speak I shall have to briefly skim over the work we have further in hand. There are many of the trades or callings represented in this Convention, and perhaps it would not be out of place to give something of what is being done by the trades in our federation. The glass workers in our country numbered sixteen small unions. We have been able to bring together fifteen of them and form one grand union. The sixteen organizations were small in number, and each viewing things in their own light were practically at the mercy of the employers. Now that they are federated the employer can no longer look upon them in the same light he did when they were so many small fragments. Then we have the gold and silver trades unions, which numbered thirteen, with only twelve hundred members. You will readily see that with so many unions it was really a waste of energy and funds, because they were paying thirteen officials, had different committees and executives, and the money that ought to be going into one exchequer and to one set of officials, providing for a fighting fund, as we call it in our country, was divided among these organizations.

Then we have the Iron Foundry trades, numbering seven, with thirty-five thousand members. This included the core makers, the plate molders, the bench molders, and some branches I am not thoroughly acquainted with. We have been able to get these people to see the benefit of federation or amalgamation, and at the present time they have agreed among themselves and have drafted a code of rules, contributions and benefits to be paid, and are now taking a ballot of the members of those seven associations. That to me is a step in the right direction; it is one of the things I admit ought to be copied in our country, because it is similar to what you have in the United States of America. This is recommended by each of the Executive Councils, and I have no doubt it will be accepted by the rank and file of the members.

Now, coming to the engineers, Shipwrights Provident and the Shipwrights Constructive Association who were out on the river Thames, London, for a working agreement. They were also out for increased rates of pay during the time the upheaval was on. But although many of the labor disputes were out of the way there was a stand made of one part of the shipping employers. They would not recognize the men or their leaders. The men and their employers were looking on, neither doing anything.

During the trouble the Board of Trade was seeking to come in, to the credit of the men they said, "No, we have no desire for you yet. We are capable of managing our own affairs. But if we do want any assistance that assistance must come from the federated trades union movement." And that assistance did come, because no other person than our respected secretary, Mr. Appleton, approached the employers and the men as a mediator between them, where the Board of Trades failed, and got the men and employers together. And a code of rules was drawn up which lifted the wages and dealt with the hours in a way satisfactory to the men concerned. The Board of Trade became annoyed at the Federation as a result. Let me tell you that on the advisory boards we have recently had appointed, because the Federation is the militant part of our movement, it has been ignored. Let me say that although that industrial board has been formed, do not believe that it carries with it the trades union movement of our country. About it the trades union movement of our country has never been consulted. We knew nothing of what the work of these industrial boards was to be. No scheme was placed before the trades union movement, yet the Government through the Board of Trade office appointed men, naming them as representatives of Labor, and Labor had no voice at all in the appointment. I am satisfied that the trades union movement will allow neither the Government, the Board of Trade, or any other outside body, the right to arrogate to itself the privilege of saying who shall represent labor in our country.

Now I will speak briefly concerning my own craft. Perhaps there is not here any great representation from my trade. I can quite understand why that is the case. You have many different tongues spoken here; in fact, this is the resting place of the world, I believe. I can quite understand the difficulties that are in the way of the cotton people in organizing their craft. I am told that there is not twenty per cent of the workers in that craft in this country in the organization. I am sorry to hear that. Only last night a gentlemen who happened to come from the same town as myself, but who had been in the City of Atlanta for the past twenty years, said that when he saw a photograph of the Convention that appeared in the paper he remarked: "That strikes me as Crinion from Oldham, and I am going to find out whether it is so." He came here yesterday and we talked about things at home and conditions here. He said: "I will take you around this city and you can see for yourself in one or two cotton mills the conditions that prevail. I am satisfied when you have seen them you will deplore the pitiable plight of the white people in those mills. You can take it from me—and I know what I am speaking of—from what I have seen in the old country and from what I have seen here, that the white people in the cotton mills of Atlanta are much worse off than the colored people."

I was very sorry to hear that. I don't know how you people will agree with me when I say they are much worse off than the colored people. Not that I in any way despise the colored man; in my opinion he is as worthy as I am; but I knew what my friend said has as its meaning that the white man should be getting better returns for his labor and better treatment than he is getting in the cotton mills of Georgia.

I have heard it stated that the workers as a whole have no newspaper they can call their own. That was an error on the part of the person who made the statement. I know there are people here who receive papers from our country that give the conditions of our workers, their wages and the hours they work. That is all contributed by the representatives of the workers themselves. That journal is the Cotton Factory Times. It is devoted wholly and solely to the condition of the workers in our mills. Then we have the Yorkshire Woolen Factory Times. That also is devoted wholly and solely to the workers, to the woolen workers of Yorkshire. I do not want you to think that all labor in England is alike unrepresented by any press. It is on the tapis to start a paper in the labor interests, representing not only the trades union movement but the work in parliament. I believe there is a prospectus before the country asking for capital to be subscribed to the amount of one hundred and fifty thousand pounds, not dollars, but one hundred and fifty thousand sovereigns.

What has our craft been able to accomplish? Our craft in a sense was unorganized twenty-five years ago. Then we counted hundreds to our thousands today. Twenty-five years ago we were at the mercy of our employers. That is no longer the case. During those twenty-five years we have had a thirteen-weeks' stoppage of our mills, we have had a twenty-one weeks' stoppage, we have had a seven weeks' stoppage, and we had a one week's stoppage only a matter of a year ago. Notwithstanding these stoppages and starting from rock bottom, we have been able as textile workers to place many laws on the statute books and to get many fixed agreements between ourselves and the employer, or the Home Secretary. We have a clause which defines the work of every female piecework hand in the mill. The female who goes into our mills knows exactly the work that will be cut out for her, the price that she will be paid, and it is an impossibility for the employer to take away a cent from her wages. She knows how much is coming to her at the week's end, and if she is one cent short, she can ask the employer to refund it. If she fails to get it she will not be long in bringing it to the notice of our union and asking our officials to deal with the employer. In this organization I have the honor to be at the head of, the local union in the town where I reside has twenty thousand members, has its own office and four hundred and twenty thousand dollars to its credit. That money is invested in corporation stock and the interest more than pays the working expenses of the organization.

While in New York my colleague and myself attended a meeting of his craft and heard a discussion of the printers' grievance in regard to tuberculosis. We have had the same question, and have it yet to some degree, in our mills at home. The cause was that they were not in a proper sanitary condition, that we had not the means of taking away the dust and lint. We had to toll under those conditions in former days, but during the past two years, through the agitation that was started by the cotton workers of Lancashire and adjacent counties, we have been able through the Home Office to bring pressure to bear on the employers to compel them to install in each of their mills apparatus that will take away all the dust and loose fibres the workers of our department had to inhale.

Not only have we been able to improve the sanitary conditions, but we have succeeded in having machinery guarded. Employers must see that the dangerous parts of all machinery are properly fenced. Only within these last twelve months we have been able to bring inspectors, employers and ourselves together at the same table and showed that this or that machine was not properly fenced. The employer has been given to understand by the inspectors under our government that those things must be attended to, and that without delay. The time is not long ago when we would be told to go and attend to our own business and not interfere with them in their management and control of their mills if such a thing had been suggested.

Another thing we have been able to accomplish for the cotton workers has to do with what we call robbery by the employers of those who were paid by the hour. Although our Factory Act says the working hours shall be 55 1-2 a week, many employers ran their mills 67 and 68 hours a week. Those men who were putting in the extra hours received no compensation for it. We took the matter before the Home Secretary. While it has not been placed on the statute book we have what is very effective in check-in—such a nefarious piece of business. Whereas inspectors used to come along and if they caught a mill employing two or three hundred people, forty or fifty being paid by the day, running over time they would summons five or six persons to the court. The piece hands are all right, because the longer the machinery is running the more they earn. They would summons five or six persons who were working by the day and would find the firm guilty, perhaps. What would be the penalty? In one case it would be ten shillings and cost, and in another only the cost. That would amount to only a few pounds. The firm would immediately leave court and go back and resort to the same thing. But that is not the case to-day. The inspectors have been given instructions to bring all the hands employed in that mill in our department to court if they choose to do so. And they do it. They are bringing twenty, thirty and forty persons to court, and it is no longer a fine of ten shillings and cost, or merely the cost, but one and two pounds and cost, making it in some cases something like one hundred pounds for an average mill. Not only that, but the police who patrol our streets are instructed during the winter months, and even in the summer months, if they happen to be on their beats nearby any of these mills, to walk into the mill office and ask why the mill is still at work when it is past the hour. That is accomplishing something in nipping the robbery of the working people.

There is one thing we have that I notice is on your agenda. That is the half-time question. That half-time question is attracting the attention of our people at home. At least 95 per cent of the representatives are as much opposed to half time as any person in this convention. It is the one black spot that remains upon the escutcheon of our country now. I wish it were possible to remove it. A parent who has any regard for his children will not turn them over to the mills at the tender age of twelve years. I am speaking now my own individual opinion, because I know there are some few officials who hold a different opinion.

A majority of the rank and file we represent are not of the opinion I am; but, nevertheless, I claim I have a right to my own individual opinion, and that is that the half-timers should be abolished in our mills. I know that along with representatives that you have had from our country before, the late James Maudsley, the late David Holmes, the late Henry Wilkinson, myself, Mr. Mullen and David Shackleton some years ago were selected to meet Members of Parliament, with a Member of the Government in the chair. The school teachers were up in arms against the children going to the mills and the workshop. The employers tried to make much of it by parading the fact that the six representatives of labor had come through the mill as half-timers. They described the men, from Mr. Shackleton as a veritable giant, down to myself as a small, muscular man. That was twelve or fourteen years ago. I want to say, frankly that although we went through the mill as half-timers, that the half-time of those days was much easier than it is today. The half-time to-day has considerable more work to contend with and the stress is greater than it was in my day. We have all our adults calling now for a forty-eight-hour week or an eight-hour day; we have them also complaining of the great strain imposed upon them. If that is so with the adult it is much more so with the young children who are turned into the mills and the workshops.

We are seeking to bring about the eight-hour day. We have a Cotton Bill drafted and drawn up by our own Legislative Council, and I believe it will find its way to the House of Commons in this session. We propose to deal with it in the following manner: We will take it by easy stages. If we go for a forty-eight-hour week from a fifty-five and one-half-hour week we are likely to spend years in agitating and trying to explain without getting nearer. We recognize that we will have the employers and the capitalists against us. We propose as an amendment to the Factory and Workshop Act of 1901 that we shall say after July, 1912, to the end of July, 1913, that we start work on Monday at 9 a. m., leaving that week to be fifty-three hours. From 1913 to 1914 we will start on Tuesday at 9 a. m., leaving that working week fifty hours, and after July, 1914, start work on Monday at 8:30 a. m. and cease work for the week on Friday evening. In other words have Saturday and Sunday as clear days of rest.

I know there is a universal demand on the part of the organized movement and throughout our Congress for a forty-eight hour week. Some have got the forty-eight-hour week, but not many. We feel that we can get and will get the ear of the Government and also be able to convince the employer that it is useless to stand in the way of this desired improvement in behalf of cotton workers.

Let me say here that beyond the local I have spoken of, with its 20,000 members, we have an amalgamation of our own section of 57,000 members worth over 800,000 dollars. We have the card and blowing room operatives in one union, the spinners in another, the weavers are in their union and the twisters and drawers all have their separate unions and their own autonomy. We do not interfere with each others' work in any way or shape. Although I started in my early life as a little piecer in the mills I left the spinning room at sixteen or seventeen years of age to go into the card room. Although I have some slight knowledge of the spinning room I think it would be before the spinners of their work. They sented if I were to express any opinion claim that I know nothing at all about it. I grant it to save argument. Likewise I claim that they do not understand my work, and so it goes throughout the whole cotton industry in my country. Each representative has his own affairs to attend to, wages and hours to adjust, and after that is done we get together. We have what is known as a United Textile Workers' Association, which embraces the whole of the workers in the cotton mills and the bleachers. We have from that body a legislative council, with representatives serving from each section. That body deals with legislative matters only; it has nothing whatever to do with the internal affairs of the separate organization. That body has accomplished very, very much useful work. That body in the earlier days, perhaps before many unions in our country thought of taking up the question of workmen's compensation, was instrumental largely in shaping that act and getting it before the government by the labor party and placed on the statute books. That act in itself, although it may not be all that is desired, was considered in our country one of the greatest boons that had been conferred upon the workers. I know this quite well, and I have had thirty years' connection with my own association, five years in minor offices and twenty years in my present position. I know if I had stood up twenty years ago and talked about a workman's compensation act, if I had said the workers would see the day when, if they happened to be maimed while following their calling, they would get fifty per cent of their earnings, they would have said there was something wrong and strange about that man and he ought to be taken away to an asylum.

We have in my office at home no less than 800 claims per annum. Seven are of those who were permanently incapacitated from following their usual occupations. During the past two years there were seventeen cases of injury to members that put them beyond following their usual occupations, but not permanently incapacitating them from following other work. Through being connected with the union, after drawing for months, and in some cases years, fifty per cent of their wages, I have been able to recover for them a sum of $20,675.00. To recover that sum did not cause the injured persons one minute's anxiety, nor has it cost the association, beyond pen, ink, paper and stamps, one cent.

I am afraid I am taking more of your time than I ought to take, but there is one more matter I wish to talk upon. I am given to understand that the Textile Workers of this country have decided to throw in their lot with our International movement. We have an International textile movement that has been going on for close to twenty years. In it are Germany, Austria, France, Belgium, Denmark, Switzerland and Holland. I hope to be able to read next year at home or to hear tell at our committee meeting to be held next year at Stuttgart, Germany, that America is also with us.

I feel deeply grateful for the honor conferred upon me in having the privilege of speaking before such a great federation as you have here. You have a great country, and much of it I have seen strikes me as having plenty of room for all. You have much work on hand, but judging from the able reports I have heard from this platform, from your genial and well-informed chairman and other officials, you are in fairly good trim.

From the bottom of my heart I thank you for the manner in which you have received me and for the kind hospitality you have meted out. I am sure no one could desire more. Friends, I thank you all.

President Gompers introduced to the Convention Mr. G. H. Roberts, Fraternal Delegate from the British Trades Union Congress.

Fraternal Delegate Roberts—Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: Like my colleague I am charged by the British Trades Union Congress, that representative institution of Trades Unionism in the Old Country, by my colleagues of the Labor Party in the House of Commons, Socialists and labor men alike, and by many of Great Britain's most distinguished sons and daughters to bring you greetings, fraternal, sincere and heartfelt. As you observe, this Convention and our Congress exchange these greetings year by year, nevertheless they are never stale, for I believe we may say the attachment is animated by a true friendship, it possesses a rich and rare and correct understanding and also enjoys some of the attributes of music, for there is, if I am able to apprehend things aright, little difference in our aims, and meanwhile our methods become more and more attuned to one accord.

This is my first visit to your great Continent, still I have not felt strange. As soon as I set foot on shore I was received with such cordiality and acclaim that all reserve was dispelled and I felt to be at once admitted into the inner courts of the temple of American Labor. I felt that you had desired me to come, that you were glad I had arrived, that you were anxious to hear the message with which I was charged, and that you were equally willing that I should learn something of the methods you pursue in this great country.

During the reading of the reports from this platform I have found myself environed with a very familiar atmosphere.

It appears that in every country in the world the workers have the same interests; they are engaged in the identical struggle; that east and west, white and colored are all striving today for the realization of that fuller and completer life which we claim to be due to every human being.

My colleague has in an interesting fashion told you of some of the recent developments in the Old Country, how the sailors and the firemen, the dock laborer, the carmen, aye, and not forgetting many grades of women workers, have made manifest their determination to put an end to the slavery that has hitherto been their lot, and they are claiming for their labor a fair living wage which will allow them to enjoy life as it ought to be enjoyed by human beings.

My colleague made some observations respecting the strike in which our railway workers engaged. Like him I always prefer to be perfectly candid. Whenever workers suffer a setback in Great Britain or elsewhere it is due to some failure of their own, and we have to remark that the workers on our railway systems have never been suitably or appropriately organized. The railway magnates are aware of that, and I would like to emphasize the moral that he has drawn from that experience—that the railway workers, like every other worker, must realize that he will only win that which he is strong enough to compel, that mere pleading will never suffice. You have been strong enough to compel the railway and other employers to make concessions to you.

It is quite true that certain of my colleagues and myself were called upon to take a hand in that railway dispute. Three members of the Labor Party, my chairman, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, my colleague, Mr. Arthur Henderson, and myself were called upon to act as the intermediary between the different parties. But it cannot be denied, even by ourselves, who were friends of the men and anxious for their victory, that their weakness lay in the lack of organization; because where railway workers are thoroughly organized they cannot possibly be resisted, they get the recognition to which they are entitled and their demands receive more favorable consideration. Therefore, we have to learn the lesson of complete organization, of perfect loyalty, appreciative all the while that whatever methods we may be adopting, in the last resort the result will depend upon the strength and the perfection of our respective bodies.

Whilst in Great Britain we have a great deal to lament, still our Trades Unions are progressing. Older methods are being discarded; small, ineffective organizations are being eliminated; the principle of amalgamation is more and more resorted to, so that I confidently believe that ere another decade has passed Great Britain's labor forces will appear before the world as among the best organized and most effectual of international working class organizations.

We find in our country, as indeed I am inclined to believe you do here, that the workers do not get anything like a fair share of the proceeds of their labor. For many reasons some groups of workers are compelled to accept wages which are not sufficient to cover the whole of their life. The daily wage too often is simply sufficient to supply the daily need. We are now animated with a new idea, that out of the industry in which we are engaged we shall draw such a reward as will cover the whole of our life, the waste as well as the utilized portions thereof.

The previous speaker has told you of our compensation legislation. Aye, we are proud of that measure. I have watched my colleagues of the labor party, few in number, but practical in mind, experience and character, fashioning that measure, combating bitter opposition, but wringing concessions that would never have been possible had not our labor men been in the committee room and on the floor of the House of Commons to make manifest our desire. Yet that legislation is by no means perfect. Fifty per cent of the wage is the principle of the measure. I am here to say that if a worker is incapacitated through his employment, not fifty per cent but complete sustenance is he entitled to until such time as he is able to labor; and if he is not able to return to his labor, a sufficient amount, based on his previous earnings, to maintain him throughout the whole remainder of his life.

In our country we have this unrest which is apparent in every country in the world, unrest which is being fanned and aggravated by national, aye, and international causes. While wages tend to remain stationary, prices of life's necessities are constantly being enhanced. Statisticians have told how during the past twenty years wages have risen with us some thirteen per cent; but statisticians on the other hand have told us the cost of living has increased twenty per cent. Therefore, when we are speaking truthfully and accurately, we have to say that the workers are not making an advance, because of the depreciation that has taken place in the value of the wages they receive. This phenomenon is not confined to us. I am not going to dogmatize on conditions in your country. I think it is gratuitous for a man who is simply making a flying visit to dictate what is best for you, based on his own knowledge and experience; but I believe I am not transcending the ordinary bounds of truth when I say this phenomenon is also with you, that prices are rising in greater ratio than wages. If that be demonstrable then I say the workers of the United States of America, with the workers of Great Britain, are not making the advance to which they are entitled, because there are some powers in our midst that are able to take back to themselves that which you have compelled them to give as a result of your trades union activity.

Recognition of these facts has induced the trades unionists of my own country to go to the House of Commons to ascertain the causes. We believe the legislation which is passed and the way in which our laws are administered have a great bearing on our wage standards. Furthermore we claim the working classes have a right to positions inside the House of Commons. Hitherto we were told the workman was not sufficiently well educated for such a position. Even today we are informed in the old country that the workers are not cultured. They do not speak with an Oxford drawl, they may not be able to reel off Latin text, yet workmen in the House of Commons have proved that the fact that they have graduated in the university of experience makes them the most effective representatives of our working classes.

Later we have heard a great deal of the tyranny of the working class organizations. The charge is often leveled against you, "Why, some of our labor unions seek to compel the non-unionist to go into the organization." And why not? Has the non-unionist the right to jeopardize the standards set up by the organized workers? And when we are contemplating liberty we have to recognize that in order to make the masses free we have to restrict the liberty of some persons or others. In our factory legislation we have been limiting the liberty of the mill owner to sweat child and woman labor, and throughout the whole of our social reform aim we have been engaged in preventing some people from using their power in order to oppress others. Therefore, the real case is this: If by limiting the liberty of some people we extend the liberty of a greater number that action is perfectly justifiable, and organized labor ought to utilize the weapon to its fullest extent. Therefore I am going to say I will not criticize even those unions that are able to utilize their power in order to compel some workmen to do what they ought to be willing to do quite voluntarily because of the great benefits trades unionism has bestowed upon them.

Since 1900 the British Trades Union Congress has set up as part of its ordinary work a labor party to act in the House of Commons. The Labor Party was called into existence by repeated resolutions of the Trades Union Congress. With us it is an alliance of the trades unions and Socialist Party, and I am certain that my colleague will agree with me that the alliance has proved highly successful and that the relationship between those two bodies is of a very congenial and agreeable character. I believe it is now widely acknowledged by the organized workers of Great Britain that our labor movement could never have occupied the proud position it fills today but that it has added one more to the older functions that characterized trades union movements previous to the calling into existence of that body.

Our movement now is triple in character. We still recognize the necessity and the desirability of purely industrial action. We acknowledge that collective bargaining must ever be the basis of our labor movement. Secondly, so well represented by my colleague, the coming from time to time of the other bodies to the assistance of any union that may be engaged in a dispute, has been an aid to the progress of the movement. To these two older functions we now have added that of political action. At the present time we have forty-two members in the British House of Commons. They form there an independent group, and while a great deal of consternation struck the ranks of the possessing classes when they first entered Parliament, nevertheless they are now acknowledged as among the most effective legislators in that body. I can well recall the opening days of the Parliament of 1906. The newspapers were filled with stories of how these labor men would comport themselves on the floor of the House. Some suggested that an extra supply of spittoons ought to be laid in, because assuredly those men were only accustomed to public house company.

The corridors and the galleries were filled with people who came out to see these new freaks. I remember a little story told of the occupants of the ladies' gallery. Titled ladies had secured seats, but one working woman had also been privileged to get a seat in the center of these scented favorites of society. She was quite the center of curiosity because she was able to name the men as they came in. She was familiar with us—I mean that in a general sense, because we are all respectable married men. The labor group had been having a meeting and we marched in together. One old dowager duchess looked down on the floor of the house and said to our working woman friend, "Do you mean to tell me that is a labor member of Parliament? Why, he looks quite a respectable little gentleman!" That was the speaker here this morning. That is fairly typical of the attitude of the other classes towards the new party. They certainly thought that the working classes were uncouth and uncultured, yet before many days were past even our leading statesmen and politicians had to acknowledge that out of the working classes can be called as much genius, as much talent, as much experience as can be derived from any other class of society. We had claimed for years, with the poet Pope that

"Prodigious action may as well be done
By weaver's issue as by prince's son."

I have watched the career of my colleagues. Being the whip of that party, having to select our men because of their various aptitudes and qualities to place them on those committees for which they are particularly fit, to call on them to speak in this or that debate because of their acquaintance with the particular subject—I say because of that experience I am proud of the Labor Party. I am proud of my class because they have demonstrated to the others that there is a genius, a working class loyalty to be found in our ranks, although they have claimed a monopoly of those things for their own particular class.

And what did they do? Outside great railway combines had sought to destroy trades unions, they had taken our unions into court, had wrested great sums out of our trades union funds, simply seeking to distort the law as some other monopolies seek to distort it in this country. By this method they had deprived us of powers we had always held to be right and legitimate. The first thing the Labor Party did was to secure the restoration to our trades unions to that free activity they had hitherto enjoyed, and make it again possible for our trades union movement to progress and develop.

Our next measure was the Compensation Act. And when I say that it embraces six millions more workers than was contemplated on its introduction into the House, and that in many of its vital particulars it is greatly improved, you will understand the benefit of it. This is directly attributable to the presence of the trades union and labor men in the House of Commons. Their work has justified their existence.

One little measure I will always be proud of. We introduced and succeeded in passing a bill for feeding the necessitous school children. I acknowledge with you that the parents ought to receive such a reward for their labor as will enable them to feed their own children; but we had the spectacle in our lives of thousands of little children being compelled to go to school without sufficient food to eat. We recognized that this was unwise in the interest of the nation; that the best efforts of the most highly qualified teachers must be wasted on half starved children. After all, behind our movement there is a religious impulse. We agree not to quarrel about forms and symbols, but a labor movement, like every other beneficent movement, must be wisely guided and have a lofty aspiration. We sought there to carry out the divine creed—"Feed My lambs." That is the message which has been conveyed to society throughout the ages. In our country as in others we have seen those who are paid thousands a year to preach this gospel, we have seen the wealthy ones who have listened to it gladly hearken to the words of the sermon, but for the remaining six days of the week engage in cutting the wool off God's lambs.

Your men in the House of Commons said the children must be fed, that the sins of the parents should not, so far as we could help it, be visited on the heads of innocent, helpless little children, and today there are thousands of our little ones being fed in our various public schools who otherwise would be hungry. They are fed because of the presence of men in the House of Commons who knew life's problems, who were animated with a loyalty to their own class, and who intended to see to it, as far as they possibly could, that the children of their own class should have an equal start in life with the children of any other class in society.

Then at the other end of life we have also accomplished something. In this respect I do not say that we alone have done it; but I do most honestly believe that but for the presence of our men in the House of Commons this mightily beneficent old age pension measure might still have remained among the unfulfilled promises of party politicians. Today we know that a million poor old men and women have five shillings a week coming in where otherwise they would have had nothing. A small sum, true, I know it appears; to us its dimensions are far too meager; but nevertheless it is a right start because it is applying to our own people the principle which has hitherto been the monopoly of the favored ones of society. A few years ago we had the rank individualists going about and warning the people against receiving an old age pension. Five shillings a week, they said, would banish the priceless jewel of thrift from our great Empire. They themselves were receiving state pensions of nine hundred and twelve hundred a year, still they were not thrifty, they did not have that priceless jewel of thrift! We say if a state pension is good for our lords it is equally good for our workers. We have with us today the old man and woman who has to retire earlier than was hitherto the case, because the working life is shortened because of its speeding up. By the extended use of machinery the worker is unable to remain in the factory so late in life as under the former more leisurely methods of production. He has less opportunity to save and the time arrives sooner when he has to draw on those savings. Old age pensions are essential if we are to keep our old people from the degradation of having to take advantage of the poor law system. In the past we paid pensions to the rich, now we are paying pensions to the poor in order to have them live the last days of their lives in comparative peace and comfort.

In reading through your reports I remember that your Convention once passed a resolution in support of the principles of the Budget of 1909. You there commended the principles of the Budget introduced by our Chancellor, Mr. Lloyd George. Because you did that I felt that you recognized with us that the incident of taxation is a matter of vital concern to the wage earners. I am not intending to discuss that Budget in detail but one of its important principles I think deserves to be acknowledged here. For the first time in the history of our country we are seeking to adjust taxation so that it falls upon the shoulders of those who are best able to bear it. We are out for the abolition of all indirect taxation. We want all taxation taken off the necessities of life. And incidentally here I might interpolate this fact, that if we can take taxation off sugar and other things their price must be reduced by the amount of tax they are relieved of, and if that does ensue you have actually effected an increase in the real value of wages to the whole working class of your population. At any rate that is the theory the working party is proceeding on in the House of Commons. We are saying that more and more of our national revenue shall be raised from the swollen incomes and accumulations of our wealthy classes. And after all this wealth comes from labor. The idler in society today gets a great deal more than the industrious man. Our working classes seem to be unable to see this. In our great establishments the lavish display is all derived from the working classes. The more thoughtful of them are now making up their minds that these comforts, these luxuries shall no longer be the monopoly of a class, but shall be the heritage of the whole of our population. Therefore, we embraced the principles of that Budget. The main principle to which I make reference is this, that for the first time a British Chancellor of the Exchequer recognized that there was such a thing as unearned increment in wealth. That is to say, he was dealing purely with the land question. We find land in our urban areas constantly raising in price. Whenever you want to buy any its price is enormously enhanced. At the same time if you desire to levy a tax on it you will find the proprietor telling you it is comparatively worthless. We say, "We are quite willing to let you value your own land. If you put too low a value on it, we are going to take compulsory purchase; and, on the other hand, if you put an inflated value on it we are going to tax you on that inflated valuation. Our Chancellor of the Exchequer proposed to take twenty per cent of this unearned increment. The Labor people say, "Your justification for the appropriation of that twenty per cent is that the inflated value is created, not by the owner of the land, but by the presence and activity of the population compelled to live on or about that land." Therefore we say, "If we are justified in appropriating twenty per cent we have equal justification in taking fifty or more per cent when public needs may demand more money."

This sort of thing has aroused a great deal of hostility. We are called robbers and confiscators. You will read in some of the British newspapers how the labor people are simply concerned with deprivations on the wealthy classes. It is just as well I should have come here, for you see in me the most harmless form of robber that was ever able to strut about the world! When I hear these people talk I am reminded of a little story. I know my reverend friend here will exonerate me from any slight on his cloth. A certain reverend gentleman was walking home with a parishioner on a sharp, snowy day in winter. The parishioner slipped on the ice and fell. The reverend gentleman looked down at him and very facetiously said, "Brother, it is said in holy writ that sinners stand in slippery places." The man looked up from the ground and said, "Yes, I see they do, but I can not."

And that is what has been occurring in our country. These people have stolen for their own private gain those things which ought to have been directed into the homes of the common people. We are there now to tell them, "This robbery must cease. The wealth which is co-operatively created by the industrious classes shall be enjoyed by them. The inequality that has scandalized our society must be eliminated, for there is no necessity today for any human being to be degraded or poor." It is for the working people to utilize all their power: politically, industriously and in any other thing that may present itself in the various countries. In our country we are troubled with that worst of all problems, unemployment. I am told that you are unfamiliar with it in this great continent. At any rate some of the speakers on our side have depicted the United States of America as an Eldorado, where all you have to do is to tickle the surface of the soil and you get a bounteous harvest. If you want to find a gold mine, just take a spade and lift up a few feet of soil and you will have all your wants supplied and you will be a modern Midas. As I said before, I am not dogmatizing, my time here has been too short, but I assume your problem is the same as ours. Wherever the competitive system exists there must be a reserve of labor.

I am reminded of a little experience that happened in my own country during the last general election. A large employer of labor came into my constituency, not to help elect me, but to see if he could substitute a noble lord for the labor member. He said all that was necessary was a little tinkering here and there and the unemployment problem would vanish like snow under the sun's rays. I had to negotiate with that same gentleman a little later. I was arguing for a reduction of hours in the interests of the unemployed. He said, "The industry cannot stand it. We cannot afford it. Our profits are too small already." I reminded him of his political promise. He said, "Mr. Roberts, how can we conduct industry without some reserve of labor?" Our employers' newspapers tell us they must have a reserve of from two to five per cent of labor to properly conduct their business. My reply to this employer was, "Sir, you admit that these unemployed are there, not for their own advantage, but for the profit and convenience of the employing class. Well, then, in my opinion, it is your business to maintain those things which are essential to the conduct of your business." There is no one here who will deny the right of every human being to live; that is, in the abstract. But with us we claim that the right to live and the right to a living are indistinguishable; that if you acknowledge the right of a human being to live you must also admit the duty of society to provide him with a suitable method of earning a livelihood.

We find many a good man in our own country affected by this problem. I have watched them passing down the various gradations from regular employment to intermittent employment. Some of them have sunk to what we call the submerged tenth. Today they are called undesirable, they won't work; but I believe the divine spark is still smouldering there and when society appreciates its duty aright we will not scorn these people but take them by the hand and restore them again to respectable society.

That is our great problem. We are told it is a visionary solution of this question, that unemployment must always be with you, that it is part of the law of economics, the law of supply and demand. They speak to us as though these economic laws are like the fixed and unchanged framework of the universe. They would have us believe that economic laws are like the law of gravitation and cannot possibly be diverted; but every day economic laws are controlled and modified in the interests of certain people. Your trust magnate controls economic laws. When he can create an artificial monopoly and force up prices for his private profit, he is interfering with economic law. We say these laws are simply made by men, and can be altered by men as soon as we put the right class of men into places where they can be altered.

Thus it is that the party in Parliament is now putting forward the plea for the unemployed, the right to work and the right to receive for that work such a sum as will enable them to maintain themselves decently and honestly. We workers have been too modest in the past years. A bare sustenance has been quite satisfactory to us. Sometimes, as I jokingly put it, the worker is satisfied if he has a job. He belongs to the Union and his fraternal organization. When he has ceased to be his wife or other relatives draw from these organizations the funds they are entitled to, a slab is placed in the churchyard over his grave and on it is placed the inscription that he has fallen asleep, when the truth is he was never properly awake during his entire life. But the workers of the entire world are awakening. They know that life was intended for every human being and that its comfort and enjoyment was not intended to be the privilege of any one class.

The Labor Party in Parliament has stimulated certain measures. Our labor exchequers, while not solving unemployment in themselves, are in our opinion essential as a basis for the national organization of labor. We have succeeded in inducing the Government to introduce an act to provide funds for opening up and developing the resources of our country. Small as our land is we have millions of acres of fertile soil lying idle, and the landlords refusing access to the women workers. We are now asking the Government to say that land really belongs to the people and it is the first duty of a civilized community to see that idle labor is brought to the idle land, in order that they may at least produce what is essential for their own livelihood. Land is the physical basis of all life. Land has been referred to as perpetually man's; therefore the Labor Party in Parliament puts forward as one of its first claims that the land shall be restored to the people and used for the peoples' good. Those of you who have visited London may have stopped before the stock exchange and read the inscription on the central stone, "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof." We have to paraphrase that today, "The earth is the money lord's, and the fulness thereof." We believe the soil is God's common gift to all people, and we will not rest in our endeavors until England belongs to the English people and not to a small handful thereof.

I want to tell you of a little experience I had at a beautiful seaside resort in our country. I used to believe that dead men were useless, but I have changed my opinion. The Eastbourne Burial Board were greatly concerned because they wanted fresh land to extend the cemetery confines. Twenty years ago they bought their present land at the rate of seven hundred pounds per acre from one of the ducal families. They said, "Please, sir, our people will die; we are compelled to bury our dead. We paid you seven hundred pounds an acre twenty years ago. We are willing to pay that price on this occasion." "Nay, nay," said the lord, "the land is mine." Not seven hundred pounds, but in order to bury their dead seventeen hundred and eighty pounds per acre did that public board have to pay for the land. That is the sort of robbery we are protesting against. It has no effect on wages. To pay for that cemetery greater rates will have to be levied on that district. The higher you pay in rates and rent the less you have to pay for other commodities; therefore we say that robbery—robbery I think you will admit it to be unmistakably in character—has an effect on our living condition, and the Trades Unionists and Labor people are perfectly justified in going to Parliament to right some of these wrongs and correct some of these anomalies.

Next year we are going to enact a great piece of justice, a measure I am sure you are glad to know the Labor men are associating themselves with. I mean home rule for Ireland. The relations of the Irish Party with the Labor Party are always agreeable. We are going to support them in their demands as we have consistently done throughout, because we believe it represents common justice, the right of a people to govern themselves according to their own ideas. We are certain the Irish people can govern themselves more economically and efficiently than is the case at the present time. The present method is expensive, is provocative, and can never satisfy the legitimate aspirations of the Irish people. Therefore whilst our party is primarily concerned with social and Labor legislation, nevertheless it is broad enough in its outlook to embrace any measure of common justice. I believe the prospects of home rule for Ireland are brighter and better because of the fact that the organized laborers of Great Britain return a Labor Party to the House of Commons.

I am not going to occupy your time much longer. This session we have two measures we hope will pass into law. One is a shops bill to regulate the hours of assistants. Today there are many young men and women working eighty, ninety and even more hours per week. We have compelled Parliament to introduce a bill to reduce the hours to sixty, too long, we acknowledge, but still a boon to well nigh a million shop assistants. Again we have a coal mines act being molded and fashioned by experienced men in the House of Commons. These things go to prove the value of our new departure and methods, and the wisdom of the British Trades Unionists in engaging in the political action to which I am referring.

In conclusion, I want to say how glad I am to be here, how profoundly I have been moved by some of the sentiments expressed from this platform. I am glad to read the literature of your various organizations, proud to know that the American workmen, the Americans of my own class, protest against child labor, how you refuse to recognize it as essential to the conduct of industry that the little child shall be sacrificed on the altar of mammon erected among the wheels of modern industry. Child life is the most sacred charge God has entrusted to us. We all love children. Our lives are brighter and better because children enter into them, and I am here, as I am in my own country, claiming for my own child, for the child of my own class the same happy, bright, comfortable life which is the heritage of the child of the well-to-do. I say we are not worthy the name of fathers or of men so long as we acquiesce in the exploiting of child labor. Therefore I am proud to be able to stand by you and say I rejoice and I glory in the step you have taken, and I hope ere many years have passed we in Great Britain will be able to say with you that child labor is a thing of the past and that the nation is making the best of the prospect of its children.

I know you have in your large cities many other great social problems with which we are afflicted. We have in our country thousands of our sisters thrown into vice, not through inherent fault, but due to unjust economic conditions. A few years back one of our progressive newspapers organized a sweated industry exhibit, and I learned there that the folding of the Bible and Prayer Book sheets was done for a penny a hundred sheets. And I learned that the women and girls who had been folding up God's Word were compelled to go out at night and earn what their employers denied them. We wish you are concerned to alter these conditions. We want to see women appropriately engaged. I have no objection to a woman in my own craft anywhere so long as she is not utilized to depress the general standard of the man. Equal wages for equal work should apply irrespective of sex, and I am glad to recognize it.

I am glad also that you are interested in civic activities. I was proud to attend a meeting of Bix Six in New York and there learn that they were discussing the great white scourge that deprives so many of our class of the life they ought to enjoy; yet society has known since 1882 that tuberculosis is a poverty disease, that it is born in our city slums of the poverty of our people, and, knowing that all those years they have done so little that sixty thousand people in Great Britain are being killed year by year. Social murder is the only verdict a thinking man can pass upon it. We are now seeking better housing and better sanitation. All these things come within the purview of the enlightened Trades Unionist and Labor man. I am glad to observe that you take those broad views and that you are concerned to right those wrongs to which I have referred.

We are often told that the labor agitator from Great Britain is simply a pirate, that he is always out to destroy. There are many things I want to destroy, but it is destruction, if I may use a simile, of a bird breaking a shell, not for the purpose of destruction but in order that we may emerge into a fuller and completer life. Destroy the barriers of working class progress, not for the purpose of being a mere destroyer, but because we realize that those things must go in order that life may become really enjoyable to the whole of our class. No longer are we going to believe that happiness for us is always over the hills and far away. Through our labor organizations, through our activities in our old country and your activities in your new country we are able as it were to ascend to Mount Pisgah and get a glimpse of the Promised Land, the land that is going to be when the working people of the world are united and solidified, and they have determined with one resolution to put down all oppression, all injustice and to declare the inalienable right of every human being to know a full, complete and happy livelihood. I am glad to believe those sentiments and the principles form the basis of your movement as it does with us. Therefore I say, as I do to my colleagues across the ocean, let us do what we may in our own time and according to our own capacity, and when we have to resign our Labor and give an account of our lives the verdict must be, "He has sought for others the good he desired for himself. Therefore let him pass on."

President Gompers introduced to the Convention Mr. William Glockling, Fraternal Delegate from the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.

Fraternal Delegate Glockling—Mr. President and Delegates to the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor: I am only sorry I cannot emulate the perfect address of our fraternal delegate from England. It seems hardly necessary for a delegate to come from Canada to the United States. I have never yet been able to discover wherein the difference lay between the citizens of this country and the citizens of Canada. I believe in the last analysis the only difference that exists is the tariff wall you meet in going and coming between the countries.

I want to say a few words about the Congress that sent me here. I appreciate the honor they conferred upon me. I feel it a very great honor to have the privilege of mingling with men who have the reputation of being the brainiest men we have in our midst, no matter from what class they are drawn. I was glad to have the privilege of listening to the splendid reports read here during the last three days. I believe the men who compose this Convention represent the highest aims and aspirations of the people. I know they are doing a great deal of good for the people, and only they themselves know the great sacrifices they make. God bless them in their noble work, and may they be permitted to continue to do it.

We have been able through our Congress, owing to the force behind us, to enact legislation that was beneficial to us and also prevent pernicious legislation from being enacted. The growth of the Congress in the last ten years has been such that it has increased by 50,000. I want to thank those to whom that growth is due. It may not appear much to the people of this country, but as Canada only contains a little more than seven million people, a growth of fifty thousand is really marvelous in such a movement. The international organizations of the United States are largely responsible for that growth. The members of our organizations represent a good portion of our working class. However, whether small or great, the body has been able to achieve a great deal.

To show the value of your assistance I will say that our friends the enemies have made three attempts through the Senate to prevent your men from coming across to our country to lend your help in times of strife. A bill has been introduced, known as Bill CCC, which is intended, not only to crush the leaders of the labor movement, but the members. The bill if enacted would have provided that if a man came from Atlanta to work in Montreal or any other city he would be classed as an alien, he would be amenable to the law and punishable under the criminal code. They did not care so much about you coming over, but after they had crushed the spirits of the workers there would be no necessity of your coming there.

There is another bill that somewhat affects you. We have another bill on our statute books known as the Investigation of Combines Bill, an act to investigate monopolies and mergers. When the first draft was made the Minister of Labor submitted it to the Congress executive. The Congress executive, having in mind the experience you have had with the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, under which the Hatters' Association suffered so deeply, foresaw danger; they felt the same thing might arise under it that arose in the United States under the Sherman Anti-Trust Law. We went to the Minister of Labor and said we would not favor it as it was submitted. We said if a clause was inserted which would make us immune we would accept it. The Minister consulted his colleagues and as a result they inserted a clause in the bill which also appears in the Trade Union Act of 1906. That gave us the right to organize. It gave us all the rights and privileges we had enjoyed prior to its passage. That bill in itself is a good one, and as occasion may arise wherein a few men would meet and raise the price of commodities. This gives us a remedy for that particular ill in connection with our political life.

I want to speak briefly of immigration. I do not want it understood that the workers of the Dominion are opposed to immigration. They are as favorable to immigration as many other elements of the community; but we did not desire to have saddled upon us the class of immigrants who come to this country. There are instances where philanthropic organizations have brought people to this country, ostensibly to labor on the farms and on construction work; they were dumped in the vicinity of our large industrial centers and when winter came they flocked into the city to compete with us for our jobs. We have had immigration laws passed owing to the representations we made to our government, but they have not been as complete as we wished them and they have not been carried out as successfully as we would like. We are continually battering at the doors of Parliament for amendments to the immigration laws. We desire the population of Canada. I believe Canada will at some stage in its history have nearly as large a population as you have in the United States, and we want if we possibly can to frame laws that will endure for all time; we want to prevent legislation such as has been enacted in other countries being enacted in ours; we have a big and growing country and we want to establish laws that will be of lasting benefit to the workers and the people generally.

I wish to speak for a few minutes on a resolution that passed at the Calgary Convention. The Calgary Convention introduced what is known as a resolution in opposition to the craft organizations. I want it emphatically understood that the Dominion Congress is an international organization from the ground up, that it has never been anything else. The resolution introduced was merely to endeavor to bring about a condition of things similar to that which exists in the printing trade, wherein every craft in the printing trades meets together and formulates their demands, which are considered jointly. That was the object of the resolution, not as some people inferred, that it endorsed the Industrial Workers of the World. I do not believe there is a man who attended the Congress who would uphold for a minute such a man as Vice-President Duncan referred to, Mr. Foster, of Chicago, or the theory he advances.

I would like to refer briefly to political action. We have on every occasion endeavored to bring about a state of things which would allow the people to elect their own members. We have not yet been as successful as we should be. We have one man in the Dominion Parliament, Mr. Verville, who is doing all he can, and we have one member in the province of Ontario. I believe, however, the workers are awakening to the fact that they can better represent themselves than they can be represented by doctors, lawyers and men of that class. We are now in the throes of an election in Ontario, and I understand men are being placed in the field for the workers' suffrage. We go periodically to our Federal Parliament and to our Provincial Parliaments with bowed heads and hats in hand asking, or rather pleading, for legislation. We are told by the members that our requests will receive their serious consideration, and there are matters of importance, and there are matters of importance, and there are matters of importance. I think it is essential for the workers of the Dominion to have their interests represented as are the interests of the men in the Old Country.

We endeavored by legislation to secure an eight-hour day for government employees. The measure was bitterly fought. Owing to the representations made by the working people the matter was delegated to a large committee of the House. Information was sought from every source. Men were brought from every part of the country to give testimony, but it was nothing more nor less than an effort to shelve the question. However, a bill was drafted and submitted to Parliament, and even in a modest form it was refused us, and today it lies in what is known as the political cemetery in Canada, the Senate.

I will not go into this matter of legislation farther, because our wishes in this respect are the same as yours. I wish to thank the Convention for the many kindnesses that have been extended to me. I trust your business will be conducted in a most successful manner and that your legislation will do those you came here to represent the good you intended. I trust that posterity will have it to say that these meetings have resulted in advancing the interests of the workers all over this continent. I again wish to convey to you the fraternal greeting of the Canadian Trades Union Congress.

President Gompers introduced to the Convention Mrs. Raymond Robins, President of the National Women's Trade Union League of America.

Mrs. Robins—I come to bring you greetings from the National Women's Trade Union League of America. It is an organization of women workers, with some of us thrown in who have not had the privilege or opportunities of knowing how to work with our hands; and yet the constitution provides that the majority of the workers must be Trades Unionists in good standing.

We know there is going on at the present time an investigation into the conditions under which women and children are working in America. This investigation, I hope and trust, for some time at least, may be the last investigation necessary before we can all definitely unite upon such action that no more will we tolerate conditions that are in existence today. For the past eighty-two years, first in this locality and then in that locality, we have been investigating the conditions under which women and children work. Matthew Carey, another of those Irishmen who have come over to America to help us and make America, as far back as 1829, made an investigation into the conditions of the work of women in the needle trades of Boston, New York and Philadelphia. The conditions found were so shocking it was thought better not to make them public. From that time, 1829, until the present day we have had these investigations going on. Shocked by these conditions the National Women's Trade Union League in 1905, at its annual convention in New York, appointed a committee to ask that such investigation be made by our National government, so that finally we could have an investigation so authoritative in statement that its findings could not be questioned.

Miss Mary McDowell was made the chairman of that committee in 1905, and she secured the co-operation of the American Federation of Labor and the organized Labor bodies, the co-operation of the women's clubs, the men's organizations, of churches and other bodies, so that united a demand might be made upon the Department of Labor and Commerce to find out the conditions under which women are working in the richest country in the world. We now know. It was an easy matter to say that perhaps the story was exaggerated because an enthusiastic or sentimental worker overstated it. But now that the facts are given in nineteen volumes, eleven of which are published, they challenge the conscience of the manhood and womanhood of America.

We have women working for three dollars and four dollars a week. We have women working for four dollars, five dollars and six dollars a week, and we have as the average wage given to the women workers of this country less than $300 a year. Many and many a time we have been told that there are two things that made for the low wages of the women. The one is the curious group of women who work long hours for little pay because they are working for pin money. I am glad that at last the ghost of this pin money group of workers can be laid at rest. In some cities 88 per cent and in other cities as high 98 per cent of the women put their earnings into the family treasury.

Now, brothers, you are interested in the wages paid to women. There is no trade, no matter how skillful, no matter how much training may be demanded to turn out the workers, that is secure against the invention of a machine which may be run by the woman or child. Therefore, every man must stand with us for self-interest as well as the social interest to see that we get, as our brothers from England said so splendidly, equal pay for equal work. Unless we prevent the women from becoming the under bidders in the market not only the women's movement but the men's movement is threatened at its very foundations.

We are told that there are several great and important reasons for this cheap labor of women. We are sometimes told that the cause of the cheap labor is the number of foreigners who come to our shores, the untutored girls of many nationalities. And then we find ourselves suddenly face to face with the great social upheaval in Iowa, where the women and the men of the pearl button industry worked for such low wages and under such miserable conditions that they had to go out on strike. They went out last February. They signed an agreement with the employers, to which Governor Carroll, of Iowa, was a witness. That agreement was broken by the manufacturers. The men and women went out on strike again. Brothers, the crux of that situation, as in many other strikes in this country, lay in the hands of the women. The buttons had been made in the rough. The women were there to drill them. If the women refused to strike the men could not win. But, thanks to the movement that had been built up by Mr. Emmett Flood, of the American Federation of Labor, and thanks to the character of the women there, they stood by the men. The American Federation of Labor, recognizing in its very natural wisdom the importance of getting the women organized, has sent one of our organizers, Miss Catherine Finnegan, into Muscatine, and at the special request of Mr. Wilson, Mr. Flood and the girls of Muscatine, we have sent Miss Emma Steghagen, of Chicago, there.

There is always one thing a woman can do better than any man. She can talk to the women of a community better than a man can. That is primarily the work of Miss Finnegan and Miss Steghagen. Having called a great mass meeting in September or October, and having made a great appeal to the women, it was followed by another meeting for the women of Muscatine. That was followed by a mass meeting of the children of Muscatine one Saturday afternoon, the children who sew the buttons on the cards and carry them from the homes to the factory. At that first meeting 155 little boys and girls formed themselves into a Juvenile Protective Carriers' and Sewers' Association, and now that it has been formed every Saturday at its weekly meeting the numbers have grown until today there are 500 such children meeting weekly. Can't you see what is being done? Naturally, these children, so determined not to be strike-breakers—why, some of them are only four and five years old—could not be taken into the Union, could they, Mr. President? But we could form and did form them into a Juvenile Protective Association, and we can so appeal through the children to the women that we have been able to form in Muscatine women's organizations in every ward in that city, not of the strikers, but of the supposed neutral citizens.

I wish I might tell you the story of these pearl button makers and the story of the buttons for which the girls as well as the men got nothing. I suppose our friends the miners will understand the system of weighing by which the biggest buttons are taken out and made the basis for payment. The little ones that drop between are not counted at all. Every button that is not passed by the inspector because it is not quite even or because there is a little black on it is refused payment for, yet these same buttons sell in the city of Muscatine for ten cents to sixty-five cents a dozen. The workers do not get a cent for their production. And this is happening in the corn belt of the great State of Iowa, where there are no foreigners!

It is not only the foreigners who are at the bottom of our difficulty. We know that coming in from the small towns are the strong, healthy, capable, self-respecting women of the farmers' families who have been taught to believe in honest work and who believe that honest work and faithfulness to an employer brings adequate payment. We have this great influx, not only of foreign girls, but of country girls who have to learn their lesson all over again, who have to learn that oftentimes the harder they work the less they earn.

I will tell the story of an Illinois girl who came from a farm to work in a factory. She was only 18. Other girls in the factory where she went to make skirts had been working from the time they were twelve or fourteen years old, but she had saved her young, splendid strength until she was eighteen, for she had been supported by her father up to that time. She went into this factory and was making cloth skirts, well-made skirts such as I am wearing for 35 cents apiece, and because she was quick of finger and keen of perception and physically strong she was able to make something like fourteen dollars a week. The other girls came to her and told her the story of being a pace-maker. She would have none of that. Didn't she know what terrible people Union men and women were? Didn't they cut down the product of the employer and help to make for poverty?

So this girl went on. Two months later the price of the skirts was cut from 35 cents to 30 cents; later it was cut from 30 cents to 25 cents and then from 25 cents to 20 cents. And this girl who had come from a self-respecting American family who had paid $2.00 a week for a room, who had purchased good food and had something left for other things, now found the necessity of cutting down her expenses. Being a woman, curiously enough, she thought she could cut down on food. Men do not begin to cut down expenses in that way; they know the value of proper food. This girl started to cut down her food expense account. Then she tried to work harder and make the same wage. At the end of the month she found the wage cut again and could not keep up.

Every man knows, I believe, that when you call a woman to act in an emergency she can act better and more efficiently for a time, but there comes a time of breakdown. This girl, working to the limit of her capacity and being under fed, broke down and now for the next twenty or thirty years the taxpayers of Illinois will have to take care of her in an asylum. Before she reached that stage she came to me and said: "Mrs. Robbins, the thing that hurts me is that I did not know that the harder I worked the less I would earn. How was I to know that when I came here, thinking myself better than these little factory girls, feeling myself superior because I was better educated than they were, that all I was to do was to bring to them bitterness of spirit because their wages with mine had been cut down?" I think that it helped to break her heart as well as her mind and finally landed her in a state asylum.

That is part of the cost. But the great wonder of the story now as we see it is that this cost is being faced. It was at the child welfare exhibit in Kansas City. That exhibit is not the result, as it was in Chicago, of the generosity of one or two persons. This child welfare exhibit in Kansas City was under the auspices of the public welfare body of that city, a group of men and women appointed by Governor Hadley, of Missouri. In the first clause of its statement it says: "We, the public welfare body, believe in justice rather than charity." Do you wonder, with such a sentence for their slogan, that they put not only the text of the low wages received by the department store girls of Kansas City on exhibition, but photographs of the rooms they were able to secure and under a glass case the tencent lunch they were able to buy with their small wages. We know that the women who are in the houses of prostitution are not there of their own free will, but because of the terrible machinations of the white slavers. Out of three hundred women in a certain number of houses there were one hundred and fifty-four who were earning less than six dollars a week when they were honorably trying to earn their daily bread.

Now, men, these things are the challenge of our life today. They are not only challenging our conscience, they are challenging the very foundations of our life, and to organize the women into trades Unions is the work of the Women's Trade Union League. Not because it is not done by the American Federation of Labor, for it is; but because we women have something to contribute which no man can contribute and because, I will repeat, our women can speak to women and girls and children as no man can speak to them. And because of these facts we come to you and ask from you and receive from you the heartiest co-operation.

Now I will speak of what we are trying to do with the foreign girls who are all the time coming to our cities, not knowing the cost of life in America and willing to take the low wage because they do not know the cost of living is greater than in the old countries under their old peasant conditions. You will realize that the woman has been looked upon as an educator throughout the centuries. The Roman Catholic church in the early days of its convents turned to its women and asked them to enter that life for the purpose of qualifying themselves to teach the young girls and children. And then when the American Republic, making part of democracy come true, entrusted every man with a vote, that American Republic recognized the governmental necessity of an educated electorate, and it turned to its women to educate the men who were to be its voters. As eminent an American statesman as John Adams, in a letter he wrote to Joseph Warren, of Boston, said: "The education of the children, the future citizens of America, the future voters of this republic, you and I must entrust to our wives and our sisters." That story of woman's work is one of the brightest contributions to America's democracy.

We are beginning to have our Trades Union primers printed in six or seven different languages. They are primers and primers only. They teach English and Trades Unionism to our foreign sisters at the same time. A young woman came to our office in Chicago the other day and asked if we thought she was qualified to teach English to the Lithuanians? I said: "That is not the question. Are you qualified to teach Trades Unionism to the Lithuanians?"

Mrs. Robins described at length the primers and the methods of teaching the foreign girls English and Trades Unionism.

Continuing her address Mrs. Robins said: "Now men, we must do something to help put a stop to the bottomless pit of wages for women and the children. Everywhere men and women are asking themselves the question whether or not we ought to see to it that there will be formed in America as there are in England and Australia minimum wage boards by which the workers, the employers and the public can come together and determine what is the minimum that industry can pay. Then the public will understand that any industry that cannot pay a living wage is a parasitic industry and must be swept from the earth. Who are the girls who are earning those small wages? They are the daughters of the working men. I will ask you, my brothers, if you cannot find a better place for your money than to put it into a silent partnership with those firms that do not pay your daughters enough to live honestly? Is it proper for a working man to become a silent partner with the merchant princes of our country?"

That is why Massachusetts has appointed a commission to ascertain the best method of securing a minimum wage. For this reason the Illinois Trades Union Leagues have asked the State Federation of Labor to stand for the appointment by the next legislature of a commission to consider the best method of providing for a minimum wage so that we may safeguard the dangers attached to such a proposition. We know that not even that minimum wage can be secured except through the strength of the organization of Trades Union men and women. Our English brothers will bear witness to the fact that the minimum wage in the chain-making and lace-making industries had to be secured for the workers through a strike. The organized people of England were so aroused that the coffers of the unorganized trades were filled and they were able to win their victory. This is not fooling ourselves with the thought or belief that it is the wisest thing to do. It is only because we know that under the juggernaut of present conditions is buried and crushed out so much power and strength and beauty of mind and body and spirit in America that we have got to find a way, artificial if you will, to release that power.

In closing let me ask you to remember one thought. During the great Garment Workers' strike of last winter in Chicago, when I had the honor to be the Treasurer of that Division of the work that had to deal with the Commissary Department, while we were trying to make possible the feeding of fifty thousand people a day, it was natural that with nine, ten and eleven different nationalities represented and that many languages spoken somebody would be overlooked. While we hoped that coal and food were being sent into every needy home some few were overlooked. Going into one of those homes I found a woman lying with a new born baby at her breast and three small children standing around her. There was no coal in the house, and it was a bitter winter's day. There was no food in the house. Lying on the bed open and catching my eye were three letters from the employer of this woman's husband offering to raise his wages from $15 to $25 a week if he would come back and be a scab. The man refused and that woman and mother rejoiced in his refusal.

After witnessing one of the real human—not tragedies but joys of life—I turned to that woman and said: "Friend how do you do it?" She said to me in broken English: "We give not only bread to our children, we give freedom to our children and I will die if need be to make my children free." And it is the thought that freedom is a costly thing and that eternal vigilance is the cost of liberty that makes me so heart and soul a Trades Unionist, because no other movement in America today stands so positively for freedom as the Trade Union movement. We cannot maintain a free church, a free political world, a free government, while for six days of the week our men and women are living under despotic conditions. And so because freedom is a costly thing, and because back of all the Trade Union movement is trying to do and accomplish, back of the wages so essential to maintain a home, back of the wages so essential to the protection of the womanhood of our nation is the building up of a free people, and for that people—and may the vision never leave us during the day's drudgery—above all things we are trying to do is to free the human soul and bring forth a free people in this America of ours.

President Gompers stated that there not being sufficient time before adjournment for the addresses of the other fraternal delegates they would be postponed until the session to be held Friday morning.

President Gompers stated that, owing to the fact that the Convention would adjourn for the afternoon at 1:30, resolutions might be presented in the office of the Secretary or President up to midnight.

Delegate Gallagher, (A. J.), stated that he had intended to introduce a resolution bearing on the McNamara case, but by request had withheld it until the report of the Committee on President's report could be presented. He asked if there was any way in which it could be presented later on if he desired to do so. President Gompers stated that the only way it could be presented was with the unanimous consent of the Convention.

During the session resolutions No. 96 to 167 inclusive were submitted and referred to the proper committees.

Adjourned at 1:30 p. m. to meet tomorrow morning at 9:30.

Fifth Day--Friday Morning Session

The Convention was called to order at 9:30 a. m., Friday, November 17th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Phell, Roach (John A.), Coakley, Price, Kaefel, Kelly (William E.), Hardy, Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Sontheimer, Quick, Wendt, Davis, Fuller, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Creamer, Donnelly, Saum, Schaub.

Delegate Moorhouse, Secretary of the Committee on Credentials, reported as follows:

"We have examined the credentials of the Mineral Water Workers No. 12674, and recommend that Samuel Lebowitz be seated, with one vote.

"We also recommended that the names of the representatives of the Ladies' Garment Workers' International Union be inserted in the proceedings as follows: A. Rosenberg, Solomon Palakoff, Alexander Block, Harry Kleinman, Harry Dubinsky, 668 votes."

On motion, the recommendation of the committee was concurred in.

Delegate Brock stated that he had been absent on Thursday organizing the Laundry Workers of Atlanta, and failed to introduce a resolution he had in his possession before the time limit had expired. Unanimous consent was given for the introduction of resolution No. 169.

President Gompers—The order of business for this morning is the continuation of the addresses of fraternal delegates. The chair takes pleasure in introducing to the Convention Rev. Charles S. Macfarland, fraternal delegate from the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

Fraternal Delegate Macfarland—In the first place, I wish to express my regret that Brother Charles Stelzie is unable to be here. Although I have succeeded to his office, I invited him to come as my associate, but his duty in another part of the country prevents his presence.

I cannot come before you, strictly speaking, as a union member, because my craft, although it knows as yet no minimum wage, and has a pretty low average, is as yet unorganized. And when, in my boyhood and young manhood, I was engaged in manual toil, there was no union in my trade, or if there was, I did not know it.

While I was in Newcastle last summer, attending the British Trades Union Congress, in writing to my home, I asked the question: "Why is it that I have given up my vacation to come up here for this meeting? It is more than anything else, I think, because, as I look into the faces of these men, I see a vision in the background of millions of homes, wives, mothers and children, some with the glow of happiness, with countenances expressing the joy of health, like my own home, and still more of other little children with the haggard face of want, and with womanhood bent and burdened by the relentless iron hand of industrial rapacity or maladjustment."

Let me at the beginning of my relations with you, say a word as to the attitude of the Christian Church. It should not be that of entangling itself with your economic machinery but rather, first, that of continually reminding you of the moral idealism of your movement, and second, of co-operating with you in what should be, and are, your ultimate moral aims and ends.

I am in the warmest sympathy with Mr. Duncan as to a certain movement in Germany, and my estimate, made during a recent visit there, is much the same as his. I would, as quickly as any one of you, resent the assumption and intrusion of any ecclesiastical or clerical authority.

But your leaders and ours are rapidly discovering that we are moving in parallel lines and in the performance of sympathetic tasks.

Perhaps the best evidence of progress, during the past year, was the request which came to me from this National Federation of Churches, to resign my pastorate, in order that I might give myself entirely to the social service work of the churches of the nation. Upon my assumption of office, a clear-cut program was handed me and, under the providence of God, it becomes my duty to carry out that program.

Among other things, it speaks as follows:

"To us it seems that the churches must stand—

"For equal rights and complete justice for all men in all stations of life."

Among the things that are passing away is that old heresy that there is an inherent difference between the work of the head and the work of the hand; that the one element of humanity belongs down here and the other up there. Whenever in the university city of New Haven, I happen to be passing in company with one of its learned professors, it always gives me a sense of mischievous joy to see the bootblack who calls himself 'professor,' because it is an intimation that honest service rendered in one sphere of life is equally entitled to recognition with any other.

The program proceeds thus:

"For the right of all men to the opportunity for self-maintenance, a right ever to be wisely and strongly safeguarded against encroachments of every kind. For the right of workers to some protection against the hardships often resulting from the swift crises of industrial change."

"For the principle of conciliation and arbitration in industrial dissections."

"For the protection of the worker from dangerous machinery, occupational disease, injuries and mortality."

This leaves no room for "fellow servant," "assumption of risk," or any other specious limitation.

It means nothing else or less than that the burden of such disaster should be borne not by the toiler who gives himself or his life as a sacrifice upon the altar of industry, but by the industry which he serves, in some fair and equitable way. I spent two days last summer with the chairman in Berlin, of the German Commission, and it seems to me that they are working in the right direction.

The other articles read:

"For the abolition of child labor."

"For such regulation of the conditions of toil for women as shall safeguard the physical and moral health of the community."

"For the suppression of the 'sweating system.'"

"For the gradual and reasonable reduction of the hours of labor to the lowest practicable point, and for that degree of leisure for all which is a condition of the highest human life."

"For a release from employment one day in seven."

"For a living wage as a minimum in every industry, and for the highest wage that each industry can afford."

"For the most equitable division of the products of industry that can be ultimately devised."

"For suitable provision for the old age of the workers and for those incapacitated by injury."

"For the abatement of poverty."

But, gentlemen, that creed or confession is not worth the paper upon which it is printed, unless it also takes into account some means by which it can effectively be carried out. Therefore, the wise and thoughtful men who framed it, added this final clause:

"To the toilers of America and to those who by organized effort are seeking to lift the crushing burdens of the poor, and to reduce the hardships and uphold the dignity of labor, this Council sends the greetings of human brotherhood and the pledge of sympathy and of help in a cause which belongs to all who follow Christ."

And that, I understand, 'is the reason why I am sent here by the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ.

We have, therefore, within the past few days, endeavored to put that program into actual operation.

First, by the establishing of a National Office, in which, you will be interested to know, we receive over two hundred Labor papers and magazines regularly, and while I do not read them all through, I think perhaps I may say that I read more Labor literature than some of you Brethren do of religious reading.

Here is another item:

"The relation of the churches to the multitude of Agencies for Social Reform, and betterment is an important problem before the Commission. Its influence will be brought to co-operate with such societies and movements in relation especially to those measures which affect the moral and spiritual welfare of the people. This will include such matters as child labor, the reduction of hours, the betterment of wages, housing conditions, and many other similar causes."

That means close working relations, not only with your movement, but with others, like the Child Labor Committee, the Consumer's League, the Association for Labor Legislation, and the Woman's Trade Union League.

The Federal Council is also becoming the publishing agency to issue handbooks and study courses for our preachers and churches, an important feature of which will be to give them a sympathetic understanding of the interests of Labor. We shall, by means of news letters, like your own, inform the labor and trade journals of our doings and the religious press of your movements.

Here is another significant item:

"The Commission will confer with Labor Representatives and will send its delegates to their gatherings. Similarly, it will confer with groups of businessmen and send delegates to their gatherings."

If any of you should be conservative enough to object to one part of this, I shall have to answer as I once did on a similar occasion. Having accepted an invitation to offer the opening prayer at a Republican Convention, then a little later on, also at a Democratic Convention, and being rebuked for my inconsistency by a Republican candidate, I asked him if he did not think that the one element needed praying for fully as much as the other.

This program announces that an impartial investigation will be made of important industries and I want to say that we shall make them fair and open, and rebuke wrong and oppression, even if we should find you to be the oppressors.

There is one matter in relation to which it seems to me you have lost much ground. We are having, gentlemen, a very rapid increase in what are conveniently called "Continuous Industries" and most of them involve continuous toil for the workers. I wish to say fairly and squarely, in the name of the Federal Council of Churches, that for a man to be deprived of one day out of seven for rest and recreation; for cultivation of the life of his home; for companionship with his wife and children; and for his moral and spiritual culture, is an unspeakable disgrace upon our nation, and when it comes to be not even one day in thirty, or as in some cases, not even one day in 365, there is no appropriate vocabulary with which to give it description.

We talk a good deal about the "dignity of Labor," as a paltry and beggarly excuse for forgetting and neglecting the dignity of him who labors.

Therefore, We have entered upon a nation-wide campaign for one day in seven for industrial workers, and in this, I am sure that my colleague, Father Dietz, will express a hearty co-operation for whatever may be the differentiation between us; there is certainly no such thing as Catholic seven-day labor as distinguished from Protestant overwork.

For the purpose of renewing interest in all these plans, we mean to preserve and increase the observance of Labor Sunday in the pulpits and by the churches of the land.

When I ask myself what service we can best render in this great cause, I begin to look for those aspects of it which seem to be neglected. Among these is that of the creation of a better state of public opinion. I think this has been neglected. The great mass of the people who are not directly affected by the wrongs of Labor are either indifferent or hostile. I am frank to say, whatever may be the explanation, that you do not receive on the whole, a fair treatment from the press.

In this situation there are many things which need to be explained to those who are not on the inside of your reasons, and I mean to do my best to bring about a fair and just attitude regarding your movement.

I am richly enjoying these days with you. Perhaps it will do no harm to put a little touch of human nature into the formality of this address. I write each evening, a letter to my wife regarding the doings of the day. It is a very good thing to do, gentlemen, and I hope you do it. Here are some extracts from these daily letters:

"This is an historic meeting, charged with most serious and solemn tasks. I like its profoundly ordered ways and measures."

"Old Samuel Gompers (the descriptive adjective, Mr. President, is in the nature of a term of affection, and relates to your length of service rather than to the number of your days) gave his address today. Had he been the leading actor in the Old Testament story of the Prophet Daniel, that story would have been the same. His companions in the apartment would have taken him for one after their own heart. But I more than suspect that the old man's heart is as big as his head, and his address today was a classic in economics, an epitome of history and a moral philippic that would do credit to an inspired ancient or modern prophet. To read that address is to take a course in political economy."

"If James Duncan were to wear a black frock coat and a white tie to set forth his measured dignity in fitting garb, I never would be taken as the representative of the churches at this Convention. His review today of his recent trip abroad was a masterpiece of serious statesmanship, wide information, broad vision and keen discernment."

"John Mitchell has grown still shyer during a year when he has grown to be a bigger man than ever in the estimation of his fellows and of the world at large, because he has gone through the crucible of a severe test of loyalty."

"If I were to go back to the local pastorate again, I would like to be called to the Presbyterian Church at Bloomington, Illinois, that I might have John Lennon as my senior deacon, to keep me in the straight and narrow way."

"Why is it that all our moral leaders do not see that in the American Federation of Labor, with its tried and proven economic machinery, the most gigantic economic force of any day or generation, we have, in the midst of our seething, threatening social unrest, one great safety valve, one great conserving, constructive social agency, one clear speaking voice amid the many clamoring tongues, so many of which "Are like infants crying in the night,

Like infants crying for the light,
And with no language but a cry," one great evolutionary force that is, more than anything else, bringing order out of chaos, because it mingles light with heat and serves not only to incite but also to restrain. My profound belief is that, far more than they know, these men hold the destinies of human social order."

You can readily see, gentlemen, that my utterances need be somewhat cautious and guarded, because, at least in an ideal sense, I commit by them a constituency of 100,000 churches and 18,000,000 men and women, and the utterances which I am now to make are not without premeditation. There is surely one thing for which the church cannot stand. It cannot stand for anarchy. And one definition of anarchy is that it is the attempted destruction of any fundamental institution of society. In a democratic state, the organization of labor is, by the common agreement of statesmen and economists, one of those fundamental institutions.

It needs guidance; it calls for restraint; its methods should be the subject of most careful thought and revision, but with all its limitations, this remains true, that any group of men who conspire together for the covert or avowed intent and purpose of crushing out of existence the organization of industry, would be the most dangerous and dreaded group of anarchists in this or any other land.

Brethren of this Convention, in our ultimate aims, we belong together. In the mind and heart of God, such movements as your own and his church look toward the coming of the same Kingdom of Heaven. And what God hath joined together, let no man put asunder. And I say it thoughtfully and reverently, of any man who would seek to separate the church and modern industry, it were better for him, as our Master said, "that a mill stone be hanged about his neck and he be cast into the depths of the sea."

For, after all, the church and the Gospel have been, in large measure, the creators of social unrest, because the Gospel has given to man the vision of a high, pure and noble life.

There is one of the old masterpieces, upon which I love to gaze. It is the painting of Raphael in the Vatican at Rome of the Transfiguration of our common Master. But whenever I look upon it, I wish that I might have the genius to wield the brush of a master, that I might paint and place beside it, one other picture, which would be that of the same Master a little later in the day, down upon the plane of human life, healing men of their diseases and feeding their hunger.

It must be admitted that the Church has faltered some in the face of the great social problems which she, herself, has partly created. She is now with Peter, on his way from Rome, in the old story of the Russian novelist,

"Seest thou yon brightness approaching us?"

"I see nothing," said Nazarius.

"Some figure is coming in the gleam of the sun."

Then Peter fell upon his knees and this cry left his lips:

"O, Christ! O, Christ!"

Then the question: "Quo Vadis, Domine?"

"If thou desert my people, I go back to Rome to be crucified a second time."

"Quo Vadis, Domine." This time the question of Nazarius to Peter.

"To Rome," said the apostle, and he returned.

I bid you, then, go on with your work, patiently, guardedly, with a deepening sense of justice, until every home in our land, even to the home of the last poor stranger that comes within our gates, becomes the abode of happiness and health;

Until the rushing wheels and roar of industry no longer drown the moans, while they blight the lives, of little children as dear to God as your children and mine;

Until womanhood in the home shall be a happy wifehood and a sweet motherhood that shall bear its own natural and sufficient burdens without the sad countenance of hunger of body and of soul, or if in toll, shall have the safeguards of virtue and health;

Until manhood, with a toll that does not diminish self-respect and with leisure to cultivate the finer graces of our human life, shall all be the answer to our prayer: "Thy kingdom come, thy will be done, as in Heaven, so on earth";

Until the Fatherhood of God shall be in reality and truth a Brotherhood of Man.

And to this end I repeat:

"To the toilers of America and to those who by organized effort are seeking to lift the crushing burdens of the poor, and to reduce the hardships and uphold the dignity of labor, this Council sends the greetings of human brotherhood and the pledge of sympathy and of help in a cause which belongs to all who follow Christ."

President Gompers introduced to the Convention Rev. P. E. Deltz, Fraternal Delegate from the American Federation of Catholic Societies.

Fraternal Delegate Deltz—Mr. Chairman and Delegates of the American Federation of Labor:

I am not going to make a speech this morning. I will have my innings later on. Mr. Deneschau, my co-delegate from the American Federation of Catholic Societies, will make the address for that Society.

I have come to realize that there are a great many misconceptions, both with regard to the church on the one hand, and on the other with regard to the real meaning of the old trade union; and therefore I have determined to preach a sermon next Sunday morning on that topic, the relation of the Catholic Church to the trade union movement. I understand the delicacies of the situation very well, as well as any man can, but I want to treat that subject in a straightforward, frank and manly manner, and therefore I wish to invite all of you to come to that church and to hear what I will say in the name of the Catholic Church in regard to her position in the Labor movement of the United States.

Rev. Mr. Dietz read a communication from Rev. Robert S. Kennedy, pastor of the Immaculate Conception Church, in which the delegates were invited to attend services in that church at 11 o'clock a. m., Sunday, November 19th, the sermon to be delivered by Rev. Mr. Dietz.

President Gompers introduced to the Convention Mr. Charles I. Deneschau, Fraternal Delegate from the American Federation of Catholic Societies.

Fraternal Delegate Deneschau—Mr. President and Delegates:

During the last few days I have had an experience varied and interesting. First was the pleasure of coming to Atlanta to attend this gathering. Since coming here I assure you that I have experienced the emotion that any stranger would feel in coming to a gathering such as this, that being one of edification. And yesterday I experienced another emotion, one of surprise at being called upon by the senior delegate of our organization to make this address. At this time I confess that I feel my last emotion, that of pride at being able to stand before you as a speaker for the organization I represent.

The American Federation of Catholic Societies has sent to your body two delegates accredited with the pleasant duty of conveying to you its greeting, a greeting from its three millions of members. We compliment you upon what you have done and what your organization is doing for the protection and the uplift of the working masses of our country. We raise our voice with yours for the universal acceptance of the cardinal principles of Trades Unionism, the one the maintenance of an honest wage scale, the other the recognition of a fair working day. The American Federation of Catholic Societies has seriously considered these phases, phases which are essentially yours, but are likewise questions which are of vital moment to any American. We thoroughly appreciate the great task before Organized Labor; we know that probably no constituents demand a stricter accounting of the stewardship from their delegates upon their return than is required of you. For the people whom you represent are vitally interwoven in this movement, and your every action, and every conclusion this Convention reaches strikes home to every man and to every woman going to make up this great army of the working people of our Republic.

We feel as you do on this all-powerful question which you have so admirably handled and which you are today engaged in the deliberation of, the disposition of the child. We appreciate and the American people as a whole thank the American Federation of Labor for what it has done for the coming generation and the little ones who are with us today. We realize as you do that the child has a right to require of us two things, one the endowment of his faculties and the second the opening up of that avenue of opportunity which will permit him to cope with this world when he is in full possession of his own being. There is no question than has been of greater interest to the people of this country as a whole. I say that advisedly, and I know that what has been done by you in that connection will eternally redound to the greater glory of your organization.

Now, gentlemen, I want to say that I have made no preparation for this address; I did not come here anticipating this great compliment; but I assure you that the organization from which I come is in thorough sympathy with you, and its heart throbs with yours for the cause for which you are striving. It believes, and sincerely so, that Trades Unionism is the salvation of labor. It believes that the problems and the solutions before you are questions of vital import, not only to yourselves, but to this nation. And these questions are entirely to be solved by you. The American people look upon this body with a keen and critical eye, because we thoroughly realize that through you the great masses, the great rank and file of our Republic speaks. And it is with you heart and soul, this American Federation of Catholic Societies, and in their name, Mr. President, and through your delegates I again extend a sincere and heartfelt greeting.

Miss Martha Hines, representing the striking Button Workers of Muscatine, Iowa, was introduced to the Convention by President Gompers. Miss Hines reviewed the progress of the strike and the conditions that led up to it, and made an eloquent appeal for assistance for the strikers.

Treasurer Lennon—I desire to move that Miss Hines be allowed to select some of the delegates to help her and that they be permitted to take up a collection in the Convention. (Seconded and carried.)

Delegate Proebstle asked if the Button Workers of Muscatine were affiliated with the American Federation of Labor as a Federal Labor Union, and if they had been affiliated a sufficient time to be entitled to financial assistance.

President Gompers stated that they were affiliated as a Button Workers' Protective Union, that some of them had been affiliated long enough to be entitled to financial assistance, but most of them had not.

Delegates Cox and Mead assisted Miss Hines to take up a collection among the delegates.

President Gompers, in replying to the addresses of the fraternal delegates, said in part: Gentlemen, permit me to express the great appreciation we feel for your addresses and your expressions of sympathy, co-operation and good will. The commendation you express of our work, of course, gratifies us. It is not necessary that you shall agree with all we do, and it is not at all necessary that we shall agree with all your utterances. That we are in the main agreed is of primary importance; that we are in sympathy with each other in the work which we undertake to do is helpful, and will be helpful as time goes on.

I might say, simply to make it known where it may not be known, that the A. F. of L. for many, many years has stood upon the demands of one day's rest in seven; and that the Labor movement, where it has not been able to entirely abolish Sunday work, has penalized it and by that method made it too expensive for employers to indulge themselves in. Only where we have really not the power or where the work is one of necessity Sunday work may be done; but in the one instance it is because we cannot help it, because we have not the power to remedy it, and in the second instance reducing it to a minimum whereupon the performance of the work depends the safety of property, and primarily the safety of life. One of the grounds upon which the initiatory charges were made against the United States Steel Corporation was its inhumane practice of continuous work and not permitting one day's rest in the week. The charges now before the courts against that corporation, the investigation conducted by the Congress of the United States, are the outcome of the charges we, of the American Federation of Labor, presented both to the President of the United States and the departments of Justice and Labor.

Again, I want to express on my own behalf, and I feel sure I express the sentiment of the delegates to this Convention, our great appreciation of your words of sympathy and good will and co-operation, which are entirely reciprocated. Fraternal delegates from across the border and across the Atlantic, we thank you most heartily for your addresses. We hope you may have a most enjoyable and pleasant time while in our country, and that you may have a safe return to your families and your fellow workers.

Vice-President Mitchell in the chair.

Report of Committee on Local and Federated Bodies.

Delegate Nelson, Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

Your Committee on Local and Federated Bodies beg leave to submit for your consideration the following report on various matters that have been referred to it:

Resolution No. 55—By Delegates M. M. Donoghue, of the Montana State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, At the eighteenth Annual Convention of the Montana Federation of Labor, held at Missoula, Mont., August 21-26, 1911, the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, The Federal Labor Union, as organized under the American Federation of Labor, represent the unskilled workers of the country; and

WHEREAS, The present administration of the Montana Federation of Labor have given much effort toward organizing these workers and are to be commended for their work; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the officers be instructed to continue the work as has been so well begun, and they be instructed by this Convention in behalf of the Federal Labor Unions represented here to use every effort to build up the Federal Labor Unions, wherever possible, and to render every possible assistance to such Federal Labor Unions; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That all delegates to the Annual Conventions of the American Federation of Labor, be instructed from Federal Labor Unions, Central Bodies and State Federations to use every honorable effort to secure beneficial legislation for such Federal Labor Unions to secure the organization of Federal Labor Unions by the American Federation of Labor organizers and to ask for and seek the placing of a representative upon the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, representing such Federal Labor Unions as a member, therefrom:

(Signed)

E. C. JOHNSON,
Helena Federal Labor.
R. C. SCOTT,
Butte Federal Labor.
H. S. DAVIS,
Butte Federal Labor.
ALBERT KUFNER,
Butte Federal Labor.
WILLIAM O'BRIEN,
Butte Federal Labor.
JAMES LACEY,
Great Falls Federal Labor.
L. B. GRAY,
Bozeman Federal Labor.
R. C. PRICE,
Trident Federal Labor.
GEORGE ELLIOTT,
Missoula Federal Labor.
JAMES CLARKIN,
Missoula Federal Labor.

WHEREAS, The above resolution as herewith presented speaks for itself; and WHEREAS, The said resolution calls upon the American Federation of Labor for action along the lines suggested; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the request contained herein be granted and the resolution be adopted.

The committee report as follows on Resolution No. 55:

Your committee, while fully recognizing the good work done by the Montana State Federation of Labor in organizing Federal Labor Unions, does not deem it advisable to make class distinctions when selecting members for the Executive Council, and therefore non-concurs in the resolution.

On motion, the recommendation of the committee was concurred in.

Resolution No. 62—By Delegate M. M. Donoghue, Montana Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, We realize the urgent need of a vigorous and persistent campaign for the purpose of organizing the vast horde of unskilled workers who are still outside of the pale of Organized Labor; and

WHEREAS, We feel that the American Federation of Labor has in the past exhibited a woeful lack of initiative and efficiency in this direction as evidenced by the insignificant showing of Federal Unions now affiliated with the organization; and

WHEREAS, There is a pronounced feeling of dissatisfaction plainly in evidence among the membership of the Federal Unions, with the past and present policy of the American Federation of Labor, in expending the bulk of its funds and energies in promotong the organization of skilled mechanics into a species of craft unions, which is no longer able to cope with the new industrial conditions arising from the advanced stage of practical co-operation now in vogue with the magnates who own and control the principal industries of the nation; and

WHEREAS, We believe that a continuance of this policy on the part of the American Federation of Labor would eventually result in the formation of a dual organization more in conformity with the modern requirements and better calculated to promote the advent of that universal solidarity of the workers now recognized as necessary for the attainment of our ultimate goal, economic justice; and

WHEREAS, The number of Federal Unions organized in this state during the past year as a result of the energetic efforts of our State Federation of Labor tends to show that similar results could be attained by similar methods in other sections; be it therefore, by the Butte Workingmen's Federal Union No. 12985, American Federation of Labor; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we earnestly urge upon the delegates to the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor the necessity for devising ways and means to inaugurate a systematic propaganda among the common workers in every state of the Union with a view of effecting the formation of Federal Unions in efficient numbers to enable this class of workers to assume their logical position as the most powerful factor within the economic and political labor movement of the future.

The Committee report as follows on Resolution No. 62:

One of the chief objects of the American Federation of Labor is the encouragement and formation of local trade and Labor Unions. The number of organizers employed must largely depend upon the revenues received, and it is altogether likely that a more intimate knowledge of the facts in the case would change the views of the members who drafted the resolution. Secretary Morrison's report shows that during the year ten organizers participated in organizing local and Federal Unions, and 262 such unions were established.

The receipts for the Defense Fund from such unions in the year 1910 were $12,-570.15, and in 1911, amounted to $16,-010.75, thus indicating that effective work has been done.

As the resolution bears more particularly upon the employment of organizers, your committee recommends that the same be referred to the Executive Council.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

In a brief discussion of of the resolution President Gompers said, in part: The criticism is that we have not organized enough of the unskilled working men in Federal Labor Unions and are devoting our time to the organization of skilled workmen. On the other hand this preamble criticises us because we have not the conception of this broader industrial Unionism. As a matter of fact, there has been a constant broadening of the International Unions to open their doors for the admission of the less skilled workmen in those trades, and the existence of this smaller number of Federal Labor Unions and local trade unions is attestation to the further fact that they have been transferred to the International Unions.

The motion to concur in the recommendation of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 63.—By Delegates Barry, Suarez and Peterson, of the International Alliance Theatrical Stage Employees:

WHEREAS, The Spokane Sectional Central Labor Council, of Spokane, Wash., have illegally and in violation of the laws of the A. F. of L., seated in said Central Body a rump local of the unaffiliated brotherhood of electrical workers; and

WHEREAS, The Spokane Sectional Central Labor Council have caused to be sent to all managers of moving picture theatres in Spokane, Wash., a circular letter, signed by John R. Merford, Secretary of said Central Labor Council, informing these managers that both the I. A. T. S. E., moving picture operators and the rump local of the unaffiliated I. B. of E. W., were both members of Spokane Central Labor Council; and

WHEREAS, The A. F. of L. laws do not permit of dual organization; and

WHEREAS, The action of Spokane Central Labor Council has caused a reduction in wages and an increase in hours for the members of the I. A. T. S. E.; and

WHEREAS, The I. A. T. S. E., affiliated with the A. F. of L., since its formation, have obeyed every law of the A. F. of L.; and

WHEREAS, Every affiliated local in the I. A. T. S. E. must belong to the Central Labor Body in their respective localities; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this, the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the A. F. of L., do at once order the Spokane Central Labor Council, of Spokane, Wash., to at once unseat the dual organization of the unaffiliated I. B. of E. W.; and, be it further

RESOLVED, The said Spokane Sectional Central Labor Council be ordered to give the widest publicity to this matter under signature of its president and secretary with the seal of the Spokane Sectional Central Labor Council attached.

The committee reported as follows:

As this matter concerns the seating of delegates in a city central body contrary to law, your committee recommends that this resolution be referred to the Executive Council for action.

A motion was made and seconded that the recommendation of the committee be concurred in.

Delegate Barry discussed the question at length, stating that the matter had been in the hands of the Executive Council since January, 1911, that the men concerned in Spokane were suffering a reduction in wages as a result of conditions existing in that city, and urged that the Convention instruct the Executive Council to take immediate action.

The motion to concur in the report of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 140—By Delegate John H. Malin, of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers:

WHEREAS, Owing to the fact that there is no International Union to which Bag, Box and Envelope workers belong; and

WHEREAS, Those trades are of a similar character, the work often being performed in the same factory with the members of this organization; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the jurisdiction of the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, be extended to include the above workers.

The committee reported as follows:

As this matter involves the extension of jurisdiction to an affiliated organization whose charter rights have already been defined, your committee recommends that this resolution be referred to the Executive Council for investigation and action.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was concurred in.

Secretary Nelson—That completes the report of the Committee, which is signed by the committee in full.

H. P. PERHAM, Chairman.
OSCAR F. NELSON, Secretary.
JOHN CARROLL,
THOMAS FLANNIGAN,
JOSEPH D. CANNON,
JAMES P. HOLLAND,

FRANK X. NOSCHANG,
W. E. BRYAN,
SAMUEL KELLEY,
PATRICK MURPHY,
G. F. MOUNTES,
J. F. GAVLAK,
JOSEPH BIRNES,
E. W. BLAKEY,
MAURICE DE YOUNG.

Vice-President O'Connell, Chairman of the Committee on Adjustment, requested that Resolutions Nos. 115, 117 and 128 be referred from the Committee on Adjustment to the Building Trades Committee.

Delegate D'Alessandro objected to referring Resolution 117 to the Building Trades Committee, stating that it would be referred by that Committee to the Building Trades Department and he desired to have it considered by the Convention.

Vice-President O'Connell spoke in favor of referring the resolution to the Building Trades Committee, as that committee was composed of men connected with the Building Trades, while the Committee on Adjustment was composed of men connected with the miscellaneous trades, who were not familiar with the conditions in the Building Trades.

A motion was made and seconded that Resolution 117 be referred to the Building Trades Committee. The motion was lost by a vote of 73 in the negative to 50 in the affirmative.

No objection being offered to referring Resolutions 115 and 128 to the Building Trades Committee, Chairman Mitchell stated that they would be so referred.

President Gompers stated that a general impression seemed to prevail that the sessions of the Convention were not open to the public, and asked that delegates, visitors and newspaper men notify people who were under that impression and desired to visit the Convention that all the sessions were open to the public.

No further committees being ready to report, Secretary Morrison moved that the rules be suspended and that the Convention adjourn to 9:30 a. m. Saturday.

The motion was seconded and carried, and at 11:30 a. m., the Convention was adjourned, to reconvene at 9:30 a. m., Saturday, November 18th.

Sixth Day--Saturday Morning Session

The Convention was called to order at 9:30 a. m., Saturday, November 18th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Pheil, Roach, Coakley, Price, Gavlak, Kelly (William E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Hobbs, Wendt, Davis, Fuller, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Welsh (Thomas E.), Creamer, Donnelly, Schaub.

Vice-President Mitchell obtained unanimous consent to the introduction of a resolution and submitted the following, which was referred to the proper committee by President Gompers:

Resolution No. 170—By Delegate John Mitchell, of United Mine Workers of America:

WHEREAS, The use of poisonous phosphorus in the manufacture of matches causes among match workers a most loathsome disease of the bones of the face, known as "phossy jaw;" and

WHEREAS, The use of poisonous phosphorus in the match industry is no longer necessary and the United States is the only civilized country of commercial importance that has not already prohibited the use of this deadly poison by national legislation; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor commends and endorses the American Association for Labor Legislation in its efforts to secure early action by Congress which will absolutely prohibit the use of this unnecessary poison in American match factories, and give to the workers in this industry the same protection from unnecessary suffering and death that has been extended to the match workers in the other civilized countries of the world.

Referred to Committee on President's Report.

Report of Committee on Treasurer's Report.

Delegate Young, Secretary of the Committee, read the following report:

To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor.

We, your Committee on Treasurer's report, beg leave to submit the following:

We have carefully examined the Treasurer's report, and have compared the same with the report of the Auditing Committee, and find it correct in every detail.

We would not feel that we had done our full duty at this time did we not commend Treasurer Lennon for the very careful and business-like manner in which he has handled the funds of this great organization, not only during the past year, but for the twenty-two years that he has been the custodian of these funds.

It should be a source of great satisfaction to the men of labor, when they realize the vast amount of money that has passed through Brother Lennon's hands, that every penny has been satisfactorily accounted for.

Respectfully submitted,

J. C. SKEMP, Chairman,
CHARLES LAVIN,
W. F. GILMORE,
JOHN J. HYNES,
PETER HENRETTY,
JOE F. WINKLER,
J. W. HOLDER,
JAMES F. BROCK,
M. R. PACE,
CARL YOUNG, Secretary.

On motion the report of the Committee was adopted.

Secretary Morrison read the following communication:

November 13, 1911.

To the American Federation of Labor, in Convention Assembled, Samuel Gompers, President; Frank Morrison, Secretary.

Dear Sirs and Brothers:

The National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party, on motion of Victor L. Berger, has adopted the following motion:

"That a request be made to the American Federation of Labor, through President Gompers and Secretary Morrison, that the Federation assist financially in the Los Angeles campaign, and thus prove the solidarity of labor.

As you know, the enemies of labor are making a determined effort to break the spirit of the workers in Los Angeles. They have chosen that city as the battleground where they hope to crush labor so completely that it will not lift its head in self-respect and struggle for its rights again. They are making this attempt both on the economic and the political field. Just at present, the fiercest part of the struggle is on the political field.

If the enemy should succeed it would have a disheartening effect upon the labor movement everywhere. On the other hand, in the language of John Spargo, a member of our National Executive Committee, "No man doubts that the election of Harriman would be a great gain for the McNamaras and the cause of labor unions. The circumstances are wholly exceptional.

I am safe in saying that our National Executive Committee thoroughly understands the non-political character of your body. We are not asking you for any general endorsement of the Socialist Party, or its principles or policies. Any action you may take in this matter will not be so construed.

Kindly bring this communication to the attention of the National Convention.

Fraternally yours,

National Executive Committee Socialist Party,

By JOHN M. WORK,
Acting National Secretary.

Delegate Hayes (Max S.)—In view of the fact that there is a request made by the Secretary of the Socialist Party with reference to the Los Angeles campaign now in progress, and is being regarded with peculiar interest by the working people of the entire country, it seems to me some action ought to be taken. I, therefore, move that the matter be referred to the Labor Representation Committee, and I hope the Committee will see its way clear to bring in some recommendation respecting the matter not later than Monday. (Seconded and carried.)

President Gompers stated that a communication had been received suggesting the advisability of more co-operative effort among the members of the theatrical profession, the Actors, Musicians and Theatrical Stage Employees, and requesting a meeting of the representatives of these three bodies after adjournment for the purpose of organizing.

Delegate Marks of the Local Committee announced that there would be an organ recital in the Convention Hall Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

President Gompers called for reports from Committees. No reports being presented, Vice-President Duncan offered the following motion: In order to give the Committees time to prepare to report on Monday morning, I move that the rules be suspended and the Convention adjourn to meet at 9:30 Monday morning. (Seconded.)

After the usual announcements of committee meetings the motion was adopted and at 10:30 the Convention was adjourned to reconvene at 9:30 a. m., Monday, November 20th.

Seventh Day—Monday Morning Session

The Convention was called to order at 9:30 a. m., Monday, November 20th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Coakley, Price, Gaviak, Kelly (W. E.), Anderson (W. H.), Jones, (J. H.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. R.), Quick, Hobbs, Davis, Wangberg, Fuller, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Welsh (T. E.), Creamer, Donnally, Lebowitz, Schaub.

President Gompers announced that Thomas N. Scales, who had been appointed to act as assistant sergeant-at-arms, found it impossible to continue in that position and had resigned. With the consent of the Convention President Gompers appointed to serve as assistant sergeant-at-arms, J. R. Penny, of the Printing Pressmen's Union of Atlanta.

President Gompers introduced to the Convention Miss Annie Fitzgerald, Fraternal Delegate from the National Women's Trade Union League of America.

Miss Fitzgerald—It has been my pleasure on previous occasions to meet with the Conventions of the American Federation of Labor. At no time have I done so with as much pride and satisfaction as I do today, pride in the splendid organization I have the honor to represent, and satisfaction in its helpfulness to the greatest uplift movement of our time and country, the Trades Union Movement. Many of you do not seem to fully realize the work our organization is doing. The purpose of the organization, as many of you know, is to interest the women in the Union Label in particular and in the Organized Labor movement in general. Our organization has been in existence for eleven years and at this time we feel that the women have carried on a campaign of persistent agitation for the Union Label.

It is unfortunate that in some localities the men do not realize the necessity of such an organization. Expert economists agree that 90 per cent of the money spent for food, shelter and clothing is spent by women. This being true, it seems there is but one logical thing to do and that is to organize the women. If Organized Labor is going to persist in pending money earned under Union conditions in patronizing the non-union or manufacturers' association merchants, it cannot progress. In localities where women are not interested in this movement it is impossible to get garments for women that bear the Union Label. The same may be said of brooms and other household articles that women buy. Since I have been in this Convention I have been told by different delegates that immediately on the formation of a Label league in their localities the women became interested and the increase in the number of Union Label goods sold amounted to as high as 90 per cent.

I recognize the fact that the officials of the American Federation of Labor and many of the organizers have been ever ready to lend their assistance in this work, but unfortunately, in some localities the Unions do not seem to see that there is a necessity for it. The organization of the Women's Trade Union League is second in importance only to the American Federation of Labor itself, and I believe we should receive the co-operation of every Trades Unionist in this country. The work we are doing is possibly not as spectacular as some work we might engage in, but we realize that it is an effective means of taking the children from the factories and bettering the conditions under which women work. The organization I have the honor to represent will take the child from the factory and bring about just such conditions as were pictured by our friend Mr. Jones when he referred to the roses and the sunshine. There is nothing we can do that will be as effective as refusing to buy the product of child labor. I urge all the delegates at this time, if they have not an organization of women looking after this part of the work in their localities, to interest the women and insist on organizing them. The reason we have not extended our organization to as many parts of the country as we would like to have it is on account of the limited resources we have at our command. We have to depend upon the limited resources of the organizations in the different localities to help us in this work.

I thank you for these few minutes, and I hope my words will not be idly passed by, but that you will give this matter some serious thought. It is a work we cannot afford to ignore.

Delegate Crozier—I would like to have unanimous consent to the introduction of a resolution in regard to the American Federationist.

President Gompers—If there is any complaint of the Federationist the delegate can make it to the Executive Coun-oil, the officials or the editor. Unanimous consent is not given for the introduction of this resolution. Objection is raised to its introduction.

Secretary Morrison—A resolution was introduced by the Hatters' delegation and referred to a Committee, but was not printed in the proceedings.

Another resolution was introduced by James H. Hatch. There were two resolutions on one sheet. I would ask permission to separate them and incorporate the second resolution in the proceedings this morning.

No objection being offered resolutions No. 171 and 172 referred to by Secretary Morrison were introduced and referred to the proper committees:

Report of Committee on Organization.

Delegate Fischer (J.), Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

Your Committee on Organization begs to report that, of the thirty-three resolutions referred to us, twenty-one were requests either for the appointment of special organizers or the assignment of regular organizers to do special work.

The finances of the American Federation of Labor, as indicated by the reports of the Secretary and the Treasurer, are such as to make it manifestly impossible to increase the number of field workers unless there is a corresponding increase in the revenues of the Federation. And even did the Federation's funds permit, we would question the wisdom of recommending to the Convention the appointment or assignment of organizers, believing as we do that this is an administrative function which should be exercised by those in charge of the administrative work of the Federation.

Therefore, we are recommending that all resolutions in which application is made for special organizers or for the assignment of regular organizers to do special work shall be referred to the Executive Council, with instructions to examine carefully the requests contained in the various resolutions and then to carry into effect, so far as it is possible, the purpose of these resolutions.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was concurred in.

The Committee further reported as follows:

We concur in the recommendation of the Executive Council that efforts be continued during the coming year to secure the affiliation of the Bricklayers' and Masons' International Union and the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Secretary Fischer—The Committee also recommends that efforts be continued to secure the affiliation of the National Association of Letter Carriers with the American Federation of Labor.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Secretary Fischer—The Committee concurs in the recommendation of the Executive Council that work in co-operation with the farmers' organizations shall not only be continued, but that as far as practicable and advantageous it shall be extended.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Secretary Fischer—The Committee recommends that the Executive Council be authorized to designate a representative of the American Federation of Labor to attend the next annual Convention of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union as a fraternal delegate from the A. F. of L.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 7—By Delegate Groce Lawrence, of the Illinois State Federation:

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Labor has inaugurated a movement to organize the migratory laborers of this country; and

WHEREAS, The present helpless, unorganized state of these workers, and the almost unspeakable conditions under which a great majority of them are compelled to live and labor, constitute an extremely grave menace to the American people; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Illinois State Federation of Labor recognizes the great necessity for organizing these migratory laborers in order that they may be given an opportunity for self-help and advancement; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the President of the American Federation of Labor be requested to appoint a committee of trade unionists in this state to co-operate with any committee that has been or may be appointed in other states to gather data regarding the workers herein referred to and to assist in organizing them.

The Committee recommended that Resolution No. 7 be referred to the Executive Council, with instructions to co-operate with the various State Federations in an effort to organize the migratory laborers.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 13—By Delegate Homer D. Call, of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen:

WHEREAS, The Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America has for the past seven years made a determined and consistent effort to organize the employes in the packing industry; and

WHEREAS, Their efforts have been vigorously opposed by what is known as the American Meat Trade Association, who have repeatedly declared for the open or non-union plant; and

WHEREAS, At the present time the wages and conditions of the employes have been systematically reduced until today the average wage of the Butcher Workman is less than $7.00 per week; and

WHEREAS, Owing to the present system of government inspection, we believe the time opportune for organizing the said Butcher Workmen of North America; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor in Convention assembled do hereby request the Executive Council to instruct its general and special organizers to make a special effort to organize the Butcher Workmen of this country in their several localities, as far as possible.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 14—By Delegate J. R. Crozier, of The International Union of Carriage, Wagon and Automobile Workers:

WHEREAS, The International Union of Carriage, Wagon and Automobile Workers have undergone a thorough reorganization; and

WHEREAS, Since the reorganization the membership has more than doubled; and

WHEREAS, Large sums of money have been spent and are still being spent for organization purposes; and

WHEREAS, There is such a large field to cover; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention instruct the organizers of the American Federation of Labor to take up the work of organizing men who are eligible to our organization and grant them charters under this International Union, in accordance with the International charter as issued.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

Delegate Crozier in a brief discussion stated that he did not object to the resolution being referred, but desired to have it referred with instructions to the Executive Council to carry out the intent and purpose of the resolution.

Vice-President Mitchell, Chairman of the Committee, stated that the Committee had already made a general recommendation in regard to organizers, which had been adopted by the Convention.

On motion the report of the Committee was adopted.

In reporting on Resolution No. 19 the Committee recommended that the words, "and that in case such request is not complied with within ninety days, that the A. F. of L. proceed to organize local unions of Bricklayers and Masons and that when a sufficient number of unions are organized to form an International Union of Bricklayers and Masons," be stricken from the resolution, the resolution as amended by the Committee to read:

Resolution No. 19—By the Federated Trades Council, Milwaukee, Wis.:

WHEREAS, The Bricklayers and Masons' International Union has time and again refused to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, The said International is a building Trades Union, and should work in harmony and co-operation with other building trades unions, thereby assisting in the formation of a solid phalanx in the building trade industry; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the Building Trades Council of the city of Milwaukee, affiliated with the D. of B. T. of the A. F. of L., that the Bricklayers' and Masons' International Union be again requested to affiliate with the A. F. of L.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the Committee be adopted.

Delegate Donlin—The title of the organization referred to is "The Bricklayers', Masons' and Plasters' International Association." Remember that, for some day you may have trouble when they get in. I would like to have the change made.

Secretary Fischer—We are merely reading this resolution as it was presented.

Delegate Lavin discussed the question at some length, stating that he objected to money being spent in organizing the Bricklayers and Masons, but desired that such money be spent for organizers to work among the unorganized men and women of the country, and to better their miserable conditions.

Vice-President Mitchell, Chairman of the Committee, made a brief statement, in which he referred to the fact that it was not proposed to spend the money of the A. F. of L. in large amounts in attempts to secure the affiliation of the Bricklayers' and Masons' International Union; that representatives were not sent to their local unions; that the American Federation of Labor was not organizing their men; that it was simply proposed that a representative of the A. F. of L., perhaps one living in the Convention City, would be sent to one session of that Convention to extend an invitation to them to affiliate with the A. F. of L., and perhaps urge that they enter the family of Trades Unionists.

Chairman Mitchell further referred to the fact that during the past year two hundred and seven Local Trades Unions, fifty-five Federal Labor Unions and sixty-one Central Labor Unions were organized by the A. F. of L., and stated further that the American Federation of Labor was carrying on the work of organizing as fast and as fully as possible considering the amount of money that was available for that purpose.

The motion to adopt the report of the Committee was carried.

Resolution No. 20—By Delegate J. Louis Engdahl, of the Stenographers' and Typists' Association No. 12755, Chicago:

WHEREAS, At the present time there are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor local unions of Stenographers and Typists in the cities of Indianapolis, Ind.; San Francisco, Cal.; Brooklyn, N. Y.; Chicago, Ill., and Washington, D. C., the organization of additional locals through the efforts of the American Federation of Labor will, no doubt, make possible the organization of a national Union of Stenographers and Typists, thus enabling that class of workers to more effectively carry on their agitation throughout the country by placing their own organizers in the field; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention instruct the American Federation of Labor Executive Council to encourage and assist wherever possible the organization of Typists and Stenographers; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to the five local unions of Stenographers and Typewriter Operators now affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, and that the Secretary urge these organizations to begin an active campaign to increase their membership.

The Committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 21—By Railroad Helpers' and Laborers' Union No. 14085:

WHEREAS, We, the Railroad Helpers' and Laborers' Union No. 14085, a new body, having been in existence only about three months, and as yet not represented in the System Federation of the Great Southern, pray the Convention to take cognizance of and assist us, together with all of our craft on the System who may be yet unorganized, and beg your co-operation in bringing them into the fold; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention do all in its power to get the Machinists' Helpers organized and federated with the other five crafts of railroad workers, and to give the Machinists' Helpers the right of representation at the next meeting for the purpose of securing a contract; and

RESOLVED, That the Machinists' Helpers have a shop committee, and be locally federated with the five crafts and their shop committees; and

RESOLVED, That this Convention assign a special organizer to work among and organize the employees on the Great Southern and its allied lines.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 22—By Delegate W. E. Bryan, of the International United Brotherhood of Leatherworkers on Horse Goods:

WHEREAS, The National Saddlery Manufacturers' Association, an organization of manufacturers, in the saddlery industry, combined solely for the purpose of combatting labor, determined and exerting every effort to disrupt the Brotherhood of Leatherworkers, to this end demanding of men of our craft seeking employment that they give up their Union; to sign articles to such effect, and in many cases demand the surrender of their due books, as a condition of employment; and

WHEREAS, The Leatherworkers are reduced in membership to the minimum by reason of such antagonism, their finances at a low figure; reduced in an earnest effort to establish the universal eight-hour day during the year 1910; the revenue seriously impaired and confronted with almost insurmountable obstacles in the upbuilding of our organization by reason of such barriers, aided and abetted by men of our craft currying favor at the hands of unfair employers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor render every assistance possible to the upbuilding of the Brotherhood of Leatherworkers on Horse Goods; that the General and Voluntary Organizers be instructed to devote all the time possible to increase the membership of their local branches to the end that they may better protect the interests and promote the welfare of all engaged in this industry.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 37—By Delegate George Myers, of the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, Owing to the unorganized state of many locals not affiliated with the Maryland State and District of Columbia Federation of Labor and in accordance with a resolution adopted in convention held at Cumberland, Md., Sept. 11 to 15th, 1911, requesting the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. to place an organizer in Maryland and the District of Columbia; and to co-operate with the officers of the above named body, or federation, in organizing the unorganized in said localities; therefore, be it RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. be requested and directed to place an organizer in Maryland and in the District of Columbia.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 51—By Delegate M. E. Shay, of the State Federation of Labor of Texas:

WHEREAS, Texas is today confronted with conditions that are of much importance to organized labor, its growing conditions, and vast amount of territory to be covered, its hundreds of unorganized, skilled and unskilled laborers. Trade differences and jurisdiction disputes are becoming so numerous and of such large proportions, that it will require constant and continuous effort on the part of the American Federation of Labor to handle; and

WHEREAS, Texas is the largest state in the Union, and has been sadly neglected in the past several years by the American Federation of Labor, and it would, with the very best efforts that could be put forth, require the entire services of an organizer to cover it in a year which would be necessary to get results; and

WHEREAS, New towns are springing up daily and the population is increasing at such rapid rate, that it is only a matter of time when it will exceed New York. With these growing conditions confronting it, it is absolutely essential that the American Federation of Labor give these matters consideration, educating and organizing this great army of workers; and

WHEREAS, General organizers of the American Federation of Labor, sent into Texas are always allotted only a limited time, and are for this reason unable to cover only a small portion of the state, on account of the great amount or mileage and distances to be covered with added time for organization work, are totally unable to get the results required; and

WHEREAS, These same organizers are only available at rare intervals, their time being fully taken up in other places; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor appoint an organizer for at least one year to work Texas exclusively, if results are obtained service to be continued; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the appointment be given a man conversant with the condition of Texas, a native Texan, if possible, who has had some experience in the labor movement, and is fully conversant in the labor movement.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 59—By Delegate Moffitt, of the Hatters:

WHEREAS, The Seamen of the Great Lakes have been struggling for four years to defend themselves against a system of the grossest servitude, which the United States Steel Corporation, through its subsidiary, the Lake Carriers' Association, is trying to impose on them; and

WHEREAS, This system, by employers called the welfare plan, by the Seamen the hellfare plan, may be used against any class of workers; and

WHEREAS, This system, once fastened upon the workers of any trade or calling, would deprive them of all independence and reduce them to a condition equal to the peonage of Mexico; and

WHEREAS, The Seamen have conducted this struggle, and are yet conducting it, without asking any financial assessment from other organization; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we congratulate the Seamen upon their fortitude and endurance; that we pledge to them our moral and financial assistance to the end that they may win this struggle, and thus prove that human courage, singleness of purpose, and endurance can win against money, no matter how unequal the contest.

The Committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 65—By Delegates T. V. O'Connor, M. W. Kelleher and Martin Cole, of the International Longshoremen's Association:

WHEREAS, But a small percentage of the Hawaiian Longshoremens are organized and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor through the International Longshoremens' Association, and being informed that much good work can be performed in this territory if some good live organizer, or organizers, were placed or assigned to said field, which would benefit materially the Longshoremens of the Pacific coast, as well as all other crafts thereof; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the President of this Federation appoint an organizer for the Hawaiian Islands, using his best judgment as to length of time same shall continue.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 71—By Delegate J. W. Holder of the Florida State Federation of labor:

WHEREAS, The present and existing condition of labor in the extreme Southeastern States is in an unsatisfactory stage of organization, owing to the influx of unorganized labor, caused by the continued and persistent advertising by employers; and

WHEREAS, There will be a still greater influx of unorganized labor, owing to the near opening of the Panama Canal, and the immediate opening of the East Coast Extension to Key West and Cuba, also the drainage, reclamation and opening of the Great Everglades, and

WHEREAS, The State and Central Bodies of these states, through lack of funds, are not able to place organizers in the field; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this convention authorize the placing of an organizer in this District at the earliest possible convenience of the Executive Council.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the report of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 74—By Delegates Barry, Suarez and Peterson, of the International Alliance Theatrical Stage Employes:

WHEREAS, During a conflict in the city of Hartford, Conn., between Mr. S. Z. Poll, of New Haven, Conn., who owns and controls many theatres in several sections of the East; and

WHEREAS, During a conference held in the city of New Haven, Conn., between Mr. S. Z. Poll and his attorney, one Mr. Slade, Mr. Charles J. Donahue, President at the time, of the Connecticut State Federation of Labor, did, entirely unsolicited by the members of the I. A. T. S. E., intrude himself into said conference as he, Mr. Donahue, himself informed the officers of the I. A. T. S. E., the request of Mr. S. Z. Poll; and

WHEREAS, Mr. Chas. J. Donahue did wilfully write President Gompers a misstatement of the true facts in the said controversy; and

WHEREAS, Said Chas. J. Donahue caused the I. A. T. S. E., considerable time and expense in the city of Hartford, Conn., and elsewhere in injunction proceedings, which had been served on the President of the I. A. T. S. E., and others; and

WHEREAS, Such actions are not in accordance with union principles and more especially so from prominent Labor officials, and members of the A. F. of L.; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By this, the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, that we do severely condemn the actions of Charles J. Donahue for his unwarranted and unsolicited interference in the controversy between Mr. S. Z. Poll and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes of the United States and Canada.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Connecticut State Federation of Labor.

Delegate Barry stated that he had no objection to referring the matter to the State Federation, but felt that his organization was warranted in asking that such action as that complained of in the resolution be condemned, and as much publicity as possible given to it in order that such action might not be repeated in other states.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 76—By Delegate Frank Butterworth, of the Brick, Tile and Terra Cotta Workers:

WHEREAS, The International Brick, Tile and Terra Cotta Workers' Alliance, the International Union of Stationary Firemen and the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovel and Dredgemen have, since April 13, 1910, been on strike against the Purlington Paving Brick Company, of Galesburg, Ill., in defense of their rights to become members of the union of their trade; and

WHEREAS, The unions involved, with the assistance of the American Federation of Labor, the Illinois State Federation and the Galesburg Central Body have been, and are still, maintaining an effective and vigorous resistance to the attempts of the Purlington Company to destroy their organization therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the delegates of the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled, hereby extend our full moral support to the unions affected and request our officers and the officers and members of all affiliated unions to do all in their power to assist the battling men of Galesburg to secure the rights and benefits of organization, under the banner of the American Federation of Labor.

The Committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 78—By Delegate Jacob Tazelaar, of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers:

WHEREAS, In September, 1910, an attempt was made by the American Federation of Labor to organize the glove workers employed by the Saranac Glove Co. of Littleton, N. H., makers of the Saranac and Parker glove; and

WHEREAS, This attempt was successful in securing about 40 employees in applying for a charter, who were threatened with discharge by the company unless they gave up their membership in the organization of glove workers; and

WHEREAS, The Saranac Glove Company discharged a number of men who had been employed by them for a large number of years, some of them eleven years, some eighteen years and one twenty-one years, for refusing to give up their membership in the Union; and

WHEREAS, The product of this company is sold largely among the working people, particularly railroad men; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council be authorized to take steps at once to thoroughly advertise the attitude of this company among the organized and unorganized workers, particularly the railroad workmen and unions where the product of this company is sold.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council with instructions to endeavor to effect an adjustment of the question in controversy, and failing, to take such action as they may deem advisable.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 81—By Delegate C. F. Russi, Jr., San Antonio Trades Council:

WHEREAS, The flour and cereal milling industries in the United States are in a deplorable condition, to-wit: Long hours, sometimes twelve or fourteen a day; defective machinery and, in many instances, unsanitary; and

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Labor has assumed direct jurisdiction in the milling trades; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council give to the general organizers of the American Federation of Labor special instructions to try and organize Federal Local Unions of flour and cereal mill employees in the different cities throughout the country which they visit.

The Committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 84—By Delegate W. E. Scoggan, of the Black Hills Trades Assembly:

WHEREAS, The Homestake Mining Company of Lead, South Dakota, has enforced a tyrannical and relentless blacklist against all Union men since January 1, 1910, by requiring of all applicants as a condition of employment the signing of the following card:

"OFFICE HOMESTAKE MINING COMPANY, Lead, S. D. ....19

"I am not a member of any Labor Union, and in consideration of my being employed by the Homestake Mining Company, agree that I will not become such while in its service.

"Occupation .....
"(Signed) .....

Believing this card to be in direct conflict with the Constitution of the United States and a violation of the rights of citizenship, submission to its demands would be a wrong against posterity; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the American Federation of Labor, in Convention assembled, that we pledge our moral and financial support to our brothers now struggling against greed and oppression of this mining corporation; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That organizers be placed in this District for the purpose of aiding and assisting our locked-out brothers in South Dakota to maintain their organization and rights of citizenship.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council, with instructions to make an inquiry as to conditions prevailing at Lead, South Dakota, and to render whatever assistance they can in promoting an adjustment of the dispute.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the Committee be adopted.

Delegate Scoggan requested that a copy of an appeal sent to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor by the Black Hills Trades Assembly be printed in the permanent proceedings of the Convention.

Secretary Morrison read the appeal referred to by Delegate Scoggan. Delegate Scoggan moved that it be made part of the permanent proceedings of the Convention. The motion was seconded, and carried by vote of 53 in the affirmative to 49 in the negative.

The following is the appeal:
Samuel Gompers, and the Members of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor.

Gentlemen:

The Black Hills Trade Assembly, and its many affiliated Unions of the various International Organizations of Labor, wish to call your attention to the Homestake lockout, of which you no doubt have some knowledge, as we believe there are many phases of the same that are not understood by the officials of the American Federation of Labor. This lockout has been in force since November 24, 1909, the first notice of the same being given by the following order or ultimatum:

Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the Homestake Mining Company will employ only non-union men after January 1, 1910. The present scale of wages and the eight (8) hour shift will be maintained. All employees who desire to remain in the company's service must register at the general office of the company on or before December 15, 1909.

T. J. GREIR, Superintendent.

November 17, 1909.

When this order was given no demand had been made on the above named company. The motive and object of this lockout can only be surmised, but without a doubt the Unions once out of the way it would mean a reduction of wages or lengthening of hours. The result also would be that where between four or five thousand men were employed, their former places would be taken by non-union men and this Trades Assembly and the unions of which it is composed, will all go out of business.

While this lockout has been in force over twenty months, it is not a successful venture for the mining companies, as they have expended enormous capital in their fight on Organized Labor, and its effect on the community morally and financially has been disastrous. Property has depreciated, homes have been broken up and business all but ruined outside of the company's stores.

At the beginning of this controversy, after being threatened by agents of the company and banks that are dominated by the company, most of the business men of the district signed a list in sympathy with the company and against the unions. Enclosed find running advertisement in the official paper of the company pointing to the fact, as they say, that all business deprives its support from the mining industry. By the experience of the last twenty months the business men have found they have made a grave mistake in bestowing their sympathy and we believe would lend support to a movement to bring about a settlement of this lockout in the near future.

The following card each employe must sign before obtaining work readily shows the damnable scope of the company's opposition to Union Labor.

Homestake Card.

I am not a member of any Labor Union and in consideration of my being employed by the Homestake Mining Company, agree that I will not become such while in its service.

Signed by Employe .....

This card that all must sign, thereby breaking their obligation to their Union and selling their right of citizenship, is one of the main issues in this controversy. We look upon this as a direct attack on citizenship and the fundamental laws of the country, and it should be the concern of all laboring men, non-union as well as union, as it is nothing less than the meanest form of peonage.

That you may fully understand how well the unions were established in this district, we will state in the following lines of a brief summary of the principal ones involved and the effect on the same.

The Lead Miners' Union, owned a building (the largest in town), worth $100,000, was paying sick benefits of $10 a week to its members, and $75 funeral benefit. It was known as the most benevolent institution in Western South Dakota, as it gave more to charities and taking care of the widows and orphans of deceased miners than any other organization. They were also the means of all other unions reaching the acme of their power and when it shall fall so will all the unions. In Deadwood, Terry and Central, nearby towns (six miles of territory include them all) the Miners' Unions owned property of like value and paid the same benefits besides charities performed. Now all this property must be sacrificed as well as that of the various members if this lockout is continued indefinitely.

The Electrical Workers still maintain a Union; all their men being employed by the Consolidated Light & Power Co. All men working for the mining companies have left the organization.

The Musicians' Union, formerly had a Union shop in their craft. Now in the city of Lead, there are three scab bands, five scab orchestras, and all the local show places employ scab musicians but one. The power of this once powerful union is practically disrupted.

The Carpenters' Union had almost a union camp. All carpenters working for the mining companies are scabbing and the union is powerless, with only 25 per cent of their former membership.

There is no vestige left of the Painters' and Decorators' Union, and they gave up their charter.

The Teamsters had very nearly a union camp, but had to give up their charter, the few loyal members being taken into the Western Federation of Miners, where they drew relief.

The Clerks were compelled to give up their charter, principally on account of the action taken by the business men who favored the tactics of the mining company.

The Working Girls' Union had a union shop, now disrupted.

The Bartenders' Union of Lead, was broken up on account of action taken by the business men.

The Barbers had a local union, now long since dissolved.

The Brewers still have a contract with the Brewing Company, but the owners are emphatically in favor of the action of the mining companies.

The Machinists were the first to give up their charter and those remaining in Lead are all scabbing for the Homestake Mining Company.

The Homestake Mining Company, as the principal instigator of this lockout, forced the smaller mining companies to follow their lead, but several have lately started in with union men and abolished the Card system.

We know the Mine Owners' Association has taken an active part in our downfall and we believe it is but a start to disrupt Unionism in the entire West, and our defeat would mean an attack on other strong centers in the mining industry.

The city administration, county officials and the courts, have been emphatically against us, and when the situation and all the facts are understood the diabolical meanness of the company is beyond belief.

Like the charge of the Light Brigade, who gave the order is unknown. The local superintendent says it came from higher authority than himself, and the Hearst estate, also the Haggan estate both disclaim credit for the same.

While the Hearst estate is, we believe, the controlling interest in the Homestake Company, W. R. Hearst, the self-claimed friend of Labor, has remained silent as the tomb, while thousands of union men are paying for and reading Hearst papers, and in so doing contributing to the enemy. We believe such inconsistency on the part of W. R. Hearst, should be known to all Union men.

While it is said W. R. Hearst claims he owns no stock in said company nor any financial interest in the Homestake mine, and has nothing to say in its management, he or his manager for him, when he was a candidate for Governor of New York, in 1906, did ask the miners to brand as false statements made by a rival paper concerning his connection with said mine and endorse him as a friend of the laboring men and the Union.

The Lead Miners' Union met in special session and complied with the above request as they at that time believed him to be a friend of them and their cause. We have here on file the telegram asking for this favor and also the minutes of the special meeting wherein the action was taken favorable to W. R. Hearst. These and affidavits of the same may be had should any action by the American Federation of Labor require them.

The union men of this district would like to know why this change and lack of interest on the part of W. R. Hearst.

The many hundreds of union men who have so loyally stood by their principal, and suffered many hardships are still as determined to fight to the end, if their comrades in the American Labor movement stay by them.

We beg of you to take this under your immediate consideration and investigation, and favor us with an early reply.

Any other information desired will be immediately forthcoming.

Yours fraternally,

J. C. MAY, Secretary.

W. E. SCOGGAN, President.

Lead, S. D., August 14, 1911.

Delegate Moyer discussed the question briefly. He stated that while William Randolph Hearst claimed that he owned no stock in the Homestake Mining Company, the property belonged to the Hearst estate, and Mr. Hearst and his mother were the beneficiaries of it. He stated that the matter vitally concerned the Western Federation of Miners, as 2,200 of their members had been practically driven out of the Black Hills country and forced to go elsewhere to secure employment. He stated that in addition to the investigation made by the Executive Council he desired that every delegate who could do so make a personal investigation, either through correspondence with some member of his organization who still remained in the Black Hills country, or by any other means he desired.

Delegate Cannon (J. D.) stated that while the Western Federation of Miners had no Label, and for that reason could not ask for support of a Label, they could ask that Organized Labor refuse to buy the paper of an enemy of Organized Labor.

Delegate Lynch (James M.), discussed the question at some length, and urged that a careful investigation be made before condemning as unfair a man who employed members of the five International Trades in the printing industry in all of his eleven newspapers. He stated that Mr. Hearst was one of the largest employers in the printing industry outside of the United States government; that he employed members of Organized Labor in all departments of his newspapers, and in every instance had paid a higher scale than the generally accepted scale in that locality. He stated that while he held no brief for Mr. Hearst he felt that an investigation should be made and all the facts ascertained before such a man should be condemned before a Convention of the A. F. of L.

Delegate Mead made a brief statement in which he referred to the fact that Mr. Hearst and his chief editor had been unfair to organized Steam Fitters in New York City.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee on Resolution No. 84 was adopted.

Resolution No. 93—By Delegates Wm. J. Cooke, Harry DeVeaux and Jos. Birnes, of the White Rats Actors' Union of America:

WHEREAS, The White Rats Actors' Union has since the amalgamation of the White Rats of America and the Actors International Union and the rechartering of the Amalgamated Association by the American Federation of Labor upon the 7th day of December, 1910, conducted a thorough campaign of organization; and

WHEREAS, During this short period of time the White Rats Actors' Union has succeeded in practically organizing all of the desirable and competent actors and actresses engaged in vaudeville in this country; and

WHEREAS, The White Rats Actors' Union desire a thorough understanding with all of the allied trades and professions engaged in the production of theatricals for the purpose of perfecting their plan of organization and inducing a complete affiliation of all actors and actresses in all branches of the theatrical profession in this country; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor held in the city of Atlanta, Ga., do hereby request the Executive Council of American Federation of Labor to arrange and set a date for a conference of all allied theatrical organizations that shall have for its purpose the outlining of plans for a better understanding between the allied trades to better protect and enforce conditions which will bring about reforms and make the business of the employment of actors and actresses and all others engaged in and about the stage one that will allow just and equitable treatment for both employer and employee alike and eliminate much of the present unfair methods adopted by many employers in this class of business throughout this country.

The Committee offered the following recommendation:

Owing to the fact that since the introduction of the resolution a conference has been agreed to by the organizations engaged in the production of theatricals, we recommend that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council with instructions to use their good offices in furthering co-operation among the trades referred to in this resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

The Committee recommended that Resolution 101 be amended by striking from the sixth line of the last paragraph the word "directed" and inserting the word "requested," and striking from the end of the same paragraph the words "within thirty days after this Convention adjourns or stands suspended by and from such National and International Unions," the amended resolution to read:

Resolution No. 101—By Delegates J. P. Holland, of the Central Federated Union of Greater New York and Vicinity, and

Maurice De Young, Central Labor Union, of Brooklyn, N. Y.:

WHEREAS, A Central Body exists in the city of Brooklyn, Greater New York, known as the Brooklyn Federation of Labor, which is not chartered by the American Federation of Labor, and is antagonistic to it and the chartered Central Bodies of Brooklyn, Manhattan and the Bronx, which bodies are known respectively as the Central Labor Union of Brooklyn, Central Federated Union of Greater New York and Vicinity and the Bronx Labor Council; and

WHEREAS, Said Brooklyn Federation of Labor is composed of dual and seceding unions of National and International Unions and of independent unions, and these National and International Unions are chartered by the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, Local Unions of National and International Unions chartered by the American Federation of Labor are represented in the said Brooklyn Federation of Labor, and approve of action by that body undertaken against the American Federation of Labor, and the legitimate and recognized National and International Unions and their Local Unions; therefore, be it

RESOLVED by this Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, that all National and International Unions whose local unions are affiliated with the said Brooklyn Federation of Labor, are requested to instruct all such local unions to withdraw from the Brooklyn Federation of Labor.

The Committee recommended concurrence in the amended resolution.

Delegate Holland (J. P.) stated that he had no objection to the word "directed" being stricken out and "requested" inserted, but contended that something should be done by the International Organizations who had local unions seated in the dual Central Body in Brooklyn. He stated that members of locals affiliated with the dual Central Body were employed as strike-breakers when local unions affiliated with the regular Central Body were on strike.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 102—By Delegates Chris Kerker and Henry Koch, of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers:

WHEREAS, The Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union has for many years been engaged in a terrific struggle against the gigantic "Bread Trusts"; which, with their enormous money power were enabled to either destroy or buy up good union bakeries throughout this country, and hence thwart the efforts of the union bakers; and

WHEREAS, The Bakers and Confectionery Workers' International Union has made titanic efforts to organize and progress and finds itself in need of funds owing to the depletion of its treasury by this long struggle; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, at Atlanta, Ga., hereby authorize the Executive Council to confer with the officers of said International Union as to the best ways and means of raising a fund to assist the Bakery Workers in their determination to uplift their craft and defeat the "Bread Trusts."

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted:

Resolution No. 105—By Delegates Chris Kerker and Henry Koch, of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union:

WHEREAS, Unscrupulous employers of the Baking industry employing thousands of craftsmen of the Baking trade have in the past year reduced wages and forced men to inhuman conditions, and while we are doing all within our power to uphold and defend our Constitution against the wanton attack of corporate power which seeks to take advantage and fasten upon its employes a slavish condition of servitude; and

WHEREAS, The members of Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America have been engaged in bitter strikes the country over, we feel that the conditions of the bakery industry must be sharply looked after; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. be instructed by this Convention to give to the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union assistance in the way of organizing, by instructing organizers in all localities to give some attention to the organizing of bakers wherever they may meet.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 116—By Delegate M. R. Pace, of the Richmond, Va., Central Trades and Labor Council:

WHEREAS, There is great need for organization in certain portions of our country; and

WHEREAS, It is through this method that the gospel of unionism is disseminated; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the A. F. of L., in Convention assembled in the city of Atlanta, Ga., that the Executive Council be and are hereby instructed to create a new district to be composed of the State of Maryland, the District of Columbia, and the States of Virginia and North Carolina, to be known as District No. —; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council is hereby requested to name an organizer for the District hereby created at the earliest possible moment.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 118—By Delegates Joseph Smith, of the Michigan State Federation of Labor, and Charles Schaffer, of the Kalamazoo Trades and Labor Council:

WHEREAS, The State of Michigan is fast becoming one of the leading industrial states of the Union and there is a vast army of unorganized workers in the State; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor appoint a permanent organizer to assist the officers of the State Federation to thoroughly organize the state.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

A motion was made and seconded that the recommendation of the Committee be adopted.

Delegate Smith (Leland), discussed the question briefly, and urged that the Executive Council give the matter very serious consideration, as at the present time there were about 5,000 unorganized building laborers in the city of Detroit.

The motion to adopt the report of the Committee was carried.

Resolution No. 121—By Delegate Andrew J. Gallagher, of the California State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, Due to internal friction and differences there has existed in this country, two organizations of Steam Shovel men; and

WHEREAS, The existence of dual organizations is detrimental to those crafts in which they exist, in particular, and to our movement in general; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the President of the American Federation of Labor is authorized and directed to call a meeting of the representatives of the International Union of Steam Engineers and representatives of the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovel and Dredgemen, and representatives of the Associated Union of Steam Shovel men, before the next meeting of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor for the purpose of uniting all the organized members of this craft into one organization affiliated with the International Union of Steam Engineers.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council, with instructions to call a meeting of representatives of the International Brotherhood of Steam Shovel and Dredgemen and representatives of the Associated Union of Steam Shovelmen, and such other organizations as are interested in the subject for the purpose of uniting all organized members of this trade into one organization in accordance with the laws of the A. F. of L.

On motion the report of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 123—By Delegates Martin E. Goellnitz, F. C. Gengenback and O. A. Tveitmo, of the American Brotherhood of Cement Workers:

WHEREAS, There are thousands of men employed at cement work who are as yet unorganized; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the organizers of the American Federation of Labor be instructed by the proper authorities to pay particular attention and devote as much of their time as possible in organizing cement workers throughout the United States and Canada.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 148—By Delegates Thos. V. O'Connor, P. F. A. Vaccarelli, M. W. Kelleher and Martin Cole, of the International Longshoremen's Association:

WHEREAS, The affiliation of all organizations of the workers employed in the industry of transportation, such as Longshoremen, Seamen, Teamsters, Railroaders, Freight Handlers, Street Car Men, Boat Men, etc., will be of advantage to all concerned; and

WHEREAS, The developments of industry will eventually force the workers to organize and affiliate on industrial lines; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, take such steps as they may deem necessary for the formation of such a Department, and that all Transportation Organizations be invited to join the Transportation Department.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Treasurer Lennon in the chair.

Resolution No. 150—By Delegate Joseph D. Cannon, of the Western Federation of Miners:

WHEREAS, Modern industrial concerns are constantly being brought into closer inter-relation with each other and this result of the industrial trend of the age, makes the workers in the different crafts and trades, to a greater extent, inter-dependent upon each other; craft lines are more closely drawn, and in most trades there are constant infringements of jurisdictions, the exact boundary of which, it is impossible to define, this condition naturally familiarizes the workers of one trade with the technique of others; consequently, these workers when forced to seek employment seek it wherever they can find it; they do not limit themselves to their own particular trade or craft, but accept employment in any craft or trade of which they have acquired the necessary skill; and

WHEREAS, Under our crude form or system of Federation this makes it necessary for workers, securing such employment, to pay large initiation fees upon each such change of employment, thereby rendering it more difficult for our members to live and provide for their families under this regime of "Full Dinner Pail" and ever-increasing "High Cost of Living." It is in effect, equivalent to the placing of a premium upon non-Unionism and a discount upon our members who keep their cards in good standing; it is the placing of a cruel and unnecessary hardship upon those who make it possible for us to maintain our various unions; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this matter be referred to the proper committee or to the Executive Council with instructions to prepare a clause for the Constitution of the American Federation of Labor, which will provide for an equitable exchange of paid-up cards between all affiliated unions.

Secretary Fischer—The Committee reports that the American Federation of Labor has uniformly and consistently encouraged the acceptance of paid-up cards of affiliated Unions, and recommends a continuance of this policy. We recognize, however, that the A. F. of L. has no authority to direct the internal affairs of the affiliated National and International Unions. We, therefore, recommend non-concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 151—By Delegates M. W. Mitchell, Jas. A. Short and J. W. Bridwell, of the Journeymen Stone Cutters Association of North America:

WHEREAS, There are working in and around the marble quarries of North Georgia several hundred skilled and unskilled laborers who compete with the organized labor of the marble industry in other sections of the country; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor in the Thirty-first Annual Convention assembled, pledges its moral support in bringing about better conditions in the section mentioned, and directs its executive officers to assist in organizing these operatives by sending an organizer into this field at the time they may think will be the means of accomplishing results.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendations of the Committee were adopted.

Resolution No. 159—By Delegates Matt Comerford, J. G. Hannahan, J. L. McNamara and John Glass, of the International Union of Steam Engineers, and Timothy Healy, Wm. J. Brennan and M. J. Friel, of the International Brotherhood of Firemen:

WHEREAS, The Prudential Life Insurance Company of America, whose home office is located in Newark, N. J., operates a large power plant therein and refuses to permit the employees to become connected with the respective trade unions as are engineers, firemen, oilers, switchboard operators, etc., and do not pay the recognized union scale of wages; and

WHEREAS, The Essex Trades Council, of Newark, N. J., has made strenuous efforts by committee and correspondence to organize those employees and failed; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor at Atlanta, Ga., to instruct the Executive Council to take up this case with the Prudential Life Insurance Company in an effort to organize that particular department.

The Committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 160—By Delegate Fred W. Sutor, of the Quarry Workers' International Union of North America:

WHEREAS, In view of the fact that a great number of quarry workers throughout this country and Canada are not organized; and

WHEREAS, Quarries as a rule are in outlying districts, the organizers of the A. F. of L. generally fail to reach them; and

WHEREAS, It is difficult for our organization to procure the services of a permanent organizer; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this, the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, direct the Executive Council to instruct its organizers to give special attention to these unorganized quarry workers while in localities where the same may be employed.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 169—By Delegate James F. Brock, of the Laundry Workers' International Union:

WHEREAS, Comparatively a small per cent of the Laundry Workers of America are organized and the larger portion of them are women and young girls of tender years, who have to work long hours under slavish conditions for the lack of being organized; and

WHEREAS, This vast number of Laundry Workers is by far the largest contingent of unorganized labor embraced in a single class now in existence; and

WHEREAS, The Steam Laundry Workers' International Union has organized a certain per cent of this class and increased their wages and shortened their hours from sixteen hours a day to nine hours a day through such organization; and

WHEREAS, The organization of this vast body of working women and children and working men is of paramount importance to the labor movement at the present time; and

WHEREAS, The International Steam Laundry Workers' Union had to withdraw their International President off the pay roll on account of no funds being in the treasury, and as the General President has been acting as the organizer of our craft, and without an organizer being in the field, the Laundry Workers' Union shall soon be on the decline; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor be authorized by this Convention to give to our organization assistance in the way of organizing by instructing organizers in all localities to give particular attention to the organizing of the laundry workers.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

The Committee reported the completion of their partial report.

A request was made that Resolution No. 130 be referred from the Committee on Adjustment to the Committee on Boycotts. No objection being offered, Chairman Lennon stated that the resolution would be so referred.

Report of Committee on State Organization.

Delegate McNamara (J. L.), Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

Resolution No. 114—By the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs' Delegation:

WHEREAS, There exists at the present time, in the city of New York, a strike among the Garbage Workers, involving about 4,000 men, who are members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs, duly affiliated with the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, Great distress and inconvenience prevails to the general public; and

WHEREAS, The men have offered to submit the grievances existing to a committee representing the business interests and the Civic Federation, as well as a certain number representing the Central Federated Union of New York and the Chamber of Commerce; and

WHEREAS, The men have offered to return to work pending an investigation of the said grievances existing, thereby granting relief to the citizens of New York and eliminating the present inconvenience existing as a result of the strike; and

WHEREAS, The mayor of New York city has absolutely refused to agree to the above proposition, but has ordered that the strike-breaking agencies be called into the case and engaged to hire strikebreakers in every section of the city and country for the purpose of breaking the strike; and

WHEREAS, This is the first instance that we know of in the country, where a large city, such as New York, that ought to be a model employer of Labor, has turned to using the same tactics as the most unjust employers and haters of labor unions; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention of the A. F. of L. instruct President Gompers to investigate the statements herein contained immediately, and if conditions exist as herein described that he make known the facts to this convention and to the labor organizations of the country and to the general public.

The Committee recommended that President Gompers take steps to have an investigation made at the earliest possible opportunity, and report back to the Convention the findings of such investigation, if possible.

A motion was made and seconded that the recommendation of the Committee be adopted.

Delegate Tobin (D. J.) discussed the question briefly. He stated that he did not ask the Convention to condemn the New York City government without an investigation. He stated further that the Garbage Teamsters had been working at nights and overtime without extra pay; that they struck as a protest against the treatment they had been receiving from the city of New York, and after they struck they requested the city officials through the mayor to have an investigation of the grievances made; that they offered to work pending such an investigation and agreed to leave their grievances to arbitration. He stated that the city officials absolutely refused to listen to any plan for arbitration or conciliation, but on the contrary proceeded to employ strike breaking agencies to disrupt the union.

The motion to adopt the report of the Committee was carried.

President Gompers in the chair.

Resolution No. 139—By Delegate J. T. Carey, of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers:

WHEREAS, Practically all paper used by the United States Government is made in mills where the employees, both men and women, are compelled to work thirteen hours per day or per night; and

WHEREAS, There is an apparent understanding or agreement between the manufacturers of book, bond, writing, ledger, tissue, wrapper and post card papers, to compel employees to work long hours, which is a disgrace to a civilized country; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the A. F. of L. through the Executive Council, make every effort possible to secure the appointment of a Committee of Congress and the United States Senate, to make a full investigation, as to the conditions under which book, bond, writing, ledger, tissue, wrapper and post card papers are made.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council for further consideration and action.

On motion the report of the Committee was adopted.

President Gompers—The Executive Council recommended to this Convention action for the appointment of a Committee to confer with the delegates of the White Rats Actors' Union in regard to proposed performances to be given throughout the country for the benefit of Labor.

Delegate DeYoung—I move that such a Committee be appointed.

The motion was seconded and carried, and President Gompers appointed as such Committee Delegates E. E. Tharp, W. V. Russell and A. J. Kugler.

Report of Committee on Laws.

Delegate Pierce, Secretary of the Committee, read the portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Organizers," and also the following resolution:

Resolution No. 167—By Delegate W. B. Abell, of the Central Labor Union of Miami, Fla.:

WHEREAS, The efforts of the American Federation of Labor, for the accomplishment of our various principles is frequently hampered by an insufficiency of funds: therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention does hereby authorize the increase of the dues at least 50 per cent.

Secretary Pierce—Your Committee gave these propositions careful consideration and recommended that Section 1 of Article X of the Constitution be amended by striking from the fifth line the words "one-half" and inserting in lieu thereof the words "two-thirds," so that the per-capita tax of the International Unions will be two-thirds of a cent per member per month.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the Committee be adopted.

The motion was carried by a vote of 123 in the affirmative to 27 in the negative.

Secretary Pierce read that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Union Label League" and also read the following resolution:

Resolution No. 28—By Delegate W. J. Pfeiffer, of the Indiana State Federation:

WHEREAS, The International Women's Union Label League is an organization created for the sole purpose of creating a greater demand for articles bearing the Union Label of all crafts affiliated with the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, Said organization is doing a great work for all label trades as well as the trade union movement in general; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Committee on Law of this Convention is hereby instructed to so amend the Constitution that at all future conventions of the American Federation of Labor the delegate representing the International Women's Union Label League will be entitled to one vote on all matters coming before said Convention.

The Committee recommended concurrence in the portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Union Label League," and recommended non-concurrence in Resolution 28.

On motion the report of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 3—By Delegate Groce Lawrence, of the Illinois State Federation:

Amend Article VII. by inserting a new section, to be known as Section 5, as follows:

"The Secretary shall, on the first day of each quarter of the fiscal year of the Federation, forward to the Secretary of each State Federation recognized as such by the A. F. of L., a sum equal to one-half cent per member per month for every union man connected with the A. F. of L., either direct or through affiliation, in such state jurisdiction."

Renumber Section 5, Article VII, by making same new Section 6.

Renumber Section 6, Article VII, by making same new Section 7.

(Section 6, as now in effect, (new section 7), gives the Secretary full power to secure the data necessary to put the proposed change into full operation.)

Amend Article X, Section 1, by striking out the words "one-half of one cent," in line six, and inserting the words "one cent" (thus collecting one-half cent per member per month for State Federations.)

The Committee reported unfavorably on Resolution No. 3.

On motion the report of the Committee was concurred in.

Resolution No. 41—By Delegate A. W. Smith, of the South Chicago Trades Assembly:

Amendment to Constitution:

Article XIV.—Miscellaneous.

Add after twenty-first (21st) line:

"No employer shall be eligible to membership in a Federal Labor Union."

The Committee offered the following as a substitute for the proposition: That there be added to Section 2 of Article XIV the following: That employers who are members of a Federal Labor or local union directly affiliated with the American Federation of Labor shall not attend meetings or have a vote in the management of the union, and shall work in accord with the scale and rules of the Union in which they hold membership.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the Committee be concurred in.

President Gompers—The chair would inquire from the Committee what they had in mind when they speak of employers as members of a Federal Labor Union or a local union?

Treasurer Lennon—The Committee is informed, and I know it from my own observation, that occasionally in a local union, as for instance, a Teamsters' Local, there will be a member who owns his own team and one other team. He drives one team and employs a man to drive the other. They both work regularly as employees for wages, but the second teamster, of course, works for the man who owns the team. In many cases these men are in the small unions where it is impossible, on account of the small number, to have a Teamsters' Union without them. There being no law in the A. F. of L. governing the matter, although I know there has been a decision, the Committee thought it was best to offer this recommendation.

After a brief discussion by Delegate Walker (J. H.), President Gompers and Treasurer Lennon, a motion was made by Delegate Wilson (J.), that the matter be referred back to the Committee for further consideration. The motion was seconded and carried.

Resolution No. 87—By Delegate Jacob Tazelaar, of Painters, Paper Hangers and Decorators:

Amendment to Section 7, Article IX.
Strike out the figures $5.00 per day and insert the figures $6.00 per day on line 4.

The Committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council for careful consideration, with power to act.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the Committee be concurred in.

After a brief discussion by Delegate Tobin (D. J.), who spoke in favor of the recommendation, the motion was adopted.

Resolution No. 95—By Delegate Jacob Tazelaar, of the Brotherhood of the Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers:

No delegate shall be admitted and seated in future conventions of the American Federation of Labor, who has been guilty of discriminating or using his influence among the members of the organization he represents or others against union label products.

The word voluntary association or membership wherever such may appear in the Constitution, decisions or edicts rendered by the officials or persons representing this Federation, shall under no circumstances be construed and interpreted to mean and be regarded or understood as a license for members of this Federation and persons seeking to sit as delegates, to oppose the sale and patronage of union label products, or refusing to employ members in good standing of unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The Committee offered the following as a substitute for Resolution No. 95:

WHEREAS, The purchasing power of Trades Unionists and their families is not used to the extent possible; in fact, in thousands of instances the neglect to purchase union label products appears to be almost deliberate and certainly is gross negligence; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That it is the sense of the American Federation of Labor, in Convention assembled, that failure or neglect by union men or women to purchase union-made goods or to hire union labor when required, if it is possible to obtain it, should be condemned by this Federation and by union labor so vigorously as to become in the near future effective in stopping such practice entirely.

On motion the recommendation of the Committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 97—By Delegate Joseph Proebstle, of International Union of the United Brewery Workers of America:

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Labor has at all times favored the adoption of the Initiative and Referendum and Recall in our Municipal and State governments, and is now making every effort through the State and Central bodies, to have the Initiative, Referendum and Recall embodied in the Constitutions of the various states of the Union; and

WHEREAS, The Initiative and Referendum is the only true Democratic form of making laws and electing officers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED (1), That this Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, adopt the Initiative and Referendum in the election of officers of the American Federation of Labor, by providing for the nomination of candidates for elective offices by and through the delegates to the Convention, the names of the nominees for the various offices, to be placed on a ballot, and a sufficient number of ballots forwarded to every affiliated International, National and Federal Labor Union; these organizations to conduct the election and forward the ballots to the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor where the same shall be counted by a committee to be composed of four members selected from different International or National organizations and one member of a Federal Labor Union; the officers as elected to take office the first day of March following the Convention; all officers to be elected for a term of two years; (2), that changes of law may be made on existing laws of the Federation repealed either at the Convention, or by the demand of one-eighth of all International or National organizations; single majority to govern all elections. (Specific rules and regulations governing Referendum vote to be worked out by Committee on Law.)

The Committee reported unfavorably on Resolution No. 97.

Treasurer Lennon—One member of the Committee desires to submit a minority report and has asked me to read it. The following minority report is submitted by Delegate Walker, of the Committee:

RESOLVED, That we favor the election of the officers of the American Federation of Labor by the referendum vote of the membership of the affiliated unions who are paid up and in good standing, if after thorough investigation, mature and deliberate consideration, it is found to be practicable and for the best interests of the American Federation of Labor; therefore, be it further

RESOLVED, That the question of the practicability and desirability of electing the officers of the American Federation of Labor by referendum vote be referred to the Executive Council for investigation, with the understanding that they report on this subject to the next annual convention for its consideration.

Treasurer Lennon—I move the adoption of the report of the Committee. (Seconded.)

Delegate Walker (J. H.)—I move to substitute the minority report for the majority report of the Committee. (Seconded.)

Treasurer Lennon—In the meeting of the Committee when this matter was before us for consideration, I offered a proposition almost identical as to the object to be secured with that of Delegate Walker. The Committee, however, nearly all the members being present except Brother Walker, decided that the whole proposition was not workable in the Federation, and as I concur in that belief I did not see fit to bring in a minority report or to sign any, but the view of the matter I took in the committee was that the investigation should be had and reported to this Convention. I know quite well the conditions of most of our international unions. I have a large degree of information as to their methods of conducting elections and legislation, and I know how inadequate those methods are in many instances. However, if the convention is desirous of taking up that line of action it certainly will have no disapproval from me.

Delegate Proebstle stated that he had no objection to the minority report, and spoke at length in favor of the initiative, referendum and recall.

Delegate Lewis (T. L.), spoke at length in favor of the minority report. Delegate Kelly (W. J.), supported the majority report. Delegate Walker (J. H.), and Delegate Cannon (J. D.), spoke in favor of the minority report.

Vice-President Duncan in the chair.

President Gompers discussed the question of the initiative and referendum at some length. He stated that he had always been in favor of the initiative and referendum and in 1877, in a Convention of the Cigar Makers' International Union, where but seven delegates were present, he proposed the election of officers and the adoption or ratification of laws for the International Union by the initiative and referendum; that in a later Convention of the Cigarmakers' International Union he had not only advocated that system but had drafted the laws which are now part of the Cigarmakers' International Constitution by which officers are nominated and elected by the initiative and referendum, that voting is not only made a right but a duty, and that failure to perform that duty is punishable. In closing President Gompers said, "I think the question of the election or the possibility of the election of the officers of the American Federation of Labor by the initiative and referendum is a subject worthy of honest investigation and honest report. Delegates to this Convention and the American Labor movement ought to know whether we can or whether we cannot elect by referendum vote. I am in entire sympathy with and will support, if I have an opportunity, the minority report."

Delegate Barnes (J. M.), discussed the question at length, and supported the minority report.

Delegate Hayes (Max S.), discussed the question at some length, referring to the fact that in former conventions of the A. F. of L. he and other delegates had introduced resolutions favoring the initiative and referendum, and they had been defeated. He stated that he favored the minority report, as it would give the Executive Council a year to work out a plan, and if need be they could obtain information from states and countries that had adopted the initiative and referendum and had worked it out successfully.

President Gompers in the chair.

Vice-President Duncan discussed the question at length, referred to the fact that the organization of which he was a member had not had a Convention for thirty-one years, but that all matters had been settled by the initiative and referendum. He spoke at length of the success of that method of electing officers and adopting laws.

Delegate Tobin (J. F.), discussed the question at some length, referred to the fact that the Boot and Shoe Workers had at one time adopted the method of conducting their elections by referendum vote, had found it unsatisfactory and returned to the system of electing in the conventions.

Delegate Johannsen spoke briefly, and suggested that the discussion being carried on was not proper while the motion to adopt the minority report was pending. He spoke in favor of the adoption of the minority report.

On motion debate was closed.

Delegate Lynch (J. M.)—The minority report makes a declaration and it provides for an investigation. We may be in favor of the latter portion and not of the introduction. I suggest that it may be divided.

President Gompers—The sense of the minority report admits of a division. Secretary Morrison will read the first paragraph.

Delegate Lewis (T. L.)—I arise to a point of order on the division. The motion adopted was to close debate on the minority report as a whole.

President Gompers—The point is not well taken. When attention has been called to the fact that there are two distinct propositions in a subject and a delegate raises that question, it is the duty of the chairman to direct a division if the sense of the matter will admit.

Secretary Morrison read the first paragraph of Delegate Walker's minority report, which was adopted.

Secretary Morrison also read the second section of the minority report, which was adopted.

The minority report as a whole was then adopted.

Vice-President Duncan stated that the Committee on Resolutions had a great amount of matter referred to it and that most of the time had been taken up in hearings. He stated that the members of the committee did not wish to work during the sessions of the convention, and some of them had to appear before other committees. He stated that, inasmuch as the morning session had been held until nearly 2 o'clock, that an adjournment be taken till 9:30 Tuesday morning.

At 1:45 p. m., on motion of Vice-President Duncan, the rules were suspended and the Convention adjourned to reconvene at 9:30 a. m., Tuesday, November 21st.

Eighth Day--Tuesday Morning Session

The convention was called to order at 9:30 a. m., Tuesday, November 21st, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Pfell, Roach, Coakley, Price, Gaviak, Kelly (William E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Schnelder (John), Hobbs, Wendt, Davis, Wangberg, Fuller, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Welsh (Thomas E.), Creamer, Donnelly, Lebowitz, Schaub.

During the report of the Committee on Organization during the session Monday afternoon Resolution No. 54 was reported on, but through an error omitted from the proceedings. The resolution and the report of the committee are as follows:

Resolution No. 54—By Delegates M. M. Donoghue and E. R. Torrey, of the Montana State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, At the eighteenth annual convention of the Montana Federation of Labor, the following resolution was presented and adopted:

BE IT RESOLVED, That the Montana Federation of Labor do request the American Federation of Labor to allow the salary of an organizer to work in the Western District of the State of Montana for a period of four months for the purpose of organizing the Lumber industry of this section of the state or such other organizations as may need this assistance, the name of the organizer to be suggested by the President of the Montana Federation of Labor.

(Signed)

J. B. EGAN,

TED FREY,

JOHN CLARKIN,

WHEREAS, We believe that it would be of great benefit to the Western District of the State of Montana if such an organizer were allowed; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the delegates to this convention, that the request contained in the above resolutions be granted.

The committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council. On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Report of Committee on Laws.

Delegate Pierce, Secretary of the committee reported as follows:

Resolution No. 99—By Delegate Max Zuckerman, of the United Cloth Hat and Cap Makers of North America:

WHEREAS, The interests of labor are more effectively protected and advanced by a closer affiliation and co-operation of the different organizations of a given industry; and

WHEREAS, With this object in view the American Federation of Labor adopted the Trades Department form of organization of the separate industries; and

WHEREAS, Such form of organization by the American Federation of Labor has proven to be a success and should therefore be encouraged and extended; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor should, as soon as practicable, call to a conference the representatives of the organizations comprising the wearing apparel industries for the purpose of the formation of a Wearing Apparel Trades Department.

The committee recommended the adoption of the resolution.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

Delegate Nestor moved as a substitute that the entire matter be referred to the Executive Council for consideration as to the need of such a department, and that the various organizations that would be affected be communicated with to find out whether or not they wanted such a department. (Seconded.)

Delegate Nestor discussed the question at some length, stating that she did not think it would be necessary to call delegates from the various trades into such a conference until there was some necessity of such a department. She stated that inasmuch as all the trades engaged in the manufacture of wearing apparel were already affiliated with the Label Department it would be merely an extra expense to have a department of the wearing apparel trades established.

Treasurer Lennon stated that the resolution referred the matter to the Executive Council, with the request that such a conference be called as soon as practicable, and that the Council would certainly not consider a conference practicable or advisable if any considerable portion of the people interested in such organization declared themselves opposed to the forming of such a department.

Delegate Biggs spoke briefly in favor of the proposition to form a department of wearing apparel workers. He stated that the fact that there were no very well defined lines of jurisdiction between these trades made it advisable that they form a department.

The substitute offered by Delegate Nestor was carried.

The Secretary of the committee reported that the committee had considered the following three resolutions together, and had made one report to cover all of them:

Resolution No. 100—By Delegates J. P. Holland, Central Federated Union of Greater New York and Vicinity, and Maurice De Young, Central Labor Union of Brooklyn, N. Y.:

Amend Article XI, Section 2, first line which reads: "It shall be the duty of, etc., by striking out the words "duty of and substituting therefor the word "mandatory," so that Article XI, Section 2, shall read as follows:

"It shall be mandatory upon all National and International Unions affiliated to instruct their local unions to join chartered Central Labor Bodies, Departments and State Federations in their vicinity where such exist. Similar instruction shall be given by the American Federation of Labor to all Trade and Federal Labor Unions under its jurisdiction."

Resolution No. 142—By Delegate John M. Dowd, of the New York State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, The amendment offered at the last Convention of the A. F. of L., to the American Federation of Labor constituted by the delegate from New York State Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, Said amendment does not make it mandatory on locals to affiliate with State Federations; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That Section 2, of Article XI, be amended to read as follows: "It shall be mandatory on all National and International Unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. to instruct their Local Unions to join Chartered Central Labor Bodies, Departments and State Federations where such exist. Similar instructions shall be given to all Trade and Federal Unions under the jurisdiction of the American Federation of Labor.

Resolution No. 152—By Delegate Maurice De Young, of the Central Labor Union, of Brooklyn, N. Y.:

To amend Article XI, Section 2, first line, erase the words "it shall be the duty" and substitute the words "it shall be mandatory on all national and international unions," also erase the words on line seven "similar instruction shall be given by the" and insert

"mandatory upon all locals chartered by the American Federation of Labor." So that this article and section shall read as amended as follows: "It shall be mandatory upon all national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to make it mandatory upon their local unions to join the chartered central labor bodies, departments and state federations in their vicinity where such exist. It shall be mandatory upon all locals chartered by the American Federation of Labor to affiliate with all trade and central labor unions in their respective districts."

The committee reported unfavorably on the three resolutions.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 106—By Delegate Daniel J. Tobin, of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America:

WHEREAS, The matter of sending fraternal delegates has now become an established and an important custom; and,

WHEREAS, We consider the work done in exchanging fraternal delegates with the British Trades Union Congress is of the utmost benefit to the trades unionists of both countries; and

WHEREAS, The amount of expense now given to the delegates, in our opinion, is not sufficient to cover his actual expenses; and

WHEREAS, The labor leaders in our country are not receiving fabulous salaries, and many times those who are fortunate enough to be honored by being elected as a fraternal delegate to the British Trades Union Congress, have very little money of their own; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention increase the amount which is now paid from $400.00 and transportation to $700.00 and transportation.

The committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council, with the recommendation that the subject matter be given favorable consideration, and that the appropriation for fraternal delegates be made fully ample to cover all expenses.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

Delegate Kugler, in discussing the question, stated that he would like to have some explanation as to the amount of time necessary for a delegate to spend in attending a convention as a fraternal delegate. He stated that if the recommendation to raise the amount from $100 to $700 was adopted this year it might be found that next year it would be necessary to raise the amount to $1,000.

Treasurer Lennon, for the committee, stated that the matter was referred to the Executive Council in order that that body might make an investigation to ascertain what the real expenses of sending fraternal delegates to the congresses of other countries might be. He stated that the members of the committee were not familiar with the matter and could not to fix the amount intelligently.

The motion to adopt the recommendation of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 153—By Delegate Maurice De Young, of the Central Labor Union, of Brooklyn, N. Y.:

Amend Article XI, by adding the following to Section 7:

"Central bodies shall have the right and power to discipline any affiliated union if such union acts contrary to a majority decision of such central body, after having received a fair and impartial trial, upon written charges presented by other affiliated union or unions, and their action or determination has been found to be detrimental to such other union or unions and injurious to the general labor movement. Discipline to mean either by a fine or suspension from such central body.

The committee reported unfavorably on the resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 154—By Delegate Maurice De Young, of the Central Labor Union, of Brooklyn, N. Y.:

Amend Article XI, Section 3, fourth line, erase the words "they may" and substitute the words "and it shall be made mandatory to organize, etc." so that this Article and Section shall read as amended as follows:

"Art. XI, Sec. 3. Where there are one or more local unions in any city belonging to any national or international union affiliated with this Federation, it shall be mandatory to organize a Trades Assembly or Central Labor Union or shall join such body if already in existence."

The committee reported unfavorably on the resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

At a previous session Resolution No. 41 had been referred back to the committee for further consideration. The resolution and the report of the committee are as follows:

Resolution No. 41—By Delegate A. W. Smith of the South Chicago Trades Assembly:

Amendment to Constitution.

Article XIV.—Miscellaneous.

Add after twenty-first (21st) line:

"No employer shall be eligible to membership in a Federal Labor Union."

The committee offered the following as a substitute for the proposition:

"Employers who are working for wages, may, upon regular ballot, be admitted to membership in federal labor or local unions, directly affiliated with the A. F. of L., subject to the approval of the president of the A. F. of L. Such members shall not attend meetings of the union or have a vote in controlling the affairs of the unions; they must comply with the scale of wages and rules adopted by the union of which they are members."

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Treasurer Lennon—That completes the report of the committee as far as we have matters in our hands.

JOHN B. LENNON,

Chairman.

DANIEL J. TOBIN.

JOHN H. WALKER.

JAMES J. HANNAHAN

JACOB TAZELAR.

TIMOTHY HEALY.

JOHN MANGAN.

A. ROSENBERG.

JOHN ROACH.

M. W. KELLEHER.

T. J. O'DONNELL.

EDWARD MENGE.

JOHN J. BARRY.

JOHN DOWD.

W. S. PIERCE Secretary.

Committee on Laws.

Delegate McDonald (D.) obtained unanimous consent to the introduction of a resolution, and presented the following:

Resolution No. 173—Presented by Delegates Duncan McDonald, John Mitchell, Frank J. Hayes, United Mine Workers.

WHEREAS, There is an organization known as the Provincial Workmen's Association in existence in certain portions of Canada, said organization claiming jurisdiction over the coal miners employed in the coal mines of Nova Scotia and purporting to represent them in negotiating wage contracts for them in that territory, and

WHEREAS, The men employed in and around the mines in Nova Scotia by a large majority some years ago decided to become a part of the United Mine Workers of America, and repudiated the organization known as the Provincial Workmen's Association, its officers and agents; and

WHEREAS, This so-called organization through its officers have since joined hands with the employers in their efforts to destroy and disrupt the United Mine Workers of America in that section, and have assisted in furnishing scabs and strike breakers working under the protection of the detectives and thugs employed by the coal companies, thereby proving themselves traitors to the best interests of the workers; and

WHEREAS, This so-called organization through its officers is again attempting to represent the Mine Workers in formulating a scale of wages on a basis satisfactory to the coal companies and upon which no worker can hope to exist and live, as a worker should live; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention condemn the actions of the men in charge of this outlaw organization as a menace to a civilized community, and a band of traitors who are being paid for their dirty, nefarious work, and who by their action are helping to retard the work of the bona fide trades-unionists and who by co-operating with the thugs and detectives of the employers, are placing themselves on a plane lower than that of the meanest scab or strike breaker.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

• Report of Committee on Labels.

Delegates Hayes (Max S.), Secretary of the committee, reported as follows:

Resolution No. 5.—By Suspender Makers' Union No. 9560:

WHEREAS, The Harris Suspender Company of 138 West Fourteenth Street, New York City, in an effort to reach the working class, is using on its suspenders a buckle marked "union made;" this is done in order to deceive the public, their suspenders being a product of non-union employees; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That these resolutions be presented to the Atlanta Convention and that such action be taken as will acquaint union men of the deception practiced by the Harris Suspender Company, in order to properly protect the members of Suspender Makers' Union No. 9560 and further promote the sale of such suspenders as bear the Label of the American Federation of Labor; therefore, be it further

RESOLVED, That the delegates be informed that no suspenders be considered union made unless bearing the above Label.

The committee reported favorably on the resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 35.—By Delegates A. McAndrew and E. Lewis Evans, of the Tobacco Workers' Union:

WHEREAS, A large number of the trades and crafts affiliated with the American Federation of Labor have a union label of their own, its use being that of affording a mark of distinction to the purchaser to be used as a guide to the purchasing of union made products; and

WHEREAS, The union label on union-made products and the demand for goods bearing said label is one of the most potent if not the most powerful weapons within the hands of members of organized labor, for the betterment of the condition of the wage earners of the land; and

WHEREAS, It becomes the duty of each and every union man to use his purchasing power to advance the interests of fair products by purchasing such products as bear the union label only; and

WHEREAS, The Tobacco Workers' International Union has a Blue Union Label which it advertises as a mark of distinction between the union and non-union brands of tobacco, cigarettes and snuff; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That inasmuch as there is an abundance of union labeled tobacco, snuff and cigarettes, of all grades and classes on the market in all parts of the country, we consider it the consistent duty of all union men to purchase only such brands of tobacco, snuff and cigarettes as do bear the union label; be it further

RESOLVED, That we, the delegates representing the International, State, Central and Federated Unions, in convention of the American Federation of Labor, assembled in Atlanta, November, 1911, will use our utmost endeavor in creating a greater demand for the brands of tobacco, snuff and cigarettes which bear the Blue Label of the Tobacco Workers' International Union; be it further

RESOLVED, That we earnestly request the members of our respective local unions to carefully observe when making purchases of tobacco, snuff or cigarettes, that the purchases made have attached thereto the Blue Label of the Tobacco Workers' International Union, as none is genuine union-made unless the label is there to be seen.

The committee reported favorably on the resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 82.—By Delegate C. F. Russi, Jr., San Antonio Trades Council:

WHEREAS, The labels of the American Federation of Labor will not stick to bags containing flour on account of the gritty substance which is used in the making of bags; and

WHEREAS, The labels will fall from flour bags and be used on non-union flour by merchants to defraud union men who demand the label on flour; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor issue to locals having label contracts with flour mills, a rubber stamp, same to be sold to the locals using same at actual cost.

The committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

The question was discussed briefly by Delegate Russi, who explained in detail the reasons why it was not practicable to paste labels on the bags, and why a rubber stamp would be preferable.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 89—By Delegate D. G. Biggs, of the Journeymen Tailors:

WHEREAS, The Fourth Annual Convention of the Trades Label Department directed its Executive Board to devise and establish an official Label Button for those Label sections which desire to use one in their work; and

WHEREAS, The Label Department has been, and now is, doing efficient and commendable work along its special line of advocating the manufacture and sale of union-made goods; and

WHEREAS, There is not a more laudable effort in the trades union movement than the encouragement of union men to spend their union wages with union people, and for union-made commodities; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Thirty-First Convention of the A. F. of L. recommend to all its delegates that they take up this subject of Label propaganda with their constituents upon their return home; that they urge a greater measure of enthusiasm, energy and work in behalf of the product of union-made goods; that they advocate the formation of Label sections in those cities which have not already established them, that when the official button is placed at their disposal that they will encourage their brothers to wear them, and that they will make any and all good, just and meritorious efforts to impress on the minds of the careless or thoughtless that it is their duty to spend their union-made wages for union-made products; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That it is the sense and desire of this Convention that every Federal Union, Central Body, National and International Union should give the highest and heartiest support and encouragement to the Label Department and the various label sections to the end that they become the potent factors their possibilities portend.

The committee reported favorably on the resolution.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

The question was discussed by Delegate Biggs, who spoke of the benefit the establishment of a label trades department had been to the members of organizations connected with it. He stated that prior to the time of the formation of the department the agitation for the label would be successful in certain localities for a time, but interest would die out and the demand for union label goods would decrease. He stated that through the department the agitation would in time become general.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 103 be amended by striking from the second "Whereas" the words "proof of same as it distinguishes," and inserting "means of distinguishing," the amended resolution to read:

Resolution No. 103—By Chris. Kerker and Henry Koch, of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America:

WHEREAS, The Label of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America represents bread and other bakery confectionery goods made under fair and sanitary conditions, honest wages, living hours, and by union men; and

WHEREAS, The Label of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America is the only means of distinguishing union from non-union; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, in Convention assembled, re-endorse the Label of the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America; and be it further

RESOLVED, That every member of each affiliated union be, and is, hereby, requested to ask for the union label on all products he or she may purchase, thereby showing or proving his or her loyalty to the cause of unionism in a substantial manner.

The committee reported favorably on the resolution as amended.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 120—By Delegate Martin Cole, of the International Longshoremen's Association:

WHEREAS, The charter of the International Cereal Mill Workers was called in by the American Federation of Labor last March, thereby necessitating application to the A. F. of L., by the cereal mill workers in order to maintain an organization; and

WHEREAS, The present sticker Label of the A. F. of L. is wholly impracticable for use on the sacks and bags used by the cereal mill workers in shipment of their product, by reason of its failure to stick on account of the many times it is handled before reaching its destination; and

WHEREAS, The label is the only guarantee to show that the product was manufactured by organized labor; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, does hereby instruct the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor to devise some other means by which the label can be placed upon the articles manufactured by the cereal mill workers.

The committee reported favorably on the resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 127 be amended by adding to the last paragraph the words "in common with any other brands of collars and cuffs that bear the union label," the amended resolution to read:

Resolution No. 127—By United Garment Workers of America Delegation:

WHEREAS, There is but one firm in the United States that manufactures union-made collars and cuffs; and

WHEREAS, Retail merchants who sell this class of merchandise refuse to show the Bell Brand Collars and Cuffs, but do show and sell collars and cuffs of firms that are, and always have been unfair to organized labor, for instance, Cluett Peabody Company, make the Arrow Brand Collar; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor instruct the organizers to give special attention to union-made collars and cuffs, when addressing meetings, and urge upon the individual trade unionists, whom they may meet, to purchase Bell Brand Collars and Cuffs, in common with other brands of collars and cuffs that bear the union label.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution as amended.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 131—By Delegates Matt Comerford, John Glass, J. L. McNamara and James G. Hannahan:

WHEREAS, It has been generally known that there has existed the International Union of Flour and Cereal Mill employees; and

WHEREAS, A resolution was presented at the St. Louis Convention of the American Federation of Labor calling for an investigation into the affairs of said Flour and Cereal Mill Employees' International Union; and

WHEREAS, Same was referred to the Executive Council for investigation and they found later that same justified the annulling of said charter granted by the American Federation of Labor, and further recommending that all Local Unions of Flour and Cereal Mill Employees form

Federal Unions under the A. F. of L.; and

WHEREAS, Said International Union of Flour and Cereal Mill Employees had a Union Label that was printed on the package and the bag of the union mills that were strictly unionized and in many localities said Label was well established; and

WHEREAS, In the disbanding of said Flour and Cereal Mill Employees' Union, and in the forming of Federal Unions of the A. F. of L., that in the adoption of the A. F. of L. Label, which is of the sticker variety, that it is impossible to use the same on the sack or bag of flour; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive officers of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to provide or designate some factory or factories or offices whereby the printing of the Label of the American Federation of Labor that it may be done on the carton or bag or sack, for the use of Local Unions of the Flour and Cereal Mill Employees, or such other organizations as in the judgment of the executive officers may deem proper, that the label or emblem of fair paid labor may be placed on the products of all strictly union mills and factories.

The committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 141—By Delegate Andrew J. Gallagher, of the California State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, The question of the establishment of a general union label for all trades affiliated with this Federation has been up for discussion and action by Conventions of the A. F. of L. for about twenty years; and

WHEREAS, All that has been submitted to Conventions is a resolution or amendment to law, containing no comprehensive workable plan that would protect those trades which, in furthering a demand for the individual label, have expended much money and have devoted themselves to generous advertising; and

WHEREAS, It is within possibility that a plan might be worked out whereby an equitable apportionment or expense involved, and an intelligent direction of advertising of said labels, taking from no one organization the benefits achieved, nor lessening the demand for any individual label, but on the contrary assisting in a greater demand for a label, general in design, and greatly improving the sale of articles which are union-made, at the same time such label being an evidence to members of organized labor that any product which they may be called upon to handle is union-made in all parts; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the President of the American Federation of Labor is empowered to appoint a commission of three, who shall be familiar with label agitation and its cost, which commission shall stand directed to make a thorough study on the feasibility of the establishment of a general union label, and report, if possible, to the Thirty-second Annual Convention of the A. F. of L., and if not at the next convention or such succeeding Convention to which they may succeed our next; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That all label trades are requested to co-operate with such commission by furnishing ideas, data, cost and such other information as may be desired, and the Executive Council is permitted discretion in the allowance of such necessary expense as this commission may necessarily incur.

The committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council to take such action as deemed advisable.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 157—By Delegates Andrew C. Hughes and Frank A. Scoby, of the Coopers' International Union:

WHEREAS, A firm engaged in the manufacture of beer cooperage known as the Frank Denk Cooperage Company, doing business in the city of Pittsburgh, has, by duplicity, solicited the patronage of emptying brewers in that section of the country; and

WHEREAS, The official stamp of the Coopers' International Union has been substituted by a bogus one, which is a close resemblance to the label of the Coopers' International Union; and

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Labor has placed its official endorsement on all packages bearing the label of the Coopers' International Union; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the American Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, do hereby solicit the aid of and caution all members of organized labor, and especially the members of the United Brewery Workers of America, to see to it, that, in the patronizing or handling of cooperage in that locality, the official label be sought for by the organized trades in America and Canada.

The committee reported favorably on the resolution.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

Delegate Hughes (A. C.), discussed the question briefly. He stated that acting in conjunction with the Denk Cooperage Company of Pittsburgh were some former members of the Coopers' International Union; that they had left the International some time ago and established a local union of the I. W. W. in Omaha, Nebraska, and later had migrated to Pittsburgh. He stated that they used a label somewhat similar to that of the Coopers' International Union for the purpose of deceiving those not well acquainted with the labels. He stated that if members of the Brewery Workers' Union would co-operate with the Coopers the matter could be adjusted.

Delegate Kugler stated that the Brewery Workers had a stipulation in all their contracts providing that union-made cooperage would be used.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

The committee on labels recommended that Resolution 163 be referred to the committee on adjustment. No objection being offered, the resolution was so referred.

Resolution No. 165—By Delegate Maurice De Young of the Brooklyn Central Labor Union:

WHEREAS, The labor movement of this country recognizes the many benefits accruing from the use of the union label; and

WHEREAS, Many of our members fail to demand the union label on all articles they purchase; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this 31st annual convention instructs its Executive Council to designate a day to be known hereafter as union label day and that all unions affiliated, be requested to make some demonstration on said day for the benefit of the union label.

The committee reported as follows: Your committee recommends that members of organized labor make every day upon which purchases are made a label day; and further recommends the reference of the above resolution to the Executive Council to consider the practicability of establishing a general label day.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

Delegate DeYoung discussed the question at some length, and urged upon the members of all organizations the importance of supporting all union labels. He stated that the members of many organizations worked for the establishment of their own labels, but when purchasing goods forgot the labels of other organizations. He spoke of the small number of employees engaged in manufacturing union collars, and stated that if all the members of organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor would support them there would be twenty-five hundred girls employed in the manufacture of such collars instead of twenty-five as at present.

Delegate Lavin discussed the question briefly. He discussed his experience while serving on the Label Committee of the Central Union of Wilkesbarre, Pennsylvania, and vicinity, where the population was composed largely of laboring people, and deplored the fact that there was such a small demand for union label goods.

Delegate Gallagher (J. J.) discussed the question briefly, and stated that it was sometimes difficult to find collars and similar articles with the union label in some cities. He stated that the central bodies ought to adopt some plan of informing people who wished to purchase such articles where they could be found.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Secretary Hayes—That is the conclusion of our final report of the Label Committee.

JOHN F. TOBIN, Chairman,
MAX S. HAYES, Secretary,
JERE L. SULLIVAN,
LOUIS KEMPER,
A. M. SWARTZ,
MAX ZUCKERMAN,
HARRY MEYER,
J. MAHLON BARNES,
CHRIS KERKER,
J. J. HANDLEY,
EDWARD JOHNSON,
E. J. BRAIS,
A. M'ANDREW,
ED. ANDERSON.

Report of Committee on Resolutions.

Delegate Frey, Secretary of the committee, reported as follows:

The committee desires to refer Resolution No. 110 to the Committee on Organization.

No objection being offered, the resolution was so referred.

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 77 be referred to the Committee on President's Report. No objection being offered, the resolution was so referred.

The committee recommended that Resolutions No. 15 and 107 be referred to the Committee on Organization. No objection being offered, the resolutions were so referred.

Vice-President Perham in the chair.

The Committee on Resolutions recommended that Resolution No. 6 be amended by inserting in line 3, of the third "Whereas," after the word "character," the words "in our belief," the amended resolution to read as follows:

Resolution No. 6—By International Association of Machinists delegation:

WHEREAS, The ex-President of the United States (Theodore Roosevelt) issued an executive order known as "Executive Order No. 212 1-2" in which he very emphatically forbade any Government employee or any association of Government employees from interviewing or petitioning directly or indirectly any member of Congress or any committee of Congress, for legislation, appropriations or a redress of grievances, without first obtaining the consent, or with the knowledge of the heads of the Department; and

WHEREAS, His successor, Honorable William Howard Taft, President of the United States, not only reaffirmed the aforesaid executive order, but extended it under "Executive Order No. 1143," to apply to all Bureaus, Division Chiefs, and other officials in the Government Departments, ordering them, together with the aforesaid employees under the Roosevelt "gag order" not to exercise their inherent and fundamental rights while in the employ of the United States Government, infractions of these orders being sufficient to permit heads of Departments to suddenly and summarily discharge federal employees under the sweeping charge of "insubordination;" and

WHEREAS, Executive orders of this character in our belief are clearly beyond the constitutional powers of any official in our Government, and should not be tamely accepted by the employees of the Government under any circumstances; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the President and Executive Council of the A. F. of L. are hereby instructed to use every honorable means to have adopted into law the bills now pending in Congress known as the Lloyd and LaFollette Bills, which have been introduced for the purpose of obtaining legislation that will guarantee to federal employees the freedom of petition and speech, and the freedom of organization.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution as amended.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 9—By Delegate Groce Lawrence, of the Illinois State Federation:

WHEREAS, Lodge No. 195 of the International Brotherhood of Boiler Makers and Iron Ship Builders of America, located at Kewanee, Illinois, has been on a strike at the plant of the Kewanee Boiler Company, manufacturers of heating and power boilers, at Kewanee, Illinois, since June 1, 1910; and

WHEREAS, The terms submitted and the position taken by the said Lodge No. 195 have been sanctioned by the Executive Council of the International Brotherhood of Boiler Makers and Iron Ship Builders; and

WHEREAS, The said Kewanee Boiler Company refuses to come to any reasonable agreement with said Lodge No. 195, and continues to be unfair to said members of said Lodge and are seeking by their conduct to destroy and disrupt said Lodge No. 195, and are seeking to make this plant of the Kewanee Boiler Company an open shop; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the American Federation of Labor, that members of all crafts be urged to use every lawful means to compel the said Kewanee Boiler Company to recognize said Lodge No. 195, and to come to some fair terms with the members thereof; and we urge upon all men, who favor fair play, to encourage and uphold the members of said Lodge No. 195 in this continued and strenuous struggle for reasonable working conditions.

Secretary Frey—This resolution, which applies to the Boilermakers, was introduced by a delegate not representing that organization but representing the Illinois State Federation of Labor. Your committee called the attention of the officers of the Boiler Makers' Union to the resolution and they were favorable to the purpose of the resolution. After conferring with these International officers of the craft your committee recommends concurrence in the resolution.

A motion was made and seconded that the recommendation of the committee be concurred in.

Delegate McDonald (D.), stated that Delegate Lawrence, from the Illinois State Federation of Labor, had been called from the convention by the illness of a member of his family, and in his absence desired to state that the resolution had been presented to the Illinois State Federation of Labor and by them referred to the convention of the American Federation of Labor. He spoke at length in favor of the resolution, and urged that members of organized labor refuse to handle the boilers referred to until the company would agree to treat with its employees.

Vice-President Duncan, Chairman of the Committee—The committee through its Secretary reported the matter as it did in order to bring home to delegates of central bodies and state federations that when they present matters directly affecting a local of an international organization they should, before submitting it, have the approval of that international. We mention this so there will be no conflict between state bodies and central bodies and the locals of internationals.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Secretary Frey reported that Resolutions No. 10, No. 18 and No. 126 had been considered together and covered by one report. The resolutions are as follows:

Resolution No. 10—By Delegate Groce Lawrence, of the Illinois State Federation:

WHEREAS, The Labor Unionists of this country are engaged in a bitter fight for better conditions and have banded themselves into labor unions for that purpose; and

WHEREAS, The employing class have also banded themselves into organizations for the purpose of fighting our every effort to better our conditions, and have also organized a body known as the Civic Federation, ostensibly for the purpose of averting strife between the workers and the employers but really for the purpose of blinding the workers as to their true condition; and

WHEREAS, At least one labor organization has decreed that none of its members can belong to the Civic Federation and others have called upon their members to resign from it; and

WHEREAS, There are other bodies known as Citizens Alliance, Chamber of Commerce and other kindred bodies of the same stamp; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention do condemn the Civic Federation, Citizens Alliance, Chamber of Commerce, and all kindred bodies as hostile to the interests of organized labor and call upon all members of organized labor to sever their connection with such bodies.

Resolution No. 18—By Delegate Duncan McDonald, of the United Mine Workers:

WHEREAS, The conflict between the employing class and the working class is constantly becoming more intense, and each succeeding year we see a greater number of strikes and industrial disturbances, demonstrating the fact that the conflict of interests is constantly becoming more keen; and

WHEREAS, In this great conflict that is to be seen on every hand the employing class is constantly becoming more brutal in their treatment of the workers, as is evidenced by the desperate attempts to throttle organized labor, by the use of the injunction, the black-list and the more recent method of kidnaping the officers of labor organizations; and

WHEREAS, The National Civic Federation which is largely composed of and financed by employers of labor, many of whom are the most bitter enemies of organized labor; and

WHEREAS, This institution, known as the Civic Federation, is built on the false assumption of "identity of interests," which is an economic falsehood; and

WHEREAS, There is a growing tendency in practically all labor organizations to view with suspicion and distrust the acts of any labor representative who is in any way connected with the Civic Federation; and

WHEREAS, The United Mine Workers, numerically the largest organization affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, at their last annual convention, held in Columbus, Ohio, passed resolutions condemning the Civic Federation and prohibiting any member of their organization from joining or retaining membership in the same, and instructed their delegates to this convention to endeavor to have similar action taken; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention, recognizing the continual conflict between the two economic forces in society, respectfully request all officers and members of the great American Labor Movement who are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to at once sever their connection with the Civic Federation.

Resolution No. 126—By Delegates T. L. Lewis and E. S. McCullough, of the United Mine Workers of America, and Joseph Smith, of the Michigan State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, There is an organization known to the country as the National Civic Federation, organized for the alleged purpose of harmonizing the interests of capital and labor; and

WHEREAS, We believe that institutions and organizations, like individuals, should be judged, not by their declared intentions, but by their actual work done in behalf of humanity; and

WHEREAS, A number of the members of the Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation and a number of those who contribute to the financial support are enemies of the labor movement and are working to destroy the labor unions of the country; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the representatives of the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, express our unqualified disapproval of any member or officer of the labor unions of this country holding membership in the National Civic Federation.

Delegate Frey, for the committee on resolutions, read the following report on Resolutions 10, 18 and 126:

Your committee in connection with the consideration of these resolutions has endeavored to secure such information relative to the National Civic Federation as could be presented by the delegates introducing them, and in addition such information as could be given by those who as trade-unionists have held membership in that body, or who have in any manner noted the influence of the National Civic Federation upon the safety and progress of the trade-union movement and the principles for which it stands.

In addition your committee has examined its official records for the purpose of discovering the aims and objects of the National Civic Federation and of assuring itself as to whether there existed any variations between the principles of that organization as laid down in its organic laws and the rules it has adopted, and in its practice.

Your committee finds that the National Civic Federation was organized in part for the purpose of furthering the adjustment of disputes between employers and their employees through the methods of friendly conference, conciliation or arbitration, when mutually acceptable, and the consummation of joint contracts and agreements covering the terms of employment. In addition, to bring together representative men from all groups for the public discussion of the questions affecting the relations between employers and organized workmen. This organization, we find, at the time of its inception, set the official seal of its approval upon the recognition of trade unions by employers, and as endorsing the consummation of formal agreements covering the terms of employment between employers and organized workmen.

Your committee has had no information placed before it which would indicate that the National Civic Federation has at any time departed from its policy as above outlined, but evidence has been presented which demonstrates that it has extended its original program by creating departments whose entire work has been to give a wider-spread influence in favor of the peaceful adjustment of all questions arising between employers and organized workmen.

In evidence of this fact your committee quotes from the official announcement of the National Civic Federation creating the department of conciliation, as follows:

"Declaration of the Purpose of the Conciliation Department.

"The scope and province of this department shall be to do what may seem best to promote industrial peace and prosperity; to be helpful in establishing rightful relations between employers and workers; by its good offices to endeavor to obviate and prevent strikes and lockouts, and to aid in renewing industrial relations where a rupture has occurred.

"That at all times representatives of employers and workers, organized or unorganized, should confer for the adjustment of differences or disputes before an acute stage is reached, and thus avoid or minimize the number of strikes or lockouts.

"That mutual agreements as to conditions under which labor shall be performed should be encouraged, and that when agreements are made, the terms thereof should be faithfully adhered to, both in letter and spirit, by both parties.

"This department, either as a whole or through a sub-committee by it appointed, shall, when requested by both parties to a dispute, act as a forum to adjust and decide upon questions at issue between workers and their employers, provided in its opinion the subject is one of sufficient importance.

"This department will not consider abstract industrial problems.

"This department assumes no powers of arbitration unless such powers be conferred by both parties to a dispute."

We have carefully examined such records as were available, to learn whether the National Civic Federation has officially or unofficially committed itself to the assumption that the interests of capital and labor are identical and we have failed to find any evidence that this question has ever been passed upon; we have found, however, in the public statements of the officers of this organization, who were not members of trade unions, and in its official publications, expressions of the conviction that in the profits arising from production, the interests of the employer and the workman were not identical, as both endeavored to secure to themselves as large a share of the value of products as possible.

From its attitude and official expressions of opinion the National Civic Federation seems to have committed itself to the belief that the primary purpose of trade unions is to secure a larger share of the actual value arising from production, through collective action, than would be possible for their members to acquire through their efforts as individuals, and that the employers frequently associate themselves together that they might be in a better position to retain the largest possible portion of the profits.

Your committee has had no evidence presented to it which would indicate that the influence of the National Civic Federation has ever been unfriendly to organized labor or that it has been detrimental either when negotiations were in progress between employers and trade unions or when industrial controversies had led to strikes and lockouts. Officers of national and international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor have appeared before your committee and testified that on numerous occasions interviews and conferences were secured with employers who had previously refused to meet any representatives of their organizations, through the kindly offices of the National Civic Federation, and that as a result of these interviews and conferences and the friendly influence of that body, satisfactory adjustments of controversies were effected.

Your committee is aware of criticisms which have been directed against the National Civic Federation by some members of organized labor, but none of these compare with the vindictive and vicious attacks which have been made against it by every association of employers in America which is organized for the purpose of opposing and antagonizing our trade unions and the principles they are contending for.

The bitter hostility of the anti-trade union associations has evidently been directed towards the National Civic Federation because that body has emphatically declared its conviction that trade unions are essential to the workmen's welfare, and that as indispensable organizations they should be given full recognition and encouragement.

It appears to your committee that the criticisms which have been made by members of labor organizations are directed more towards certain individuals holding membership in the National Civic Federation than against that body itself.

It is not to be expected that in an association composed of representatives of trade unions, employers and the general public that every member will be equally acceptable to all of the others because of his views and personal attitude; men differ in their view-point, and these differences become more apparent when representatives of such groups as organized workmen and employers meet upon a common footing to discuss problems affecting both directly. But are we to hold that we shall not meet and discuss the grave problems which affect the wage earners' standard of civilization with an association whose membership may include some whose vision has not yet been sufficiently broadened?

These individual members of the National Civic Federation, against whom criticism has been directed, are in many instances active members of the church, of fraternal and of other civic organizations, contributing to their support. Their attitude toward many questions may fail to meet with the approval of their associates, but is this sufficient reason why any member should withdraw his affiliation from such organization or organizations, or that recommendations should be made by this convention that members of organized labor should withdraw from any of them?

Since the formation of the National Civic Federation there has been in its membership a number of trade-unionists, among these being men who have deservedly earned our full confidence, and who for years have been selected by organized labor in this and their own organization as among the most trusted and capable officers and members. These representative men have had the fullest opportunity of becoming familiar with the policies and the influence of that body upon the welfare and progress of our trade union movement, and we are convinced that if any of them had discovered that the National Civic Federation was in any manner inimical to the welfare of our movement that they would have been the first to sound a note of warning.

Your committee therefore recommends non-concurrence with the resolutions.

Vice-President Duncan moved the adoption of the report of the committee. The motion was seconded by several of the delegates.

Delegate McDonald (D.)—I want to say, Mr. Chairman, in discussing the matter that I hope reference to individuals will not be made and that discussion will be entirely upon the principles involved in this case. I want to say, in the first place, that some of those trade union representatives connected with the Civic Federation have been neighbors and friends of mine all my life. I introduced this resolution upon instructions from our International Convention. I have the records of the convention here and also the motion that was adopted. I also have the records of two conventions of the National Civic Federation, and a list of some of the members and officers of that organization. The resolution that was adopted by the convention of the United Mine Workers was a substitute for several resolutions bearing on the subject that had been introduced. The original resolutions were so drastic in their character, and directed especially at one individual, as I considered it, that I requested a member of our organization to introduce a substitute. The resolutions, in my opinion, were directed more especially at our former International President, John Mitchell, who at that time was being tried in the courts of this country on the contempt charge with which many of you are familiar. Knowing that some action was going to be taken by the Convention one of my associates and myself got this substitute introduced to head off the other resolutions. The substitute is as follows:

"The National Civic Federation, an organization launched and financed by and composed chiefly of men whose antagonism to organized labor is well known, has as its alleged purpose the harmonizing of the interests of capital and labor, a position which is economically unsound. It is well known that every achievement labor has made has not been as a grant from the employing class, but has been fought for and in altogether too many instances paid for at the price of life by our comrades of the working class army.

"The spirit of revolt against economic oppression has manifested itself in a degree that threatened the forts of capitalism, and to chloroform the labor movement into a more submissive mood, the National Civic Federation was conceived.

"We need not look for favors from the Belmonts, Carnegies, Tafts, etc., who are the moving spirits of the Civic Federation; their records as enemies of the interests of labor cannot be disputed.

"In the light of these facts we, the United Mine Workers of America, in annual convention assembled, condemn the National Civic Federation as an auxiliary to the capitalistic class in the exploitation of the workers, and as an agency to further fasten the fetters of wage bondage on the limbs of labor."

Those of us who were opposed to the proposition in the form it was presented favored this as a substitute. Our convention, after discussing the matter very thoroughly, adopted the substitute and later passed a motion instructing the delegates to this convention of the American Federation of Labor to endeavor to have similar action taken here. For that reason I presented the resolution, and every delegate from the United Mine Workers is instructed to vote for it.

I have here a copy of the proceedings of the tenth annual meeting of the Civic Federation, held in New York December 22nd and 23rd, 1909. In looking over the list of officers and members I find several who are directors and controllers in the United States Steel Corporation. And if there was ever an organization of capital that was fostered in this or any other country that has been more brutal in its treatment of the workers employed in its institutions, it has never come to my knowledge. We have had occasion to enter into several struggles against auxiliaries of the United States Steel Corporation, and they have resorted to the vilest and most brutal methods ever recorded in the annals of industrial history. They have not only refused to deal with organized labor, but they have refused to permit a union man in or around their institution; and yet these men, directors of this concern, controllers of this concern, meet with representatives of labor to ameliorate the conditions of the toilers. I want to ask you if that is consistent? If the National Civic Federation is a good proposition and these men who are referred to were consistent in their position, instead of going to New York to try to ameliorate the conditions of the toilers they would go to their own institutions and there ameliorate the conditions of the employes by at least recognizing their right to join a labor organization.

I find among the members of the Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation Andrew Carnegie. I noticed a statement in the Peoria, Illinois, Journal, a few days ago with reference to the United States Steel Corporation being dissolved. Perhaps you have noticed that it is being dissolved! The article stated that Andrew Carnegie was drawing annually $13,750,000 from his investments in the United States Steel Corporation. Andrew Carnegie may be sincere as a member of the Civic Federation, but as a controlling factor in the steel industry he has been one of the worst enemies organized labor has ever gone up against.

I have had occasion to take part in two of the greatest strikes our organization has ever faced, and in both of those controversies the forces on the other side were the representatives of the United States Steel Corporation. If they would change that term from "Steel" to "Steal" it would apply properly to the manner in which they got their property in some places. When our men were driven from the company shacks where they were required to live, and put on land bought by the United Mine Workers, while the tents were being shaken by the cold winter blasts, tents in which women suffered and children were born, Andrew Carnegie and some of those fellows were giving a Civic Federation dinner in New York.

I want to repeat that I am not directing my remarks at any individual connected with the labor movement. If men had to put up with these conditions, if little children had to go about in December and January barefoot, while the wind was blowing through those tents, and Andrew Carnegie and those other Shylocks had been sincere they would have ameliorated conditions there instead of at a Civic Federation dinner in New York. Here is a photograph of a dinner, a banquet, or something of the kind, in the Civic Federation. It is a very nice affair, but I want to say I voice the sentiment of every member of our organization who has been up against the guns of the Steel Company in their fights, when I say if there is anything that will arouse class hatred and feeling against the Civic Federation

It is to look on that beautiful picture and then think of the time when the United States Steel Corporation had our tents cut down in Alabama during a strike two or three years ago.

So far as the Manufacturers' Association refusing to join the Civic Federation is concerned, I am not responsible for that, but I would rather have a man come out in the open and fight me and say he was going to fight me than to clothe himself in a white robe and pose as a friend of labor, then stab us in the back at every opportunity when we attempted to organize. I care not whether it is a labor organization, a church organization or a fraternal organization—and I belong to several—that institution will be governed largely by the feelings that permeate the individuals who constitute it.

I will not take up much more of your time, but if this matter is gone into I propose to show what these men have done to crucify organized labor at every jump in the road. The men who constitute the National Civic Federation may be friends of labor, but my experience in our organization has demonstrated to my satisfaction that they are the most bitter, heartless enemies organized labor has ever had. Some people may take the position that I am sore because I did not have a chance to take part in the National Civic Federation dinner. When I was a member of our International Executive Board I was asked to attend one of those meetings and dinners. I said I did not want to go because I did not think I would enjoy it, that I knew too much of the conditions in the places where those men got their money.

If this National Civic Federation is a good thing, why is it financed almost entirely by the enemies of labor? These men I have referred to are the ones who are putting up the money to run the Civic Federation, and at the same time they are taking it out of the life blood of our people at home. Whenever these men whose names are listed as members of the National Civic Federation will demonstrate their real interest in the workers' will demonstrate their real interest by helping to improve the conditions where their blood-stained dollars come from, then I will lend my endorsement to the cause by permitting them to organize,

National Civic Federation, but not until that time.

I notice in the list another gentleman, Mr. Kruttschnitt, of the Union-Pacific System, where the shopmen and machinists have been on strike. D. R. Francis is from St. Louis. The St. Louis boys will tell you of his actions. There are a number of others in the list who have been the worst enemies the workers have ever had.

So far as our organization is concerned, never to my knowledge has the National Civic Federation done them one iota of good; and I think if you will consult the rank and file of the organization, especially those who have gone through the terrible fights where the United States Steel Corporation has practically annihilated our organization they will agree with me in my expression of opinion so far as those gentlemen are concerned. In the State from which I come, where the United States Steel Company got possession of certain mines we know to our own satisfaction, President Walker, myself and every other official of that District, that right at this very moment there are detectives at work in the local unions trying to destroy the effectiveness of our organization, with the full knowledge and consent of the directors of this United States Steel Company.

I want to repeat that I do not want it understood that my remarks are directed against any individual. I am willing to grant that labor representatives in the Civic Federation are there for a good purpose, but I will refuse to associate with, or so far as my influence is concerned, permit men to represent me and take part with those fellows in their so-called uplift work, until they can show that their skirts are clear.

Delegate Furuseth.—Suppose Mr. Carnegie and Mr. Kruttschnitt should subscribe to the statement or to the principles of the common ownership of all the means of production, distribution and exchange, would they be refused admission to the Socialist Labor party?

Delegate McDonald (D.)—I can understand the drift and intent of the question. When the gentleman will ask a civil question in a civil way I will answer it or any other question if I can.

Vice President Hayes—I am a member of the National Civic Federation. I am there as an individual, not as a representative of my trade. It is a voluntary organization. No one induced me to join it; I did so of my own accord and in doing so I exercised the same privilege that I did in joining a trade union. It was my lawful right as a man and a citizen, and if there is any power in organized labor or in this convention that will deprive me of these rights, I have never known it before, have never believed it, and it will take a far more powerful argument than the one I have just heard to convince me that my rights as a man and as a citizen can be restricted by this body or any other.

In everything that pertains to labor, to industry, to the American Federation of Labor or to my trade union, I will obey absolutely; but, remember, that I have rights as a man with which this convention has no right to interfere. When I was a boy an employer said to me "If you join a labor union you will not be allowed to work here." I joined the labor union, and I no longer worked for him. That employer tried to do with me, what the resolution just read by the delegate from the Mine Workers aims to do, that is, to curtail my rights as a citizen.

The statement made by the speaker has no direct bearing at all upon the Civic Federation. We know the attitude of capital towards labor; the cruelty and inhumanity of it existed before the Civic Federation was ever instituted, and it will continue for years to come, or until organized labor and its principles are better understood and embraced by the whole mass of people. And that day will not be hastened by refusing to hold intercourse with Andrew Carnegie, Belmont or the other men who wield such powerful influence over the industrial interests of this country. It has always been my belief that where prejudice against organized labor is most formidable that is just where we ought to be, and whenever possible explain the objects of our unions, and give our reasons for the faith that is in us. We were not brought into this movement to be put in a nursery or to join some select school of economics, where we would hear nothing but that which appealed to our own prejudices and views.

What has Andrew Carnegie to do with this question? Every year I meet manufacturers in conference who in the past did everything in their power to crush our union. They tried to starve men into submission, have broken up homes and scattered families. Why did they do this? Because they were dominated by prejudice—they did not understand the practical value and benefits accruing to industry as the result of trade unions; but in the course of events their plants were unionized and they came into our wage conferences. They have now learned to respect the rights of labor and to respect its representatives. We have gained probably more increases in wages and reduction in the hours of work by meeting employers who were at one time as bitter against organized labor as Andrew Carnegie and Belmont are alleged to be, than in any other way. And herein lies one of the purposes of the Civic Federation. We want to learn the views of our enemies, to be able to answer them, and we want them to know our views. No man living is invulnerable to truth, and no man living is invulnerable to facts. Nothing will obstruct the truth so much as prejudice.

I heard President Gompers, Vice-President Duncan and Vice-President Mitchell meet the very men referred to here, —Andrew Carnegie, Belmont and others, and they put the cause and objects of organized labor so thoroughly and impartially before them, that they made friends for our cause. I was glad to see them sitting together in the same hall, with other representatives of trade unions who are here now. I believed then that the occasion afforded us an opportunity to aid in bridging the chasm that exists between the workmen and their employers.

If Andrew Carnegie and the other capitalists have not yet embraced our faith or belief, or unionized their mills, can anybody say that this will not yet be done? The Glass Bottle Blowers Association has been in existence over seventy years, and still we have non-union factories, and we have a few employers who imagine they could sleep more soundly if there were no trades unions on earth; but even so, union conditions govern the industry.

The statement is made here that the National Civic Federation has never done any good.

Delegate McDonald (D.)—I said so far as our organization was concerned.

Vice-President Hayes—How do we know? Has the National Civic Federation or any other institution that exists fulfilled its mission in this world? Has that institution or any other reached the point of culmination in the course of its existence? Has it? On the other hand, did the organization you represent, or any other body of men, appoint representatives to investigate the National Civic Federation? Or, did it pass its own verdict, bring it here and say "This settles it!"

I say from my own experience with the National Civic Federation that it has done good. I know where it has done good. But that is not the point. Whether it has done good in the past does not really matter. It is committed to things for which we stand. It is committed to trade agreements and appointed and employed one of the foremost labor men in this country to encourage the trade agreement system in the different industries. You know the action which his organization took in regard to John Mitchell.

I cannot approve the action against him, for I believe that his work would have widened our opportunity to spread the gospel of trade unionism. We must teach—we must educate the antagonistic employer, the enemies of organized labor, upon the justice of our cause, and we stand in our own light when we obstruct any avenue that offers us opportunities in this direction.

All this talk about chloroforming the representatives of organized labor, blinding them—why, one would think we were still in knickerbockers! If we are so easily chloroformed and blinded we would like to learn something here from the opponents of the National Civic Federation. We are here to learn. Chloroformed! Blinded! There is not a particle of truth in that statement. Take our record for the past twenty-five or thirty years in conferences with the employers, and tell me if we have ever cringed before or bent the knee to employers of labor? Chloroformed! Blinded! Bywords, catchwords, gotten up to appeal to prejudice. When you say that to us we want you to come forward with the evidence. You cannot do it!

A resolution was introduced in the last convention of our organization, ordering me to quit the National Civic Federation—to move out—that I was one of those who had been chloroformed. It would require a whole lot of chloroform to befog my mind into such a condition as to make me think like the man who brought that resolution into our convention. The resolution was overwhelmingly defeated. Chloroformed! Blinded! If this is the case, why do our fellow workmen select us to represent, protect and defend their interests in conference with manufacturers?

If the argument holds that we should leave the National Civic Federation, what about our religious affiliations and our political affiliations? Here again comes in the question of our rights as men and as citizens. The main contention of organized labor from the beginning has been that working men have the right to join any organization that is lawful and peaceful. When we have gone before the public in support of our cause, we base our argument on that fact. Now suppose this convention should pass the resolutions offered against the National Civic Federation, would it not be a restriction upon our liberties? If you should say that we cannot join the National Civic Federation because there are employers in that body who are antagonistic to organized labor, you would recognize that there is reason and logic in the argument of the employer, who says to his employes "You cannot join this trade union! Look who is at the head of it! Its representatives hold views which if put into execution would interfere with my interests; would interfere with my right to run my business as I see fit," and all that kind of claptrap. I fear there are some here who believe that by being members of the National Civic Federation we in some way compromise our trades unionism. I deny that.

I really believe this whole matter is out of order here. If the National Civic Federation is inimical to the interests of organized labor, I surely know enough to leave it and to come here and tell you why I had done so. If there is anything wrong with that body it ought to be exposed; but when you start to expose a thing, and you are addressing intelligent men, a mere statement is not sufficient; you must come forward with evidence and facts. The mere mention of Andrew Carnegie and other capitalists does not in this case prove anything. To base an argument on the dissipations of wealth, its banquets, its finances, its attitude toward labor is not the question at all. I believe that the mission and the object of organized labor is to make for brotherhood, more love for one another, more charity towards all people. To talk of more democracy and more liberal conditions of employment, and at the same time foment feeling between classes seems to me like a contradiction. It is something I cannot understand. Prejudice should be the farthest thing from our minds in this convention. If we do not believe in class differences and prejudices, let us try to abolish them ourselves. I am in favor absolutely of the report of the committee.

Delegate Lewis (T. L.).—Mr. Chairman, I want to make it clear first that the matter before this convention should not be clouded with other issues, and passion and prejudice should not be aroused by an attempt to make it appear that this is a proposition emanating from Socialists. I am not a member of the Socialist Party, and I am opposed to the report of the committee. I agree with Vice-President Hayes that he has a right to belong to anything he sees fit. He can retain his membership in the National Civic Federation if he desires as an individual and a citizen; he can join the Manufacturers' Association in a like capacity if he believes that it is a good thing; but as a wage earner, as a tax payer to the labor movement, as a member of the labor unions of this country and as a member of an affiliated International Union I have a right to give expression to my opinion as to whether it is good or bad for the labor movement and union men and women for our official staff to belong to the National Civic Federation.

I do not believe in attempting in any way to appeal to men's prejudices; but the Miners' Union in this country has in the last eleven years spent ten million dollars in defense of our right to organize and to secure what we believe is our right and a fair share of the results of our labor. That money has been spent for strikes alone, not counting the other cost to our membership. I am not going to discuss Andrew Carnegie, because he spends very little of his time in this country, only long enough to come over here and donate for charitable purposes some of the money I believe he is illegally taking from the wage earners of the United States.

Let me call your attention, Mr. Chairman, to something else. In the year 1908 we had a strike in the State of Alabama, a strike for our right to organize and to improve the working conditions of our people in that State. That year our fight was not against the independent coal operators of that state, our real fight was against the United States Steel Corporation, because that is the largest mining interest in that state and dictated the policy of the mine owners of Alabama. We find, according to this record of the National Civic Federation, that Mr. Henry Phipps is a member of the Executive Committee on behalf of the employers, and he is recorded here in this same volume as being a director of the United States Steel Corporation, address New York City. I cannot understand how under those circumstances that gentleman can be in harmony with the trade agreement idea or with the purposes of organized labor, when on the other hand he sits in the councils of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation to outline a policy to crush the Miners' organization in Alabama, and that was done with the assistance of the Governor of that State.

Those of you who know anything about the conflict in Alabama that year know that by orders of the Governor the tents we had furnished and erected on grounds we had leased were cut down by the soldiers of that state, working in conjunction with the policy of the United States Steel Corporation. I do not understand where the consistency of these men lies if they are in favor of union labor on the one hand, sitting in a meeting in New York with members of the National Civic Federation, and on the other hand go out and crush organized labor.

We find here another gentleman who is a member of the Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation from Cleveland, Ohio, Mr. Mather. Is there anybody in this hall who will attempt to defend his record as applied to organized labor on the docks of the Great Lakes? I want to find out why it is that they have crushed organized labor everywhere along the docks.

Here is another member of the Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation of Labor on behalf of the employers, Mr. Vanderlip, of New York. What is his position? He is President of the National City Bank. What is the National City Bank? It is the center that practically controls all the industries and the transportation system of the United States. Does anybody believe for a minute that Mr. Vanderlip's sympathies are with organized labor? I want to have, as stated by Vice-President Hayes, detailed, specific statements from men of the Civic Federation to show where those men have gone out and thrown the weight of their influence on the side of the working men in the contests that have taken place. I judge men, not by their association for a day or two, I judge men by what they actually do. And it may be interesting for this convention to know that when the United States Steel Corporation had issued its mandate that the Amalgamated Association had to be exterminated from every iron, steel and tin mill in this country, at the same time, according to the very best and most reliable information I have, they were contributing two thousand dollars a year to the support of the National Civic Federation. I do not see the consistency in the position of men who take the stand that the National Civic Federation has done good for the labor movement and is determined to continue to do good.

What is the first declaration in 1900 of the National Civic Federation? It states here, "First, that employers and wage earners should enter into annual or semi-annual agreements or contracts. Why did they change that next year? There is a clear-cut declaration which was a part of their purpose in 1900. In 1901 that language was changed. It was too plain. Then we find, "the scope and province of this Department shall be to do what may seem best to promote the industrial peace and prosperity." Who are going to be the judges as to what may seem best?

This Executive Committee is composed of men representing the public, composed of men representing employers of labor who have been always antagonistic, and composed of representatives of labor unions. There are three elements. If you will look over their names and investigate their records you will find the representatives of labor, to begin with, are handicapped by a vote of two to one, if even they were to vote on a question.

This continues, "To be helpful in establishing rightful relations between employers and workers." What are "rightful relations?" Who is to be the judge of what rightful relations are? The employers of labor? Retired capitalists representing the public, or we as the wage earners? I say we are better able to determine what the rightful relations are than the other fellows who are employing us.

It continues, "By its good offices to endeavor to obviate and prevent strikes and lockouts, and to aid in renewing the industrial relations where a rupture has occurred." Quite a difference in the opening declaration of 1901 and the opening declaration of 1900! They say things but they don't do things—that is the criticism we have. And what is true of Alabama is true of the coke regions of Pennsylvania; it is true of the Norfolk and Western Field of West Virginia; it is true of every section where the United States Steel Corporation controls, except where we are able by our own strength to compel them to recognize our right to organize and make contracts.

I am opposed, not to the individual belonging to the Civic Federation if he wants to; that is his business; but I am opposed to officials of the American Federation of Labor continuing their membership in the National Civic Federation. You would not be wanted there if you did not have an official title behind your name. They do not allow the men in the ranks to come to their meetings, take part in their discussions and ventilate their grievances. Not at all. There isn't anything at all in this volume that shows they discuss the industrial conditions; in fact, they declare it is not their purpose to handle abstract industrial propositions. What are we interested in if not in the questions that directly concern our surroundings, our earning power and the conditions of employment where we are working? And it is not fair to discuss these questions except from the standpoint of what those men have actually done. They have had ten years experience. Time to do something, and I want to know what they have done so far as establishing trade agreements between the organizations is concerned.

Brother McDonald has stated that we are instructed on this proposition. That is true, and in order that there may be no misunderstanding I want to inform this delegation that this question was brought to the attention of our convention one year ago last January through correspondence received by the President of the organization, but the matter was deferred or no action taken until January of this year. If you want to find out how intensely our people feel on this question, go out among the miners of the country who have contributed these millions in defense of their organization. You would be convinced.

I hope that this convention will keep in mind that our officials, the members of the Executive Council, while we have no right to dictate to them what they do in their individual or their citizenship capacity, we have a right to say to them how they shall represent our interests in defending our rights as wage workers and union men.

Vice-President Mitchell—As one delegate to the American Federation of Labor who is under instructions to vote in favor of a resolution carrying into effect the purposes of the resolution adopted by the Miners' convention, and as a man who perhaps more than any other man in this convention has been affected by the action of the Miners' convention, I want to have a few words to say.

First, let me ask that you be patient with me if I pursue my argument beyond the time determined by the rules of the convention.

I helped to organize the National Civic Federation. I helped to write its laws. The President of the American Federation of Labor, some other representatives of labor and myself wrote the declarations declaring for the trade agreement. For eight of the ten long years I was President of the United Mine Workers of America I was also a member of the Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation; and I make the statement now that no organization in the history of America ever grew so fast or secured so many advantages in the same period of time as while I was President of the Miners' Union and a member of the Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation. Indeed, I make the statement, and I defy contradiction, that the United Mine Workers of America, with its average increase of twenty-seven thousand members a year during that period, has not grown one member since the day I left official position; and all this progress and achievement were made while I was supposed to be suffering under the effects of chloroform administered by the National Civic Federation.

It is said we spent $10,000,000 in strike benefits. Yes, we did. I presume those figures are correct, but I assume we would have spent the $10,000,000 if the Civic Federation had never been dreamed of. But there is another statement that must go along with the declaration that we spent $10,000,000 in strike benefits. The statement must be made that we gained $500,000,000 in increased wages. It was a fine investment, an investment that the miners of the United States would be glad to make over again!

Now, I am a member of a great many organizations, and some of them count among their members and officers many of the same men who are officers, members or directors of the National Civic Federation. If you will be patient I will read the names of a few of the various organizations with which I am now and have been for many years connected: National Conference of Charities and Corrections; National Women's Trade Union League; Committee of One Hundred on National Health; The National Child Labor Committee; Child Conference for Research and Welfare; Commission to Inquire into the Question of Employers' Liability and into the Causes and Effects of Unemployment in the State of New York; American Association for Labor Legislation; Equal Franchise Society; Foundation for the Promotion of Industrial Peace; The Civic Forum; The People's Institute, New York City; Citizens' Recreation Committee; Society for the Promotion of Social and Industrial Peace; American Peace Society; National Conservation Commission; The Thomas Jefferson Memorial Society; Lecturer in the Course in Pastoral Functions, Yale Divinity School, Yale University; American Red Cross Society; National Society for Promotion of Industrial Education; National Committee on Prison Labor; North American Civic League for Immigrants; Committee on Safety of the City of New York; Travelers Aid Society of New York.

Those I have selected from among a large number in which I am a member or director, and upon the executive committees of most of those associations are to be found the names of men who are on the Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation; and who is there who would say I should withdraw my name and my influence from the splendid work those various associations have undertaken to do?

I said that for eight years of the ten years I was President of the United Mine Workers of America I was also a member of the National Civic Federation. The miners of the United States were well aware of my connection with the National Civic Federation. It was a matter of common knowledge. It had been brought to their attention on more than one occasion. Did they object? Not an objection of any moment was ever heard from the miners to my connection with the National Civic Federation. As a matter of fact, it was not until after I left the presidency of the United Mine Workers that a movement was started, not to take me out of the National Civic Federation, but to drive me out of the United Mine Workers of America. The movement did succeed, I am free to confess, in imposing upon me some hardships, in placing me in the position of either having to give up my employment, give up an association I regarded as honorable and helpful, or give up membership in the Union, the Union I have done so much to build, the Union that, unconsciously and perhaps incorrectly, I had learned to regard largely as a child of my own creation. However, to the disappointment of those who thought I would regard lightly my membership in that union, I gave up my position in order that I might continue to pay dues to the Union.

But, let me call attention to the fact that even after I left the Presidency of the United Mine Workers of America I had not lost the confidence of the miners. Indeed, at the very convention that amended the constitution and adopted these resolutions there was a report made of the ballots cast in the election of officers. Now you would naturally imagine that if representation in the National Civic Federation affected the standing of members of the Union, the members of the Miners' Union would have expressed their opposition when they had an opportunity of casting their votes. But what did they do? In keeping with their usual custom they gave to me the highest vote cast for any candidate for election as delegate to the convention of the American Federation of Labor. In that recorded vote 113,285 votes were cast for me, which is over 27,000 more votes than were secured by the next highest candidate, and 59,924 more than were received by the candidate elected as delegate to this convention, who had the lowest number of votes. Is that not an evidence of the confidence of the miners? Can it be construed by any flight of imagination as an indication that the miners had lost confidence in me because I was an officer of the National Civic Federation?

The National Civic Federation of which I was a member, I am no longer connected with, and I presume I never shall be again. It would not have required the amendment to our constitution to have me give up my membership in the National Civic Federation. The resolution would have done it just as well, because I would not have continued my membership in the National Civic Federation after a resolution had been passed by my organization denouncing it as unfair to organized labor.

I can truthfully say that, so far as my knowledge of the National Civic Federation goes, never by one act has it placed itself in opposition to the ideals of organized labor. It is very well to point out the names of men who do not stand well and who perhaps deservedly stand badly in the estimation of the organized workmen; but I say that common justice demands that we shall give to those employers of labor who have been in constant agreement with their workmen, who year after year make contracts with the representatives of organized labor, credit for what they have done. And among that group of men who are classed as employers there are many who have been continually in agreement with their organized workmen.

Mr. Carnegie! I am not here to defend Mr. Carnegie. God forbid that I should ever say one word in defense of a man who has struck a blow at organized labor. Yet Mr. Carnegie would tell you, if he were here, that he was not responsible for the riot at Homestead. I do not know as to the truth of his statements, but I only know he says himself that during his ownership of the Carnegie Mills he always had contracts with the Amalgamated Association, but during his absence in Europe Mr. Frick, perhaps the blackest and most relentless enemy of organized labor on this continent, took advantage of his absence and sought to scab the Homestead Mills. I don't know whether Mr. Carnegie tells the truth or not, I only know that that is what he says.

Mr. Carnegie may be a controlling factor in the United States Steel Corporation. However, my information is that he is a bondholder. And while I am not an expert in the management of corporations, my information is that bondholders are not directors and have nothing to say as to ing his absence in Europe Mr. Phipps, was a member and an officer of the National Civic Federation. But let me say, there is something that has not been said, and that is that following the Alabama strike Mr. Phipps was required to resign his membership in the National Civic Federation; and Mr. Elliot, of Harvard University, another one of those who lost no opportunity to assail the ideals of organized labor, was also required to give up his membership on the Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation. There is much to be said in order that the truth may be known and in order that the delegates to the Convention may cast their votes in accordance with the facts.

I am not going to talk on abstract propositions. I am not going even to suggest for the credit of the National Civic Federation those numerous settlements made by organized labor as a result of conferences secured by the representatives of the National Civic Federation, but I want to refer to a few specific instances in which I myself participated. It is true they did not involve millions of men, but they do indicate the real purpose of that organization. While I was chairman of the Trade Agreement Department, in the employ of the National Civic Federation, a dispute arose on the street car lines of the Scranton Street Railway Company. I was selected, as chairman of the Trade Agreement Department, as umpire in that dispute. The decision was absolutely in favor of the men. Shortly thereafter I was called on to arbitrate a dispute between the American Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Printing Pressmen's International Union, and the decision was unequivocally in favor of the Union. In fact, it was so much in their favor that the Publishers took an appeal, as they had a right to do under the terms of their contract, and my decision was reversed by one of the Supreme Court judges of the State of New York. That perhaps suggests to my mind that instead of being an impartial arbitrator my prejudice in favor of the Union had carried me beyond the safety line. Again, a dispute arose between the Tobacco Workers and the cigar manufacturers of Boston. Mr. Gompers represented the workers, a manufacturer represented the employers, and I refereed the dispute. That decision was written by Mr. Gompers. The manufacturer saw him write it, and the workmen are employed now, with my concurrence, under the terms of the agreement written by Mr. Gompers.

Now, just one other instance, before I speak of how the resolution was passed by the Miners' Convention. The last legislature in the State of New York enacted a comprehensive factory law, a law drawn by a commission of which I was a member, and which had on it also some of the same men who are on the Executive Committee of the National Civic Federation. The bill appealed to the organized workmen of New York, and they gave it their support. It was passed and sent to the Governor. The Governor, in accordance with his prejudice or perhaps in accordance with his policy of financial retrenchment, decided to veto the bill. An appeal was made to one of the great financiers of New York, a member of the National Civic Federation, the much-denounced August Belmont. August Belmont went to the Governor and asked him to sign that law, and the Governor signed it. That was not an evidence of hostility; that was regarded by those who knew of it as an evidence of friendship. I have here a letter written by a member of the Legislature who introduced the bill, extending his thanks to the National Civic Federation because of August Belmont's action.

How does this resolution come here? How does this resolution come here? Is it the expression of a majority of the delegates duly elected at the last annual Convention of the United Mine Workers of America? I say to you, and I am prepared to prove, that it is not. I say that a sufficient number of men voted for the resolution amending the constitution who were never elected by local Unions of the United Mine Workers of America, to secure its adoption. I say that I suspected when the action was taken, and I now know, that a large number of delegates, about fifty from one district alone—a large number of men, not delegates elected by local Unions—sat in that Convention with credentials fraudulently furnished to them and cast the votes that sent the resolution to this convention denouncing the National Civic Federation.

And, gentlemen, it is through action of that kind that I am compelled to sit here and cast my vote in opposition to the Committee's report. Some may say, "Why yield to these mandates?" Because I am a Union man. For the same reason that I said when they passed the resolution amending the Constitution, "My Union, May she ever be right, but right or wrong, my Union."

Let me first absolve, for fear misunderstanding may arise, my friend Duncan McDonald from any knowledge of the circumstances which I have just related; but I shall not soon forget, because of the sting in my heart, as long as God gives me life, I shall remember the circumstances surrounding me at the time this action was taken. Was I asked to come to the Convention to say a word in my own defense? No. No, those who conspired for this act waited until my hands were tied behind my back, waited until the government had figuratively placed its clutches on me, waited until I was seated in the Supreme Court room of the United States listening to the enemies of labor denouncing my associates and myself because of our advocacy of the cause of organized labor. And as we sat there, tied hand and foot, that was the day and that was the time that this resolution was passed.

Gentlemen, let no man misunderstand the purpose of this statement. It is not done to censure the members of my Union, because I am proud to say there are no better men, no more generous men, no more just men than comprise the membership of the United Mine Workers of America. I owe much to them, and I should be the last one on earth to cast aspersions upon them, and I would not advert to the subject surrounding the passage of this resolution were it not that I now have the full knowledge that the resolution was passed with the votes of men who had no right to seats as delegates in the Miners' Convention.

I would like, in order that there may be no misunderstanding as to what I have said, that a record of at least that part of my address dealing with the packing of the Miners' Convention shall be furnished, either in the daily minutes or directly to the delegates from the Miners' Union; because there is much I could say in connection with it; there is much I expect to say. I believe that in passing upon this, gentlemen, it should be passed upon without regard to the personalities of the labor men who sit as executive officers of the National Civic Federation. It should be passed on with the unbiased purpose of what will be for the greatest good of the men of labor. We should have, of course, due regard for that principle of organized labor that gives to its members, that guarantees and conserves to its members the widest possible civil, religious and social liberty.

Delegate McDonald (D).—I desire to ask the last speaker a question, with his permission. Delegate Mitchell made the statement that he had proof now that there were delegates seated in the last annual Convention of the United Mine Workers who had no right to be seated. If that is correct, I will ask him if he will furnish it to our next Convention when it meets?

Vice-President Mitchell.—I shall be delighted to furnish the evidence on which my statements are made.

Delegate McDonald (D).—I believe Brother Mitchell made it plain, and I want to make it more emphatic, that if there was any packing in that Convention—and while I suspected it at that time, I knew nothing about it, so far as proof is concerned—if he furnishes that evidence I believe he knows me well enough to be assured that I will go as far in having it cleared up as any delegate in that Convention. When the motion was made instructing the delegates to bring the resolution to this Convention, if they were all bought and paid for, about four-fifths of our delegates must have been bought and paid for.

At 12:40 the Convention was adjourned, to reconvene at 2:20 p. m. of the same day.

Eighth Day—Tuesday Afternoon Session

The Convention was called to order at 2:20 p. m., Tuesday, November 21st, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees: Pfell, Coakley, Dold, Gaviak, Ryan (Ed. H.), Kelly (William E.), Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Schneider, Hobbs, Davis (Wm. A.), Wangberg, Welsh (Edward F.), Fuller, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Welsh (Thomas E.), Creamer, Donnelly, Cornette, Lebowitz, Schaub.

Secretary Morrison read the following communication:

"New Orleans, La., Nov. 20, 1911.

"Hon. Samuel Gompers,
President American Federation of Labor,
Atlanta, Ga.

"My Dear Mr. Gompers:

"Urgent business of the Farmers' Union compels me to absent myself from further attendance upon the sessions of the Federation of Labor, a fact which I regret keenly. I have watched with interest and profit the growth of your splendid organization and appreciate to the farthest the mission it is accomplishing. I sincerely trust your sessions will be fruitful in good results and abundantly productive of good to the great cause in which you are enlisted. With best wishes, I am

"Very truly yours,

"C. S. BARRETT."

President Gompers—The question before the house is the recommendation of the Committee on Resolutions, and the substitute for the resolutions on the National Civic Federation. Are you ready for the question?

Delegate Abell—Is it the sense of the resolutions to restrict the action of the individual, or to restrict the action of the official, or to restrict the action collectively of the persons who hold positions both as officials and as individuals? What position does the chair understand the resolution to take?

President Gompers—That is an abstract proposition. The resolutions are before the house. The recommendation of the committee is before the house, and until it is finally adopted it is not within the province of the chair to place an interpretation on it. He cannot place an interpretation on an unadopted resolution. I think it is only fair that the entire subject shall again be read. There will then be no misunderstanding.

Delegate Frey, Secretary of the Committee, read Resolutions Nos. 10, 18 and 126, and the report of the committee.

Delegate Abell—The resolution presents the idea of the condemnation of the existence of the National Civic Federation. Then it takes up the question of the control of the individual or the official. The resolution does not state specifically the action desired in that respect. In the preamble of our constitution of the A. F. of L., we allow the individual his personal liberty in every respect. As an official we control that liberty. I cannot see where in the resolution is consistent in that respect, as long as it does not specifically state whether the ruling is asked in regard to our officials as officials of the American Federation of Labor.

Delegate McCullough (E. S.)—Mr. Chairman, being a representative from the United Mine Workers, and one who attached his name to that resolution, I feel like expressing my views on the matter in a brief way. So far as the National Civic Federation is concerned it differs only in form with many other methods that have been used during the past ages to deal with the problem of capital and labor. From the beginning of time, or so far as we have any recollection or knowledge of the struggle of humanity, we find various means and divers ways employed to deal with these conflicting interests. We have as one militant force on the economic field the Manufacturers' Association, which employs the method of extermination. We have the other, the Civic Federation, that employs the more enlightened and up-to-date method of mutual assimilation. Each has its own way of dealing with this great problem of the wage-worker and the employer of labor; but so far as their methods have been employed in the past and so far as their methods will be employed in the future, in my opinion, it all depends upon the economic strength of the wage-working class of this country as to what they will secure on the economic field. Just in proportion to the wage-workers' strength on the economic field will these chloroforming agencies be employed.

That word "chloroforming" has been resurrected and brought in use here and much comment has been made upon it. Whether or not the men who sit in that august body are being hypnotized or chloroformed, the wage-workers of this country do not propose to have the hypodermic run into them and the anesthetic administered by any one on that board. The wage-workers of this country are beginning to realize that if they gain anything on the economic field or the political field they must be united, and by their united political and economic power receive from the employers of labor that which rightfully belongs to them.

Take the history of every strike and every settlement that has been made in this country and you will find that the employer of labor never was willing to go into the halls of peace and fight it out there until he had been licked to a standstill on the economic field, or had measured the strength and power of organized labor on the economic field. They will only arbitrate, they will only grant to us those things our power allows us to take. Some of the speakers have claimed the right to join any society they choose. I believe the men who work and toil should have a voice in the affairs of this organization and that they should express their approval or disapproval of the methods of organization. I grant that any representative of labor has a right to belong to any organization he believes in, just so long as that organization is not opposed to or comes in contact with the principles of the wage-working class of this country. I believe the rank and file, the men who pay to this organization to keep up the officers who are the servants of the men who make this great organization, have the right to say: "You shall not belong to this organization." We have right in our individual capacity or as citizens of this country to belong to what we want to; but when we represent the men who toil, the men who struggle, the men who battle for their bread and butter in this world, they are the ones to tell us whether or not we should belong to such organizations as they deem inimical to their interests.

I don't know of any representative who belongs to the Civic Federation who ever came to their organization and asked for privilege to belong to it. They took the initiative. We have no criticism to offer as to the character of the labor representatives who sit in that council. We are not bringing any charges or any impeachment in any way against the integrity or the honesty of these men. What we claim is that the policy is wrong and that nothing can be secured from, by and through the methods of such men as represent the employers of labor, and the retired capitalists who represent the public. Their very lives have grown in an atmosphere hostile to the best interests of the wage-workers of the country. These men have no sympathy with us. They do not understand our wants and our rights. They have been raised in a world different from ours. They do not know the smell of powder smoke, they know nothing of toil in the mine, the mill or the factory, and they are not in sympathy with the wage-working class.

What does it mean to submit to them our proposition? I know that it has been said that peace hath her victories no less than war, but I want to say to you that when you take the history of the labor movement, you will have to admit we were more often defeated in the halls of peace than on the economic battlefield. We have lost when these men of keen mind have passed upon our claims in the halls of peace. And many a grand and glorious victory won on the economic battlefield has been lost in the halls of peace. Gentlemen, we will only secure that which we are strong enough to take. And I don't know that anything given to us would be worth the having. I have been in these conflicts all my life. I have met in these conferences for many years. I have listened to discussions and everything we have gained has been based upon the measurement of our strength and power. When we were weak no attention was given us. If we are strong enough to take they are willing to arbitrate and compromise.

So far as the United Mine Workers' Convention is concerned it was not a personal question. It may have been to some. No doubt it was. But in the great majority our Convention unanimously repudiated the Civic Federation. When it came to a division on the amendment to our constitution, many men believed it was casting reflection upon ex-President Mitchell and voted against the constitutional amendment. They said, as Mr. Mitchell has said here, that it was unnecessary, that all our Convention would have had to do would have been to express its displeasure of the Civic Federation and he would have resigned at once. Our people have confidence in Mr. Mitchell, as he said. His election as a delegate here has shown that it was not a personal question at all, because his personal friends voted to repudiate the National Civic Federation. It was not a question at all of Mr. Mitchell, it was a question of the growing sentiment of the coal miners, the men who worked at the pick, who believed the Civic Federation was but a chloroforming agency.

If we are going into diplomatic relations, if we are going to settle our differences in the halls of peace, then why assess our members to secure money to send organizers out to strengthen our forces on the economic field? Why don't those great friends of labor come to our rescue with their power to settle those questions? But, as has been said by a great many, "God save us from our friends," and when it comes to labor dealing with these great economic questions we can apply that to the men who claim to be friends to the labor movement and sit in that council. Their money is wrung from the blood and sweat of the workers. Let them make reparation, let them go back and take care of the widow and orphan whose husband and father they have killed. Then we as a militant force on the economic field will welcome them into the realms of peace legislation with the wage workers of this country. But so long as they are giving $2,000 a year to the cause of peace and spending millions in crushing labor, gentlemen, we don't believe in their sincerity.

There is a difference between the Manufacturers' Association and the National Civic Federation. We know where the manufacturers are. They are hostile, bitter and antagonistic to human interests and the wage-workers. We know them. The others we do not. They come in the guise<sup>o</sup> of sheep, but many of them are wolves in sheep's clothing. No doubt there are men on that board who are there honestly and truly for the benefit of the wage-working class; but as one member of the working class I want to say to you that I have no faith in these great employers of labor giving anything to the wage-working class only a sufficient amount to keep them quiet and from rising in their might and strength and power and shaking off the shackles that have bound them for so many years.

That is my private opinion, publicly expressed. There is nothing personal in this. When we are organized strong enough, when our men have come together in sufficient force and power to make themselves felt on the economic field, they are always willing to give to us that which belongs to us, but until we do there will be nothing but deferred hopes and blasted ambitions from what they intend to give us through the halls of peace.

Vice-President O'Connell—I had hoped during this discussion that if there was any evidence to be had it would be brought out. The resolution is of a denunciatory character, in the broad way it stamps with disapproval the National Civic Federation. It is to be expected that those who introduced the resolution would give us something that would warrant us in voting in support of their resolution, some evidence of the unfair character and makeup of the National Civic Federation.

I am not now a member of the National Civic Federation, although I was for a number of years. I was one of the early members of the National Civic Federation, when it was known only as a local organization in the city of Chicago, before it moved to New York and became of a national character. I know something of its early history and its associations. I know something of the benefit it has been to me and to the trade in the organization I represent. I have attended its conferences and I have attended some of its dinners, not all of them.

If you propose to denounce a man or men in an association and declare them unfair, there should be some evidence to substantiate that sort of thing. The broad assertion that the National Civic Federation is inimical to the best interests of labor and that it is fostered and maintained and financed by the enemies of labor, is not shown here. The mere fact that there may be one or two or a dozen men associated with that body whose past records may show unfriendliness towards labor, unfairness towards labor, does not indicate by any means that the institution or the association is unfair in any way. The mere fact that Mr. Carnegie is associated in some way with the National Civic Federation, and according to one of the gentlemen who has addressed us today, is a bad man, a bad actor, does not prove to me that the National Civic Federation in itself or its makeup is a bad thing.

If a preacher falls from grace, as he does sometimes, it is no indication that we should tear the churches down. If a union man becomes intoxicated it is no evidence that the union is drunk. And because Mr. Carnegie and other men whose names have been mentioned, and some whose names have not been mentioned, are associated with the National Civic Federation, is no evidence at all to me that the principle and purposes for which the National Civic Federation was organized, and so far as I know stands, are not good things.

Some few years ago the men of my trade in the part of the country where our Convention is now being held, the southeast territory, were involved in a great railroad strike. All the way from Washington to New Orleans the roads were tied up. They fought for months. No adjustment of the strike could be brought about. Conferences were finally broken off. We fought and spent out money. Thorough the good offices of the National Civic Federation President, then Mr. Seth Low, a conference was arranged for with the Southern Railroad Company representatives in the city of New York. I went to New York, taking with me a delegation of our own men from the system. Through the good offices of the Civic Federation an adjustment of that strike was brought about, and today it is a union system all the way through. There is not one non-union machinist employed on that railway system, not one non-union man in the mechanical department.

There have been other conferences brought about through the officers of that organization. They have brought us in conference with our employers throughout the country with whom we had fallen out.

A bank was spoken of this morning as the institution that finances the corporations of this country. Settlements in this part of the country were gone about and the men are in full contract and agreement with the railways. Is there any evidence there of unfairness? Is there any evidence of being chloroformed? The hours have been shortened, the wages increased and their working conditions have been improved. Only this last year we met in joint conference and a joint agreement between all our organizations was brought about in one conference in the city of Washington, settling all this territory in the very short period of a couple of weeks.

This thing of denouncing men and denouncing associations is most popular with some men. It is very easy to throw mud, and if you throw it continually some of it is bound to stick some place; and it is the habit and becoming the custom for some men in the labor movement and for some alleged newspapers in the labor movement, to continually throw mud and hammer men and denounce men and misrepresent men and poison the minds of the members of the organizations against their officers with no evidence of wrong, with no evidence of weakness on their part at all; but simply to destroy them because they may not agree with them on some economic matters, because they may not believe with them on political matters.

I do not think I disgraced myself or my organization by sitting down in a hotel and eating dinner in a room as big as this hall, where there were millionaires and paupers—I include myself in the latter class—any more than if I would sit down to dinner with Mr. Carnegie at a church fair. I have the same right to sit at a church luncheon or at a banquet or anywhere else I think I can be of service to the men I represent in the labor movement.

This organization, the American Federation of Labor, may have the power to pass resolutions here declaring the officers cannot belong to the National Civic Federation or any other association. They may have the power to say they shall not belong—whether they have the right or not is another question. You have the power to say the President of the American Federation shall wear a wooden leg if you want to. You have the power, if you desire, to say that he must be red-headed, but whether you have a right to do those things or not is another question. If you are going to curtail the liberties, the rights and the possibilities of the officers of the American Federation of Labor and from the American Federation of Labor, of course, will go back to the International Unions the atmosphere created here, naturally they will follow in your footsteps.

If the power and influence of the leaders of the labor movement are going to be curtailed here at the whim of some few men who come here to denounce us, they should at least give some reasons for doing it. I know of nothing in all my associations in the National Civic Federation where we did not see that our interests were taken care of, rather than leave these things alone to be taken care of by the enemies themselves. We have discussed the labor question with the men on the other side in the National Civic Federation, and I think I may safely say that the men who have been on the Executive Board of the National Civic Federation from the labor organizations have been fully able to take care of their side.

Yes, go ahead; Pass your resolutions! Denounce right and left! Come back next time and denounce somebody else or some other association! It is easy to pass resolutions, but they mean nothing. Some of them are not worth the paper they are written on. They only furnish an opportunity to give vent to somebody's feelings! I believe the National Civic Federation or something of the kind—I don't care what you call it, a rose by any other name would be just as sweet, it would be a rose just the same—has possibilities and opportunities of extending our opportunities and our benefits. There are opportunities there of meeting men you cannot meet elsewhere, and trying to inject into their make-up some knowledge of what the labor movement stands for.

I am not afraid to trust my interests in the hands of the leaders in the labor movement. I prefer to have them do it rather than to have some shyster lawyer, or mushroom organization, or seceding organization do it. I want the leaders to do it. Make your leaders responsible, authorize them, hold them responsible. If you don't do that you have no right to criticize. They are breaking no rule, they are breaking no law, they are breaking no resolution that has been passed. But be careful that you do not overstep the bounds of propriety in this matter and do something that may pull down on your own heads the house you have erected. There is danger ahead. Today you say your officers cannot belong to the National Civic Federation. Next time you may say they have got to be Catholics or Protestants. Then the next time you will say they have got to be democrats or socialists. And the next time you may come back and say something else, and after while you will have rebellion in your ranks. The wisest policy is to move along lines of least resistance, and the least resistance in this case would be for the men who introduced those resolutions to investigate and then come back and show us something wrong in the Civic Federation besides mentioning a number of men's names.

I believe the report of the committee is correct at this time. No evidence has been shown that the National Civic Federation is anything except what it stands for. The fact that there are in its ranks some men who may be unalterably opposed to organized labor means nothing. Until something is shown other than has been shown by the authors of the resolution, I am going to maintain the position I have taken, and support the report of the committee.

Delegate Wilson (W. B.)—Like a number of those who have preceded me I represent the United Mine Workers of America and consequently am instructed to support resolutions of a character represented in these three. And yet I doubt whether the instruction goes sufficiently far to authorize me to vote for either one of the resolutions. It will be observed that each one of them not only deals with the officers of this organization, but with the membership as well. I believe that this organization has a perfect power within itself to determine what the qualifications of its officers shall be. The fundamental right to define it along the lines here expressed is another proposition. But I positively deny that this organization has any right to determine the qualifications for membership in the United Mine Workers of America or any other affiliated organization. If we have the right to define the qualifications for membership in the United Mine Workers, then we have the same right to remove disqualifications. If we have a right to say to the membership of that organization, "You must not belong to the National Civic Federation," then we have the same right to say to that organization, "You must repeal that portion of your law which prohibits your membership from belonging to the National Civic Federation," and I do not believe my instructions carry me far enough to take that ground. Nevertheless I will give to my organization the benefit of the doubt, and when this question comes to an issue will vote in opposition to the report of the committee.

In discussing this question I will endeavor to be as impersonal as it is possible for me to be under the circumstances, where the sole issue presented to the Convention is the personnel of a portion of the National Civic Federation. The National Civic Federation has two very definite and distinct purposes. One of them is to provide a forum where the viewpoints of all men representing various lines of ideas may be presented to the world; and the other purpose is to foster, as far as possible, collective bargaining. Both of these purposes, in my judgment, should be taken advantage of by the American Federation of Labor and every organization affiliated with it. It may be the benefits derived therefrom will not be great; it may be that the influences there exerted may not redound to the benefit of all our industrial organizations; but it must be admitted by those who have observed the workings of the Civic Federation that at least some good has come from it and that no harm has come.

There have been statements made on the floor of this Convention that if any man demonstrated that the Civic Federation had at any time been of benefit to the labor movement it would not be condemned. Other statements have simply alleged that certain individuals who are associated and connected with the Civic Federation are also directors of large industrial institutions where the conditions of workers are deplorable. And there has not been a statement made upon the floor of this Convention relative to the condition of the workers in the plants mentioned that has been overdrawn. I have seen those conditions myself; I have been in some of those fights that have been mentioned, and I know that the picture of the horrible conditions of the workers in the plants of the United States Steel Corporation have not been overdrawn. I know that similar conditions exist in the plants of other corporations, and I have noticed in the past where the owners of the plants have been grinding down to the very lowest possible standard of existence those toilers who produce their wealth. And yet when those conditions existed we have gone out, using every means within our power, to seek a conference with those individuals so that we might enter into trade agreements with them and better the conditions of those who were toiling under those circumstances. And if it is an advantage, and I assert it is, to have those trade agreements, then every movement that tends to bring about those trade agreements should be fostered. It is no argument to say that those men are responsible for those horrible conditions. Every man who is a representative of an international trade organization on this floor knows that men who have any part of the control of those corporations where those conditions prevail should not be avoided, we should get as near to him as possible in order to change those conditions.

The National Civic Federation has given an opportunity of that kind. It is true that those opportunities are limited; but just in so far as they give us any opportunity whatever we ought to avail ourselves of it. I believe that the trade union movement is, or ought to be, aggressive, it ought to utilize every opportunity that presents itself. Anything that tends to move us to a higher standard of living and a higher plane of civilization should be taken advantage of. We cannot afford to refuse to accept any of those opportunities that present themselves. They are too few.

Yes, it is true the conditions exist in Alabama that have been cited; it is true that conditions of that kind exist in the coke regions of Pennsylvania; it is true that those conditions exist in the steel plants of the country; it is true those conditions exist in many other industries; and it is also true that we will not solve the problem and change those conditions until by some method we are brought into touch with the employers of labor and an opportunity is given us to enter into contractual relations, thereby changing existing conditions.

So while I shall vote against this report of the committee, personally, individually, I heartily concur in it and say to you here and now that if you believe your officials are not trustworthy, that they cannot be trusted to present your viewpoint to the enemy wherever they get the opportunity, then, instead of passing a resolution of that character, the proper thing for you to do is to turn those officials out that you cannot trust and place others in there that you can trust, and make the issue clean-cut, square, open and above board.

Delegate Hayes (M. S.).—Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen: I have listened with a great deal of interest to the debate on the question now before the house, and I am frank to admit that from statements that have been made by some of the delegates on the floor I am more firmly convinced than I ever have been before that the National Civic Federation is an economic absurdity. And I want to discuss this question, not from the point of view of any of the resolutions adopted by international organizations or now before this Convention, or aimed at any individual. I have the highest regard for John Mitchell as a union man and a citizen. I can say the same thing for Sam Gompers and other men who are connected with the National Civic Federation. I have a right, however, to disagree with them respecting principles and policies. I will not even admit, although in the Miners' organization there may be factional differences, individual likes and dislikes, that John Mitchell himself built up the United Mine Workers, because I know there are many efficient officials and many of the rank and file who made great sacrifices during the past decade or more in organizing that body, in the same manner that men in all our international unions have struggled night and day to build up their organizations.

Let it be understood that this is not a fight in which the personalities of delegates are involved. The question is: Is the Civic Federation as at present constituted a benefit to the working people of this country? Neither am I discussing these questions from the point of view that I might be accused of envy in not being a member of the National Civic Federation, for I was given an invitation to join that body by one of its promoters, the late Senator Hanna. I told him no, that the Civic Federation could not change the economic evolution that is going on in this and every other civilized country under the sun, despite the fact that some of the individuals may be more or less in sympathy with our labor movement whose interests are allied on the other side. I believed that then and I am more firmly convinced of it now.

Why was the Civic Federation organized? Fifty years ago when the industries of this country were only being developed, when the tools with which the working class toiled were in a primitive state, there were no class alignments such as we observe under the phenomenal expansion of modern capitalism. Fifty years ago the employer usually was acquainted with or worked with his employees, and it was an easy matter to adjust differences that may have occurred in workshop, factory or mine. But under the inventive genius of our age the primitive tools of production that our grandfathers used become obsolete and were thrown upon the junk heap, to be supplemented by labor saving devices which gradually assimilated capital about them, until it was an impossibility for an individual worker, or a co-partnership of workers, or a company, or even a corporation such as existed immediately preceding the Civil War to own and operate profitably these new machines with which we produce and distribute wealth.

The result was that the companies, co-partnerships and gradually the corporations were merged after the great political campaign of 1896. After the polls were closed and the results were known corporations were merged into trusts and combinations so rapidly that

It was an impossibility for the most careful student of modern economics to follow them. Now with the rapid concentration of capital there arose a new problem that was discussed among the leaders of American finance—the captains of industry, if you please. And they said to themselves, “The people of this country oppose trustification of industry and the abolition of competition. Something must be done, something must be placed on foot to divert the attention of the masses of the people, and particularly the working men who are under the domination of the trusts.” From 1896 to 1900, in the space of four years, there were more than five hundred great trusts and combinations of capital organized. These trusts, according to the very best obtainable data today, control more than two-thirds of the manufacturing capital in America. As these trusts were formed and broke down and drove out of existence independent concerns their monopoly became more pronounced and a great outcry went abroad in the land. Anti-trust agitation was started, and some of the political demagogues came out and made promises to the American people—and I refer to demagogues who stood for the presidency down to the constable of your village—that if elected to power they would see that this burden that was heaped upon the people of America in the shape of over-capitalization of these trusts would be materially lightened, either through federal regulation or “busting” the trusts. Up to date I don’t believe any of us were compelled to duck our heads to keep from being hit by flying pieces of trusts! It is true several of the trusts were smashed by a Supreme Court decision. The Standard Oil combination, the Tobacco Trust were smashed, but I have not yet heard that John D. Rockefeller has been compelled to knock at the door of the infirmary in Cleveland to ask for a hand-out, or that the Tobacco Trust magnates have distributed their trust stocks among their employees who produce the wealth for them.

So they said, “In view of the intensified struggle between the two elements in wealth production, the owners of labor power and the owners of capital, that is inevitable we will prepare for the future.” And they did. They organized the National Civic Federation with the distinct purpose in view of attempting to appease the demands of the workers for more of the wealth they knew they were producing; but while wealth, by some subtle method known only to capitalism was extorted from the miner, the worker in the factory, the shop, on the farm, and piled up for a comparatively few individuals. These five hundred trusts were organized. If I am not mistaken, in previous Conventions, particularly in Detroit and in Kansas City, we discussed this thing, and I know there are delegates on this floor right now who ridiculed the idea of American industry becoming centralized and monopolized in our own life time. And yet today the leading capitalist newspapers, The New York Sun, The Cleveland Leader and other publications have printed the statement that John D. Rockefeller controls more than five billion dollars of capital, that J. P. Morgan, through his interests, controls more than eight billions of capital. Then we have the Carnegies, the Goulds, the Vanderbilts and various other of the new American nobility, who likewise control billions of this capital.

And as the power of these combinations has increased just so much more of a bludgeon was placed in the control of J. P. Morgan—who is the walking delegate of American capitalism—to be used against the working class when they make a demand for better conditions. In this short period of half a century the wealth production of the workers of this country has increased enormously. In 1850 and 1852, when the first figures were collected in the matter of the production of wealth, the workers received about 80 per cent, but steadily the ratio has gone towards zero, until today it is estimated that the worker receives only about 17 per cent. Today the worker, as has been demonstrated by statistical information, produces more than the worker in any other civilized country in the world, and in proportion to the amount produced receives less.

So we are going ahead producing wealth at an accelerated pace, but we are not producing fast enough, and they are springing a new scheme to compel the workers to speed up the machine in the shape of “efficiency” methods. They intend to wipe out waste on every hand. That is all right, I have no objection, but they are driving the machinery and compelling you to produce more and still more wealth, under the excuse that we must go into competition with Germany and Great Britain in the markets of the world to dispose of the two billion surplus wealth we cannot consume. We are going to consume it in foreign countries instead of here at home.

Now I want to refer, in order to illustrate this point as clearly as possible, to an article that appeared a little more than two years ago in the New York Press, one of the largest daily newspapers in the United States, in discussing the centralization of capital. The New York Press, being owned by a great corporation, is not in the habit of posing as a labor sheet, Socialistic or otherwise. In discussing the enormous income of one individual the New York Press said that John D. Rockefeller's income is now computed at $2.06 a second, $123.00 a minute, $7,420.00 an hour, $178,000 a day, $1,246,000 a week, and $65,000,000 a year. In order to show what this means the New York Press goes on to say that if the daily income were paid to Rockefeller in twenty dollar gold pieces they would number a little more than 8,900. These piled one on top of the other would reach to the height of a six-story building. I judge this is an average four story building to the roof. Put two more stories on, pile up $20 gold pieces from the sidewalk to the roof, and you have the income of John D. Rockefeller for twenty-four hours, that is absorbed from the toll and sweat of the working class of this nation. Placed on the scales the daily income would amount to 741 2-3 pounds, or more than five times the weight of the richest man in the world. Of course he invests the greater part of that $65,000,000 a year in new stocks and bonds and securities, and he has acquired control of about forty trusts, among which is a large share of the ownership of United States steel. In company with J. P. Morgan Mr. Rockefeller is substantially in control of the huge steel trust. It stands to reason, it is perfectly logical, that J. P. Morgan, through George W. Perkins and through H. C. Frick and other distinguished gentlemen, is satisfied and perhaps willing to chip in quite liberally for the purpose of paying the running expenses of an organization that has been formed and the purpose of which is to divert attention, to chloroform, to hypnotize the working people of this country to the abject conditions that exist.

Reference has already been made to the terrible battles that have been forced upon the workers in many of the trades. The miners have felt the power of the Steel Trust, the coal miners in some of the districts, the metal miners up in the Lake Superior region, the men on the docks down on Lake Erie and up around Duluth. And some of the railway men, I am informed, have been victimized by the United States Steel Corporation during the last two years. We know what happened to the tin plate workers. Don't you suppose that Morgan is keen enough to understand that if he can destroy these organizations it will enhance his privileges, his profits and increase his wealth?

I might go on and refer to Belmont's attack on the street railway employes, or to the three years' struggle of the sailors on the great lakes, and they are still compelled to fight the Pittsburg Steamship Company, one of the creatures of the United States Steel Corporation. The Harriman system at the present time is controlled by Krutchnitt and others of those sanctimonious plutocrats in the Civic Federation, where they dine once a year with our brothers, where they go and say, "We really ought to do something for the poor working man!" And when they get through with their champagne drunk they hand it to the working man! How long is this centralizing system to go on? If two-thirds of the capital of the country is centralized in a dozen years, how many more years will it be until the little one-third remaining is absorbed by J. P. Morgan and Company? When that is absorbed we can crown the Honorable J. Pierpont as the monarch of American industry!

We are confronting a very grave crisis. Don't forget that when you men came into this world the most of you had opportunity still to acquire a livelihood. Many had opportunities to possibly secure a chance to go into business and become independent, whereas today the entire middle class, even the retailers and wholesalers in practically all lines of business have simply become the clerks of the monopolized system of American industry. If the trades have been or are being revolutionized by the introduction of labor-saving machinery, if centralized capital has acquired control of that machinery, what future confronts your boy and your little girl that you have brought into the world! Those are things that come home to you if you are thoughtful citizens, and you and you alone must solve the problem. And for that reason I am opposed, upon the ground merely of the principle of the thing, to being affiliated directly or indirectly with such an institution as the National Civic Federation, which is simply attempting to obscure the lines of demarcation between the working class on the one side and capitalism on the other.

Delegate Lynch (J. M.)—I am a member of the National Civic Federation and have been for ten years. I don't believe that if the National Civic Federation would dissolve Rockefeller would lose all his money. When I went into the National Civic Federation the International Typographical Union had 35,000 members. Now it has 55,000 members, and they are earning millions of dollars more than they did ten years ago, and that despite the chloroform that has been administered to the organization on account of my affiliation with the National Civic Federation. I think my colleague has indicated the spot the chloroform has found.

The National Association of Manufacturers is also opposed to the National Civic Federation, and the National Manufacturers' Association, in declining to send representatives to a conference called by the Civic Federation, expressed its opinion of the organization Delegate Hayes is affiliated with by this paragraph:

"In this connection, I will express the hope that the day is not far distant when the National Civic Federation will clear its literature of the union label and will stand squarely before the public committed absolutely to the interests of all the people, and freed forever from any alliance with the labor trust and from any affiliation with labor union demagogues."

So that by his opposition to the Civic Federation my colleague is in distinguished company.

Delegate Hayes referred to the plutocrats who dine once a year with our brothers, and also referred to a "champagne drunk." I have attended these dinners. I don't know whether it was because of my capacity or not, but I never came away from them drunk with champagne, and I never saw any other labor leader or official who came away drunk with champagne. I want to say to the delegates that the officers of the labor organizations who are associated in the Civic Federation meet the captains of industry on the forum of the Civic Federation and render a good account of labor's interests.

Now the proposition before the house is not so much opposition to the Civic Federation as it is opposition to the gulleless labor leaders associating with certain men who belong to the Civic Federation. If that is good doctrine as applied to the National Civic Federation it is good doctrine as applied to other associations. If it is good as applied to the Civic Federation, it is good as applied to the Newspaper Publishers' Association. Ten years ago when we made a contract with the Newspaper Publishers' Association, Otis was a member and he opposed any relations with the International Typographical Union. Since then we have increased wages in ninety-five per cent of the cities where we have gone to arbitrate with the newspaper publishers, and Otis is still a member of the Newspaper Publishers' Association. Reasoning the same way as the delegates who have spoken of Carnegie and others, there can be but one conclusion, and that is that the officers of the International Typographical Union, when they took up the negotiations with the Newspaper Publishers' Association made a mistake, that they have made a mistake in continuing their relations with the Newspaper Publishers' Association despite the increase made in wages. Their argument is fallacious, to start with, founded on false reasoning and not worthy of consideration.

From what I know of the National Civic Federation through my association with it, and what I know of my brother officers of other organizations who are members of the Civic Federation, and from what I know from being on the ground—not from what I surmise and not what suits my particular theory—I am going to support the report of the committee.

Vice-President Mitchell—I would like to ask Delegate Lynch if the eight-hour strike of the Butterick Company was brought to a successful end through the good offices of the National Civic Federation?

Delegate Lynch—The negotiations were opened through Mr. John Mitchell, who was then chairman of the Trade Agreement Department. We had tried for four years to open negotiations, but were unable to do so until it was done through the influence of Mr. Mitchell, then chairman of that department.

Delegate Walker (J. H.)—I want to make clear one phase of the discussion this morning that may lead to some confusion in the minds of the delegates, or that may leave a false impression.

The amendment to the Constitution of the United Mine Workers of America which prohibits our membership from belonging to the National Civic Federation was adopted by a roll call vote. There were something like 443 votes in the affirmative and 378 in the negative, or a majority of 165 in favor of amending the constitution. As those who are familiar with our law know, each delegate can cast five votes. A delegate has a vote for each 100 members and an additional vote for each hundred or majority fraction his local union represents. If there were fifty-four delegates from one state under the pay of some outside influence and they cast their votes on this roll call amending the constitution, then, so far as that amendment is concerned, it is quite possible that if there were no paid delegates from anywhere else the votes that were brought there and paid for by those outside influences were the balance of power that amended our constitution. There were two motions on this subject. The original resolution contained a condemnation of the National Civic Federation, and also a provision to amend the constitution to prohibit our membership from belonging to that organization. I knew, although I could not prove it, that while a great many of our members—and I was one and am yet—were not favorable to the Civic Federation as at present constituted, were willing to condemn it—and I don't usually do that without giving the worst enemy I have a hearing—I did know that the condemnation of the Civic Federation on the part of those who were responsible for raising the money that was paid to bring the delegates there to do that dirty work were in there for the sole purpose of destroying John Mitchell, if it were possible to do it, and the condemnation of the Civic Federation was the kite on which that tail was hung.

I took the matter up with some of the men responsible for the introduction of the resolution and they agreed to modify it. And it was modified so that it would not affect the membership of any one so far as our constitution is concerned. However, I knew in my own heart that John Mitchell would not remain in the National Civic Federation after unfavorable action in our own Convention; but I wanted to give him the right of his own volition to pursue the course he believed best, rather than apparently put it in the light of using a club on him. Those men agreed with me and the resolution was changed. It was adopted, and, in so far as we were concerned, we thought that ended it. But men are not going to pay $10,000 to corrupt an organization for a certain specific purpose and then drop it as long as there is a hope of their accomplishing their purpose, so they again renewed their efforts and a roll call was had on that matter, with the vote as stated to you from our official records.

I am one of those also who do not believe in attacking either men or institutions for what they say they are going to do. I also would rather judge from what they actually do. I want to say to you that when the United Mine Workers of Illinois were in the midst of one of the bitterest troubles they ever went through—and I was their President at that time—when 25,000 of our members had won out in the struggle, had a contract signed up carrying with it an increase in wages, better conditions that meant more in money than their wages amounted to, that meant saving the lives of men and the health of our members, John Mitchell, Chairman of the Trade Agreement Department of the National Civic Federation, voted and helped us win that struggle, and the man in our organization I consider the biggest Judas since Judas himself lived, lined up with the Coal Operators' Association, went behind doors in secret and stabbed those men in the back, trying to make them lose out in the fight, give up what they had won and take the life out of our movement. I say, "Yes, I would like to judge men by what they do rather than by what they say."

I want to point out things I do not like to do about the present status of this question. I venture to say there is not an official of the labor movement who is connected with the National Civic Federation who, if he could honestly believe that this question was acted on there and because of that action brought here, because of the honest belief of the best part of the actual workers that it was the best thing to do, and that there was no personal animus in the matter, no personal prejudice or desire on the part of some one to grind an axe of his own, I venture the assertion that if, so far as the United Mine Workers are concerned, they did not believe there was a tool of the coal operators who was using it as a method of getting campaign propaganda for himself to get control of our organization, there would not be much opposition or ill feeling of any description connected with their attitude in this matter.

In less than ten years a certain man, who started in as a labor reporter and acted as a go-between in the different conferences in a portion of the country where our industry is located, working for ten-times millionaires, made men, originally good, traitors to our organization in our international convention through that same influence, and that the people originally responsible for this thing being here had paid representatives at that gentleman's service, and the prospects were that if they were successful there might be some more millionaires, that being the real object they had in mind. If these things were not true, gentlemen, this matter under consideration would not have taken up much time, either with the men on the one side or the other.

I don't like, because of my convictions, to have to get in with a bunch of that kind, because it is not safe for them or for me. For the first time in our history a candidate for office in our organization has been able to make a campaign tour which has only been equalled by President Taft. Presumably he has been paying the expenses out of the wages he has made digging coal—and I doubt whether he has dug enough coal to cook your breakfast on a gasoline stove! These are the things at the bottom of this proposition. And this is what I had in mind in our own organization—and there isn't a bit of danger of that bunch ever getting control of the organization again. I want to point out that in every instance where the paid hirelings of the organizations that were trying to disrupt the labor movement had been uncovered they have been gentlemen who pursued those tactics to get control of the organizations to disrupt them and serve the men and earn the money they have been paid from the other side. In the Western Federation, in the eastern organization, wherever one of those snakes has been uncovered, that is the kind of tactics he has been using. They pick out some phase of the questions under consideration that they can use for the time being without detriment to the people who are paying them their Judas pieces of silver, try to destroy the men that cannot be used or bought and get themselves into power. They generally select an issue that they can appeal to men on, and in which they can use men innocently who are acting from honest convictions. I have honest convictions in opposition to the Civic Federation as at present constituted, but they are not using me innocently, and I am going to see to it that everybody else I can inform on the subject knows that they are not using me that way.

I believe that it will be for the best interests of the labor movement if we have an open forum that will enable able men from the different organizations in time of trouble to meet the men on the other side face to face and make our position clear and plain to the entire world. I believe such a thing as that would be beneficial, I believe an institution of that kind could be arranged for in such a way that we could get the most good possible from it, and at the same time protect every interest of the workers. I believe ultimately such a thing will be done. And I know, gentlemen, that the men representing the labor movement in the Civic Federation, at least in so far as one of them is concerned, one who has been an official of our organization, who gave up $8,000 a year so that he could belong to the Coal Miners' Union, is not going there to betray our interests. I honestly believe that he and others went there because they could take advantage of this institution and the opportunity it gave them to derive benefit for the rank and file of the organizations they were members of. I believe that some of the employers who are in there have absolutely the motives ascribed to them by Delegate Hayes. I believe a majority of the employers are in there in the hope of being able to get something out of us they could not get any other way. I doubt very much that the men who are supposed to represent the public, the men who are supposed to be disinterested, impartial humanitarians, would or could get a vote from the labor unions declaring them to be such if they had a chance to pass judgment on them.

If we were engaged in a great labor struggle and the other side said, "Here, we are willing to refer this thing to the National Civic Federation as at present constituted," we could not very well refuse, and it would be absolutely suicide to not refuse. The employers who are known to be opposed to organized labor would have as much voting strength as the men who are representing organized labor. Among the fellows who represent the public at the present time, so far as I am capable of judging, there is not one of them who would vote for us under any circumstances if he could avoid it. Here we would be in a position of refusing to refer a dispute to an organization comprised of practically all the officials of the labor movement in our country. That would put us in an ugly light before the public; and if we did not refuse and let it go there they would have a majority and control the settlement of it.

I believe some day we will be able to evolve a plan along the same line we do business with the coal operators, where every man on each side will have the same voting strength. They cannot commit us to anything unless we agree to the proposition. If it can be instituted along those lines and an open forum made of it for the discussion of all our troubles as workers, I think it would be a good influence and something beneficial to us. And if the employers' associations of this country want to take up that kind of a proposition and come here to the Federation and offer to organize along those lines, then we could take it back to our unions and find out whether or not they were willing to have an open forum here, then come back and organize in such a way that what good could come from it we would get, and we would be absolutely protected from any harm.

In passing judgment on this matter I am going to vote in accordance with the instructions of my Convention, notwithstanding that I know one of the henchmen of this hireling Judas, who served as a strike breaker in Maryland, served as a guard, served as a solicitor for scabs and testified in court—perjuring himself to send our men to jail—worked for the passage of that resolution. I will stand for what the majority of my organization says we shall do, because I believe in their hearts they wanted to do what was right, and just as soon as they make a mistake and the facts are called to their attention they will rectify it. That is why I will vote as I shall on this proposition, although, as I said, if it were coming up here without any axe to grind on the part of any one, without any paid hirelings working under cover for position in the movement to betray it if there is advantage to themselves in doing so, if it came here purely as an honest measure, I would vote in opposition to our members or officers belonging to the Civic Federation at the present time, as it is at present constituted, because I feel it cannot do much good except as the individual members of our side that are in it can do good, and possibly at some time it may do real, serious injury if it is continued as it is at the present time.

Delegate McDonald (D.)—In view of the fact that I introduced a resolution on this matter, and in order to get this matter clearly before the Convention, I would like to have Delegate Walker state if his remarks had any reference to me.

Delegate Walker—In reply to that question I want to say that I voted with Brother McDonald on the question when it carried with it a condemnation of the Civic Federation. I do not believe there is a truer, cleaner trade unionist in the country than Brother McDonald, and I want to say in reference to the Alabama coal miners' strike that if John Mitchell or Duncan McDonald had been President of the miners' organization the Steel Trust would not have prevented us from winning it.

Delegate Mahon—I want to speak on a phase of this question about which a great deal has been said throughout the country, the subway strike, but before touching on that I want to touch on my own reason for being a member of the National Civic Federation. I cannot date my membership back to the early formation of the Civic Federation, for it had been in existence some time when I became a member. My first connection with that organization, or my first dealing with it, was at a time when our men in San Francisco first organized and went on strike. I received a telegram through President Gompers inviting me to come at once to New York in connection with our San Francisco strike. I reached New York on Sunday, met John Mitchell at the hotel and he introduced me to Senator Hanna. Senator Hanna informed me that the representatives of the San Francisco Company had been reached and desired me to come on and meet with them.

The strike at San Francisco had come on very suddenly, as the delegates from that portion of the country will remember. I telegraphed to San Francisco for copies of our agreement, and on Sunday morning, according to the arrangements made by the Senator at that meeting, the treasurer of our organization and myself met with the President of the San Francisco Railway Company. We went into a side room of the Civic Federation and discussed our agreement, only the three of us being present, for some time. We went over the entire agreement, and we succeeded in chloroforming Mr. Calhoun and getting him to agree to the demands of our men on the Coast. Word was telegraphed from both sides and the officers signed up their agreement. The result was that our organization in San Francisco was established. Later on that organization, striking for the eight-hour day, was lost, but with that the Civic Federation had nothing to do.

I was then invited to become a member of the Civic Federation. I laid the matter before the executive committee of my organization and was instructed by them to take part in the National Civic Federation. From that time on I have been a member, not a very active one, for I have not been able to attend many of its meetings. I understood before I joined that it was an organization bringing together men from all walks of life, capitalists and representatives of labor, men of the different schools of thought and economics, for the purpose of discussing these questions. I understood before I became a member that it was not the mission of the National Civic Federation to attempt to solve the labor question or establish harmony between the great forces; but that its mission was to bring together the men of different schools of thought and from different institutions and have them discuss the differences that existed between them. So far as labor and capital is concerned, I was told at the first meeting, "Our mission is to bring you men together. When we have brought you together our mission is fulfilled."

Next came on the organization of New York. Herman Robinson, the organizer in New York, organized that city as far as the elevated roads were concerned. In the spring of 1903 we brought together the organization. Our men immediately made demands for increased wages and improved conditions. In a short time they had come to a deadlock because of the demands for the hours of labor and a strike was voted on. I hastened to New York. Belmont was not then a member of the National Civic Federation. I could not get in touch with any one. I went to the office of the Civic Federation. Mr. John K. Commons was then in charge. We got in touch with a gentleman I had known as an employer, a man for whom I had worked many years ago. The first time I ever met him I was chairman of a strike committee. He said on account of the fact that his daughter was to be married that day he could not do much, so we started out to find some one else. Through Mr. Cook we secured a man who wanted to bring about a conference, and he did bring it about. That conference between our committee and the company resulted in a very satisfactory settlement, establishing a raise of wages to our men, and a day's work that should not exceed nine hours and thirty minutes.

That agreement was put in force and the benefit of it went to the members of our organization. I was introduced to Mr. Belmont and he said to me after our conference that it was his first meeting with any representatives of labor. He said he had never before consented to meet them, that he hired the best men to transact and direct his business and he had always left it in their hands; but he believed that he had made a mistake, and he assured me that at any time in the future there was trouble between our organization and his Company the door of his office was open and he would be pleased to hear our side of it.

Before the opening of the subway they had on the elevated system in New York an organization of locomotive engineers. They ran the engines in the days when the locomotive engines were used. They had continued their organization. There were about 250 or 300 of those men. We did not interfere with them. They said they had their benefits in their Brotherhood. We knew that was true and that they could not join our organization. We did not wish to deprive them of their benefits and left them in their organization. The firemen who had fired those engines had something like 99 members in two small organizations. Prior to the opening of the subway these two organizations made demands on the Company. They went to our organization and got the co-operation of our men. Their chief, Mr. Stone, came on. They made their demands, but could do nothing. I went on to New York again and through the influence of officers of the Civic Federation we again got in touch with the company. I was able through their influence to work out a settlement in the subway.

That was in the fall of 1904, I believe. We agreed in the subway upon a contract for two years. I wanted our men to remain out of that. Our men insisted that that be part of the subway contract, and they signed it. The contract in the subway was made for two years, dating from August 1905. The next spring when the subway strike, of which so much is said, took place, our organization on the elevated made demands, outlined a new agreement, sent it to our office and had it approved. It was sent back and given to the Company. An arrangement was made that prior to the expiration of the agreement conferences would be held and the agreement discussed. In the meantime the engineers for some reason, I know not what, and the firemen, became dissatisfied and again got into conference with our men. They decided that they would present an ultimatum to the Company repudiating the two years' contract that was made the fall before in the subway. They decided to go to the Company and lay down an ultimatum at two o'clock in the afternoon and give the Company until eleven o'clock that night to sign. They were not to notify the International officers, we were to know nothing about it, but the Secretary secretly wired me. I did not know he was simply doing it as an individual. I went on to New York and met the secretary at noon with the vice-president of our organization. He notified me that he was going down town to meet the balance of the committee and they were going to deliver this ultimatum, which he read for me. I protested and told him it was ridiculous, that the position they were taking was contrary to all the laws of our organization. I appealed to him and to the vice-president to go down and protest to the committee. They went down, but the committees met and presented the ultimatum. If it was not agreed to by eleven o'clock that night they would enter into a strike. They said they knew it was contrary to our laws and contrary to the Brotherhood laws, but that they expected the strike would be won before we could protest.

I got in communication with Mr. Moffett, then editor of the Bricklayers' journal, with Mr. Healy and other men. We found that everything had been prearranged, that no meetings would be held. The strike took place. The ultimatum had been delivered contrary to all the laws of the Brotherhood of Firemen, the Brotherhood of Engineers and our International organization. Mr. Gompers came on to assist us. Mr. Mitchell was already there, and Mr. Thomas I. Kidd, in no way interested in the Civic Federation, came to us. We tried to get those men to see the mistake they were making. Mr. Hurley wanted to annul the charter of the engineers. We pleaded with him not to do so. He said if the Companies wanted to make any proposition to let them come to us. After that position was taken I issued a statement. I have it here, but I am not going to read it, I have said too much, I know, already.

The strike was already lost. The Company had a ship load of men ready to go to work on the New Haven and Hartford. When the strike took place they put them in the subway and on the elevated. The strike was lost the second day. Brother Mitchell and I went through the subway on the second day and inspected the whole situation. The truth is the men had disregarded every law of our organization. We simply made a statement to the public and let them go. We repudiated their action. Mr. Belmont had been assured when the representatives of the Engineers called on him a few days before, when he wanted to know their position, saying he wanted the matter settled as he was going away, that nothing would be done until he returned. He said, on the other hand, that the Amalgamated had put in their contract and he knew their policy would be to discuss them and work them out. He left New York feeling that the whole situation was one that would be dealt with according to the laws of the organization. I will not criticize Belmont for the action he took in that strike; it is the position I would have taken, or that any other man would have taken under similar circumstances.

Mr. Belmont came into the Civic Federation. I was one who, after getting acquainted with him, persuaded him to come in, and we were able to settle many grievances that came up. I went to him on other railroad affairs and got him to assist us. I say this in behalf of the subway strike that the delegates may know that some of the stories that have been circulated around the country are absolutely false. The Civic Federation in these matters has given us assistance. When our men in New Orleans were about to be locked out, after our formation, and the new syndicate of which Mr. Fairchilds was the head took the road, they had already taken into New Orleans over two hundred men under cover. The Union notified me of the situation. I went to New York and to Mr. Easley to get in touch with that syndicate. After lots of hard work he succeeded in getting a conference with Mr. Fairchilds. We had our conference. He informed me that the whole matter was referred to Mr. Miller, of Miller and Hornblower, attorneys, who were going to handle the situation. There was a banquet that evening at the Civic Federation—where we were going down to get more chloroform! We got Mr. Miller there. Archbishop Ireland and others discussed questions. At the close of the meeting Senator Hanna brought Mr. Miller and myself together. He said, "You and Mr. Mahon settle it. Make a contract with the Amalgamated Association and they will carry it out."

Mr. Miller and I agreed to meet in New Orleans, and there with our committee of the organization we would work out a contract. They dismissed their strike breakers. Mr. Commons, who sits here with me, accompanied me, and we worked out a contract. Today these men are members of our Association and their wages have been raised from 13-1-3 cents an hour to 23-1-2 cents an hour.

When we formed our organization in Chicago we were opposed by the most powerful railroad companies in America. We had 130 men discharged. The rest of the men were timed, we could not rally them. Brother Kidd had started out in the beginning with a secret system of organizing. Nobody knew how many members we had—and if they had known, God pity us! We kept our fight on and I went to see Senator Hanna, who was then President of the Civic Federation. I told him the greatest strike in the history of Chicago was about to take place. He pleaded with me not to strike the men but to try to get a settlement. I said, "That is up to you men of influence." He got in touch with Mr. Franklin McVeagh, who was also a member of the Civic Federation. I went East with letters of introduction and presented the story. He said to present the same story to the Company. I went to the eastern men interested financially, while Franklin McVeagh worked the other end. We succeeded in working out an agreement that recognized the Association. Our men got 16 and 17 cents an hour, and today in Chicago we have 13,000 members with a maximum pay of 23 cents an hour, and 30 cents an hour commencing in August.

Now, these are some of the benefits we have been able to secure by meeting with these gentlemen from time to time. I meet and eat with them, yes, and I will meet with them and eat with them as long as I can ease up a situation like that at New Orleans.

I do not think the labor men ever believed the Civic Federation was going to settle the great economic question at all. I agree with those who say it cannot do so. It will not do so, in my opinion. I have never heard it discussed that labor and capital were identical and that we were brothers. If you had listened to the discussions you would have changed your opinions. I told the Civic Federation on many occasions just what I thought without regard as to who was present. If you doubt that, gentlemen, get copies of my speech at Mrs. Potter Palmer's house in Chicago. I did not compromise, I did not surrender one iota of my independence when I joined the Civic Federation. I went there to meet with these men and argue with them and secure all I could out of them, without any guarantee of giving them anything in return.

Delegate McCullough (T. W.)—In all the discussion we have had on this question the main issue at point has been lost sight of. Personally, I am very glad the discussion has taken the wide range it has, for if it has had any effect whatever it must have been to convince the members of the Convention that the movers of the resolution under consideration have given little or no inquiry into the topic, they have not investigated the merits of the case before they have presented their proposition.

For the sake of argument, or rather to avoid argument, I am going to admit the truth of a great many extravagant statements that have been made on the floor of this Convention, even to the pathetic picture of poor old John Rockefeller tottering up to the gates of heaven dragging his 721 pounds of dally gold behind him. That is not the question. The question is, "Shall we keep in touch with our employers?" We are called into existence to represent the workers of America, to have their interests in our charge and to take up the matters in contention from time to time with the employers. There is not a minute we are not in contact with the employers on one question or another concerning our employment. The Civic Federation has opened an avenue where employer and employe can meet on ground that is as nearly neutral as any that has yet been suggested. The question that is being presented to this Convention is squarely and simply, "Shall we close that avenue of opportunity?"

I am not going to waste any of the time of the Convention in detailing the benefits that have or may accrue from that organization. I think it is apparent to every thinking man that there are advantages that can be gained in no other way from having an avenue through which we can at any reasonable time get access and assistance in coming in touch with the employers who would otherwise bar the door against us. And it is absurd to put this organization or any of the affiliated bodies that make up this organization, in the position of saying to the world at large that we are afraid of the representatives of organized capital, that we fear to meet them in the Civic Federation or in any other forum to which we may be admitted for the purpose of debating our questions of difference. It appears to me the question that is involved, and the question we are going to vote on, no matter how long this debate continues, is whether we are by our own action going to close a door that is now open to us and through which it is not improbable we will gain some benefits, and through which it is not at all probable any harm can come, because if the employers could have struck us through the National Civic Federation they would have done so long ago.

*Delegate Healy (T.)—I hope this debate will not close before I have a chance to say a word on the question. I have been a member of the National Civic Federation for a number of years, and I have been a member because it has helped me to better the conditions of the men I represent. If the men who attack that institution would look into the work it is doing and post themselves in regard to it before making such attacks, I am sure the time of the Convention would not be taken up as it has been today. I believe the men who attack the Civic Federation are not sincere, are not honest to the interests of the labor movement of this country. Myself and other men in the Civic Federation, and others who are not in the Civic Federation, are in this Convention to represent the men who sent us here. We don't meet and conspire night after night and make plans to attack the men who built up this movement, the same as the men who are attacking the Civic Federation do, as they have been doing since they have been in this Convention, and as they have done in every other Convention of the American Federation of Labor I have attended. It is not the National Civic Federation they want to attack, it is the officers of the American Federation of Labor, and that is well known.

I have thought, while listening to the discussion here today, that if Mr. Parry, Mr. Post, Mr. Kirby and Mr. Walter Drew were here, how they would applaud some of the orators who have made these talks. Yes, and tonight in the evening papers throughout the country these attacks will be read, and the Manufacturers' Association will certainly gloat over the fact that the National Civic Federation and the men in the labor movement who are connected with it have been attacked. The Manufacturers' Association does not come here, there are those who will do their dirty work here. And they are doing it, and they are gloating over it. Only night before last, in talking to a Socialist on this resolution, he said, "Oh, I know we won't win out this year, but we will next." They won't! They won't win out this year nor next, and God forbid that the day should ever come when gentlemen of that stripe will dictate the policy of the American labor movement.

At a recent banquet of the Manufacturers' Association in New York, Mr. Kirby had this to say, "If it had not been for the Civic Federation the labor organizations could not have maintained their position. The Civic Federation is the greatest asset of the American Federation of Labor. It is incomprehensible that manufacturers should support the Civic Federation, an organization that helps the labor trust to obtain its goal."

What do you think of that, my Socialist friends? You ought to be proud of yourselves! You certainly ought! And I want to say to the trade unionists, especially the new delegates to the Convention: Don't take any of the Socialist chloroform! The National Civic Federation is not in it with the dope the Socialists would administer!

The organization I represent is almost isolated from the labor movement. Our men work in the great office buildings, power plants, hotels and other buildings where there are no unions of any kind. There may be a few firemen and engineers in the basements working twelve hours a day for three hundred and sixty-five days in the year. We are helpless. We must reach the employers, the heads of the firms, if we are going to get anything in those places. We never could and never did reach one of them until we got in the National Civic Federation. They found a way for us to reach them. Mr. Mahon has explained how they can be reached and will be reached. They are not a bad in the National Civic Federation! There may be some bad ones there, the same as we have here.

As a sample of the work the National Civic Federation is doing, I will say they are calling to the attention of the world the large number of men and women who are maimed, crippled and killed throughout this country every year through industrial accidents. I have here a large number of clippings from newspapers telling of explosions of boilers in mines and buildings. It is compiled by Mr. Schramm, a very active member of the National Civic Federation. I might say for Mr. Schramm that only five or six weeks ago in Chicago, in response to a letter we sent him saying that the men in the brewery interests he represents work three hundred and sixty-five days a year, they were given a week's holiday with pay every year. These men never knew what a week's vacation meant, and we have to thank Mr. Schramm of the Civic Federation for this vacation. A few years ago we never knew what it was to get a vacation. That is one of the very things the National Civic Federation is doing, as well as helping us get eight hours where we formerly worked twelve.

Nobody knows the work that has been done by the Civic Federation, and there are a whole lot of people here who don't care what they have done. I do. I notice here in this pamphlet it says, "With Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell, not only participants but moving spirits in the movement, as well as officers in good standing in the Civic Federation, I cannot reconcile my own mind with what seems to me to be such an extremely inconsistent proposition, nor can I find it in my conscience to wink at the great danger to the best interests of our common country that lies hidden in the endorsement by your organization, of these men and the doctrines they preach and which, insofar as they can, they execute in the name of the Civic Federation, and for which that organization will some day have to recognize its responsibility."

I want to say to President Gompers and Vice-President Mitchell that you will have a whole lot of things to answer for. You are dangerous men! We not only have it from Kirby, but we have it from the Socialists, therefore it must be so!

I don't give any man or any body of men the right to say what organization I must belong to. I belong to the Civic Federation, and until they prove to me that it is not a proper place for me, I will stay there. They have not succeeded in doing that. If they succeed in this they might tell me in the next Convention that I must get out of the Hibernians. The next thing they would come along and tell me what church I should go to. Now, I will go where I like.

My friends, if these resolutions were to go through here, you know as well as I do that the Manufacturers' Association of this country would be giving banquets tomorrow night to celebrate the fact that they had driven President Gompers out of the National Civic Federation. It is too bad that things of this kind should be brought into the American Federation of Labor to give an opportunity to the press of the country to come out with great head-lines, "Gompers Attacked by the Labor Unions!" "Gompers Attacked by the Delegates!" There may be and will be always men willing to attack Gompers or any other man who is here, but I want to tell you, my friends, that the American labor movement is going to stand by Samuel Gompers and allow him to stay in the Civic Federation until his hair will get gray.

President Gompers—Mr. Chairman and Fellow Delegates: This question before the convention gives me occasion for mingled feelings, one of regret and the other of pleasurable welcome; regret that serious men in the labor movement of America, in the year 1911, should suggest, much less propose, a question and a subject so absolutely foreign to the purposes of the American Federation of Labor. I welcome it in the same way as I regretted and welcomed in the past the introduction of the famous, or otherwise, resolutions of a Socialistic character of a few years ago in which was attempted to commit the American Labor movement to the Socialist political party. My regret is because the time that is taken up with a discussion of this character is to the detriment of the constructive work in which this organization should be engaged. I welcomed it then as now because it gives us the opportunity in a convention of the American Federation of Labor to meet our traducers face to face upon an equality, where we can refute their statements and confound their slanders, and where we can give our younger men in the labor movement of America the ammunition with which to meet the trade union antagonists, regardless of the cloak under which they try to hide.

The fact of the matter is that there isn't anything the American Federation of Labor can do to satisfy the Socialist Party unless we go over, body, boots and breeches, to that party. And then we could do just as we pleased, so long as we "toted" straight as subordinate to them! For years they started their policy of antagonizing the trade union movement from without, and then they decided upon changing their tactics to boring from within. If it were not this question of the Civic Federation it would be something else. Let this convention adopt the resolutions introduced upon this subject and there will be another question arise, no matter what it will be—anything to antagonize the trade union movement as a militant, independent, persistent organization of the working people of our country. One would imagine that if those three resolutions were adopted as a whole, or any one of them, they would placate our friends the Socialists. They haven't any such thing in mind, and we who know them, know that they haven't.

It may be interesting to you to know that two years ago the American Federation of Labor elected me by unanimous vote to accept the invitation extended to me by the British Trades Union Congress, through its Parliamentary Committee to visit that Congress and at the same time elected me to proceed to the International Secretariat, then about to hold its meeting in Paris. There was not a Socialist paper in Europe but which declared that my coming as a representative of the American Federation of Labor was a pretense; that, as a matter of fact, I came there selected by the National Civic Federation, and that I was paid fabulous sums to try to fool the workmen of Europe. Wherever I went that was one of the things I had to meet. The fact that the National Civic Federation had no more to do with it than "the man in the moon" mattered little to them, those statements were sent ahead of me to the Socialist press of Europe, and by American representatives of the Socialist Party.

The difficulties I had in overcoming there were overcome to a considerable extent, or at least I think I helped pave the way to beat down some of the misrepresentations of our movement here and of our men and of myself. But I cared less for what they thought of me than what they thought of the American Federation of Labor. What most concerned me was the attitude of mind towards the American Federation of Labor.

If you have read some of the speeches or some of the editorials and articles in the Socialist press of the United States you may have seen some things that have reflected upon me in so many ways it would be difficult to attempt to describe them. I have here a paper in which is published in parallel columns some statements made by the President of the Employers' Association, Mr. Kirby in his "Square Deal," and also some other papers which I shall name. I shall not take much time in quoting.

"The American Federation of Labor plan is a delusion and a snare and a downright insult to the toiling masses who make this country great." (Social Democratic Herald, 1904.)

"The National Civic Federation is a delusion and a snare, an enemy to public welfare and prejudicial to the interest of the working classes as fully as is the American Federation of Labor." (Square Deal.)

Is there anything like a similarity of language in those two statements? Don't you detect it? There have been read this afternoon some extracts from utterances of Mr. Kirby. I have had placed on the tables a four-page circular letter reproduction, being an attack on Mr. Mitchell, the National Civic Federation and myself by John Kirby, Jr., President of the National Association of Manufacturers. I will quote this from it. It is a letter under date of December 27, 1909, and is addressed to the Honorable Seth Low, President of the National Civic Federation, in which he says among other things:

"Therefore, with Samuel Gompers and John Mitchell not only participants but moving spirits in the movement, as well as officers in good standing in the Civic Federation, I cannot reconcile my own mind with, what seems to me to be, such an extremely inconsistent proposition, nor can I find it in my conscience to wink at the great danger of the best interests of our common country 'hat lies hidden in the endorsement, by your organization, of these men and the doctrines they preach and which, in so far as they can, they execute in the name of the Civic Federation, and for which that organization will, some day, have to recognize its responsibility."

In declining to have his organization represented at a meeting of the National Civic Federation to consider uniform legislation he quotes telegrams and excerpts from letters of members of the Executive Board of the National Association of Manufacturers in which his letter is endorsed. I will read some of them.

"Under no circumstances should national association confer on any subject with Gompers, Mitchell and Co. subterfuge called Civic Federation."

"Am opposed to appointment of delegates to any convention which includes those whom our courts have decided to be willful and defiant law breakers."

"I approve your action in not appointing Civic Federation delegates but favor uniform laws."

"Most heartily approve your position in not sending delegates to Civic Federation meeting; also your letter to Low in its entirety."

"I absolutely agree with your action in declining to appoint delegates to the National Civic Federation of Gompersism. I most certainly would refuse to attend the meeting if you would see fit to appoint me."

"I would rather see this matter settled as to representation by the combined opinion of yourself, Mr. Emery, Mr. Van-Cleave, Mr. Parry and Mr. Jarvis, I therefore await with much interest your final decision."

"When the Civic Federation will change its methods and stand squarely before the people in the interests of the people, we can co-operate with them, but not so long as their literature carries the union label and their councils are dominated by the selfish interests of the labor trust."

"There ought to be some way to enlighten the innocent or assumed innocent members of the Civic Federation that they are tools of organized labor. Is there not some way in which it can be done?"

If the same subject were before the delegates to this convention for a vote, or before those delegates who favor the resolutions under consideration, would they not use about the same language?

I ask you to consider this matter upon its merits. What is there to it? What is the purpose? Is there any one who seriously believes that the men in the American labor movement, the officers of the American Federation of Labor and the officers of the International Typographical Union, or the Street Railway men, the Firemen and others, are not glad of the opportunity to testify to the work done by the Civic Federation in behalf of their organizations? Is there any one who imagines for a minute that these men, my colleagues on the Executive Council and myself, can be chloroformed or hypnotized by anything an opponent of organized labor may say or do? I venture to say that except as a figure of speech, except as it is intended to prejudice the mind of the uninformed, not one of those who have introduced the resolutions really believes it.

In the meetings of the National Civic Federation, if I may go so far as to say it, not only for others but certainly for myself, I think we have been more radical and persistent in our utterances than we would have been in the meeting rooms of any of our unions. I don't know that I could find language in my vocabulary to more strongly present the claims of labor, the rights of labor, or to portray as best I could the wrongs from which labor suffers than I have in the meetings of the National Civic Federation. I challenge any man here now to point to one utterance of mine in the National Civic Federation that he will challenge as a trades unionist, that he will question as to its accuracy and its insistence.

But there is another phase of it. Ask—no, you need not ask, the statement will be volunteered by Socialists—that "after all your trade union activity, after all your trades unions are played out institutions, your strikes and boycotts are played out, they are obsolete weapons, what is the use of them? Vote right, and you will vote yourself into glory and salvation!" And how strange it is for those who so insistently claim that trade union activity is futile, and yet charge us with being chloroformed on the industrial field! If the strike and the boycott are obsolete and useless, where is the danger of chloroforming us in our conferences with the employers? For it is those things which we primarily and principally discuss.

The idea upon which that claim of the uselessness of trade union activity, the strike and the boycott, are declared to be obsolete, is this: When trade unions increase wages the Socialists say "employers of labor will put up prices higher than really the wages that you have secured are increased." If such a statement were founded upon facts it would be in the interests of the employing class to concede every demand for an increase in wages which we make. The truth is that frequently prices are increased about the same time, or shortly after, frequently before an increase in wages is secured. I imagined that Socialists no longer believe what LaSalle laid down as the "Iron Law of Wages." That has been disregarded by even as much intelligence as the average Socialist can acquire.

But the fact is this: That decade by decade, or from generation to generation, wages, and the relative purchasing power of wages, are continually increased and expanded. If there be any man who doubts it and wants to know the truth, let him go into the homes of the American working people. Let him compare his own home and his own condition with the home and the condition of his father, if his father was a working man. If there is any one who doubts it, let him compare his own children and the time they are sent to school and kept out of the factory and the workshop with the time that he and his brothers or his father, if they were working people, spent in school.

There is a sort of reason—misnamed a philosophy—upon which all this antagonism is based. It is the idea that the working people must get into a condition of abject poverty and misery and by a cataclysm, called a social revolution,

"come into their own and take charge of society and government." As if an impoverished people ever really made for constructive revolution! The poorer the people the more abject they become. There may be a revolt, like a riot and a flash in the pan, but the constructive, constant work, day by day, hour by hour, and year after year, is the work in which the trades unionist is engaged.

A few months ago a delegate to this convention visited the office of the American Federation of Labor and we had a rather interesting conversation. He asked me a question which I shall relate, and give very briefly the answer I made. He said: "President Gompers, did you ever give this any thought, how it is that there are comparatively such a few of the younger men who are now actively engaged in the work of the trade union movement?" I was astounded, particularly at the source from which it came, because I doubt if ever in my long life I have had an opening like that given me.

I said: "Yes, I have given that consideration. Do you know the reason?" He could not find the reason. I made this answer, substantially: "The reason is, if it exists at all, that if you tell the young working men of this country that all they need do is to vote for your party one day in the year and that it is enough, would not they be foolish to give every day's effort in the hard and bitter struggle of the working people?" If the philosophy urged upon us by our Socialist friends is right, then this American Federation of Labor and its constituent trade unions are a mistake and it is a waste of time to continue them, and they ought to be disbanded.

It is so difficult in a matter of this character to deal with the fundamentals. The Civic Federation! Has it done anything for labor? I want to say here and now that personally I have profited not one dollar by my association with the National Civic Federation. I would lose not one cent if I severed my connection with it. As a rule it is not necessary to use even the good offices of the National Civic Federation for me to obtain an interview with almost any man in America. I seem to have at least sufficient of the respect of the people in all walks of life to secure any personal interview I may want, but my only desire for an opportunity for a conference is to discuss some concrete proposition in which the men and women of labor are interested.

Has the National Civic Federation done anything? Let me read to you just about ten or eleven lines of the departments which the National Civic Federation has established. The first is on Uniform State Legislation. I suppose that, in view of our knowledge of the difficulties we have by reason of our dual form of government, it is necessary for us to have some associated effort for uniform legislation among the states. Other departments are:

Department of Regulation of Industrial Corporations; Department on Regulation of Interstate and Municipal Societies; Department on Reform in Legal Procedure; Taxation Department; Banking and Currency Department; Department on Pure Food and Drugs; Industrial Conciliation Department; Department on Compensation for Industrial Accidents and their Prevention; Industrial Welfare Department; Public Employees' Welfare Department; Women's Welfare Department. In all of these it has been active.

Replying to one question as to what the Civic Federation declares and does, let me say this: If the National Civic Federation were to meet and have these discussions which they have and adjourn, if these discussions were of an academic character, then there would not be one word of criticism or accusation. It is a fact that the Civic Federation tries to do the things it discusses and agrees upon that causes the criticism.

Answering the thought expressed that the votes in the Civic Federation are as two to one, the representatives of the employers and the representatives of the general public voting one way and the representatives of labor another, my experience is that there is no proposition which goes forth as a declaration from the Civic Federation unless it is by unanimous vote. I suppose it may be true that some proposition which Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Lynch, Mr. Mahon, Mr. Duncan, Mr. Valentine, Mr. Healy, myself and others may have advocated has not been approved. If that be true, this also is true, that there has never yet been a proposition adopted by the National Civic Federation affecting the rights or the interests of labor unless the men of labor approved it. One vote cast by any of us against it vetoed that proposition.

I shall not attempt to discuss the various propositions in regard to trade disputes, the conferences secured and the adjustments reached. I should prefer that others, when the time may come, if not now, some time in the future, shall tell the story. I want to deal with a few general propositions. At a conference held in Chicago about five or six years ago for the purpose of discussing the legislation affecting the regulation of industrial combinations, the consideration of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law and how an amendment might be obtained, I was a member of the Committee on Resolutions. The resolutions recommended that any proposed legislation should include modification of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law excluding from its provisions:

1. "The national and local organizations of labor and their trade agreements with employers relating to wages, hours of labor and conditions of employment."

Does that language sound familiar? Isn't that trade union language? Are these words not contained in resolutions times without number that were passed by conventions of the American Federation of Labor and by our various unions throughout the country?

2. "Associations made up of farmers intended to secure a stable and equitable market for the products of the soil free from fluctuations due to speculation."

3. "Business and industrial agreements, or combinations whose objects are in the public interest as distinguished from combinations determined to be contrary to the public interest."

I have no apologies to make for anything that may have been said in regard to the personnel of any one connected with the National Civic Federation, but I ask you if an association such as that can agree upon such declarations to free the organizations of labor from an unjust position in which they are placed, due to the interpretation placed upon the Sherman Anti-Trust Law by the Supreme Court of the United States, is not that effort worth the making?

The United States Steel Corporation has been mentioned, and I think I ought to say something in connection with it. Do delegates who introduced the resolutions recall any action on the part of the American Federation of Labor upon the Steel Trust question? Do you not know that with the aid of representative labor men called into conference, and having the volunteer assistance of two of the ablest lawyers in America to prepare our brief and charges against the United States Steel Corporation, we presented those charges against that Company to the President of the United States and later laid them before the Department of Justice and before the Governor of Indiana? And that later the whole basis of complaint, and the effort now being made to dissolve that giant corporation, that cruel corporation, were upon the initiative of the American Federation of Labor and its "chloroformed" officers?

As a matter of fact, every man who attends these meetings of the Civic Federation knows—because he is reminded of it at every meeting—that we meet there without surrendering one jot of our judgment or our convictions or our faith in the justice of our cause. When we meet these people we endeavor to drive home the claims of labor. They do not often get this otherwise, and now the proposition is that they shall not get it at all!

I agree with you that the mere cultivation of friendly personal relations between men of means and representatives of working men should be avoided. Living in Washington, where half the population are government employees or government officials, I have often been invited to the social functions of those higher up, sometimes the highest up. Except once, a little more than a year ago, when I could not pursue the course I always had pursued without causing some reflection upon another, I have never attended one of those functions. Personally I have no relations with those people, but as a trades unionist and an officer of the American labor movement it is my duty to defend and protect and advocate the cause of labor wherever and wherever I can.

And I ought to say parenthetically that whenever I am at one of those dinners given by the National Civic Federation one of the things I consistently do is to abstain from eating or drinking. And I do that because I am usually called upon to speak, and I do not care to speak with my make-up full of food. But suppose we all ate heartily and suppose we all enjoyed it thoroughly? What then? Are our friends the Socialists to take umbrage at that? Reference has been made to the fact that we have eaten dinners, and "glorious dinners," while some of the working men have gone hungry. I think that if that logic were pursued we ought to fast until all of us have gotten enough to eat! I know we are all affected, some more some less, as our sentiment, our humanity, is touched by the misery or the poverty of men; but why should we go to a theatre and hear and see the performers to make us laugh and be merry while there are others in the land who shed tears of hunger and misery? I think it might be not at all remiss if we were consistent as well as sophistical.

But I have something to which I desire to call your attention. With the close of the Socialist International Congress at Copenhagen last year this appears in one of the Socialist organs, Jaures' paper, of France, L'Humanite.

"At the conclusion, however, all shook hands and held a great reception. 'In short, it was a congress of compromise which ended in a dance. Mr. Bourdeau thinks there was something droll in the sumptuousness of the supper given by the delegates at the magnificent town hall of Copenhagen. He says the German paper Vorwaerts described 'the Pantagruello sideboard,' on which figured 'hams and scarlet lobsters, and various choice dainties and delicacies which stood among long-necked bottles.' 'We saw nothing of the cabbage soup which Proudhon served out to his guests.' L'Humanite (Paris) protests against against such luxury. 'To tell the truth,' cries Mr. Jaures in his paper, after sharing the good things of the Pantagruello sideboard.' 'I was ashamed to indulge in all this fine fare.' The innocent orgy, says this writer, concluded with a dance. To quote his words:

"To the voluptuous measures of Viennese waltzes the couples joined arms and hands; round and round they whirled, and the god cupid was one of the party. The congress ended in delight, for the most celebrated Socialists were to be seen and admired circling in the most frantic of farandoles. A fine comment on Bernstein's dictum, 'congresses are all humbug.'"

Nor do we need to go to Copenhagen to find the representatives of the Socialists dining or lunching with the hated Bourgeois. A few weeks ago our famous "swing-around-the-circle" President happened to go to Milwaukee, and there a luncheon was given by the manufacturers and large business men of the city. At the table occupied by the President of the United States, his military aides, and big business men (surrounded by secret service detectives) were seated the irreconcilable Socialist Mayor of Milwaukee and the redoubtable Socialist Congressman, Victor Berger. And they sat there at that table listening to the President of the United States make an attack upon the trade union position and the labor movement! And they had that as a dessert for their lunch!

During the past few years the columns of the Cigar Makers' Official Journal, the official journal of the organization of which I am a member and have been a member since my fourteenth year, and in which I hold the membership card No. 1—and I have not been a member of my union often, only once—a discussion took place attacking the National Civic Federation and myself. There are only one or two of our men whose names I saw in our Journal who took up the cudgels and defended us. A few months ago an election occurred by the initiative and referendum system. The membership of the International Union throughout the continent of America, including Canada, Cuba, Porto Rico, as well as the United States, nominated and elected officers. On the first ballot there were five candidates for the office of first vice-president. I was elected, having received a majority of all votes cast for the candidates. As one of the five delegates from the International Union to the American Federation of Labor, I was a candidate. There were twenty-four others, twenty-five in all. In spite of all that attack and denunciation, it so happened that I was the only delegate elected on the first ballot. I received a majority over all the other candidates. That was the answer the rank and file, the members of the Cigar Makers' International Union, gave to the attacks upon myself as a member of the Cigar Makers' International Union having any connection with the National Civic Federation.

Oh, yes, I might say, and I think I want to, that the Socialist Party was not at all remiss in its activity in that campaign and that election. Neither was it remiss in its activity in the Machinists' election. So active were they in the election in the Cigar Makers' International Union that a revulsion of feeling was created among some of the local Socialist bodies, and one I know, the Socialist party of Toledo, Ohio, proposed a new law prohibiting the officers of the Socialist party from participating in the internal affairs and elections of international unions.

When Delegate Mitchell this morning read a list of the civic bodies of which he is a member and to which he is giving service, it reminded me that I ought to just tax my memory a bit, and with the assistance of my secretary I wrote this list of the organization to which I belong: National Conference of Charities and Corrections; Committee of One Hundred on National Health; National Child Labor Committee; American Association for Labor Legislation; Roosevelt Foundation for the Promotion of Industrial Peace; The Civic Forum; The People's Institute of New York; The Society for Industrial Peace; The National Conservation Congress; The National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education; The American Academy of Social and Political Science; The National Geographic Society; The New York State Commission to Investigate the Factory Conditions as They Exist in the State; The Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis; the Lincoln University Endowment Society; Friends of Russian Freedom; Good Roads Congress; The Peace Society of New York; The Washington Peace Society.

Besides, I am a member of the Odd Fellows, an Elk, a Mason—I am not eligible as a member of the Knights of Columbus—but I think you will realize that I am rather a well organized man. I do not refer in this list to my primary membership, the one to which I owe my first loyalty, the Cigar Makers' International Union, my trade union.

Just a few minutes more and I shall be through. I have found that as a matter of experience—and I think nearly every one who has had some experience with the National Civic Federation will testify as to its truth—that there are a number of employers of labor, not very many, who themselves are most difficult to reach when a question arises affecting them. Some of them are most active and energetic in helpfulness to secure adjustments for organized labor when the question affects another employer. Only quite recently an incident of that kind occurred.

I want to say to you candidly this: I am going to stick to the trade union movement, no matter what you do. It is dearer to me than any other institution on earth. I owe it so much. The opportunities it has given me, the opportunities to be helpful to others. To have witnessed the gleam of light and life that has come into the homes of our working people where gloom and misery obtained before, is no mean thing to surrender. I suppose there were some who imagined that when the question came up to John Mitchell in the position in which he was placed, the choice of leaving the Civic Federation where he was doing constructive, helpful work and being paid a good salary, so that he could live comfortably and perhaps lay something by for his advancing years, or leaving the union to which he belonged, he would leave his union. Some who have not the broad conception of the deep sympathy and convictions that are in the breasts of some men imagined he would leave the union rather than leave his position. But he didn't.

I will say for myself that I am going to stick. It is true I am sixty-one years old. I think that if I only take a little bit of care of myself I will outlive lots of fellows, and I am not going to let up, I am not going to quit, I am going to stick to the union. It is too late for me to change my whole mind and life, it is too late for me to learn new tricks. The labor movement is ingrained in my very being. The cause of labor, the cause of humanity, the cause of justice, the cause of freedom, have too deep a rooting in my make-up for me to give up this movement in which I see the future hope for liberty and justice and humanity. I want to be of service. I have tried to be of service. I propose to be of service. I think there would be no greater mistake made in the labor movement of our country than to attempt to cripple or limit the service that the men of labor propose and are anxious to give to the cause of organized labor and humanity.

Vice-President Duncan—Mr. President and Brothers: I will not detain you very long, but on behalf of the committee that gave this subject a great deal of attention, I rise simply say for them that after we had gone into the subject, as we did go into it, the report was the unanimous conviction of the members. One of the first speakers this afternoon made a statement which I feel should be answered, and so far it has slipped the memory of those who have preceded me. One delegate, I think Mr. McDonald, of the Mine Workers—in that I may be wrong, but of the statement I am sure I am correct—said that as far as the coal miners were concerned they knew nothing that the Civic Federation had done for their organization. The same speaker also said that others might have information of what had been performed and they could speak for themselves. If I be wrong as to the delegate on the floor of the Convention, I am certainly not wrong as to the same delegate before our committee.

I desire to say that the first information I got about what the Civic Federation might and could do was a turn it made for the Mine Workers, and my whole concept of its purpose has been predicated since that time upon the act to which I refer. And I do not know, even from the statements made this afternoon by the other organizations, if there is any other organization that has received more of a helping hand than did the mine workers at the time to which I refer.

When the first great coal strike took place in the anthracite region, and John Mitchell and his lieutenants, as the coal barons in that district called them, were endeavoring to do something for the coal miners there, he found it impossible to reach the men whom it was essential to meet to get something in the way of recognition and betterment for the people he represented. As a last effort the suggestion was made that the National Civic Federation might get these people to meet with him. The first effort was unsuccessful. The second effort was successful, and the four great coal barons of the anthracite valley, including Baer, who afterwards claimed partnership with God, were told to meet John Mitchell. And they met him. He got a hearing before them through that influence, and it was primarily because of that hearing that the success which followed it was attributable.

It is true the anthracite mine workers did not gain a great deal in compensation at that time, but a foundation was laid through the act to which I am referring whereby their organization was built up, their position better understood, people who prior to that time had not been given any hearing whatever were given a hearing by those barons; and the conflict in the second contention was carried to the White House, where John Mitchell and three or four of his colleagues met the President of the United States with the coal barons of the hard coal fields of Pennsylvania, in defending the position of the mine workers of that region. . .

At the conference that was held in the second strike, I was present when Brother Mitchell and his committee met those coal barons, and I have told a story in connection with it several times that I am going to repeat. Among the four coal mine owners and railroad magnates who met us was Mr. Olyphant, of the Delaware and Hudson. When we were ushered into the room where these four men stood awaiting us one or two of them, without a smile, I assure you, very stiffly bowed to us as we said good morning to them; Mr. Olyphant placed himself back of a chair, folded his hands securely at his back for fear he might forget himself and put out his hand to shake the hand of a union man. In the discussion that followed, and all of which was predicated upon this act of the Civic Federation for the Mine Workers, Mr. Olyphant said that in the hard coal valley there was peace and plenty and contentment among the mine workers until John Mitchell's organizers came along and preached the gospel of discontent and got them dissatisfied. He went on to tell what he had done for them.

And in my own rugged way I could not help asking Mr. Olyphant the question if it was true that there had been so much peace in the valley, and it was attributable to him, why was it they had not instituted Olyphant Day in the hard coal field as a holiday instead of Mitchell Day because of the accomplishment of John Mitchell for those people? I asked him if he knew that after the first great conflict there, when John Mitchell visited the locality after the conferences I have referred to, and which were got by him for the National Civic Federation, that among the many thousands of people who lined both sides of the streets and the road that sturdy men unhitched the horses from the carriage that was carrying him and considered themselves honored by pulling the carriage themselves, while thousands of women with the picture of misery on their faces sat or knelt by the roadside in prayerful attitude and said in seventeen languages, "God bless John Mitchell," as he went by. Some of them reached out their hands, feeling a new impulse would come to them if they could but touch the spokes of the wheels of the carriage as it went by. Not only that, but I asked Mr. Olyphant if he knew that, under the shadow of the big breaker in Scranton, hundreds of breaker boys surrounded John Mitchell, some of whom had been working in the very breaker in whose shadow they stood, and presented him with a silver dollar medal changed to suit the occasion. Upon one side of the silver dollar was the word "From" and a cut of the breaker. Upon the other side was the word "To," and under it the shape of a school house—From breaker to school house.

And I assure you from my knowledge of John Mitchell's magnificent and sympathetic nature there has nothing been given to him in the way of a gift by the coal miners as a whole, or by any of their states or state conventions, whatever the value may have been, that he prizes more highly than the medal he got from the breaker boys in Scranton in commemoration of the act he performed in helping them get an education and preventing them under a certain age from being employed in the breakers.

I am sure that Duncan McDonald has heard of that. Perhaps he forgot it, but I again say, and it is all I am going to say at the present time, because the others who have preceded me have covered the ground thoroughly, that my whole concept of the value of the Civic Federation to organizations so situated is predicated upon the act of the Civic Federation in getting the first hearing for the President of the Mine Workers' organization from the coal barons of Pennsylvania.

Delegate McDonald (D.), asked that a roll call be had on the motion to adopt the report of the committee. A sufficient number of delegates supporting the demand, Secretary Morrison proceeded with the roll call, which resulted as follows:

Roll Call on Report of Committee on Resolutions Nos. 10, 18, and 126, in Regard to the National Civic Federation.

Ayes—Kennedy (A. J.), Noschang, Klapetzky, Fischer (Jacob), Anderson (Ed), Franklin, Casey, Weyand, Flynn (Joseph), Sovey, Tobin (J. F.), Baine, Hallinan, Schaffer, Dano, Brewery Workmen's delegation (180 votes), Butterworth, Ryan (F. M.), Butler, Clark, Huber, Duffy (Frank), Macfarlane, Young, Flynn (T. F.), Kelly (W. J.), Swartz, Crozier, Richardson, Tveitmoe, Gengenback, Goellnitz, Gompers, Tracy (T. F.), Smith (J. T.), Conway, Pfell, Christman, Pinson, Hughes, Scoby, McNulty, Collins, Fay, Yount, Feeney, Comerford, Hannahan, Glass, McNamara, Healy, Brennan, Friel, Kinsella, Mangan, Smith, Rickert, Larger, Meyer, Landers, Altman, Hayes (D. A.), Cain, Pierce, Duncan, Bianchi, Russell, Lawlor, Moffitt, Shalvoy, D'Alessandro, Etchinson, D'Andrea, Marshall, Kenehan, Flore, Sullivan (J. L.), Farrell, Miller, Pattberg, Williams (John), McSorley, Taggart, Brock, Bryan, Gehring, O'Connor, Kelleher, Cole, Vaccarelli, O'Connell, Fry, Keegan, Lowe, O'Donnell, Gerry, Price, Call, Daly, Rumsey, O'Sullivan (M.), Bobb, Hynes, Walsh (Thos.), Valentine, Frey, Curran, Duffy (P. F.), Murtaugh, Weber, Miller (Owen), Carey (D. A.), Winkler, Painters Delegation (563 votes), Carey (J. T.), Wilson (James), Gernon, Hannah, Sheret, Woll, Donlin, McGivern, Ward, Clark, Alpine, Tracey (Wm.), Murphy, Malley, Nelson, Menge, Berry, Marks, Johnston, Mallin, Perham, Soyster, Miller (J. F.), Gallagher (T. J.), Ryan (M. F.), Nolte, Mahon, Taber, Commons, Lilly, Flynn (Patrick), Furuseth, Barry, Suarez, Peterson, Mitchell (M. W.), Short, Bridwell, Kaefel, Connors, Lennon, Tobin (D. J.), Hughes, Neer, McLaughlin, Hermann, Golden, Morgan, Williams (T. J.), Carolan, McAndrew, Evans, Curtis, Lynch, Morrison, Stevenson, McCullough (T. W.), Birnes, Cooke, DeVeaux, Mulcahy, Holder, Pfeiffer, O'Brien, Myers, Durnin, Wilkerson, Leary, Dowd, Graney, Snay, Jones (Jerome), Hirsch, Tharp, O'Brien (Wm. H.), Lowell, DeYoung, Ferry, Conner, Hassenplue, Smith (L. W.), Carter, Sontheimer, Haines, Briggs, Scoggin, Quick, Gray, Schneider, Abell, Doherty, Fahey, Agethen, Wendt, Albrecht, Holland, Pace, Taylor, James, Russi, Johannsen, Ingram, Leonard, Smith (A. W.), Noonan, White, Smith (Chas. T.), Morton, Voll, Morris, McAndrews, Bohm, Forehand, Dwyer, Dunne, East, representing 11,851 votes.

Nays: Brewery Workmen's delegation

(270 votes), Humphrey, Barnes, Zuckerman, Rosenberg, Dyche, Bloch, Kleinman, Polakoff, Dublinsky, Nestor, Selway, Buckley, Handley, Mitchell (John), Hayes (F. J.), Lewis, Walker, McCullough (E. S.) McDonald (D.), Wilson (W. B.), Moyer, Cannon, Williams (J. C.), Mahoney, Painters Delegation (113 votes), Cartledge, Sultor, Mounts, Gallagher (J. J.), Brals, Biggs, Hayes (Max S.), Mikel, Smith (J.), Donoghue, Ryan (E. H.), Lavin, Smith (T. J.), Henretty, Weber (F. J.), Buckley, Torrey, Hurley, Carroll, Cox, Mead, Schaffer Coleman, Ullrich, Phillippi, Willby, Wright, Engdahl, representing 4,924 votes.

Not Voting—Koch, Kerker, Kline, Golden, Flanagan, Gilmore, Wilkinson, Ring, Roach, Coakley, Gaviak, Freel, Hatch, Gallagher, (A. J.), McKenna, Lawrence, Coffey, Iglesias, Blakey, Kelly (W. E.), Anderson (W. H.), Heck Hardy, Jones (J. R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans, Skemp (Meta), Hobbs, Kennedy (T. G.) Davis, Wangberg, Welsh, Fuller, Alonso, Winchenback, Becerril, Wilson (O. C.), Ford, Belt, Welsh (T. E.), Creamer, Donnelly, Cornette, Lebowitz, Saum, Ham, Manning, Schaub, Crinion, Roberts, Glockling, representing 465 votes.

President Gompers—The report of the committee is adopted.

At 7:15 p. m. the Convention was adjourned, to reconvene at 9:30 a. m., Wednesday, November 22nd.

Ninth Day—Wednesday Morning Session

The Convention was called to order at 9:30 a.m., Wednesday, November 22, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Pfeil, Coakley, Gaviak, Sheret, Gallagher (A. J.), Lawrence, Kelly (William E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hurley, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Davis, Wangberg, Fuller, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Welsh, Creamer, Donnelly, Schaub.

Secretary Morrison read the following communications:

"Boston, Mass., Nov. 21, 1911.

"Frank Morrison,

"A. F. of L. Convention, Atlanta, Ga.

"Regular meeting at headquarters of Atlantic Coast Seamen's Union sends fraternal greetings to American Federation of Labor Convention and wishes you success. Also that all members of this organization are not in favor of a transportation department and thirty-five hundred have not as yet spoken. The meeting here resolves that such a move will be detrimental to both the Seamen and the American Federation of Labor and deny the right of fifty-two members in the New York branch to speak for the entire organization.

"W. M. H. FRAZIER, Gen'l. Secy.

"GEORGE CUMMINGS, Chairman."

"Seattle, Washington, Nov. 20, 1911.

"American Federation of Labor Convention,

"Atlanta, Ga.

"Provision trades urge you to visit Seattle on your next annual pilgrimage. Come and behold the beauties of the Queen City of the Pacific northwest, its beautiful lakes, lofty mountains and historic totem poles. If from Missouri we will show you that real western hospitality cannot be surpassed.

"M. S. GOOD, President."

"Seattle, Wash., Nov. 20, 1911.

"A. F. of L. Convention,

"Atlanta, Ga.

"Greetings from the Joint Local Executive Board of United Brewery Workers, Seattle, Washington. Send a cordial invitation to hold the next convention at Seattle, Washington.

"ADOLPH FAUST, Secretary."

"Seattle, Washington, Nov. 20, 1911.

"Frank Morrison,

"A. F. of L. Convention, Atlanta, Ga.

"The United Waiters of this city join with other trades unions, commercial, civic and fraternal bodies in requesting you to meet with us in 1912. Come and admire the beauties of nature; behold our vast resources, partake of our hospitality; carry home a totem of our friendship.

"M. S. GOOD, Secretary."

"Seattle, Washington, Nov. 19, 1911.

"American Federation of Labor Convention,

"Frank Morrison, Secretary,

"Atlanta, Ga.

"Waitresses' Union, Local 240, sends greetings and invites you to hold the 1912 convention in Seattle, Washington. We have got the time; we have got the place and we have got the girls.

"ALICE M. LORD,

"Secretary-Treasurer."

"Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 20, 1911.

"Mr. Frank Morrison,

"Sec'y. A. F. of L. Atlanta, Ga.

"The Rochester Waiters' Alliance, Local 763, Hotel and Restaurant Employees' International Alliance, respectfully requests your influence to boost for Rochester for your next convention and be assured of a royal welcome.

"Signed,

"THE EXECUTIVE BOARD,

"C. Parry Compere, Chairman."

Delegate Smith (C. T.), obtained unanimous consent for the introduction of resolution No. 173.

Referred to Committee on Resolutions.

Vice-President O'Connell—I move that 10 o'clock Thursday morning be made a special order to hear the report of the Committee on Adjustment. (Seconded and carried.)

Secretary Morrison announced that a complete report of the discussion on the Civic Federation resolutions would be prepared and printed Friday evening, and later would be incorporated in the permanent proceedings.

Delegate Fahey moved that the discussion had in the Convention on the Civic Federation resolutions be also printed in pamphlet form for distribution throughout the country. (Seconded and carried.)

Report of Committee on Resolutions.

Delegate Frey, secretary of the committee, reported as follows:

Resolution No. 16—By delegation representing White Rats Actors' Union:

WHEREAS, It having been the custom of Booking Agents throughout this country in making contracts for theatrical entertainments to set aside the largest part of the appropriation for their own, we, The White Rats Actors' Union, desiring not alone to protect its own membership from the rapacity of their booking agents, but to also protect the various Organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, do hereby request that the following circular letter be made a part of the official records of this Convention and be published in the official minutes of this Convention:

To Organized Labor—Greeting:

As you are aware that The White Rats Actors' Union and The Associated Actresses of America are part of the American Federation of Labor through direct affiliation, and we have in our membership of over 12,000 Actors and Actresses, all of the best and desirable acts in Vaudeville, we would respectfully ask your consideration of the following resolution adopted by our Organization, which is of material benefit to you and our general membership.

It has been a custom with booking agents to enter into contracts furnishing entertainments for a stated sum of money, thereby giving them the right to pay individual acts an amount of money which would allow the booking agent to deduct for his share in many instances considerable of the appropriation, we would ask that in your business relations with any booking agent there shall be two conditions embodied into the contract.

1st. All acts and members thereof shall produce on the night of the entertainment a paid up card in full benefit of the White Rats Actors' Union or the Associated Actresses of America; failure to do so being sufficient cause for the prevention of said act making its professional appearance.

2d. That the said booking agent shall furnish to the Entertainment Committee a list of the acts engaged to appear on the night of the entertainment, with salaries attached thereto, which salaries shall be paid direct to the acts who shall appear.

You will realize by these two requests that we desire to have none but union acts appear and, secondly, to protect you in such a way that it will be an assured fact that you will receive full value for your appropriation.

With the hope that you will insist in the enforcement of these two provisions in your contract, we are

Fraternally yours,

WHITE RATS ACTORS' UNION AND ASSOCIATED ACTRESSES OF AMERICA.

The committee recommended that the request contained in the "Whereas" of the resolution be granted.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 31—By Delegates Joseph N. Weber, Owen Miller and Joe L. Winkler, of the American Federation of Musicians:

WHEREAS, The civilian musicians of the United States of America have, for the last twenty-five years, made every possible effort to secure legislation, which would absolutely prohibit the enlisted musicians in the army and navy of the United States from entering into the competitive field and, more particularly, the Marine Band of Washington, D. C.; and

WHEREAS, In this effort the civilians were supported by the National League of Musicians, which has since merged into the American Federation of Musicians, and the American Federation of Labor, and after twenty-five years of agitation, a bill approved May 11th, 1908, was passed by Congress prohibiting enlisted musicians in either the army or the navy from competing with civilian musicians; and

WHEREAS, When this bill was approved and about to be enforced the commander of the marine corps claimed that the bill did not apply to the Marine Band of Washington, D. C. This being a question of law, was referred to the then attorney general of the United States, Charles Bonaparte, who in June, 1908, took the matter under advisement, and did not come to a decision, until the day after the general election in November of that year, and then he made the astounding decision that the Marine Band of Washington, D. C., was not a part of the naval service of the United States. This decision resulted in this band, which was really the objective point of the law, being allowed to continue in this competition with civilian musicians; and

WHEREAS, Recognizing the absurdity of such a decision, the A. F. of M., through its proper officials, made an appeal to the President of the United States to have this matter again referred to the law department of the United States with a view of exactly defining the relationship of the Marine Band of Washington, D. C., to the United States Government, which decision was by the President referred to the attorney general, and no word has been heard from it since; and

WHEREAS, To forever settle this question, a joint bill was introduced in the House by the Hon. Richard Barthold, of Missouri, and in the Senate by Senator W. J. Stone, of Missouri, which, if passed, will forever settle the question as to any enlisted men in the service of the United States being allowed to compete in any capacity with civilians, to engage in any pursuit, business, or performance in civil life for emolument, hire, or otherwise when the same shall interfere with customary employment and regular engagements of local civilians in their respective arts, trades, or professions; and

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Labor at every Convention, when this question was brought up, has always heartily endorsed this idea of preventing the competition of civilians with enlisted men; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor assembled in Atlanta, Ga., heartily endorses this resolution, and instructs its Legislative Committee to do everything in their power that legitimately can be done, to have this proposed legislation made into law.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 33—By Delegates A. Furuseth and Patrick Flynn, of the Seamen's International Union:

WHEREAS, The seamen of the country are deprived of individual liberty and are compelled to suffer hardships and wrongs far beyond what is inherent in the calling; and

WHEREAS, Under treaties with foreign powers, our government imposes the same involuntary servitude upon foreign seamen coming to our ports; and

WHEREAS, These laws are destructive to life and property at sea as well as a hindrance to the development of an efficient body of seamen; and

WHEREAS, H. R. 11372, introduced by Hon. William B. Wilson, of Pennsylvania, is designed to improve the condition of the seamen and the safety of life and property at sea; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the American Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, that we urge upon Congress the immediate consideration of the bill and its speedy enactment into law.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 36—By Delegate William D. Clark, of the International Steel and Copper Plate Printers' Union of North America:

WHEREAS, There is now pending in the Senate of the United States a Bill (S. 2564), known as the Smoot Printing Bill, the main purpose of which is to codify, amend and enact printing laws, but which contains at the end of its 110 pages, an eight line section which indirectly repeals a law of Congress enacted for the purpose of safeguarding the people's currency against the dangers of counterfeiting; and

WHEREAS, The maximum of safety against the evils of the counterfeiters' art is guaranteed by what is known as the hand-roller process of manufacturing paper securities; and

WHEREAS, A cheaply manufactured paper money in the making of which are to be discarded, for the sake of a false economy, the high art features of the engravers' and printers' crafts, which alone render impossible reckless and widespread counterfeiting such as prevailed in the days of the "wild-cat" currency of the long ago, would entail incalculable losses upon the common people; and as proof, experience teaches that counterfeiters apply their skill principally to producing and putting in circulation the small notes which pass current among farmers, and the working classes in the cities and towns, on the assumption, which is well grounded, that those classes will be the least suspicious and the more easily deceived with well executed counterfeiters; and

WHEREAS, It is the highest duty of the Government to throw every possible safeguard about the paper money which it manufactures and puts in circulation among the people to the end that their present implicit confidence in this function of government may not be misplaced or destroyed; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, protests against the repeal of the law of Congress of 1893 which provides that the paper money, bonds and checks of the United States shall be manufactured in the highest style of the art by what is known as the hand-roller process. We do not believe in a cheap country, cheap men, cheap wages, or a currency cheapened to the danger point of encouraging counterfeiting. In this respect the people have implicit confidence in their Government, and our pride and interest alike demand that this confidence shall not be destroyed. The people, in the last analysis, are the Government, and their voice, and not that of the selfish and scheming interests, should prevail in this matter of so vast, far-reaching and vital concern.

RESOLVED further, That all bodies affiliated with the American Federation of Labor are hereby requested and urged to make immediate and strong protest against the repeal or modification of the law hereinbefore referred to, such protests to be sent to the Senators and Representatives of the States and Congressional Districts wherein the protesting bodies are located; and be it further

RESOLVED, That copies hereof be transmitted to the President of the United States, the Secretary of the Treasury, the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House of Representatives with a request that the same be printed in full in the Congressional Record.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 38—By Delegate L. P. Philippi of the Central Trades and Labor Union of St. Louis:

WHEREAS, One of the most effective means of exploiting the great masses of the people of this country is the over-capitalization of the railroads by the speculators and pirate-gamblers who are in possession of these important means of transportation; and

WHEREAS, This system of wholesale robbery of the people under the cloak of lawful and legitimate business should be checked without delay and for this purpose such legislation should be enacted as would make the over-capitalization of railroads and similar enterprises a crime punishable by law, such punishment to consist of forfeiting the charter or charters of the corporations violating such laws; and

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Labor considers it the duty of organized labor to protect the people against this system of gambling in watered stock; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By this Convention of the American Federation of Labor that the incoming Executive Council shall without delay inaugurate a campaign against this watered stock gambling in railroad enterprises;

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council is hereby instructed to co-operate with the legislative committees of all the state federations of labor with the view of inaugurating a systematic campaign throughout the land in favor of anti-watered stock legislation both by the several state legislatures and by the United States Congress;

RESOLVED, That the state federations affiliated with the A. F. of L. be hereby called upon to render all possible aid and assistance to the Executive Council in its efforts to carry out the object of this resolution.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution, when amended by striking out the word "incoming," preceding the words "Executive Council."

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 44—By Delegates William J. Cooke, Harry DeVeaux and Joseph Birnes, of the White Rats Actors' Union:

WHEREAS, It has been reported to the representatives of the White Rats Actors' Union that actors and actresses in different parts of this country have made personal appeals to the various state and local central bodies to assist these individuals in settling local differences between the actor and his employer; and

WHEREAS, To prevent the state federation and local city central bodies assisting those who may apply claiming membership in the White Rats Actors' Union and abusing the confidence of these bodies; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That all officials of the American Federation of Labor, state federation and central labor unions shall first communicate with the main office of the White Rats Actors' Union, when application is made for assistance and upon reply, if favorable, may assist in any way that shall tend to satisfactorily settle the difficulty.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

The question was discussed by Delegate Smith (L. W.), who stated that it would be difficult to make such investigation in case a central body wished to render prompt assistance to actors, and cited a case where the Executive Board of the Detroit Central Body had been able to secure the salary for some people who were under contract to give a performance, but the contract was not carried out by the manager.

Delegate DeVeaux stated that it would take but a short time to communicate by telegraph with the office of the organization to ascertain the standing of members.

Delegate Russi discussed the question briefly, and stated that the Central Body in San Antonio had been appealed to on two different occasions, and had rendered assistance to those actors carrying the cards of the Actors' Union.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 50—By Delegate John B. Lennon, Journeymen Tailors' Union of America:

WHEREAS, The Federal Council Commission on the Church and Social Service are undertaking a nation-wide campaign to secure for all industrial workers one day's rest in seven; and

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Labor is unqualifiedly on record for the same for many years, and have been efficiently working to that end; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we heartily appreciate the co-operation of the "Commission on the Church and Social Service" to the end of securing the one day's rest in seven, and pledge to the Commission, and to all others who may assist in this work, our hearty and earnest assistance.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

The committee recommended that Resolution 52 be amended by striking out the word "allow" in the fourth line of the last Whereas and inserting the word "permit," also striking from the end of the same whereas the words "capital combinations by making it a factory worked by slaves with hardly any pay to cover the necessities of life" and inserting "combinations of capital." Also striking out Section 4 of the first Resolve, "The radical abolishment of convict labor in public work," and inserting "The abolition of any form of convict labor for private profit, convict labor to be prohibited on public work, with the exception of road-making and the manufacture of articles for penal and eleemosynary institutions;" also striking out the words "six days" in the second Resolved and inserting the words "as soon as possible," the amended resolution to read:

Resolution No. 52—By Delegates Santiago Iglesias, Rafael Alonzo and Joaquin A. Becerril:

WHEREAS, The policy announced to the people of Porto Rico by the representatives of the American people and the American administration, at the time of the occupation of the island, was to the effect that they had come to our shores for humanity's sake and work out the salvation of the people by giving them protection in their civil and human rights; and

WHEREAS, The Legislative Assembly of Porto Rico has committed itself against the enactment of Labor laws to better the conditions of the workmen, while capital is offered every opportunity to increase its resources and encroaching power to the detriment and injury of the Labor interest, the needs and problems of which are ignored and contemptuously treated; and

WHEREAS, There are at present in Porto Rico two hundred thousand children under fourteen years of age, who are being deprived of an education on account of the fact that the local government has failed to provide a sufficient number of schools and teachers; and

WHEREAS, A large number of said children are now being employed and exploited in factories and other establishments with great risk to their lives; and

WHEREAS, The American people and their administration being well aware of their responsibilities toward Porto Rico, are in duty bound to not permit the prosperity and progress of the island to be at the mercy of combinations of capital; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, that a committee be appointed which, jointly with Porto Rican delegation and presided over by the President of the American Federation of Labor, shall call on the President of the United States and transmit to him the following recommendations:

1. That the President of the United States recommend to the Governor of Porto Rico to cause the introduction of bills in the Executive Council of Porto Rico, tending to the enactment of the following acts by the Executive Council and Insular Legislature;

2. That the school appropriation be increased to twice the amount now expended annually.

3. That the salaries of the Porto Rican school teachers be placed on the same scale as those paid to American teachers.

4. That the eight-hour working day act and the Labor Liability Act of the United States become a law of Porto Rico and enforced by the different heads of the Insular Departments.

5. The abolition of any form of convict labor for private profit, convict labor to be prohibited on public work, with the exception of road making and the manufacture of articles for penal and eleemosynary institutions.

6. An act to protect the agricultural laborer working in sugar and others from the mercilessness of trusts, sugar factories, that is to say,

An act providing for a thorough inspection of factories, shops, apartment buildings and all kinds of establishments for the purpose of improving the now terrible sanitary conditions thereof.

The establishment of a branch of the Labor Bureau in Porto Rico for the benefit of the people of the island; and

The enactment of a law prohibiting the employment of children under the age of fourteen years in factories, work shops and like establishments; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the aforesaid committee shall discharge the duties herein stated before the President of the United States as soon as possible after the adjournment of the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor.

The committee recommended the adoption of the resolution as amended.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 56—By Delegates T. H. Gerrey and T. J. O'Donnell, International Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes:

RESOLVED, That this Convention of the American Federation of Labor recommend to the Interstate Commerce Commission that where the cost of the operation of a railroad is increased through increased wages being paid to its employes, the railway company which has thus increased its cost of operation, shall be allowed a fair proportion of the increase in their transportation rates.

The committee reported as follows: Believing that it is not advisable for this Convention to pass upon the principle embodied in the resolution, we recommend nonconcurrence.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 60 be amended by striking out the word "we" in the third line of the last Resolved and inserting "the American Federation of Labor." Also striking out the word "our" in the fourth line and inserting "its," the amended resolution to read:

Resolution No. 60—By Delegate Oscar F. Nelson, of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks:

WHEREAS, The Post Office Clerks are the only federal civil service employees who have no legalized regulation as to the number of hours that shall constitute a day's work, and are, therefore, often compelled to work an excessive number of hours without extra compensation; and

WHEREAS, Due to that fact, and because the duties of a Post Office Clerk are of an arduous nature, both physically and mentally, tiring and long hours of labor imperils the health of such workers, the National Federation of Post Office Clerks have petitioned the Post Office Department to recommend the enactment of legislation that will provide "that eight hours to be worked within ten consecutive hours shall constitute a day's work for Post Office Clerks"; and

WHEREAS, We believe our Government should be foremost among all employers of labor in maintaining a high standard of working conditions, and equitable treatment of its employees; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the American Federation of Labor, in annual convention assembled in Atlanta, Ga., do hereby go on record as indorsing the request of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks that a law be enacted that will provide "that eight hours to be worked within ten consecutive hours shall constitute a day's work for Post Office Clerks;" and, be it further

RESOLVED, That in view of the fact that the Post Office Clerks are prohibited from petitioning Congress, that the American Federation of Labor do hereby instruct its Legislative Committee to strive to have such a measure enacted into law.

The committee recommended concurrence in the amended resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Delegate Frey, Secretary of the Committee, stated that the committee had taken joint action on Resolutions 64 and 75, and offered a substitute for the two resolutions. The resolutions and the substitute are as follows:

Resolution No. 64—By Delegate A. Johannsen, of the San Francisco Labor Council:

WHEREAS, The United States Government has in operation at Mare Island, California, a large and fully equipped navy yard at which the largest of battleships can be built at a fair cost of construction and under good working conditions; and

WHEREAS, Congress at its last session authorized the building of naval ships under the eight-hour work day; and

WHEREAS, There appears to be a movement on foot by various private ship yards not to bid for the construction of these ships under the eight hour law, thereby attempting to force the Government to grant these contracts under a longer work day, which is against the interest of all workers, we therefore believe that the Mare Island Navy Yard should be considered; and

WHEREAS, The building of the Panama Exposition will bring a large number of mechanics to the Pacific coast, who at completion of the Exposition buildings will be thrown out of employment, thereby overcrowding the market for labor; and

WHEREAS, The building of this battleship at Mare Island would greatly assist in solving the problem of the unemployed of this coast, and would also be of educational benefit to the many thousands of visitors that will come to the Pacific coast during the life of the fair; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, endorse the plan as set forth and urge our National Senators and Congressmen to use their best efforts to the end that Congress enact legislation for the building of a battleship at Mare Island Navy Yard, which shall be under course of construction during the life of the fair; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the delegates at the Convention urge their respective organizations to write their Congressmen requesting that they lend assistance to this movement.

Resolution No. 75—By Delegate J. W. Holder, of the Florida State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, It is reported in the public press that private shipbuilding companies have refused to bid upon the new battleship authorized at the last session of Congress, because of the application of the eight-hour day law to battleship construction; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That efforts be made by the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated organizations to extend the construction of battleships, colliers, etc., in more government navy yards, and that Congress be urged to equip the government navy yards at Boston, Philadelphia, Norfolk and Mare Island for the purpose of doing all of its new work, as well as its repairs, thereby establishing efficiency, economy and absolute independence of all private contractors, who levy tribute upon the nation by excessive bids and who on the other hand, employ labor under the long ten-hour day at low wages and under sweated conditions of employment.

The committee reported as follows: Your committee is strongly opposed to the spirit of militarism and the creation of enormous navies by the nations of the world, and in this attitude it is supported by the unanimous voice of the trade unions of Europe and America. Nevertheless, as the existing unchristian attitude of the nations of the earth is such as to make armament necessary for the present, and as naval vessels will for a time be constructed for the service of the United States, your committee submits the following as a substitute for the resolution:

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor be and is hereby instructed to use its best efforts to have all naval vessels for the service of the United States constructed in its government navy yards.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

Treasurer Lennon—I desire to enter my protest against declaring that armaments are necessary. I do not believe any such thing. I believe when our government sets an example to the world the opposite of that it is more than likely that other nations will fall in line and militarism will disappear from the greatest civilized nations of the world, and their attentions, instead of being directed towards destruction, will be directed towards construction.

Delegate Frey, Secretary of the Committee, stated that the committee had qualified their reasons for stating that armaments were necessary.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 68—By Delegates T. V. O'Connor, M. W. Kelleher and Martin Cole, of the International Longshoremen's Association:

WHEREAS, Efforts have been made during the past three years to establish an eight-hour work day on government dredge work; and

WHEREAS, We are justly entitled to same, as conditions on this work are such that a shorter work day can be granted, and it would mean a great deal toward the uplifting of humanity and the general welfare of the dredgemen employed on this work; and

WHEREAS, Resolutions were adopted at the annual convention of all the dredge workers on the Great Lakes held in Detroit, Mich., on the 14th day of February, 1911, petitioning their honors, the President and the Vice-President of the United States and the Speaker of the House of Representatives to use their efforts in behalf of an eight-hour work day; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That an appeal be made that the Government Engineers make ample estimates on Government dredge work so as to enable the contractors to grant the eight-hour work day. They, the contractors, have advanced the argument repeatedly that the reason they cannot grant the eight-hour work day on government dredge work is because the government engineer's estimates are so low they cannot afford to grant the men a shorter work day; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the delegates of the International Longshoremen's Association to the convention of the American Federation of Labor will introduce resolutions advocating the eight-hour work day on all government dredge work, and instruct that a copy of these resolutions be sent by the Secretary of the Convention to the President of the United States and the Secretary of War; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the Secretary of this Convention shall send copies of these resolutions to the President of the United States, Vice-President of the United States, Speaker of the House of Representatives, Chairman of the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and the Secretary of War.

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 68 be adopted when amended to read:

Resolution No. 68—By Delegates T. V. O'Connor, M. W. Kelleher and Martin Cole, of the International Longshoremen's Association:

WHEREAS, Efforts have been made during the past three years to establish an eight-hour work day on government dredge work; and

WHEREAS, We are justly entitled to same, as conditions on this work are such that the eight-hour work day can be granted. It would mean a great deal toward the uplifting of humanity and the general welfare of the dredgemen employed on this work; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That an appeal be made that the Government Engineers make ample estimates on Government dredge work so as to enable the contractors to grant the eight-hour work day. They, the contractors, have advanced the argument repeatedly that the reason they cannot grant the eight-hour work day on government dredge work is because the government engineers' estimates are so low they cannot afford to grant the men a shorter work day; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the Secretary of this Convention shall send copies of these resolutions to the President of the United States, Vice-President of the United States, Speaker of the House of Representatives, Chairman of the Committee on Rivers and Harbors, and the Secretary of War.

On motion the report of the committee was concurred in and the resolution as amended adopted.

Resolution No. 72—By Delegates C. P. Fahey, of the Trades and Labor Council, Nashville, Tenn.; T. G. Kennedy, of the Trades and Labor Council, Memphis, Tenn., and T. J. Smith, Tennessee State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, The first Monday in September has been declared a legal holiday in honor of, and at the request of organized labor; and

WHEREAS, It is fast becoming a custom for theatrical managers to take advantage of the holiday for the purpose of giving special matinees; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the delegates of the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, that we request the Executive Council to take the matter up with the different theatrical agencies to the end that no special matinees will be had on Labor Day.

The committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, with instructions to take such steps as will secure the most efficient and satisfactory celebration of Labor Day.

On motion the report of the committee was concurred in.

Resolution No. 73—By Delegates Chas. P. Fahey, Trades and Labor Council, Nashville, Tenn.; T. G. Kennedy, Labor Council, Memphis, Tenn.; T. J. Smith, Tennessee State Federation of Labor; John T. Smith, Cigar Makers International Union; P. J. Doherty, Central Trades Council, Mobile, Ala.; W. E. Bryan, United Brotherhood of Leather Workers on Horse Goods; J. W. Bridwell, Stone Cutters' Association; Chas. W. Wilkerson, Missouri State Federation of Labor; Jerome Jones, Atlanta Federation of Trades; Samuel Kelly, Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paper Hangers; W. A. McKenna, Georgia Federation of Labor; F. A. Martin, Trades and Labor Assembly, Waycross, Ga.; A. McAndrew, E. Lewis Evans, Tobacco Workers International Union; George L. Berry, International Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union:

WHEREAS, The Thirtieth Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor assembled in St. Louis, adopted a resolution, No. 87, endorsing the organization known as the Southern Conference on Woman and Child Labor, whose objects are the procuring of uniform legislation in the southern states in the interest of women and children; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the delegates of the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, that we reaffirm the action taken by the St. Louis convention and recommend to the labor organizations of the South that they send representatives to the next conference which will be at Chattanooga, Tenn., in April, 1912, and that the action of this convention be communicated to all state and central bodies not later than February, 1912, by the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 80 be amended by inserting the word "channels" after the word "river" in line 5, the amended resolution to read:

Resolution No. 80—By Delegate J. W. Holder, Florida State Federation of Labor:

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council be authorized to draft suitable eight-hour provisos to be inserted in the several appropriation bills, providing for the construction of river channels, harbors, and an appropriation bill providing for fortification, which includes ordinance and armor, so that in future all such public work done for the United States Government may conform to the eight-hour provision as was enacted by the last Congress in the construction of battle-ships.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution as amended.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 88—By Delegates Jas. M. Lynch and T. W. McCullough, of the International Typographical Union:

WHEREAS, Death is annually taking a toll of human life from the ranks of the industrial workers through the agency of preventable disease and accident that is appalling in its total figures, totals that would shock the world if published in connection with a war or any great disaster, but which are passed over with stolid indifference because they deal mostly with the lives of men, women and children who are engaged in the daily struggle for existence; the economic loss through this cause amounting to sums that are represented by thousands of millions of dollars annually, without reckoning the human anguish, both mental and physical, which accompanies this waste of human life and energy that has challenged the attention of students as no other problem recently presented; and

WHEREAS, These victims of greed are multiplying because of the indifference that has made it possible for a contractor to bury his own dead without interference of authorities, or, where an inquiry is held, it is done in the most shamelessly perfunctory manner, or which will permit a gigantic corporation to hide behind impenetrable walls the individual tragedies that happen almost hourly; this condition has again and again been brought to public attention through the protest of the A. F. of L. and its affiliated bodies; and

WHEREAS, The efforts of the several International Unions of the jurisdiction, whose membership is peculiarly susceptible to the danger of occupational disease or hazard, have through their own initiative and activity established beyond peradventure that ordinary prudence exercised in the equipment and management of shops will protect the life and limbs of workmen engaged in these hazardous occupations, and has also established that improvement in the sanitary conditions of the work shop which brings with it a lessening liability to occupational disease, even to the point of eradicating the danger entirely, it having been shown in the case of printers of North America that the shortening of working hours and improvement in shop conditions have lengthened the longevity of the workmen to such an extent that the figures for the last decade show the astonishing change in the average life of the printer nearly nine years, and similar improvement has been noted in other occupations wherein similar care has been exercised in providing proper equipment and surrounding for the workmen; all this establishing beyond dispute or cavil the proposition that human life can be conserved without a lessening of the profits of the industry, and also establishing the truth of the accusation that hundreds of thousands of lives are sacrificed to the greed and avarice of the unscrupulous employer; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the American Federation of Labor that we give our commendation to all efforts from whatever source that are sincerely put forth to better conditions that surround the employment of the working men and women of the world; that we especially commend the efforts of those International Unions which have so steadfastly struggled to secure for their members the improved conditions of employment that have resulted in the lengthening of the lives of their members; that we give our encouragement to all organizations that are interested and seriously engaged in the work of providing against the occupational disease or hazard of employment by providing such safeguards as will obviate the danger to which the unfortunate members of these crafts are now exposed; that we are in sympathy with the efforts of other bodies who are making investigations to the end that preventable disease may be obliterated; and that the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated bodies will continue to give assistance and support at all times to the furtherance of the cause that has for its object the amelioration of the evils that now destroy so much of human usefulness.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 90.—By Delegates Wm. J. Cooke, Jos. Birnes and Harry DeVeaux, of the White Rats Actors' Union of America:

WHEREAS, At the last convention held in the city of San Francisco, a resolution was introduced by the Actors' National Protective Union instructing the convention and all its affiliated international and national unions, state federations and city central bodies to assist the organized Actors in their efforts to have remedial legislation passed in the different states better protecting the rights and equity of contracts for actors between the actor and his employers; and

WHEREAS, As a result of this action which has been endorsed at many of the succeeding conventions, laws have been passed in the various important state legislatures having for their purpose the proper legislative control over so-called theatrical employment agencies; and

WHEREAS, During the 1910 session of the New York State legislature a measure was passed and signed by the governor, known as Chapter 700 of the consolidated laws, an act to regulate employment agencies, which law was introduced and passed by the White Rats of America; and

WHEREAS, In the city of New York, the most important employment centre for the engagement of actors and actresses, the enforcement and operation of this act to regulate theatrical agencies is vested in an official known as the Commissioner of Licenses, who is an appointee of the mayor; and

WHEREAS, The present incumbent is now an organizer of the State Federation of Labor of New York and was for many years the official organizer of the American Federation of Labor for the New York district; and

WHEREAS, There exists a difference of opinion between the White Rats Actors' Union and the said Commissioner of Licenses as to the proper enforcement of the most vital sections of the present law, so much so that conditions are in a more confused and chaotic state than ever before, practically nullifying the most important sections of the law and leaving the actor and actress at the mercy of the theatrical agencies, who should be compelled to live up to the letter of the law, but who are disregarding all attempts at regulation and control by proper local officials, and who are willfully violating each and every provision of the present law; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this convention of the American Federation of Labor hereby instructs President Samuel Gompers to call a conference in the city of New York at the earliest time possible after the adjournment of this convention, to which shall be invited a committee of the White Rats Actors' Union, the Commissioner of Licenses of the city of New York and such members of the Executive Council as in his judgment may assist in bringing about a more perfect understanding between the White Rats Actors' Union and those engaged in enforcing the law known as Chapter 700 of the Consolidated Business laws, "an act to regulate employment agencies."

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 94 be amended by inserting the word "voluntary" before the word "financial" in line two of the last Resolve, the resolution to read:

Resolution No. 94.—By Delegates of the

Boilermakers, Blacksmiths, Machinists, Sheet Metal Workers, Railway Carmen, Pipe Fitters:

WHEREAS, There has been in progress for the past six weeks on the various roads forming the Harriman system, one of the largest strikes that has ever taken place on any of the railroads of the United States and involves all members of the several mechanical trades which constitute the System Federations on the Harriman lines proper and the Illinois Central railroads; and

WHEREAS, This strike was forced upon the men by the arbitrary acts of the management in discriminating and discharging the men and refusing to do business with the System Federation, notwithstanding the fact that many railroads have been doing business for some time with a Federation of their employees to the mutual advantage of both railroads and men; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the delegates to the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, do heartily endorse the action of the men in going on strike in vindication of the right to federate and secure equitable conditions; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That we pledge them moral and voluntary financial aid and call upon all affiliated organizations to contribute as largely and promptly as it is possible for them to do.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution as amended.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Secretary Frey stated that the Committee on Resolutions had completed its partial report.

Report of Committee on Education.

Delegate McKenna, Secretary of the committee, reported as follows:

Resolution No. 1—By International Association of Machinists' delegation:

WHEREAS, The 12th Convention of the I. A. of M. held at St. Louis, Mo., 1907, went on record as being in favor of petitioning the U. S. Congress to enact legislation granting compensation to federal employees meeting with accident in the course of their employment; and

WHEREAS, the U. S. Congress in response to the petition so made, did in the year 1908, enact a law during the 60th Congress establishing the humane principle of "Automatic Compensation for Accidents to Government Employees in Hazardous Employment"; and

WHEREAS, This act of Congress, while being correct in principle, is grossly insufficient in its award for death or permanent injury, the sum of only one year's wages being provided for such casualties; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the President and Executive Council of the A. F. of L. are hereby instructed to urge the passage of an amendment to the Government Employees' Compensation Law, so that a minimum of five years' wages shall be allowed in the case of death by accident, and to those meeting with permanent injury, a minimum sum equal to 50 per cent. of the wages, or to provide further that a settlement in full can be made by paying a lump sum equal to seven years' wages.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution, and that the Executive Council use its best efforts to have suitable legislation enacted.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 2—By Delegate James M. Lynch, of the International Typographical Union:

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor endorse the retirement of Government employees on pension, and directs its executive officers to petition Congress for the passage of a law embodying this reform, and also to appear before the proper committee in Congress in favor of the bill.

The committee reported as follows:

Your committee concurs in the sentiment of the resolution, and believes that the purport can be best accomplished by a general old age pension law, as is suggested by Resolution No. 4, of the Massachusetts State branch of the A. F. of L.

Delegate Nelson moved that Resolution No. 57 be read and considered with Resolution No. 2. (Seconded and carried.)

Delegate Durnin moved that Resolution No. 4 be considered with Resolutions Nos. 2 and 57. (Seconded and carried.)

Secretary McKenna read the following resolutions; with the recommendations of the committee on each:

Resolution No. 4—By Delegate T. J. Durnin, representing Massachusetts State Federation:

WHEREAS, Most working men in our country receive in return for their labor so small a part of what they produce, that it is all expended in merely keeping alive, since the average wage is not more than four hundred (400) dollars a year, it is impossible for three-fourths of the population to save a competency for their old age; the working class of the United States is not better off in the matter of wages than the working class of other countries, but in many other countries the duty of society to the aged is recognized. Old Age Pension Laws have been passed in Germany, Denmark, Italy, Austria, Great Britain, France, Australia, Canada and New Zealand; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Massachusetts State Branch of the American Federation of Labor, in convention assembled at Haverhill, in 1911, goes on record in favor of a comprehensive national old age pension system, and instructs its delegates to the American Federation of Labor to present its position to the next convention of the A. F. of L. for action.

The committee recommended concurrence in the sentiment expressed in the resolution, and recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council.

Resolution No. 57—By Delegate Oscar F. Nelson, of the National Federation of Post Office Clerks:

WHEREAS, Our government is the only one of the recognized civilized nations of the world that does not provide for its civil servants when they reach the age of superannuation after having given the active useful years of their lives in loyal and efficient services to the public; and

WHEREAS, There is now pending before Congress a measure known as H. R. 729, introduced by Congressman Austin, of Tennessee, which provides "that a 15 per cent increase in salary be granted all Federal Civil Service employees and that thereafter deduction shall be made monthly from such salary, to be held in trust by the Government to be paid as annuities when the employee is retired as superannuated or returned to them or their heirs in the event of resignation, dismissal or death before the retirement age is reached;" and

WHEREAS, Such a measure will insure the Government against carrying superannuated employees on the active payroll and will provide against the sad spectacle of faithful employees being dismissed from the service with no provision for old age, and is equitable in that it does not provide for the establishment of a civil pension list for a special class of citizens; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the American Federation of Labor, in Convention assembled in Atlanta, Ga., do hereby indorse and instruct our legislative committee to endeavor to have H. R. 729 enacted into law.

The committee endorsed the position of the N. F. P. O. in their efforts to better their condition, recommended that the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. take such action as is consistent with the policies of the A. F. of L. and that Bill H. R. No. 729 mentioned in the resolution be referred to the Executive Council for careful consideration.

Delegate Nelson—The reason I requested that Resolution No. 57 be considered at the same time as No. 2, or at least that both be read before action is taken on either is that the resolution I introduced is in effect a protest against the enactment of a measure that will provide civil pensions for federal civil service employes. I notice the committee has recommended that the proposition to endorse the specific bill be referred to the Executive Council. I have no objection to the proposition to refer to the Executive Council, but if No. 2 is adopted it places the American Federation of Labor on record as favoring a civil pension for federal civil service employees.

Delegate Nelson spoke at some length in opposition to a special pension for federal civil service employees, but stated that he favored a general old age pension law or a measure that would allow the federal civil service employees a sufficient compensation for their work to enable them to lay aside a portion of their salaries, to be retained by the Government for them until it was needed.

On motion of Delegate Nelson Resolutions Nos. 2, 4 and 57, with the recommendations of the committee, were referred to the Executive Council.

Resolution No. 23, by the Central Labor Union of Lancaster, Pa.:

WHEREAS, The second Sunday in the month of May each year has been set aside as Labor's "Memorial Day" and it has been found, particularly in the Northern states, that suitable flowers for decorating the graves of our departed ones are hard to secure so early in the season, and the further fact that "Mother's Day", which is generally observed in churches and by other religious societies, diverts attention away from our memorial services; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That Labor's Memorial Day be changed from the second to the fourth Sunday of May, and that hereafter the fourth Sunday in the month of May shall each year be observed as Labor's Memorial Day.

The committee recommended the adoption of the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 85—By Delegates James M. Lynch and T. W. McCullough, of the International Typographical Union:

WHEREAS, The officers of the American Federation of Labor have undertaken the dissemination of Labor News and notes through the medium of a Weekly News Letter issued from A. F. of L. headquarters, and distributed to the various labor publications of the country, to friendly newspapers, and to others who are entitled to receive the same, thereby affording a great convenience to all who are interested in the spread of accurate and reliable information concerning the labor movement, not only in America, but of the entire world, in all its ramifications; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention of the American Federation of Labor does hereby commend the course pursued by our officers in thus providing a weekly news service which can be depended upon to furnish the latest and most reliable information obtainable; that it has proven to be of much usefulness to the editors and others involved; that its accuracy has been tested and its service established to the point where its value can hardly be estimated; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That our officers be instructed by this Convention to continue this service, increasing its scope and volume as they may deem prudent or expedient, and that the secretaries of all organized bodies be requested to co-operate to the end that the value and usefulness of this service may be enhanced.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 91—By Delegates Wm. J. Cooke, Harry DeVaux and Jos. Birnes, of the White Rats Actors' Union of America:

WHEREAS, The White Rats Actors' Union intend to cover this country with its organizers for the purpose of properly carrying out its methods and policies and in so doing, it will be necessary to have and receive the moral support of all organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this convention of the American Federation of Labor, held at Atlanta, Ga., request all international and national unions, state federations and local city central bodies to render moral support to any and all traveling representatives of the White Rats Actors' Union and assist in all matters that will materially bring about better trade conditions between the employers of actors and actresses in this country and their employees.

The committee recommended that the word "instruct" in line 3 of the resolution be stricken out and the word "request" inserted, and recommended concurrence in the resolution as amended.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 146—By Delegates Thos. V. O'Connor, Martin Cole, M. W. Kelleher and P. F. A. Vaccarell, of the International Longshoremen's Association:

WHEREAS, The laws passed by the Senate and House of Congress, June 6, 1910, and covered and contained in department circular No. 207, changes the laws under which steamers of 65-foot may be operated; and

WHEREAS, This causes a hardship on the licensed tug-men and crews of fishing and pleasure steamers by placing lives in danger by having said steamers operated by incompetent pilots or engineers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the above law is detrimental to the best interests of life and property, and we ask that this law be changed so that it will not include boats propelled by steam; be it, further

RESOLVED, That the Legislative Committee of the A. F. of L. use all force at their command for the enactment of a statute repealing this vicious law.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

On that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Conservation of Natural Resources," the committee reported as follows:

Your committee has noted with a great deal of pleasure and interest that part of the Executive Council's report under the caption "Conservation of Natural Resources," and recommend that this convention go on record as approving the action of the Executive Council, and further recommend that the Conservation Committee of the A. F. of L. be continued during the coming year.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

On that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption, "Industrial Education," the committee reported as follows:

Your committee has carefully noted the progress made by the Special Committee on Industrial Education appointed by the A. F. of L., and recommend that the action of the Executive Council be concurred in. We further recommend that the special committee obtain all information possible and make a full report to the A. F. of L. Convention in 1912.

On motion the report of the committee was concurred in.

On that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "A. F. of L. News Letter" the committee reported as follows:

Your committee considers the establishment of the "A. F. of L. News Letter" as one of the many important reforms put into effect by the A. F. of L. Its good results are so manifest that it would be useless to discuss the matter at length, as Resolution No. 85, introduced by James M. Lynch and T. W. McCullough, conveys the ideas of the committee. We recommend that secretaries of local, central, federal and state bodies be urged to give the A. F. of L. office accurate and prompt information about all matters referred to them, so that the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor will be in a position to give out accurate information from his office to the press. We further recommend that when a report of the unfairness of a firm or business has been received, or when an individual member or officer has been reported as having violated any of our laws, that every effort to assure the reliability and accuracy of such reports be made before publishing them.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

When the report of the committee on the subject of Industrial Education was made President Gompers and Treasurer Lennon spoke of the value of the reports that could be secured from the Government on that subject, and advised all those interested in the matter to secure them.

The committee made a further report in regard to Industrial Education, which was discussed very briefly and referred back to the committee for some slight changes.

Report of Committee on Secretary's Report.

Delegate Conway, secretary of the committee, reported as follows:

We, your committee on the report of Secretary Morrison, beg leave to offer the following for your consideration and action thereon:

That part pertaining to the receipts and expenditures, cash on hand and sureties, has been compared and acted upon favorably by the Auditing Committee, and we, your committee, agree with the findings of the Auditing Committee.

On page 3 of the report under the caption of "One-Cent Assessment" and the "Three-Cent Assessment" we find that there is a balance being carried in these funds and we therefore recommend that the same be transferred to the general fund of the Federation by the Secretary, avoiding a great deal of duplicating in accounts.

Your committee desires to call special attention to that part of the report of the Secretary bearing upon the benefits paid to the members of the international organizations during the past year, which has been forwarded to the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor. The magnificent amounts dispersed by the international organizations in fraternal benefits are something worthy of great thought, not only in demonstrating clearly to the unorganized as well as to the organized, the wonderful benefits to be procured through affiliation with organized labor. This report proves that the magnificent increase in wage scales—the shortening of the hours of labor is not all that can be gained through affiliation and we would recommend that all organizations paying benefits in the way of sick, death, or funeral, report the amounts during the coming year, more concisely, to the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, to be incorporated in future reports by that official. By doing so, there can be no doubt when publicity is given to it that it will aid largely in increasing membership.

The American Federationist.

We, your committee, recommend that the Executive Council, or those designated by the Council, use greater effort to secure an increased subscription to the American Federationist. We feel positively that were the Federationist brought before the attention of every local affiliated with national or international bodies, greater education would be had in the industrial movement. The magazine is published entirely in the interest of labor and is its official paper, or in other words, it is the official mouthpiece, to convey news of the very best interest to the workers, as well as beneficial for organizing purposes, and in recommending the above for the consideration of the Convention it is done with the purpose of bringing the Federationist more before the public, and having it read by a greater number than at the present time.

Your committee desires at this time to direct particular attention to pages 21 and 22 in which is conveyed information of the greatest value. The plate on page 22 is well worthy of not only the greatest study, but of special action by this Convention. The magnificent clearness with which Secretary Morrison demonstrates the growth of the Federation since the year 1837 to 1911 is so patent that your Committee recommends that the same be printed in a four-page pamphlet for general distribution.

In the handsome increase in membership since 1897 is demonstrated without peradventure of doubt that the solidarity of the American Federation of Labor is of such magnitude that it is impossible for human agency to dissolve it.

In conclusion, your committee takes the liberty of sincerely congratulating Secretary Morrison upon the magnificent report furnished to this, the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor. The entire report as compiled by the secretary shows that the greatest care and study were used in bringing about truthful and statistical facts, and the members of your committee feel that they would be lax in their work were they not at this time to compliment and congratulate the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor and his staff upon the magnificent proof to you and to the world, of labor's magnificent growth through affiliation with the American Federation of Labor.

Fraternally,

A. B. LOWE, Chairman.

JOHN WILLIAMS.

RICHARD H. CURRAN.

CHAS. T. SMITH.

THOS. L. HUGHES.

H. J. CONWAY, Secy.

E. LEWIS EVANS.

HARRY DeVEAUX.

JAMES R. CROZIER.

THOMAS RUMSEY.

WALTER V. PRICE.

JAMES GERON.

MARTIN LAWLOR.

HUBERT S. MARSHALL.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Delegate DeVeaux moved that an agreement between the American Federation of Musicians, International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and the White Rats Actors' Union of America that had been entered into by these organizations be read and made part of the proceedings of the convention.

The motion was seconded and carried, and the following agreement was read:

At a conference called by the President of the American Federation of Labor, which was held in the city of Atlanta, Ga., on the 20th day of November, 1911, by and between Joseph N. Weber, Owen Miller, Joseph F. Winkler and David A. Carey, representing the American Federation of Musicians; John F. Barry, John Suarez, George W. Peterson, representing the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, and William J. Cooke, Harry DeVeaux and Joseph

Birnes, representing the White Rats Actors' Union; it was recognized that it is to the best interests of those employed in and about the theatres, that a closer bond of affiliation and sympathy should exist, thus bringing about more concentrated action when necessary to advance the best interests of the members of the three unions necessary to the production of a theatrical performance, and therefore, it was mutually agreed:

FIRST: That every moral influence shall be exerted by the officials and locals of the American Federation of Musicians and the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees to adjust any differences wherein a member of the White Rats Actors' Union may become involved, provided the White Rats Actors' Union is not in a position or finds it impossible to give to its members the necessary aid or assistance.

SECOND: All requests for moral assistance made by a member of the White Rats Actors' Union to either the American Federation of Musicians or International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, or any of the affiliated locals of either organization, shall be referred by the party to whom the request is made, to the White Rats Actors' Union, for the purpose of passing thereon before action is taken.

THIRD: The White Rats Actors' Union will show to the American Federation of Musicians, the International Theatrical Stage Employees and the members and officers thereof, the same consideration as paragraphs First and Second of this agreement provides for the White Rats Actors' Union and its members.

FOURTH: Either party to this agreement may give same any publicity, it may desire.

FIFTH: Nothing in this agreement shall be so construed as running contrary to the laws, rules and regulations of any organization party thereto, nor shall any proviso contained in this agreement be so construed as to interfere with the charter rights which any organization party thereto enjoys as a member of the American Federation of Labor.

Representing American Federation of Musicians:

JOE N. WEBER.

OWEN MILLER.

JOE F. WINKLER.

DAVID A. CAREY.

Representing International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees:

JOHN J. BARRY.

JOHN SUAREZ.

GEO. W. PETERSON.

Representing White Rats Actors' Union of America:

HARRY DeVEAUX.

WILLIAM J. COOKE.

JOE BIRNES.

President Gompers called for reports from each committee in turn. No committee being ready to report, Vice-President Duncan moved that the rules be suspended and an adjournment taken to 9:30 Thursday morning to allow the committees to complete their reports. (Seconded.)

Delegate Furuseth moved as an amendment that the time for convening be 9 o'clock Thursday morning. The amendment was accepted by the mover of the original motion.

Delegate Carter moved as a substitute that the rules be suspended and that the convention hold a session at 7 o'clock p. m., Wednesday evening. (Seconded.)

Vice-President Duncan objected to the substitute, as it would prevent the completion of the report of some of the committees Wednesday evening.

The substitute offered by Delegate Carter was lost.

The original motion, as amended by Delegate Furuseth, was adopted.

At 12:15 p. m., the convention was adjourned, to reconvene at 9 a. m., Thursday, November 23rd.

Tenth Day--Thursday Morning Session

The Convention was called to order at 9 a. m., Thursday, November 23, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Pfaff, Roach (John), Coakley, Sheret, Gavlak, Coffey, Kelly, (William E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hurley, Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Wendt, Davis, Wangberg, Fuller, Ingram, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Welsh (Thomas E.), Creamer, Donnelly, (J. L.), Saum, Schaub.

Delegate Carey (D. A.), Chairman of the Committee on Credentials, reported as follows:

Your Committee has received a telegram from James J. Freil, of the International Stereotypers and Electrotypers' Union, requesting that Henry S. Bird be substituted in his place as a delegate because of his inability to attend the remaining sessions of the Convention.

Your committee reports further that a request is made that Percy Thomas, of the Commercial Telegraphers, be substituted for L. A. Pinson.

On motion the report of the Committee was adopted.

Vice-President Duncan in the chair.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON PRESIDENT'S REPORT.

Delegate Furuseth, Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

To the Officers and Members of the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor:

In considering and reporting upon the President's report we have, for convenience, classified the subjects treated under five different heads:

- First: Organization and growth,
- Second: Industrial Activity,
- Third: Litigation,
- Fourth: Political Activity, and
- Fifth: The McNamara Case.

Organization and Growth.

It is very gratifying to note the substantial growth of the affiliated organizations connected with the American Federation of Labor during the past year. It shows an awakened interest in our movement not of that sporadic type that grows up like a mushroom in the night and dies as quickly as it came, but of a substantial nature based upon a greater knowledge of the evolutionary progressive movement in which we are engaged.

To make a showing of this kind, despite the battle which has been waged against us, demonstrates the correctness of our policies. The more those who seek to destroy us antagonize our movement, the more it appeals to the intelligence of those who are led to investigate it through the discussion that has been aroused.

We do not court antagonism, but when it does come, we are satisfied that as our aims and objects are thereby brought into the limelight they will appeal to the sense of justice to all fair minded men.

Adopted unanimously.

Pacific Coast Trip.

The educational and organizing benefits derived from the trip of President Gompers across the continent to the Pacific Coast can scarcely be overestimated.

It gave an opportunity to thousands of wage workers and students of economic problems to hear those problems discussed by the authorized spokesman of the organized workers of our country. It gave a better understanding and a clearer view of our aims and purposes not only to our membership and to the unaffiliated workers who listened in great numbers, but also to the student and to the business man who at all times took occasion to hear and pay attention to what was said. It removed from the minds of the people who heard him, many false and absurd notions concerning our aims, our objects and our policies which had been fostered by our enemies to the detriment of the movement. It also gave to the President himself, through immediate contact, a closer acquaintance, not only with the currents of thought, but with the men of our movement of the Pacific.

We suggest that whenever possible similar trips be undertaken by the President.

Adopted unanimously.

American Federationist.

Next to the oral communication such as was exemplified by the speeches during the trip of President Gompers, is the written communication of thought, and as there are varying degrees of ability in presenting a case orally, so there are varying degrees in presenting it in writing. The American Federationist has remained in the forefront in the clearness with which it has presented the historical facts connected with our movement, its present day activities and our hopes of future achievement.

We heartily commend the American Federationist to our members and friends, realizing the advantages that can be obtained in the way of information and education from the contributed articles and editorials contained therein upon every phase of the labor movement. We note with interest the improvement in the magazine during the past year, and the high class of articles contained therein, and recommend that this standard be continued. We also desire to impress upon the members and friends of organized labor the necessity of giving greater support to the magazine by subscribing for the same to a greater degree in the future than has obtained in the past.

Adopted unanimously.

The Labor Press.

One of the most effective channels through which trade union propaganda is conducted is the bonafide labor press of our country. Many of the editors of these papers are self-sacrificing enthusiasts in the cause of humanity. We commend the suggestions of President Gompers relative to the labor press to the careful consideration of all who are interested in the trade union movement or the "important social problems of the day."

Adopted unanimously.

Organizers.

We would be lacking in a true conception of justice if we did not express our appreciation of the great work of the thousands of voluntary organizers who freely give their time, their intelligence and their energy towards the building up of the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated bodies, continually sacrificing their own comfort with no other hope of reward than the satisfaction of having done what they could to promote the welfare of mankind.

What we have said of the self-sacrificing spirit of the voluntary organizer applies equally to the paid organizer who endures the inconvenience of a tramp life away from home most of his time, with no more pay than he could at any time earn at his trade, in order that he may, in this way, contribute his mite towards the advancement of his associates. On that subject we endorse the following language from the President's report:

"In their labors our organizers especially illustrate the zeal, courage and intelligent effort which may always be relied upon on movements intended to promote the common good. There is not one of these organizers but has considered the various methods by which he, or she, might aid their fellow-workers, and has selected organization as the most promising in achievement. Most of them have proceeded with their labors year in and year out, asking no remuneration other than the feeling of having performed a duty. They have been unselfish. They are honored by their co-workers, who know and appreciate them. They deserve the sincere thanks of their delegates here assembled, which I take pleasure in expressing on behalf of the great movement in which we are enlisted."

We need more men, both volunteer and paid, to carry on this work and trust that the time is not far distant when methods will be developed by which more funds will become available for organizing purposes.

Adopted unanimously.

Labor Day and Labor Sunday.

We thoroughly agree with President Gompers in the educational value of Labor Day and Labor Sunday, and with him urge the fullest possible celebration of the one and use of the other.

Adopted unanimously.

Migratory Laborers.

The St. Louis Convention referred the question of the migratory workers to the Executive Council. The Executive Council after more investigation and deliberation, instructed President Gompers to further investigate this matter in the territory from whence the idea had come and which he was then about to visit. We urge upon every delegate, upon all the members of the labor movement, and upon all the students thereof, to read with care what the President has to say upon this subject.

We endorse his recommendations, and in addition, desire to say that in the condition of what is sometimes called the migratory workers, or the casual worker or the hobo, lurks a most serious danger not only to our movement, but the whole of existing society. This condition must be transformed. He must be endowed with courage for the present, with hope for the future and with an affection for his fellow workers, feeling that they are one with him and he with them, that they are willing to give thought, time and money to the consideration and improvement of his condition; that they will, if necessary, halt in their own progress in order to find the ways and means necessary to give to him, in a large measure, that which organized men already have achieved. We realize that the located and stationary worker of today may be the migratory worker of tomorrow, that our interests are, therefore, mutually interdependent, and being such, it is our duty to ourselves and to the migratory workers to assist them to assist themselves.

To that end, we recommend that the Executive Council be authorized to devise methods by which migratory workers can be organized, and to expend such money as in their judgment is necessary to accomplish that purpose.

Adopted unanimously.

Departments.

The formation of departments is practically a new departure in our methods of organization.

We are pleased to note the progress which has been made by the various departments already organized. We realize that there will be many difficulties met with, many problems to be solved which require patience, judgment and perseverance in working them out to a proper solution, and we suggest to the organizations affiliated with the various departments, the greatest forbearance with each other in dealing with the problems which must of necessity arise.

Adopted unanimously.

Canada.

The splendid growth of the International trade union movement in Canada demonstrates that our Canadian brothers realize the importance of unity on industrial questions affecting the workers on both sides of the national boundary which divides us politically. We believe that this growth can be encouraged and the Canadian movement greatly strengthened through the co-operation in international organizations having headquarters in America and local unions in Canada and we urge that all International Unions having local unions in Canada affiliate those local unions with the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress and pay the taxes to the Congress on their Canadian membership direct through the international officer.

Delegate Lowe—I suggest that the Executive Council give this matter all the consideration it can. The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has to deal with a dual organization. I hope the officers of the international organizations having locals in Canada will also give it consideration.

Adopted unanimously.

Porto Rico.

We are glad to note the healthy condition of the trade union movement in Porto Rico; that they have had strikes during the past year is in itself an indication of progress. Men do not strike unless they are discontented with existing industrial conditions. That they are more dissatisfied with existing political conditions than heretofore is also an indication of progress. We recommend that the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated unions give all the moral and financial assistance possible to the Porto Ricans in their struggle for better economic conditions.

We further recommend that the Executive Council and the Legislative Committee be instructed to use every honorable means available to secure the passage through Congress of a measure which will give to the Porto Ricans full recognition as citizens of the United States.

Adopted unanimously.

Fraternal Delegates.

The exchange of fraternal delegates between Great Britain, Canada and ourselves has been of great educational and organizing value to our movement. It has given us a better knowledge of the problems to be dealt with and the means of dealing with them. We have been able to profit by their experience and we trust they have been able to profit by ours. It is, therefore, in no perfunctory way that we welcome them amongst us.

We feel that greater benefits are yet to be derived from our mutual intercourse, more complete solidarity of the movement throughout the world and ultimately a higher standard of living and civilization for all mankind.

Adopted unanimously.

International Secretariat.

That our exchange of fraternal delegates has already led to good results is apparent from the benefits derived through our affiliation with the International Secretariat. For years we had been misrepresented to, and misunderstood by, the European trade unionists to such an extent that we were in a great measure outlawed by them in the consideration of trade union affairs. Our industrial conditions have been seriously injured as a result of that misunderstanding. We are, therefore, rejoiced at the better knowledge of the American labor movement which has been given to the European trade unionists by our delegates to the International Secretariat, and the greater unity of action which must result from the personal contact and better information furnished to them by those delegates.

We hope for the ultimate formation of the International Federation of Labor on the lines previously proposed by this organization.

We recommend a careful reading of the report of the President upon this subject and particularly desire to emphasize the final paragraph, which reads as follows:

"The peoples of all civilized countries are coming to the realization that in many respects they have a cause in common—that of justice, freedom and humanity. There is no force in society so potent to crystallize that sentiment and the establishment of human brotherhood as the historically developed and developing labor movement of the world."

Unanimously adopted.

Delegate Wilson, Chairman of the Committee—It is apparent that we will be unable to finish the report of the Committee on President's Report by the time for the special order for the Adjustment Committee is reached. I therefore move that the special order for the Adjustment Committee be postponed until after the completion of the report of the Committee on President's report. (Seconded and carried.)

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY.

Baldwin Locomotive Strike.

The conditions existing in the Baldwin Locomotive Works prior to the strike are but a fair example of what may be expected where industrial absolutism obtains. It is a demonstration of the patience of the American workmen that they endured the conditions existing there as long as they have and yet the issue proves the necessity for thorough organization, complete preparation and intelligent direction of labor's forces. We desire to quote and endorse the following language from the President's report on the lessons of that strike:

"The lesson that was taught by this action of the wage-workers for a great corporation is the necessity for thorough organization, for a large treasury, and for heeding the advice of officials of experience, who possess a knowledge of the state of trade and employment throughout the country. It is true that on occasions, when practically all the workers of a calling may reasonably be expected to respond to the demands of the more outspoken and venturesome, everything may be risked on a general walk-out and a complete tie-up of an industry. Enthusiasm, public opinion, financial aid from many quarters—these may, in such circumstances, stand in the place of the usual reliance of established trade unions on their financial resources. Successes, and notable ones, have thus been gained: but the international officers and the local union delegates may usually be trusted to foresee the chances for or against victory."

Adopted unanimously.

Ladies' Garment Workers' Strike.

The employers in the Ladies' Garment

Workers' trade in Cleveland have been and are the personification of industrial absolutism. They have cared nothing for the welfare of the women and children employed by them, except insofar as they could wring profits out of their labor.

The revolt has come. The struggle has been fierce, as they usually are under such conditions. They have received some assistance. They should have the full moral support of all lovers of freedom and fair play and be given such financial support as our people are able to provide in order that their contest may be brought to a successful issue.

Adopted unanimously.

LITIGATION.

Post Suit Against A. F. of L.

We note what President Gompers says relative to the Post suit against the A. F. of L., and we are particularly interested in the statement that the suit brought by Post is for the purpose of securing three-fold damages under the Sherman Act.

We recommend that the Executive Council be directed to defend the case in all its stages.

Adopted unanimously.

Hatters' Case.

We are pleased at the reversal of the verdict in the Hatters' case by the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals and at getting some clearer definition of what the law is. But while we are pleased at the verdict of the lower court having been reversed we should not lose sight of the fact that the decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals has made absolutely plain the necessity for amendment of existing law, so that it will embody the principle that patronage and good-will, if it is property at all, is the property of those who have the patronage and good-will to bestow.

We recommend that the Executive Council be directed to continue to assist the Hatters in the defense of this case.

Adopted unanimously.

Injunction—Contempt and Retrial.

Under this heading the President gives a summary of the development of the Puck's Stove and Range Company case. The Supreme Court, in finding that an agreement had been reached between the "Puck's Stove and Range Company" and the American Federation of Labor, refused to consider the appeal submitted by the A. F. of L. against the issuance of the injunction, as well as the Buck's Stove and Range Company's appeal against the modification thereof and dealt purely with the question of contempt.

The Court reversed the decision of Justice Wright which had been affirmed by the Court of Appeals and sent back the case to the lower court in the following language:

"The judgment of the Court of Appeals is reversed and the case remanded with directions to reverse the judgment of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia and remand the case to that court with direction that the contempt proceedings instituted by the Buck's Stove and Range Company be dismissed, but without prejudice to the power and right of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia to punish by a proper proceeding contempt, if any, committed against it."

Justice Wright immediately called the attorneys for the Buck's Stove and Range Company into court and instructed them to investigate and report whether there be good cause for believing that Messrs. Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison were guilty of contempt of court. This action was in direct line with his manner and the language used when imposing the original sentence for contempt as well as that of his other actions in this case, and his action since. In the opinion of this committee, the whole proceeding has more of the characteristics of persecution than trial and it is very difficult indeed to understand the conduct of Judge Wright, except upon the theory that he is lacking in the temper and qualifications that should and usually do constitute the judge, and we cannot help but express our deep regret that a man so lacking in judicial temperament should ever have been elevated to the bench.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

President Gompers—I am glad the Committee on President's report has had an opportunity to present this subject to the delegates at this time. About thirty minutes ago a newspaper man informed me that he had received information from his home office at Washington that Mr. Justice Wright was about to render his decision in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia this morning upon the motion to dismiss the charges of contempt against my two colleagues, Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Morrison and myself.

Since I have obtained recognition from you, Mr. Chairman, to address the Convention upon the motion before the house I have been handed two sheets of paper which I have not yet had an opportunity to read; but such as it contains, and without any attempt to read it first I shall, in view of the fact that it has been handed to me in full view of the delegates to this Convention, read it.

President Gompers read the following: Bulletin.

"Washington, Nov. 23.—Judge Daniel Thew Wright, voicing the opinion of the district supreme court, in general terms today overruled motions of Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, officers of the American Federation of Labor, to dismiss contempt proceedings against them on the ground that the application of the statute of limitation, held that contempt of court is not a crime and can therefore not be subject to the statute of limitations.

"He gives the counsel representing the labor leaders three days in which to reach an agreement with the committee previously appointed as to a suitable person to be named commissioner to take testimony as to the alleged.

"There being no faith or merit in any part of the motion it must be overruled." said Justice Wright.

"Of the parts of the labor leaders, motion urging the dismissal of the contempt proceedings, he said that they 'be put aside for they seem at best frivolous and insincere.'

Continuing the opinion says:

"Of the fallacy that alleged contemptners are contending with judges, contemptners cannot too soon unload their minds; for if charges of contempt are true the contest is against the supremacy of the law. The duty and concern of judges is only this: That for and in the name of the people the supremacy of the law should be maintained."

"Opinion read by Wright. Big crowd present."

In discussing the question President Gompers said in part:

The decision of the court is that the motions made by the defendants, Mitchell, Morrison and Gompers, have been dismissed and three days given for our attorneys and the attorneys of the prosecution to determine as to who shall be examiner. The examiner is simply one who has to be present when the testimony is taken. He has no power of any sort. If anything transpires he may report it to the court, but he cannot enforce any ruling; he has no ruling to make. In the report I had the honor to submit to this Convention I referred to our efforts to secure the trial of this case in open court before the judge, rather than have it referred to an examiner, if our motions to dismiss were overruled. During the taking of testimony in the original contempt proceedings a number of questions were put to me which I knew were entirely irrelevant, which were facetious and maliciously put and I at times turned to our counsel and in whispered conversation asked him if I ought to be compelled to answer the questions, and if I might not as well take a chance and refuse to answer and take the consequences. He said that he could not advise me not to answer. I had to answer the questions. Questions put later were of such an outrageous character that I simply on my own initiative declined to answer them. I was asked whether they were incriminating. I refused to answer that. The questions were certified to by the examiner and brought to the attention of the court. The court decided, after an argument of several hours, that I had to answer, no matter what the question was.

No principle for which we were contending was involved in that procedure, and I answered. The proceedings before the commissioner were resumed, and I answered. We were contending for a principle upon which we apprehended the Supreme Court of the United States would in the last analysis decide, the question of our right of self-ownership and the ownership of our patronage; the right to do collectively the things we had the lawful right to do as individuals. We could not get the Supreme Court to decide on that question, because they declared when our case reached there by reason of our having come to an agreement with the company that had theretofore been our antagonist it made the case a moot case and the court declined to decide upon it. Upon the resumption of taking testimony before the commissioner I had to answer the questions. The questions were irrelevant. The answers in reply were all taken in shorthand and written out. Objections may be made by the attorney for the defense. The objections are stated, but they are in print and the judge, after reading the question and then reading that answer, may upon the objection as recorded rule out both the question and the answer; but what human being is so constituted that he is not in some way or other influenced by the things which he has read?

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried by unanimous vote.

The People—The Judiciary—Injunctions Defense.

Under this caption President Gompers says in part:

To our 1908 Denver Convention, I took occasion to report:

"It is quite evident that it is the purpose of labor's opponents to entangle us in constant litigation before the courts, involving not only our time and attention, but enormous expense for legal counsel, printing, and court fees. The expenditures of time and money have been enormously increased in recent times, since the further abuse of the injunction writ and the Hatters' decision of the Supreme Court, all of which have been taken advantage of by all union haters.

"The contempt proceedings against Messrs. Mitchell, Morrison, and myself have just closed. The Executive Council or I may again be cited for contempt of court because I have undertaken to report the status of the case to this convention; and no one can foretell to what limits the contempt proceedings, injunction cases, and other suits may extend. For one, I am free to say that I shall not recommend the levying of additional assessments or making appeals for voluntary contributions in legal defense of these cases. If it is the intention of those who are hostile to the interests of the toilers of our country to take advantage of the trend of court decisions for the usurpation of the toilers' rights by the injunctions, let them proceed as they will without our assuming to do the impossible—that is, to be represented by competent legal counsel. If the situation is to become so acute, let us personally as best we can, defend our rights before the courts, taking whatever consequences may ensue. For one, I can see no remedy for these outrageous proceedings, unless there shall be a quickening of the conscience of our judges or the relief which the congress of our country can and should afford."

The committee to which this subject was referred made a report, upon which ensued a prolonged discussion and which was finally amended and adopted by the convention, as follows (the committee quoted part of my report upon the subject, which has already been mentioned herein):

"Bearing this in mind your committee desires to state that whenever the courts issue any injunctions which undertake to regulate our personal relations either with our employer or those from whom we may or may not purchase commodities, such courts are trespassing upon our relations which are personal relations, and with which equity power has no concern; that these injunctions are destructive of our rights as citizens, as well as of popular government, and we therefore declare that we will exercise all the rights and privileges guaranteed us by the Constitution and the laws of our country, and insist that it is our duty to defend ourselves at all hazards, and we recommend that such be our action, taking whatever results may come.

"We further recommend that when cited to show cause why such injunctions should not be issued, we should make no defense which would entail any considerable cost, and we further recommend that when cited for contempt the proper policy is as outlined above. We further desire to warn our fellow unionists that testimony extorted under equity process may be partially used in a damage suit under the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

"However, your committee feel constrained to say that when blanket injunctions are applied for or issued by the courts against the members of unions for no other reason except that they are members of the unions, and these injunctions are applied for or issued solely for the purpose of intimidating the members, we believe that such legal advice and protection as may be necessary should be provided for them by the organizations in interest."

Since that declaration of our 1908 convention the situation has not materially changed, except that events have made it, perhaps, more acute.

The question has therefore arisen in my mind as to whether in the recent past we have pursued the most practical course in the legal defenses we have presented to the courts when unwarrantable injunctions have been issued and we have been cited to show cause why we should not be punished for alleged violation of the injunctions—for contempt of court. Labor's antagonists have sought to entangle us in all forms of litigation involving large expenditures of the hard-earned money of the workers; they have to a considerable extent made impossible much constructive uplift work of our men and of our movement. The conclusion reached in one case has not had its definite determination by which the courts of other or of equal jurisdiction have limited their course. The question of doubt which has arisen in my mind as to the course we have pursued raises the further thought whether at some time we shall not appear in our own persons and in our own defense without the aid of attorneys; that is, whenever, after due study and consideration of the facts relative to an unwarrantable injunction in a labor dispute, it is decided by the union or unions interested that the members have good grounds for holding and maintaining that their fundamental, constitutional, and inherent rights are invaded by the injunction, and if arrest ensues, those workers who are taken before the courts shall decline to employ the services of counsel, but shall themselves assert their rights under the law and then abide by the consequences—if imprisonment follows, the victim in any case to accept his fate; the members of the union concerned to take care of his family or dependents, and the usual agents of publicity, especially the labor press and the spokesmen for the unions, to appeal the case to public opinion. By such a course any usual terrors of jail imprisonment will be annulled. It is clearly no disgrace to have been convicted under court decrees which the masses of the people know are oppressive and ill-grounded, which form mere flat law which has not been made through elected representatives in the course of legislation, and the general terrorism of which, by recent votings, the citizens of whole states have shown that they oppose.

The suggestion that hereafter we shall decline to employ the services of counsel when unwarrantable injunctions have been issued and we have been cited to show cause why we should not be punished for alleged violation of the injunction, was beyond question the correct line of policy under the conditions existing at the time the Denver Convention was held. Since that time the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in the Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison case has materially changed our position in relation to injunction when issued.

For the first time in the history of the Supreme Court it has taken occasion to divide contempt into two elements, one remedial and the other criminal. As long as the practices of the courts caused them to use that form of punishment which the Supreme Court designates as criminal, that is imprisonment for contempt or a fine, going to the court, it would have been good policy to have declined to employ the services of counsel and to have defended our rights personally before the courts, taking whatever consequence might ensue.

But with the suggestion made by the Supreme Court that punishment for contempt may be remedial in character that is, the court may impose three-fold damages for the benefit of the person or corporation suing out the writ, it becomes clearly apparent that the funds of every labor organization in the country are at the mercy of the courts whenever an injunction is issued, and we might just as well spend these funds in defending them and our members as to allow the courts to take them in the form of damages.

We, therefore, recommend the continuance of the policy of defending our members wherever possible when they are cited to show cause why an injunction should not be issued or why they should not be punished for contempt.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the Committee be adopted.

Delegate Barnes (J. M.)—I move as an amendment to the last paragraph that the words "do not," be inserted before the word "recommend."

Vice-President Duncan declared the amendment not in order, as it was a negative motion, and the same result would be secured by voting down the report of the Committee.

Vice-President Mitchell discussed the question briefly and said in part:

"I am sick of having this matter brought up in Convention after Convention. Justice Wright acts as though he were conspiring with the defense to bring this case to the attention of the public every time a Convention of the American Federation of Labor is being held, not as though it were done for the purpose of embarrassing the defense, but for the purpose of helping them.

"I don't want the American Federation of Labor or any organization affiliated with it to spend any more money in defending me, and I am sure that is the way President Gompers and Secretary Morrison feel about it. And if there is no great principle involved in which the rights of the men of labor are interested, and vitally interested, I think we might as well stop hiring lawyers and allow Justice Wright to have his way.

"I am free to confess I do not want to go to prison. I would give a great deal to remain free, but if there is no escape from the vindictiveness of this judge, except a term of imprisonment, I wish we could get started to serve the term and have the matter over with. The very prolongation of this litigation is a greater loss to me than would come from serving nine months in jail.

"I do not want to make any declaration as to what my purposes would be in this matter without consultation with my associates so as to determine how far the principles of organized labor are involved in the case now pending; but if the interests of organized labor are not now at stake I would be perfectly satisfied to advise our attorneys to withdraw this case, let us go to trial in whatever way we can and accept the consequences whatever they may be. At any rate, whatever the policy of the American Federation of Labor is going to be in regard to any other man, no matter how humble he may be, then that policy must apply equally to the three defendants in this case. In other words, if all men are not to be defended, then we must not be defended.

"I said a year ago I was anxious to withdraw from the vice-presidency of the American Federation of Labor, that I had retained the vice-presidency with the thought perhaps that if I was compelled to serve a term in prison it might be more helpful to the labor movement if I served as vice-president of the American Federation of Labor than as a private citizen. I had hoped by the time this Convention arrived we would have served the sentences, or, better still, would have been cleared."

In discussing the question Delegate Wilson, Chairman of the Committee, said in part:

"In the portion of the president's report the Committee in dealing with it discussed the question of defense in these cases generally, and not in the Gompers-Mitchell-Morrison case specifically, but including them in the general proposition. I may say from a knowledge of the discussions in the Committee that if we had been dealing with the Gompers-Mitchell-Morrison case specifically we still would have recommended a continuation of the defense; we would have refused, so far as the Committee was concerned, to have allowed the vindictive persecution of Judge Wright to drive us away from the defense of the officials who are accused in his court."

Chairman Wilson discussed the status of the case at some length, and concluded by saying it was the policy of the Committee to continue defending the case in question and similar cases so far as lay in the power of the organization.

The case was discussed briefly by Delegate Woll. After referring to the status of the case Delegate Woll said:

"It means simply that absolute control and dictatorship is possessed by the judge in these contempt proceedings. I fail to see where the state or federal government places the power in any one man to say he may do as he wishes, that if a man commits an offense the rules as applied in civil cases or the rules that hold good in criminal cases do not hold good. I think we should be more than ever determined to proceed and question the right of this court to say whether the safeguards of citizens and the safeguards of our constitutions are to be swept aside by a contempt procedure. If we are to have a dictatorship let us have that made clear."

Delegate Lavin discussed the question at some length, and referred to the fact that in the Boston Convention of the American Federation of Labor he had introduced a resolution from the Central Labor Union of Wilkesbarre, Penn., calling upon the American Federation of Labor to declare that the time had come when court injunctions were to be ignored and men, regardless of the court's orders, were to continue to exercise their constitutional rights. Delegate Lavin stated that the Convention at that time refused to adopt the resolution, but he stated that he considered the time had arrived for President Gompers, Vice-President Mitchell and Secretary Morrison to issue a statement and public declaration that the time had arrived for men to exercise their constitutional rights, regardless of court's orders, surrender to the decision of the court and go to jail. Delegate Lavin spoke at length on the question of boycotts.

Delegate Walker (J. H.), in discussing the question, said in part:

"I think perhaps I feel more interested in this particular case than does the ordinary man because of the fact that it was I who made the motion that was adopted by the Convention of the United Mine Workers for which Brother Mitchell is on trial now. I have not been able to rid myself of the feeling that whatever trouble, expense or humiliation he must undergo as a result of this action in this case, I am as much responsible as he is. In fact, I am really more responsible, because he was chairman of that Convention and president of our organization and could not help entertaining the motion when it was made. He did not vote either way on the proposition. I am not willing that there shall be any suffering, any expense or any humiliation inflicted that I can in any way prevent in connection with this case.

Delegate Walker discussed at length the decisions of the supreme court in cases affecting the rights of labor, and in concluding his discussion said:

"I believe that I can speak for the United Mine Workers' Organization when I say that I believe a majority of the members have as supreme contempt for Judge Wright as Brother Lavin evinced before he closed his speech, and at the same time I believe I can speak for them in saying if there is anything we can do to lessen the consequences to ex-President Mitchell, Brother Gompers and Brother Morrison we want to do it. Outside of that I believe I can speak for them, too, in emphasizing Delegate Woll's statement that if this man attempts, above all law and above the Constitution of the United States, to exercise a power assumed by himself, a power not given by any law on the books of the states or of the nation, if he is going to assume that power to penalize these men I believe they will want, when the final issue has come, to be in such shape that our position will be as clearly laid down as it is possible to lay it down, and that the infraction of the law by the supreme court judge will be made as clear as it is possible to make it. The only way that can be done is by having the best legal talent on our side when it goes through this process in that court it is possible for us to obtain. Under those circumstances my judgment is that the report of that Committee as presented to this Convention should be adopted."

Delegate Wilson, Chairman of the Committee, presided, while Vice-President Duncan discussed the question briefly.

Vice-President Duncan in discussing the question, said in part:

"I arise to support the report of the Committee. I consider it clear, logical and constructive. I am not entirely surprised at my colleague, John Mitchell, because I am one of those who know something of his big-heartedness, and if it were not for that or what that term generally means, he perhaps would not have made the statement he did here this morning. His statement means that, rather than impose upon the working people of this country any further financial obligation to defend him, he is willing to forego that, serve his term and end the controversy. But would that end the controversy? That would be equal in a sense, at least as far as the general public is concerned, to believing that organized labor laid down in this stage of the case to the decisions of Judge Wright. And there is a broader question involved in this than the financial defense of our three colleagues in the United States courts. The rights, the liberty and the freedom of public speech and free press to every union man and to every citizen of our own country is involved. I hold that the action taken in the Denver Convention upon this subject was correct, and I am glad to hear the Committee recommend a continuation of our policy.

Vice-President Duncan discussed at some length the status of the case, and in concluding his discussion said:

The report of the Committee is to continue under all our constitutional rights to defend ourselves. This is a case in which we should continue fighting every inch of the way for our rights and liberties in the courts as well as on the economic field. The Committee's report continues that policy, not only in as far as the accused men are concerned, but in all similar instances thereafter that the same process shall be followed, so that every constitutional right guaranteed to the people of the United States shall have been utilized to preserve the rights and liberty and freedom of all our people.

Delegate Furuseth, Secretary of the Committee, discussed the question briefly, and said in part:

I am glad to see that the interest in the peculiar position taken by the judiciary is increasing and that knowledge is also increasing to some extent. If the delegates had taken the trouble to read carefully what has come from the Committee on President's Report from time to time in the last ten years on this question they would not be quite as much in the fog as they are today. Repeatedly we have stated that in this, contempt of court is the same thing we name in Europe lese majeste, and that the judge sitting in equity is the king exercising autocratic power. There is no necessity for amending the constitutions in this matter. The position that the courts occupy is a stolen one. It has been obtained through holding that labor is property; that today business, the right to do business or to continue to do business, is a property right. The Congress of the United States can stop that by the passage of the Wilson bill on injunctions. It needs no constitutional amendments at all.

Delegate Mahon discussed the question, referring particularly to the number of injunctions that had been issued against himself and the attitude he had taken in regard to them. He stated that at times he had been opposed to securing counsel for himself, but when a large number of the men were out on strike and courts issued injunctions it was necessary to employ counsel to protect their interests. In concluding he said:

"The Committee's recommendation that we secure counsel when necessary is a good one. I will go as far as any man in resenting it when the courts infringe upon my rights, but that is not the question; the question is to keep our movement intact and to keep our armies so united that we can go on with the battle and win our struggles. I am in favor of the recommendation of the Committee."

Delegate Rumsey spoke of the interest of the members of his organization in the case under discussion, as the case grew out of the trouble existing between the Metal Polishers and the Buck Stove and Range Company. He stated that it might be considered a mark of ingratitude on the part of the representatives of his organization if they did not say at least a few words in behalf of the men who had been prosecuted or persecuted, as a result of the famous Buck's Stove and Range Company case. In concluding his discussion Delegate Rumsey said:

"Every delegate who has been in the Conventions for the last four or five years knows this case thoroughly. Perhaps there are some who do not know that the Metal Polishers' Union is responsible directly for the position that President Gompers, Vice-President Mitchell and Secretary Morrison have been placed in. For that reason I feel personally and on behalf of the organization I represent that the American labor movement at this time should in no uncertain sound send back to that man, who is more like a vampire than a judge, that the American Federation of Labor will go as far and farther than he will for the right of free speech."

Delegate Frey, in discussing the question, said in part:

"I am in favor of the report of the Committee for various reasons. One is that this case is the culmination of all those injunction cases, of those suits and those imprisonments for contempt which have been used to try to disrupt our movement. We find if we study what our American courts have been doing that since they began to use the injunction without any constitutional right to do so, simply arrogating that power to themselves, they have been laying down a dual code, they have been creating class distinctions in their decisions, giving to organized employers rights and privileges which they say working men are not entitled to. I feel that the report of the Committee should be sustained. It is only by carrying a case of this kind through to the extent of our ability in the courts, that we can have one case that will call such public attention to the abuses of our American courts that it will be possible for us to bring it to a stop."

The motion to adopt the report of the Committee was carried by unanimous vote.

POLITICAL ACTIVITY

Women and Child Labor Investigation.

Under this head, the President says:

"The results of this investigation have fully justified the action of the American Federation of Labor in behalf of such an inquiry being made. The last volume, No. 11, in speaking of 'Accidents in the metal trades,' contains five specific conclusions, as follows:

"The conclusions to which a student of accidents in the metal trades must come, as set forth in the foregoing pages (of this inquiry), may be summarized as follows:

"1. The hazard to women in these industries is distinct and considerable.

"2. When men and women work at the same task its dangers menace the women much more seriously.

"3. The employment of children have in general only those dangers common to all factory work. Their employment at dangerous tasks is rare and seems to be decreasing.

"4. Negligence of the worker as a cause of accident has been greatly over-emphasized.

"5. The accidents of most frequent occurrence are largely preventable."

The facts brought out by this investigation undertaken at the instance of the American Federation of Labor, are of great importance in dealing with the subject of women and child labor. We are glad to note that the employment of children at dangerous tasks is rare and seems to be decreasing, and we are satisfied that the insistent efforts of the American Federation of Labor have been in a great measure responsible for that improvement. The standard of any civilization is known by its treatment of women. Heavy and dangerous work and drudgery of any kind should not be imposed upon them, nor should conditions exist under which it will be permitted. Our highly developed machinery and systematic methods have solved the problem of production. There is no longer any fear about the world being able to maintain the entire population in comfort without imposing upon womanhood tasks unsuited to her sex, or upon children labor unsuitable to their strength or injurious to their mental and physical development.

We recommend that the Executive Council map out a line of policy by which remedial legislation can be introduced in the various state legislatures, excluding women from employment in heavy, or dangerous occupations and that the various state federations of labor and central labor unions use their influence to secure this enactment in their respective states.

Adopted unanimously.

Child Labor and Children's Bureau.

We favor the establishment of a Children's Bureau in the Department of Commerce and Labor and recommend that the Legislative Committee be instructed to use its influence to secure the enactment of such a law.

Adopted unanimously.

Uniform Laws to Protect Human Life

In connection with this subject, President Gompers says:

"Therefore I am constrained again to urge every central body and every state federation to maintain a permanent Legislative Committee, to keep us supplied with the latest happenings in their localities, and to whom we can apply and in turn supply local and state information concerning legislation."

We recommend that the suggestion be endorsed.

Delegate Woll—In connection with this subject I want to bring to the attention of our Convention that in the State of Illinois we have during the past year enacted an Occupational Disease Law, which is the first of its kind within the jurisdiction of the Federal government, a law which for the first time inaugurates with the American jurisprudence or gives to the workmen the right of action to recover damages resulting from occupational disease. That law has gone into effect. It is broad in its scope and I urge that every Central Labor Union obtain a copy of it and try to have similar legislation enacted in their respective states.

The report of the Committee was adopted by unanimous vote.

Seamen's Rights.

We endorse what the President says on this subject and urge the passage by Congress of H. R. No. 11372. We hope and trust that the importance to the nation, to the traveling public and to the men employed is now sufficiently well understood to stop further opposition and to pass this just, important and too long delayed measure.

Adopted unanimously.

Locomotive Boiler Inspection.

We are glad that President Gompers has been able to report the enactment of this much-needed legislation. It will not only promote the safety of railroad employes, but also of the traveling public. The measure is not all that labor desired, but it is a long step in the right direction and we hope that as experience shows the need of it, the law will be improved.

Adopted unanimously.

R. R. Track Inspection—Loading Vessels Regulation.

President Gompers reports:

"This matter was taken up with the Railroad Employees' Department, and after giving the whole subject careful consideration it was agreed that it would be wise to hold this matter in abeyance for the time being. The same course is being pursued in regard to the Government regulations in loading vessels."

We recommend that the action be endorsed.

Adopted unanimously.

Miners' Safety—U. S. Bureau of Mines.

We are pleased to note the efficient work which has been and is being done by the United States Bureau of Mines, and that notwithstanding the brief period in which the Bureau has been in existence, the lessening of the death rate is already noticeable. The systematic manner in which the Bureau has undertaken the work of discovering the means of preventing accidents in mines is worthy of our highest commendation, which, supplemented by rescue work, also systematically conducted, has already been of great benefit to the mine workers.

We recommend that the Legislative Committee be instructed to use its influence to secure a more liberal appropriation for this Bureau in order that its work may be more rapidly carried forward in developing the means of preventing accidents and securing the information necessary for legislation to protect life and health of those engaged in mining.

Adopted unanimously.

Occupational Diseases.

We endorse what President Gompers says on this subject. We note with pleasure the large number of laws which have been enacted in the various states for the improvement of the sanitary conditions of the workers, thereby removing to some extent the causes of occupational diseases.

We recommend that the various state federations, city central bodies, in conjunction with the Executive Council, continue their efforts to secure legislation which will entirely remove the causes of occupational diseases. We regret that the Esch Phosphorus Bill, H. R. 30,022 failed of passage in the 61st Congress. We feel that the failure of this measure is due to the parliamentary tactics of Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania.

We recommend that the Legislative Committee use every effort to secure the enactment of this measure in the present Congress in order that the horrible disease known as "phossy jaw" and the death resulting therefrom may be entirely eliminated.

Adopted unanimously.

The Triangle Shirt-Waist Factory Fire.

We endorse what President Gompers has to say in reporting upon this terrible disaster. We heartily concur in the recommendation contained in the following paragraph:

"In view of the cruel and blind selfishness of a class of employers in regard to the health and safety of workers in several parts of our country it is urgently recommended that our state federations and city central bodies in industrial centers demand not only the enforcement of existing law in factories, workshops, mills, and mines, but also the promotion of inquiry as to the needed laws for better—aye, humanly considered, absolutely necessary—sanitary home and workshop conditions, including safety from dangerous machinery and from fire and panic."

We heartily concur in the recommendation.

Adopted unanimously.

Insurance Laws—Trade Unions.

Under this caption, President Gompers says:

"I therefore again urge the membership in all of the States to exert themselves to secure the enactment of such definite legislation dealing with insurance matters as will permanently prevent any interference with the rights of organized labor in the humane work of caring for the sick, the injured, and the bereaved ones. It is particularly requested that the officers of our Federation be promptly advised concerning any proposed insurance legislation in any of the States at any time."

We recommend that the suggestion be concurred in.

Adopted unanimously.

Employers' Liability—Workmen's Compensation.

It is very gratifying to note the rapid strides which are being made in securing amendments to the Employers' Liability Laws in many states eliminating or modifying the defenses known as "Fellow-Servant Doctrine," "Assumption of Risk," "Contributory Negligence," and "Waiving of Rights," and the numerous commissions which have been appointed to investigate this subject and that of Workmen's Compensation. That these activities must ultimately lead to the establishment of a condition where the community at large will bear the burden of the accident, cost of production instead of it being borne by the individual worker, as at the present time, is already becoming apparent.

We recommend that the Executive Council and all the various branches of the A. F. of L., continue to exert their energies towards the consummation of this object so devoutly to be wished.

Adopted unanimously.

Eight Hour Law Extension.

We recommend the endorsement of the suggestion that efforts be made to include the eight-hour limitation clause in all appropriation bills authorizing expenditures for public works in the broadest sense of that term.

We further recommend the endorsement of the Hughes eight-hour bill and that the Legislative Committee be directed to endeavor to secure the enactment of these measures.

Efficiency.

We endorse what President Gompers says upon the subject of efficiency and in addition desire to call attention to the well-known fact that the American wage worker is the most productive wage-worker in the world, his average productivity being more than 50 per cent greater than his nearest competitor in that direction and the other well-known fact that the accident rate in industrial pursuits in this country is much greater than in any other country, and to throw out the suggestion that there may be some relation between the speeding-up processes by which this increased productivity is reached, and the large accident rate which follows in the work of our industries.

In the judgment of your Committee, the two are closely allied and if by a stop-watch system or any other system the American workman is speeded up to a still higher rate, we must expect that the accident rate will increase.

Adopted unanimously.

Immigration.

We endorse what is said by the President on this subject, and commend the activity of our officers, the Executive Council and Legislative Committee in endeavoring to secure this legislation already long delayed. We cannot pass by unnoticed the information conveyed that Representative Dalzell of Pennsylvania again "stood stubbornly on the lid and refused to budge."

We recommend that the Legislative Committee be instructed to continue their efforts to secure the passage of either the Gardner or the Burnett Bill.

Adopted unanimously.

Labor of Convicts.

We endorse this portion of the President's report, and particularly desire to emphasize the concluding paragraph which reads as follows:

"Prisoners should be required to work not for private profits of contractors, nor even for the financial profit of the State, but for the benefit of their dependents and for their own reformation."

We are unalterably opposed to the labor of convicts being let out to contract. We believe that the ultimate solution of the problem will come when the convicts are engaged in the widest possible diversity of industry by hand labor for the use of eleemosynary institutions. By this method both body and mind will be strengthened. It should be borne in mind that men are imprisoned supposedly for the welfare of society and their imprisonment and the labor which may be utilized thereby should never be so handled as to become a menace to any portion of society.

For the accomplishment of this purpose, we recommend the endorsement of the Hughes Bill prohibiting officers of the United States government from purchasing convict made goods for public use in the government service, and the Booher Bill H. R. 5601, requiring convict made goods to conform to the laws of the state into which they are shipped whether received in original packages or otherwise.

Adopted unanimously.

Civil Service Employees.

We endorse the statement of President Gompers and emphatically protest against the Executive Orders issued by Presidents Roosevelt and Taft prohibiting Civil Service employees from petitioning Congress or any committee, or member thereof, for redress of their grievances.

Under our form of government Congress is the final authority to determine the wages, hours of labor, and conditions of employment of Civil Service employees, and neither the President nor the head of any Department has any right to interfere with those employees in their presentation to Congress of such grievances, real or imaginary, which they believe ought to receive consideration. If the right of petition to the final authority is denied, it creates a spirit of unrest detrimental to the service and, as has been shown by the strikes of the railway mail clerks, the first in the history of our country, produces conflicts which should have no place in our Civil Service.

When any person enters the Civil Service he does not thereby resign his rights as a citizen. If the conditions under which he labors are not satisfactory to him, he has the same right to quit that employment, either singly or collectively, as if he had been employed by a private individual. That such a stoppage of work would be more far-reaching and its effects felt to a greater extent by the people at large than a strike of employees of a private concern must be apparent, and that in itself gives greater reason why the conditions should be made such that disputes of such a character would not arise.

The right of these servants to strike must not be denied, but all just grounds for striking should be removed. Those engaged in the Civil Service fully realize the power of Congress over the conditions of their employment and the methods required to secure changes. It follows, therefore, that if the right of petition, the right to carry their grievances to Congress is restored to them, there is not the remotest possibility that any strike would occur in the service. The welfare of the employees themselves and of the public generally requires that these Executive Orders shall be annulled. For that reason we recommend the endorsement of LaFollette's Bill S. 1162 and H. R. 5970, restoring the rights of petition to Civil Service employees.

Adopted unanimously.

Second-Class Postal Rates.

We commend the activity of our officers in pressing for a change in the second-class postal rate regulations. We protest against the use of the postal department as a bureau of censorship upon labor, reform and fraternal publications and warn the government that sitting on the safety valve does not prevent, but induces explosions.

As a means of remedying the evils of which complained, we endorse the principles embodied in the Dodds, Martin and Burton bills.

Adopted unanimously.

Political Changes Affecting Labor.

We concur in the position taken by President Gompers under this caption. We renew our adherence to the principles of the Initiative, Referendum and the Recall. We realize that these principles, which we have long contended for, are now being very generally accepted and the last stand is being made upon the right of the recall of judges. We cannot see the soundness of such a stand. Judges are like other men, good, bad and indifferent. The selection of any man as a judge does not thereby change his character or make him infallible. It is not always possible to know in advance whether or not a person selected for a position is qualified to fill it, either mentally or morally, and whenever it becomes apparent that anyone who has been selected as a judge is incapable of meting out justice to all parties coming before him, the safety of society itself requires that he should be recalled.

Adopted unanimously.

Labor Group in Congress.

On this subject we quote and endorse the following paragraph:

"The good this group of labor men has already accomplished, the good they can and no doubt will do in Congress, should imbue the men of labor and all liberty-loving citizens with the duty, the responsibility, and the advantage of not only securing the re-election of the members of this group, but also increasing the number and the possibilities of their influence and power for just and humane legislation."

Adopted unanimously.

Department of Labor.

We endorse the general principles embodied in the Sulzer bill for the establishment of a Department of Labor.

Adopted unanimously.

Anti-Trust and Injunction Limitation Bills.

The great German author, Goethe, once said: "The greatest element of terror is the unknown." The truth of that statement becomes apparent to anyone who stops for a moment to analyze the elements of fear. That which we know we fear less than that which is hidden from us. It is that trait of human character which has made injunctions such terrible weapons in the hands of our enemies. Every injunction issued is a law unto itself, the interpretation of which is unknown to anyone, even to the judge himself, until some one has been cited to show cause why he should not be held in contempt. The person enjoined has no means of knowing how to interpret it. He does not know what he can and what he cannot do. Its scope and its powers are unknown and convey that indefinable terror which comes from the unknown.

We re-affirm our previous position on this subject as follows:

"Injunctions in labor disputes are innovations in our modern jurisprudence. The original purposes for which injunctions were issued was to restrain parties to any dispute about the title or damages to property from interfering with this property in question, until the courts had determined the property rights involved. These restraining orders were made returnable at the next term of court, or at the session of court where the cases were to be heard and determined, and consequently were never permanent, expiring by their own limitations when the court had convened to determine the questions at issue. That they are clearly intended to protect property rights, and property rights only, is demonstrated by the fact that the courts invariably insist upon a bond being furnished by the parties suing out the writ to indemnify the parties enjoined for any loss that may accrue to them by virtue of the writ having been issued. When such an order of court has been violated it is not a difficult matter for the court to determine the actual damages, if any, that have been sustained through the issuance of the injunction, thereby protecting the restrained parties against any unwarranted invasion of their rights, but when the court issues an injunction in a labor dispute, restraining persons in controversy with employers from doing those things that they have a legal and moral right to do, and as a result of that injunction the contest is lost to the workers, there is no court on earth that can determine the damage that has been sustained by the persons enjoined, and, consequently they cannot recover from the bond. When the court arrogates to itself the power to issue injunctions never contemplated by the rules of equity, and in direct violation of constitutional and statutory law, and assumes the right to issue injunctions for the purpose of enforcing criminal law, it departs from the domain of property rights and invades that of personal rights in a manner for which there can be no excuse except that the court thereby becomes the sole judge of the law and the fact, and, if the parties enjoined are declared guilty of contempt, the extent of the punishment. All of which is in direct violation of the fundamental laws of the land and the Anglo-Saxon concept of human liberty.

The great charter of human liberty, the Magna Charta of Great Britain, the basis upon which British and American freedom rests, in Clause 39, declares:

"No free man shall be taken or imprisoned, disseized, or outlawed, or banished or any ways destroyed, nor will we pass upon him, nor will we send upon him, save by the lawful judgment of his peers, or by the law of the land."

The Bill of Rights enunciated by the British Parliament for the protection of the common people and signed by William and Mary upon their accession to the British throne as a condition upon which their title to sovereignty would rest, declares:

Paragraph 1. That the pretended power of suspending of laws, or the execution of laws, by legal authority, without consent of Parliament is illegal.

Paragraph 2. That the pretended power of dispensing with laws, or the execution of laws by regal authority as it hath been assumed, and exercised of late, is illegal.

The Declaration of Independence declares: "That all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, and that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," and it further assigns as one of the causes for the separation from the mother country and the establishment of an independent government, "for depriving us in many cases of the benefits of trial by jury."

The Constitution of the United States which creates our judiciary gives to it whatever power it can possibly exercise and limits its jurisdictions, says:

First amendment—Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Sixth amendment—In all criminal prosecutions, the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the State and district wherein the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have been previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

Ninth amendment—The enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people.

Tenth amendment—The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

Thirteenth amendment, Section 1—Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

It must be apparent to even the most casual investigators that the courts of the United States hold the same relationship to the Government of our country that the courts of Great Britain held and now hold to the legal power. No one will contend that any judge in Great Britain, either at the time of the adoption of our Constitution, or since that time, could have any greater power than that conferred by regal authority expressed by the Parliament and approved by the King. It naturally follows that our courts can have no greater power than that granted to them by the Constitution.

When the Constitution granted to our judiciary jurisdiction in equity, it could not have conveyed any wider authority than that which existed in English jurisprudence at the time of the adoption of the Constitution, and the quotations we have cited from the Magna Charta, the Bill of Rights and the Declaration of Independence, absolutely deny the right of equity courts to infringe upon personal liberty or existing law. Our government is not only one of delegated powers, but also of reserved powers. The same instrument that created the judiciary and delegated powers to it, reserves all the powers that are not thus delegated to the various States and to the people. When, therefore, any court assumes to exercise powers not delegated to it by the Constitution, it invades the rights specifically reserved by that document to the States and people; its action becomes void from lack of jurisdiction and should not be obeyed.

Notwithstanding the constitutional limitations mentioned, modern injunctions have taken three distinct lines, two of which are unconstitutional, arbitrary and unjust.

1. Injunctions are issued to protect property rights from irreparable injury where there is no remedy at law. That is the only province in which an injunction properly belongs.

2. Injunctions have unwarrantably been issued for the purpose of enforcing existing statutory and common law arbitrarily invading the jurisdiction of the legislatures and the law courts, thus wiping out of existence that protection against false accusations that free men have fought for and forced from the hands of autocratic kings and tyrannical governments and defended at the cost of their lives, from the days of Guthram the Dane to the present generation of man, the right of trial by jury.

When the legislative branch of the government has specified the punishment for any violation of law, it has provided what, in its judgment is an adequate remedy, and means of prevention, and having provided such remedy, no court has any right to step in over the head of the legislature and provide another remedy.

3. Modern American courts assume the right to issue injunctions interfering with the personal rights of man in exercising free speech, free press, peaceable assemblage, and in their personal relationship with each other. The rights of free speech, free press and peaceable assemblage are specifically guaranteed by the Constitution. They are the fundamental safeguards of a free people which neither courts, kings nor cajolery should be permitted to destroy. The personal relationship between man and man comes clearly within the jurisdiction of the law courts and has no place in the courts of equity, unless upon the assumption by the courts that man is property, an assumption repugnant to the sense of right of all civilized communities and specifically forbidden by the XIII Amendment to the Constitution of the United States. It is under this class of injunctions that the courts have assumed jurisdiction in the now famous Buck's Stove and Range Company case.

In this case, the court, in violation of the expressed terms of the Constitution, enjoins the right of free speech, free press and peaceable assemblage, in addition to proclaiming the false doctrine that patronage and good will in business is property.

Business is divided into two elements. The first element, the stock in trade is property beyond question. The second element, patronage and good will cannot by any stretch of the imagination, or by any method of reasoning or logic be considered the property of the man engaged in business. If it is property at all, it can only be the property of the man who has the patronage or the good will to give.

We are pleased to note that upon an appeal to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, Chief Justice Shepard dissents from the decision of the majority of the court.

The division of opinion of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia in this case, together with the widely divergent opinions expressed by different federal courts in various parts of the country, making it practically impossible for even those that are learned in the law, not to mention the ordinary layman, to determine with any degree of accuracy the extent of the jurisdiction and powers of our courts in injunction cases, shows the imperative need that the Supreme Court should pass upon the entire subject matter involved. No better case has yet presented itself for that purpose than the Buck's Stove and Range case and the contempt proceedings growing out of it.

We, therefore, recommend that the Executive Council be instructed to take such steps as may be necessary to carry this injunction case, and the contempt cases growing out of it, to the Supreme Court of the United States in order that we may secure a decision that will define our rights in so far as it can be done in considering these cases, and we further recommend that the Executive Council be authorized to raise funds, either by assessment or appeal, if more be needed, to carry the former recommendation into effect. No matter what position the Supreme Court may take upon the cases at issue, our experience with injunctions during the past 30 years makes it necessary to secure such legislation as will clearly mark the dividing line between Equity Courts and Law Courts and prevent the Equity Courts from ever again usurping the powers of our legislatures and our courts of law.

We have examined H. R. 11,032, introduced in the 62d Congress by Representative Wilson of Pennsylvania, and believe it will accomplish the results desired, if enacted into law, and that in addition it will remove the strained construction of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law made by the Supreme Court and destroy any possibility of making the said Sherman Anti-Trust Law apply to the laborer instead of to the product of his labor.

We recommend that this bill be endorsed, and every effort be put forth by the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated branches to secure its enactment into law.

We deem it incumbent upon us to emphasize the warning of President Gompers against the so-called "Life-Savers" injunction bills, introduced for the various reasons enumerated. Most of these bills concede a statutory right to the courts which they do not now possess—to issue injunctions in labor disputes, and then provide a trial by jury in contempt proceedings. Our contention is that when an injunction is issued in a labor dispute, irreparable injury is done to the parties enjoined and to the cause of labor, which no court can compute and no bond can indemnify. The remedy lies in remanding the courts to their proper functions in law and equity, as defined in the Wilson Bill.

Until some change has been secured in the practices of the courts, either through Supreme Court decisions, or legislative enactment, we recommend that every answer to a writ of injunction or a citation for contempt shall insist upon our constitutional right of free speech, free press, peaceable assemblage and freedom from interference with our personal rights by the Equity Courts, and the denial of their authority to assume that anyone has a property right in man, his good-will or his patronage.

We reindorse the Wilson "Anti-Injunction Bill" No. 11,032, and recommend that it be introduced and its passage urged in every State legislature.

Adopted unanimously.

Relief from Judicial Usurpation—The Wilson Bill.

Under the Sherman Anti-Trust Law as interpreted by the Supreme Court of the United States, any action taken by the working people in defense or in advancement of their interests by which an employer or business man may suffer financial or business loss, though the action of the workmen may consist in their exercise of the right of free men to withhold their labor power from employers or their patronage from business men, is now illegal. They may be mulcted in ten-fold damages alleged to have been suffered by an employer or business man, they may be prosecuted under the penal provisions of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, fined the sum of $5,000 and imprisoned for one year. The organization of workers, whether established for many years or temporarily formed to meet an economic emergency may be dissolved. That such a condition of affairs is unjust and intolerable all fair-minded, liberty-loving men admit. It is prejudicial to an orderly, natural, rational and peaceful solution of the industrial problem in the relations of wage earners and employers.

We recommend that this Convention authorize and direct the Executive Council to urge the President of the United States to recommend in his forthcoming message to Congress the amendment of the Sherman Anti-Trust Law upon the lines as contained in the Wilson Bill, to amend the Sherman Anti-Trust Law; and further, that the Executive Council be and it is hereby directed, either as a body or by the selection of a committee thereof, to obtain an interview with the President in furtherance of the purpose of this report.

The Executive Council is hereby further authorized and directed to take such further action, as its judgment may warrant, to secure the enactment of such legislation at the forthcoming session of Congress as shall secure the legal status of the organized movement of the wage workers for freedom from unjust discrimination in the exercise of their natural, normal and constitutional rights, through their voluntary associations.

And the Executive Council is further authorized and directed that in the event of a failure on the part of Congress to enact the legislation which we herein seek at the hands of the Congress and the President, to take such action as in its judgment the situation may warrant in the presidential and congressional election of 1912.

Adopted unanimously.

Police Oppression—The Third Degree— Extradition.

We endorse the action taken by President Gompers in endeavoring to secure remedial legislation, which will prevent police oppression and the infliction of the "third degree."

We protest against the cruelty of these methods which have no warrant for their existence except the brute power of barbarism and the traditions derived therefrom.

The exercise of torture, mental or physical, is prohibited alike by law and by ordinary human feeling. Its practice on the part of the police is usurpation that must be stopped.

To this end we recommend to the State Federations and to city central bodies that they urge upon the legislatures of their separate States the enactment of such law as shall put an end to this barbarism perpetrated upon those accused of crime and guard the rights inherent in humanity and presumably sacred in every citizen.

Delegate O'Brien discussed the question at length, and spoke of the manner in which the Boston central body looked after the interests of organized labor, and cited especially a case where it was sought to extradite two workers, but through the representations of the central body to the governor the men were liberated. He spoke in high terms of the work done by the organized men of Boston and of Massachusetts, and of the beneficial legislation they had obtained through the various city central bodies and the state branch of the A. F. of L.

The report of the committee was adopted by unanimous vote.

The McNamaras-Otis' Campaign for Revenge.

We endorse President Gompers in his statement of facts relative to the outrage upon the McNamara Brothers by kidnapping them and removing them to a hostile community for trial upon the charges made at the instance of an association bitterly antagonistic to organized labor.

We endorse the action which has already been taken and the appeal for funds which has already been made to secure a proper defense of these men. Few men realize the magnitude of the forces pitted against us in this case, in an effort not merely to convict the McNamara Brothers, but to destroy, if possible, the entire trade union movement, and the immense preparations that must consequently be made and expenses that must be incurred in order to defend our own right to existence.

A brief resume of some historical facts throws a flood of light upon the purpose underlying these prosecutions and the methods used. The United States Steel Corporation was organized in April, 1901. In the nine and three-quarters years of its existence up to the end of their fiscal year, December 31, 1910, its own reports to its stockholders show its net earnings to have been more than $1,400,000,000. These vast earnings have been made possible by a systematic method of driving out of existence every labor organization of the workmen in its various plants. It destroyed the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, the Carpenters, the Molders, the Machinists, the Bricklayers and Stone Masons, the Miners, the Seamen, the Longshoremen, in fact all organizations of workmen either in the plants it originally held, or those taken over by it after its organization.

It forced down the wages, it lengthened the hours of employment, it made the conditions whatever its will determined. One of the subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation is the American Bridge Company and which in turn is the principle factor in the Erector's Association. The last militant labor organization still resisting the encroachments of the United States Steel Corporation is the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Association in its strike against the American Bridge Company.

The United States Steel Corporation through its subsidiary, the American Bridge Company, has not yet succeeded in destroying the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

On the first day of October, 1910, an explosion of gas occurred in the Times Building at Los Angeles, California, by which the lives of twenty-one workmen were lost. The owner of the building was not then in the city of Los Angeles. The news was conveyed to him before he had reached that city and he was immediately quoted as placing the responsibility of the explosion upon the members of organized labor, before he had any personal knowledge of the conditions under which the explosion had taken place or even the opportunity to investigate the same.

With the allegation of General Otis as an inspiration, W. J. Burns employed by the Erectors' Association set about the task of bringing home to the officers of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers the charge of having destroyed the Times Building by the use of dynamite and murdered the twenty-one victims of that disaster. Having failed to destroy the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers by the same tactics used against other organizations, it was apparent that if their officers could be made to bear the responsibility of so horrible a crime, it would bring the organization into such disrepute that its destruction would inevitably follow.

Herein lies the motive. Some of the methods used are now part of our public records.

In testimony given before the Committee on Rules of the House of Representatives, May 27-29 of this year, a number of papers were submitted by Mr. Leo M. Rappaport, relative to the extradition of J. J. McNamara, which were certified to by L. G. Ellingham and H. L. Confer, Secretary and Deputy Secretary of State, of the State of Indiana, which show that on April 15, 1911, W. J. Burns sent the following telegram from Chicago, Ill., to W. J. Ford, Assistant District Attorney of the County of Los Angeles, California:

"I have arrested and am holding in Indianapolis, Ind., J. J. McNamara.

(Signed) W. J. BURNS."

On the same date, April 15, 1911, W. J. Ford, Assistant District Attorney for the County of Los Angeles, California, made affidavit in part as follows:

"I further depose and say that the said J. J. McNamara is a fugitive from justice and is now located and under arrest in the city of Indianapolis, State of Indiana.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 15th day of April, 1911.

(Signed) PAUL J. MCCORMICK, Judge of the Superior Court of the State of California in and for the County of Los Angeles."

As a matter of fact Burns lied when he sent the telegram and Ford perjured himself when he made the affidavit. J. J. McNamara was not arrested and was not held in custody in Indianapolis or anywhere else until the 22nd day of April, 1911, as is shown by the testimony before the same committee. When it is known that the laws of the State of California require that before extradition papers for any person can be issued by the Governor, it must be shown that the person for whom the requisition papers are desired is under arrest and is being held in custody, statement in his telegram will be understood.

At one o'clock in the afternoon of Saturday, April 22, 1911, the requisition papers were presented to and signed by Governor Marshall of Indiana.

Section 26 of the Acts of Indiana, 1905, provides:

"Upon demand of the executive authority of any State or Territory of the United States upon the governor of this State to surrender any fugitive from justice from such State or Territory pursuant to the Constitution and laws of the United States, he shall issue his warrant reciting the fact of such demand and the charge upon which it is based, with the time and place of the alleged commission of the offense, directed generally to any sheriff or constable of any county in this State, commanding him to apprehend such fugitive and bring him before the circuit, superior, or criminal court or judge of this State nearest or most convenient of access to the place at which the arrest may be made, and such warrant may be executed by any sheriff or constable in this State, in his own county, or in any county in this State."

Each of the courts mentioned in that law, that is, the Supreme Court, the Superior Court and the Criminal Court, were in session that Saturday afternoon.

John J. McNamara was in his office in the city of Indianapolis where he and the executive board of his organization were holding a meeting. That fact was well known to Burns and his associates who had the requisition papers in charge and yet the papers were not served upon McNamara until after all of these courts had adjourned. About 5:30 o'clock that afternoon, a number of policemen appeared at the offices of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, where their executive board was still in session and told J. J. McNamara that the Chief of Police desired to see him, declining to give him any information about what the chief wanted with him.

He left the offices of the Iron Workers and was taken to the Police Court. Arrangements had been made by the detectives with Police Judge Collins to arrive there in an automobile at that time. As has been shown by the quotation from the Indiana Statutes, a police court had no jurisdiction in requisition cases. Notwithstanding that fact, Judge Collins assumed jurisdiction, denied McNamara the right of counsel and immediately handed him over to the custody of James Hosick, to be taken to the State of California.

The evidence before the Committee on Rules of the House of Representatives shows that he was not thirty minutes in the Court House from the time that he arrived until his case was disposed of and he was hustled out manacled hand and foot into an automobile and taken out of the jurisdiction of the State of Indiana, carried across country in a zig-zag manner from one system of railroads to another in order to avoid the possibility of his friends suing out a writ of habeas corpus to contest the legality of the proceedings.

That was kidnapping.

In the meantime, his associates of the Executive Board were held prisoners in their own office and not allowed to communicate with anyone outside of it. Shortly afterwards a search warrant was presented, authorizing a search of the office for dynamite and other high explosives. Without warrant for this action, the books, papers and other documents of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers were seized, their safe forced open and $422.00 in cash stolen from it, and no one, except those engaged in the crime knows what has become of the money.

That was theft.

The entire procedure has all the earmarks of a conspiracy.

In view of all these facts which have already been verified by competent witnesses, we absolutely decline to believe in the guilt of the McNamara Brothers on the strength of evidence furnished by liars, perjurers, thieves, conspirators and kidnappers.

It will thus be observed that the situation involves not merely the defense of the McNamaras against an ordinary criminal prosecution, but a contest for the continued existence of our affiliated organizations against the greatest combination of capital and craft we have ever been called upon to meet.

Funds, and large amounts of them, will be necessary.

These men have been taken long distances from their homes where witnesses for their defense are to be secured. The trail of conspiracy must be run down and that will require the services of skilled men. The best attorneys must be employed because no chances can be taken. The kidnappers must be punished in order that an example may be made which will prevent a recurrence of this invasion of our rights, and a new phase of the situation is presented in the action of Judge Anderson in seizing from the Criminal Courts of the State of Indiana without warrant of law, and in violation of the Federal Constitution, Federal Statutes, the Indiana State Constitution and Statutes, the books, papers and documents of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers and turning them over to the United States District Attorney to make such use of as he may desire.

As these cases are pending in the Criminal Courts of California and Indiana where they should be dealt with according to law, we are forced to ask ourselves the question: What motive prompted Judge Anderson to pursue this course? And it will be necessary for us to inquire whether or not our organizations are being menaced from another source?

The stories which have been circulated concerning the large contributions of money by various organizations for the defense is for the apparent purpose of giving the workers the impression that a sufficient amount has already been contributed and it is not necessary for them to contribute more. Let no man be deceived. More money is needed and needed immediately and we cannot expect to secure it except from the contributions of the workers themselves.

We, therefore, recommend that this portion of our report be sent out in circular form to every international organization, every state federation of labor and city central body, and local affiliated union, with the request that money be immediately raised for this purpose and forwarded to the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor.

We further recommend that every officer and business agent connected with the trade union movement and every organizer of the American Federation of Labor and of the organizations affiliated therewith, be requested and urged to present these facts at every meeting they attend and at every opportunity and urge the necessity of immediate contributions.

And we further recommend that special representatives be sent into the large industrial sections in order to arouse the wage workers to the dangers of the situation and the necessity for immediate contributions.

The report of the Committee was adopted by unanimous vote.

Delegate Tveitmoen—We had the President of the American Federation of Labor at our convention some time ago. It has been intimated that we appreciated his visit, that the labor movement of California was benefited by what he had done. As an official recognition of his services to the labor movement in California, the State Federation of Labor at its twelfth annual convention last October passed resolutions which should have been presented to President Gompers by the representative of the California State Federation of Labor, Andrew J. Gallagher, but he was called home last Saturday by the illness of his mother. It therefore becomes my pleasure to present to the President of the American Federation of Labor the resolutions adopted by the California State Federation of Labor.

Delegate Tveitmoen presented to President Gompers the following resolutions, handsomely engrossed and bound in leather:

WHEREAS, Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, accepted our pressing invitation and traveled thousands of miles across the continent for the purpose of giving whatever assistance and help to the California Labor Movement that his peerless gifts and powerful influence could lend; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the California State Federation of Labor, representing the organized workers of this commonwealth in twelfth annual convention assembled, at Bakersfield, October 2nd to 7th, 1911, that a unanimous and rising vote of thanks be, and is hereby tendered to Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, for his splendid and valuable services to the workers' cause in this state, and for his many words of encouragement and wisdom which inspired greater aspiration and brighter hope in the hearts of our toilers and thus helped to keep the flame burning that lights the pathway to industrial freedom and economic liberty.

D. D. SULLIVAN, President.

(Seal) California State Federation of Labor, San Francisco, Cal., affiliated with American Federation of Labor.

PAUL SCHANENBERG, Secretary.

President Gompers in a brief address made suitable acknowledgment of the resolutions, and expressed his appreciation of the courtesies extended to him by the labor movement of the Pacific Coast during his visit there.

Delegate Furuseth, Secretary of the Committee, stated that the report of the Committee on the President's Report was completed, and that only matters referred from the report of the Executive Council and resolutions remained to be reported on.

Vice-President Duncan—What is the pleasure of the Convention in regard to that portion of the Committee's report?

On motion the report of the Committee on President's Report was adopted as a whole.

An inquiry was made by a delegate as to whether or not there would be discussion on the portion of the report dealing with the McNamara case after the noon adjournment. Vice-President Duncan stated that as that portion of the report had been adopted as a whole there would be no further discussion upon it.

Delegate Wilson, Secretary of the Committee, moved that the action of the Convention in adopting the report of the Committee be vacated and that the matter be open for discussion after adjournment. The motion was lost by a vote of 93 in the negative to 87 in the affirmative.

At 1 p. m., the Convention adjourned to reconvene at 2:30 p. m. of the same day.

Tenth Day---Thursday Afternoon Session

The Convention was called to order at 2:30 p.m., Thursday, November 23rd, Vice-President Duncan in the chair.

Absentees—Pfell, Roach, Coakley, Sheret, Gavlak, Coffey, Kelly (William E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hurley, Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Davis, Wangberg, Fuller, Leonard, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Welsh, Donnelly (J. L.), Saum, Schaub, Delegate Healy (T.), received unanimous consent to the introduction of resolution No. 175.

Referred to Committee on Resolutions.

Delegate Furuseth—Not as Secretary of the Committee, but as a delegate to this Convention, in my own right and upon my own responsibility, I propose to offer a motion. In explanation of it I want to say that sundry ideas came before us on the committee; sundry propositions were made to us as members of the committee in regard to raising funds. We questioned the advisability or the wisdom of putting it into the report, but it was suggested by the friends of the proposition that it would better come before you from the floor. I have waited on two occasions for it to come from the floor. It has not come, and now I make this motion as a delegate to this convention:

I move that all paid officials of the labor movement be requested to give one week's wages to the McNamara fund. (Seconded.)

Delegate Furuseth discussed the question briefly, and urged that the motion be adopted. The question was also discussed briefly in a general way by Delegate Gallagher (J. J.) and Delegate Probstle.

Delegate Johannsen made an extended statement in which he reviewed the conditions in San Francisco, Los Angeles and other parts of the Pacific Coast at the present time and for some years past. He spoke of the conditions that existed in Los Angeles prior to the destruction of the Times building, the various strikes that had been conducted by organized labor and the bitter hostilities of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association towards all labor unions. He also reviewed briefly the political situation in that city and the progress of the McNamara case.

Delegate Tveitmoie discussed the question briefly, and urged that the motion offered by Delegate Furuseth be adopted. He spoke of the kidnapping of the McNamara brothers and the efforts that were being made to convict them. He stated that a large amount of money would be necessary to defend them and spoke of the resources that were undoubtedly available on the side of the prosecution to secure evidence in the case. He reviewed briefly labor conditions on the Pacific coast and the causes that led up to the attack upon the officials of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

Delegate Ryan (F. M.), in discussing the question, spoke of the contest that has been waged for the past six years by the organization of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers against the American Bridge Company. He stated that during the period mentioned his organization had increased in numbers and improved its financial condition. He spoke in detail of the events in connection with the kidnapping of the Secretary of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers and the confiscation of the books and records of the office.

Delegate Gray discussed the condition of organized labor in Los Angeles and on the Pacific coast. He stated that the fight of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association was not against the McNamara brothers as against organized labor, and urged all members of organized labor to realize the seriousness of the case being tried in Los Angeles, and to do all in their power to furnish means to defend those on trial.

On motion debate was closed.

The motion offered by Delegate Furuseth that all paid officials of the labor movement be requested to give one week's wages to the McNamara fund was carried by a vote of 196 in the affirmative to 7 in the negative.

Delegate Cole—I move you, Mr. President, that each delegate to this Convention of the American Federation of Labor be authorized to turn over to Secretary Morrison one day's pay for the benefit of this fund. I offer this motion because if you are going to set an example for your officers you ought to be willing to follow it yourself. Nothing will be of more benefit to your local than for you to go out and practice what you preach. When you go back you can let them know that you were sincere and that you saw the matter in a proper light and contributed one day's pay, as well as providing for the officers to contribute a week's pay.

The motion offered by Delegate Cole was seconded.

In response to a question Delegate Cole stated that his motion contemplated that only delegates who were not salaried officers should contribute one day's pay.

The question was discussed briefly by Delegate Payne and Delegate Connors. Delegate Payne stated that the delegates of the Glass Bottle Blowers' Association who were not paid officials had voted against the motion to request the officers to donate one week's pay because they did not feel they were justified in voting away the salaries of other men.

The motion to request each delegate to donate one day's pay to the fund to defend the McNamara brothers was carried by unanimous vote.

Delegate Furuseth, Secretary of the Committee—The next phase of our report is that part of the Executive Council's report that has been referred to us.

On that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation Laws" the committee reported concurrence in the three recommendations made by the Executive Council, as follows:

1. A complete and total abrogation of all the old common law defenses enumerated under the heads of "fellow servant," "assumption of risk," "contributory negligence," "waiving of rights," with this additional suggestion:

2. That in compensation laws the right of the workman to sue for full damages should be reserved.

3. The feature of benefits is liable to be for some time a vexed question, and, in our opinion, is one that will develop according to experiences met with in the various jurisdictions, and which as time goes on will be easy to add to a measure by amendment when once the humane principle of automatic compensation is written into the statute books of the states.

The report of the committee was adopted by unanimous vote.

The committee recommended further that the following matter in regard to the constitutional amendment to state constitutions be referred back for further consideration:

Proposed Amendment to the State Constitution.

The legislature may impose such conditions on any contracts of employment as shall be designated to protect the health or promote the safety or well being of any of the parties thereto or the public, or to make provision for the payment of compensation with or without the right of trial by jury and with or without regard to fault of employees injured by accidents of employment, or to persons dependent upon them, either by employers or by employees or otherwise, in such manner as the legislature may prescribe, and in the exercise of the powers herein conferred the legislature shall not be limited under any other articles or sections of the constitution.

The agitation of such a proposed amendment to a state constitution wherever necessary would in some cases be sufficient moral influence to render favorable decisions already pending in courts.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

The question was discussed at some length by Delegate Henretty, who spoke of the compensation law of the State of Washington enacted in the State of Washington. He stated that it was the best and most progressive labor legislation of that character that had been adopted by any state in the Union, and urged that other states try to secure similar legislation.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

The committee recommended concurrence in that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "American Federation of Labor Office Building."

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

The committee recommended concurrence in the following portion of the Labor Representation Committee's report, contained in the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Labor Representation Committee's Report:"

We recommend to the Executive Council, and if you approve in turn, you recommend to the Atlanta Convention that the Labor Representation Committee be continued and authorized and empowered to act in unison with the Executive Council for the purpose of taking such action as may be deemed advisable and necessary for the successful consummation of the legislative demands and executive action by our Federal government, and also recommended concurrence in the following recommendation of the Executive Council:

The Executive Council takes pleasure in commending the work performed by the Labor Representation Committee, and recommends to this Convention that authority and instruction be given the Labor Representation Committee as stated in the report of the Committee just quoted.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 11—By Delegate Homer D. Call, of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters' and Butcher Workmen:

WHEREAS, It is stated upon good authority that there are now in this country two million foreigners, who have come to America with no intention of becoming American citizens, but to remain until they earn a few hundred dollars and then return to their native land; and

WHEREAS, These men, of whom many are Butcher Workmen, are working for a wage not to exceed $1.30 per day and living upon the 30 cents and sending back to their former home $1.00 per day; and

WHEREAS, The low wages for which they labor and the deplorable conditions under which they exist is practically establishing the standard of living for the American laboring man; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council be instructed to investigate this question at such time as is most convenient and be prepared to report back their findings in this matter to the coming convention of 1912.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution was covered by action on the President's Report and that no further action was necessary. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 17—By Delegate Duncan McDonald, of the United Mine Workers:

WHEREAS, There occurred in the city of Indianapolis, on April 22nd last, an incident so outrageously un-American and dastardly as to shock the sensibilities of every person who has even the slightest regard for any semblance of law; and

WHEREAS, The kidnapping of John J. McNamara, who was forcibly carried from the City of Indianapolis and the State of Indiana in such a manner as to make the acts of the pirates and robber barons of olden times as well as the more modern black hand methods seem like the act of amateurs; and

WHEREAS, This villainous plot was carried out with the knowledge and consent of the Mayor of Indianapolis, the Governor of Indiana, the Chief of Police of that city and others, thereby making them the co-conspirators of this infamous outrage; and

WHEREAS, This coterie of petty politicians who permitted, aided and abetted this high-handed act of high-binders were elected to the positions they have since disgraced by the votes of workingmen; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we condemn the acts of these co-conspirators for the unholy alliance with the agents and officers of the Erectors' Association and other labor-baiting and labor-skinning agencies, thereby showing their friendship for the employing class, as against the best interests of the working class; and be it further

RESOLVED, That, realizing the futility of passing resolutions unless carried into effect, we call upon the members of the working class of the City of Indianapolis and the State of Indiana to carry this protest into effect at the next and each succeeding election, and prove their loyalty to the trades union movement and the workers generally by voting only for members of their own class and in their own interest.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution was covered by action on the President's Report and that no further action was necessary. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 25—By Delegates F. M. Ryan, J. T. Butler and Wm. Clark, of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers:

The International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers hereby desire to extend their sincere and heartfelt thanks to the President and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, the International and National organizations, state bodies, Central Labor Unions and other contributors, for the loyal support, moral and financial, extended to their organization in the existing crisis.

The committee recommended that the Convention express its appreciation of the thanks offered and accept the same.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 30—By Delegates Santiago Iglesias, Rafael Alonzo and Joaquin A. Becerril:

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the Free Federation of the Workmen of Porto Rico in behalf of this Congress, shall petition the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor to the effect that a tour of inspection to Porto Rico be made by President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, when possible next year, 1912, and after the adjournment of said convention.

This is the second time that the Porto Rican labor movement has appealed to the Convention of the American Federation of Labor to have one of its officials to visit the Island. The Executive Council of the Free Federation of the Workmen of Porto Rico has the following reasons to advance in favor of the approval of this resolution and they are as follows:

First—That the Porto Rican labor movement is the less favored by the visit of the high officials representing the American labor movement, due to the distance from the mainland to our island—1300 miles—which deprives the latter from the intelligent and thorough diffusion of the ideas and principles taught by the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated unions.

Second—That it is six years since the first and last trip to this island by President Gompers, which was marked in the labor history of this territory by a great advance and progress, awakening a sincere enthusiasm and interest among all labor classes, especially the unorganized one, due to his enlightening speeches and wise teaching for humanity in general.

Third—That the Porto Rican labor movement in the same manner as the different National and International Unions, is badly in need of such closer intercourse as will better promote an intelligent, knowing and fraternal relation and bring about a clear and thorough understanding in all paramount and fundamental questions of the American Federation of Labor, with the end in view that the labor organizations in this island may be summed and be prepared to take an active and efficient part not only in those questions which directly affect them in this territory, but also in the economical and political problems which are daily presenting themselves in the States and which are solved with great glory to them by the organizations affiliated to the American Federation of Labor.

For these reasons we request the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor that this resolution of the Sixth Labor Congress of the Workmen of Porto Rico be approved and accordingly President Samuel Gompers, of the American Federation of Labor, be directed that he proceed to visit the island of Porto Rico when possible next year. It should be an honor for the labor classes in general in Porto Rico.

The committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council for favorable consideration if President Gompers' time shall permit of the visit. On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 34—By Delegate Oscar F. Nelson, of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks:

WHEREAS, During the past two years the Postoffice Department in its efforts to economize have done so at the expense of the working conditions of the employes of the various branches of the department by increasing hours of labor, withholding of promotions and in some instances refusing to expend the money appropriated by Congress for the extension of the postal service; and

WHEREAS, The Postoffice Department has further in its efforts to wipe out the small deficit that existed sought to increase the rates of postage on trades union and fraternal publications; and

WHEREAS, Seemingly this hurried and forced economy at the point of least resistance has been taken in order to pave the way for a much larger and permanent deficit, as the Postmaster-General and his assistants are now busily engaged in advocating "one-cent letter postage;" and

WHEREAS, There is now in existence an organization known as the "Penny Postage League" composed entirely of the same element that makes up the National Manufacturers' Association, who are striving to bring about "one cent letter postage," which would effect a saving of many millions of dollars annually to themselves, the "Big Business Interests," and which would create an enormous deficit which would have to be met by the masses who pay the taxes and who use the mail but infrequently as compared to those seeking this reduction in letter postage; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the American

Federation of Labor, in annual convention assembled at Atlanta, Ga., do hereby go on record as being opposed to "one cent letter postage" at least until such time as the Federal civil service employes have restored to them their inherent rights of free speech, that of petition, and the right to organize without interference, and until such time as rigid and satisfactory investigation has been made into the compensation paid the railroads for transportation of mails.

The committee reported as follows: That the portion of this resolution which seeks to improve the condition of the Federal Civil Service employes we have dealt with in the report on President's Report, and no further action is necessary. In that portion of the resolution proposing that we "go on record as being opposed to one-cent letter postage," the committee recommends non-concurrence.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

Delegate Nelson—I move as an amendment that the resolution be adopted.

President Gompers—That is a negative motion. A vote of this Convention against striking this out of the resolution will accomplish the same purpose.

Delegate Nelson spoke at length in favor of the resolution and in opposition to the report of the committee.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried by a vote of 80 in the affirmative to 34 in the negative.

Resolution No. 39—By Delegates Santiago Iglesias, Rafael Alonzo and Joaquin A. Recerill:

WHEREAS, The United States Congress refuses to recognize to the people of Porto Rico, which in fact is a part of the United States, the absolute right to be American citizens, and refuses to guarantee them full constitutional rights; and

WHEREAS, The Republican party now in power at its convention held in Chicago, in 1906, to nominate a presidential candidate bound itself by its platform to grant citizenship to the people of Porto Rico; and

WHEREAS, The Democratic party at its convention at Denver, Colorado, in 1906, for the nomination of a Presidential candidate, compromised itself in its platform to grant citizenship to the people of Porto Rico; and

WHEREAS, That President Roosevelt in his several messages sent annually at the opening of the session of Congress and in a special message to the national body, after his visit to Porto Rico recommended urgently the granting of citizenship to Porto Rico; and

WHEREAS, The actual Governor of Porto Rico, Hon. George R. Colton, emphatically recognizes this fact and the Porto Rican's indisputable right to said citizenship in a document which read as follows:

"Puerto Rico, Jaf-me, Alto,
October 30, 1911.

"I believe that the granting of full citizenship of the United States to the people of this Island is the paramount political consideration now pending in their behalf; that it would have a far-reaching beneficial effect upon their lives and activities; contribute more than anything else to their happiness and contentment and thus promote the progress and prosperity of their native land, which has become, through the interests of all affected, an inseparable part of the United States.

"The people who await this act of justice are sympathetic, lovable and loyal; there is nothing in their character incompatible with our National life, and their blending into it will add a note of commingled sweetness, patience and idealism that will perhaps be a beneficial admixture with our more rugged temperament. They and their country have become a part of us and our country; they need and are entitled, from every consideration, to all of the benefits of our institutions, sentimental and otherwise, that such affiliation should bring. They came into our country as a whole, willing and gladly, more than thirteen years ago, but no opportunity has yet been given them to become citizens without traveling fifteen hundred miles from their present residences in American territory to another part of the United States, which is, of course, out of the question for the mass of the people while during that time many thousands of foreigners, with to say the least no better qualifications than they, have immigrated to the United States and individually become citizens thereof and are today exercising their rights as such. That this inconsistency is understood by the people of the mainland, and will be eventually reconciled is shown by the fact that both of the principal political parties of the United States, in 1906, incorporated into their platforms clauses indicating their intention to support the granting of citizenship to the people of Porto Rico. That such action, has not yet been presented opportunely or in proper form to secure its passage.

"The people of Porto Rico have made their desires for citizenship manifest to all men in high governmental positions who have visited the island and practically all of such officials, including President Taft and his predecessor, President Roosevelt, have recommended to Congress that it be granted, but measures before Congress, or any other legislative body for that matter, must be followed up by those at interest and their friends upon the ground to prevent their being overlooked. Trusting, therefore, that your organization, representing as it does the largest class of the people in the Island, who are not less interested than all other classes, will adopt such means as may be deemed proper and efficacious for procuring the early consideration of this just and wise measure by Congress, and assuring you of my full co-operation in that behalf, I am,

"Very sincerely,

"GEO. R. COLTON, Governor.

"Hon. Santiago Iglesias,
President Federation Libre de los Trabajadores de Porto Rico, San Juan, P. R."

WHEREAS, The lack of citizenship put the Porto Ricans in the shameful position of a people without a country, and place an arm in the hands of the reactionary element in the hands in the Island which profits by its campaigning that the United States wants to maintain us as inferior human beings; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the President of the American Federation of Labor cause to be introduced into Congress a bill having for its purpose the granting to the people of Porto Rico full American citizenship, and guarantee to the Porto Ricans the same rights possessed by the people of other States and Territories of the Nation; therefore, be it further

RESOLVED, That this Convention of the American Federation of Labor pledges to the working people and all the people of Porto Rico its sympathy, co-operation and best efforts through the press, the pulpit and every means of publicity all over the United States to secure for the one million of Porto Ricans full American citizenship and the just rights to which they are entitled; and, further be it

RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be sent to the President of the United States and Congress.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution had been dealt with in the action on the President's Report and that no further action was necessary. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 45—By Delegates T. H. Gerrey and T. J. O'Donnell, of the International Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees:

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, shall take such steps as they may deem proper to secure the passage of such legislation as shall make effective at the earliest possible moment the recommendations of resolution No. 78, adopted at the St. Louis Convention of the A. F. of L., in November, 1910.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution had been dealt with in the action on the President's report and that no further action was necessary. The report of the committee was adopted.

The committee considered Resolutions Nos. 46 and 61, and offered a substitute for the two resolutions. The resolutions and the substitute are as follows:

Resolution No. 46—By Delegates A. B. Lowe and T. J. O'Donnell, of the International Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees:

RESOLVED, That the Erdman Act be extended to apply to maintenance of way employees and to all other organized railway employees who wish to be included in the scope of its operation.

Resolution No. 61—By Delegates A. B. Lowe, T. J. O'Donnell and T. H. Gerrey, International Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees:

RESOLVED, That this Convention of the American Federation of Labor, favor the adoption of a law compelling railway companies and railway employees to submit to investigation of any matter or matters in controversy between them regarding rules and rates. Said investigation to be conducted by commissioners chosen as follows: One by the officials, one by the employees, and the third to be chosen by the two representatives of these parties, or, in the event of their not doing so in five days, the third member of the commission, who would act as chairman, to be chosen by Messrs. Knapp and Neill, the expense to be borne by the Government in the interest of the general public and the enforcement of the award to be left to the force of public opinion and the sense of justice of the parties.

Substitute offered by the committee for Resolutions 46 and 61: That this Convention instruct the Executive Council to consider the matter of having the Federal Arbitration Law of June 1, 1898, so amended as to cover all railroad employees instead of only those employees actually engaged in any capacity in train operation or train service as the law now provides and if in its judgment such amendment is desirable it shall instruct the Legislative Committee to frame such amendments and endeavor to have them enacted into law.

Delegate Connors—I would like to inquire whether the Executive Council in considering this matter will call before its members of the railroad organizations directly interested in this proposition. I believe in justice to the parties who will be benefited or discriminated against, as the case may be, they should be called in and heard on this proposition.

President Gompers—If there are no objections the chair will request the Secretary to make a memoranda as a minute of this Convention that the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor when taking up the subject of this resolution and the recommendation of the committee invite the representatives of the organizations in whose behalf this resolution has been introduced. Is there objection? Hearing none, the Secretary will make this a minute in the records.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 47—By Delegates T. H. Gerrey and T. J. O'Donnell, of the International Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees:

RESOLVED, That no man shall be imprisoned at the dictum of any judge, who has not first been tried and found guilty by a jury of his peers after a due trial at law.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution had been dealt with in the action on the President's Report and that no further action was necessary. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 48—By O. C. Wilson, delegate from the L. U., 12854, and John B. Lennon, delegate from the Journey-men Tailors:

WHEREAS, After months of organization work, during which time no demands were made upon the employers, the members of the Button Workers' Protective Union No. 12854, of Muscatine, Ia., were locked out on the 25th of last February; and

WHEREAS, After a ten weeks' contest, during which time the Pearl Button Manufacturers' Association used every means at its command to defeat the Button Workers' organization, an agreement was reached that provided against discrimination and for the posting of schedules and the right of the workers to see the weighing of their product; and

WHEREAS, Subsequent developments conclusively prove that the employers had no intention of living up to the provisions of the agreement, as they immediately began a process of discrimination to weed out the active members; and

WHEREAS, This process of discrimination reached its climax on July 29th and 30th, when thirty-two members of the Union employed by the McKee-Bilven Company were discharged because of their membership in the Union; and

WHEREAS, Every effort to settle the difficulty failed, resulting in the calling of a strike against this firm on August 21st and the levying of a 5 per cent assessment on all those still at work to support the same; and

WHEREAS, The other employers began a process of retaliation and intimidation by locking out those employed in the Pioneer plant and its branch shops, and by discharging all those who took part in the Labor Day parade and those known to pay the assessment, and by threatening to discharge all those who continued to maintain their affiliation with the Union; and

WHEREAS, This process of discrimination forced the Union to call a general strike of all the workers to preserve its existence; and

WHEREAS, The members of this Union are not entitled to strike benefits owing to its being less than one year in the American Federation of Labor, the majority of whom have been out for fifteen weeks out of the past seven months, while those who were employed at the Automatic and McKee-Bliven plants have been out for five months and all the time have been required to exist on the uncertain income from a voluntary assistance; and

WHEREAS, The members of this Union, men and women alike, have been unjustly dealt with by the police power of city, county and the state militia, arrested without cause, convicted without evidence, and cast into prison, some of whom at this time are serving on the chaingang and rock pile lately created by the Board of Supervisors of Muscatine County for the especial benefit of the striking Button Workers; and

WHEREAS, No buttons are being made, and the workers are standing as firm as ever, with excellent chances to come out of the contest victorious; and

WHEREAS, The funds coming in to support the strike are so meagre as to make us fearful that real hunger and suffering from the severity of the coming winter must ensue unless we can have additional help, of a financial character, to enable us to continue this great contest of a young union to a successful termination, which can and will be won if hunger and cold can be warded off for a short time longer; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the American Federation of Labor that we hereby express our admiration of the splendid fight already made by the Button Workers, and do hereby authorize President Gompers to indorse an appeal for funds in their behalf, and urge all affiliated Unions to help them as promptly and liberally as may be in their power.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 49—By Delegate E. R.

Torrey, of the Central Council, Butte, Mont.:

WHEREAS, The Button Workers of Muscatine, Iowa, are now and have been on strike for many months in an endeavor to establish for themselves, the right to organize; and

WHEREAS, They are chartered by the A. F. of L., but were not in existence of a sufficient time to draw strike benefits; and

WHEREAS, If they were furnished with financial aid such as the A. F. of L. could furnish, it would mean the winning of their demands; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the Silver Bow Trades and Labor Council, that we, as the representative body of organized labor in this community demand from the offices of the A. F. of L., and the Executive Board of the same, that they recommend to the coming Convention of that Body, that the Convention authorize an appeal for aid by the Officers of the A. F. of L. in behalf of the Button Workers; and, be it further RESOLVED, That each A. F. of L. local affiliated with this Council be asked to make a similar request of their International Delegates to the A. F. of L. Convention.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution had been dealt with in the action on the President's Report and that no further action was necessary. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 53—By Delegate Oscar F. Nelson, of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks:

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Labor at the recent special session of Congress drafted a measure and had the same introduced by Senator La Follette in the Senate and by Congressman Lloyd in the House, which provides for the restoration to the Federal Civil Service employees of their inherent rights as citizens to the freedom of speech, to petition Congress for a redress of grievances, to a hearing before removal and the right to organize without the interference by departmental officials, all of which rights have been abrogated by executive order or denied by the departmental officials; and

WHEREAS, In opposition to this equitable and just measure are found the National Manufacturers' Association, who have deluged Congress with petitions protesting against the enactment of the measure, and the department officials who are anxious to perpetuate and strengthen a bureaucracy by maintaining complete control and domination of the destiny of the 400,000 Federal Civil Service employees; and

WHEREAS, Ever vigilant and holding sacred the inherent rights of free speech, that of petition, and the right to organize, it rests with our American Federation of Labor to continue to champion the cause of the "gagged" Federal employees and to prevent the fostering of a bureaucracy that will seriously endanger the successful operation of our form of government; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the American Federation of Labor in Convention assembled at Atlanta, Ga., do hereby most heartily indorse Senate Bill No. 1162 and House Bill No. 5970, and instruct our Secretary to advise the affiliated Central Bodies by letter and through them the Local Unions of the importance of this measure and request that they petition the senators and congressmen from their states for the enactment of the measure into law.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution had been dealt with in the action on the President's Report and that no further action was necessary.

Delegate Nelson stated that while most of the subject matter of the resolution was covered in the report of the President there was one important point not covered in that report, that the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to inform the affiliated bodies of the importance of the matter and that the members of those bodies petition the congressmen and senators of their respective districts to support the Lloyd-LaFollette Bill.

After a brief discussion by Delegate Nelson, Chairman Wilson, of the committee, stated that, insofar as the committee was concerned, they had no objection to the adoption of the resolution in its entirety.

A motion was made and carried that Resolution No. 53 be adopted.

Resolution No. 58—By Santiago Iglesias, Rafael Alonzo and Joaquin A. Becerril:

WHEREAS, It is our keenest desire and our most ardent wish to have the Spanish working people of Porto Rico, Florida, Cuba, Mexico and Panama and other countries, share in the enlightenment and civilized methods and ideas which have informed American Trade Unions for generations, and to attain same it is absolutely necessary to translate into Spanish its thoughts and ideas, your conception of liberty, your methods, your aspirations and hopes, and the struggle you are sustaining for the advancement and welfare of mankind; and

WHEREAS, We believe that something of a more practical nature has to be done to place the Spanish-American workmen in closer touch with the different phases and aspects of the American labor life, we have thought of nothing more appropriate than a systematic central office of translations into Spanish, which shall undertake the publication in Spanish of everything connected with labor under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, The postage paid in forwarding such amount of reading matter from headquarters to local unions in Porto Rico, Florida, Cuba, Mexico, Panama and other Spanish speaking countries, represents a large expenditure, besides other expenses of printing, etc., without reaping the desired results of education and promoting the welfare of the labor classes at large, and especially of the membership of every Union; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the Thirty-First Convention of the American Federation of Labor, now gathered in assembly, that the officers of the National and International Unions are hereby required to forward to the representatives of the American Federation of Labor in Porto Rico copies of all papers, circulars, notices and resolutions, etc., intended for publication, as well as one copy of the official journal or other newspaper published in the interests of any labor organization, for translation into Spanish and publication by the Central Office of Translation into Spanish in charge of the Free Federation of Workmen, State Branch, American Federation of Labor, San Juan, Porto Rico; and, further be it

RESOLVED, That, to defray the expenses incurred in such translations and reprinted matter for Porto Rico, Cuba, Florida, Mexico and Panama and other Spanish speaking countries, a special fund for such purpose, as hereinbefore stated, is hereby created by voluntary donations from every affiliated National and International Union; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor is hereby entrusted and charged with the collections of such donations which he will request by special circular; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the amount so collected shall be invested as aforesaid under the supervision of the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor.

The committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council with instructions to inquire into the probable cost. On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 67—By Delegate M. R. Pace, of the Richmond, Va., Central Trade and Labor Council:

WHEREAS, President Gompers in his annual address highly eulogized the labor press of the country for the good it is doing for organized labor in disseminating the truths of unionism and keeping before the workers what our leaders are accomplishing, and

WHEREAS, This Federation is of the opinion that the usefulness of the labor press would largely enhance if it would cease to publish advertisements of products of concerns inimical to organized labor; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the A. F. of L., in convention assembled, That no labor paper publishing such advertisements is acting consistently with the true spirit of unionism; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That it is the sense of this body that every labor unionist in cities where labor papers are published should esteem it a privilege to subscribe to said paper and thus contribute their mite to sustain and encourage the publisher or publishers.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution had been dealt with in the action on the President's Report and that no further action was necessary.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

Delegate Pace discussed the question briefly, and urged that the resolution be endorsed, that while the general subject was covered in the report of the President the specific subject in the resolution was not.

Delegate Kelly (W. J.), discussed the matter, and stated that if members of trades unions supported labor papers as they should there would be no need to solicit advertisements, and that the papers could be used for the purpose of propaganda alone.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 77—By Delegate J. W. Holder, of the Florida State Federation of Labor:

RESOLVED, That President Gompers' recommendation for the institution of permanent legislative committees by state Federations of Labor and City Central Bodies be indorsed, and that the incoming Executive Council be directed to urge all State Federations and Central Labor Bodies to elect such committees, with the further recommendation that legislative committees be permanent standing committees in all such representative organizations.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution had been dealt with in the action on the President's Report and that no further action was necessary. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 79—By Delegate James P. Holland, of the Central Federated Union of Greater New York and vicinity:

WHEREAS, Local Union No. 476, a subordinate of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, which has been served with four separate and distinct injunctions within the last year and one-half, for having espoused the principles for which labor has been organized, and for refusing to handle material which is the product of non-union conditions; and

WHEREAS, The mandate laid down in these injunctions directly aimed to cripple the carpenter organizations, and have been effective, and others in abeyance will, if granted, affect all labor organizations, more particularly those whose product depends on the support of the public and also which must rely upon the co-operation of their fellow organized workers; and

WHEREAS, This movement to restrain and restrict the activities of organized labor is being advanced and maintained by organized and centralized capital and through its agency the "Anti-Boycott Association," which employs attorneys to push such cases, and while they have been partially successful in intimidating labor unions, will probably, if left unchecked, hamper and delay the work and mission which organized labor is determined to accomplish; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That it is high time for organized labor to awake to the dangers of the situation confronting it, and use its powers to offset this damnable conspiracy to destroy it; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That we believe this end can be accomplished successfully by and through the American Federation of Labor, and we, therefore request the Central Federated Union of Greater New York and vicinity to urge the Atlanta Convention A. F. of L. to construct some form of organized effort which can and will create a militant anti-injunction movement by the International and National Unions for presentation to public opinion of the country, and demand recognition by the dominant powers, so that no Courts of Law can be used to destroy the progressive and beneficent work which labor unions have thus far accomplished and are desirous of continuing.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution had been dealt with in the action of the President's Report and that no further action was necessary. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 96—By Delegate W. H. Dwyer, of the United Laborers 12,992:

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Labor has gone on record by resolution, passed at the thirtieth annual Convention, in favor of organizing the migratory workers; and

WHEREAS, President Gompers in his annual report to this Convention has strongly urged the organizing of the migratory workers on a definite and systematic plan; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council is hereby authorized and directed to appropriate from the general fund of the American Federation of Labor such funds or amount of money as may be necessary for the employment of special organizers who shall devote all their time to the organizing of the unemployed, migratory workers of the North American Continent; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the president of the American Federation of Labor, the Executive Council and the various organizers commissioned by the American Federation of Labor, be directed to co-operate with the special organizers in a united effort for the uplift of these millions of homeless, wandering, workless workers, who now constitute the greatest menace to the organized artisans and laborers, but who, when organized on a proper plan, will form a most impregnable fortress for the advancement of human civilization and the labor movement.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution had been dealt with in the action on the President's Report and that no further action was necessary.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

Delegate Dwyer, in discussing the question, stated that in the St. Louis Convention of the American Federation of Labor a similar resolution had been introduced and adopted, but practically nothing had been done to carry out its provisions except in the State of California. Delegate Dwyer spoke of the number of unions in California that had been organized under the name of United Laborers, and of the improvement that had been made in the condition of the members. He urged that other states make a greater effort to organize such labor.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 98—By Delegate F. A. Morton:

WHEREAS, The United States prisoners are only worked a certain number of hours per day, as designated by the United States Congress; and

WHEREAS, In numbers of states of the Union the felony convicts of the state are placed on public buildings, streets, and other civic, county and state improvements, and are worked long and unreasonable hours; and

WHEREAS, There should be a uniform law in regard to hours of labor for state convicts as well as United States convicts; and,

WHEREAS, It is the sense of this Convention that state convicts should not be brought into competition with the free labor, even if shorter hours are given them; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the delegates of this Convention be, and are, hereby instructed by this Convention to return to their respective states and start a movement on foot whereby their respective states shall pass laws governing the labor performed by state convicts, withdrawing them if possible from competition with their free labor, or having a uniform length of hours.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution had been dealt with in the action on the President's Report and that no further action was necessary.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 112—By Delegate J. W. Holder, of the Florida State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, During the year 1912 a general election will be held at which a new President will be elected and the different political parties will make declarations of their policy and outline a platform; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That a special committee be elected by this Convention to wait upon all of the political parties, viz., the Democratic party, the Republican party, the Prohibition party, and the Socialist party, to submit to each the fundamental issues which organized labor has so frequently advocated; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That this special committee make a report to all local organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor stating the response given to it by the aforesaid political parties, without comment, in order that the members of organized labor may obtain an absolute, unbiased statement of the attitude of the several political parties on labor issues and in order to prevent our opponents from charging the officers of the American Federation of Labor with trying to deliver the votes of the members or permit the Federation to be used for partisan purposes.

The committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council, with instructions to take such action as would best conserve labor's interests. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 143—By Delegate John M. Dowd, of the New York State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, At the Fifteenth Annual Convention of the New York State Federation of Labor, held in the City of Oswego, N. Y., September 19-23, 1911, the all important decision of the Court of Appeals of the State of New York in declaring unconstitutional the Act passed by the Legislature of 1910, entitled Compulsory Compensation for Workmen in Certain Hazardous Occupations; it was, therefore

RESOLVED, That the delegate from this body to the Convention of the American Federation of Labor is hereby instructed to request the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor to propose an amendment to the Federal Constitution to legalize workmen's compensation laws in the several states and national territories.

The committee reported that the subject matter of the resolution had been dealt with in the action on the President's Report and that no further action was necessary. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 147—By Delegates Thos. V. O'Connor, M. W. Kelleher, Martin Cole and P. F. A. Vaccarelli, of the International Longshoremen's Association:

WHEREAS, There being a continuous influx of Asiatic labor to all Pacific coast ports of the United States, to the menace of our craft, as well as all other citizens; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. be instructed to use all their influence to the end that the immigration laws governing undesirable immigration be rigidly enforced, most especially in the northwesterly ports.

The committee offered as a substitute for Resolution No. 147, the following:

RESOLVED, That we reaffirm our previous declaration that the Chinese Exclusion Act should be made to apply to all races natives of Asia.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

Delegate O'Connor (T. V.),—We would like to request that the Executive Council make a little more strenuous effort to have the law enforced on the Pacific coast, and to take the matter up with the immigration authorities. The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 170—By Delegate John Mitchell, of United Mine Workers of America:

WHEREAS, The use of poisonous phosphorus in the manufacture of matches causes among match workers a most loathsome disease of the bones of the face, known as "phossy jaw;" and

WHEREAS, The use of poisonous phosphorus in the match industry is no longer necessary and the United States is the only civilized country of commercial importance that has not already prohibited the use of this deadly poison by national legislation; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor commends and endorses the American Association for Labor Legislation in its efforts to secure early action by Congress which will absolutely prohibit the use of this unnecessary poison in American match factories, and give to the workers in this industry the same protection from unnecessary suffering and death that has been extended to the match workers in the other civilized countries of the world.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIAM B. WILSON, Chairman.

FRANK DUFFY,
THOMAS F. TRACY,
GEORGE L. BERRY,
OWEN MILLER,
JAMES WILSON,
ROADY KENEHAN,
J. J. KEEGAN,
WILLIAM D. CLARK,
T. V. O'CONNOR,
HUGH STEVENSON,
CHARLES L. BAINE,
J. T. BUTLER,
HOMER D. CALL,
ANDREW FURUSETH, Sec'y.

Delegate Wilson (W. D.), in the chair.

Report of Labor Representation Committee.

President Gompers, for the Committee, reported as follows:

Atlanta, November 22, 1911

To the Officers and Members of the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Greeting:

The undersigned Labor Representation Committee to which was referred the communication of the National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party found printed in the official proceedings of the sixth day's morning session of this Convention, begs leave to report that we have given the subject due consideration, and submit the following, with the accompanying resolution, for the consideration and action of this Convention.

It is true, as stated in the communication, that the enemies of labor are making a determined effort to break the spirit of the workers in Los Angeles; that they have chosen that city as a battle ground where they hope to crush labor so completely that it will not lift its head in self-respect and struggle for its rights again; that they are making this attempt both on the economic and the political field, and that just at present the fiercest part of the struggle is on the political field.

Your committee feels gratified that the assurance is given that any action by this convention upon this subject will not be regarded as any general or other endorsement of the Socialist Party or its principles or policies, and that any action this Convention may take in the matter will not be so construed. We cannot refrain from pointing out a misconception contained in the statement of the National Executive Committee when it says that that body thoroughly understands the "non-political" character of the American Federation of Labor. As a matter of fact, the trade union movement as typified in the American Federation of Labor, in its constant struggle, aims, and methods could not avoid being political even if it sought to be. Every economic, industrial and legislative effort made by the organized labor movement of our country has its political influence and significance. The American trade union movement is not non-political, it is politically non-partisan.

The situation which has existed in recent years in Los Angeles discloses the fact that since the campaign of bitter hostility toward labor inaugurated by General Harrison Gray Otis of the Los Angeles "Times," the reactionary element of the wealth possessors of that city has consistently sought to crush the spirit of labor, curb the rights guaranteed to the people of that city, and stand as an obstacle in the path of progress for the betterment and uplift of the workers. This hostile and reactionary element in Los Angeles is typified in its Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, of which General Otis of the Los Angeles "Times" is the moving spirit, and whose puppet is Mr. Alexander, the present mayor of Los Angeles and its candidate for re-election. Under Mayor Alexander's administration the fiercest and most brutal invasion of the people's rights has been the policy and the activities of that administration. It has placed the dollar before the rights of man.

For the past eighteen months the working people in the metal trades of Los Angeles have been engaged in a great struggle for economic and sociological reform, the establishment of a normal workday. The combined hostile forces of the employers in the metal trades, with the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, and General Otis are sponsors for the candidacy of Mayor Alexander. Despite the bitterness of the struggle, progress has been made in many ways so that during this period the membership in the trade unions of that city has increased more than 7,000. We have therefore the knowledge and the satisfaction that the spirit of the workers has not been and will not be either curbed or crushed, but like that of every other movement of the people for justice, for right, for freedom, and for common uplift, will triumph over oppression and tyranny.

Fraternally yours,
SAMUEL GOMPERS, Chairman.
JAMES O'CONNELL.
FRANK MORRISON, Secretary.
 Labor Representation Committee.

Resolution No. 176—By Labor Representation Committee:

RESOLVED, That this, the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, held at Atlanta, Ga., the representatives of the organized workers of America, sends greetings to the working people and all the people of Los Angeles, and extends to them our hearty endorsement and moral support in the struggle for justice and right and freedom in which they are now engaged; that the political campaign now in progress in Los Angeles typifies tyranny, oppression, a curb on the movement for the common uplift, in the candidacy of the present incumbent of the mayoralty of that city, Mr. Alexander; that, on the other hand, the candidate of the workers and of the progressive, liberty-loving people of Los Angeles is expressed in the nomination for the mayoralty of Los Angeles of Job Harriman. This Convention urges the citizenship of Los Angeles, without regard to sex or station in life, whose civic pride and love of justice dominate their action above the greed of wealth, to vote for Job Harriman and his associates for the mayoralty and municipal legislative offices.

RESOLVED, That inasmuch as every effort by the moneyed interests and reactionary forces of Los Angeles and elsewhere is now being concentrated in the effort to re-elect Alexander, and realizing that labor cannot entertain the hope to win its victories in matching its meagre resources to the money bags of corporate power, yet we call upon the workers and the sympathizers with progress throughout the country to give their moral support and to contribute such money as they may be enabled to afford toward the campaign fund in the effort to elect Job Harriman mayor of Los Angeles.

President Gompers moved the adoption of the report of the Committee.

The motion was seconded, and carried by unanimous vote.

Delegate Ward moved that the resolutions be sent by night letter to those in Los Angeles entitled to receive it. (Seconded and carried.)

Vice-President O'Connell, on behalf of the delegates to the Convention, presented to Fraternal Delegate Roberts, of the British Trades Union Congress, a handsome chest of table silver suitably engraved. A similar chest of silver was presented to Fraternal Delegate Crinion and Mrs. Crinion, and to Mrs. Crinion was presented a pearl brooch. A handsome diamond ring was presented to Fraternal Delegate Glockling, of the Canadian Trade and Labor Congress.

In brief addresses the fraternal delegates expressed their appreciation of the gifts.

Report of Committee on Labels.

Delegate Hayes (M. S.), Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

Resolution No. 66—By Delegate Frank Butterworth, of the Brick, Tile and Terra Cotta Workers:

WHEREAS, The International Brick, Tile and Terra Cotta Workers' Alliance is contending against a determined and widespread conspiracy on the part of manufacturers of clay materials to disrupt their organization; and

WHEREAS, Enormous quantities of non-union brick, tile and terra cotta is used in the construction of public buildings, streets, highways, sewers, drainage projects, and other public works, to the detriment of the Alliance and its members; and

WHEREAS, The aforesaid materials are mainly produced by men working long hours under the most deplorable conditions and for wages too low to enable them to maintain a decent standard of living; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we instruct our Executive Council to communicate with all State Federations and City Central Bodies under the jurisdiction of the American Federation of Labor requesting them to use their influence to the end that all brick, tile and terra cotta used on state and municipal operations be union-made.

The Committee reported favorably on the resolution.

On motion the report of the Committee was adopted.

Secretary Hayes—That completes the report of the Committee. The report is signed by the Committee in full.

JOHN F. TOBIN, Chairman;
MAX S. HAYES, Secretary.
JERE L. SULLIVAN,
LOUIS KEMPER,
A. M. SWARTZ,
MAX ZUCKERMAN,
HARRY MEYER,
J. MAHLON BARNES,
CHRIS KERKER,
J. J. HANDLEY,
CHARLES DOLD,
EDWARD JOHNSON.
E. J. BRAIS,
A. McANDREW,
ED. ANDERSON,

Committee on Labels.

At 6:15 p. m. the Convention was adjourned, to re-convene at 9 a. m., Friday, November 24th.

Eleventh Day--Friday Morning Session

The Convention was called to order at 9 o'clock a. m., Friday, November 24th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Pfell, Price (Walter V.), Sheret, Gavlak, Coffey, Kelly (W. E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Hobbs, Davis, Wangberg, Fuller, Winchenback, Donnelly (J. L.), Lebowitz, Saum, Schaub.

Delegate Weber asked unanimous consent for the introduction of a resolution.

Objection was offered to the introduction of the resolution.

Report of Committee on Adjustment.

Delegate Golden, Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

Resolution No. 12—By Delegate Homer D. Call, of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters' and Butcher Workmen:

WHEREAS, There exists at the present time in some localities a dual or seceding organization of Butcher Workmen which is attempting to deceive the rank and file of the workers of that industry and organized labor in general; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this, the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, hereby declare that the only bona fide organization of meat cutters' and butcher workmen chartered under the American Federation of Labor is the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 26—By Delegate Jos. W. Kline, of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers

WHEREAS, The organization known as the International Subway and Tunnel Workers are taking into their organization blacksmiths and tool dressers under the name of Tool Sharpeners, the jurisdiction of said mechanics was granted the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers by the American Federation of Labor, and this jurisdiction has never been questioned; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this convention instruct the International of Subway and Tunnel Workers to refrain from taking men who come under the jurisdiction of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers into their organization (International Subway and Tunnel Workers) to surrender the mechanics referred to, now members of their organization, to the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers.

The committee reported as follows: No conference having been held between the two organizations, your committee could take no other action under the law. We would advise, however, that the President of the American Federation of Labor arrange a conference between representatives of the two unions and a representative of the American Federation of Labor within the next ninety days, with a view of bringing about an agreement between the two organizations involved.

The recommendation of the committee was adopted.

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 29 be amended by striking out the words "to use every means" in the eighth line of the second resolve, and the following words added at the end of the same resolve, "with the understanding that no action be taken that will involve any other organization, without first securing the consent and approval of the President and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor," the amended resolution to read:

Resolution No. 29—By Delegate A. Johannsen, of the San Francisco Labor Council.

WHEREAS, The Newspaper Solicitors' Union No. 12766, was organized and duly chartered by the A. F. of L., three years ago; and

WHEREAS, The union has endeavored to obtain a conference and agreement with their employers (The San Francisco Publishers' Association); and

WHEREAS, The San Francisco Labor Council, seeing the Justice of the Newspaper Solicitors' case has repeatedly and continually urged the San Francisco Publishers' Association to come to an agreement with the Newspaper Solicitors' Union and failed; and

WHEREAS, The Executive Council of the A. F. of L., has attempted to bring about an agreement between the San Francisco Publishers Association, and Newspaper Solicitors' Union No. 12766, and failed, and

WHEREAS, President Gompers, on his recent visit to California, held a three hours' conference with the Publishers' Association, and was unable to persuade said Association to even meet representatives of the Newspaper Solicitors' Union while he was present or otherwise, or even agree to accept an intermediary at any future time; and

WHEREAS, Regardless of all the foregoing continued efforts on the part of organized labor to adjust the matter, the Newspaper Solicitors' Union is not only refused recognition, but has not had a conference with their employers for a period of two years; and

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Labor stands unqualifiedly for the recognition of its affiliated Unions and collective bargaining with their employers; and

WHEREAS, The San Francisco Publishers' Association claims that the revenue producing department of their business should be absolutely under their control. If that claim is allowed it means that thousands of wage workers, such as clerks, bookkeepers, salesmen, salesladies, et cetera, are debarred from joining and receiving the protection of the American Federation of Labor; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this, the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, go on record as demanding of the San Francisco Publishers' Association that they deal with and recognize the Newspaper Solicitors' Union No. 12766; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That this Convention empower the San Francisco Labor Council to take charge of the controversy between the Newspaper Solicitors' Union and the San Francisco Publishers' Association, and that the San Francisco Labor Council be empowered to bring about an agreement between the San Francisco Newspaper Publishers' Association and the Newspaper Solicitors' Union No. 12766 with the understanding that no action be taken that will involve any other organization without first securing the consent and approval of the President and Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor.

The recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 32—By Delegate L. P. Philippi, of the Central Trades and Labor Union of St. Louis and vicinity:

WHEREAS, The Carpenters represented in the St. Louis District Council went on strike for an increase of wages on April 1st, 1911; and

WHEREAS, The District Council represented some 3,500 members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and 35 members of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters; and

WHEREAS, a general 'contractors' association opposed the union by importing scabs and strike breakers, which, owing to the necessity of having union labor, they later organized as Carpenters' Union No. 1 of the Independent Allied Trades Union; and

WHEREAS, This move did not prove successful, owing to the fact that owners demanded union carpenters, affiliated with the A. F. of L.; and

WHEREAS, In consequence thereof a committee from the Carpenters' District Council did meet with committees from the Contractors' Association endeavoring to arrive at an agreement and were prevented only by the insistence of the Contractors' Association that the union agree to use all scab work, and further agree not to strike in sympathy with or assist any kindred trade, which conditions the Carpenters' District Council would not agree to, when the contractors committee broke further conference about July 1st, 1911; and

WHEREAS, Such action of the contractors was prompted by the fact that the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters did propose to enter into, and did enter into, an agreement as drawn by the Bosses' Association, and did furnish cards to the strikebreakers, known as Independent Carpenters, and thereby throw the mantle of the American Federation of Labor about them and defeat the efforts of the United Brotherhood; and

WHEREAS, This agreement is pernicious and contrary to union principles and disruptive to the labor movement, and is an attempt on the part of a small minority to force the same outrageous condition on the 3,500 United Brotherhood men of St. Louis (see section 7, article 7, of the attached copy of agreement): Sec. 7. Employers are at liberty to employ and discharge whomsoever they see fit, but any carpenters employed by them shall be union men and shall become subject to this agreement, and must fail if the affiliation of these men with the American Federation of Labor is withdrawn; and

WHEREAS, The action of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters was strongly condemned by the St. Louis Central Trades and Labor Union on July 23rd, 1911, by resolution, copy of which was forwarded to the Executive Council of the A. F. of L.; and

WHEREAS, An application from the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters, foregoing reasons; now, therefore be it Branch No. 801, for affiliation with the Central Trades and Labor Union, was rejected on July 23rd, 1911, for the

RESOLVED, By the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the A. F. of L., that the action of the St. Louis Central Trades and Labor Union in refusing to seat Branch No. 801 of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters, is hereby indorsed; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That it is against the laws and principles of the A. F. of L. to approve of or maintain dual organizations in any trade, and that, therefore, the charter of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters be, and is hereby revoked, by this Convention.

Your committee recommends that the President of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to arrange a conference between representatives of the two organizations involved within ninety days from the adjournment of this Convention, with a view of arranging a basis of amalgamation of the two organizations, and in case of disagreement upon the terms of amalgamation agreed upon and submitted by the President and Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, the differences shall be referred to the President and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor for a final decision, which decision shall be rendered not later than June 1, 1912.

Should the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners fail to amalgamate with the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners on or before July 1, 1912, the President of the American Federation of Labor is hereby instructed to revoke the charter of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

Delegate Gilmore discussed the report of the committee, and the report of the Executive Council in regard to the amalgamation of the two organizations. He opposed the portion of the report of the committee providing that if an amalgamation does not take place at a certain date the charter of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners would be revoked. He argued that that portion of the report should be eliminated and the plan of amalgamation submitted to the two organizations before such a question was put before the Convention.

Vice-President O'Connell, chairman of the committee, in discussing the question said in part:

It might be well to state the position of our committee on this matter right in the beginning of these cases of dual organizations and give the Convention some idea of the purpose of the committee. I want to say right in the beginning that our committee is unanimously of the opinion that there is room for but one organization of one trade in America, and we are starting right out on that line. The delegates from both the organizations appeared before our committee. The delegates of the Amalgamated Association claimed that former agreements that had been reached and former awards rendered had not been carried out. There was an apparent fear upon the part of the delegates from the Amalgamated Carpenters that they would not receive fair consideration in the matter of amalgamation. In order that that phase of the proposition might be taken care of the Executive Council is delegated by our report to see that the Brotherhood of Carpenters extends fair consideration in the matter of amalgamation to the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners. That is to say, consideration should be given in taking the members of the Amalgamated Society into the Brotherhood. That is what the amalgamation means, that consideration should be given the good standing of the members in the Amalgamated Society in order that they will not lose in their standing as trade unionists the time they had been members of their organization, but that the Brotherhood should give them the length of standing the members had in their own organization.

It will be understood right from the beginning that there will be no further haggling or squabbling over amalgamation after the first of July; that it must take place by that time. If there is an appeal of any kind it must be made in June and the amalgamation take place in July or the charter of the Amalgamated will be revoked.

Delegate Duffy (F.), in discussing the question, reviewed at some length the trouble existing between the two organizations of carpenters in various parts of the United States, stating that the trouble was more acute now than it had been in former years. He stated that the Tampa Convention of the Building Trades Department had decided there should be but one organization of carpenters; that the Amalgamated Society and the United Brotherhood should get together in order to avoid trouble on the buildings and not involve other building tradesmen. Delegate Duffy referred to various plans of amalgamation that had been suggested during the past ten years, all of which had failed. He stated that the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners were willing to amalgamate and had been for ten years, and referred in detail to some of the plans for amalgamation that had been suggested.

Delegate Wilkinson, in discussing the question, spoke briefly of the history and development of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners in the entire English-speaking world, and of the benefit that organization had been to its members. He spoke of the responsibility that would devolve upon the delegates in voting upon the report of the committee, stating that it would affect, not only the movement in America, but in other parts of the world. He referred in detail to various plans for amalgamation that had been suggested during past years, and spoke at length of reasons why they had not been accepted by both organizations.

At the close of Delegate Wilkinson's discussion the following substitute for the report of the committee was offered by Delegate Wilkinson and Delegate Gilmore, of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners:

That this, the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor now convened in Atlanta, Ga., hereby order (for the purpose of bringing harmony about between the two carpenters' organizations), that a board of arbitration be established consisting of three men, one to be selected by the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, and one to be selected by the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, these two to select the third.

That the Board of Arbitration shall meet not later than December 31, 1911, for the purpose of formulating a working agreement between the two above named carpenters' organizations, and be it further provided for the purposes of the Arbitration Board that each side to this controversy shall have in attendance an equal number of representatives who shall present such matters to the Arbitration Board as may be necessary in arriving at a satisfactory conclusion in drafting the agreement."

Delegate Wilkinson moved the adoption of the substitute for the report of the committee. The motion was seconded by Delegate Gilmore.

Delegate Wilkinson requested that Mr. Herbert Crampton, General Councilman of the Amalgamated Society, be given the privilege of the floor.

Delegate Macfarlane stated that he did not think it was necessary to have any one outside of the delegates speak, as it would only tend to prolong the discussion.

Delegate Barnes (J. M.), moved that Mr. Crampton be allowed the privilege of the floor for a period of twenty minutes, inasmuch as the Amalgamated Society had so small a number of delegates present. (Seconded and carried.)

In opening the discussion Mr. Crampton stated that he would approach the matter as an international trades unionist and not deal with the squabbles that had occurred between the two organizations of carpenters. He stated that the Amalgamated Society had had no trouble with any other organization. He stated that the Amalgamated Society stood for the highest type of unionism in a financial sense. Mr. Crampton reviewed at length the efforts that had been made for a number of years to amalgamate the two organizations.

Delegate Macfarlane discussed the question at some length, and replied in detail to statements made by Mr. Crampton in regard to the per capita paid by the members of the two organizations. He stated that in England the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners was seeking to procure the amalgamation of all the carpenters' organizations in that country, and that recently the Associated Carpenters had become part of the Amalgamated Society. He stated that although the Amalgamated Society had been organized in the United States prior to the United Brotherhood it had not grown large in numbers and its financial policy had evidently not appealed to the American workmen. He stated that the United Brotherhood had obtained results for its members in increasing wages and shortening hours of labor.

Delegate Furuseth discussed the question briefly, and said in part: The struggle that has been going on here is on the religious field, the struggle between the orthodox and the heterodox. On the political field the struggle is between absolutism and democracy. On the organization field the struggle is between compulsion and personal freedom, between the man who wants to do right because he is intellectually and morally convinced it is right, and the man who wants him to do right with a lash over his back. The American labor movement as represented in the American Federation of Labor has not grown great in that way. It has grown great by respecting the fundamental hopes and aspirations of the worker himself, respecting his ideas of freedom. And what are you trying to do? Following the trend of popular opinion—a greater New York, a greater Boston, a greater San Francisco, a greater United States, a greater carpenters' union, accession, conquest, force. Why, you are about to deny the fundamental principle upon which the labor union is founded. I cannot go with you on that idea. I do not believe it is healthy. You are about to repeat something that took place at Richmond when the cigarmaker was told, "You must use the label of the Knights of Labor and you must admit any one, no matter who he is." And who survived, the Knights of Labor or the cigarmakers? Look at this Convention, and in your mind's eye look at the Convention of the Knights of Labor when that was done. I cannot agree to the fundamental principles that are developed in the report. I cannot agree that men are property to be given by the one and taken by the other. I cannot agree that men are chattels, either individually or collectively. I cannot agree that this Convention or any power on earth has the right to say to me or to anybody else, "You shall join this or you shall join that." I agree that you have a right to educate me so that I will freely and of my own accord say, "That is correct and that is lasting." Your force idea is worthy of nothing but contempt.

Delegate Meyers discussed the question briefly, and referred to trouble that had occurred between the Amalgamated Society and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters in Washington, stating that it had also affected the men in the other building trades. He stated he was glad that the Executive Council had made the recommendation it did in regard to the controversy and that the Adjustment Committee had seen fit to recommend a settlement after so many years of conferences and attempts to secure a settlement.

Delegate Richardson—I would like to ask on what authority the Adjustment Committee recommends that the President of the American Federation of Labor authorize the revoking of the charter of the Amalgamated Society, and I would like to know what law or regulation of the American Federation of Labor the Amalgamated Society has violated?

Vice-President O'Connell, Chairman of the Committee—If the question is put to me I will say our authority is the action this Convention may take. We are not dealing with violations of the constitution at all; we are dealing with what we believe to be the best interests of the labor movement.

Delegate Kelly (W. J.), in beginning his discussion, stated that while the delegates who had attended several Conventions of the American Federation of Labor were no doubt familiar with the controversy there were new delegates who were not, and for that reason reviewed briefly the attempts that had been made to amalgamate the two organizations in the last few years. In discussing the insurance and benefit features of the two organizations Delegate Kelly stated that he did not join this organization for the sake of insurance, but for the benefits that the organization would bring to him in his wages and working conditions. In closing his discussion Delegate Kelly said: If you take away from us that bugaboo we have to confront when we are going before architects and owners, that there is another organization of carpenters in the American Federation of Labor who are willing to take our places, we will take care of the balance of it. I will guarantee that the individual members and the rank and file of our organization will handle that question, and handle it in the proper manner. We want them to come in with our organization in the proper manner; we are willing to give them all the benefits we are entitled to according to the length of time of their membership in the Amalgamated Society or otherwise. This is not a jurisdiction question by any means. The members of both organizations do identically the same class of work, we work on the same buildings, in the same room, yes, and we work as partners together. There is no jurisdiction in a question of that kind.

Delegate Gehring in discussing the question stated that the question under consideration affected not alone the carpenters, but every organization represented in the Convention. He referred to the statement of the chairman of the committee that there should be but one organization in each craft in the country, and stated that the sooner that state of affairs could be brought about the better it would be for the movement. He stated that he approved of the policy adopted by the Adjustment Committee for settling the case under consideration and similar cases.

Delegate Hayes (M. S.), asked if the amalgamation took place would the United Brotherhood agree to protect the Amalgamated Society for the benefits they had paid and the system now in operation. He asked further would the United Brotherhood agree to accept the cards of those who came from the old country.

Vice-President Huber—We are doing that now.

Delegate Hayes—Are the Amalgamated men guaranteed in the matter of benefits? Will it be incorporated in the constitution or agreement that the Amalgamated men will be protected in the benefits which they have paid?

Vice-President Huber—We have done that heretofore.

Delegate Hayes discussed the question at length, referred to resolutions he had introduced and arguments he had made in former conventions in favor of a peaceful solution of the differences between the Amalgamated Society, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and other organizations in which similar controversies had arisen. He stated that he intended to vote in favor of the report of the committee with the understanding that the Amalgamated Society men would be protected in their benefits.

On motion debate was closed.

The motion to adopt the substitute offered by Delegate Wilkinsons and Delegate Gilmore was lost.

Vice-President Huber requested a roll call on the motion to adopt the report of the committee.

Roll Call on the Report of the Adjustment Committee on Resolution No. 32 and the Report of the Executive Council on the Question of the U. S. Carpenters—Amalgamated Carpenters.

Ayes—Kennedy (A. J.), Koch, Kerker, Noschang, Klapetzky, Fischer (Jacob), Anderson (Ed.), Kline, Golden, Flannagan, Franklin (J. A.), Casey, Weyand, Flynn (Joseph), Sovey, Tobin (J. F.), Baine, Hallinan, Schaffer, Dano, Proebstle, Kemper, Ward, Kugler, Sullivan (John), Butterworth, Huber, Duffy (Frank), Macfarlane, Young, Flynn (T. F.), Kelly (Wm. J.), Swartz, Tveitmo, Gengenbach, Goelnitz, Gompers, Tracy (T. F.), Barnes, Smith (J. T.), Conway, Pfeil, Christman, Zuckerman, Thomas, Hughes (A. C.), Scoby, McNulty, Collins; Fay, Yount, Feeney, Comerford, Hannahan, Glass, McNamara, Kinsella, Smith (Fred), Rickert, Larger, Meyer, Landers, Altman, Rosenberg, Block, Kleinman, Polakoff, Dubinsky, Hayes (D. A.), Cain, Pierce, Ring, Duncan, Balch, Russell, Lawlor, Moffitt, Shalvoy, D'Alessandro, Etchison, D'Andrea, Marshall, Kenahan, Flore, Sullivan (J. L.), Farrell, Miller (Geo.), Pattberg, Williams (John), Selway, McSorley, Taggart, Brock, Bryan, Gehring, O'Connor, Kelleher, Cole, Vaccarelli, O'Connell, Fry, Keegan, Buckley, Handley, Lowe, O'Donnell, Gerry, Call, Daly, Rumsey, O'Sullivan, Bobb, Hynes, Walsh, Mitchell (John), Hayes (F. J.), Walker, McCullogh (E. S.), Wilson (W. R.), Cannon, Williams (J. C.), Mahoney, Valentine, Frey, Curran, Duffy (P. F.), Murtaugh, Weber (J. N.), Miller (Owen), Carey (D. A.), Winkler, Hedrick, Skemp, Evans (D. J.), Moorhouse, Tazelaar, Kelly (Sam'l.), Carey (J. T.), Wilson (Jas.), Gernon, Woll, McGivern, Clark (Wm. D.), Alpine, Tracey (Wm.), Murphy, Malley, Nelson, Menge, Cartlidge, Berry, Marks, Johnston, Malin, Sultor, Perham, Soyster, Miller (J. F.), Gallagher (T. J.), Ryan (M. F.), Mounts, Nolte, Gallagher (J. J.), Mahon, Taber, Commons, Lilly, Barry, Suarez, Peterson, Mitchell (M. W.), Short, Bridwell, Kafer, Connors, Brails, Lennon, Biggs, Tobin, Hughes (T. L.), Neer, McLaughlin, Hermann, Golden, Morgan, Williams (T. J.), McAndrew, Evans (E. Lewis), Lynch, Morrison, Hayes (M. S.), Stevenson, McCullough (T. W.), Birnes, Cooke, DeVeaux, Mikel, Holder, McKenna, Pfeiffer, O'Brien, Myers, Durnin, Wilkerson, Donoghue, Leary, Dowd, Graney, Ryan (E. H.), Levin, Iglesias, Shay, Blakey, Henretty, Weber (F. J.), Buckley, Hirsch, Tharp, Heck, O'Brien (W. H.), Ferry, Carroll, Conner, Carter, Sontheimer, Haines, Mead, Schaffer, Briggs, Scoggan, Gray, Schneider.

Abell, Coleman, Fahey, Agethen, Wendt, Albrecht, Ullrich, Welsh (E. F.), Pace, Philippi, James, Russi, Johannsen, Leonard, Smith (A. W.), Noonan, Wilby, White, Morton, Voll, Becerril, Ford, Forehand, Dwyer, Engdahl, representing 15,491 votes.

Nays—Gilmore, Wilkinson, Richardson, Humphrey, Nestor, Donlin, Ward (Jas.), Flynn (Patrick), Furuseth, Mulcahy, Hassenpflue, Wright, Bohm, representing 425 votes.

Not voting—Ryan (F. M.), Butler, Clark (Wm.), Crozier, Healy, Brennan, Friel, Mangan, Roach, Coakley, Price, Lewis (T. L.), McDonald, Moyer, Hannah, Sheret, Gaviak, Bird, Carolan, Curtis, Hatch, Gallagher (A. J.), Lawrence, Smith (Jos.), Coffey, Smith (T. J.), Kelly (Wm. E.), Jones (Jerome), Anderson (W. H.), Lowell, DeYoung, Torrey, Hurley, Hardy, Jones (J. R.), Munn, Smith (L. W.), Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Cox, Skemp (Meta), Quick, Hobbs, Kennedy (T. G.), Doherty, Holland, Davis, Wangberg, Fuller, Taylor, Alonso, Ingram, Winchenback, Smith (C. T.), Morris, Wilson (O. C.), McAndrews (J. J.), Belt, Welsh, Creamer, Donnelly (J. L.), Cornette, Lebowitz, Dunne, Saum, Ham, East, Manning, Schaub, Crinlon, Roberts, Glockling, representing 1324 votes.

President Gompers—The morning papers published a statement which I will ask the secretary to read. After he has read it I desire the indulgence of the convention for a few minutes in order that I may take cognizance of it.

Secretary Morrison read the following article from a newspaper:

"New Orleans, La., November 23.—Witnesses for the prosecution in the Los Angeles Times dynamiting case have been threatened with death after having withstood repeated efforts of agents of the defense to bribe them, declared William J. Burns, the detective, in an address today before the state secretaries' section of the American Bankers' Association. Mr. Burns bitterly arraigned Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; Eugene V. Debs and other 'would-be-leaders' of organized labor, but declared that nine-tenths of organized labor is opposed to violence and not in sympathy with the efforts of the small socialistic element to destroy organized society and lessen respect for the laws of the country.

Says Debs Incited to Murder.

"He declared that Eugene Debs, in a recent signed article in a periodical which Burns suggested should be known as 'The Appeal to Treason,' wrote in a vein calculated to incite men to the worst possible violence. 'And,' he said, 'I interpreted the article to mean that J. Pierpont Morgan, Guggenheim, General Otis and myself should be removed.

"If they get me," he declared with feeling, 'there will be somebody else to take up the work and continue the fight for the protection of society. I have a consciousness of having performed my full duty, with the observance of an absolute regard at all times for the rights of every individual affected and prompted only by a desire to see that justice is done.'

Confidence Voted in Burns.

"Mr. Burns' discussion of the McNamara case was at the requests of the state secretaries' organization and followed his address before that body on the subject 'Modern Methods of Protecting Banks.'"

"A rising vote of confidence in Mr. Burns' integrity was extended him by the meeting.

"Mr. Burns only briefly discussed the Los Angeles case, and said if it had not been for the unfounded attacks upon him made by Samuel Gompers and others he would refrain from saying anything about it until he was called upon to testify.

"While declining to go into details of the prosecution's evidence in the case, he said he was satisfied that John J. McNamara and James B. McNamara would be convicted.

"And, gentlemen," he said, 'It is a significant fact that no dynamiting has occurred since the arrest of the McNamaras.'

Fund of $1,000,000 for McNamaras.

"Mr. Burns repeated the declaration which he made several weeks ago that a fund of over $1,000,000 had been collected or pledged for the defense of the McNamaras.

"When I first made that statement," he said, 'Gompers promptly announced that it was a lie. But he did not give any figures nor did he inform the public as to the source of some of this large aggregation of money. He contented himself with saying that I was a liar, which only goes to show the character of the men who are attacking me.

"I tell you, they have the money and they have endeavored to buy our witnesses. They have offered some of the prosecution witnesses their own price, and when these witnesses refused to accept the offers and expressed themselves in that manner they have been threatened with death. We have actually found it necessary to hide some of our witnesses.

"But, gentlemen, nine-tenths of organized labor are not in sympathy with that character of people, and it will be demonstrated unquestionably that they do not stand for violence.'

Plea for Better Officials.

"Mr. Burns closed with a plea for bankers and business people to take a greater interest in the selection of public officials. It is the highest obligation of citizenship, he said, to see that decent, honest men are elected to office. 'Red-flag anarchists, parading under the cloak of socialism, are not innumerable in this country,' he said, 'and they will go to any extreme in enforcing their demands, even to the taking of human life.

"The only remedy for this growing evil, he said, was an awakening of the honest citizenship of the United States to a more sincere and active interest in its political and social problems.

Darrow Denies Charges of Burns.

"Los Angeles, November 23.—'What Burns is reported to have said is in keeping with what he has said previously,' said Attorney Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for James B. McNamara, referring to the address of Detective William J. Burns today in New Orleans. 'There is not a word of truth in it.'

"Officials of the district attorney's office would not discuss the statement."

President Gompers—Statements of that character, no matter from whence they emanate, have an influence upon that portion of the public that believes everything it sees in print, and it is to take cognizance of that fact which primarily prompts me to ask your indulgence for a few minutes. I do not think it is necessary to enter into a defense of my utterances or my action either in connection with the McNamara defense or any other activity as a labor man and as a citizen. You will notice that from the day J. J. McNamara was kidnapped out of his home and out of the state of Indiana there has been a staging of the entire procedure. I was not present when the offices of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers were invaded, but it is common knowledge that the newspaper representatives in publishing their accounts stated that they were in the offices of the Bridge and Structural Iron Workers immediately after the invasion by Burns, Drew and that coterie. It has been the action of Burns ever since, and including that day, to have the entire proceedings spectacular and sensational in order to attract the attention of the newspapers and the general public.

I take it that the business of a detective, in theory at least, is to detect crime and the perpetrators of criminal acts; but it seems to me this has been the only case that has come under my observation in which a detective has tipped off in advance to newspaper men the details of an invasion or of an arrest. You can scarcely take up the newspapers for two successive days without finding some utterance of Burns, making an attack upon some of my colleagues and myself, affirming, charging and accentuating his conviction that the men incarcerated in Los Angeles are guilty and will be convicted. He has not only broken into the daily press, but he has broken into the magazines. And whoever heard of a detective who claims to have run down men guilty of crime trying their case in the public press, in the magazines and on the forum while the case was still pending before the court?

Burns makes the charge that efforts were made to bribe witnesses for the prosecution, and, failing in that, they were threatened with bodily injury. That statement is answered by Mr. Clarence S. Darrow, who denies and repudiates it. I will take my chance before the American public in standing with Clarence Darrow as against Detective Burns.

Burns repeats a statement he made several weeks ago, which he has repeated since on several occasions, that the American Federation of Labor has accumulated or gathered a sum of over a million dollars for the defense of the McNamaras. That statement is absolutely untrue. There is a double purpose in such a statement. One purpose is to create the impression in the minds of the general public that no such fund can be legitimately used in the defense of the McNamara boys. The other is to convey to the minds of the working people of our country the impression that there is already so great a fund at our command to defend these men that it will not be necessary for them to assist, and they will therefore be deterred from contributing their pennies so that the men may be properly defended.

From the entire procedure of Burns in this case and from his unsavory record in many other cases, in one or the other category he must be placed, either that he is a malicious, malignant man who undertakes to hunt men the same as we find man hunters in aboriginal countries or that he is so unsound in his mind that he deludes himself.

During the session of the National Association of Manufacturers a few months ago Mr. Kirby, its president, made a declaration in regard to an immense fund at our command to defend the McNamara brothers. He said these funds were being wickedly and illegally used. At that time I was called upon by the newspaper representatives in Washington, and by the representatives of the newspaper agencies who asked me what I had to say in regard to it. I not only repudiated the accuracy of that statement, but made the offer that bor would be thrown open to Mr. Kirby or the books and papers and financial accounts of the American Federation of Laundry committee of citizens he might select, provided he would give an equal opportunity to me to appoint a committee to investigate the accounts and the books of the National Association of Manufacturers. And that offer, insofar as I have the authority to make it, is open to Detective Burns.

Burns has said on the platform and in the newspapers repeatedly that detectives as a rule are the greatest set of scoundrels who have ever gone unwhipped by justice, and the detectives so accused by Burns turn upon him and say, "You're another." That Mr. Burns delivered an address before the bankers and their secretaries is quite appropriate. That these bankers and their secretaries should tender to him a rising vote of confidence in his integrity raises the question as to the validity and the worth of a vote of confidence and the source from which it is given. I ask if this vote of confidence in the integrity of Burns has been given by these bankers and their secretaries, what body of decent, law-abiding citizens, citizens who insist on honest legislation, clean politics and high civic standards would give a vote of confidence in the integrity of the bankers who voted confidence in the integrity of Burns? The fact that there has grown into the minds of the people of our country a determination to insist that the legislation of our country shall be within the power of the people by the initiative and the referendum and the recall is a vote of want of confidence in the powers which have so long been exercised by politics, legislation and judicial decisions.

Burns refers to violence and says that he is saving society and when he shall go others will arise like him to save society. God save society if he is to be the one to save it! Burns has said that I am not a representative of labor. Well, I am sure I do not get my credentials from him and his ilk. I venture to say that this Convention, as has previous conventions, very clearly represents the voice of the great rank and file of the workers who are organized in our unions. I am perfectly willing that the verdict of the men of labor shall be registered as to whether I try to interpret their hopes and aspirations, and whether I am trying to do the best that is in me in order to serve the interests and secure the rights of labor, and whether I try to comport myself as somewhat of a decent citizen.

I have not the least doubt that when the case against the McNamaras shall be opened and the prosecution has its inning some statements will be laid before the jury that until refuted will look bad; but as in every other manufactured statement, in every other slander, in every other statement that traduces the character and the honor of a man, when a fair opportunity is presented for the exposure of such statements the real facts will be made known. Millions have been contributed by organized labor haters, all the resources at their command have been used to aid the prosecution, and it will take some money to follow and trace and unmask those who have conspired against the lives of innocent men.

We have not anything like the fund they charge, we have not half nor quarter of it, but we do need funds. There are hundreds of witnesses to take from their homes in other parts of the country, some of them living as far as 3,000 miles from Los Angeles. These witnesses cannot be taken to Los Angeles and then sent home, to be called at any time when needed, and then sent back again. They must be on the ground and kept there. All this will require funds. I do not know what may come hereafter. I am sure that we have not raised and that we shall not be able to raise a fund that will be entirely adequate. Bear in mind that the case now on trial, in which I think but three jurors have so far been obtained, although it has been on for six weeks, will be prolonged and expensive. If J. B. McNamara should not be acquitted, if there is some disagreement, which I trust there will not be, in the jury it may involve another trial. The attorneys have been compelled to close up their homes and their business to take up their residence in Los Angeles, not knowing how long they will have to remain. They have had to give up their offices and they have no other clients. We cannot allow our men to be sacrificed upon the altar of greed and we are not going to do it, Burns or his masters to the contrary notwithstanding.

They may abuse me, they may call me hard names, they may say anything they please about me and I care not a jot for it; but I am not going to permit them to say anything or do anything that reflects upon our movement or our men without resenting it with whatever power I may have at my command.

Vice-President Perham—I desire to offer a motion, as follows:

RESOLVED, That it is the sense of this convention that if the report is true that the Secretaries' Section of the American Bankers' Association in New Orleans recently adopted a vote of confidence in the integrity of so-called Detective Burns, after the untruthful and scurrilous statements made by him at that meeting and in other places regarding the representatives of organized labor, that such action on the part of the organized bankers is not calculated to increase the confidence of the people in their organization, but casts a reflection upon the intelligence and integrity of that body.

The motion was seconded and carried by unanimous vote.

At 12:45 p.m., the Convention was adjourned, to reconvene at 2:30 p.m. of the same day.

Eleventh Day—Afternoon Session

The Convention was called to order at 2:30 p. m., Friday November 24th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Pfisl, Sheret, Gavlak, Coffey, Kelly (Wm. E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hurley, Hardy, Jones (J. R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Hobbs, Davis, Wangberg, Fuller, Winchenback, Belt, Welsh (Thos. E.), Creamer, Donnelly, Saum Schaub.

Report of Committee on Adjustment.

Delegate Golden, Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

Resolution No. 40—By Delegates Daniel J. Tobin, Thomas L. Hughes, W. A. Neer, R. J. Hermann and John P. McLaughlin, International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers.

WHEREAS, The charter of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs gives them the sole right and jurisdiction to have in their organization all men driving wagons and automobiles of all classes; and

WHEREAS, There exists in the City of New York, Federal Union No. 9463, titled, Newspaper and Mail Deliverers; and

WHEREAS, This Federal Union has in its membership nine hundred newspaper wagon drivers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By this Convention, that the Executive Council stand instructed to notify this Federal Union No. 9463, and any other Federal Union, in any part of the country, that they be compelled, and are ordered, to turn over all drivers and chauffeurs to the International Organization of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers.

The committee reported as follows:

Your committee concurs in the resolution, with instructions to the President of the American Federation of Labor to see to it that members of Federal Union 9463, who are mailers shall be transferred to the organization having jurisdiction over them.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

Delegate Ward in discussing the case said:

I have no objection to the report of the committee. I have no objection to one part of the resolution, but that part which reads that the International Brotherhood of Teamsters had jurisdiction over all drivers of teams and chauffeurs is not correct according to the decision of the St. Louis Convention. At that time the Brotherhood of Teamsters asked for jurisdiction over all chauffeurs, and they were granted jurisdiction where other organizations had not already that jurisdiction within their organizations.

Vice-President O'Connell—The committee is dealing with this resolution only as it applies to this federal union in New York.

Delegate Tobin (D. J.), in discussing the question, said:

We did not know there were any strings to the decision of the St. Louis Convention. We understood that it would not interfere with any jurisdiction already granted, and we had prior to that time been granted jurisdiction over teamsters and chauffeurs employed in breweries.

Delegate Kugler in discussing the question said:

That question was settled years ago, and at this late date we do not desire to waive any jurisdiction as far as we are concerned. The teamsters in our organization decided long ago which organization they wanted to belong to and they are going to remain in our organization.

Delegate Dunne discussed the question at length, going into the details of the organizing of Federal Union No. 9468. He referred to the growth of that organization and the manner in which it had raised the wages and decreased the hours of labor of the men connected with it. He referred to contracts between his organization and the employers, and quoted from such contracts. He opposed the report of the committee and desired to have the resolution referred to the Executive Council without instructions.

Delegate Tobin (D. J.) discussed the question further, and replied to a number of statements made by Delegate Dunne. He objected to other organizations claiming teamsters.

Delegate Kugler—I object to Brother Tobin saying the Brewery Workers have Teamsters in their organization. They have not.

Vice-President Mitchell, who was presiding, stated that the objection would be noted.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Delegate Klapetzky—There is not a freer forum, I believe, in the world than is the Convention of the American Federation of Labor. I believe, however, the delegates ought to consider when they start an argument that we do not want to stay here all winter and they should make their arguments as brief as possible.

The chairman requested the delegates to be as brief as possible in their discussion.

Resolution No. 43—By Delegates Daniel J. Tobin, Thomas L. Hughes, W. A. Neer, John P. McLaughlin and A. J. Hermann, of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers:

WHEREAS, The International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers, find, in many sections of the country, that the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union have in their membership men who distinctly drive wagons and automobiles; and

WHEREAS, We believe they are entirely outside the bakery shop, and not bakers; and

WHEREAS, Our charter grants us jurisdiction over all classes of drivers on all kinds of wagons and automobiles; and

WHEREAS, We have at the present time several local unions of bakery wagon drivers and chauffeurs organized and chartered under our jurisdiction; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention instruct the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' Union of America to turn over to the International Organization of Teamsters and Chauffeurs, all drivers who are now members of their organization.

The committee reported as follows:

Your committee recommends that the matter be referred to the President and Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor with instructions to call a conference of the representatives of the two organizations involved, and a representative of the American Federation of Labor, within ninety days after the adjournment of this Convention, with the object of bringing about an agreement between the two organizations.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

The question was discussed by Delegate Kerker, who spoke of the controversy between the Bakers' International Union and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters in regard to the drivers. He objected to the adoption of the resolution.

Vice-President O'Connell stated that the committee did not recommend the adoption of the resolution, but reference to the Executive Council because a conference had not been held between the two organizations, as recommended by the St. Louis Convention.

The subject was discussed at length by Delegate Kerker, who defended the right of the Bakers' organization to retain the drivers.

Delegate Tobin (D. J.), stated that the Teamsters' representatives were perfectly willing to go into a conference with the representatives of the Bakers. He spoke at length of the claims of the Brotherhood of Teamsters that all drivers belonged to that organization, and objected to other organizations claiming drivers.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 83—By Delegate J. P. Holland of the Central Federated Union of Greater New York and vicinity:

WHEREAS, The economic conditions of labor demand absolute cohesion of the organized workers, unity of action and co-operation; and

WHEREAS, The policy of the employer is to keep apart the interest of his employes, thus using one craft against another where more than one is employed; and

WHEREAS, We deeply regret the necessity of this action against a craft like ours employed in various houses, places, etc., but do so in the most friendly spirit, believing that thus the interest of each can be made common, and the required co-operation secured; and

WHEREAS, The culinary workers are employed by the same employers and in the same houses, places, etc., as are the members of the American Federation of Musicians and our contention is that if both would act in the spirit of solidarity and co-operate, the grievances of one would be the concern of the others, hence conditions for both would advance and be uplifted; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we urge the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor at Atlanta, Ga., 1911, to devise and create a plan whereby this much desired object can be accomplished, so that in future conjoint action must be taken by the Hotel and Restaurant International Alliance and the Bartenders' International League of America and other culinary trades and the American Federation of Musicians, on any grievances arising in a house, place, etc., by either one or the other mentioned organization.

The committee reported as follows:

Your committee is of the opinion that this matter is one for the two International Unions involved to decide. Therefore we recommend that the whole matter be submitted to the American Federation of Musicians and the Hotel and Restaurant International Alliance and Bartenders' International League of America.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

The committee recommended that the resolution be amended by striking out the words "or part" in line 11 of the first resolve and the words "and other places" be inserted in their place, the amended resolution to read:

Resolution No. 92—By Delegates Wm. J. Cooke, Harry DeVeaux and Jos. Birnes, of the White Rats Actors' Union of America:

WHEREAS, During the convention of the American Federation of Labor, held at Norfolk, Va., the jurisdiction of the Actors' International Union was defined and for the purpose of reaffirming this decision, the White Rats Actors' Union do offer this resolution in proper form; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That it is hereby conceded that all parts of a theatrical production occurring behind the footlights and in front of the scenery after same has been placed in position by the stage mechanics, the same being specialties, acts, illusions, acrobats and any and all forms of entertainment known as either legitimate, variety or vaudeville, presented as such in any theatre, music hall, circus, fair ground, or park or other places in which any form of entertainment is produced shall be under the jurisdiction of the White Rats Actors' Union of America; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That nothing in the resolution is to be construed so as to interfere with the legitimate performance of musicians recognized as such by the American Federation of Musicians, or in any way conflict with the jurisdiction already conceded to International or national unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

The committee reported that the two organizations involved had agreed to the changes recommended in the resolution, and that the committee concurred in the resolution as amended.

The question was discussed briefly by Delegate DeVeaux, Delegate Barry, Delegate Birnes and Vice-President O'Connell.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried by unanimous vote.

The committee reported on that portion of the Executive Council's report under the caption "United Brotherhood of Carpenters—Amalgamated Woodworkers." The secretary of the committee stated it would not be necessary to read the entire report of the Executive Council on that subject, but read the following recommendation at the close of the Executive Council's report:

"Having been unable to secure the amalgamation of the Carpenters and Woodworkers, the entire matter is again placed before you for instructions as to what further action to take."

The committee reported as follows:

Your committee recommends that the president of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to arrange a conference between representatives of the two organizations involved, within ninety days from the adjournment of this Convention, with a view of arranging a basis of amalgamation of the two organizations. In case of disagreement upon the terms of amalgamation agreed upon and submitted by the President and Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, the difference shall be referred to the President and Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor for a final decision, which decision shall be rendered on or before June 1, 1912. Should the Amalgamated Woodworkers fail to amalgamate with the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners on or before July 1, 1912, the President of the American Federation of Labor is hereby instructed to revoke the charter of the Amalgamated Woodworkers forthwith.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

Delegate Mulcahy—I would like to ask whether there is any penalty attached to the United Brotherhood of Carpenters in the event they refuse to abide by the decision that may be reached by the Executive Council, as described in their report.

Vice-President O'Connell, Chairman of the Committee—We take it for granted that the arrangement made by the President and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor that is acceptable to the Executive Council that would not be agreed to by the Brotherhood would result in the Executive Council not carrying out the instructions of this Convention to revoke the charter of the Amalgamated Woodworkers.

The question was discussed at length by Delegate Mulcahy, who objected to the report of the committee. He spoke of the long connection of the Amalgamated Woodworkers with the American Federation of Labor and the efforts they had made to organize the men of their trade, improve their conditions and raise their wages. He spoke of the efforts that had been made for some years to amalgamate the two organizations, and in closing his discussion said:

If you decide here that we must abide by that report of the committee it will not settle the question for all time, as some of the delegates wish to do, because this condition will come about. You cannot amalgamate successfully two sets of men whose feelings are so far apart. I have had enough experience in the factories to know as much about this as any one else. They have already driven over twenty thousand men out of the labor movement. They have got some men, it is true, but in the vast number of centers of industries today there is very little effort towards organizing those men, and there is less success attained than ever before. If the Convention, instead of adopting such a report as that, would provide some way by which the factory woodworkers could maintain an organization, the men in the factories, who have been striving to maintain an organization against great opposition would be better off and so would this building trade in controversy with us if they would be confined to some extent to their own jurisdiction. They are reaching out in every avenue possible and destroying the efforts that have been made for years.

Delegate Duffy (F.) discussed the question, and referred briefly to the efforts that had been made in past years to amalgamate the two organizations. He spoke of the efforts that had been made by the United Brotherhood to secure such an amalgamation and the terms that had been offered by them to the Woodworkers. He spoke of the amount of money that had been spent by the United Brotherhood for organizers each year and of the work done by those organizers in building up the organization. In concluding Delegate Duffy said:

We are willing now, as we have been, to amalgamate. We want to get together according to the terms of the Minneapolis and Toronto agreements. We are willing to do that. The men who have left the Woodworkers have not gone out and been lost. They have come over to the Brotherhood of Carpenters and we have improved their condition.

We have increased their wages, decreased their hours and we propose to be liberal with them.

The question was discussed further by Delegate Woll, Delegate Mulcahy and President Gompers.

At the conclusion of the discussion Secretary Morrison proceeded with the roll call, which resulted as follows:

Roll Call on the Report of the Committee on Adjustment on the Question of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters—Amalgamated Association of Woodworkers.

Ayes—Kennedy (A. J.), Koch, Kerker, Noschang, Klapetzky, Fischer (Jacob), Anderson (Ed.), Kline, Golden, Flannagan, Franklin, Casey, Weyand, Flynn (Joseph), Sovey, Tobin (J. F.), Baine, Hallinan, Schaffer, Dano, Proebstie, Kemper, Ward (E. F.), Kugler, Sullivan (John), Huber, Duffy (Frank), Macfarlane, Young, Flynn (T. F.), Kelly (Wm. J.), Swartz, Tveitmo, Gengenback, Goellnitz, Gompers, Tracy (T. F.), Barnes, Smith (J. T.), Zuckerman, Thomas, McNulty, Collins, Fay, Yount, Comerford, Hannahan, Glass, McNamara, Healy, Brennan, Friei, Smith (Fred), Rickert, Larger, Meyer, Landers, Altman, Bloch, Hayes (D. A.), Cain, Pierce, Nestor, Duncan, Bianchi, Russell, Lawlor, Moffitt, Shalvov, D'Alessandro, Etchison, D'Andrea, Flore, Sullivan (J. L.), Farrell, Miller (Geo.), Pattberg, Williams (John), Selway, McSorley, Taggart, Gehring, O'Connor, Kelleher, Cole, Vaccarelli, O'Connell, Fry, Keegan, Buckley, Handley, Lowe, O'Donnell, Gerrey, Price, Call, Daly, Rumsey, O'Sullivan, Bobb, Hynes, Walsh (Thos.), Mitchell (John), Hayes (F. J.), Lewis, Walker McCullough (E. S.), McDonald, Wilson (W. B.), Moyer, Cannon, Williams (J. C.), Mahoney, Valentine, Frey, Curran, Duffy (P. F.), Murtaugh, Miller (O.), Carey (D. A.), Winkler, Hedrick, Skemp, Evans (D. J.), Moorhouse, Tazelaar, Kelly (Sam'l.), Carey (J. T.), Wilson (James), Gernon, Woll, Donlin, McGivern, Ward, Clark (W. D.), Alpine, Tracey (Wm.), Murphy, Malley, Nelson, Menge, Cartledge, Berry, Marks, Johnston, Sultor, Perham, Soyster, Miller (J. F.), Gallagher (T. J.), Ryan (M. F.), Mounts, Nette, Gallagher (J. J.), Mahon, Taber, Commons, Lilly, Barry, Suarez, Peterson, Mitchell (M. W.), Short, Bridwell, Kaefel, Connors, Brals, Lennon, Bligs, Tobin (D. J.), Hughes (T. L.), Neer, McLaughlin, Hermann, Golden, Morgan, Williams (T. J.), Evans (E. Lewis), Lynch, Morrison, Hayes (Max), Stevenson, McCullough (T. W.), Holder, McKenna, O'Brien (Joe), Myers, Durbin, Smith (Jos.), Donoghue, Leary, Dowd, Graney, Ryan (E. H.), Lavin, Smith (T. J.), Shay, Blakey, Henretty, Weber (F. J.), Buckley, Hirsch, Heck, O'Brien (W. H.), Torrey, Ferry, Carroll, Hassenpflue, Carter, Sontheimer, Haines, Mead, Schaffer, Briggs, Scoggan, Schneider, Abell, Coleman, Doherty, Pahey, Agesthen, Albrecht, Hoiland, Ullrich, Welsh, Pace, Taylor, Philipp, Russi, Johannsen, Ingram, Leonard, Smith (A. W.), Noonan, Wilby, White, Smith (C. T.), Morton, Voll, Bohm, Forehand, Dwyer, Ham, Engdahl, representing 15,374 votes.

Nays—Gilmore, Wilkinson, Crozier,

Richardson, Humphrey, Hughes (A. C.), Scooby, Brock, Flynn (Patrick), Furuseth, Carolan, Mulcahy, Sharp, Conner, Wright representing 409 votes.

Not voting—Butterworth, Ryan (F. M.), Butler, Clark (Wm.), Conway, Pfeil, Christman, Feeney, Kinsella, Mangan, Rosenberg, Kleinman, Polakoff, Dubinsky, Ring, Marshall, Kenahan, Bryan, Roach, Coakley, Weber (J. N.), Hannah, Sheret, Mallin, Gavlak, Bird, McAndrew, Curtis, Hatch, Birnes, Cooke, DeVeaux, Mikel, Gallagher (A. J.), Lawrence, Pfeiler, Wilkerson, Coffey, Iglesias, Kelly (Wm. E.), Jones (Jerome), Anderson (W. H.), Lowell, DeYoung, Hurley, Hardy, Jones (J. R.), Munn, Smith (L. W.), Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Cox, Skemp (Meta), Quick, Gray, Hobbs, Kennedy (T. G.), Wendt, Davis, Wangberg, Fuller, James, Alonso, Winchenback, Morris, Becerril, Wilson (O. C.), McAndrews, Ford, Belt, Welsh (T. E.), Creamer, Donnelly (J. L.), Cornette, Lebowitz, Dunne, Saum, East, Manning, Schaub, Crinlon Roberts, Gockling, representing 1,457 votes.

Delegate Short moved that the first order of business Saturday morning be the report of the Committee on Building Trades. (Seconded.)

Vice-President O'Connell suggested that the motion be amended to provide that the report of the Committee on Building Trades be the first order of business following the concluding of the report of the Committee on Adjustment.

Delegate Short accepted the amendment, and the motion as amended was carried.

Delegate Wilson (J.), moved that a night session be held, to convene at 8 o'clock. (Seconded.)

The announcement was made that the Convention Hall could not be obtained for the evening session, and Delegate Wilson stated that he would change his motion to read that such a night session be held at some place to be arranged for.

Vice-President Duncan moved that as a substitute the rule to adjourn at noon on Saturday be suspended and the Convention remain in continuous session on Saturday until the business of the Convention was finished. (Seconded.)

Delegate Lewis (T. L.) moved that the motion offered by Vice-President Duncan be laid upon the table. (Seconded, but not carried.)

The motion offered by Vice-President Duncan was carried by a vote of 152 in the affirmative to 58 in the negative.

Delegate Walker (J. H.)—I move that the rules be suspended and that we meet tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock. (Seconded and carried.)

Delegate Moffitt moved that the election of officers be made a special order of business for 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

Delegate Hayes (M. F.), moved as an amendment that the election of officers be made a special order of business for 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. (Seconded.)

Delegate Hirsch moved as an amendment to the amendment that the election of officers be made a special order of business immediately after the conclusion of the report of the Committee on Building Trades. (Seconded.)

Delegate Carter moved as a substitute for the whole that the election of officers be held after all other business had been transacted.

The motions offered by Delegates Moffitt and Hirsch were lost.

The motion offered by Delegate Hayes, that the election be made a special order of business for 2 o'clock Saturday was carried.

Delegate Hayes (F. J.)—I find in here in the Cincinnati Enquirer a statement I think ought to be denied in order that the position of the United Mine Workers may be made clear. Our International President is not here, and as I am next in official capacity I take the opportunity to deny the statement in the Cincinnati Enquirer. I understand it has also appeared in the Chicago Tribune. The article states "Split in big labor body is imminent because of the attack on Gompers. Organization of Miners secretly lays plans to withdraw from the American Federation of Labor. Reld faction of Electrical Workers follow movement to form Independent Federation." The article goes on to state that the delegates of the Western Federation of Miners, and United Mine Workers of America held a secret conference the other night to carry out this purpose.

I take this occasion to brand the statement as a deliberate falsehood. The United Mine Workers of America and the Western Federation of Miners have ever been loyal to the American labor movement and intend to remain so. State-ticle states "split in big labor body is ments of that kind do the miners' organization a great injury. I cannot remain silent without making this statement that our organization may be put in a better light before the public. Some people seem very anxious to misrepresent the miners' organization. We do not want these statements to go unchallenged. We have had no secret conferences with any faction of the Electrical Workers or any other organization in this Convention, and we will be loyal to this movement to the end.

President Gompers—Will you take advantage of this present opportunity to make the statement you advised the secretary and myself that you intended to make?

Delegate Hayes (F. J.)—The delegates of the Western Federation of Miners met the United Mine Workers and they have organized a mining department. We have presented our by-laws and constitution to the Executive Council and asked for a charter.

Delegate D'Alessandro objected to any more time being wasted in making motions for special orders of business, and asked that the regular order be proceeded with.

Delegate Golden, Secretary of the Committee on Adjustment, proceeded with the report of the committee as follows:

Resolution No. 122—By Delegates P. F. Richardson and J. R. Humphrey, of the International Association of Car Workers:

WHEREAS, The International Association of Car Workers now is, and has been, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor since September 30, 1901, during which time it has conformed to all laws, rules and regulations of the American Federation of Labor, and has never even been charged with the violation of any part thereof; and

WHEREAS, By virtue of said affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, the International Association of Car Workers had jurisdiction over certain classes of men engaged in the building, repair, inspection and maintenance of railroad cars; and

WHEREAS, By virtue of said affiliation with the American Federation of Labor in its certificate of affiliation issued to the International Association of Car Workers under date of September 30, 1901, did bind itself to support the said International Association of Car Workers in the exercise of all its rights, privileges and autonomy as an affiliated Union; and,

WHEREAS, Article IX, Section 11, of the Constitution of the American Federation of Labor reads in part as follows: "No charter shall be granted by the American Federation of Labor to any national, international, trade or federal union without a positive and clear definition of the trade jurisdiction claimed by the applicant, and the charter shall not be granted if the jurisdiction claimed is a trespass on the jurisdiction of existing affiliated unions without the written consent of such unions;" and

WHEREAS, A dual organization known as the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America made application for affiliation with the American Federation of Labor in September, 1909; and,

WHEREAS, The jurisdiction of said Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America not only infringed upon but completely covered the jurisdiction of the International Association of Car Workers, which jurisdiction the American Federation of Labor has conceded, admitted and recognized for a period of over nine years; and,

WHEREAS, The Toronto Convention of the American Federation of Labor held in November, 1909, adopted the recommendation of the Adjustment Committee in an effort to amalgamate the said two Car Workers' organizations, which is as follows: "Committee recommends that a conference of the Executive Officers of the Int'l. Association of Car Workers and Brotherhood of Railway Carmen together with the president of the A. F. of L. or member of the Executive Council, be held in the city of Washington, D. C., at the earliest possible date to arrange terms of amalgamation of the Car Workers and Railway Carmen organizations. Failure to agree upon terms of amalgamation the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. shall outline the terms of amalgamation and issue a charter to the amalgamated organizations;" and

WHEREAS, The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in open violation of Article IX, Section 11, of the Constitution, and in violation of the action of the Toronto Convention above quoted, and in violation of the ordained and guaranteed charter and constitutional rights of the International Association of Car Workers, issued a certificate of affiliation to the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen under date of August 9, 1910; and

WHEREAS, Notwithstanding President Gompers' ruling on a point of order raised against the seating of the delegates representing the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen as printed in first column, Page 15, first day's proceedings of this Convention, the recommendation of the Executive Council to the Toronto Convention on the subject matter of the Carmen and Car Workers was not adopted by that Convention, nor did the St. Louis Convention last year sustain the action of the Executive Council in issuing a charter to the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen by even one vote, let alone an overwhelming vote; and

WHEREAS, The Toronto Convention did not authorize the issuance of a charter to the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen and the St. Louis Convention did not endorse nor sustain the Executive Council in the issuance thereof; and

WHEREAS, The Constitution of the American Federation of Labor specifically provides that only the International Association of Car Workers or Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America may lawfully be or remain affiliated with the American Federation of Labor; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By this Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor that action of the Executive Council in issuing a charter to the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America be and is hereby set aside; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That with the passing of this resolution the certificate of affiliation issued to the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen shall be immediately surrendered to the President of the American Federation of Labor, and should the officers of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America fail or refuse to surrender the charter then it shall become null and void; and, be it further.

RESOLVED, That with the passing of this resolution all rights, privileges and benefits of affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, secured by the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America as the result of the issuance of the said charter, shall cease and be denied to it and them forthwith.

The committee reported as follows:

Your committee non-concurs in Resolution No. 122, and reiterates our position that there should be but one organization representing one trade in North America. But the claim is made that one of the Car Workers' organizations is indebted to its members for a large sum of money on account of back strike benefits due, we therefore recommend that the President and Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor continue their efforts to bring about an amalgamation of the two organizations, as soon as the indebtedness of the organization referred to is liquidated.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

Delegate Richardson opposed the report of the committee. He recited in detail the efforts that had been made to amalgamate, and referred particularly to the report of the Adjustment Committee in the Toronto Convention. He made the statement that the records had been changed by the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, first by omitting the report of the Adjustment Committee in the Toronto Convention, and later making some changes in it.

In reply to that statement Secretary Morrison explained that the report of the Adjustment Committee on the Car Workers' question had been accidentally omitted by the printer from the daily proceedings furnished the delegates, but that upon discovery of the omission separate printed slips had been distributed in the convention containing the report of the Adjustment Committee; that he had made corrections for the permanent proceedings and left them in the hands of the assistant secretary to make revision because he was compelled to leave for Washington with President Gompers and Vice President Mitchell in connection with the contempt proceedings, but the permanent proceedings were printed without containing the report of the Adjustment Committee. When this was ascertained slips were again printed and inserted in the permanent record, which contained the report of the Adjustment Committee with two typographical errors, which did not change the meaning or sense of the report.

Delegate Richardson discussed the question at length, and stated the position of his organization in regard to the propositions that had been made to amalgamate. After Delegate Richardson had discussed the question for some time a motion was made and carried that he be given twenty minutes additional time in which to discuss it.

Delegate Hugh Stevenson, whose firm printed the proceedings, spoke upon the question, corroborating the statement made by Secretary Morrison.

President Gompers made a brief statement explaining some of the negotiations that had been had in endeavoring to amalgamate the Car Workers' organization.

Delegate Ryan (M. F.), made a brief statement, in which he said in part:

I want to say at this time the indebtedness of our organization some two years ago was brought about on account of strike benefits to our membership. We stood at all times for the liquidation of any honest claim against our organization. I am pleased to state that the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America has liquidated every dollar of indebtedness. I also want to say that, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Richardson's organization was affiliated with the A. F. of L. for about ten years and had the assistance of those other organizations affiliated, he never was able to overcome the membership of our organization. Since our affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, practically of two years standing, we have increased our membership over 15,000 members, and today there are only about eight organizations affiliated with the A. F. of L. that have larger memberships than ours. We are willing to comply with the recommendation of the committee.

After a further discussion by Delegate Richardson President Gompers asked: Now that the Brotherhood's indebtedness has been liquidated, will there be any difficulty in amalgamating, in the opinion of Delegate Richardson?

Delegate Richardson—We want our rights restored and then we will talk on that question.

President Gompers—You want the charter of the Brotherhood revoked?

Delegate Richardson—I want it back in Washington. I want it surrendered, and if they do not surrender it, declare it null and void.

President Gompers—Will you insist on that now?

Delegate Richardson—Restore our rights, Mr. Chairman.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried by a vote of 156 in the affirmative to 2 in the negative.

At 7 o'clock p. m., the Convention was adjourned to reconvene at 8 o'clock a. m., Saturday, November 25th.

Twelfth Day—Saturday Morning Session

The convention was called to order at 8 a. m., Saturday, November 25th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Pfell, Shoret, Gavlak, Gallagher (Andrew J.), Lawrence, Coffey Kelly (Wm. E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hurley, Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Hobbs, Wendt, Davis, Wangberg, Winchencack, McAndrews (J. J.), Ford, Belt, Welsh (Thomas E.), Creamer, Donnelly, Lebowitz, Saum, Schaub.

Report of Committee on Adjustment.

Delegate Golden, Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

Resolution No. 117—By Delegates D. D'Alessandro, J. D'Andrea and J. B. Etchison, of the International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers' Union of America:

WHEREAS, There are some independent and seceding unions of Hod Carriers and Building Laborers seated and recognized in the various State and Local Building Trades Councils chartered by the Building Trades Department; and

WHEREAS, Complaint has been made to the Building Trades Department of such unlawful state of things, but no action has been taken by the Department until the present time; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention instruct the Building Trades Department to give compulsive orders to the various Local and State Building Trades Councils to unseat those independent or seceding locals unless they affiliate with the proper International Unions; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That Building Trades Councils refusing to comply with such request be suspended by the Building Trades Department until they comply with the orders of the Department.

Your committee recommends that this matter be placed in the hands of the President and Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, with instructions to confer with the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department, with a view of carrying out the purpose of the resolution.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 129—By Delegates D. D'Alessandro, J. D'Andrea and J. B. Etch-ison, of the International Hod Carriers' and Building Laborers' Union of America:

WHEREAS, Our experiences of the past have demonstrated that the common laborers working in the construction of streets, sewers, tunnels, etc., in 95 per cent of the cases come and work in the construction of buildings, whereas those men have not been organized, and could not be organized by this International Union, not having jurisdiction upon such work; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention extend to the I. H. C., and B. L. U. of A. jurisdiction over the common laborers employed in the construction of streets, sewers and tunnels.

The committee recommended that the subject matter of the resolution be referred to the President and Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor for consideration and action.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 132—By Delegates Matt Comerford, John Glass, J. L. McNamara and James G. Hannahan:

WHEREAS, A controversy exists between members of the International Brick, Tile and Terra Cotta Workers' Alliance and members of the International Union of Steam Engineers in Cook County, Illinois; and

WHEREAS, If this is permitted to continue it will destroy the friendly relations which have existed for years between the above organizations; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Thirty-first annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, at Atlanta, Ga., instruct the Executive Council to call a conference of representatives of the two above named organizations for the purpose of effecting a settlement of the existing controversy; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That a member of the Executive Council be present at the conference which shall be called in the City of Chicago, not later than February, 1912.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

The committee referred to that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Machinists-Elevator Constructors," and read the following recommendation of the Executive Council:

"In reference to the above contention between the organizations in interest, your Executive Council recommends that the subject matter be left with the Executive Council to take such further action as may be helpful to bring about full understanding and adjustment between the two organizations."

The committee report as follows on the above report of the Executive Council: Your committee approves of the action of the Executive Council, and recommend that they continue their efforts to bring about a final adjustment of the matter.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 163—By Delegate T. J. Carolan, of International Brotherhood of Tip Printers:

WHEREAS, The value and utility of the Union Label as an organizing factor is firmly established among trades unionists; and

WHEREAS, The International Brotherhood of Tip Printers, who do gold, silver and metal printing and embossing in hats, caps, badges and novelties, has the greatest difficulty in organizing the tip printers in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago and other cities, because of the fact that the master tip printers have seen fit to lock them out for a number of years, and openly declared that no union man shall ever work in their shops again, a threat which they have lived up to to a man, and all because the tip printers had courage to ask a little more wages so as to keep themselves and families from want; and

WHEREAS, Some of the master tip printers have gone so far as to degrade their men by putting up a prize of $10 every six months, and the man working the most flesh from his hands, and the largest amount of blood out of his veins is the winner of this miserable and degrading prize; and

WHEREAS, A very large amount of the printing done in the non-union shops is placed in union hats and caps, and this work comes from union hat and cap manufacturers, who send the printing to non-union shops to have it printed and then place it in their union goods; and

WHEREAS, We believe that we have a just right to demand from organized labor that it should see that all printing in union hats, caps, badges, etc., is strictly union and done by union men, bearing the label of the International Brotherhood of Tip Printers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That all organizations, national or federal, having in their organization members working on tip printing presses and doing work which rightfully belongs and comes under the jurisdiction of the International Brotherhood of Tip Printers, be instructed by this convention to surrender all such members who are doing tip printers' work and working on tip printing presses, to the International Brotherhood of Tip Printers.

The committee reported as follows: There having been no conference held on this matter, your committee recommends that it be referred to the President of the American Federation of Labor, with instructions to arrange a conference of the parties involved at the earliest possible date, with a view of adjusting the matter.

The report of the committee was adopted.

On that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Theatrical Stage Employees—Electrical Workers—Jurisdiction over Moving Picture Machine Operators," the committee recommended that the matter be left in the hands of the Executive Council with instructions to continue their efforts at adjustment.

Delegate Barry.—As you know, we have already been in Washington three times. In appearing before the Adjustment Committee I asked if they would recommend that next time a conference was called all parties be there.

Vice-President O'Connell.—And we do so recommend to the President.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 135—By Delegate Jas. H. Hatch, of the Upholsterers' International Union of North America:

WHEREAS, The Carpet Mechanics' Union, of San Francisco, Cal., is affiliated with the Building Trades Council of San Francisco, Cal.; and

WHEREAS, The Carpet Mechanics Union referred to is a dual union and not affiliated with the Upholsterers' International Union of North America, whose jurisdiction covers the Carpet Layers, Cutters, Measurers and Estimators; and

WHEREAS, Resolutions have been introduced at several Conventions of the A. F. of L. by the representative of the Upholsterers International Union of North America requesting that the Carpet Mechanics of San Francisco affiliate with the Upholsterers' International Union of North America or be denied affiliation with Central Bodies affiliated with the A. F. of L.; and

WHEREAS, No action has been taken by the Building Trades Council of San Francisco indicating compliance with the action requested by the Conventions of the A. F. of L. in the case of the union referred to; therefore, be it RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. be instructed to take decisive action that will insure compliance with the request contained in this resolution.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution, and that the President of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to carry into effect the purposes of the resolution.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 171—By Delegate Jas. H. Hatch, of the Upholsterers' International Union of North America:

WHEREAS, A charter has been granted by the A. F. of L. to Window Shade Workers of San Francisco, Cal., who are known as Local Union No. 13091; and

WHEREAS, The Shade Workers are a part of the Upholsterers' craft and are in all other cities members of the Upholsterers' International Union of North America; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. be instructed to revoke the charter issued to the above mentioned Union, and that they be instructed to affiliate with the Upholsterers' International Union of North America.

The committee reported as follows:

Your committee concurs in the resolution and recommends that the President of the American Federation of Labor notify the officers of Local Union No. 13091 to surrender their charter to the American Federation of Labor and affiliate themselves with the Upholsterers' International Union of America.

Delegate Johannsen—I would suggest that a similar letter be also sent to the San Francisco Labor Council.

President Gompers—Is there objection?

Vice-President O'Connell—We have no objection. It goes without saying that will be done.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 145—By Delegates T. V. O'Connor, M. W. Kelleher, P. F. A. Vaccarelli and Martin Cole, of the International Longshoremen's Association:

WHEREAS, A dispute did exist for a number of years between the International Seamen and the International Longshoremen; and

WHEREAS, The Pittsburg Convention of the A. F. of L. directed that the matter in dispute, between the above mentioned organizations, be submitted to a Board of Arbitration for adjustment, the representatives of the Seamen and the Longshoremen and President Gompers, met in the city of Erie, April, 1906. President Gompers was chosen as arbitrator by both sides on June 27, 1907. President Gompers acting in such capacity rendered his decision in the case; this decision was accepted by the Seamen's delegation at the Norfolk Convention of the A. F. of L. in the month of December, 1907, was reported to the Seamen's Convention, and was accepted by that body; the Longshoremen's Convention held July, 1907, refused to accept the decision rendered by President Gompers. The Norfolk Convention took an action instructing President Gompers and some other member of the Executive Council to visit the Longshoremen's Convention at Erie, 1908, to use their best endeavor to induce the Longshoremen to accept the decision as handed down by President Gompers. The Longshoremen after listening to the addresses of President Gompers and Treasurer John B. Lennon, then took action in their Convention of 1908, giving the delegates who were to represent them at the Denver Convention of the A. F. of L., full authority to accept the decision of President Gompers, and to bring about a settlement of the dispute existing between the two organizations at a meeting held at Denver, between the representatives of the Seamen and the Longshoremen, with John B. Lennon and D. Mulcahy acting for the A. F. of L. The decision of President Gompers was accepted by the Longshoremen with the understanding as is outlined in the proceedings of the Denver Convention of the A. F. of L.; and

WHEREAS, The Longshoremen have carried out the decision as handed down by President Gompers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the International Seamen's Union be instructed to live up to and carry out President Gompers' decision.

The committee reported as follows:

In the hearing of the case it was claimed by one of the parties involved that a question of maritime law was involved, also that it would be impossible to comply with the decision of President Gompers in 1908 without violating said maritime law. Your committee therefore recommends that the matter be referred to President Gompers and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor to investigate the alleged claim made relative to the matter of maritime law, and to render a decision on the matter in dispute with a view of protecting the interests of both organizations involved.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

Delegate Cole stated that he took exceptions to the report of the committee, as the Longshoremen's representatives did not concur in the claim that there was a maritime law involved. He stated that in their opinion there was no such law involved. He stated that the decision handed down by President Gompers was perfectly agreeable to the Longshoremen and they fully intended to carry it out.

Delegate Furuseth discussed the question and stated that he was in favor of the report of the committee. He quoted from the Navigation Laws sections to support his contention that a maritime law was involved.

Delegate O'Connor (T. V.), discussed the question at some length and opposed the report of the committee. He spoke of the contention that had existed for years between the Seamen and the Longshoremen and of the various efforts that had been made to adjust it. He stated that when a decision was finally reached the Longshoremen had lived up to it, but denied that the Seamen had done so.

In referring to the report of the committee Vice-President O'Connell, chairman of the committee, said: The committee simply recommends that the matter be referred to President Gompers to decide a question in dispute in his decision. If his decision is that his former decision in the case stands, that is all there is to it, both sides will have to carry it out. It is simply asking the President to explain his own decision.

Delegate O'Connor—If that is the report of the committee we are willing to accept it.

Delegate Flynn discussed the question briefly, and referred to the friction that has existed between the Longshoremen and Seamen on the Pacific Coast.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 111—By Delegates Daniel J. Tobin, Thomas L. Hughes, Wm. A. Neer, A. J. Hermann and J. McLaughlin, of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers.

WHEREAS, The Toronto Convention, on the recommendation of the Adjustment Committee, requested that the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs and the United Brewery Workmen of America, in the interest of the labor movement in general cease hostilities for one year, both sides by their silence on the floor of the Convention when the recommendation was brought in by the committee, practically agreeing to said recommendation; and

WHEREAS, The International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs have honorably and honestly carried out their part of the recommendation of the Toronto Convention; and

WHEREAS, The United Brewery Workmen of America have deliberately and wilfully violated the agreement of Toronto, and have not only acted worse than they did before the agreement was entered into, but are stopping at nothing to destroy many of the local unions of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters by forcing members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs into their organization, by threats to the employers of tying up their business, not only in the brewery industry, but in plants where there are soda and mineral waters manufactured and bottled; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention take steps to prevent a continuation of this kind of business and instruct the United Brewery Workers of America to live up to the original jurisdiction decisions rendered in the Minneapolis and other conventions of the American Federation of Labor between the said International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs and the United Brewery Workmen of America.

The committee reported as follows:

Another new feature having developed in relation to this dispute, namely the evolution of the mineral water business, we recommend that the whole subject matter be referred to the President and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, with instructions to appoint a representative of the American Federation of Labor who shall make a thorough investigation and report his findings to the Executive Council at the earliest possible date. The President of the American Federation of Labor shall then arrange a conference between representatives of the two organizations involved, with a view of bringing about an adjustment of the controversy. Failing to agree then the Executive Council is instructed to render a decision setting forth clearly the jurisdiction of both organizations not later than July 1, 1912.

Delegate Kemper—If the report of the committee means or intends reopening the controversy as far as the jurisdiction of the United Brewery Workers is concerned, over beer drivers, chauffeurs and stablemen helpers in the breweries, then we must protest; for in our opinion this matter has been definitely settled and we now enjoy jurisdiction over the beer drivers, chauffeurs and stablemen all over this country. If, however, the intent and purpose of the recommendation of the committee is to refer that new phase of the question to the Executive Council, then we are perfectly satisfied that it shall be so referred. But we would like to know at this time the intent and purport of the recommendation of the committee.

Vice-President O'Connell—I will say for the committee that the decision implies this: First, there is an apparent evolution in connection with the mineral water drivers, the distribution of soft drinks, etc. The teamsters claim that the brewery workers have gone out in that line of industry without permission of any person and have organized the teamsters. On that particular question the committee's report implies that an investigation shall be made and a decision rendered. If the teamsters had the question of jurisdiction settled as to teamsters in breweries, then the Executive Council would be in a position to make a declaration so there might be no further dispute brought into the Convention hereafter questioning their right to have such teamsters.

Delegate Tobin (D. J.), stated that he was somewhat disappointed at the report of the committee. He stated it was not a question of the new development that was considered by the delegates representing the Teamsters' organization, but a question of whether or not the Convention meant anything when it rendered a decision. Delegate Tobin referred at length to the Minneapolis decision in regard to the Teamsters and Brewery Workers, stating that a decision was rendered there giving the teamsters to the organization he represented, and that other succeeding Conventions had confirmed the decision. He stated that the teamsters were going to claim the rights guaranteed them by their charter, and would insist that the American Federation of Labor put into effect the decision rendered in regard to the Teamsters' organization. He stated further that they wanted not only an investigation of the new developments but of the entire question involved in the resolution.

Delegate Kugler discussed the question at length, and gave a brief history of the organization and progress of the Brewery Workers' organization. He referred to the fact that a referendum vote had been taken to allow the drivers connected with breweries to decide to which organization they would belong, that 95 per cent of those men were organized, and he did not think the American Federation of Labor would say that they should not be members of the United Brewery Workers.

The question was discussed briefly by Delegates Woll and McCullough (T. W.), for the committee, and by Delegate Sullivan (J. L.).

Delegate Ward discussed the question and stated that the protest entered by Delegate Kemper was against the reopening or submitting to investigation the lines of demarcation on the question of the brewery drivers or chauffeurs delivering beer. He stated that the Brewery Workers would most emphatically protest against submitting to any committee the lines of demarcation of the Brewery Workers at this late day, and that the language used in the resolution submitted by the Teamsters was misleading and incorrect. In that it stated that they wanted the control of all teamsters, that they had always had it and that it had been granted to them by their charter rights. He stated that such is not the case, that when they asked for jurisdiction over chauffeurs the Convention did not give them jurisdiction over those employed in other trades that were already decided upon.

Delegate Ward offered the following motion: I move that it is the sense of this Convention that the interest of the beer drivers is better conserved in the International Brewery Workmen's organization, and that the question of soft drinks be submitted to the Executive Council for disposal. (Seconded.)

Vice-President Duncan—Before putting the motion stated by Delegate Ward the chair desires to say that the report of the committee would comprehend that which Delegate Ward has offered. The subject matter dealt with by the committee is Resolution No. 111. It then goes on to say that new developments have arisen, and they recommend that the whole subject matter be referred to the President and Executive Council, with instructions to appoint a representative who shall make a thorough investigation and report on the finding of the Executive Council at the earliest possible date. This means that if the report of the committee is adopted and the man appointed he will report to the Executive Council conditions just as he finds them. Then the President is to get representatives of the two organizations to meet with the President of the American Federation of Labor or some one selected by him, and endeavor to adjust the matter to the satisfaction of both. In the event of failure the Council is instructed by this committee to make an effort to define the jurisdiction lines.

Delegate Ward—Do I understand from the chairman of this Convention that the investigation is on the new matter, or that the investigation is to be made as to the beer drivers now employed in the breweries?

Vice-President Duncan—The report of the committee as it is worded comprehends both, but with this qualification or provision in it that the man who investigates is to investigate conditions just as they are. For instance, if it is found that 95 per cent of the beer drivers are in the Brewery Workers' organization he would so report. You would not expect the Executive Council to say a situation like that should be changed. As to the mineral water drivers, the situation is different. The report of the committee says it is a new development. Do you still wish your amendment to be stated?

Delegate Ward—I would not have offered the amendment were it not for the persistence of the Teamsters in trying to bring this whole matter up again. We have confidence in the Executive Council, and so far as I am concerned, unless the other delegates of the Brewery Workers insist on the amendment I will be satisfied to withdraw it.

Delegate Kemper—Having seconded the amendment, I will say that the statement of the chair, that should the investigator find that our claim is correct as to the number of beer drivers employed in breweries who are members of our organization, he will so report and that will be the basis of the decision to be rendered, and that this jurisdiction over 95 per cent of the beer drivers in our organization will not be jeopardized, I will concur in withdrawing the amendment.

Delegate Tobin asked if the statement of the chair was that if the investigator found that 95 per cent of the drivers were in the Brewery Workers that they would not be asked to give them up.

Vice-President Duncan—I will say this, so you will not misunderstand the position, that no member of the Executive Council and no delegate on the floor of this Convention would be willing as a council member or as a delegate to say that 95 per cent of any craft found in an organization should be transferred to another organization. This Convention might say so, but not the Executive Council.

The question was discussed further by Delegate Tobin, who wished to know why the Adjustment Committee did not attach a penalty for failure to abide by the decision of the Executive Council, as had been done in the case of other organizations reported on during the previous day.

Delegate Golden, Secretary of the Committee—We are not in a position to bring in a penalty until the lines of demarcation are drawn. I want to say to Delegate Tobin that if I am here next year and a part of that Adjustment Committee, and either one or both organizations violate the terms laid down by the Executive Council, I for one shall recommend the revocation of one or both charters.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried by unanimous vote.

Resolution No. 161—By Delegates D. D'Alessandro, J. D'Andrea, and J. B. Etchison, of the International Hod Carriers' and Building Laborers' Union of America:

WHEREAS, The International Hod Carriers' and Building Laborers' Union of America was chartered by the American Federation of Labor, April 13th, 1903, and the following jurisdiction was granted: "Wrecking of buildings, excavation of buildings, digging of trenches, piers and foundation, holes, digging, lagging, sheeting of said foundation, holes, and caisson work, concrete for buildings, whether foundation, floors or any other, whether done by hand or any other process, tending to masons, mixing and handling all materials used by masons (except stone setters), building of scaffolding for masons, plasterers, building of centers for fire-proofing purposes, tending to carpenters, tending and mixing of all material for plastering, whether done by hand or any other process, clearing of debris from buildings, choring, underpinning and razing of old buildings, drying of plastering, when done by salamander heat, handling of dimension stones; and

WHEREAS, Another organization, called the American Brotherhood of Cement Workers, is infringing upon our jurisdiction, by admitting in that organization unskilled laborers doing the mixing and conveying of concrete; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Thirty-first Convention of the A. F. of L. restrain the American Brotherhood of Cement Workers from organizing such unskilled laborers; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That this Convention order the A. B. of C. W. to transfer to the I. H. C. and B. L. U. of America all the unskilled laborers who are now part of that organization; and, be it further RESOLVED, That the Building Trades Department be instructed by this Convention to notify all the State and Local Building Trades Councils, that the mixing and conveying of concrete shall be done by members of the I. H. C. and B. L. U. of America.

The committee reported as follows:

Inasmuch as the International Hod Carriers' and Building Laborers' Union of America took an appeal from the action of the Building Trades Department bearing on this dispute to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, and no decision having been rendered by that body, your committee recommends that the dispute be referred to the Executive Council, with a request that a decision be rendered at the earliest possible date.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be concurred in.

Delegate D'Alessandro discussed the question at length, and stated that the matter had been referred to the Executive Council in a previous convention but no recommendation had been made by the Executive Council in regard to it. He stated that a resolution had been introduced in the Toronto Convention to revoke the charter of the Cement Workers, that it had been referred to the Executive Council but no report had been made by that body. He objected to its being again referred and asked that a decision be made by the convention. After an extended discussion Delegate D'Alessandro asked the chairman of the Committee if the question of the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers and the Cement Workers would be considered at the first meeting of the Executive Council.

Vice-President O'Connell, Chairman of the Committee, stated that the committee recommended that it be taken up as soon as possible.

Vice-President Duncan stated that the question had come to the Executive Council on an appeal from the Building Trades; that the Executive Council had heard statements from Delegate D'Alessandro on two occasions, and the matter was unfinished business before the Executive Council.

Delegate D'Alessandro moved that the Executive Council consider the jurisdiction dispute between the Cement Workers and the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers at its first meeting. (Seconded.)

Vice-President O'Connell stated that the committee would accept the amendment to change the words "at the earliest possible time" to "at the first meeting."

Delegate Tveitmo discussed the question briefly, stating that the Brotherhood of Cement Workers would stand on the declaration of principles and policy adopted by the convention at a previous session—one organization for one trade. He stated that he favored the report of the Committee on Adjustment, and requested that the Executive Council give the representatives of his organization due notice when they intended to take the question up.

The question was discussed briefly by Delegate Williams, who stated that if the proposition meant that the Building Laborers desired to include the affiliated helpers of his trade he would enter a protest. Delegate D'Alessandro stated that they had nothing to do with the Tile Workers, and did not want to claim any of the mechanics' work.

Delegate Etchison in discussing the question said: "We do not ask for the helpers of any mechanical craft; we do not ask for the Cement Workers' helpers, much less the Tile or Marble Workers' helpers. We only ask for the laborers who mix and wheel concrete on reinforced concrete buildings.

The report of the committee was adopted, when amended by adding the suggestion of Delegate D'Alessandro.

Vice-President O'Connell—That concludes our report with the exception that we are going to make a general declaration, carrying out the ideas expressed by me in opening our report yesterday morning. The declaration is as follows:

Before closing the report the Committee on Adjustment wishes to make the following declaration and recommendations: Whatever argument or excuse there might have been in the past for the existence of two organizations of the one craft, we now believe that such argument or excuse is absent. It is the unanimous opinion of the Committee on Adjustment, many of whose members have had to deal with disputes caused by the existence of two organizations of one craft for many years, that the time has arrived for the American Federation of Labor to openly and emphatically declare itself to the effect that, large as this country is, it is not large enough to hold two organizations of the one craft. Therefore your Committee recommends that this Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor goes squarely on record in favor of the above declaration, and your Committee further recommends that this convention instruct the President and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor to carry into effect the principles and purposes involved in this declaration—one craft, one organization. All of which is respectfully submitted.

JAMES O'CONNELL, Chairman.
JOHN GOLDEN, Secretary.
MATTHEW WOLL.
JOHN A. MOFFITT.
T. W. McCULLOUGH.
WILLIAM E. KLAPETZKY.
JOS. A. FRANKLIN.
THOMAS S. FARRELL.
FRANK GEHRING.
EDWARD FLORE.
MICHAEL J. HALLINAN.
PERCY THOMAS.

WILLIAM TABER.
VICTOR ALTMAN.
H. C. SHALVOY.

Committee on Adjustment.

Delegate Golden—I move the adoption of the declaration.

Delegate Abell—Does that mean complete trade autonomy?

Vice-President O'Connell—I don't know what you mean by the question. It means that in the machinists' craft, for instance, or the printing craft, or the electricians' craft, or any other trade recognized as a trade, there is not room in this country for two organizations. That is what it means.

President Gompers—I think it would be but proper to call attention to this fact, that there is a general misapprehension as to the real meaning of the word "autonomy," autonomy as applied to and used in the trade union movement and the American Federation of Labor. Autonomy is the right of the organization itself to govern itself.

Treasurer Lennon asked if the report of the committee might not be construed as being in more or less opposition to the resolution adopted in the Scranton Convention on the subject of organization that in some instances are recognized as having the right to contain within their organization all the people who are engaged in the industry.

Vice-President O'Connell—We had in mind just what Delegate Lennon speaks of, which is not the intention of the committee at all. The motion of the committee recognizes that the trades have that right, but the committee wants this declaration to go out, that if a faction of a trade breaks away or the organization splits, the portion that goes on the outside may know at the very start that there can be no recognition of two divisions of that organization in this Federation, nor can some faction of a craft not yet affiliated with the organization that is affiliated here, some independent portion of a trade on the outside, hold out with the hope that in the future it is possible for that portion of that craft to be chartered by the American Federation of Labor. It does not interfere in any way with the decision and declaration of the Scranton Convention. It recognizes fully the rights of the miners as they are now organized.

Delegate Kugler—Would it be possible to insert the declaration of the Scranton Convention?

Vice-President O'Connell—The minute you do that you are getting away from this clear cut declaration. There is no way to misunderstand this declaration unless the Conventions hereafter put a construction on it by their own vote.

President Gompers—The chair is of the opinion that it is your desire to adopt this declaration of the committee as the Convention's own declaration, and yet not to modify the declaration of the Scranton Convention. You have heard the questions and answers, and if they are made part of the record of the proceedings of this Convention they will show the intent of the declaration as in no way curbing or modifying the Scranton Convention declaration, it seems to me the purpose of all will be served.

Delegate Connors—The question I want settled is a definition of what a trade is. We have discussed the Brewery Workers' and the Teamsters' proposition, and I presume from what is arrived at that the teamster is a brewery worker. That is what I want to find out. I think some time in the future this thing will be discussed in here again. We have certain organizations that are going about attempting to gobble up other organizations. What we would like to know is what constitutes a trade. At least I would like to know.

Vice-President O'Connell—That can only be decided, where there is a contention, by the proper authority. That is the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor or the Convention itself will decide. When there is a dispute between some portion of an organization affiliated a declaration can be made as to what that trade consists of; but the general declaration contained in the resolution applies to those things we recognize as trades affiliated with this organization. There can be no misunderstanding as to that.

Delegate Healy—It may be that this will be construed differently from the way it is put to us now. I think your committee should draw up a declaration making matters clear so that we can understand them. It may be that after we have voted on this you will decide that the Engineers and Firemen are one organization. I have been asked on more than one occasion by officers of this Federation in the past year or two if there is not a possibility of bringing those two organizations together. We should be very careful before we adopt general declarations at this time. I am opposed to voting on any declaration until I know what it means.

Vice-President O'Connell—The declaration anticipates what you say. If the Engineers and Firemen agree among themselves to be in one organization this declaration anticipates such a thing, but if you do not decide to do it this declaration will not force you to do it.

The motion to adopt the recommendation of the committee was carried.

Delegate Richardson asked the privilege of the floor.

President Gompers—The report of the Committee on Building Trades was made a special order of business immediately following the—Delegate Richardson—I rise to a question of personal privilege. I want to surrender the charter of the International Association of Car Workers to the American Federation of Labor.

President Gompers—Will the delegate step up to the platform?

Delegate Richardson—Here is the charter, Mr. Chairman.

President Gompers—The chair would like to inquire by what authority Delegate Richardson surrenders this charter?

Delegate Richardson—As President of the International Association of Car Workers I surrender the charter.

President Gompers—The President of the American Federation of Labor places this charter in the hands of the Secretary, with the request that he inform the Secretary of the International Association of Car Workers that the charter is held by him for transmission to the organization, and that President Richardson, without authority of that organization, surrendered the charter, usurping a position which no presiding officer has a right to assume in the name of a membership who have not spoken on the question.

Report of Building Trades Committee

Delegate Tveitmo, Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

Building Trades Department—U. B. of Carpenters—Steam Fitters.

The Building Trades Department of the A. F. of L. at its convention in St. Louis just after the close of the A. F. of L. Convention, suspended from representation therein the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers.

At our meeting in January, the officers of the Buildings Trades Department made application for the revocation of the charter of affiliation with the A. F. of L. of these two organizations. Action upon the application was deferred until our June meeting. President Gompers in the meantime, being authorized by us to co-operate with the officers of the Building Trades Department for the purpose of endeavoring to bring about an adjustment of the trouble with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and the amalgamation of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers with the United Association of Plumbers. Efforts along this line, however, were without success.

At our meeting in June, the following letter was received:

"Washington, D. C., June 13, 1911.

"Mr. Samuel Gompers, President,
American Federation of Labor,
Washington, D. C.

"Dear Sir and Brother:

"Pursuant to the instructions of the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department, I herewith transmit to you for submission to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor the following statement and request:

The Building Trades Department, American Federation of Labor, in convention in St. Louis, November 28th to December 5th inclusive, approved a recommendation made by the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department of which the following is a copy:

"That the grievance against the International Steam Fitters and the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners be referred to the coming convention with a recommendation that, if the organizations still refuse to obey the mandates of the Tampa Convention, they be suspended from the Department. It is further recommended that like action be taken by the A. F. of L."

The substance of the foregoing action is that if the unions named therein failed to comply with the decisions reached by the Tampa Convention of the Building Trades Department, and for such failure or refusal as the case may be, the unions in question were suspended by the Department and like action requested by the American Federation of Labor.

As you are aware, this subject-matter was transmitted to you and by you to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor on the occasion of your last meeting, but as we understand the matter, sanction of the recommendation has not been given; instead a proposition in the case of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers to amalgamate with the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters, and Steam Fitters' Helpers has issued, and in the case of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance, a conference was proposed.

The result is that more than four months have elapsed without any definite action having been taken, which in large measure has rendered the work of the Department ineffective, causing in addition distress among the several locals and a wilful and deliberate manifestation to ignore the subsequent decisions rendered by the Executive Council of the Department, especially in the case of minor jurisdictional disputes. This action is regrettably working great havoc on the welfare and progress of the Department, which to say the least augurs no good for the future; indeed unless some definite, positive stand is taken to uphold the decisions of the department in the respect outlined in the foregoing quotation, then the affiliated organizations might just as well consent to abandon the effort of protection that the Department in reality carries with it through the present form of organization; so much so is this the case that it becomes absolutely essential, indeed imperative, that we have a decision from your council forthwith, upholding the action of the St. Louis Convention of the Building Trades Department with respect to the two organizations herewith named.

There are before the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department at this time several questions of an intricate nature that of necessity should be settled once and for all, and that will redound to the credit, strength and prestige of the Department, but as before stated it is useless to proceed in these matters unless we are to have a confirmation by your council of the action taken by the St. Louis Convention in the case previously referred to.

We therefore earnestly appeal to you to give the cases complained of the attention they deserve without delay and render a positive and final opinion in the premises, so that the future course of the Department may be determined.

Anxiously awaiting the same on behalf of the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department, I have the honor to remain,

Fraternally yours,
(Signed) Wm. J. SPENCER,
Secretary-Treasurer,
Building Trades Dept."

President Short and Secretary Spencer presented the letter in person, requesting that definite action be taken thereon. We gave much time, consideration and discussion to the subject and thereafter we sent the following reply, embodying therein the decision of the Executive Council relative to not only this but kindred matters involved:

Washington, D. C., June 17, 1911.
Mr. William J. Spencer, Secretary,
Building Trades Dept., A. F. of L.,
Ouray Building, Washington, D. C.
Dear Sir and Brother:

The letter which you at the direction of the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department, A. F. of L., handed me, was submitted to the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. for its consideration. As you know, at a joint meeting of the Executive Council of the Department with the Executive Council of the A. F. of L., the subject matter of the requests contained in the letter, as well as those questions which led up to the present situation, was gone over in detail, at length, and comprehensively, and therefore much of that which was orally conveyed as the expression of our views upon the matter is not necessary to be recounted here.

We have, however, given further attention to the laws of the A. F. of L., and of the Department, and have taken into consideration the present situation of the Department, and its local councils, as well as the unsatisfactory conditions which obtain in the building trades in many centers of the country; and with all we have had in mind the desire to be helpful to the Building Trades Department for its success and perpetuity.

At the St. Louis Convention of the Building Trades Department, November-December, 1910, the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers of America were suspended from the Department, and these international unions are not now a part thereof. The action of the Department in suspending these two international unions carried with it also the request that they be suspended by the American Federation of Labor, and your Executive Council through you has made that request.

In connection therewith, we desire to express our belief that to carry into effect the advice, conclusions, or decisions in the Building Trades Department and in the local building trades councils, it is not only desirable but most helpful that the organizations affiliated to the Department, and to its councils, shall yield a ready compliance thereto, of course having in mind that such advice, conclusions and decisions are in conformity with fundamental principles of labor and of the organic laws and principles of the American Federation of Labor.

Your Executive Council asks the American Federation of Labor to suspend therefrom the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers of America. In connection therewith your attention is called to Article 9, Section 12, of the Constitution of the A. F. of L., which reads as follows:

"The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor shall only have power to revoke the charter of an affiliated national or international union when the revocation has been ordered by a two-thirds' majority of a regular Convention of the American Federation of Labor, by a roll-call vote."

You will readily observe that under this law the Executive Council has no power to suspend an international union (which carries with it the revocation of its charter). The fullest limit to which our authority extends is to make such report and recommendation to the forthcoming convention of the A. F. of L. at Atlanta, November, 1911, and this course we shall pursue, as in our judgment the circumstances warrant, with the hope that our respective executive councils and conventions may work out an adjustment of this and similar contentions which will tend to retain and cement still more the bonds of unity and fraternity of all our affiliated organizations and members as fully in harmony as the movement in which we are engaged will permit.

We present to your consideration the fact, which the history of the labor movement demonstrates beyond cavil or doubt, that to revoke charters, suspend organizations, enforce compulsory obedience to edicts and decisions, have invariably led to a rebellious spirit resulting in bitter conflict, relentless antagonisms, and disintegration and dissolution. While realizing the necessity that discipline in the labor movement must be observed at least to some degree, yet this fact is self-evident; that the best, most enduring and advantageous discipline in the organized labor movement is that discipline which comes with time and experience and is suggested and later self-imposed. It is something not yet generally understood how perfectly safe freedom is, and this truism applies to the administration of the organized labor movement as much as it does to any government on the face of the earth.

Imbued with this experience and conception, we have great apprehensions of the advisability of the suspension or revocation of charters of international unions based upon the contentions over trade jurisdictional disputes. We submit that such contentions can better be adjusted by the contending parties being in affiliation with the general organizations of labor than by being in enforced suspension with their charters revoked.

It is a truism that a chain is no stronger than its weakest link, and it is also true that so long as the chain is retained intact, even its weakest link may be strengthened. In the effort to maintain the chain of unity among the rank and file of the organized labor movement if it is unwise to cast aside a weak link, how much more injurious is it to cast out the stronger?

The cause which has brought about this contention, is first, the jurisdictional dispute between the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, and the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance. The Tampa convention of the Building Trades Department decided that the work in dispute should come under the jurisdiction of the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance. That decision was confirmed by the department convention at St. Louis, 1910. Upon the U. B. of Carpenters declining to yield obedience to the decision, it was suspended from the department. It is not our purpose to here discuss the merits of the award. We find the situation as it is; that the U. B. of Carpenters is now unattached to the Building Trades department, where it properly belongs, and we are constrained to repeat the thought we have already expressed, that enforced compulsory obedience to edicts and decisions has never proven either advantageous or successful, and that suspension of international unions and revocation of charters are not calculated to harmonize existing differences, nor bring the members of an international union so suspended into a better frame of mind in order that an award may be accepted by them. We urge upon the consideration of your department that in any event the opportunity to secure compliance with the expressed judgment of duly constituted authorities in the labor movement, is increased when the international unions most vitally interested are in affiliation and fellowship with the department of which they are a material part.

We, therefore, recommend that the Building Trades Department, A. F. of L., at its first opportunity, reinstate the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America in full affiliation to the Department; that in the meantime and thereafter, every effort be exerted by that organization, the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance, the Building Trades Department, and the American Federation of Labor, by correspondence, conferences, and by every moral suasion within our power, to bring about an adjustment of the matters in dispute to the satisfaction and advantage of the organizations primarily in interest. We assure the Department that the good offices of the executive council and of the American Federation of Labor will be continued to be exerted and renewed to assist the Department and the organizations involved to effect a solution of the trade jurisdictional dispute between the two organizations.

In the second case, that is, in the controversy between the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers, of the United States and Canada, and the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers of America, we recognize a matter of dispute entirely different in character as compared with the dispute between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance; a dispute which has existed for years, to the detriment not only to the immediate organizations involved, but to the entire building industry. This dispute has passed through all the channels of mediation, arbitration, investigation and decisions by the American Federation of Labor, and by the Building Trades Department, without satisfactory results. These investigations, arbitration awards and decisions, have been uniformly to the effect that there ought not to exist two distinctive, separate organizations in the pipe fitting trades; that the best results to the workers in the industry would be best conserved by all being united in the one general organization of these trades, namely, the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers, of the United States and Canada, for general purposes, yet each branch of the pipe fitting trade to have as much autonomous administration as is consistent with the general interest of all.

The views which we have expressed to you orally, the opinions expressed herein, and the recommendations which we submit to your Department and to the two organizations named, we earnestly hope will be taken into favorable consideration and prompt action by all, and will form the basis of our report and recommendations to the Atlanta convention of the American Federation of Labor.

While it should not be necessary, yet we do take advantage of this opportunity to again assure you, and through you, the Building Trades Department, and the great rank and file of labor, that we will go to the limit of our opportunity, authority and power in supporting your department in doing the best possible for the general betterment of the organizations and members in the Building Trades.

With earnest wishes for the greatest success, we have the honor to remain,

Yours fraternally,

SAMUEL GOMPERS, President.

JAMES DUNCAN, First Vice-President.

JOHN MITCHELL, Second Vice-President.

JAMES O'CONNELL, Third Vice-President.

D. A. HAYES, Fourth Vice-President.

WILLIAM D. HUBER, Fifth Vice-President.

JOS. F. VALENTINE, Sixth Vice-President.

JOHN R. ALPINE, Seventh Vice-President.

H. B. PERHAM, Eighth Vice-President.

FRANK MORRISON, Secretary.

JOHN B. LENNON, Treasurer.
American Federation of Labor.

Secretary Spencer informed us that the matter would be submitted to the executive board of the Building Trades Department. He then, on July 7th, wrote President Gompers as follows:

July 7, 1911.

Mr. Samuel Gompers, President American Federation of Labor, Ouray Building, Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir and Brother:

By direction of the executive council of the Building Trades Department, I write to inform you that the decision of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in the case of the request of the Building Trades Department for the suspension of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers and of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, was laid before the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department at its session in the city of Indianapolis, June 29, 1911, and after mature consideration, the opinion was reached that since the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department is not vested with authority to override or subordinate a decision of the Building Trades Department rendered in convention assembled, and again since the constitution of the department does not confer powers upon the Executive Council to reinstate an organization that has surrendered its membership because of refusal to comply with the laws of the organization, unless the law shall have been conformed to, the Executive Council finds itself without power to reinstate the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners in accordance with the decision of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor.

You are, therefore, advised that the decision as rendered by the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor will be referred to the next convention of the Building Trades Department, which will convene at Atlanta, Ga., November, 1911.

Trusting that this will be satisfactory, I am,

Fraternally yours,

(Signed) WM. J. SPENCER,
Secretary-Treasurer, Building Trades Department.

The two subjects brought to the attention of the Executive Council from the Building Trades Department are not similar in any particular excepting that both organizations were suspended by the Building Trades Department.

CARPENTERS.

In the contention involving the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, it was an instance of jurisdictional dispute between two affiliated organizations which, excepting in this instance, had no other direct trade relationship, the one to the other, than one building trade has to other building trades.

The relationship of affiliated building trades to the American Federation of Labor and Departments is dual, and therefore in fundamental law, suspension of charters primarily rests with the American Federation of Labor. This, and the fact that in the American Federation of Labor revocation of charters has not been considered a cure for jurisdictional contentions, prompts our recommendation to this convention that the application of the Building Trades Department to revoke the charter of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners be not concurred in, and instead that the Building Trades Department be informed that for the above reasons and in the interests of harmony to reinstate the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners to full affiliation therein; and that all efforts and influence of the American Federation of Labor and of the department should be applied to adjust the jurisdictional contention in interest, thereby making for the best interests of the disputants and for the progress and solidarity of the labor movement.

Your committee concurs and recommends that the report of the Executive Council be approved.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

Delegate O'Sullivan (M.)—I desire to know, in the event the Convention adopts the recommendation of the Executive Council, the matter just reported on by the committee, does it in any way set aside the decisions rendered in jurisdiction disputes by the Building Trades Department?

President Gompers—It certainly does not. The report does not contain one word in regard to it.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

STEAM FITTERS.

The Secretary of the committee read the following recommendation of the Executive Council:

"In the instance of the contention affecting the pipe fitting industry the interests directly involved raise the following questions:

First: Concentration of effort and efficiency in one general pipe fitting organization; or Second: Segregation of certain portions of the industry into separately managed and distinctly administered associations.

"In regard to the latter question, the segregated portion of the industry does not, and for many reasons cannot, cover or comprehend in all parts of North America, the portion of the industry it essays to govern in largely populated cities and their immediate environments.

"Therefore, in this instance, the Executive Council holds that both for harmony and for practicability, the pipe fitting trade should be represented in the A. F. of L., also in the Building Trades Department, by one general association of the pipe fitting industry—the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers of the United States and Canada; and, further recommends that the Executive Council of the A. F. of L., be instructed, and the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department be requested to carry this into effect."

The committee recommended concurrence in the report of the Executive Council, and recommended non-concurrence in the following resolution:

Resolution No. 144—By Delegates J. T. Kinsella and John Mangan, International Steam Fitters, etc.:

WHEREAS, Considerable turmoil and expense has been encountered by workmen in the Building Industry caused by strikes resulting from the unsettled conditions among the various trades; and

WHEREAS, A portion of this difficulty has been caused by reason of the existence of more than one organization that admitted men employed at the various branches of the Steam Fitting Trade as members; and

WHEREAS, Experience has demonstrated that a practical, sensible, fair and impartial solution of any question can be best settled by those most directly interested; and

WHEREAS, Several plans heretofore offered have failed to accomplish the desired end, because of the compulsory feature of amalgamation contained therein; and

WHEREAS, The A. F. of L. has repeatedly, through its conventions and officers, in no uncertain manner declared against "Compulsory Arbitration" as contrary to the spirit and purpose of the American sense of justice and fair play, with a view therefore of offering a plan looking toward the solution of this difficulty along fair and just lines that permit the rank and file of the men engaged at the various branches of Steam Fitting to decide for themselves as to their future form of organization, the representatives of this Association present the following; therefore, be it RESOLVED, By the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the A. F. of L., now in session in Atlanta, Ga., that the President of the American Federation of Labor, be, and is hereby, authorized to issue a call for a Convention to all men engaged at the various branches of the Steam Fitting Trade irrespective of their affiliation, to meet within _____ months at some centrally located city to be selected by the President of the A. F. of L., to determine for themselves their future form of organization.

Secretary Tveitmo—The following minority report is presented by one member of the committee, Delegate Kinsella:

The minority report offered by Delegate Kinsella is as follows:

"I herewith beg leave to submit a minority report of the Committee on Building Trades, on the subject matter pertaining to the U. A. Plumbers, etc., and the International Association of Steam, Hot Water and Power Pipe Fitters and Helpers, as contained in the Executive Council's Report as submitted to the committee for their consideration, for the following reasons:

"First. The report is clearly in conflict with the charter rights of the International Association of Steam, Hot Water and Power Pipe Fitters and Helpers as granted to them by the American Federation of Labor.

"Second. That the report is in support of the action taken by the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor at its last Convention, which action is contrary to Article II, Section 3. Article IX, Section 12 Article XV, Section 3, of the Constitution of the American Federation of Labor, and therefore offer as a substitute Resolution No. 144.

J. THOMAS KINSELLA,

Member of Committee on Building Trades."

Delegate Kinsella moved that the minority report be substituted for the report of the committee.

The motion was seconded by Delegate Mangan.

Delegate Mangan spoke at length in favor of the minority report of the committee. He reviewed the history of the International Association and spoke of the benefit it had been to its members. He also reviewed the controversy that has existed between the International Association and the United Association and the efforts that have been made to adjust the differences. He spoke of the formation of the Building Trades Department in the Norfolk Convention of the American Federation of Labor, and quoted the questions that were asked at the time the motion was adopted authorizing the formation of the department. He contended that later the Building Trades Department assumed power that was not granted it as a subordinate body when it unseated the International Association at the St. Louis Convention of that department by a vote of 31 in the affirmative to 22 in the negative. He stated that, inasmuch as the laws of the American Federation of Labor required a two-thirds vote to revoke a charter it required a similar vote to revoke a charter in the Building Trades Department.

Delegate Alpine discussed the question, speaking in support of the report of the committee and in opposition to the minority report. He opposed the contention made by Delegate Mangan that steam fitting was a separate trade, and referred to the large number of steam fitters already affiliated with the United Association of Plumbers, etc. He urged that there be but one organization in the pipe fitting trades. He stated that there were 487 cities thoroughly organized over which the United Association has control and where a man could not work at his trade unless he carried a union card, and that there were a total of 550 local unions in that organization, a large number of them composed wholly or in part of steam fitters. He stated that the Building Trades Department had unseated the Steam Fitters because every order issued by that Department had been disregarded by them. On motion debate was closed.

Delegate Kinsella arose to a question of personal privilege and stated that the rules provided that the introducer of a motion was entitled to an opportunity to discuss it. Delegate Kinsella was granted the privilege of the floor and discussed the question at length. He urged the adoption of the minority report and opposed the report of the committee. He reviewed briefly the controversy that had existed between the two organizations for many years and of various efforts that have been made to amalgamate them. He contended that the steam fitter belonged to a separate and distinct trade and had a right to belong to his own organization. He urged that the Steam Fitters be allowed to maintain their own organization and protect the rights of the members of their own trade and calling.

Delegate Short, Chairman of the committee, in behalf of the committee, spoke in opposition to the minority report. He stated that he voiced the sentiment of twelve or thirteen members of the committee when he stated that in their judgment the recommendation of the Executive Council should be carried into effect and that hereafter there should be but one organization in the pipe fitting industries of the country. He stated the welfare of the men would be best conserved if they were in one organization.

Delegate Leonard asked the privilege of the floor, but the chair ruled that no other discussion was in order, as a motion to close debate had been adopted.

Delegate O'Brien—I would like to ask if the minority report is not exactly in line with the splendid recommendation that has been given to this Convention and passed almost unanimously by the committee which finished its report before the Building Trades Committee?

President Gompers—The chair will answer that it is necessarily a matter of a point of view. If you regard the steam fitting and plumbing as separate trades, then it would appear that the minority report would be justified. If, on the other hand, the point of view is that the steam fitting and plumbing is one general pipe fitting trade, then the majority report represents that view. However, that is for the Convention to decide.

The motion to adopt the minority report was lost by a vote of 135 in the negative to 38 in the affirmative.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried by viva voce vote.

At 1 o'clock p. m. the Convention was adjourned, to reconvene at 2 p. m. of the same day.

Twelfth Day—Saturday Afternoon Session

The Convention was called to order at 2 p. m., Saturday, November 25th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Pfaff, Sheret, Gaviak, Gallagher (Andrew J.), Lawrence, Coffey, Kelly (William E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hurley, Hardy, Jones (John R.), Munn, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Quick, Hobbs, Davis, Wangberg, Fuller, Taylor, Winchenback, Ford, Belt, Welsh (Thomas E.), Creamer, Donnelly, Lebowitz, Saum, Schaub.

Delegate Short, Chairman of the Committee on Building Trades—The committee has but one more question to report on, the case of the Electricians. The representative of the affiliated organization informs me that he is willing to let the matter go to the Convention without debate.

Treasurer Lennon—I move that the special order, the election of officers, be postponed to allow that report to be made. (Seconded and carried.)

Report of Building Trades Committee.

Delegate Tveitmo, Secretary of the committee, reported as follows:

Your committee considered the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Electrical Workers," and Resolution No. 109, which reads as follows:

Resolution No. 109—By Delegates C. F. Russl, Jr., of the San Antonio Trades Council; Duncan McDonald, U. M. W. of A.; A. B. Lowe, T. H. Gerry, T. J. O'Donnell, M. of W.; Max S. Hayes, Typographical; Chas. H. Moyer, W. F. M.; M. M. Donoghue, Montana F. L.; P. J. Doherty, A. W. Wright, Vancouver T. & L. C.; Louis Kemper, U. B. W.; J. Mahlon Barnes, Cigar Makers, and Geo. H. Ullrich, Philadelphia C. L. U.

WHEREAS, At the present time a large organization of Electrical Workers is unaffiliated with the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, This body of Electrical Workers in their desire to become affiliated with the American Federation of Labor complied fully with the provisions of the plan of amalgamation decided upon by the Executive Council after the St. Louis Convention; and

WHEREAS, The precedent of seating two organizations representing the same craft has already been established by the American Federation of Labor; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the unaffiliated International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers as officered by J. J. Reid, General President, and J. W. Murphy, General Secretary, be granted a charter and their delegates seated in this Convention.

Your committee non-concurs in Resolution No. 109, and recommends that the following recommendation of the Executive Council be approved:

"We urge that this Convention recommend to Mr. Reid that the joint agreement reached at Rochester be submitted to a referendum vote of his membership, and that the unaffiliated organization authorize and direct a committee to meet with a committee of the affiliated organization, with the view of carrying the provisions of the Rochester agreement into effect, and thus amalgamate the two organizations into one comprehensive brotherhood of electrical workers affiliated to the American Federation of Labor."

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

Delegate Abell—I move that a representative of the unaffiliated body be allowed the floor.

Delegate Short—Inasmuch as the representatives of the affiliated organization have stated that they desire to go to the Convention without discussion, owing to the lateness of the hour, I think it would not be proper to give the floor to the unaffiliated organization.

Delegate Hayes (M. S.), urged that a representative of the unaffiliated organization be given the floor.

President Gompers stated if there was no objection Mr. J. J. Reid would be allowed the privilege of the floor.

No objection being offered, Mr. Reid was given the privilege of the floor, and discussed the question at length.

Delegate McNulty discussed the question, replied to a number of statements made by Mr. Reid, and spoke in detail of the action that had been taken by the organization represented to endeavor to amalgamate the two branches of Electrical Workers.

Delegate Sontheimer moved as an amendment to the pending motion that the chair be authorized to appoint a committee of seven delegates to settle the question, providing the heads of both the contending factions would agree in writing that they would accept the finding of the committee of seven. (Seconded.)

Delegate Keegan (J. J.), spoke in support of the recommendation of the committee.

The amendment offered by Delegate Sontheimer was lost.

The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried by a vote of 163 in the affirmative and 15 in the negative.

Resolution No. 128—By Delegates Martin E. Goellnitz, F. C. Gengenback and O. A. Tveitmo, of the American Brotherhood of Cement Workers:

WHEREAS, Complaint has been made repeatedly that members of Federal Unions are persistently trespassing upon the jurisdiction of the American Brotherhood of Cement Workers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor be directed to inform all Federal Unions that such violations of the law must cease, and further, that members of Federal Unions must carry out the laws of the American Federation of Labor and the laws of its affiliated International and National Unions.

The committee recommended that the resolution be approved. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 115—By Delegate T. Briggs, of Calumet Joint Labor Council:

WHEREAS, The Cement Block Setters, of Kensington, Ill., are duly chartered and recognized by the American Federation of Labor as Local Union No. 12904; and

WHEREAS, Said organization has succeeded in establishing a wage scale of 62 1-2 cents per hour and an eight-hour work day; and

WHEREAS, The men of Local 12904 endeavored to join both the American Brotherhood of Cement Workers and the Bricklayers' Union, but met with refusal from both organizations, they were then granted a charter by the A. F. of L. through the efforts of the Calumet Joint Labor Council; and

WHEREAS, The members of the American Brotherhood of Cement Workers are now doing the work allotted to Local Union No. 12904 by the A. F. of L. and are allowing their members to work for 37 1-2 cents per hour to the detriment of the members of Local No. 12904; and

WHEREAS, Such action is contrary to the best interests of the labor movement and injurious to the members of Local Union No. 12904; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, by the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor that such actions are unwarranted and that the American Brotherhood of Cement Workers be requested to instruct their members to discontinue such actions in the future.

Your committee recommends that the resolution be referred to the Building Trades Department, and that no charter be granted to cement block setters' organizations in the future.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 24—By Delegates D. D'Alessandro, J. B. Etchison and Joseph D'Andre, of the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers' International Union.

WHEREAS, In the city of New York, our local unions for the last three years have not been able to receive recognition from the Building Trades Council, affiliated with the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor; and,

WHEREAS, The independent union has been recognized by such body; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention direct the Incoming Executive Board to notify the Secretary of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor to make an effort to have our local unions in New York city seated in the Council; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That if the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department takes no action along this line, that the Incoming Executive Board of this International Union stop paying per capita tax, if necessary, until our local unions in New York city are seated in the Building Trades Council of that city; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be sent to every member of the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, and also a copy be sent to Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor.

It appears that this resolution has been introduced in this Convention through misapprehension, and your committee recommends that it be referred to Building Trades Department.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Your committee in concluding this report desires to express appreciation of the splendid efforts put forth by the Executive Council in behalf of harmony, peace, solidarity and unity among the organized workers of America, and it should be our most earnest wish that this good work be continued until all petty disputes and internal strife are removed from the Trade and Labor Union Movement.

JAMES A. SHORT, Chairman.

C. W. FRY,

GEO. F. HEDRICK,

F. M. RYAN,

F. J. McNULTY,

M. O'SULLIVAN,

D. D'ALESSANDRO,

WM. J. MCSORLEY,

JOHN DONLIN,

PAUL BLANCHI,

J. THOS. KINSELLA,

WM. J. TRACEY,

FRANK FEENEY,

O. A. TVEITMOE, Secretary.

The report of the committee as a whole was adopted.

Delegate Miller obtained unanimous consent to the introduction of a resolution, and submitted the following:

Resolution No. 177.—By Delegates Owen Miller, of the American Federation of Musicians; John T. Smith, of the Cigar Makers' International Union; Charles W. Wilkerson, of the Missouri State Federation of Labor; Louis P. Philipp, of the St. Louis Trades and Labor Union, and Daniel Willby, of the Springfield, Mo., Central Trades and Labor Assembly:

WHEREAS, One Edgar G. Bailey, a former member of the Hackmen's Union, of Kansas City, Mo., was in 1904, tried and convicted for murder in the first degree, for killing one Ferguson, a non-union hack driver, during the Hack Drivers' strike, in that city; and

WHEREAS, Said Bailey was sentenced to death, but this sentence was commuted to imprisonment for life by the then Governor, Joseph W. Folk; and

WHEREAS, Since then the Missouri State Federation of Labor, has instituted an investigation, and found much evidence to prove that Bailey acted in self-defense, and that he was convicted through the evidence of utterly unreliable witnesses, which fact has been so well substantiated that the Prosecuting Attorney and Mr. Phil R. Troll, the then President of the Kansas City Employers' Association, agree that Bailey after serving seven years penal servitude, should be pardoned; and

WHEREAS, The Missouri State Federation of Labor having secured evidence substantiating these extenuating circumstances, have petitioned Gov. Herbert S. Hadley, to grant a pardon to Edgar G. Bailey; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor now in session in Atlanta, Ga., that the attitude of the Missouri State Federation of Labor in the case of Edgar G. Bailey, be endorsed and the same be transmitted to Gov. Herbert S. Hadley immediately.

On motion of Delegate Miller the resolution was adopted.

Delegate Wilson (W. B.), in the chair.

Chairman Wilson announced that the hour for the special order had arrived and nominations for President would be in order.

Delegate Golden placed in nomination for President, Samuel Gompers. There being no further nominations, on motion the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for Samuel Gompers.

The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention, and Samuel Gompers was declared duly elected President for the ensuing term.

Delegate Huber, on behalf of the District Council of Carpenters, presented to President Gompers a handsome gavel made of all the different woods known in Georgia. President Gompers made suitable acknowledgment of the gift.

President Gompers in the chair.

Delegate Frey placed in nomination for the office of First Vice-President, James Duncan, of the Granite Cutters' International Association. There being no further nominations the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for James Duncan for First Vice-President. The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention, and James Duncan was declared duly elected First Vice-President for the ensuing term.

Delegate McCullough (T. W.), placed in nomination for Second Vice-President, John Mitchell of the United Mine Workers of America. There being no further nominations, the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for John Mitchell for Second Vice-President. The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention, and John Mitchell was declared duly elected Second Vice-President for the ensuing term.

Delegate Berry placed in nomination for Third Vice-President, James O'Connell of the International Association of Machinists. There being no further nominations the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous consent of the Convention for James O'Connell for Third Vice-President. The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention and James O'Connell was declared duly elected Third Vice-President for the ensuing term.

Delegate Keegan (J. J.), placed in nomination for Fourth Vice-President, D. A. Hayes, of the Glass Bottle Blowers' Association. There being no further nominations, the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for D. A. Hayes for Fourth Vice-President. The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention and D. A. Hayes was declared duly elected Fourth Vice-President for the ensuing term.

Delegate Larger placed in nomination for Fifth Vice-President, William D. Huber of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America. The nomination was seconded by Delegate Tveitmo. There being no further nominations, the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for William D. Huber for Fifth Vice-President. The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention and William D. Huber was declared duly elected Fifth Vice-President for the ensuing term.

Delegate Wilson (J.), placed in nomination for Sixth Vice-President, Joseph F. Valentine, of the International Molders' Union of North America. The nomination was seconded by Delegate Frey. There being no further nominations the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for Joseph F. Valentine for Sixth Vice-President. The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention, and Joseph F. Valentine was declared duly elected Sixth Vice-President for the ensuing term.

Delegate Leonard placed in nomination for Seventh Vice-President, John R. Alpine of the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers. There being no further nominations, the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for John R. Alpine for Seventh Vice-President. The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention, and John R. Alpine was declared duly elected Seventh Vice-President for the ensuing term.

Delegate Miller placed in nomination for Eighth Vice-President, Henry B. Perham of the Order of Railway Telegraphers. There being no further nominations, the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for Henry B. Perham. The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention, and Henry B. Perham was declared duly elected Eighth Vice-President for the ensuing term.

Delegate Brais placed in nomination for Treasurer, John B. Lennon, of the Journeymen Tailors' Union of America. There being no further nominations, the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for John B. Lennon. The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention, and John B. Lennon was declared duly elected Treasurer for the ensuing year.

Delegate Ryan (M. F.), placed in nomination for Secretary, Frank Morrison, of the International Typographical Union. There being no further nominations, the President was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for Frank Morrison for Secretary for the ensuing year.

Each officer, upon the announcement of his election, made a brief address to the Convention, thanking the delegates for the unanimous election, and pledging their best efforts to the work of the organization for the coming year.

The chairman announced that election of two fraternal delegates to the British Trades Union Congress would be in order, and that nominations were in order for the first fraternal delegate.

Delegate Woll placed in nomination George L. Berry, of the International Printing Pressmen's Union.

Delegate Leonard placed in nomination J. J. Keegan, of International Association of Machinists. Delegate Keegan declined the nomination.

There being no further nominations, the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for George L. Berry for fraternal delegate to the British Trades Union Congress. The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention, and George L. Berry was declared duly elected fraternal delegate.

Delegate Ryan (M. F.), placed in nomination for second fraternal delegate to the British Trades Union Congress William D. Mahon of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees. (Seconded by Delegate Connors.)

Delegate Wilson (W. B.), placed in nomination John H. Walker, United Mine Workers of America.

Delegate Klapetzky placed in nomination Owen Miller, of the American Federation of Musicians.

Roll Call on Election of Fraternal Delegate to the British Trades Union Congress.

For Mahon—Franklin, Casey, Wefand, Flynn (Jos.), Tobin (J. F.), Baine, Hallinan, Schaffer, Dano, Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' delegation (66 2-3 votes), Brotherhood of Carpenters' delegation (834 votes), Tveitmoee, Gengenback, Goellnitz, Cigarmakers' delegation (218 votes), Electrical Workers' delegation (94 votes), Brennan, Friel, Iron and Steel Workers' delegation (23 votes), Bryan, Longshoremen's delegation (187 votes), Maintenance of Way Employees' delegation (50 votes), Metal Polishers' delegation (50 votes), Sheet Metal Workers' delegation (86 votes), Painters' delegation (113 votes), Nelson, Menge, Cartildge, Printing Pressmen's delegation (126 votes), Ryan (M. F.), Nolte, Mahon, Taber, Commons, Lilly, Stone Cutters' delegation (29 votes), Connors, Textile Workers' delegation (50 votes), McAndrew, Evans (E. Lewis), O'Brien (Joe), Durnin, Dowd, Graney, Blakey, Jones, Tharp, O'Brien (W. H.), Ferry, Carroll, Hassenpflue, Sontheimer, Schaffer, Scoggan, Quick, Doherty, Fahey, Wendt, Pace, James Russi, Johannsen, Morton, McAndrews Forehand, Dwyer, Cornette, representing 3382 2-3 votes.

For Walker—Kennedy (A. J.), Koch, Kerker, Brewery Workmen's delegation (270 votes), Brotherhood of Carpenters' delegation (1112 votes), Gilmore, Wilkinson, Conway, Pfeil, Christman, Thomas, Feeney, Comerford, Hannahan, Glass, McNamara, Healy, Rosenberg, Bloch, Kleinman, Polakoff, Dubinsky, Hayes (D. A.), Cain, Pierce, Ring, Nestor, Duncan, Bianchi, Russell, Lawlor, Moffitt, Shalvoy, D'Alessandro, Etchison, D'Andrea, Iron and Steel Workers' delegation (22 votes), McSorley, Taggart, Brock, Longshoremen's delegation (63 votes), O'Connell, Fry, Keegan, Buckley, Handley, Price, Metal Polishers' delegation (50 votes), Sheet Metal Workers' delegation (86 votes), Mine Workers' delegation (2146 votes) Moyer, Cannon, Williams (J. C.), Mahoney, Valentine, Frey, Curran, Duffy (P. F.), Murtaugh, Painters' delegation (113 votes), Wilson (James), Gernon, Woll, Donlin, McGivern, Ward, Clark, Alpine, Tracey (William), Murphy, Malley, Sultor, Miller (J. F.), Gallagher (T. J.), Mounts, Gallagher (J. J.), Stone Cutters' delegation 57 votes, Tailors' delegation (40 votes), Tobin (D. J.), Hughes, Neer, McLaughlin, Hermann, Textile Workers' delegation (50 votes), William (T. J.), Carolan, Lynch, Hayes (Max), Stevenson, McCullough (T. W.), Hatch, Mulcahy, Pfeiger, Myers, Smith (Jos.), Wilkerson, Donoghue, Leary, Henretty, Weber (F. J.), Heck, Torrey, Cox, Mead, Coleman, Agethen, Holland, Welsh, Leonard, Morris, Beceril, Dunne, East, Manning, Engdahl, representing 9,218 votes.

For Miller—Noschang, Klapetzky, Fischer (Jacob), Anderson (Ed.), Kline, Golden, Flanagan, Brewery Workmen's delegation (180 votes), Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' delegation (33 1-3 votes), Cigarmakers' delegation (218 votes), Hughes, Soby, Electrical Workers' delegation (95 votes), Kinsella, Mangan, Rickert, Larger, Meyer, Landers, Altman, Marshall, Kenahan, Flore, Sullivan (J. L.), Farrell, Miller (Geo.), Patberg, Maintenance of Way Employees' delegation (50 votes), Lewis, Weber (J. N.), Miller (O.), Carey (D. A.), Winkler, Painters' delegation (450 votes), Printing Pressmen's delegation (64 votes), Perham, Soyster, Flynn (Patrick), Furuseeth, Barry, Suarez, Peterson, Bird, Tailors' delegation (80 votes), Morrison, Mikel, Iglesias, Smith (T. J.), Skemp (Meta), Schneider, Abell, Albrecht, Philippi, Alonso, Wilby, Smith (C. T.), Bohm, representing 4057 1-3 votes.

Not voting—Sovey, Butterworth, Crozier, Richardson, Humphrey, Zuckerman, Smith (Fred), Roach, Gehring, Coakley, Call, Carey (J. T.), Hannah, Sheret, Mallin, Gaviak, Kaefer, Curtis, Birnes, Cooke, DeVaux, Gallagher, (A. J.), Holder, McKenna, Lawrence, Coffey, Ryan, (E. H.), Lavin, Shay, Buckley, Kelly (Wm. E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hirsch, Lowell, DeYoung, Hurley, Conner, Hardy, Jones (J. R.), Munn, Smith (L. W.), Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Carter, Haines, Briggs, Gray, Hobbs, Kennedy (T. G.), Davis, Wangberg, Ullrich, Fuller, Taylor, Ingram, Smith (A. W.), Winchenback, Noonan, White, (C. E.), Wright, Voll, Wilson (O. C.), Ford, Belt, Welsh (T. E.), Creamer, Donnelly (J. L.), Lebowitz, Saum, Ham, Schaub, Crinion, Roberts, Glockling, representing 582 votes.

Delegate Walker was declared duly elected fraternal delegate to the British Trades Union Congress.

Delegate Ryan (M. F.), placed in nomination for fraternal delegate to the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress John T. Smith, of the Cigarmakers' Union. There being no further nominations, the Secretary was instructed to cast the unanimous vote of the Convention for John T. Smith. The Secretary complied with the instructions of the Convention, and John T. Smith was declared duly elected fraternal delegate to the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.

The President stated that nominations were in order for the next Convention city.

Delegate Henretty placed in nomination Seattle, Washington.

Delegate Casey placed in nomination Richmond, Virginia. (Seconded by Delegate Pace.)

Delegate Curran placed in nomination Rochester, New York.

Roll Call on Selection of a Convention City.

For Seattle—Wilkinson, Flore, Sullivan (J. L.), Farrell, Miller (Geo.), Pattberg, McSorley, Taggart, Mitchell (John), Hayes (F. J.), Lewis, Walker, McCullough (E. S.), McDonald, Wilson (W. B.), Moyer, Cannon, Williams (J. C.), Mahoney, Weber (J. N.), Miller (O.), Carey (D. A.), Winkler, Donlin, McGivern, Ward (Jas.), Nelson, Berry, Marks, Johnston, Soyster, Miller (J. F.), Gallagher (T. J.), Mahon, Taber, Commons, Flynn (Patrick), Furuseth, Tobin (D. J.), Hughes, Neer, McLaughlin, Hermann, Mulcahy, Mikel, Smith (Jos.), Donoghue, Henretty, Torrey, Ferry, Schaffer, Scoggan, Philipp, Russi, Johannsen, Beceril, Bohm, Forehand, representing 5556 votes.

For Richmond—Kilne, Golden, Flanagan, Franklin, Casey, Weyand, Flynn (Jos.), Brotherhood Carpenters delegation (556 votes), Gilmore, Williams (John), Selway, Brock, O'Connor, Kelleher, Cole, Vaccarelli, Lowe, O'Donnell, Gerrey, Painters delegation (113 votes), Ryan (M. F.), Mounts, Nolte, Gallagher (J. J.), Lilly, Pfeiffer, Myers, Blakey, Jones (Jerome), Carroll, Abell, Doherty, Wendt, Pace, Morton, Cornette, Manning, representing 1709 votes.)

For Rochester—Kennedy (A. J.), Koch, Kerker, Noschang, Klapetzky, Fishes

(Jacob), Anderson (Ed), Tobin (J. F.), Baine, Hallinan, Schaffer, Dano, Proebstle, Kemper, Ward, (E. F.), Kugler, Sullivan (John), Ryan (F. M.), Butler, Clark (Wm.), Brotherhood Carpenters (1390 votes), Tveitmoee, Gengenback, Goellnitz, Gompers, Tracy, (T. F.), Barnes, Smith (John T.), Thomas, McNulty, Collins, Fay, Yount, Feeney, Comerford, Hannahan, Glass, McNamara, Healy, Brennan, Friel, Kinsella, Mangan, Rickert, Larger, Meyer, Landers, Altman, Rosenberg, Bloch, Kleinman, Polakoff, Dubinsky, Hayes (D. A.), Cain, Pierce, Ring, Nestor, Duncan, Bianchi, Russell, Lawlor, Muffitt, Shalvoy, D'Alessandro, Etchison, D'Andrea, Bryan, O'Connell, Fry, Keegan, Buckley, Handley, Price, Daly, Rumsey, O'Sullivan, Bobb, Hynes, Walsh (Thos.), Valentine, Frey, Curran, Duffy (P. F.), Murtaugh, Painters' delegation (563 votes), Wilson (James), Gernon, Woll, Alpine, Tracey (Wm.), Murphy, Malley, Perham, Barry, Suarez, Peterson, Bird, Mitchell (M. W.), Short, Bridwell, Connors, Brails, Lennon, Biggs, Golden, Morgan, Williams (T. J.), Carolan, McAndrew, Evans (E. Lewis), Lynch, Morrison, Hayes (Max S.), Stevenson, McCullough (T. W.), Hatch, Wilkerson, Leary, Dowd, Graney, Lavin, Tharp, Heck, Hassenplue, Sontheimer, Mead, Schneider, Coleman, Agethen, Fahy, Albrecht, Holland, Welsh (E. F.), Leonard, Willby, McAndrews, Donnelly, Dunne, Engdahl, representing 9028 votes.

Not Voting—Sovey, Butterworth, Crozier, Richardson, Humphrey, Conway, Pfeil, Christman, Zuckerman, Hughes, Scooby, Smith (Fred), Marshall, Kenahan, Roach, Gehring, Coakley, Call, Carey (J. T.), Hannah, Sheret, Clark (Wm. D.), Menge, Cartledge, Malin, Sultor, Gaviak, Kafer, Curtis, Birnes, Cooke, DeVeaux, Gallagher, (A. J.), Holder, McKenna, Lawrence, De Young, O'Brien (Joe), Durbin, Coffey, Ryan (E. H.), Iglesias, Emith (T. J.), Shay, Weuer, Buckley, Kelly (Wm. E.), Anderson (W. H.), Hirsch, O'Brien (W. H.), Lowell, Hurler, Conner, Hardy, Jones (J. R.), Munn, Smith (L. W.), Oliver, Hassard, Evans (J. F.), Carter, Haines, Cox, Briggs, Skemp (Meta), Quick, Gray, Hobbs, Kennedy (T. G.), Davis, Wangberg, Ullrich, Fuller, Taylor, James, Alonso, Ingram, Smith (A. W.), Winchenback, Noonan, White (C. E.), Wright, Smith (C. T.), Voll, Morris, Wilson (O. C.), Ford, Belt, Welsh, Creamer, Dwyer, Lebowitz, Saum, Ham, East, Schaub, Crinion, Roberts, Glockling, representing 947 votes.

Delegates Pace and Henretty stated that they desired the selection of Rochester made unanimous.

Report of Committee on Boycotts.

Delegate Lynch (J. M.), Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

Resolution No. 8—By Delegate Groce Lawrence, of the Illinois State Federation:

WHEREAS, The strike of the Brick Tile and Terra Cotta Workers Alliance, Brotherhood of Steam Shovel and Dredge Men and Stationary Firemen, against the Purlington Paving Brick Company of Galesburg, Illinois, is still on, and is being vigorously prosecuted by the three unions involved after a year and a half of strife; and

WHEREAS, The aforesaid Purlington Paving Brick Company still maintain their hostile and uncompromising attitude toward organized labor saying that they can whip the Brickmakers and the entire Federation of Labor and refusing to permit any members of a labor union, with the exception of the Bricklayers' Union to work in its plant; and

WHEREAS, The boycott against the Purlington Paving Brick Company is at the present time more effective than at any previous time during the strike; and

WHEREAS, A determined effort by the organized workers of Illinois would greatly aid us in the unionizing of the Purlington plants; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to continue to use every means at their command to further this boycott; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the convention render all possible financial assistance to the three organizations involved in said strike.

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 8 be referred to the Executive Council.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 27—By Delegate John Carroll, of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

WHEREAS, Chicago Printer Roller Makers' Union No. 10638, American Federation of Labor, did on September 14th, 1909, solicit through Secretary Morrison the aid of the American Federation of Labor in the general organization of the Printer Roller Makers' craft throughout the country; and

WHEREAS, The Chicago Federation of Labor representatives at the St. Louis Convention of the American Federation of Labor did, under instructions, introduce a resolution requesting Convention endorsement of the action of the Chicago Central Bodies and Chicago Printer Roller Makers' Union No. 10638 in placing Chicago's scab printer roller concern, the Samuel Bingham Sons Manufacturing Company, on the unfair list, and requesting the moral aid of all organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to make the aforesaid boycott effective; and

WHEREAS, Neither the promised organization of the country's Printer Roller Makers by the American Federation of Labor, nor the pledged assistance of those organizations enrolled under the banner of the American Federation of Labor in the active boycotting of the scab printer roller making firm of Samuel Bingham Sons Manufacturing Company has ever been given practical form or expression; and

WHEREAS, Both requests were, and are, not only modest in character, but likewise in strict conformity with trade union principles, that provide and recognize that an injury to one becomes the concern of all; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor delegates, in regular convention assembled, instruct the officials of the American Federation of Labor to seriously take up the work of organizing the unorganized Printer Roller Makers in the various metropolitan centers, and all affiliated unions, especially those identified with the printing trades—be instructed to discourage the use of scab printer rollers by their members, especially those printer rollers produced by the unfair Samuel Bingham Sons Manufacturing Company.

The committee recommended that the Executive Council make an effort to adjust the contention between the Chicago Printer Roller Makers Union 10638 and the Samuel Bingham Sons Manufacturing Company, that attention be given to the organization of unions of printer roller makers where such opportunity exists, and that the unions identified with the printing trades be requested to use their influence against the use of unfair printer rollers.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 70—By Delegate Abraham Rosenberg, of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union:

WHEREAS, The work people employed in the ladies' garment industry in the city of Cleveland were working under the most miserable and oppressive conditions, viz.: Working in sweat shops, working long hours for starvation wages and under a system of blacklisting; and

WHEREAS, Manufacturers of ladies' garments in the city of Cleveland have persistently refused to meet a committee for the purpose of co-operative adjustment of said conditions or to submit same to arbitration; and

WHEREAS, Such refusal of the Manufacturers of the city of Cleveland resulted in the cessation of work on June 7, 1911, involving 6,000 men and women; and

WHEREAS, Said strike is still pending; and

WHEREAS, The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union has expended over $300,000 to defray the expenses of such strike; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the thirty-first annual convention of the American Federation of Labor pledge its full moral support and assistance to the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union to try and bring about an adjustment of the existing controversy; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, in convention assembled, instruct all organizers, central and state bodies and the Labor Press to make known to the merchants and consuming public the conditions under which ladies' garments are manufactured in the city of Cleveland.

The committee recommended the adoption of the proposition. The recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 86—By International Typographical Union delegation:

WHEREAS, The Cambridge University Press, with headquarters in England, the United States and Canada, is prosecuting with great vigor the campaign for the sale of the eleventh edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, reaching many friends of labor with alluring advertisements setting forth the qualities of the work; and

WHEREAS, The American edition of the eleventh edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica was produced under unfair conditions in one of the most notorious of rat printing shops, and this, in spite of protest made to the publishers, notifying them of the character of the firm to whom the contract was given, with due notice of its unfriendly attitude towards organized labor, which same attitude has been persisted in for many years; in order that the friends of organized labor may not be deceived into the purchase of the product of unfair and unfriendly publishers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor present these facts to all friends of organized labor that they may know that the eleventh edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica, now being advertised throughout the United States and Canada, was produced under unfair conditions, and is, therefore, not entitled to and should not receive the patronage of fair-minded people or friends of labor.

The committee recommended the adoption of the proposition. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 104—By the International Typographical Union Delegation:

WHEREAS, The New York Christian Herald, on April 6, 1911, locked out its entire mailing force of Union men and displaced them with non-union help; and,

WHEREAS, This lockout occurred without a moment's notice to the New York Mailers' Union, after members of the Union had given the Christian Herald for a number of years good and faithful service; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, in Convention assembled, declares the action of the Christian Herald as unfair and inconsistent with the mission of the paper; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council be instructed to bring all the influence possible to bear to the end that the Christian Herald shall re-employ in its mailing department members of New York Mailers' Union No. 6.

The committee recommended the adoption of the proposition.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 108—By Delegates Chris Kerker and Henry Koch, of the International Union of Bakery and Confectionery Workers:

WHEREAS, The Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America has been forced in a severe contest with the newly organized "Bread Trust" by the pool bosses of the country, known as the Schults Bread Company, the American or General Baking Company, and the Ward Baking Company, and its subsidiary companies known as the Corby Yeast Company, and the Daly Machine Company, a branch of the steel trust; and

WHEREAS, The above named combination has declared for the open shop, which means closed to the union man, in the bakery and confectionery industry; and

WHEREAS, The Bakery and Confectionery Workers International Union vigorously, manfully, determinedly and in a straightforward trade union way, stand opposed to the open shop policy of this gigantic system; and

WHEREAS, As the situation presents itself, we picture it with serious alarm and apprehension for we recognize in it an insidious attack on organized labor, and placing the organization at stake; and

WHEREAS, The Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union, through its National officers and committees from the central bodies, did try to settle the controversy but were unsuccessful in bringing about a mutual understanding; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Thirty-first Convention, in session in Atlanta, Georgia, of the American Federation of Labor, instruct its President to arrange for a conference, not later, if possible, than sixty days after the convention between the aforesaid concerns, the president or representative of the A. F. of L. and the National Representative of the Bakers; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That if they are unsuccessful then that the products of Ward Bread Company, known as Tip-Top Bread, the Schults Bread Company, known as the Bronx Bread, and the General Baking Company, known as Butter Krust, Butter Nut and Pan Dandy, be placed on the unfair list of organized labor throughout the country.

The committee recommended that the proposition be referred to the Executive Council, with the suggestion that the conference mentioned therein be arranged for as soon as possible. The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 119—By Delegate T. R. Lilly, of the Saw Smiths' Union of North America:

WHEREAS, The Atkins Saw Company has been placed on the unfair list recently by Machinists' Union No. 161, of Indianapolis, Ind., without consulting the Saw Smiths and other unions working in said plant; and

WHEREAS, The product of said firm—that is, the manufacture of saws—is made exclusively by union members of the Saw Smiths' Union in good standing; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That before such arbitrary action is taken in the future all grievances of any kind be submitted to the unions involved, for investigation and action, majority vote of all interested parties to decide the course to be pursued, and we further protest against the product of our members being placed on the unfair list, when there is no cause for such action.

The committee reported as follows:

Your committee recommends that the Executive Council arrange for a conference in Indianapolis, made up of representatives from each of the International Unions interested in the contention; that the conference shall consider and attempt to make effective the unionizing of the Atkins Saw Company's plant in all its mechanical departments, and in the event that result is not accomplished to agree on a plan of campaign that will promise eventual success.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 130—By Delegate Andrew J. Gallagher, of the California State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, The members of the System Federation of Railway Employees of the Harriman Lines have now been on strike for over five weeks; and

WHEREAS, Our strike has badly crippled the Company's service and, while we feel assured of ultimate victory, yet that desired end could be achieved with much less trouble to us and the general public if we could obtain the entire assistance of those employed by the Company who are not affiliated with the System Federation; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor and all International Unions affiliated therewith are earnestly requested to bring all possible influence to bear toward securing the assistance of those engaged in the handling of trains to the end that a conference may be held and our just demands be presented in the most forceful manner to the officials of the Harriman System; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That your honorable bodies take steps immediately to put all the railroad lines of the Harriman System on the unfair list, and that you call the attention of the Engineers, Fireman, Conductors, Trainmen, Switchmen and all other trades connected with the handling of trains, not to assist by repairing or handling anything pertaining to the keeping in running order of locomotives, boilers, rolling stock or other equipment, but that they confine their work strictly to their own calling. That you send all available men to the R. R. Lines, organizers, business agents, etc., to keep the strike situation in good shape and thereby assist us in securing a speedy and decisive victory.

The committee recommended that the proposition be referred to the Railway Department of the A. F. of L.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 134—By Delegates Ladies' Garment Workers' International Union:

WHEREAS, Messrs. Harris and Blanck, proprietors of the Triangle Waist Co., of New York city, have been requested to provide safe and sanitary workshops for their employees; and

WHEREAS, said firm refused to grant said request, the employees decided to stop work until safer conditions were provided and declared a strike against said firm; and

WHEREAS, The Triangle Waist Co., with the assistance of certain politicians, defeated the objects of their organized employees and employed strike-breakers to assist them; and

WHEREAS, A fire occurred in workshop of said firm on Saturday, March 26, 1911, resulting in the loss of lives of 147 operatives of above named firm; and

WHEREAS, A number of these employees have testified that the employers had insisted on keeping the exits locked; and

WHEREAS, Both Messrs. Harris and Blanck have after an investigation been arrested and held for trial charged with causing the loss of lives of 147 persons, and for some unknown reason their trial has been postponed for about nine months; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the A. F. of L. use their good offices to bring to trial those guilty of causing this sad catastrophe; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the accused Messrs. Harris and Blanck are in the shirtwaist business under the name of the Reliance Waist Co., and working under the same conditions as prior to March 26, 1911; therefore, be it further RESOLVED, That the A. F. of L. place the Reliance Waist Co. on the unfair list.

The committee reported as follows:

Your committee recommends that the Convention express its condemnation of the conditions that were responsible for the Triangle Waist Company horror; that it urge the State and city authorities to exercise unceasing vigilance and precaution to prevent a repetition of the calamity; that these authorities make immediate investigation of working and sanitary conditions and fire escape facilities in the plant of the Reliance Waist Company, and that organized labor and sympathizers have in view the identity of interests between the Triangle Waist Company and the Reliance Waist Company. We also recommend to the Executive Council that it exert its influence to the end that those responsible for the Triangle catastrophe shall be brought to speedy trial and penalty.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 138—By Delegate J. T. Carey, of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers:

WHEREAS, The International Brotherhood of Paper Makers and Allied Crafts engaged in the manufacture of paper, have for years encountered united opposition on the part of the paper manufacturers, to all efforts to organize with the hope of abolishing slavery conditions still existing in a large number of paper mills; and

WHEREAS, On account of the large number of paper mill employes still unorganized, which has retarded the growth of organized labor generally; and

WHEREAS, Paper manufacturers have boycotted the paper bearing the label of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers, to the extent of compelling the discontinuance of the sale of union-made paper in a number of localities; and

WHEREAS, On account of the boycotts of the label of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers on the part of the United Manufacturers, other manufacturers, that are otherwise friendly to their employes, dare not grant a shorter hour work-day to their employes for fear of boycott on the part of the Paper Trust; and

WHEREAS, The Elkhart Paper Company, of Elkhart, Ind., a fair corporation, has placed before organized labor a plan for the co-operative ownership and control of the Elkhart Paper Mills, agreeing to sell the controlling interest in the mills with the distinct understanding that the control of the management of the mills remain in possession of members of organized labor; and

WHEREAS, The co-operative plan as submitted by the Elkhart Paper Company or some other feasible plan of control if adopted, would provide that organized labor and those friendly to the cause, could secure union-made paper at reasonable cost; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the A. F. of L., will, as soon as possible, make a full investigation of the co-operative proposition as submitted by the Elkhart Paper Company, and that the Executive Council or some member or members thereof, or some other person or persons, deputized by them, make full investigation of the property of the Elkhart Paper Company together with the books and accounts of the Elkhart Paper Company, and that same be submitted to all allied national and international organizations, state branches and city central bodies with the recommendation of the Executive Council, as to the feasibility of the proposition submitted by the Elkhart Paper Company, this report to be submitted as soon as possible.

The committee reported as follows:

In lieu of the foregoing your committee recommends that all international and national unions, state and city central bodies and local unions with official publications, and managers of labor journals, be urged, when paper contracts expire, to arrange for the use of union label water marked paper.

The report of the committee was adopted.

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 156 be amended by striking out the words "do and hereby promise" in line 5 of the last Resolve, and substituting the words "be requested," the amended resolution to read:

Resolution No. 156—By Delegates Andrew C. Hughes and Frank Scoby, of the Coopers' International Union:

WHEREAS, A cooperage firm known as the Western Cooperage Company, located in the city of Los Angeles, Cal., has locked out the coopers that were formerly employed in that establishment because they joined the Coopers' International Union, and the Coopers' International Union; and

WHEREAS, The aim, purpose, and intent of this firm, who, by the way, are members of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of that city, is to adhere to the policy of the open shop; and

WHEREAS, The Coopers' International Union has spent thousands of dollars during the past year in spreading the gospel of trade unionism in Southern California, combating powerful opposition coming from the large cooperage concerns engaged in the manufacture of wine and brandy barrels; and

WHEREAS, We realize our strength as members of organized labor to such a degree of assurance that to have the help of the American Federation of Labor and its membership in California join with the Coopers' International Union in tabooing such an unwarranted, un-American and unbusinesslike policy pursued by the Western Cooperage Company; and

WHEREAS, The Western Barrel

Company, of Los Angeles, now operates a union cooper shop in the city of San Francisco because of the great strength of organized labor's patronage in that locality; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, in Convention assembled, do denounce the action of the Western Coöperage Company for attempting to deprive free men to join the union of their craft, whose sacred object is to obliterate avarice, ignorance, and slavery from these shores; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the members of the American Federation of Labor in general, and of friends in San Francisco and other points in the far west, be requested to bear well in mind the nefarious action on the part of the Western Coöperage Company.

The committee recommended the adoption of the resolution as amended.

The report of the committee was adopted.

The committee recommended that resolution No. 158 be amended by striking out the last Resolve, which reads: "That the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor place the product of the Bishop and Babcock Company of Cleveland, Ohio, on the 'we don't patronize' list," and substituting another Resolve, the amended resolution to read:

Resolution No. 158—By Delegates T. M. Daly and Thomas Rumsey Metal Polishers, Buffers, Platers, Brass and Silver Workers Union of N. A.

WHEREAS, Inasmuch as the greater per cent of the breweries are thoroughly organized, and as these breweries depend largely on organized labor for the sale of their product; and

WHEREAS, The firm of the Bishop & Babcock Company, of Cleveland, Ohio, manufacturers of beer pumps, bar supplies, etc., are antagonistic to organized labor, and have been placed on the unfair list by the Ohio Federation of Labor, and by the Metal Polishers, Buffers, Platers, Brass and Silver Workers' Union of North America; and

WHEREAS, There are other firms strictly union that are able to furnish this class of goods bearing the union label; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the convention direct the attention of organized wage earners and sympathizers to the antagonistic attitude of the Bishop and Babcock Company.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 163—By Delegates T. M. Daly and Thos. Rumsey:

WHEREAS, The Metal Polishers, Buffers, Platers, Brass and Silver Workers have been on strike at the Ansonia Clock Co., of Brooklyn, N. Y., for the past twelve months in an effort to reduce their hours of labor from ten to nine per day, and

WHEREAS, The Ansonia Clock Co. entered into an agreement with our International Officers to settle the grievance, but the Ansonia Clock Co. violated every part of the agreement; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor place the products of the Ansonia Clock Co., on the "We don't patronize" list.

The committee recommended the striking out of the Resolve and substituting the following:

RESOLVED, That the convention direct the attention of organized wage earners and sympathizers to the violation of contract by the Ansonia Clock Company, to its substitution of nonunion for union workers, and to the fact that its clocks are the product of a company antagonistic to union labor and union conditions of employment.

The committee recommended the adoption of the resolution as amended.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Delegate Lynch—That completes the report of the committee which is respectfully submitted and signed,

D. A. HAYES, Chairman.
JAMES M. LYNCH, Secretary
JAS. B. CONNORS,
JOSEPH SMITH,
J. H. KAEFER,
E. R. TORREY,
WM. J. COOKE,
THOS. J. SMITH,
W. A. NEER,
EDW. H. RYAN,
FRANK HECK,
FRANK J. HAYES,
THOS. CONNORS,
H. M. MUNN,
THOS. J. DURNIN,

Delegate Barnes (J. M.) moved that the Convention adjourn to reconvene at 8 o'clock p. m. (Seconded but not carried.)

Report of Committee on Organization.

Delegate Fischer, Secretary of the committee, reported as follows:

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 113 be amended by inserting the word "deck" after the word "licensed" where it appears in the first line of each of the Whereases and in the third line of the Resolve, the amended resolution to read.

Resolution No. 113—By Delegates Andrew Furuseth and Patrick Flynn, of the Seamen's Union of America:

WHEREAS, The licensed officers of the Merchant Marine on the Pacific Coast having voted to affiliate with the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, The licensed officers of the Atlantic Coast do not yet desire affiliation; and

WHEREAS, The licensed officers of the Pacific Coast have tried by all legitimate means to induce the licensed officers throughout the United States to affiliate themselves with the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, The licensed officers of the Pacific Coast realize that it would be to the best interest of all wage earners to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, The licensed officers of the Merchant Marine are amenable to certain laws and responsibilities that no other wage earners are subject to, which makes it necessary that they be granted autonomy, the same as now granted to all Internationals; and

WHEREAS, It is the intention of the licensed officers of the Pacific Coast to place themselves in a position to apply for a national charter under the name of the Marine Officers' Protective Association of the United States; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Board be instructed to give such aid and assistance to the licensed officers of the Pacific coast as shall be possible under the circumstances, and further that the Executive Board be requested to issue a charter as requested as soon as the necessary preparations therefor have been completed.

The committee recommended that the amended resolution be referred to the Executive Council with instructions to, if possible, consolidate in one organization the licensed deck officers of the Atlantic and Pacific under a charter of the A. F. of L. Should the licensed deck officers of the Atlantic Coast refuse to become a part of such consolidated organization affiliated with the A. F. of L., then the Executive Council shall have the authority to issue a charter to the licensed deck officers of the Pacific Coast, giving them jurisdiction over this branch of the Marine industry.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 173—Presented by Delegates Duncan McDonald, John Mitchell, Frank J. Hayes, United Mine Workers.

WHEREAS, There is an organization known as the Provincial Workmen's Association in existence in certain portions of Canada, said organization claiming jurisdiction over the coal miners employed in the coal mines of Nova Scotia and purporting to represent them in negotiating wage contracts for them in that territory; and

WHEREAS, The men employed in and around the mines in Nova Scotia by a large majority some years ago decided to become a part of the United Mine Workers of America, and repudiated the organization known as the Provincial Workmen's Association, its officers and agents; and

WHEREAS, This so-called organization through its officers have since joined hands with the employers in their efforts to destroy and disrupt the United Mine Workers of America in that section, and have assisted in furnishing scabs and strike breakers working under the protection of the detectives and thugs employed by the coal companies, thereby proving themselves traitors to the best interests of the workers; and

WHEREAS, This so-called organization through its officers is again attempting to represent the Mine Workers in formulating a scale of wages on a basis satisfactory to the coal companies and upon which no worker can hope to exist and live, as a worker should live; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention condemn the actions of the men in charge of this outlaw organization as a menace to a civilized community, and a band of traitors who are being paid for their dirty, nefarious work, and who by their action are helping to retard the work of the bona fide trades-unionists and who by co-operating with the thugs and detectives of the employers, are placing themselves on a plane lower than that of the meanest scab or strike breaker.

The committee recommends concurrence in the resolution.

The recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 110—By Delegate W. E. Scoggan, of the Black Hills Trades Assembly:

WHEREAS, The Black Hills Trades Assembly did, under date of August 14th, 1911, send an appeal to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, No response has been had to said appeal, and the needs of this district are very urgent and unless action is taken at a very early date the entire trade union movement will be wiped out in this District by the notoriously unfair mining corporation; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, that the incoming Executive Council be instructed to make an immediate investigation of the situation and render such aid as in their judgment the case will warrant; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That an organizer of the A. F. of L. be sent into this District to assist in reorganizing the entire field to the end that union men will be restored to their lawful rights.

The committee reported that the case had already been acted upon in Resolution No. 84, and therefore no further action was necessary.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolutions Nos. 15 and 107 covering the same subject, were reported on as follows:

Resolution No. 15—By Delegate Duncan McDonald, of the United Mine Workers:

WHEREAS, The employing class by joining together their companies and uniting together the various firms are gradually combining the wealth of the nation in trusts and syndicates, tending to the concentration of all industry; and

WHEREAS, This combination of wealth in this manner, being an economic necessity, places the employing interests in an advantageous position when it comes to an industrial conflict; and

WHEREAS, By our adherence to craft and trade autonomy, as we are at present organized, we are compelled to witness the defeat and disruption of the various small organizations, and are placed at an unfair disadvantage in every conflict with our employers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we favor a policy of industrial unionism, as against craft and trades autonomy, and wherever possible we consolidate the smaller organizations into a more compact and perfect organization, that we may be the better able to protect our interests in the industrial conflicts yet to come.

Resolution No. 107—By Delegate A. W. Wright, of the Trades and Labor Council of Vancouver, B. C.:

WHEREAS, Considerable confusion, jurisdictional disputes, etc., arise from different local unions being organized by employees of one corporation; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, now in Convention assembled, go on record as favoring industrial unionism and proceed to organize all employees working for one company into one central body, consisting of at least five members from each department.

The committee recommended non-concurrence in both resolutions.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Delegate Fischer—That completes the report of the committee, which is respectfully submitted and signed by the committee.

JOHN MITCHELL, Chairman
WM. B. MACFARLANE.
MATT COMERFORD.
ANDREW J. GALLAGHER.
P. W. COLLINS.
JAMES B. CASEY.
T. L. LEWIS.
JOHN T. TAGGART.
THOS. J. WILLIAMS.
HENRY KOCH.
PATRICK FLYNN.
JOHN C. SCHAFER.
FRANK A. SCOPY.
SANTIAGO IGLESIAS.
JACOB FISCHER, Secretary.

Report of Committee on Resolutions.

Delegate Frey, secretary of the committee, reported as follows:

Resolution No. 69—By Delegate James P. Holland, Central Federated Union of Greater New York and Vicinity:

WHEREAS, The American Federation of Labor, as set forth in the preamble of its constitution, has recognized that a struggle is going on in all nations of the civilized world between the oppressors and the oppressed of all countries, a struggle between the capitalist and the laborer, which grows in intensity from year to year, and will work disastrous results to the toiling millions if they are not combined for mutual protection and benefit, and it, therefore, behooves the representatives of the trade and labor unions of America, in convention assembled, to adopt such measures and disseminate such principles among the mechanics and laborers of our country as will permanently unite them to secure the recognition of rights to which they are justly entitled; and

WHEREAS, The decisions of the United States Supreme Court and of the State courts in injunction and labor cases have conclusively shown that there are constitutional provisions which have erected a wall for the protection of the capitalist interests as against the interests of the toiling millions, and that no really effective and beneficial labor legislation can be secured unless the constitution be so amended as to wipe out the two classes of master and servant; and

WHEREAS, the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated State Federations have devoted their energies to the enactment of national, state and territorial labor laws as well as to the embodying of provisions for the protection of labor in several state constitutions; and

WHEREAS, Logically and inevitably the next great step in the struggle of the oppressed to secure the recognition of rights to which the toiling millions of our country are justly entitled is the demand and propaganda for a labor amendment to the United States Constitution, ordaining that neither wage-slavery nor voluntary servitude shall exist within the United States or any place subject to their jurisdiction, and embodying all legislative demands of the American Federation of Labor, which shall bring about the industrial emancipation of all toilers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the American Federation of Labor in the Thirty-first annual convention assembled, That the time has arrived to crown the thirty-one years' work for labor legislation in our generation, as achieved by the American Federation of Labor, with the demand and propaganda for a labor amendment to the Constitution of the United States, to secure the industrial emancipation of all toilers; and

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor be and hereby is instructed to frame a labor amendment to the United States Constitution, and to inaugurate and encourage a movement leading to its adoption by the people of our country.

The committee recommended non-concurrence in the resolution.

The recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 124—By Delegate T. Briggs, of the Calumet Joint Labor Council:

WHEREAS, A struggle is going on, and has been going on for years, in all the nations of the civilized world, between the oppressors and the oppressed of all countries; a struggle between the capitalists and the laborer, which grows in intensity from year to year, and will work disastrous results to the tolling millions if they are not combined for mutual protection and benefit; therefore, it behooves the representatives of the Trade and Labor Unions of America, in convention assembled, to adopt such measures and disseminate such principles; first, reduction in hours of the work day; second, to secure equal pay for equal service for both men and women; third, municipal ownership of all public utilities; fourth, government ownership of national monopolies; fifth, the adoption of a constitutional amendment requiring the election of President and Vice-President and United States Senators by the direct vote of the people; sixth, and we further declare in favor of abolition of government by injunction in controversies between capital and labor.

Resolution No. 149—By Delegate B. A. Carter, of the Hammond, Ind., Trades and Labor Council:

RESOLVED, That the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, assembled in Atlanta, Ga., go on record as being in favor of equal suffrage between men and women, we therefore recommend that the delegates to the American Federation of Labor be instructed to use their best endeavors to have such laws enacted as will place women on an equality with men at the ballot box.

The committee submitted as a substitute for Resolutions No. 124 and 149, the following:

RESOLVED, That this Thirty-first Convention of the American Federation of Labor reaffirm the economic program previously adopted by the American Federation of Labor.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 125—By Vallejo, Cal. Trades and Labor Council:

WHEREAS, The Secretary of the Navy recommends that a dry dock large enough to accommodate the greatest battleship, and approves of San Francisco bay as the proper site; and

WHEREAS, Mare Island is at present the Naval Base of the Pacific Coast, situated on San Francisco bay, and fully equipped to build and repair battleships; and

WHEREAS, This dock would complete the facilities to care for the government ships; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, in Convention assembled, endorse this resolution and urge our Congressmen to lend their support to this location.

The committee reported as follows:

Your committee, not having sufficient information before it to warrant it in expressing any opinion as to the most available and suitable location for the construction of a dry dock in the vicinity of Vallejo or other Pacific points, therefore recommend that it is inadvisable for this Convention to favor one place in preference to other available localities.

The report of the committee was adopted.

The committee recommended that Resolution No. 133 be amended by inserting after the last word in the first Whereas "with one exception and," the amended resolution to read:

Resolution No. 133—By Delegates Sol Polakoff, Alex. Bloch and Harry Kleinman, of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union:

WHEREAS, The passport of all American citizens is honored in all civilized countries; and

WHEREAS, Russia, the only country among the great countries, discriminates against a certain class of American citizens; and

WHEREAS, There is a movement on foot in our country demanding the interference of our government to bring about an equal recognition of all Americans holding American passports in Russia; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the A. F. of L., in Convention assembled in Atlanta, Ga., express its hearty approval of such a movement; and, be it further

RESOLVED, To pledge its influence to force the Russian government to fulfill its treaty obligations in honoring the passports of all American citizens regardless of race, creed or nationality.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution as amended. The recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 136—By Delegate J. A. Franklin, Louis Weyand, Joseph Flynn and James B. Casey, of the Boilermakers' Delegation:

WHEREAS, At the last session of Congress there was enacted a Locomotive Boiler Inspection law, having for its object the protection of the travelling public and the employees of railroads; and

WHEREAS, The law requires that inspectors shall be men experienced in the construction and repair of boilers; and,

WHEREAS, The former occupation and experience of the inspectors appointed under the provisions of this law shows conclusively that due regard toward this provision was not observed by heads of the Locomotive Inspection Bureau and the Interstate Commerce Commission in selecting inspectors, and as a consequence men have been appointed to these responsible positions that have little, if any, practical knowledge of the duties of the position; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the delegates to the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the A. F. of L., in Convention assembled, do deplore this action which has prevented an effective enforcement of this inspection service which experience has demonstrated is essential to the protection of life and property, and therefore request the Executive Council and Legislative Committee of this Federation to do all in their power to have the provisions of this law providing for the selection of competent inspectors properly enforced.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 137—By Delegate G. E. Mikel, of the Arkansas State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, The Central Labor Union of Hot Springs, Ark., and the individual members of the different unions affiliated therewith have undertaken to interest organized labor throughout the country in the building of a National Federation Sanatorium; and

WHEREAS, We believe such an institution would be one of the greatest helps toward the "uplift" of our people, and the greatest blessing that could be bestowed upon the sick or afflicted, an onward step in the progress of our movement; and

WHEREAS, We believe the "one spot" best fitted for such an institution would be the spot where the "God Blessed" waters flow, Hot Springs, Ark.; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the delegates to the American Federation in Convention assembled, unanimously endorse the establishment of such a sanatorium and earnestly recommend that our national officers and individual members look with favor upon this proposal and pledge our support, each and severally, to any practical plan that may be submitted for the raising of funds for such a purpose.

The committee reported as follows:

Your committee while in full accord with the humanitarian object suggested in the resolution, believes that inasmuch as the American Federation of Labor is now overburdened by expenses incurred through injunction and contempt proceedings and other questions of vital importance to our movement, including the erection of an office building for the American Federation of Labor, it would be inadvisable at this time to adopt the resolution.

A motion was made and seconded that the report of the committee be adopted.

Delegate Mikel discussed the question briefly, and stated that he hoped that at some time the American Federation of Labor would carry out such a plan as suggested. The motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

Resolution No. 146—By Delegates Thos. V. O'Connor, Martin Cole, M. W. Kelleher and P. F. A. Vaccareli, of the International Longshoremen's Association:

WHEREAS, The laws passed by the Senate and House of Congress, June 6, 1910, and covered and contained in department circular No. 207, changes the laws under which steamers of 65-foot may be operated; and

WHEREAS, This causes a hardship on the licensed tug-men and crews of fishing and pleasure steamers by placing lives in danger by having said steamers operated by incompetent pilots or engineers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the above law is detrimental to the best interests of life and property, and we ask that this law be changed so that it will not include boats propelled by steam; be it further

RESOLVED, That the Legislative Committee of the A. F. of L. use all force at their command for the enactment of a statute repealing this vicious law.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 155—By Delegate A. W. Wright, of the Trades and Labor Council, of Vancouver, B. C.:

WHEREAS, The handling of high potential wires and electrical appliances by incompetent workmen endangers the lives of the public; and

WHEREAS, Many companies are using unskilled and incompetent workmen because they can secure such workmen at small wages; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, now in Convention assembled, introduce a Bill in the Legislature, through some member, establishing compulsory examination for all electrical workers handling high voltage currents.

The committee recommended that the resolution be amended to read:

Resolution No. 155—By Delegate A. W. Wright, of the Trades and Labor Council, of Vancouver, B. C.:

WHEREAS, The handling of high potential wires and electrical appliances by incompetent workmen endangers the lives of the public; and

WHEREAS, Many companies are using unskilled and incompetent workmen because they can secure such workmen at small wages; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, now in Convention assembled, recommend that the State and Provincial Federations of Labor prepare and have introduced in the several legislatures through some member, measures, establishing compulsory examination for all electrical workers handling high voltage currents.

The recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 162—By Delegates Samuel Gompers, J. T. Smith and Thomas F. Tracy, of the Cigar Makers' International Union:

WHEREAS, The Supreme Court of the United States has declared the American Tobacco Company to be a Trust, a monopoly operating in restraint of trade, and as now constituted is an illegal institution existing in violation of law, and therefore ordered its dissolution; and

WHEREAS, The Court gave this illegal monopoly eight months in which to dissolve and to reshape its component parts on a basis that will not be in violation of law or operated in illegal restraint of trade; and

WHEREAS, The President of the United States has recently said that the laws affecting monopolies, trusts and illegal organizations, such as the American Tobacco Company, will be enforced; and

WHEREAS, We are of the opinion that there are no legal means that can be adopted whereby the constituent parts of the illegal Tobacco Trust can be successfully reorganized and maintained on a working basis, that will not be in opposition to and antagonistic with existing laws; and

WHEREAS, The policy of all trusts has been opposed to organized labor, not hesitating to adopt any means, fair or foul, with which to crush the organization of the workers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor denounces the attitude of the American Tobacco Trust toward organized labor and pledges itself to do all that it consistently can, in keeping with its own laws and the laws of our common country, to create a healthy public sentiment in opposition to any plan being sanctioned by the Southern Division of the Circuit Court of New York, the Supreme Court of the United States, the Judicial Branch of the Federal Government, or any other constituted authority, that will permit the re-organization of this declared illegal monopoly in a way that may permit it to operate in opposition to existing laws and the decision of the United States Supreme Court; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor in Convention assembled declares its unalterable opposition to any plan which will permit the declared illegal American Tobacco Company to reorganize by subterfuge, and thus under the guise of legal sanction, pursue its illegal and sinister method under a plan that will be in violation of existing laws.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

On motion the recommendation of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 164—By Delegate Chas. T. Smith, of the Central Labor Union of Washington, D. C.

WHEREAS, Honorable Samuel B. Donnelly, Public Printer of the United States, has indicated his disregard for the rules of the Civil Service by the employment of a man whom he must have known to be improperly and illegally registered; and

WHEREAS, He has accentuated his hostility to the principles of the merit system as exemplified by the Civil Service and tried to defeat its purpose by refusing to employ men who were instrumental in bringing the abuses to the attention of the Commission; and

WHEREAS, By the violation of established laws and rules of the Civil Service in this instance, his action tends to destroy the efficiency and demoralize the discipline of so large and important a plant as the Government Printing Office; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention deplore the conditions now existing at the Government Printing Office and vigorously condemn the Public Printer for his attempt to defeat the rules of the Civil Service, and using his office to visit resentment upon men who had attempted to defend the rules of the Government under which they were employed; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council be directed to go over the data now available with reference to certain practices in the Government Printing Office, and if in their judgment the evidence is sufficient, to present the matter to the proper authorities with a view to the removal of Mr. Donnelly; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the President of the United States, President Lynch of the Typographical Union and Local Union No. 6 of New York.

This resolution contains in its Whereases a request that the Convention first condemn Public Printer, Honorable Samuel B. Donnelly, and then that an investigation be made of his alleged acts. Inasmuch as the trade union movement is opposed to any decision being reached without thorough investigation, your committee offers as a substitute for the Whereases and Resolves the following:

RESOLVED, That the Central Labor Union of Washington, D. C., be advised by the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor to prepare and submit to the proper authorities provided by the Civil Service Laws such evidence as it may have at its disposal.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 166—By Delegate Agnes Nestor, of the International Glove Workers Union of America:

WHEREAS, The report of the Department of Commerce and Labor on the national investigation of conditions of work of women and children is being published in 19 volumes of the limited edition of 5,000 copies each; and

WHEREAS, The information contained in these volumes sets forth the individual and social menace of the industrial conditions under which thousands of young girls and women earn their living; and

WHEREAS, The value of this investigation, national in scope and authoritative in character, lies in reaching the general public, which is impossible with the present small limited edition; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Thirty-first convention of the American Federation of Labor do hereby request their Executive Council to call upon the Department of Commerce and Labor to publish a special edition of 100,000 copies of each volume.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 175—By Delegates Timothy Healy, William Brennan, M. J. Friel, of International Brotherhood of Firemen:

WHEREAS, A policy of retrenchment is now going into effect in the steam plants of the Federal Buildings, which are under the control of the Secretary of the Treasury, this policy is cutting the wages of firemen and others in the various steam plants in the government buildings, which wages are not and never have been, up to the standard paid by private employers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, request the Executive Council to immediately take this grievance up with the Honorable Secretary of the Treasury.

The committee recommended concurrence in the resolution.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 172—By Hatters Delegation:

WHEREAS, Owing to the death or disability of the husband and father, many women are left with dependent children to provide for; and

WHEREAS, This condition compels such women to enter the industrial world handicapped by their necessities which very often force them to work for less than others in order to support their children, thereby injuring their sisters and brothers in the economic struggle as they are often compelled to do work that should be done by men; and

WHEREAS, This deprives the children of such women of a mother's care, and denies the mother herself, to a large extent, the pleasure of her children's society; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the representatives of the American Federation of Labor in Convention assembled, are of the opinion that in all such cases, the National Government should assume the support of the mother and children until it will be possible for them to become self-supporting; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we hold this policy to be in line with the best principles of trade unionism. For years we have been trying, and to a large extent, succeeded in having laws passed by legislatures prohibiting the employment in factories of children of tender years and putting them in school where they properly belong; we should develop this policy a little further and take the mothers out of the economic struggle and put them where they properly belong, in the home. A law of this kind would lift a nightmare from the minds of millions of men. Every man with children would know that in case of his death, his family would be provided for by this great fraternal principle; and in our opinion if union labor is true to itself it will take this matter up with the same spirit and determination we have shown in the child labor prohibition. Nothing we could think of would bring home more forcibly to the minds of our non-union brothers how thoroughly in accord with the best interests of labor in general are the principles of trade unionism. It would bring this fact home to others than the working class. Lawyers, doctors, clergymen and others who might die poor would have their families provided for under this law. The adoption of this principle would place union labor on a higher moral plane than ever before, and would draw increased attention to us, and to our high purposes, with the result that we would be supported as we were never supported before in our noble mission to elevate mankind.

The committee recommended that the resolution be referred to the Executive Council of the A. F. of L., that the object of the resolution be incorporated in the pension legislation pending before Congress.

The report of the committee was adopted.

On that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Boy Scout Movement," the committee reported as follows:

Your committee is in accord with the position assumed by the Executive Council, to thoroughly investigate the boy scout movement, and we urge that they continue their investigations and report to the American Labor movement upon the influences, economic and otherwise, of the boy scout movement.

The recommendation of the committee was adopted.

On that portion of the report of President Gompers dealing with the International Secretariat, and that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "International Secretariat—Budapest Congress," the committee reported as follows:

Your committee is in full accord with the instructions given by the Executive Council to Vice-President James Duncan before his departure for Europe as the delegate from this body to the Convention of the International Secretariat called at Budapest, Hungary, in 1911.

Without consultation with the chairman of the committee, Vice-President Duncan, and without ascertaining his sentiment in connection with the subject, your committee, in view of the action of this convention in giving him a unanimous vote of appreciation for his exceedingly valuable report, recommends that a sufficient number of copies of his report to this convention be printed in pamphlet form to reach the demand which has already been manifested by the delegates to this convention since listening to the masterful presentation of the labor movement and industrial conditions in Europe which are contained in his report.

On motion the report of the committee was adopted.

On that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "New Mexico's Constitution" the committee reported as follows:

Your committee recommends a hearty endorsement of the action taken by the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. in connection with the question of assisting the securing of a constitution for the State of New Mexico which would contain adequate provisions for a full and complete government of the people, by the people and for the people.

The report of the committee was adopted.

On that portion of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Pure Food—Pure Drugs" the committee reported as follows:

Your committee commends the action of the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. in connection with the efforts being made to secure the passage of laws and other enactments which would prevent the manufacture or sale of any articles of food or drugs which were adulterated or placed on sale under misleading labels or advertisements.

The report of the committee was adopted.

On that portion of the report of the report of the Executive Council under the caption "Industrial Accidents" the committee reported as follows:

Your committee endorses the recommendation of the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. that a national society for the prevention of railroad accidents should be organized along the lines suggested in this report. Your committee therefore recommends that the President and Executive Council of the A. F. of L. be and are hereby instructed to use their influence towards the organization of such an association.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Resolution No. 174—By Delegate Chas. T. Smith, of C. L. U., Washington, D. C.:

WHEREAS, The Honorable Secretary of the Treasury of the United States, has awarded a contract involving an expenditure of possibly $1,422,226, for the construction of a new building for the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, at Washington, D. C.; and

WHEREAS, The said contract has been awarded to the firm of J. Henry Miller, Inc., of Baltimore, Md., and

WHEREAS, The said firm of J. Henry Miller, is alleged to be unfair to organized labor; and

WHEREAS, It is alleged that the said firm of J. Henry Miller, has now contracts for the construction of government work that is fourteen months behind the time stipulated for the completion; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this convention of the A. F. of L., deplore this act of the Honorable Secretary of the Treasury, in ignoring the interest of the government, and the almost four thousand employes of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, by endangering a prompt completion of a new Bureau Building by awarding the contract for its construction to the said J. Henry Miller, Inc., and be it further

RESOLVED, That a communication be sent to the Honorable Secretary of the Treasury, from this convention remonstrating against awarding of the contract for the construction of the new Bureau of Engraving and Printing building to a firm that is notoriously unfriendly to organized labor and unreliable in the performance of its contractual obligations.

Your committee recommends that the resolution be referred to the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor.

The recommendation of the committee was concurred in.

The Committee on Resolutions offered the following resolution:

Resolution No. 178—

RESOLVED, That the Thirty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, adopts this method and opportunity of expressing its sincere appreciation for the generous spirit and cordiality of the welcome which was extended to us by the Honorable Hoke Smith, Governor of Georgia, by the Honorable Courtland S. Winn, mayor of Atlanta, and other distinguished public officials and citizens, and representatives of organized labor. That the local committee on arrangements and entertainments is justly entitled to an expression of unstinted approval on our part, for the arrangements which were made to provide adequate conveniences for the comfort of the delegates while in session, and to fill the social hours with a bounteous variety of entertainment.

That the local committees and the wives and daughters of the Atlanta trades-unionists have earned our admiration for their ever thoughtful and kindly interest in the comfort and social enjoyments of our lady delegates and other ladies in attendance at this convention;

THAT the many social clubs and fraternal organizations of Atlanta, whose hospitality was so generously extended to our delegates have added to their already favorable reputation as hospitable and successful entertainers;

THAT we here record our appreciation for the spirit of fairness which has been indicated by the newspapers of Atlanta, and for their evident desire to convey an accurate account of our proceedings through their columns; and

THAT the delegates to this convention in their discussion of the subjects coming before them and in their action thereon, have indicated that our annual deliberations tend to develop the minds and broaden the vision of those who attend our conventions, fitting them to labor more effectively for the growth and success of our great movement in its efforts to secure equality of rights and opportunity for all and to elevate the American workman's standard of living.

The resolutions offered by the committee were adopted by unanimous vote.

Delegate Frey—That completes the report of the committee, which is signed,

JAMES DUNCAN, Chairman.
B. A. LARGER,
D. D. MULCAHY,
JOHN T. SMITH,
THOS. FLYNN,
EDWARD J. MCGIVERN,
JOS. N. WEBER,
M. F. RYAN,
W. D. MAHON,
A. P. SOVEY,
EDWARD F. WARD,
SOL. SONTHEIMER,
CHAS. P. FAHEY,
JOHN A. VOLL,
JOHN P. FREY, Secretary.

Delegate Mahon—There is one resolution I want to mention. The Secretary made mention of the licensing of men who handle high voltage in electrical work. I disagree with the theory and the proposition, and want to be so recorded. I signed the report of the committee, but I did not agree with the resolution.

Report of Committee on Education.

Delegate Murtaugh, Secretary of the committee, stated that the section of the report of the committee approving the establishment of night schools had been referred back to the committee, and submitted the following amended report:

Atlanta, Georgia, November 15th, 1911.

Your Committee on Education believe it best to make recommendations on such live issues concerning education that confront not only the laboring people but all the people of the United States at the present time. Accordingly, we have considered the following topics and make the following recommendations on same:

First. The time has now arrived when compulsory education must be had. The different states should provide by proper legislation that all children between the ages of six and sixteen years should be provided with at least a common school education and given at least the ordinary opportunities for preparation in childhood to meet the duties of life.

We know from experience that existing economic conditions make it impossible for a large number of the best families among the workers to give their children the education they should have, and which they would like to give them, and also that a small number of our population are not sufficiently alive to parental duty to educate their children and, on the contrary, rather lean against same and prefer to use the physical efforts of their children for their own support rather than educate these children for the children's good in after life. This position or negation arises from three causes: 1st, lack of equitable economic conditions; 2d, lack of appreciation of parental obligations, and 3rd, remuneration received by said parents for child labor.

Therefore, as these people do not respond to the ordinary suggestions of parental love, the state must step in and provide a system by which these children shall be given at least a chance for their lives in the struggle for existence going on at the present time. The time is long since past when the ignorant and uneducated stand any chance against the educated, active and well developed man. One begins this race of life at such a great advantage that the other one is never in the running with him. Without worrying the Convention with the benefits of education, suffice it to say that this great organization should present to the legislatures of the country their recommendation that strong, vigorous and effective legislation be had whereby statutes providing for compulsory education may be passed and enforced and we recommend accordingly.

Second. In line with the discussion just had, it must suggest itself to all minds that, inasmuch as the state is providing public schools, that is schools where tuition is free, it should also provide the children in such schools with books free of charge. There is no reason why the teacher should be supplied with books free of charge and the pupils should have to pay for their books. We know that the cost of books to men of large families constitutes one of the many reasons why children are taken from school at an early age and why others are not sent at all. We know that a great majority of the pupils come from homes whose parents are able to purchase books. These parents are also able to pay tuition for their children, but the state does not charge them tuition and their children sit side by side with those whose parents are incapable of paying their tuition. Hence the same situation would arise with reference to free books and if free tuition is good, free books are likewise good.

We recommend that free books in public schools be endorsed and the legislatures of the country be and they are hereby requested to provide that in all public schools books shall be furnished the children at the expense of the states.

We further recommend that the A. F. of L. go on record as approving the establishment of night schools (for persons over 16 years of age) in connection with the public school system.

We suggest that the Executive Council take this matter up with local, central, federal and state bodies, requesting them to use their influence in their respective communities to have such schools established.

Respectfully submitted,
WILLIS R. GOLDEN, Chairman.
JOS. F. VALENTINE,
ERNEST BOHM,
JAS. J. FREEL,
W. J. KELLY,
S. POLAKOFF,
M. B. CAIN,
T. M. DALY,
C. E. MAHONEY,
JOHN MURTAUGH,
DANIEL J. EVANS,
GROCE LAWRENCE,
G. E. SOYSTER,
WM. A. McKENNA, Secretary.

The report of the committee was adopted.

Report of Special Committee.

Delegate Tharp, for the committee, reported as follows:

Your Special Committee, appointed on the recommendation of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, have considered that part of the Executive Council's report under the caption "White Rats Actors' Union Benefit Performances" and the following resolution:

Resolution No. 42.—By Delegates Will J. Cooke, Harry DeVaux and Joseph Birnes, of the White Rats Actors' Union of America:

WHEREAS, The general membership is in full sympathy with the plans and procedure now being used to establish the innocence of the McNamara brothers and feel that the moral force of the White Rats Actors' Union should be used to strengthen and assist in the carrying out of their defense, and the fact that in all parts of this country, at all of the vaudeville theaters the largest percentage of vaudeville actors are members of the White Rats Actors' Union, ready and willing to do their share as a component part of the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, It is the expressed desire of the members of the White Rats Actors' Union to have set aside each year one day all over the country when a series of theatrical performances may be given, the proceeds of which shall be donated to the duly accredited Trades Council of the city in which the entertainment shall be given; and

WHEREAS, The actors and actresses, members of our organization will give their services gratis at such entertainments, the Trades Councils to provide the theaters or halls with all necessary surroundings, music, etc., including the disposition of tickets; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention of the American Federation of Labor held in Atlanta, Ga., instructs the Executive Council to make proper investigation at as early a date as possible, during the sitting of this Convention if possible, and if it is found practicable to enter into the plan of entertainments at once for the McNamara defense fund to so report to the Convention for the purpose of having the seated delegates instructed to perfect the necessary details upon their arrival at home; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the President and the Executive Council shall, during the coming year, devise ways and means to have a day set aside throughout the United States and Canada to be known as "Labor Benefit Day" upon which theatrical performances may be given, the proceeds to be given to the affiliated Trades Councils, who shall conduct these benefit performances.

Your committee begs to report:

After carefully considering Resolution No. 42 introduced by the delegates of the White Rats Actors' Union of America, and the recommendation of the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. pertaining to same proposition, we, your committee, deem it unwise to set aside a day in each year to be known as "Labor Benefit Day," upon which day, theatrical performances will be given, the actors and actresses, members of the White Rats Actors' Union, to give their services free of all cost at such entertainment, and on the other hand, the Trades Councils of each city, to bear all expenses necessary to provide the theater or halls, with all the necessary surroundings, music, etc., as well as including the disposition of tickets, the proceeds of which are to be donated to the duly accredited Central Trades Councils of the cities in which the entertainments shall be given.

But upon so much of the resolution as refers to setting aside a day to raise funds for the defense of the McNamaras, we recommend that the McNamara Ways and Means Committee be requested by President Gompers to set aside a day during the latter part of January, 1912, to be known as "McNamara Defense Day," on which day theatrical performances shall be given free of all cost for their services by the members of the White Rats Actors' Union of America, with the assistance of the Central Labor Bodies throughout the country, the proceeds of same to be forwarded to the Secretary of the A. F. of L.

We further recommend that President Gompers of the A. F. of L. notify all central bodies in regard to the foregoing, and that the delegates to this convention work to the end that the entertainments held on this day will result in a much desired success.

We further recommend that President Gompers communicate to the officers of the White Rats Actors' Union of America the appreciation of the delegates to this Convention for their generosity displayed in tendering their services gratis for the purpose of raising funds for the defense of the McNamara brothers.

E. E. THARP, Chairman,
WM. W. RUSSELL, Secretary.
A. J. KUGLER.

The report of the Special Committee was adopted by unanimous vote.

President Gompers—In the early part of the Convention a series of resolutions were introduced calling upon the President to cause an investigation to be made as to the accuracy of allegations made in the preambles of the resolutions. I immediately sent a night lettergram containing the preambles and resolutions to the organizer stationed in New York, Mr. Cal Wyatt, who replied:

Secretary Morrison read the following:

New York, Nov. 25, 1911.

"Samuel Gompers,
Main Auditorium, Atlanta, Ga.
"Investigation into strike of ash drivers which has been in effect in this city some days past fully justifies me in believing that statements contained in resolution forwarded me are correct in every particular.

"CAL WYATT."

Secretary Morrison read the following:

New York, Nov. 24, 1911.

Sam'l Gompers, Auditorium Armory,
Atlanta, Ga.:

I am informed that the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia has determined that you and your associates must answer for an alleged contempt of that court. In the newspapers, before this determination, I read that the same court had appointed a committee to determine whether such contempt proceedings should be instituted against you and that one of the committee was Daniel Davenport, an attorney who had served in that case. Today in the Supreme Court of this state, application was made by the joint district council of Carpenters for an injunction enjoining and restraining the American Anti-boycott Association from practicing law and instituting baseless and vexatious litigation against the Carpenters in violation of Section 280 of the Penal Law of the State of New York. Daniel Davenport is one of the counsel for the American Anti-Boycott Association. In substance it was alleged on this application which was adjourned at the request of the defendants that it is an organized voluntary association composed of corporations, manufacturers and attorneys engaged in the practice of law designed to destroy, if possible, workingmen's unions, and for that purpose has regularly employed counsel with officers, sending out circulars soliciting subscriptions and assessments from the corporations and firms who become members of the Association advertises in the newspapers, whenever successful, the result of its attacks upon organized labor and so on; all of which it is alleged constitutes a crime under the laws of this state. When this motion was made for an injunction against this association there gathered in court from all the hidden recesses and subterranean passages all the head devils opposed to organized labor throughout the country, to-wit: Ex-Congressmen Littlefield, of Employers Liability Fame, Daniel Davenport of Danbury Hatters Fame and a number of lesser moles who had heretofore hidden themselves in the secret recesses of the American Anti-boycott Association anxiously wondering whether the vast fees and associations which have heretofore been pouring into their pockets were suddenly about to be cut off and whether they must again go back to the ordinary toils of practicing attorneys. You thus see that we are with you in the fight against this American Anti-boycott Association and to the finish.

ELBRIDGE H. NEAL,

Sec'y Joint Dist. Council of Carpenters.

Delegate Weber—I almost feel like asking the pardon of the convention for bringing up this matter at this late hour, but circumstances over which we have had no control make it absolutely imperative that I should take the floor at this time and move that the Executive Council investigate at once the Hebrew trades of New York who are seating dual organizations. (Seconded by Delegate Holland and adopted by unanimous vote.)

Delegate Williams made a brief statement in which he protested against members of dual and seceding organizations being seated with the delegates during the sessions of the Convention and being included in the group photographs of the Convention, stating that they used these pictures to lead contractors and architects to believe they were part of the regular labor movement.

The question was discussed briefly by Delegate Williams, Delegate Landers and President Gompers.

Delegate Kelly (W. J.), moved that at future Conventions of the American Federation of Labor permission of the Executive Council shall be secured before literature will be distributed in the Convention hall, and that representatives of dual and seceding organizations be not allowed to sit with the delegates.

Delegate Furuseth discussed the question briefly, and opposed censoring of any literature distributed in the Convention.

President Gompers declared the motion out of order as no new matter could be introduced in the Convention without unanimous consent.

Delegate Moorhouse stated that he had been requested by the lady delegates and visitors to extend or have the A. F. of L. extend through the Convention thanks to the ladies of Atlanta for their kindness towards the visiting ladies and the splendid entertainment they had given them. (Seconded and carried.)

President Gompers stated that Fraternal Delegate Crinion and Mrs. Crinion had been obliged to leave the Convention before the afternoon session, and stated that Fraternal Delegate Roberts would address the Convention before the parting.

Fraternal Delegate Roberts made a brief address in which he thanked the delegates and officers for the kindness and courtesy they had shown him while in the country, and expressed the hope that some day he might meet the delegates and renew his acquaintance with them.

Delegate Jones (Jerome) made a brief address in which he expressed his appreciation of the fact that the Convention had been held in Atlanta.

President Gompers—Just a minute before we adjourn. I desire to say on my own behalf that I appreciate very much the great courtesy extended to me as your presiding officer and the help you have given me in administering the affairs of this Convention. We have performed great work. Decisive lines of policy, constructive legislation, not only in the interest of union men and union women, but of man and woman and child, has been enacted. Brother Roberts, we wish you God speed and a safe return home to your family and your fellow workers. I need not say that we hope you will convey to the workers of Great Britain, the great democracy of Great Britain, the fraternal greetings of our workers.

Vice-President O'Connell—I move that this Convention adjourn sine die.

The motion was seconded and carried, and at 7:10 p. m., Saturday, November 25th, the Thirty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor was adjourned sine die.

FRANK MORRISON,

Secretary, American Federation of Labor.

W. G. GREDIG,

Assistant Secretary of Convention.

APPENDIX TO PRESIDENT GOMPERS' REPORT, PAGE 52.1*ESSENCE OF LABOR'S CONTENTION ON THE INJUNCTION ABUSE.

The crass ignorance of corporation lawyers and a hostile press is so rampant on the position and attitude of labor upon the abuse of the injunction process that we deem it a public service as plainly and concisely as possible to submit labor's attitude and contention. It will be seen that labor neither questions the integrity of nor desires to "shackle" the courts; that it stands for and insists upon absolute equality before the law—nothing more, nothing less. We believe we have the right to demand that the press, however hostile, shall not wilfully misrepresent or misinterpret Labor's position. We ask a careful consideration of Labor's contention upon this all-important question of our time, and we challenge a discussion of the points here submitted. Labor insists that:

The writ of injunction was intended to be exercised for the protection of property rights only.

He who would seek its aid must come into court with clean hands.

There must be no other adequate remedy at law.

It must never be used to curtail personal rights.

It must not be used ever in an effort to punish crime.

It must not be used as a means to set aside trial by jury.

Injunctions as issued against workmen are never used or issued against any other citizen of our country.

It is an attempt to deprive citizens of our country, when these citizens are workmen, of the right of trial by jury.

It is an effort to fasten an offense on them when they are innocent of any unlawful or illegal act.

It is an indirect assertion of a property right in men when these men are workmen engaged in a lawful effort to protect or advance their natural rights and interests.

Injunctions as issued in trade disputes are to make outlaws of men when they are not even charged with doing things in violation of any law of State or nation.

We protest against the discrimination of the courts against the laboring men of our country which deprives them of their constitutional guarantee of equality before the law.

The injunctions which the courts issue against labor are supposed by them to be good enough law today, when there exists a dispute between workmen and their employers; but it is not good law—in fact, is not law at all—tomorrow or next day when no such labor dispute exists.

The issuance of injunctions in labor disputes is not based upon law, but is a species of judicial legislation, judicial usurpation, in the interests of the money power against workmen innocent of any unlawful or criminal act.

The doing of the lawful acts enjoined by the courts renders the workmen guilty of contempt of court, and punishable by fine or imprisonment or both.

Labor protests against the issuance of injunctions in disputes between workmen and employers, when no such injunctions would be issued when no such dispute exists. Such injunctions have no warrant in law and are the result of judicial usurpation and judicial legislation rather than of Congressional legislation.

In all things in which workmen are enjoined by the process of an injunction during labor disputes, if those acts are criminal or unlawful, there is now ample law and remedy covering them. From the logic of this there is no escape.

No act is legally a crime unless there is a law designating it and specifying it to be a crime.

No act is unlawful unless there be a law on the statute books designating and specifying it to be unlawful; hence it follows that—

No act is criminal or unlawful unless there is a law prohibiting its commission.

It is agreed by all, friends and opponents alike, that the injunction process, beneficial in its inception and general practice, never should apply and legally can not be applied where there is another ample remedy at law.

We assert that Labor asks no immunity for any of its men who may be guilty of any criminal or unlawful act.

It insists upon the workers being regarded and treated as equals before the law with every other citizen; that if any act be committed by any one of our number, rendering him amenable to the law, he shall be prosecuted by the ordinary forms of law and by the due process of law, and that an injunction does not lawfully and properly apply and ought not to be issued in such cases.

The injunction process as applied to men engaged in a dispute with employers includes the allegation of criminal or unlawful acts, as a mere pretext, so that the lawful and innocent acts in themselves may also be incorporated and covered by the blanket injunction. And the performance of the lawful and innocent acts in themselves despite the injunction renders them at once guilty of contempt of the court's order which is summarily punished by fine or imprisonment, or both.

In itself the writ of injunction is of a highly important and beneficent character. Its aims and purposes are for the protection of property rights. It never was intended, and never should be invoked, for the purpose of depriving free men of their personal rights, the right of man's ownership of himself; the right of free locomotion, free assemblage, free association, free speech, free press; the freedom to do those things promotive of life, liberty and happiness, and which are not in contravention of the law of our land.

We re-assert that we ask no immunity for ourselves or for any other man who may be guilty of any unlawful or criminal act; but we have a right to insist, and we do insist, that when a workman is charged with a crime or any unlawful conduct, he shall be accorded every right, be apprehended, charged, and tried by the same process of law as any other citizen of our country.

With our position so often emphasized and so generally known, it is nothing less than wilful untruth and misrepresentation for any one to declare that it is our purpose to obtain any special privilege, particularly the undesirable and unenviable liberty of creating a privileged class of wrongdoers.

When the real purposes and high aspirations of our movement and the legislation it seeks at the hands of the law-making power of our country shall be better understood by all our people, and the great uplifting work which we have already achieved shall find a better appreciation among those who now so unjustly attack and antagonize us, our opponents will be remembered for their ignoble work and course.

The injunctions against which we protest are flagrantly and without warrant of law issued almost daily in some section of our country and are violative of the fundamental rights of man. When better understood, they will shock the conscience of our people, the spirit and genius of our republic.

We shall exercise our every right, and in the meantime concentrate our efforts to secure the relief and the redress to which we are so justly entitled.

Not only in our own interest, but in the interest of all the people of our country, for the preservation of real liberty, for the elimination of bitterness and class hatred, for the perpetuation of all that is best and truest, we can never rest until the last vestige of this injustice has been removed from our public life.

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

APPENDIX TO PRESIDENT GOMPERS' REPORT, PAGE 53.

62d Congress, } H. R. 11032.
1st Session. }

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

June 2, 1911.

Mr. WILSON of Pennsylvania introduced the following bill.

A BILL

To regulate the issuance of restraining orders and procedure thereon, and to limit the meaning of "conspiracy" in certain cases.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That no restraining order or injunction shall be granted by any court of the United States, or a judge or the judges thereof, in any case between an employer and employe, or between employers and employes, or between employes, or between persons employed and persons seeking employment, or involving or growing out of a dispute concerning terms or conditions of employment, unless necessary to prevent irreparable injury to property or to a property right of the party making the application, for which injury there is no adequate remedy at law, and such property and property right must be particularly described in the application, which must be in writing and sworn to by the applicant, or by his, her, or its agent or attorney. And for the purposes of this act no right to continue the relation of employer and employe, or to assume or create such relation with any particular person or persons, or at all, or patronage or good-will in business, or buying or selling commodities of any particular kind or at any particular place, or at all, shall be construed, held, considered or treated as property, or as constituting a property right.

Sec. 2. That in cases arising in the courts of the United States or coming before said courts, or before any judge or the judges thereof, no agreement between two or more persons concerning the terms or conditions of employment or the assumption or creation or termination of any relation between employer and employe, or concerning any act or thing to be done or not to be done with reference to or involving or growing out of a labor dispute, shall constitute a conspiracy or other civil or criminal offense, or be punished or prosecuted, or damages recovered upon as such, unless the act or thing agreed to be done or not to be done would be unlawful if done by a single individual; nor shall the entering into or the carrying out of any such agreement be restrained or enjoined unless such act or thing agreed to be done would be subject to be restrained or enjoined under the provisions, limitations, and definitions contained in the first section of this act.

Sec. 3. That all acts and parts of acts in conflict with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

INDEX.

	Page.
A
American Federation of Labor Office Building.....	181, 182, 162, 208
Weekly News Letter.....	182, 162, 271
Resolution 85.....	269, 270
Addresses of welcome.....	1-7
American Federationist.....	79, 80, 98, 191, 192, 271, 275
Anti-Boycott Association.....	37-39, 362
Anti-Injunction movement, International unions to organize, Resolution 79.....	304, 305
Asbestos Workers' credential.....	12, 15, 105, 160
Assistant Secretary, appointment of.....	18
Atkins Saw Company, Indianapolis, Resolution 119.....	349
B
Bailey, Edgar G., to seek pardon for, Resolution 177.....	343
Badges and souvenirs distributed.....	141
Bag, Box, and Envelope Workers, Resolution 140.....	188
Bakers' Union No. 48, Caguas, P. R., greetings from.....	164, 165
Bakery and Confectionery Workers' complaint against Bread Trust, Resolutions 102 and 168.....	200, 201, 348, 349
Label, Resolution 103.....	213
—Teamsters, Resolution 43.....	124, 125, 162, 319, 320
to assist in organizing, Resolution 105.....	201
Baldwin Strike, Philadelphia.....	76, 77, 277
Barrett, C. F., President Farmers' International Union, presented to convention.....	141
Battleship at Mare Island Navy Yard, for building of, Resolution 64.....	264
Benefits paid by International unions.....	91, 92
Black Hills, So. Dakota, Trades Assembly appeal, Homestake Mining Company lockout, Resolution 110.....	352, 353
Blacksmiths—Tunnel and Subway Constructors, Resolution 26.....	309
Blue Stone Cutters—Granite Cutters—Pavers and Rammermen.....	124
Boilermakers in dispute with Kewanee Boiler Company, to support, Resolution 9.....	216, 217
Boy scout movement.....	139, 162, 358
Bricklayers and Masons' International Union, effort to secure affiliation of, Resolution 19.....	108, 192, 193, 194
Brick, Tile, and Terra Cotta Workers, Galesburg, Ill., against Purlington Paving Brick Company, to assist struggle of, Resolutions 8 and 76.....	196, 197, 316, 347
Brick, Tile, and Terra Cotta on state and municipal work, to assist in securing use of union-made, Resolution 66.....	308
Brick, Tile, and Terra Cotta Workers—Steam Engineers, Resolution 132.....	326
Bridge and Structural Iron Workers extends thanks to organized labor for support in McNamara case, Resolution 25.....	228, 299
Brooklyn, N. Y., dual central body, locals affiliated therewith to be instructed to withdraw, Resolution 101.....	200
Building Trades Department report.....	16, 17, 24, 25
Carpenters—Steamfitters.....	108-112, 162, 335-341
Bureau of Engraving and Printing, contract for new building, Resolution 174.....	359
Burns, Detective.....	315-318

	Page.
Butcher Workmen, dual organization of, Resolution 12.....	300
menaced by unrestricted immigration, Resolution 11.....	298
request for assistance to organize, Resolution 13.....	193
Button Workers, Muscatine.....	185
to issue appeal to assist strike, Resolutions 48 and 49.....	302, 303
C
California State Branch resolutions relative to President Gompers' Pacific Coast trip.....	296
Canada.....	28, 175-177, 276
attempt to classify United States labor as alien labor.....	176
Canadian Labor Congress legislation relative to industrial organization.....	145, 176
Canadian Congress to exchange fraternal delegates with British Labor Congress.....	145
Carpenters' resolutions relating to duty on supplies and representation of Brotherhood in Labor Congress.....	145
Eight-hour day for Government employes, effort to secure.....	177
Immigration.....	176
"Investigation of Combines" Bill, insertion of clause protecting labor unions.....	176 movement menaced by internecine disputes in building trades.....	144
political action of Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.....	176, 177
Canadian Provincial Workmen's Association, condemning, Resolution 178.....	211, 212, 352
Car Workers—Carmen, Resolution 122.....	323-325
surrender by President Richardson of charter of.....	384
Cards between all affiliated unions, interchange of paid-up union, Resolution 150.....	202
Carmen's credentials.....	11, 13-15
Carpenters be reinstated in Building Trades Department, recommendation that.....	388, 389
Carpenters—Carpenters, Resolution 82.....	116, 162, 310-315
Wood Workers.....	112-116, 320-322
Carpet Mechanics' Union, San Francisco, to affiliate with Upholsterers, Resolution 135.....	327, 328
Carriage and Wagon Workers—Blacksmiths—Upholsterers—Painters.....	126, 127
Carriage, Wagon, and Automobile Workers, to assist in organizing, Resolution 14.....	193
Cement block setting, Resolution 115.....	342
Cement Workers' complaint against Federal Labor Unions, Resolution 128.....	342
Cement Workers, to assist in organizing, Resolution 123.....	202
Central bodies—to make it mandatory upon internationals to instruct locals to join, Resolutions 100, 142, 152.....	210
to have right to discipline affiliated locals, Resolution 153.....	211 to make it mandatory upon local unions to organize, Resolution 154.....	211
and state branches introducing resolutions affecting locals of internationals should have same previously endorsed by internationals.....	217
Child labor and Children's Bureau.....	35, 285
Chinese Exclusion Act should be made to apply to all Asiatic races.....	306
"Christian Herald," New York lockout of members of Mailers' Union, Resolution 104.....	348
Cigarmakers' strike, Tampa.....	128, 129
Civic Federation, National, Resolutions 10, 18, 126.....	217-258
Civil Service employes, freedom of petition and organization, to urge enactment of legislation guaranteeing to, Resolutions 6 and 53.....	62, 63, 216, 258, 303
Collars and cuffs, Bell brand, union made, members to purchase, Resolution 127.....	214
Committees:
Adjustment.....	19, 309, 318, 326
Auditing.....	100, 161
Boycotts.....	19, 346
Building Trades.....	19, 334, 341
Credentials.....	7-12
Education.....	19, 268, 300
Labels.....	19, 212
Law.....	19, 304, 309
Local and Federated Bodies.....	19, 186
Organization.....	19, 192, 361

INDEX

389

Committees—Continued.

	Page.
President's report .....	19, 374
Resolutions .....	19, 216, 259, 353
Rules and Order of Business .....	19, 105-107
Secretary's report .....	19, 271, 272
State organization .....	19, 203
Treasurer's report .....	19, 189
Special:
White Rats Actors' benefit performances .....	140, 204, 361, 362
Conservation natural resources .....	139, 140, 162, 270
Constitution, labor amendment to U. S., Resolution 69 .....	353, 354
Contempt case, Gompers, Mitchell, Morrison .....	39-41, 278-284, 290, 291
Convict labor, Resolution 98 .....	63, 287, 288, 306, 306
Coopers' bona fide label, to support, Resolution 157 .....	215 dispute with Western Coopers Company, Resolution 156 .....	350, 351
Crinion, J., fraternal delegate, address of .....	165-169

D

Denechaud, Chas. I., fraternal delegate, address of .....	184, 185
Department of Labor .....	62, 239
Departments .....	24-28, 276
Building Trades .....	16, 17, 24, 25
Metal Trades .....	25, 26
Railroad Employees .....	26
Union Label Trades .....	26-28
Dietz, Rev. P. E., fraternal delegate, address of .....	184
Donahue, Chas. J., President Connecticut State Branch, charges of Theatrical Stage Employees against, Resolution 74 .....	196
Donnelly, Saml. B., Public Printer, to investigate charges against, Resolution 164 .....	356, 357
Dry Dock located at Mare Island, Cal., request for influence to have new, Resolution 125 .....	354
Duncan, James, delegate to International Secretariat, report of .....	146-158, 358
Bavaria .....	156
Bulgarian movement, division in .....	150
Co-operative store system .....	156
European migration westward .....	175
French labor movement committed to low dues and the general strike .....	149
Germany:
Berlin—contrasts in grandeur and misery .....	147
German trade unions leaders in compensation and insurance features .....	156
native workers charged with taking places of British workers during disputes .....	157 political movement .....	148
socialist movement requires craftsmen to be members of their trade unions .....	148 trade union movement .....	148
trade union system of life insurance .....	156
Great Britain:
Burns, John .....	146
"Christian trade unionists" .....	148
Coal Mines Bill to eliminate female labor, tactics to prevent passage by House of Commons of .....	147
dock workers' strike .....	146
Irish Party and Labor Group, British Parliament .....	147
Labor Group, Parliament .....	146, 147
MacDonald, Ramsay, parliamentary leader Labor Group .....	146 socialist members, British Parliament .....	146
Steadman, Wm. C. ....	146
Hungary:
civilization backward .....	154
habitations of poor and renting system .....	154
hours of labor reduced in past five years .....	155

Duncan, James, etc.

Hungary—Continued.

	Page.
Hungarian Labor Congress, police officials in attendance at all sessions of.....	155
immigrants returning from America making influence felt.....	155
income determines right of suffrage.....	154
inhabitants, nearly 80 per cent illiterate.....	155
no workmen or their representatives in Parliament.....	154
Slavonic invasion menace to progress of working people.....	154
Socialist party—organized political protest against aristocracy, feudalism, militarism, etc.....	156
trade unions permitted to hold meetings with police surveillance.....	155
women hodcarriers and building laborers.....	155
International Secretariat Congress:
Canadian Trades and Labor Congress not entitled to representation.....	152 countries represented—membership.....	149, 152
Esperanto, proposition for use rejected.....	152
favoured paid-up union cards being recognized in all countries.....	152
Financial report.....	150
I. W. W. representative's protest against recognition of A. F. of L. delegate.....	149, 150, 158 international federation of labor, trade union centers to discuss proposition of establishing.....	151 international financial assistance, appeals for.....	150, 151
invitation to Secretariat to meet in San Francisco, 1915, to be decided upon at next Congress.....	151
Legien, C., to deliver addresses in American industrial centers.....	154
municipal or state hospitality from official sources not accepted.....	149 meeting place, deferred selection of next.....	152
procedure in matter of attacks on any National Trade Center.....	151 report of Secretariat, A. F. of L. to purchase copies of.....	150 status of efforts to secure abolition of compulsory legitimization cards, introduced in some German States for workers of foreign nationalities.....	152, 153, 156 to prevent emigration of workers to countries where industrial depression or trade disputes exist.....	151
to abolish night work where not necessary.....	152
trade unions urged to join their respective national centers.....	152
international trade unionism.....	157
militarism is government in nearly all countries on continent of Europe.....	148
Paris women street scavengers.....	147
progressive movement among common people of European countries differs only in detail.....	156, 157
Slavonic migratory workers, controlled by Prussian syndicate—contract system.....	156 socialist movement, European—at present corresponds to movement for democracy.....	148
socialists and trade unionists, European—harmony prevails between.....	146, 148
Swedish strike secured many concessions for the membership.....	150
Vienna.....	148, 149

E

Economic demands, Resolution 124.....	354
program, A. F. of L., re-affirmed.....	354
Education between ages of six and sixteen, compulsory.....	360
Eight-hour law extension.....	30-65, 287
Election of, convention city.....	346
fraternal delegates.....	344-346
officers.....	343, 344
Electrical workers' controversy, Resolution 109.....	116-121, 162, 341, 342, 362
credentials.....	12, 15, 16
handling high voltage currents, to require compulsory examination of, Resolution 155.....	355, 356, 360

INDEX

371

Page.

Elkhart Paper Co., Elkhart, Ind., plan of co-operative ownership of paper mills, Resolution 188.....	850
Employers in A. F. of L. local unions, Resolution 41.....	205, 206, 211
Employers' liability, workmen's compensation.....	86, 87, 138-136, 162, 268, 267, 297, 298, 306
Encyclopedia Britannica produced under unfair conditions, Resolution 86.....	348
Enlisted men competing with civilian labor, to urge passage of legislation to prohibit, Resolution 81.....	260, 261
Entertainment.....	159, 190
Erdman act, to extend to apply to maintenance of way employes, Resolution 46.....	301

F

Farmers, A. F. of L. to send fraternal delegate to next annual convention of.....	129-131, 162, 192
Federal Arbitration Law, to amend to cover all railroad employes.....	301, 302
Federal Council Churches of Christ Commission, campaign for one day's rest in seven endorsed, Resolution 50.....	262
Federal Labor Unions, to promote organization of and have representative upon Executive Council, Resolution 55.....	186
Federal Labor Unions, to organize unskilled workers in, Resolution 62.....	186, 187
Federal Labor Union No. 18184, Caguas, P. R., greetings from.....	164
Felt, Israel, greetings.....	160
Firemen employed in Federal buildings, wages of, Resolutions 17 and 175.....	296, 367
Fitzgerald, Annie, fraternal delegate, address of.....	191
Flour and Cereal Mill Employes, to endeavor to organize, Resolution 81.....	197
Flour bags, label to be supplied in form of rubber stamp for use on, Resolution 82.....	212, 213
Flour sacks, to arrange for printing of label on, Resolution 181.....	214
Flour sacks, to devise more practicable label for use on, Resolution 120.....	213, 214
Fraternal delegates, addresses of.....	165-180, 181-185, 191
presentation of gifts to.....	308
to British Trades Union Congress, to increase expense allowance for, Resolution 106.....	143, 210, 211

G

Gallagher, J. J., called home.....	295
Garbage Teamsters, New York, strike of, Resolution 114.....	208, 204, 362
Gardner, Fred. W., souvenirs from.....	165
Garment Workers' District Council, New York, greetings from.....	106
Glockling, Wm., fraternal delegate, address of.....	175
Glove Workers' delegate seated.....	164
employed by Saranac Glove Company, to make effort to organize, Resolution 78.....	197
Gompers, President, Pacific Coast trip.....	67-69, 274, 275, 295
Government dredge work, for eight-hour day on, Resolution 68.....	265
employes compensation law, Resolution 1.....	268
navy yards to build battleships, Resolutions 64, 75.....	264, 265
to provide pension for retired employes, Resolution 2.....	268, 269
to provide support for widows and children deprived of means of subsistence by death or disability of husband and father, Resolution 172.....	357, 358
work on waterways and making of ordinance to be done on eight-hour basis, Resolution 80.....	266
Great Britain:
act to open up and develop resources of country.....	174
Coal Mines' Act.....	147, 175
cost of living, increase in.....	170
eight-hour day, demand for.....	168
Irish party.....	147, 174
label not agitated, use of union.....	143
Labor and Socialist parties.....	146, 147, 171, 172, 174, 175
labor press.....	143, 167
old-age pension.....	172

Great Britain—Continued.		Page.
Railway Workers' Commission .....	142, 165, 166,	170
safety devices, textile industry .....		167
school children, bill for feeding necessitous .....		173
Shops' Bill to regulate hours of assistants .....		174, 175
Shops' Club Act, to make it illegal for employers to dismiss employes for membership in unions .....		143 taxation on necessities of life, to abolish .....		172, 173
textile workers, improved conditions of .....		167-169
workmen's compensation .....	169, 170, 172

H

Harriman, Job, Los Angeles, request to support candidacy for mayoralty of, Resolution 176 .....	189, 190, 307, 308
Harriman Railroad lines strike, Resolutions 94, 180 .....	268, 349
Harris Suspender Co., New York, deceptive label used by, Resolution 5 .....	212
Haskins, I., greetings .....	106
Hatters' Case, Loewe Co. suit .....	37-39, 278, 279
Hawaiian Islands, request for organizer to work among longshoremen of, Resolution 65 .....	196, 196
Hearst, Wm. R., connection with Homestake Mining Company, Lead, South Dakota, Resolution 84 .....	197-199
Hebrew trades, New York, greetings .....	160
Hebrew trades, New York, for investigation of .....	362
Hines, Martha, representing Button Workers, Muscatine .....	185
Hodcarriers and building laborers locals to be seated in New York Building Trades Council, Resolution 24 .....	342, 343
building trades councils to unseat seceding, Resolution 117 .....	188, 326
—Cement Workers, Resolution 161 .....	331-333
Hodcarriers and Building Laborers request for extension of jurisdiction over street, sewer and tunnel laborers, Resolution 129 .....	326
Homestake Mining Company blacklist, Resolutions 84 and 110 .....	197-199, 352, 353
Huber, Wm. D., declines to serve on Building Trades Committee .....	19, 20, 162, 163

I

Industrial Workers of the World representative's protest against recognition of A. F. of L. delegate by International Secretariat .....	29, 149, 150, 158
Immigration laws to be enforced at Pacific and Northwest ports, Resolution 147 .....	306
menace of unrestricted, Resolution 11 .....	246
methods of restricting .....	66, 67, 287
Industrial accidents, to organize national society for prevention of .....	136, 162, 358
education .....	186, 187, 162, 270, 271
organization, Resolutions 15 and 107 .....	353
Initiative, referendum and recall .....	56-58, 288
Initiative and referendum vote, for adoption by A. F. of L., Resolution 97 .....	206-208
Injunction limitation—labor disputes .....	45-56, 286-291
Insurance laws and trade unions .....	64, 286
International trade unionism .....	157
International Secretariat—Budapest Congress .....	29, 30, 138, 139, 146-158, 162, 277, 358
International unions and all organizations striving to prevent occupational diseases and accidents, commending, Resolution 88 .....	266, 267

J

Judicial usurpation of the functions of the legislative branch of Government .....	49-56, 280, 289-292
Judges not to be permitted to imprison any one except after trial by jury, Resolution 47 .....	302

L

Label A. F. of L., counterfeiting of .....	131 day, union to designate a, Resolution 165 .....	215
law digest, union .....	131

Label—Continued.	Page.
leagues .....	131, 162, 205
Trades Department and label sections, to support and encourage, Resolution 89 .....	213
Trades Department report .....	26-28
uniform, commission to study feasibility of, Resolution 141 .....	214, 215
Labeled products, neglect to patronize condemned, Resolution 95 .....	206
Labels and cards, list of union .....	108
Labor Day and Labor Sunday .....	78, 275
to discontinue special matinees on, Resolution 72 .....	265, 296 group in United States Congress .....	58, 288, 289
press .....	79, 275
advertisements of unfair firms in, Resolution 67 .....	804
Labor Representation Committee's report .....	140, 162, 298, 307, 308
Labor's Memorial Day, recommending change of day for, Resolution 23 .....	269
Ladies' Garment Workers' credentials .....	11, 12, 15, 181
strike Cleveland, Resolution 70 .....	76, 277, 278, 347, 348
Laundry Workers, to assist in organizing, Resolution 169 .....	208
Laws, uniform, to protect human life .....	58, 59, 63, 64, 75, 76, 285, 286
Leather Workers on Horse Goods, Brotherhood, to assist in strengthening, Resolution 22 .....	194, 195
Legislative committees, to be provided by city centrals and state branches, Resolution 77 .....	804
Letter Carriers' National Association, effort to secure affiliation of .....	192
Literature in A. F. of L. convention, to secure permission for distribution of .....	362, 363
Locomotive boiler inspection law, Resolution 136 .....	37, 285, 355
Longshoremen—Seamen, to investigate claim that maritime law would be involved by settling controversy on President Gompers' decision, Resolution 145 .....	328, 329
Los Angeles situation .....	129, 307, 308

M

McNamara case .....	18, 48, 44, 71-75, 141, 180, 292-295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 315-318
McNamara, J. J., kidnapping of, Resolution 17 .....	296
"McNamara Defense Day," provision for .....	361, 362
Macfarland, Rev. Chas. S., fraternal delegate, address of .....	181-184
Machinists—Elevator Constructors .....	121-124, 162, 326, 327
Marble industry, to assist in organizing unorganized labor in, Resolution 151 .....	202, 203
Marine deck officers, licensed, re issuance of charter to, Resolution 118 .....	361, 362
Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association, effort to secure affiliation of .....	108, 192
Maryland and District of Columbia, request for organizer for, Resolution 37 .....	195
Maryland, District of Columbia, Virginia, North Carolina to form district and for appointment of organizer, Resolution 116 .....	201
Marx and Haas adjustment of dispute with Garment Workers .....	164
Membership, growth in .....	101, 102
Messenger for Convention, appointment of .....	13
Metal Polishers, Buffers, etc., dispute with Ansonia Clock Company, Brooklyn, N. Y., Resolution 168 .....	351
dispute with Bishop & Babcock Co., Cleveland, Resolution 158 .....	351
Metal Trades Department report .....	26, 26
Michigan, request for organizer for, Resolution 118 .....	201
Migratory labor .....	69-71, 276
to organize, Resolutions 7 and 96 .....	192, 193, 305
Mineral Water Wagon drivers .....	329-331
Workers' Union 12674 delegate .....	181
Mine Workers would withdraw from A. F. of L., denial that .....	323
Miners' safety—United States Bureau of Mines .....	60, 61, 286
Mining Department, announcement of formation of .....	323
Montana, request for organizer for, Resolution 54 .....	209
Montana State Federation, greetings .....	105
Motion picture machine operators .....	127, 128, 162, 327
Musicians—Hotel and Restaurant Employees, for co-operation between, Resolution 83 .....	320

	Page.
New Mexico's Constitution .....	138, 162, 358
Newspaper and Mail Deliverers' Union, New York—Teamsters, Resolution 40 .....	318, 319
Solicitors' Union No. 12766—San Francisco; Publishers' Association, Resolution 29 .....	309, 310
Night schools in connection with public school system, to establish .....	360

O

Occupational diseases.....	58-60, 266, 267, 286, 288
Old-age pensions, Resolutions 2, 4, and 57 .....	268, 269
One-cent letter postage, to oppose, Resolution 34 .....	299, 300
One organization, one trade.....	333, 334
Organizers .....	79, 99, 108, 161, 162, 204, 205, 275
referred to Executive Council, applications for .....	192
salary, providing for increase in, Resolution 87 .....	206

P

Painters—Car Workers.....	124
Paper, official journals and labor press to arrange contracts calling for use of union-labeled .....	350
Paper-making industry, effort to secure Congressional Committee for investigation into conditions in, Resolution 139 .....	204
Paper money, bonds and checks by hand-roller process, to protest against repeal of law providing for printing of, Resolution 36 .....	261
Pension legislation for dependent widows and children, Resolution 172 .....	357, 358
Phosphorus in manufacture of matches, to prohibit use of .....	59, 60
Resolution 170 .....	189, 306
Photo-Engravers' strike and injunction .....	128
Photograph, convention.....	142, 165
Piloting of steamboats, to enforce proper, Resolution 146 .....	270, 355
Plumbers—Steamfitters, request for a convention of steamfitters, Resolution 144 .....	339-341
Plumbers, United Association, to be the one general association in the pipe-fitting industry .....	106-112, 335-341
Political changes affecting labor .....	56-58, 288
parties on labor's demands, to secure attitude of various, Resolution 112 .....	306
Porto Rico, American citizenship for people of, Resolution 39 .....	23, 29, 276, 277, 300, 301
Porto Rico, for the welfare of the people of, Resolution 52 .....	262, 263
request that President Gompers visit, Resolution 30 .....	299
Post-office clerks, to secure legislation regulating hours of labor of, Resolution 60 .....	263, 264
Post, C. W., suit against A. F. of L. ....	45, 278
President's report (see reports).....	21-60, 274-296
Printer Roller Makers' Union, dispute with Samuel Bingham Sons' Manufacturing Company, Resolution 27 .....	347
Prudential Life Insurance Company, to make effort to organize power plant of, Resolution 159 .....	203
Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers' delegate .....	105
Pure foods, pure drugs.....	137, 188, 162, 358

Q

Quarry Workers, to assist in organizing, Resolution 160 .....	203
---	-----

R

Railroad Employees' Department report.....	26
disputes—arbitration, Resolution 61 .....	301, 302
Mechanist Helpers, Great Southern R. R., to assist organization of and permit representation in system federation, Resolution 21 .....	194
Railroad track inspection, Resolution 45 .....	64, 286, 301
transportation rates, Resolution 58 .....	263

	Page.
Railway Clerks' greetings .....	105
employees' Harriman Lines strike, Resolutions 94 and 130 .....	267, 268, 349
Freight Handlers' credentials .....	169
Reports of:
Executive Council .....	107-141
A. F. of L. News Letter .....	132, 162, 270, 271
office building .....	131, 132, 162, 298
Building Trades Department:
Carpenters—Steamfitters .....	108-112, 162, 335-341
Blue Stone Cutters—Granite Cutters—Pavers and Rammermen .....	124
Boy scout movement .....	139, 162, 358
Carpenters—Carpenters .....	116, 162, 310-315
Wood Workers .....	112-116, 162, 320-322
Carriage and Wagon Workers—Blacksmiths—Upholsterers—Painters .....	126, 127
Cigarmakers' strike, Tampa .....	128, 129
Conservation natural resources .....	139, 140, 162, 270
Counterfeiting A. F. of L. Label .....	131
Electrical Workers .....	116-121, 162, 341, 342
Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation Laws .....	139-136, 162, 297, 298
Farmers, organized .....	120-131, 162, 192
✓ Industrial accidents .....	136, 162, 358
education .....	136, 137, 162, 270, 271
International Secretariat—Budapest Congress .....	138, 139, 162, 358
Labor Representation Committee's report .....	140, 162, 298
Los Angeles situation .....	129
Machinists—Elevator Constructors .....	121-124, 162, 326, 327
Meetings .....	107
New Mexico's Constitution .....	138, 162, 358
New unions chartered—organization .....	107, 108, 162,
Organizers .....	108, 162, 204, 205
Painters—Car Workers .....	124
Photo-Engravers' strike and injunction .....	128
President's Report .....	140
Printers—Bookbinders—Single wrapping .....	127
Pure foods—pure drugs .....	137, 138, 162, 358
Sheet Metal Workers—Stove Mounters .....	126
Teamsters—Bakers .....	124, 125, 162, 319, 320
Theatrical Stage Employees—Electrical Workers—Motion Picture Machine Operators .....	127, 128, 162, 327
Transportation department .....	129, 202
Union Label Law digest .....	131
Union Label Leagues .....	131, 162, 205
Western Federation of Miners, charter granted .....	125, 126
White Rats Actors' Union—benefit performances .....	140, 162, 204, 361, 362
Fraternal delegates to—
Canada .....	144-146
Great Britain .....	142-144
International Secretariat .....	146-158
President .....	21-80, 274-296
American Federationist .....	79, 275
Anti-trust and injunction limitation bills .....	45-49, 289-291
Baldwin strike .....	76, 77, 277
Canada .....	28, 276
Child labor and Children's Bureau .....	35, 285
Civil Service Employees' rights .....	62, 288, 303
Convicts, labor of .....	63, 287, 288
Department of Labor .....	62, 289
Departments, A. F. of L. .....	24-28, 276

Reports of:

President—Continued.	Page.
Efficiency system.....	77, 78, 287
Eight-hour law extension.....	80-85, 287
Employers' liability—workmen's compensation.....	86, 87, 287
Hatters' case.....	87-89, 278, 279
Immigration.....	66, 67, 287
Injunction—Contempt—Appeal—Retrial.....	39-41, 278-284, 290, 291
Insurance laws and trade unions.....	64, 286
International Secretariat.....	29, 80, 161, 277, 358
Judicial usurpation—Wilson bill.....	49-53, 291, 292
Labor Day and Labor Sunday.....	78, 275
Labor Group in Congress.....	58, 288, 289
Labor press.....	79, 275
Ladies' Garment Workers' strike.....	76, 277, 278
Locomotive boiler inspection.....	87, 285
McNamara-Otis campaign for revenge.....	71-75, 292-295
Migratory Laborers.....	69-71, 276
Miners' safety—United States Bureau of Mines.....	60, 61, 286
Occupational diseases.....	58-60, 286
Organization and growth.....	23, 24, 161, 274
Organizers.....	79, 161, 162, 275
Pacific Coast trip.....	67-69, 274, 275, 295
Police oppression—the third degree—extradition.....	41-45, 292
Political changes affecting labor.....	56-58, 288
Porto Rico.....	23, 29, 276
Post suit against A. F. of L.....	45, 278
Railroad track inspection—loading vessels regulation.....	64, 286
Seamen's rights.....	64, 286
Second-class postal rates.....	64-66, 288
The people—the judiciary—injunctions—defense.....	53-55, 290-294
Triangle shirt-waist factory fire.....	75, 76, 286
Uniform laws to protect human life.....	63, 64, 286
Women and child labor investigation.....	85, 284, 285
Secretary.....	17, 81-108, 271, 272
Receipts.....	81
Expenses.....	81, 82
American Federationist.....	96
Benefits paid by international organizations.....	91, 92
Charters.....	86, 101
Defense fund.....	100
Headquarters.....	98
Membership.....	101, 102
National and international union reports.....	92-97
Organizing expenses.....	99
Strike statistics.....	88-90
Union labels.....	108
Voting strength.....	86, 87
Treasurer's report.....	103, 104, 189
Roberts, G. H., fraternal delegate, address of.....	169-175, 363
Robins, Mrs. Raymond, fraternal delegate, address of.....	177-180
Russia to honor all American passports, Resolution 138.....	354, 355

S

San Francisco Labor Council credential.....	12, 105
Sacramento, Cal., strike committee's greetings.....	106
Sanatorium, National Federation, Resolution 137.....	355
Sawsmiths' protest against Machinists' Union, Indianapolis, declaring Atkins Saw Company unfair, Resolution 119.....	349
"Scientific management".....	77, 78, 287

INDEX

377

	Page.
Seamen's rights, Resolution 88.....	64, 261, 285
Seamen of Great Lakes, struggle of, Resolution 59.....	196
Seamen's delegate seated.....	105
Seattle for next convention, invitations from.....	164, 259
Seceding organizations being seated on floor of convention and photographed among delegates, protest against representatives of.....	362
Second-class postal rates.....	64-66, 288
Secretary's report (see reports).....	17, 81-108, 271, 272
Sergeant-at-Arms, appointment of.....	13
Sheet Metal Workers—Stove Mounters.....	126
Sherman Anti-Trust Law as applied to labor organizations.....	37, 38, 48, 49, 291, 292
Shirt-waist factory fire catastrophe, Triangle Waist Company, to hasten trial and penalty of those responsible for, Resolution 184.....	293, 349, 350
Socialist movement, European, corresponds at present to movement for democracy.....	148
movement, Germany, requires craftsmen to be members of their trade unions....	148
party, British, allied with trade unions.....	171
party's request to assist its election campaign in Los Angeles.....	189, 190, 307, 308
Socialists and trade unionists, European, harmony prevails between.....	146, 148
Southeastern States, request for organizer for, Resolution 71.....	196
Southern Conference on Women and Child Labor, endorsement of, Resolution 73.....	296
Spanish literature for organizing work, Resolution 58.....	303, 304
State federations to receive per capita from A. F. of L., Resolution 8.....	205
Steam shovel and dredgemen, to unite in one organization, Resolution 121.....	201, 202
Stenographers and typists, unions to make active campaign to increase their membership, Resolution 20.....	194
Stereotypers and electrotypers delegate.....	274
Strike statistics.....	88-90
Sunday work.....	185

T

Tax, per capita, increase in.....	108, 162, 205
Resolution 167.....	205
Teamsters—Brewery Workers, Resolution 111.....	329-331
Texas, request for organizer for, Resolution 51.....	196
Text books to be furnished free in public schools.....	360
Thanks for courtesies and entertainment extended to delegates, Resolution 178.....	359, 363
Theatrical Stage Employees' resolution to be revised.....	141
vs. Spokane, Wash., Central Labor Council, re motion picture machine operators, Resolution 63.....	187, 188 organizations, allied, conference to outline plan of co-operation among, Resolution 93.....	190, 199, 200, 272
"Third degree," The.....	41-45, 292
Tip printers, Resolution 163.....	327
Tobacco Trust, to oppose any plan for reorganization of, Resolution 162.....	356
Tobacco Workers' label to be sought when purchasing tobacco and cigarettes, Resolution 85.....	312
Trade autonomy.....	333, 334
Transport Workers Department, Resolution 148.....	129, 202
telegrams relative to organizing a.....	164, 165, 259
Treasurer's Report.....	108, 104, 189
Triangle Waist Company fire catastrophe.....	349, 350
Typographical Union—Bookbinders, single wrapping.....	127

U

Unskilled workers, for more thorough campaign for organization of, Resolution 62.....	186, 187
Upholsterers—Window Shade Workers, Resolution 171.....	192, 323

V

Virginia State Federation and Farmers' Co-operative Union, joint greetings.....	160
---	-----

	Page.
W
War denounced.....	264, 265
Washington, D. C., Central Body, greetings.....	160
Watered stock gambling enterprises, to inaugurate campaign for legislation against, Resolution 38.....	261, 262
Wearing Apparel Trades Department, to form a, Resolution 90.....	209, 210
Western Federation of Miners, charter granted.....	125, 126
White Rats Actors, jurisdiction of, Resolution 92.....	220
protest against alleged violation of law in licensing theatrical book- ing agencies, Resolution 90.....	267
proposition relative to labor benefit performances, Resolution 42.....	140, 204, 261, 262
—Theatrical Booking Agents, Resolution 16.....	259, 260 to be consulted in matter of appeals from members for assistance, Resolution 44.....	262
to render moral support to members of, Resolution 91.....	270
Window Shade Workers' Union, San Francisco, Resolution 171.....	338
Woman Suffrage, Resolution 149.....	364
Women and Child Labor investigation.....	35, 284, 285
to request Department of Commerce and Labor to print special edition of report on, Resolution 166.....	357
Women's International Union Label League, to give vote in Convention, Resolution 28.....	205
Women's Trade Union League, Boston, greetings from.....	18, 19
"Woodmen of the World" greetings.....	16
Workmen's compensation, for amendment to Federal Constitution legalizing, Resolu- tion 143.....	3

LABOR OMNIA VINCIT

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS
OF THE
THIRTY-SECOND ANNUAL CONVENTION
OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

HELD AT ROCHESTER, NEW YORK,
NOVEMBER 11 TO 23, INCLUSIVE,

1912

THE LAW REPORTER PRINTING COMPANY
WASHINGTON, D. C.

1912

OFFICERS

OF THE

AMERICAN FEDERATION

OF LABOR

1913

---

President,
SAMUEL GOMPERS	- - - - -	Washington, D. C.
First Vice-President,
JAMES DUNCAN	- - - - -	Quincy, Mass.
Second Vice-President,
JOHN MITCHELL	- - - - -	Mount Vernon, N. Y.
Third Vice-President,
JAMES O'CONNELL	- - - - -	Washington, D. C.
Fourth Vice-President,
D. A. HAYES	- - - - -	Philadelphia, Pa.
Fifth Vice-President,
WILLIAM D. HUBER	- - - - -	Indianapolis, Ind.
Sixth Vice-President,
JOSEPH F. VALENTINE	- - - - -	Cincinnati, Ohio
Seventh Vice-President,
JOHN R. ALPINE	- - - - -	Chicago, Ill.
Eighth Vice-President,
H. B. PERHAM	- - - - -	St. Louis, Mo.
Treasurer,
JOHN B. LENNON	- - - - -	Bloomington, Ill.
Secretary,
FRANK MORRISON	- - - - -	Washington, D. C.

DELEGATES

TO THE

Thirty-Second Annual Convention

ORGANIZATIONS.	No. of Delegates	No. of votes for each Delegate	NAME AND ADDRESS OF DELEGATES.
Asbestos Workers' International Association, Heat, Frost, General Insulators, and.....	1	8	Joseph A. Mullaney, 516 McDonald st., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union.....	3	49	A. A. Myrup, 212 Bush Temple, Chicago, Ill.
		49	Henry Koch, 72 Graham ave., Paterson, N. J.
		48	Jacob Goldstone, 12 Harrison ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Barbers' International Union, Journeymen.....	4	75	Frank X. Noschang, Box 397, Albany, N. Y.
		75	Jacob Fischer, 222 E. Michigan st., Indianapolis, Ind.
		75	W. E. Klapetzky, Box 616, Los Angeles, Cal.
		74	Ed. Anderson, 176 North Union ave., Pueblo, Colo.
Bill Posters and Billers of America, International Alliance of.....	1	14	James Labralco, care of Star Theatre, Toronto, Can.
Blacksmiths, International Brotherhood of.....	3	31	James W. Kline, 1270-1285 Monon Building, Chicago, Ill.
		31	Wm. F. Kramer, 1270-1285 Monon Building, Chicago, Ill.
		31	Charles N. Glover, 6655 Paulina st., Chicago, Ill.
Boilermakers and Iron Ship Builders, Brotherhood of.....	4	42	J. A. Franklin, Room 9, Law Building, Kansas City, Kans.
		42	M. J. McGuire, 308 Fourteenth st., San Francisco, Cal.
		42	T. J. Garvey, 414 S. Bird st., Richmond, Va.
		41	George W. Pring, Valley Junction, Iowa.
Bookbinders, International Brotherhood of.....	1	85	Edward C. Strelle, 261 Herman st., Buffalo, N. Y.
		67	John F. Tobin, 246 Summer st., Boston, Mass.
		67	Charles L. Baine, 246 Summer st., Boston, Mass.
Boot and Shoe Workers' Union.....	5	67	Miss Mary Anderson, 166 W. Washington st., Room 610, Chicago, Ill.
		66	Alvin C. Howes, Middleboro, Mass.
		66	Daniel Harrington, 20 Everett st., Brockton, Mass.
		90	Joseph Proebstle, Station E, Cincinnati, Ohio.
		90	Louis Kemper, Vine st., near Hollister, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Brewery Workmen, International Union of United.....	5	90	Ed. F. Ward, 1117 Columbus ave., Boston, Mass.
		90	A. J. Kugler, Station E., Cincinnati, Ohio.
		90	John Sullivan, 25 Third ave., New York, N. Y.
Brick, Tile, and Terra Cotta Workers' Alliance, International.....	1	34	Frank Butterworth, 409-160 N. Fifth ave., Chicago, Ill.
Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, International Association of.....	3	34	Daniel J. O'Shea, Ericson Place, Niagara Falls, N. Y.
		33	Frank E. Thoman, 653 King Place, Chicago, Ill.
		33	Joseph E. McClory, 4721 Franklin ave., N. W., Cleveland, Ohio.

ORGANIZATIONS.	No. of Delegates	No. of votes for each Delegate	NAME AND ADDRESS OF DELEGATES.
Carpenters and Joiners, United Brotherhood of.....	7	275 275 275 275 275 274 274	Wm. D. Huber, Carpenters' Building, 222 E. Michigan st., Indianapolis, Ind. Frank Duffy, Carpenters' Building, 222 E. Michigan st., Indianapolis, Ind. Fred C. Wheeler, 1301 Waterloo st., Los Angeles, Cal. A. M. Swartz, 1410 Sandusky st., N. S. Pittsburgh, Pa. D. F. Featherston, Box 1374, Jacksonville, Fla. Wm. J. Kelly, Union Labor Temple, Washington and Webster aves., Pittsburgh, Pa. W. E. Hemsell, 1616 S. Main st., Wilkes-barre, Pa.
Carriage and Wagon Workers' International.....	1	27	James R. Crozier, Box 123, Station A. Boston, Mass.
Cement Workers, American Brotherhood of.....	3	30 30 30 84 84	Frank C. Gengenback, 646 W. Sixty-seventh st., Chicago, Ill. Martin Goellnitz, Second ave., Woodside, Long Island, N. Y. Frank Shilf, 363 W. Madison st., Chicago, Ill. Samuel Gompers, 801 G st. N. W., Washington, D. C. Thos. F. Tracy, 708 Ouray Building, Washington, D. C.
Cigarmakers' International Union.....	5	84 84 84 84	J. Mahlon Barnes, 232 N. Ninth st., Philadelphia, Pa. W. H. Fitzgerald, 799 Division st., Portland, Oreg. Phil. H. Mueller, 615 Chestnut st., St. Louis, Mo.
Clerks' International Protective Association, Retail.....	1	150	H. J. Conway, Lock Box 248, Lafayette, Ind.
Cloth Hat and Cap Makers, United.....	1	28	Max Zuckerman, 228 E. Seventh st., New York City.
Commercial Telegraphers' Union.....	1	10 23	Miss Mary McCauley, Lockport, N. Y. Frank A. Scoby, 2801 N. Third st., Minneapolis, Minn.
Coopers' International Union.....	2	22 3	James J. Doyle, 29 Lawn st., Roxbury, Mass. Andries Meyer, 323 Washington st., Brooklyn N. Y.
Diamond Workers' Protective Union.....	1	49 49 49 49	F. J. McNulty, Pierlk Building, Springfield, Ill. Frank B. Glynn, 32 South ave., Rochester, N. Y. J. W. Yount, Howard and Western aves., Rogers Park, Chicago, Ill. Chas. P. Ford, Pierlk Building, Springfield, Ill.
Electrical Workers, International Brotherhood of.....	4
Elevator Constructors, International Union of.....	1	23	Frank Feeney, 708 S. Fifty-second st., Philadelphia, Pa.
Engineers, International Union of Steam.....	4	45 44 44 44 38 38 38 29 29 29	Matt Comerford, Temple Bar Building, Brooklyn, N. Y. James G. Hannahan, 6303 Harvard ave., Chicago, Ill. R. G. Moser, 3795 Meade st., Denver, Colo. T. J. Dolan, Fort Dearborn Building, Chicago, Ill. Timothy Healy, 158 E. Twenty-seventh st., New York City. M. J. Friel, 156 W. Washington st., Chicago, Ill. Wm. J. Brennan, 126 Market st., Newark, N. J. T. W. Rowe, 930 Ohio Building, Toledo, Ohio. William P. Clarke, 928 Ohio Building, Toledo, Ohio. Charles F. Green, 806 Buckeye st., Toledo, Ohio.
Firemen, International Brotherhood of Stationary.....	3
Flint Glass Workers' Union, American.....	3
Foundry Employes, International Brotherhood of.....	1	5	James B. Conroy, 200 S. Broadway, St. Louis, Mo.

DELEGATES TO THE THIRTY-SECOND ANNUAL CONVENTION

v

ORGANIZATIONS.	No. of Delegates	No. of votes for each Delegate	NAME AND ADDRESS OF DELEGATES.
Freight Handlers, Brotherhood of Railroad.....	1	25 9 3	P. J. Flannery, 816-24 Harrison st., Chicago, Ill. T. A. Rickert, Room 324, 219 S. Dearborn st., Chicago, Ill. B. A. Larger, 117 Bible House, New York City.
Garment Workers of America, United....	5	93 93 92 117	Miss Margaret C. Dally, 117 Bible House, New York City. V. Altman, 11 N. Ashland ave., Buffalo, N. Y. Maler Schwarz, 21 Milk st., Cincinnati, Ohio. Abraham Rosenberg, 32 Union Square, New York City.
Garment Workers' Union, International Ladies.....	5	117 117 116 34	John A. Dyche, 32 Union Square, New York City. Aldo Cursi, 79 E. Tenth st., New York City. John F. Pierce, 7 W. Twenty-first st., New York City. Meyer Rosenberg, 2051 Wakeman st., Toledo, Ohio. D. A. Hayes, 930 Witherspoon Building, Philadelphia, Pa.
Glass Bottle Blowers' Association.....	3	33 33	Charles E. Heritage, Room 8, Merritt Building, Woodbury, N. J. Edward J. Marx, 463 Carbon st., Mt. Oliver, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Glass Workers' International Association, Amalgamated.....	1	11	David Ring, 416 W. Fifteenth st., Kansas City, Mo.
Glove Workers' Union, International....	1	11	Miss Agnes Nestor, 506 Bush Temple of Music, Chicago, Ill.
Granite Cutters, International Association of.....	3	45 45 45 29	James Duncan, Hancock Building, Quincy, Mass. James Garvey, 2 Bailey st., S. Lawrence, Mass. Alex. Archie, 508 Seventh st., Wausau, Wis. Martin Lawlor, 11 Waverly Place, New York City.
Hatters, United, of North America.....	3	28 28 42	H. C. Shalvoy, Danbury, Conn. Michael F. Green, 52 Freeman st., Orange, N. J. Dominick D'Alessandro, Drawer 597, Albany, N. Y.
Hodcarriers, Building and Common Laborers' Union, International.....	3	42 41	Joseph D'Andrea, Drawer 597, Albany, N. Y. Joseph B. Etchison, 25 Old Board of Trade Building, Indianapolis, Ind.
Horseshoers, International Union of Journeymen.....	2	26 26	Hubert S. Marshall, 908 Second National Bank Building, Cincinnati, Ohio. Roady Kenehan, 1464 Winona Court, Denver, Colo.
Hotel and Restaurant Employees' International Alliance and Bartenders' International League.....	5	96 95 95 95	Edward Flore, 469 Oak st., Buffalo, N. Y. Jere L. Sullivan, 610 Commercial Tribune Building, Cincinnati, Ohio. Thomas S. Farrell, 1120 Prospect ave., Cleveland, Ohio. George Miller, 3204 Lucas ave., St. Louis, Mo.
Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers, Amalgamated Association of.....	2	23 22	Otto Pattberg, 24 Witte st., Glendale, Long Island, N. Y. Judson O'Neal, 831 N. Third st., Terre Haute, Ind. John Williams, Room 506 House Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Lathers, International Union of Wood, Wire, and Metal.....	2	25 25	Wm. J. McSorley, 401 Superior Building, Cleveland, Ohio. John T. Taggart, 320 Highland ave., Mount Vernon, N. Y.
Laundry Workers, International Union	1	26	Charles F. Bailey, 604 Second ave., Troy, N. Y.
Leather Workers on Horse Goods, United Brotherhood of.....	1	20	W. E. Bryan, 209 Postal Building, Kansas City, Mo.
Leather Workers' Union of America, Amalgamated.....	1	6	Dennis Healey, 101 Whipple st., Lowell, Mass.

ORGANIZATIONS.	No. of Delegates	No. of votes for each Delegate	NAME AND ADDRESS OF DELEGATES.
Lithographic Pressfeeders, International Protective Association of.....	1	9	Wm. A. Coakley, 43 Centre st., New York, N. Y.
		59	Thos. V. O'Connor, Brisbane Building, Buffalo, N. Y.
Longshoremen's Association, International.....	4	59	A. J. Chiopek, 3224 Lagrange st., Toledo, Ohio.
		59	George E. Neesham, Lock Box 407, Pittsburgh, Pa.
		58	Thomas Harrison, 618 Phillip st., New Orleans, La.
		120	Wm. H. Johnston, Room 405 McGill Building, Washington, D. C.
Machinists, International Association of.....	5	120	B. F. Lamb, Howard Building, St. Louis, Mo.
		120	Thos. Van Lear, 2395 University ave., St. Paul, Minn.
		119	A. O. Wharton, Howard Building, St. Louis, Mo.
		119	P. W. Buckley, care of Room 360 Albark Block, Oakland, Cal.
Maintenance of Way Employes, International Brotherhood of.....	3	31	A. B. Lowe, 3900 Olive st., St. Louis, Mo.
		30	M. J. Powers, 3900 Olive st., St. Louis, Mo.
		30	C. C. Allen, 3900 Olive st., St. Louis, Mo.
Marble Workers, International Association of.....	1	28	Walter V. Price, 406 E. One Hundred and Forty-ninth st., New York City.
Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, Amalgamated.....	1	40	Homer D. Call, Lock Box 212, Syracuse, N. Y.
		34	T. M. Daly, 408 Neave Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Metal Polishers, Buffers, Platers and Brass Workers' International.....	3	33	George Leary, 408 Neave Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.
		33	Thomas Rumsey, 2772 Monroe st., Toledo, Ohio.
		42	M. O'Sullivan, 407 Nelson Building, Kansas City, Mo.
Metal Workers' International Alliance, Amalgamated Sheet.....	4	42	John D. Crane, 407 Nelson Building, Kansas City, Mo.
		41	John J. Hynes, 407 Nelson Building, Kansas City, Mo.
		41	Thos. Walsh, 39 S. Fifth ave., Chicago, Ill.
		382	John P. White, 1111 State Life Building, Indianapolis, Ind.
		382	John Mitchell, 3 Claremont ave., Mount Vernon, N. Y.
		382	Frank J. Hayes, 1120 State Life Building, Indianapolis, Ind.
Mine Workers of America, United.....	7	381	John H. Walker, 508 Farmers' National Bank Building, Springfield, Ill.
		381	T. L. Lewis, Bridgeport, Ohio.
		381	Duncan McDonald, 505 Farmers' National Bank Building, Springfield, Ill.
		381	William Green, Coshocton, Ohio.
		127	John C. Williams, Grass Valley, Cal.
		127	M. J. Scanlan, 605 Railroad Building, Denver, Colo.
Miners, Western Federation of.....	4	126	Edwin Young, care of B. & M. Smelter, Great Falls, Mont.
		126	Joseph D. Cannon, 238 N. Grand ave., Los Angeles, Cal.
		125	Joseph F. Valentine, Commercial Tribune Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.
Molders' Union, International.....	4	125	John P. Frey, Box 699, Cincinnati, Ohio.
		125	R. H. Curran, 107 Hobart st., Rochester, N. Y.
		125	Jack L. Lanigan, Labor Temple, Vancouver, B. C., Can.
		125	Joseph N. Weber, 1370 Broadway, Room 2, New York, N. Y.
Musicians, American Federation of.....	4	125	Owen Miller, 3535 Pine st., St. Louis, Mo.
		125	D. A. Carey, 170 Montrose ave., Toronto, Can.
		125	Joseph F. Winkler, 175 W. Washington st., Chicago, Ill.

ORGANIZATIONS.	No. of Delegates	No. of votes for each Delegate	NAME AND ADDRESS OF DELEGATES.
Painters, Decorators, and Paper-hangers, Brotherhood of.....	6	115	George F. Hedrick, Drawer 99, Lafayette, Ind.
		114	J. C. Skemp, Drawer 99, Lafayette, Ind.
		114	Jacob Tazelaar, 43 E. Twenty-second st., New York City.
		114	W. E. Rodriguez, 1058 N. Kedzie Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.
		114	Thos. Wright, 746 Coney Island ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.
		114	Emil Arnold, 5023 Strong st., Chicago, Ill.
Paper Makers, International Brotherhood of.....	1	28	J. T. Carey, 44-45-46 Benson Building, Albany, N. Y.
Pattern Makers' League of North America.....	2	30	James Wilson, Second National Bank Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.
		30	James L. Gernon, 411 Albemarle Road, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Pavers, Rammermen, Flag Layers, Bridge and Stone Curb Setters, International Union of.....	1	15	Edward I. Hannah, 223 E. Fifty-ninth st., New York, N. Y.
Paving Cutters' Union.....	1	35	John Sheret, Lock Box 27, Albion, N. Y.
Photo-Engravers' Union, International	1	40	Matthew Woll, 6111 Bishop st., Chicago, Ill.
Plate Printers' Union of America, Steel and Copper.....	1	12	William D. Clark, 220 Eighth st., S. E., Washington, D. C.
Plasterers' International Association, Operative.....	3	53	Edward J. McGivern, 1414 Bluehill ave., Boston, Mass.
		52	Peter G. Cook, 269 W. One Hundred and Fourteenth st., New York City.
		52	Joseph J. McDermott, 843 S. Harvey ave., Oak Park, Ill.
Plumbers, Gasfitters, Steamfitters, and Steamfitters' Helpers, United Association of.....	4	65	John R. Alpine, 411-16 Bush Temple of Music, Chicago, Ill.
		65	William J. Tracey, 337 W. Logan st., Philadelphia, Pa.
		65	E. W. Leonard, 411-16 Bush Temple of Music, Chicago, Ill.
		65	Patrick Murphy, 103 E. One-Hundred and Twenty-fifth st., New York City.
Post-office Clerks, National Federation of.....	1	18	Oscar F. Nelson, 219 S. Dearborn st., Room 735, Chicago, Ill.
Potters, National Brotherhood of Operative.....	2	33	Edward Menge, Box 6, East Liverpool, Ohio.
		32	E. J. Whitehead, Box 770, Trenton, N. J.
Printing Pressmen's Union, International.....	4	48	George L. Berry, Rogersville, Tenn.
		48	W. G. Halpine, 551 Hayward ave., Rochester, N. Y.
		47	L. Hart, 17 Saxton st., Rochester, N. Y.
		47	Harry Wilson, 369 Exchange st., Rochester, N. Y.
Pulp, Sulphite, and Paper Mill Workers, International Brotherhood of.....	1	35	John H. Malin, P. O. Drawer K, Fort Edward, N. Y.
Quarry Workers' International Union	2	20	Fred W. Sultor, Scampini Building, Barre, Vt.
		20	P. J. Dacey, Milford, Mass.
		63	H. B. Perham, Star Building, St. Louis, Mo.
		63	W. T. Brown, Star Building, St. Louis, Mo.
		62	J. F. Miller, 2916 Huntington ave., Baltimore, Md.
Railroad Telegraphers, Order of.....	4	62	T. J. Gallagher, 4 Longwood ave., New York City, N. Y.
		72	Martin F. Ryan, 503 Hall Building, Kansas City, Mo.
		72	Edwin W. Weeks, 507 Hall Building, Kansas City, Mo.
		72	Wm. J. Adames, 505 Hall Building, Kansas City, Mo.
Railway Carmen, Brotherhood of.....	4	71	Frank Paquin, 638 1/2 E. Sixty-sixth st., Chicago, Ill.

ORGANIZATIONS.	No. of Delegates	No. of votes for each Delegate	NAME AND ADDRESS OF DELEGATES.
Railway Employees, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric.....	1	402	Ben. Commons, 1011 Poland st., New Orleans, La.
		54	A. Furuseth, 44-46 East st., San Francisco, Cal.
Seamen's Union, International.....	3	53	T. A. Hanson, 570 W. Lake st., Chicago, Ill.
		53	I. N. Hylen, 93 Steuart st., San Francisco, Cal.
Shingle Weavers' Union of America, International.....	1	15	J. G. Brown, 306 Maynard Building, Seattle, Wash.
Slate and Tile Roofers' Union of America, International.....	1	5	George M. Huddleston, 601 Fourth st. N. W., Washington, D. C.
Stage Employees' International Alliance, Theatrical.....	3	37	Charles C. Shay, Room 1511, 1547 Broadway, New York City, N. Y.
		37	John Suarez, 16 S. Sixth st., St. Louis, Mo.
		36	James Lemke, care of 34 Canal ave., Troy, N. Y.
Stereotypers and Electrotypers' Union of North America, International.....	2	22	James J. Freel, 1839 Eighty-fifth st., Brooklyn, N. Y.
		21	Charles A. Sumner, 403 Scanett Arcade, Kansas City, Mo.
Stone Cutters' Association of North America, Journeymen.....	3	30	James A. Short, Ouray Building, Washington, D. C.
		30	Octave Jette, 628 Garnier st., Montreal, Que., Canada.
		29	William McKay, Box 507, Victoria, B. C., Canada.
Stove Mounters' International Union.....	1	11	Frank Grimsshaw, 1210 Jefferson st., East, Detroit, Mich.
Switchmen's Union of North America.....	3	29	S. E. Heberling, 326 Brisbane Building, Buffalo, N. Y.
		29	M. R. Welch, 326 Brisbane Building, Buffalo, N. Y.
		29	J. B. Connors, 707 E. Fortieth st., Chicago, Ill.
Tailors' Union, Journeymen.....	3	40	E. J. Brals, Box 597, Bloomington, Ill.
		40	D. G. Biggs, Box 597, Bloomington, Ill.
		40	Hugh Robinson, 3 Kent st., Hamilton, Ont. Can.
Teamsters, International Brotherhood of.....	5	83	Daniel J. Tobin, 222 E. Michigan st., Indianapolis, Ind.
		83	Thomas L. Hughes, 222 E. Michigan st., Indianapolis, Ind.
		83	Wm. A. Neer, 175 Washington st., Room 301, Chicago, Ill.
		83	John M. Gillespie, Suite 35, 455 Columbus ave., Boston, Mass.
		83	J. J. Morris, 200 Guerrero st., care of Walter Duryea, San Francisco, Cal.
Textile Workers of America, United.....	2	55	John Golden, Box 742, Fall River, Mass.
		54	James Starr, Box 1168, Paterson, N. J.
Tile Layers and Helpers' International Union, Ceramic, Mosaic and Encaustic.....	1	24	Thomas J. Williams, Labor Temple, Pittsburgh, Pa.
Tip Printers, International Brotherhood of.....	1	2	Thomas J. Carolan, 6 Plum st., Newark, N. J.
Tobacco Workers' International Union.....	1	37	E. Lewis Evans, Rooms 50 and 51 American National Bank Building, Louisville, Ky.
Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers' International Union of America.....	1	8	Edw. E. Shilling, 522 S. Halsted st., Chicago, Ill.
Tunnel and Subway Constructors' International Union.....	1	18	Thomas J. Curtis, 178 E. Seventy-eighth st., New York City.

ORGANIZATIONS.	No. of Delegates	No. of votes for each Delegate	NAME AND ADDRESS OF DELEGATES.
Typographical Union, International.....	5	110	James M. Lynch, 650 Newton Claypool Building, Indianapolis, Ind.
		110	Frank Morrison, Ouray Building, Washington, D. C.
		109	Hugh Stevenson, 176 McPherson ave., Toronto, Ont., Can.
		109	Max S. Hayes, 979 Parkwood Drive, Cleveland, Ohio.
		109	T. W. McCullough, 2028 Maple st., Omaha, Nebr.
Upholsterers' International Union.....	1	28	John Hanley, 159 E. Fifty-seventh st., New York City.
White Rats Actors' Union of America.....	3	37	William J. Cooke, 227-231 W. Forty-sixth st., New York City.
		37	Abner All, 28 N. Fifth ave., Chicago, Ill.
		36	Joe Birnes, 1553 Broadway, New York City.
Arkansas State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Fred W. Holt, McAlester, Okla.
California State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Andrew J. Gallagher, 316 Fourteenth st. San Francisco, Cal.
Colorado State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Charles Moyer, 605 Railroad Building, Denver, Colo.
Connecticut State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Jeremiah A. Keane, 40 Sheridan st., Danbury, Conn.
Florida State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Jackson W. Holder, 17 East Beaver st., Jacksonville, Fla.
Georgia State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	R. L. Corley, 112 Trinity ave., Atlanta, Ga.
Illinois State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Stephen Sumner, 6644 Bishop st., Chicago, Ill.
Indiana State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	William J. Pfeiffer, 210½ N. Delaware st., Indianapolis, Ind.
Iowa State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	J. J. O'Brien, 202 W. Fifth st., Muscatine, Iowa.
Kansas State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	W. B. Shaughnessey, 820 Delaware st., Leavenworth, Kans.
Maine State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Henry M. Donnelly, 58½ Arsenal st., Augusta, Me.
Maryland State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	P. J. Ryan, 212 F st. N. W., Washington, D. C.
Massachusetts State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Emmet T. Walls, 53 Elm ave., Brockton, Mass.
Michigan State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Joseph Smith, 623 Birney st., Bay City, Mich.
Minnesota State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	W. F. McGrath, 20 N. Twelfth st., Minneapolis, Minn.
Missouri State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	E. T. Behrens, 315 S. Lamine st., Sedalia, Mo.
Montana State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	M. M. Donoghue, 1115 W. Park st., Butte, Mont.
Nebraska State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	C. L. Shamp, Rooms 2-4, 2502 N. Eighteenth st., Omaha, Nebr.
New Jersey State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Henry J. Vanderveld, 121 Paterson ave., Paterson, N. J.
New York State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Henry Prinz, 311 Church st., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Ohio State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	James P. Egan, 119 Twentieth st., Toledo, Ohio
Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	William Young, Jr., 131 N. Fifteenth st., Philadelphia, Pa.
Rhode Island State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	O. L. Preble, 98 Weybosset st., Room 19, Providence, R. I.
Tennessee State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Clarence E. Swick, Memphis, Tenn.
Texas State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	William L. Hoefgen, P. O. Box 1113, San Antonio, Texas.
Virginia State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	James J. Creamer, 619 China st., Richmond, Va.
Washington State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	W. J. Coates, 311 Sprague ave., Spokane, Wash.

ORGANIZATIONS.	No. of Delegates	No. of votes for each Delegate	NAME AND ADDRESS OF DELEGATES
West Virginia State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	H. P. Corcoran, 1577 Washington st., Charles ton, W. Va.
Wisconsin State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	F. C. Brockhausen, 553 Orchard st., Milwaukee, Wis.
Wyoming State Federation of Labor.....	1	1	James Scrivner, 805 Emerson st., Sheridan Wyo.
Albany (N. Y.) Central Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Thomas D. Fitzgerald, 210 Jay st., Albany N. Y.
Atlanta (Ga.) Federation of Trades.....	1	1	O. A. Cone, 13 Howard st., Kirkwood Atlanta, Ga.
Baltimore (Md.) Federation of Labor.....	1	1	James H. Sullivan, 502 E. Fayette st., Baltimore, Md.
Belmont County (Ohio) Central Trades and Labor Assembly.....	1	1	E. E. Tharp, 3026 Belmont st., Bellaire, Ohio
Birmingham (Ala.) Trades Council.....	1	1	R. H. White, Box 180, Birmingham, Ala.
Bloomington (Ill.) Trades and Labor Assembly.....	1	1	John B. Lennon, Bloomington, Ill.
Boston (Mass.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	Frank H. McCarthy, 97 Union Park st., Boston, Mass.
Brockton (Mass.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	James H. Collins, 757 Center st., Brockton, Mass.
Brooklyn (N. Y.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	John P. Coughlin, 135 Adelphi st., Brooklyn N. Y.
Chicago (Ill.) Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Joseph Morton, 1748 North Whipple st., Chicago, Ill.
Cincinnati (Ohio) Central Labor Council.....	1	1	Walter Mullen, 856 Hathaway st., Cincinnati, Ohio.
Cleveland (Ohio) Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Frank Smith, 310 Prospect ave., southeast Cleveland, Ohio.
Cohoes (N. Y.) Central Federation of Labor.....	1	1	J. P. McGinley, 263 Elm st., Albany, N. Y.
Denver (Colo.) Trades and Labor Assembly.....	1	1	Harvey Garman, 721 Ernest & Cranmer Building, Denver, Colo.
Dunkirk (N. Y.) United Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	James G. Sause, 317 Lion st., Dunkirk, N. Y.
Evansville (Ind.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	John J. Keegan, 2333 Central ave., Indianapolis, Ind.
Geneva (N. Y.) Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Michael F. Tracy, 135 W. North st., Geneva N. Y.
Granite City (Ill.) Tri-City Central Trades Council (Granite City, Madison, Venice, Ill.).....	1	1	T. M. Cavanaugh, 2121a E st., Granite City Ill.
Hamilton (Ont., Can.) District Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	S. L. Landers, 39 Charles st., Hamilton Ont., Can.
Hartford (Conn.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	Sol. Sontheimer, 40 Charter Oak place, Hartford, Conn.
Huntington (W. Va.) Trades and Labor Assembly.....	1	1	George W. Gillispee, 1836 Sixth ave., Huntington, W. Va.
Indianapolis (Ind.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	Chas. A. Hays, 3534 N. Illinois st., Indianapolis, Ind.
Jacksonville (Fla.) Central Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	J. C. Privett, 301 E. Tenth st., Jacksonville Fla.
Jamestown (N. Y.) Central Labor Council.....	1	1	J. M. Kane, Falconer, N. Y.
Kansas City (Mo.) Industrial Council.....	1	1	John T. Smith, Labor Temple, 1402 Woodland ave., Kansas City, Mo.
Kensington (Ill.) Calumet Joint Labor Council.....	1	1	Herman C. Diehl, 11518 Princeton ave., Chicago, Ill.
Lincoln (Nebr.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	Clarence R. Elyea, 522 N. Fourteenth st., Lincoln, Nebr.
Logansport (Ind.) Trades Assembly.....	1	1	Edwin S. Burns, 408 1-3 Market st., Logansport, Ind.
Los Angeles (Cal.) Central Labor Council.....	1	1	L. W. Butler, Room 202, Labor Temple, Los Angeles, Cal.

ORGANIZATIONS.	No. of Delegates	No. of votes for each Delegate	NAME AND ADDRESS OF DELEGATES.
Cincinnati (Ky.) United Trades and Labor Assembly.....	1	1	Peter Campbell, 813 S. Hancock st., Louisville, Ky.
Meriden (Conn.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	Geo. W. Chance, P. O. Box 341, Meriden, Conn.
Milwaukee (Wis.) Federated Trades Council.....	1	1	Frank J. Weber, 1223 Locust st., Milwaukee, Wis.
Mobile (Ala.) Central Trades Council	1	1	P. J. Doherty, Mobile, Ala.
Nashville (Tenn.) Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	C. P. Fahey, 703 Main st., Nashville, Tenn.
Newark (N. J.) Essex Trades Council.....	1	1	Morris R. Welch, 30 N. Third st., Newark, N. J.
New York (N. Y.) Central Federated Union of Greater New York and Vicinity.....	1	1	James P. Holland, 158 E. Twenty-seventh st., New York City.
Niagara Falls (N. Y.) Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	Joseph P. Hunter, Niagara Falls, N. Y.
Olean (N. Y.) Central Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	Elmer E. Evans, Olean, N. Y.
Omaha (Nebr.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	George E. Norman, 1817 Chicago st., Omaha, Nebr.
Ottawa (Can.) Allied Trades (and Labor Association).....	1	1	P. M. Draper, Drawer 515, Ottawa Can.
Philadelphia (Pa.) Central Labor Union, of, and vicinity.....	1	1	Frank O. Bryan, 735 Sloan st., Philadelphia, Pa.
Pittsburgh (Pa.) Iron City Central Trades Council.....	1	1	R. J. McGrath, 426 Diamond st., Pittsburgh, Pa.
Poughkeepsie (N. Y.) Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	James C. Brower, 23 Washington st., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.
Richmond Borough (N. Y.) Central Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	William J. Bonner, 41 Whittaker place, Rosebank P. O. Staten Island, N. Y.
Richmond (Va.) Central Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	John Hirschberg, 209 N. Twenty-fifth st., Richmond, Va.
Rochester (N. Y.) Central Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	Emanuel Koveleski, 19 Windsor st., Rochester, N. Y.
Sacramento (Cal.) Federated Trades Council.....	1	1	W. P. Hannon, 1005 Fourth st., Sacramento, Cal.
St. Louis (Mo.) Central Trades and Labor Union of, and vicinity.....	1	1	Louis P. Philippi, 1930 Sidney st., St. Louis, Mo.
St. Paul (Minn.) Trades and Labor Assembly.....	1	1	Charles E. James, 309 Wabasha st., St. Paul, Minn.
St. Thomas (Ont., Can.) Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	William Stokes, 69 Flora st., St. Thomas, Ont., Can.
Salem (Mass.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	Silas N. Lapham, 8 Central st., Salem, Mass.
San Francisco (Cal.) Labor Council.....	1	1	Paul Scharrenborg, 316 Fourteenth st., San Francisco, Cal.
Savannah (Ga.) Trades and Labor Assembly.....	1	1	J. J. Keane, 549 Park ave., east, Savannah, Ga.
Schenectady (N. Y.) Trades Assembly.....	1	1	John J. Henley, 215 Park place, Schenectady, N. Y.
Sharon (Pa.) United Labor League of, and vicinity.....	1	1	David Niven, 12 Porter st., Sharon, Pa.
South Chicago (Ill.) Trades and Labor Assembly.....	1	1	James C. Fello, 9508 Commercial ave., South Chicago, Ill.
Springfield (Ill.) Federation of Labor.....	1	1	James F. Morris, 304 Pierik Building Springfield, Ill.
Syracuse (N. Y.) Central Trades and Labor Assembly.....	1	1	Edward Vincent Wood, 305 S. Warren st., Syracuse, N. Y.

ORGANIZATIONS.	No. of Delegates	No. of votes for each Delegate	NAME AND ADDRESS OF DELEGATES.
Toronto (Ont., Can.) District Labor Council.....	1	1	James Simpson, 54 High Park Boulevard Toronto, Ont., Can.
Troy (N. Y.) Federation of Labor.....	1	1	Thomas J. Purcell, 73 Albany ave., Green Island, N. Y.
Utica (N. Y.) Trades and Labor Assembly.....	1	1	Edward A. Bates, 256 South st., Utica, N. Y.
Waco (Tex.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	John R. Spencer, 209 1-2 S. Fifth st., Waco, Tex.
Washington (D. C.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	Milton Snellings, 919 E st. S. W., Washington, D. C.
Watertown (N. Y.) Central Trades and Labor Union.....	1	1	Stephen English, 508 Cooper st., Watertown, N. Y.
Wilkes-Barre (Pa.) Central Labor Union.....	1	1	J. J. Youhon, 17 1-2 Regent st., Lee Park, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.
Yonkers (N. Y.) Federation of Labor.....	1	1	H. Wildberger, Jr., 48 W. Grand st., Mt. Vernon, N. Y.
Zanesville (Ohio) Central Trades and Labor Council.....	1	1	John A. Voll, 134 Hamline ave., Zanesville, Ohio.
Badge, Banner, Regalia, Button, and Novelty Workers' Union No. 14065..	1	1	Alice O'Rourke, 612 Kosciusko st., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Badge, Banner, Regalia, Button, and Novelty Workers' Union No. 14297..	1	1	Miss Kathryn M. Duffy, 395 Exchange st., Rochester, N. Y.
Bookkeepers, Stenographers, and Accountants' Union No. 12646.....	1	1	Miss Elizabeth C. Morris, 3 Claremont ave., Mount Vernon, N. Y.
Commercial Portrait Artists' Union No. 14286.....	1	1	Charles V. Lawler, 21 N. Forty-first ave., Chicago, Ill.
Egg Inspectors' Union, No. 8705.....	1	2	Edward Lampa, 631 Montecello ave., Chicago, Ill.
Elevator Conductors and Starters' Union, No. 11959.....	1	3	J. J. McAndrews, 175 W. Washington st., Chicago, Ill.
Elevator Operators' Union, No. 14214.....	1	1	John J. Cunningham, 10 Haverford st., Jamaica Plains, Mass.
Federal Labor Union, No. 12362.....	1	1	Charles Woodhouse, 16 School st., Galeson, Pa.
Fish Splitters and Handlers' Union, No. 14270.....	1	2	John Sinclair, 6 Cross st., Gloucester, Mass.
Grain Workers' Association, No. 11407.....	1	1	Ernest Bohm, 210 E. Fifth st., New York City.
Laborers' Protective Union, No. 8079.....	1	6	George Waldron, Mineville, Essex County, N. Y.
Mineral Water Workers Union, No. 12674.....	1	1	Samuel Lebowitz, 151 Clinton st., New York City.
Newsboys' Union, No. 9077.....	1	2	Thomas J. Mulkern, 16 S. Russell st., Boston, Mass.
Newspaper and Mail Deliverers' Union, No. 9463.....	1	10	John R. Dunne, Room 912, New York World Building, New York City.
Railroad Helpers and Laborers' Union, No. 14075.....	1	1	J. E. Johnson, Princeton, W. Va.
Riggers' Protective Union, No. 11561.....	1	2	I. Beckman, 63 Sand st., Brooklyn, N. Y.
Sugar Refinery Employees' Union, No. 13053.....	1	4	Manny Weiss, Box 127, Yonkers, N. Y.
Theatrical Tailors' and Dressers' Union, No. 12719.....	1	1	Louis Gold, New York City.
British Trades Union Congress.....	2	1	J. A. Seddon, Laurel Dene, St. Helens, Lancashire, England.
Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.....	1	1	R. Smillie, Miller st., Larkhall, Scotland.
National Women's Trade Union League.....	1	1	John W. Bruce, 669 Carlaw ave., Toronto, Ont., Can.
			Mrs. Raymond Robins, 1437 W. Ohio st., Chicago, Ill.

ORGANIZATIONS.	No. of Delegates	No. of votes for each Delegate	NAME AND ADDRESS OF DELEGATES.
Women's International Union Label League.....	1	{	Anna B. Field, Harting Block, Elwood, Ind.
Federal Council of the Churches of Christ.....	2		Rev. Charles S. Macfarland, 1611 Clarendon Building, 215 Fourth ave., New York, N. Y.
American Federation of Catholic Societies.....	1		Rev. Henry A. Atkinson, 19 S. La Salle st., Chicago, Ill.
Church Association for Advancement of Labor.....	1		Rev. Peter Dietz, 503 Murray ave., Milwaukee, Wis.
			Rev. James Bishop Thomas, St. Andrew's Church, Averill ave. and Ashland st., New York City.

Number of Unions.	NAMES.	Number of Delegates.	Number of Votes.
90	National and International.....	231	17,202
30	State.....	30	30
67	Central.....	67	67
18	Trade and Federal Labor Unions.....	18	41
7	Fraternal Organizations.....	9	3
212		355	17,343

List of Fraternal Delegates.

To British Trades Union Congress.

1895	Samuel Gompers.
	P. J. McGuire.
1896	J. W. Sullivan.
	Adolph Strasser.
1897	Martin Fox.
	Geo. E. McNeill.
1898	James Duncan.
	Harry Lloyd.
1899	James O'Connell.
	Thomas F. Tracy.
1900	J. M. Hunter.
	Sidney J. Kent.
1901	Daniel J. Keefe.
	Eugene F. O'Rourke.
1902	Patrick Dolan.
	Henry Blackmore.
1903	Max S. Hayes.
	Martin Lawlor.
1904	W. D. Ryan.
	D. D. Driscoll.
1905	John A. Moffitt.
	James Wood.
1906	Frank K. Foster.
	James Wilson.
1907	John T. Dempsey.
	W. E. Klapetzky.
1908	Andrew Furuseth.
	James J. Creamer.
1909	John P. Frey.
	B. A. Larger.
1910	W. B. Wilson.
	T. V. O'Connor.
1911	Wm. B. Macfarlane.
	Daniel J. Tobin.
1912	George L. Berry.
	John H. Walker.
1913	Chas. L. Balne.
	Louis Kemper.

To Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.

1898	Thomas I. Kidd.
1899	James H. Sullivan.
1900	W. D. Mahon.
1901	John R. O'Brien.
1902	D. D. Driscoll.
1903	John Coleman.
1904	John H. Richards.
1905	Frank Feeney.
1906	Thomas A. Rickert.
1907	Robert S. Maloney.
1908	Hugh Frayne.
1909	Jerome Jones.
1910	John J. Manning.
1911	Wm. J. Tracy.
1912	John T. Smith.
1913	Wm. J. McSorley.

From British Trades Union Congress.

1894	John Burns.
	David Holmes.
1895	Edward Cowey.
	James Mawdsley.
1896	Sam Woods.
	John Mallinson.
1897	Edward Harford.
	J. Havelock Wilson.
1898	William Inskip.
	William Thorne.
1899	James Haslam.
	Alexander Wilkie.
1900	John Weir.
	Pete Curran.
1901	Frank Chandler.
	Ben Tillett.
1902	M. Arrandale.
	E. Edwards.
1903	William Mullin.
	James O'Grady.
1904	William Abraham.
	James Wignall.
1905	William Mosses.
	David Gilmour.
1906	Allen Gee.
	J. N. Bell.
1907	David J. Shackleton.
	John Hodge.
1908	John Wadsworth.
	H. Skinner.
1909	A. H. Gill.
	J. R. Clynes.
1910	W. Brace.
	Ben Turner.
1911	G. H. Roberts.
	J. Crinlon.
1912	J. A. Seddon.
	R. Smillie.

From Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.

1898	David A. Carey.
1899	David A. Carey.
1900	David A. Carey.
1901	P. M. Draper.
1902	John H. Kennedy.
1903	James Simpson.
1904	John A. Flett.
1905	William V. Todd.
1906	Samuel L. Landers.
1907	W. R. Trotter.
1908	P. M. Draper.
1909	F. Bancroft.
1910	R. P. Pettipiece.
1911	Wm. Glocking.
1912	John W. Bruce.

CONSTITUTION

OF THE

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

1913

PREAMBLE.

WHEREAS, A struggle is going on in all the nations of the civilized world between the oppressors and the oppressed of all countries, a struggle between the capitalist and the laborer, which grows in intensity from year to year, and will work disastrous results to the tolling millions if they are not combined for mutual protection and benefit.

It, therefore, behooves the representatives of the Trade and Labor Unions of America, in Convention assembled, to adopt such measures and disseminate such principles among the mechanics and laborers of our country as will permanently unite them to secure the recognition of rights to which they are justly entitled.

We, therefore, declare ourselves in favor of the formation of a thorough Federation, embracing every Trade and Labor Organization in America, organized under the Trade Union system.

CONSTITUTION.

ARTICLE I.—NAME.

This Association shall be known as THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR, and shall consist of such Trade and Labor Unions as shall conform to its rules and regulations.

ARTICLE II.—OBJECTS.

SECTION 1. The object of this Federation shall be the encouragement and formation of local Trade and Labor Unions, and the closer federation of such societies through the organization of Central Trade and Labor Unions in every city, and the further combination of such bodies into State, Territorial, or Provincial organizations to secure legislation in the interest of the working masses.

SEC. 2. The establishment of National and International Trade Unions, based upon a strict recognition of the autonomy of each trade, and the promotion and advancement of such bodies.

SEC. 3. The establishment of Departments composed of National or International Unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, of the same industry, and which Departments shall be governed in conformity with the laws of the American Federation of Labor.

SEC. 4. An American Federation of all National and International Trade Unions, to aid and assist each other; to aid and encourage the sale of union label goods, and to secure legislation in the interest of the working people, and influence public opinion, by peaceful and legal methods, in favor of organized labor.

SEC. 5. To aid and encourage the labor press of America.

ARTICLE III.—CONVENTION.

SECTION 1. The Convention of the Federation shall meet annually at 10 a. m., on the second Monday in November, at such place as the delegates have selected at the preceding Convention.

SEC. 2. At the opening of the Convention the President shall take the chair and call the Convention to order, and preside during its sessions.

SEC. 3. The following committees, consisting of fifteen members each, shall be appointed by the President: First, Rules and Order of Business; second, Report of Executive Council; third, Resolutions; fourth, Laws; fifth, Organization; sixth, Labels; seventh, Adjustment; eighth, Local or Federated Bodies; ninth, Education; tenth, State Organizations; eleventh, Boycotts; twelfth, Building Trades (to which shall be referred all grievances and other matters pertaining exclusively to the building trades).

SEC. 4. The President shall direct the chief executive officers of three National or International Unions, at least ten days previous to the holding of the Annual Convention, to appoint one delegate each from their respective delegations-elect, who shall compose an Auditing Committee. The committee shall meet at such place as the President of the American Federation of Labor may direct, and at such time prior to the Convention as the President may determine is necessary for the proper performance of their duty; and they shall audit the accounts of the Federation for the preceding twelve months, and report upon credentials immediately upon the opening of the Convention. The expense of said committee shall be paid out of the funds of the Federation.

SEC. 5. Resolutions of any character or propositions for changes in this Constitution can not be introduced in the Convention after the fourth day's session, except by unanimous consent.

SEC. 6. The Convention shall have power to order an executive session at any time.

SEC. 7. None other than members of a bona fide Trade Union shall be permitted to address the Convention or read papers therein, except by a two-thirds vote of the Convention.

SEC. 8. Party politics, whether they be Democratic, Republican, Socialistic, Populist, Prohibition, or any other, shall have no place in the Conventions of the American Federation of Labor.

SEC. 9. The rules and order of business governing the preceding Convention shall be in force from the opening of any Convention of the American Federation of Labor until new rules have been adopted by action of the Convention.

SEC. 10. A quorum for the transaction of business shall consist of not less than one-fourth of the delegates attending a Convention.

SEC. 11. No grievance shall be considered by any Convention that has been decided by a previous Convention, except upon the recommendation of the Executive Council, nor shall any grievance be considered where the parties thereto have not previously held a conference and attempted to adjust the same themselves.

ARTICLE IV.—REPRESENTATION.

SECTION 1. The basis of representation in the Convention shall be: From National and International Unions, for less than four thousand members, one delegate; four thousand or more, two delegates; eight thousand or more, three delegates; sixteen thousand or more, four delegates; thirty-two thousand or more, five delegates, and so on. From Central Bodies, State Federations, Federal Labor Unions, and Local Unions having no National or International Union, one delegate; provided, however, that Local Unions and Federal Labor Unions herein referred to, located in one city, shall have the right to unite in sending a delegate to represent them unitedly. Only bona fide wage workers who are not members of, or eligible to membership in, other Trade Unions, shall be eligible as delegates from Federal Labor Unions.

SEC. 2. The delegates shall be elected at least two weeks previous to the Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, and the names of such delegates shall be forwarded to the Secretary of this body immediately after their election.

SEC. 3. Questions may be decided by division or a show of hands, but if a call of the roll is demanded by one-tenth of the delegates present each delegate shall cast one vote for every one hundred members or major fraction thereof he represents, but no City or State Federation shall be allowed more than one vote.

SEC. 4. The Secretary shall prepare for use of the Convention printed poll lists, containing the number of votes the delegates from National and International Unions are entitled to, based upon the average membership during the year, from reports made to the office of the Federation not later than September 30 preceding the Annual Convention.

SEC. 5. No organization or person that has seceded, or has been suspended, or expelled, by the American Federation of Labor, or by any National or International organization connected with the Federation, shall, while under such penalty, be allowed representation or recognition in this Federation, or in any Central Body or National or International Union connected with the American Federation of Labor, under the penalty of the suspension of the body violating this section.

SEC. 6. No organization shall be entitled to representation unless such organization has applied for and obtained a certificate of affiliation at least one month prior to the Convention, and no person shall be recognized as a delegate who is not a member in good standing of the organization he is elected to represent.

ARTICLE V.—OFFICERS.

SECTION 1. The officers of the Federation shall consist of a President, eight Vice Presidents, a Secretary, and a Treasurer, to be elected by the Convention on the last day of the session, and these officers shall be the Executive Council.

SEC. 2. The President and Secretary shall be members of the succeeding Convention in case they are not delegates, but without vote.

SEC. 3. All elective officers shall be members of a local organization connected with the American Federation of Labor.

SEC. 4. The terms of the officers of the American Federation of Labor shall expire on the first day of January succeeding the Convention.

SEC. 5. The President and Secretary shall engage suitable offices in the same building at Washington, D. C., for the transaction of the business of the organization.

SEC. 6. All books and financial accounts shall at all times be open to the inspection of the President and Executive Council.

ARTICLE VI.—DUTIES OF PRESIDENT.

SECTION 1. It shall be the duty of the President to preside at the Annual Convention; to exercise supervision of the Federation throughout its jurisdiction; to sign all official documents, and to travel, with the consent of the Executive Council, whenever required, in the interest of the Federation.

SEC. 2. The President shall submit to the Secretary, at the end of each month, an itemized account of all moneys, traveling and incidental, expended by him in the interest of the Federation; and shall report to the Annual Convention of the Federation, through the report of the Executive Council.

SEC. 3. The President, if not a delegate, shall have the casting vote in case of a tie, but shall not vote at other times. He shall be required to devote all his time to the interest of the Federation.

SEC. 4. The President shall call meetings of the Executive Council, when necessary, and shall preside over their deliberations, and shall receive for his services such sum as the Annual Convention may determine, payable weekly.

SEC. 5. In case of a vacancy in the office of President by death, resignation, or other cause, the Secretary shall perform the duties of the President until his successor is elected. In that event it shall be the duty of the Secretary to issue, within six days from the date of vacancy, a call for a meeting of the Executive Council at headquarters for the purpose of electing a President to fill said vacancy.

ARTICLE VII.—DUTIES OF SECRETARY.

SECTION 1. The duties of the Secretary shall be to take charge of all books, papers, and effects of the general office; to conduct the correspondence pertaining to his office; to furnish the elective officers with the necessary stationery; to convene and act as Secretary at the Annual Convention, and to furnish the Committee on Credentials at the Convention a statement of the financial standing of each affiliated body; to forward on March 1st and September 1st of each year to the secretaries of all affiliated organizations a list of the names and addresses of secretaries and organizers.

SEC. 2. The Secretary shall keep all letters, documents, accounts, etc., in such manner as the Annual Convention may direct; he shall receive and collect all moneys due the Federation and pay them to the Treasurer, taking his receipt therefor; provided, that he may retain in his hands a sum not exceeding $2,000 for current expenses, which money shall be paid out only on the approval of the President.

SEC. 3. The Secretary shall submit to the Auditing Committee, for their inspection, vouchers for all moneys expended; close all accounts of the Federation on September 30 of each year, and all moneys received or disbursed after such date shall not be reported in the general balance account of the ensuing Convention. He shall publish a financial report monthly in the "American Federationist," and send one copy to each affiliated body, and such additional number of copies as may be ordered and paid for by any organization connected with the Federation.

SEC. 4. The Secretary shall give a bond of $2,000 for the faithful performance of his duties, and shall report to the Annual Convention of the Federation through the report of the Executive Council, and for his services he shall receive such sum as the Annual Convention may determine, payable weekly.

SEC. 5. The Secretary shall issue stamps to Local and Federal Labor Unions, which shall be used by such unions with which to receipt for members' dues.

SEC. 6. It shall be the duty of each International, National, Local Trade and Federal Labor Union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to furnish to the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor a copy of all official reports issued by such affiliated organizations, containing a statement of their membership in good standing, and to furnish such additional statistical data as may be called for by the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor as may be in the possession of the respective unions.

ARTICLE VIII.—DUTIES OF TREASURER.

SECTION 1. The Treasurer shall receive and take charge of all moneys, property, and securities of the Federation delivered to him by the Secretary or other officers of the American Federation of Labor. All funds of the American Federation of Labor exceeding fifteen thousand dollars shall be deposited by the Treasurer in bank, or banks, on interest-bearing certificates of deposit in the name of the American Federation of Labor, and in order to be cashed shall require the signatures of the Treasurer, the President, and Secretary of the Federation. The Treasurer shall collect the interest on all such certificates or other deposit at the expiration of each six months and pay the same over to the Secretary. The Treasurer shall deposit in open account in bank, or banks, in the name of the American Federation of Labor as Treasurer, all amounts in his possession not on certificates of deposit, and before any money thus deposited can be drawn each check shall be signed by him as Treasurer. A copy of this section shall be forwarded by the President of the Federation to each bank upon which the Federation holds certificates of deposit.

SEC. 2. The Treasurer shall pay, through the Secretary, all warrants regularly drawn on him, signed by the President and countersigned by the Secretary, as required by this Constitution, and none others.

SEC. 3. The Treasurer shall submit to the Annual Convention, through the report of the Executive Council, a complete statement of all receipts and disbursements during his term of office, and at the expiration of his term of office he shall deliver up to his successor all moneys, securities, books, and papers of the Federation under his control; and for the faithful performance of his duties he shall give a bond in such sum as the Executive Council may determine. The annual salary of the Treasurer shall be $500.

ARTICLE IX.—EXECUTIVE COUNCIL.

SECTION 1. It shall be the duty of the Executive Council to watch legislative measures directly affecting the interests of working people, and to initiate, whenever necessary, such legislative action as the Convention may direct.

SEC. 2. The Executive Council shall use every possible means to organize new National or International Trade or Labor Unions, and to organize Local Trade and Labor Unions, and connect them with the Federation until such time as there is a sufficient number to form a National or International Union, when it shall be the duty of the President of the Federation to see that such organization is formed.

SEC. 3. When a National or International Union has been formed, the President shall notify all Local Unions of that trade to affiliate with such National or International Union, and unless said notification be complied with, within three months, their charters shall be revoked.

SEC. 4. The Executive Council shall also prepare and present to the Convention, in printed form, a concise statement of the details leading up to approved and pending boycotts (and all matters of interest to the Convention), and no indorsement for a boycott shall be considered by the Convention except it has been so reported by the Executive Council.

Sec. 5. While we recognize the right of each trade to manage its own affairs, it shall be the duty of the Executive Council to secure the unification of all labor organizations, so far as to assist each other in any trade dispute.

Sec. 6. Whenever the revenue of the Federation shall warrant such action, the Executive Council shall authorize the sending out of Trade Union speakers from place to place in the interests of the Federation.

Sec. 7. The remuneration for loss of time by members of the Executive Council, organizers, or speakers engaged by them, shall be $6.00 per day, hotel expense and actual railroad fare.

Sec. 8. The Executive Council shall have power to make the rules to govern matters not in conflict with this Constitution, or the constitution of affiliated unions, and shall report accordingly to the Federation.

Sec. 9. In the event of a vacancy of any member of the Executive Council, other than that of the President, by reason of death, resignation, or other cause, the President shall make such vacancy known to the Executive Council, and shall call for nominations. The names of all nominees shall be submitted to the Executive Council, and it shall require a majority vote of the Executive Council to elect. Upon each unsuccessful balloting the name of the candidate receiving the lowest number of votes shall be dropped.

Sec. 10. All Local Trade Unions and Federal Labor Unions holding charters direct from the American Federation of Labor, desiring the assistance of the American Federation of Labor in trade disputes, shall submit to the President of the American Federation of Labor for approval by the Executive Council, the full statement of the grievance, and shall receive within twenty (20) days from the President an answer as to whether they will be sustained or not, and no benefits shall be paid where a strike takes place before the Local Union has received the approval of the Executive Council.

Sec. 11. No charter shall be granted by the American Federation of Labor to any National, International, Trade, or Federal Labor Union without a positive and clear definition of the trade jurisdiction claimed by the applicant, and the charter shall not be granted if the jurisdiction claimed is a trespass on the jurisdiction of existing affiliated unions, without the written consent of such unions; no affiliated International, National, or Local Union shall be permitted to change its title or name, if any trespass is made thereby on the jurisdiction of an affiliated organization, without having first obtained the consent and approval of a Convention of the American Federation of Labor; and it is further provided, that should any of the members of such National, International, Trade, or Federal Labor Union work at any other vocation, trade, or profession, they shall join the union of such vocation, trade, or profession, provided such are organized and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Sec. 12. The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor shall only have power to revoke the charter of an affiliated National or International Union when the revocation has been ordered by a two-thirds majority of a regular Convention of the American Federation of Labor, by a roll-call vote.

ARTICLE X.—REVENUE.

SECTION 1. The revenue of the Federation shall be derived from a per capita tax to be paid upon the full paid-up membership of all affiliated bodies, as follows: From International or National Trade Unions, a per capita tax of two-thirds of one cent per member per month; from Local Trade Unions and Federal Labor Unions, ten cents per member per month, five cents of which must be set aside to be used only in case of strike or lockout; Local Unions, the majority of whose members are less than eighteen (18) years of age, two cents per member per month; from Central and State bodies, $10 per year, payable quarterly.

Sec. 2. Delegates shall not be entitled to a seat in the Annual Convention unless the tax of their organization, as provided for in Section 1 of this Article has been paid in full to September 30 preceding the Convention.

Sec. 3. Any organization affiliated with this Federation not paying its per capita tax on or before the 15th of each month shall be notified of the fact by the Secretary of the Federation, and if at the end of three months it is still in arrears it shall become suspended from membership by the Federation, and can be reinstated only by a vote of the Convention when such arrearages are paid in full, as provided in Section 2 of this Article.

ARTICLE XI.—LOCAL CENTRAL BODIES.

SECTION 1. No Central Labor Union, or any other central body of delegates, shall admit to or retain in their councils delegates from any local organization that owes its allegiance to any other body, National or International, hostile to any affiliated organization, or that has been suspended or expelled by, or not connected with, a National or International organization of their trade herein affiliated, under penalty of having their charter revoked for violation of their charter, subject to appeal to the next Convention.

Sec. 2. It shall be the duty of all National and International Unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor to instruct their Local Unions to join chartered Central Labor Bodies, Departments, and State Federations in their vicinity where such exist. Similar instructions shall be given by the American Federation of Labor to all Trade and Federal Labor Unions under its jurisdiction.

Sec. 3. Where there are one or more Local Unions in any city belonging to any National or International Union affiliated with this Federation they may organize a Trades Assembly or Central Labor Union, or shall join such body if already in existence.

Sec. 4. The Executive Council and Local Central Labor Unions shall use all possible means to organize and connect as Local Unions to National or International Unions the organizations in their vicinity; to aid the formation of National or International Unions where none exist, and to organize Federal Labor Unions where the number of craftsmen precludes any other form of organization.

SEC. 5. No Central Labor Union, or other central body of delegates, shall have the authority or power to order any organization, affiliated with such Central Labor Union, or other central labor body, on strike, where such organization has a national organization, until the proper authorities of such National or International organization have been consulted and agreed to such action.

SEC. 6. Separate charters may be issued to Central Labor Unions, Local Unions, or Federal Labor Unions, composed exclusively of colored members, where, in the judgment of the Executive Council, it appears advisable and to the best interest of the Trade Union movement to do so.

SEC. 7. No Central Labor Union, or other central body of delegates, shall have authority or power to originate a boycott, nor shall such bodies indorse and order the placing of the name of any person, firm, or corporation on an unfair list until the Local Union desiring the same has, before declaring the boycott, submitted the matter in dispute to the Central Body for investigation, and the best endeavors on its part to effect an amicable settlement. Violation of this section shall forfeit charter.

SEC. 8. No Central Body or Department affiliated with the American Federation of Labor shall reject credentials presented by a duly elected or appointed delegation of a Local Union chartered by a National or an International Union having affiliation with the American Federation of Labor; provided, however, that upon written charges signed by at least three delegates, any delegate of an affiliated Union may, upon conviction after a fair trial, be expelled or suspended. Action of the Central Body under this section shall be subject to appeal to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, and no delegation representing Local Unions affiliated, as herein described, shall be suspended or expelled until like action is taken.

SEC. 9. No Central Body shall take part in the adjustment of wage contracts, wage disputes or working rules of Local Unions, affiliated with a National or International Union, unless the laws of the National or International Union permit, except upon the request or consent of the executive officer of the National or International Union affected.

SEC. 10. Local Unions of National or International Unions affiliated with the Departments attached to the American Federation of Labor, in any city where a Local Department exists, shall not be eligible to membership in any Local Department unless they are connected with the chartered Central Body, nor shall they be eligible to membership in the Central Body unless they are affiliated with the Local Department.

ARTICLE XII.—ASSESSMENT IN DEFENSE OF NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL UNIONS.

SECTION 1. The Executive Council shall have power to declare a levy of one cent per member per week on all affiliated unions for a period not exceeding ten weeks in any one year, to assist in the support of an affiliated National or International Union engaged in a protracted strike or lockout.

SEC. 2. Any Union, International, National, or Local, failing to pay within sixty days the levies declared in accordance with Section 1 shall be deprived of representation in Convention of the American Federation of Labor and in City Central Bodies affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

ARTICLE XIII.—DEFENSE FUND FOR LOCAL TRADE AND FEDERAL LABOR UNIONS.

SECTION 1. The money of the defense fund shall be drawn only to sustain strikes or lockouts of Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions when such strikes or lockouts are authorized, indorsed, and conducted in conformity with the following provisions of this Article:

SEC. 2. In the event of a disagreement between a Local Union and an employer which, in the opinion of the Local Union, may result in a strike, such Union shall notify the President of the American Federation of Labor, who shall investigate, or cause an investigation to be made of the disagreement, and endeavor to adjust the difficulty. If his efforts should prove futile, he shall take such steps as he may deem necessary in notifying the Executive Council, and if the majority of said Council shall decide that a strike is necessary such Union shall be authorized to order a strike, but that under no circumstances shall a strike or lockout be deemed legal, or moneys expended from the defense fund on that account, unless the strike or lockout shall have been first authorized and approved by the President and Executive Council.

SEC. 3. When a strike has been authorized and approved by the President and Executive Council, the president of the Local Union interested shall, within twenty-four hours, call a meeting of said Union, "of which every member shall be regularly notified," to take action thereon, and no member shall vote on such question unless he is in good standing. Should three-fourths of the members present decide, by secret ballot, on a strike, the president of the Local Union shall immediately notify the President of the American Federation of Labor of the cause of the matter in dispute; what the wages, hours, and conditions of labor then are; what advances, if any, are sought; what reductions are offered, if any; state the number employed and unemployed; the state of trade generally in the locality, and the number of persons involved, union and non-union; also the number of members who would become entitled to the benefits herein provided should the application be authorized and approved.

SEC. 4. No Local shall be entitled to benefit from the defense fund unless it has been in continuous good standing for one year; and no member shall be entitled to benefit from said defense fund unless he has been a member in good standing in the American Federation of Labor for at least one year.

SEC. 5. When a strike has been inaugurated under the provisions of Sections 2 and 3, the American Federation of Labor shall pay to the bonded officer of the Union involved, or his order, for a period of six weeks, an amount equal to four ($4) dollars per week for each member. Each Local Union shall require its treasurer to give proper bond for the safe-keeping and disbursement of all funds of the Local. No benefit shall be paid for the first two weeks of the strike. The Executive Council shall have the power to authorize the payment of strike benefits for an additional period.

Sec. 6. No member of a Local Union on strike shall be entitled to weekly benefits unless he reports daily to the proper officer of the Local Union while the strike continues, and no member who shall receive a week's work, three days to be a week, shall receive benefits. Any member refusing other work while on strike (providing said work is not in conflict with labor's interests) shall not be entitled to any benefits.

Sec. 7. Any Union inaugurating a strike without the approval of the Executive Council shall not receive benefits on account of said strike.

Sec. 8. In case of lockout the Executive Council shall have power to pay benefits if, upon investigation, it is found that the Local Union whose members are involved did not by their action or demands provoke the lockout by their employer.

Sec. 9. During the continuance of a strike the executive board of the Local Union shall make weekly reports to the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor, showing the amount of money distributed for benefits, and to whom paid, furnishing individual receipts to the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor from all members to whom such benefits have been paid, and all other facts that may be required.

Sec. 10. Before a strike shall be declared off, a special meeting of the Union shall be called for that purpose, and it shall require a majority vote of all members present to decide the question either way.

Sec. 11. In the event of the defense fund becoming dangerously low through protracted strike or lockout, the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor shall have the power to levy an assessment of ten cents on each member of Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions, assessments to be restricted to not more than five per year; and further, that there shall always be a surplus of five thousand ($5,000) dollars in the defense fund.

Sec. 12. No Local shall be entitled to any of the benefits of the defense fund unless it requires its members to pay not less than fifty (50) cents per month.

Sec. 13. Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions shall set aside for the maintenance of a local defense fund not less than five cents a month from each member.

ARTICLE XIV.—MISCELLANEOUS.

SECTION 1. Certificates of affiliation shall be granted by the President of the Federation, by and with the consent of the Executive Council, to all National and International Unions and local bodies affiliated with this Federation.

Sec. 2. Seven wage-workers of good character, following any trade or calling, who are favorable to Trade Unions, whose trade or calling is not organized, and are not members of any body affiliated with this Federation, who will subscribe to this Constitution, shall have the power to form a local body to be known as a "Federal Labor Union," and they shall hold regular meetings for the purpose of strengthening and advancing the Trade Union movement, and shall have power to make their own rules in conformity with this Constitution, and shall be granted a local certificate by the President of this Federation; provided, the request for a certificate be indorsed by the nearest Local or National Trade Union officials connected with this Federation, but not more than three Federal Labor Unions shall be chartered in any one city. Employers who are working for wages, may, upon regular ballot, be admitted to membership in Federal Labor or Local Unions, directly affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, subject to the approval of the President of the American Federation of Labor. Such members shall not attend meetings of the union or have a vote in controlling the affairs of the unions; they must comply with the scale of wages and rules adopted by the union of which they are members. The President of the American Federation of Labor shall have authority to appoint any person who is a member of any affiliated union to audit the accounts of such Federal Labor or Local Trade Unions as the President of the American Federation of Labor may direct and report the result thereof to the President of the American Federation of Labor. The books and accounts of each Federal Labor and Local Trade Union shall be at all times open to the inspection of auditors appointed under this section.

Sec. 3. The certificate fee for affiliated bodies shall be five ($5) dollars, payable to the Secretary of the Federation, and the fee shall accompany the application.

Sec. 4. The American Federation of Labor shall refer all applications for certificates of affiliation from Local Unions or Federal Labor Unions from a vicinity where a chartered Central Labor Union exists to that body for investigation and approval.

Sec. 5. Certificates of affiliation shall not be granted by State Federations of Labor. That power is vested solely in the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor and the executive officers of National and International Unions affiliated therewith.

Sec. 6. Fraternal delegates attending the Convention of the American Federation of Labor shall be entitled to all the rights of delegates from Central Bodies.

ARTICLE XV.—GENERAL RULES GOVERNING DEPARTMENTS OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR.

SECTION 1. For the greater development of the labor movement, such departments subordinate to the American Federation of Labor are to be established from time to time as in the judgment of the American Federation of Labor or of its Executive Council may be deemed advisable. Each Department is to manage and finance its own business.

Sec. 2. To be entitled to representation in any Department, organizations eligible to join must first be, and remain in affiliation to the American Federation of Labor, and to be entitled to representation in Local Councils of Departments, Local Bodies shall first be and remain in affiliation to Central Labor Unions chartered by the American Federation of Labor.

Sec. 3. The fundamental laws of each Department are to conform to, and be administered in the same manner as, the laws governing the American Federation of Labor. No Department or Local Council of same shall enact laws, rules, or regulations in conflict with laws of the American Federation of Labor, and in the event of change of laws of the latter, Departments and Local Councils are to change their laws to conform thereto.

Sec. 4. Each Department to be considered the official method of the American Federation of Labor for transacting that portion of its business.

Sec. 5. All Departments of the American Federation of Labor shall have their headquarters located in the City of Washington, D. C., and, if possible, in the same building with the Federation headquarters.

Sec. 6. All Departments of the American Federation of Labor shall hold their Conventions, whether annually or less often, during or immediately before or after the Conventions of the American Federation of Labor, and in the same city where the Conventions of the Federation are held.

Sec. 7. The Officers of each Department shall report to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor what action, if any, has been taken by the Department, either through its Executive Council or through Conventions upon any and all matters that have been referred to the Department by the Federation.

Sec. 8. The officers of the various Departments shall submit a quarterly report to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor of the work done by their Department, and its general conditions.

Sec. 9. At all regular meetings of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor there shall be present during some period of the Council meeting either the President or Secretary, or both, of each Department, to take up with the Council matters that may be of mutual interest.

Sec. 10. A page of each issue of the "American Federationist" to be available to, and to be used by each Department for official report or for publication of some subject identified with the Department.

Sec. 11. National and International Unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor shall also become affiliated with any Department in which they may be eligible. This section does not apply to the Union Label Trades Department.

ARTICLE XVI.—AMENDMENTS.

This Constitution can be amended or altered only at a regular session of the Convention, and to do so it shall require a two-thirds vote.

THIRTY-SECOND ANNUAL CONVENTION OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR 1912

---

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

---

First Day—Monday Morning Session

The Convention Hall, Rochester, N. Y.,
November 11, 1912.

Pursuant to law, the regular meeting of the Thirty-second Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor was called to order at 10 a. m. by President Samuel Gompers.

Mr. Richard H. Curran, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, was presented to the convention by President Gompers.

Chairman Curran—Mr. President and Fellow Delegates: In behalf of the Committee of Arrangements I have been requested to extend to the delegates a hearty, sincere and cordial welcome to our beautiful city. The Committee of Arrangements has taken considerable pains to properly entertain you while you are in our midst. We have arranged for a number of entertainments, and we wish to assure you that the sole purpose of the twenty thousand trades unionists of the City of Rochester is to look after the welfare and the pleasure of the men who have been elected by the different organizations as delegates to this convention. I realize that you have a great deal of work to do and will not detain you except to say that while you are in the city if any of you have any troubles or if there is anything you wish the committee to do for you, if you will call at Room 1 we will see that you are properly taken care of.

Hon. H. H. Edgerton, Mayor of Rochester, was introduced to the convention by President Gompers, and in welcoming the delegates to the convention said in part:

It has been my pleasure and duty as the chief executive of Rochester to extend the greetings of my fellow citizens to a great many conventions and gatherings of people. This is always a pleasure. This morning I feel more than usually interested in this convention, and I not only wish to extend the greetings of the citizens of Rochester, but also my personal welcome and offer to you my services as a public official and as a citizen for anything I can do for you to make your stay here pleasant and agreeable.

I cannot imagine a city that would be more appropriate for you to gather in than the City of Rochester. We have a splendidly organized city. The whole population of Rochester is a committee of boosters for this town. The different divisions are organized. That is what makes things go. I find that I can accomplish but very little alone; it is only with the help of the organizations that are back of me that I can do the work that is necessary. We have a very leautiful city here and we are proud of it. We are proud of the men of brains and brawn that have made it what it is. We have here, I think, a much higher class of citizenship than you will find in most cities. There is a great variety of manufacturing interests; we are not confined to any specialty whatever, and they all employ skilled labor. When our factories close at night you will see on the streets none but contented faces. We have little trouble here; everybody seems to be prosperous, and there is no poverty here except what misfortune brings.

I wish again to extend to you the heartiest welcome we can extend, and to offer to you as far as I can the freedom of our city. I thank you for inviting me to come here. I trust your deliberations will not only be agreeable, but profitable and that you will want to come back again.

President Gompers—Hon. John A. Dix, Governor of the State of New York, hoped that he might be here in person to extend a welcome to this convention to the Empire State of the Union. His business engagements and official duties have interfered and he has advised me, and I take pleasure in communicating it to you, that he has requested the Commissioner of Labor of the State of New York, Mr. John Williams, to appear here and speak the welcome he himself would have extended. I take pleasure in presenting to you John Williams, the Commissioner of Labor of this State.

Commissioner Williams in welcoming the convention to the State said in part:

It is a genuine pleasure to me to be privileged to come here to extend to the convention of the American Federation of Labor the greetings of the State of New York. I appear not only as a representative of that branch of government which is charged with certain duties in regard to conditions of labor within the State, but also as the special envoy of His Excellency, Governor John A. Dix, who on behalf of all the people welcomes the convention to the State.

Our Governor has evidenced, as many of you know, his concern in the welfare of the toiling masses of this Commonwealth by approving important legislation enacted in their interests; therefore, when he expresses a wish for the continued progress of the great American labor movement and for the fullest measure of wisdom in the conduct of the business of this convention, such words may be taken at their full face value. And may I say, in parenthesis, as it were, that the legislation approved by the Governor of our State was written in our statute books upon the urgent request, the insistent demand of the representatives of labor within the State. And I feel it is but proper for me to say at this time that the toiling masses of the State of New York owe to the State Federation of Labor a debt of gratitude which they never can repay. I say this because I know there are representatives of other states present in this gathering, and I would like to inspire them so that when they return to their respective states they may catch some of the fire, some of the spirit of the State Federation of Labor of New York and go forth and accomplish for their constituents what has been accomplished in this state.

It would be presumptuous for me to occupy much of your time. You have been called from far and near to consider and to transact business which is of vital concern to your constituents and those who follow in their train.

The American Federation of Labor is a mighty force in the industrial affairs of our country, and yet it may be truly said that its work is but begun. Its record of achievements is a score to be proud of. It has written and is writing pages of contemporary history the full significance of which we cannot appreciate, because we are too close to the scenes of activity. But we sense the trend. We know the direction of the movement. It is toward higher and better things. Men, we have every right to be proud of our connection with a movement that is so freighted with matters of intense human interest. Mistakes have been made. Yes. Men have gone wrong. Yes. But let those who condemn a movement because of occasional errors or departures from the straight course, reflect that there never has been a movement of any breadth or scope anywhere in the world that did not suffer in the same manner.

In military campaigns, general officers fall into error both in their plans and in their execution of plans. Deserters and traitors have to be dealt with. But such errors and the presence of unworthy men in the ranks have never been accepted as grounds for indiscriminate and unreasoning condemnation of such military movements, neither should the great movement of the men and women who live by the sweat of their brow be condemned because here and there is found an unworthy or ill-balanced mind in action.

Much is heard in these days about the conservation of natural resources. Conventions to agitate the subject are frequently held. This convention also represents a conservation movement. The conservation of natural resources is important, but it pales to insignificance beside the purpose of such a gathering as this. You are engaged in conserving human life, human resources, human interests. A nobler purpose never brought men and women together.

I said that each and every one of us ought to be proud of this movement. We ought to be proud of it. And when I say "we" I want you to know that I am part and parcel of the great American labor movement. This may be news to some of you, but I still carry a card of membership in the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, and there is no fact of which I am prouder than the fact that I am in a position to say when my affiliations are questioned than I am a member of one of the largest organizations of skilled mechanics in the world.

The people of the state of New York are proud to receive this convention. May your presence be a source of enlightenment and inspiration and may you at the close of the convention return to your respective homes stronger in purpose, higher in resolve to serve the cause of humanity.

President Gompers—It falls to my lot and it is my great pleasure to introduce to you now the President of the New York State Federation of Labor for many years, the active, fighting veteran of the trades union movement, with all the energy, physical and mental, of a youthful warrior, Dan Harris.

President Harris, in welcoming the convention on behalf of the State Federation of Labor of New York, said in part:

You cannot conceive the pleasure it gives me to greet the representatives of the labor movement of this great continent of ours. As your chairman said, I have been in this movement a number of years and I intend to die in the harness.

When we look back over the history of this organization we realize the almost unsurmountable obstacles that have been overcome. This movement for the last twenty-six years has stood for progress. Its achievements demonstrate that fact and refute the statements of our adversaries. When I see the men who represent the labor unions of this country here to-day I know that labor's confidence has not been misplaced. Your President and I worked side by side four decades ago, and I know he is the right man in the right place, and you realize that as well as I do.

The Commissioner of Labor spoke of the laws we placed on the statute books of this State. One of the laws is the fifty-four hour week for women and children. For fifteen years we struggled for that law before we secured it. We are reaching forth now for a compensation law for the men who toil. We believe this year we are going to put upon the statute books of the State of New York a compensation act for the men and women of this State who are employed in all trades that will be of great benefit to them and theirs.

We take pride in the Empire State in the fact that we have the oldest State federation in existence. It was organized in the year 1864 by a few men who came together for that purpose, and we have gone on until the present time making progress. And we are proud of being a part of the grandest organization on earth, the American Federation of Labor.

President Gompers, in replying to the addresses of welcome, said in part:

On behalf of the convention I want to express to you our deep appreciation of your words of welcome and your words of commendation. This organization of ours is just as you find it. We are made up of men and women and therefore are human, and being human we possess the weaknesses and shortcomings of the human. But in our movement we also possess the strength of character which finds its expression in the effort to make this life and this world better than we found it when we entered upon our duties.

It has been well said here this morning that the shortcomings or the errors of men in our movement are exaggerated. No such general application is made to any other institution on earth. In business we take the honest man, the earnest man and say "This is the general type of the business men of our day." In the professions, in the law, in finance, in the church, in all other vocations the highest and the best is taken as the type. But in the labor movement the effort is made to find some derelict and hold him up as the type of what is termed the labor agitator, the labor organizer, the labor leader. Against such a designation or calumination we enter our most emphatic protest. Grant you there are some who may fall by the way; grant you that some fail to perform their full duty; but taking man for man in the labor movement they will compare with any set of men in any walk of life for unselfishness, for altruism, for high motives and purposes. And they propose to meet the obstacles that seem almost unsurmountable and apply themselves to see to it that wrongs are righted and rights established; to see to it that the home is made better and brighter; to see to it that labor is made lighter and improved; to see to it that man shall conceive that at last he must help to bear his brother's burden and make the burdens of all so much the lighter.

President Gompers spoke at some length of the struggle of organized labor and its history. He also spoke of the work of the labor unions in connection with the new citizens of the republic, stating that there is no factor and no influence in all the country so potent in Americanizing the new comers as the trades union movement. In concluding his address, President Gompers said

Again I want to thank you, Mr. Mayor, and you gentlemen representing organized labor of the State of New York and of the magnificent city of Rochester, Rochester which is the alma mater and the mecca of my first convention of any sort in my life. We are glad to have an opportunity of visiting your beautiful city and noting its growth and development, its new civic pride, its splendid organized labor movement, its spirit of cleanliness and honesty. We are glad to have an opportunity of visiting your city and holding our convention therein, and we thank you again for your offers of hospitality, which we know will be unbounded.

I now declare this Thirty-second Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor duly open and ready for the transaction of business.

President Gompers requested the members of the Executive Council to occupy seats on the stage.

Mr. Emanuel Koveleski, President of the Central Trades and Labor Council, stated that President Huber, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, had a presentation to make in behalf of the District Council of that organization. President Huber stated that a handsome rosewood gavel, union made, had been presented to the District Council of the Carpenters by Mr. Hopkins of Rochester, with the request that it be given to the chairman of the convention.

President Gompers made a brief address in which he thanked the donors of the gavel, and stated that a smaller gavel of ivory had been presented to him by the President of the Rochester Central Labor Union.

Mr. Duncan McDonald, Secretary of the Committee on Credentials, read the following report:

Report of Committee on Credentials.

Rochester, New York, Nov. 11, 1912.
To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-Second Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor:

Gentlemen:

Your Committee on Credentials beg leave to report that they have examined the credentials of 357 delegates, representing 85 International and National Unions, 30 State Branches, 76 Central Bodies, 19 Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions, and 8 fraternal delegates, and recommend that the following be seated:

Asbestos Workers, International Association of Heat and Frost Insulators and—Joseph A. Mullaney, 8 votes.

Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union of America—A. A. Myrup, Henry Koch, Jacob Goldstone, 146 votes.

Barbers' International Union, Journeymen—Frank X. Noschang, W. E. Klapetzky, Jacob Fischer, Ed Anderson, 299 votes.

Bill Posters and Billers of America, International Alliance of—James Labralco, 14 votes.

Blacksmiths, International Brotherhood of—James W. Kline, William F. Kramer, Charles N. Glover, 93 votes.

Boilermakers and Iron Ship Builders of America, Brotherhood of—J. A. Franklin, M. J. McGuire, T. J. Garvey, George W. Pring, 167 votes.

Bookbinders, International Brotherhood of—Edward C. Strelle, 85 votes.

Boot and Shoe Workers' Union—John F. Tobin, Charles L. Baine, Mary Anderson, Alvin C. Howes, Daniel Harrington, 333 votes.

Brewery Workmen, International Union of the United—Joseph Proebstle, Louis Kemper, Ed. F. Ward, A. J. Kugler, John Sullivan, 450 votes.

Brick, Tile and Terra Cotta Workers' Alliance, International—Frank Butterworth, 34 votes.

Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, International Association of—Daniel J. O'Shea, Frank E. Thoman, Joseph E. McClory, 100 votes.

Carpenters and Joiners of America, United Brotherhood of—Wm. D. Huber, Frank Duffy, Fred C. Wheeler, A. M. Swartz, D. F. Featherston, William J. Kelly, W. E. Hemsell, 1,923 votes.

Carriage, Wagon and Automobile Workers of North America, International Union of—James R. Crozier, 27 votes.

Cement Workers, American Brotherhood of—Frank C. Gengenback, Martin Goellnitz, Frank Shif, 90 votes.

Cigarmakers' International Union of America—Samuel Gompers, Thomas F. Tracy, J. Mahlon Barnes, W. H. Fitzgerald, Phil. H. Mueller, 420 votes.

Cloth Hat and Cap Makers of North America, United—Max Zuckerman, 28 votes.

Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, The—Wesley Russell, 10 votes.

Coopers' International Union of North America—Frank A. Scoby, James J. Doyle, 45 votes.

Diamond Workers' Protective Union of America—Andries Meyer, 3 votes.

Electrical Workers of America, International Brotherhood of—F. J. McNulty, Frank B. Glynn, J. W. Yount, Charles P. Ford, 196 votes.

Elevator Constructors, International Union of—Frank Feeney, 23 votes.

Foundry Employees, Brotherhood of—Jas. B. Conroy, 5 votes.

Engineers, International Union of Steam—Matt Comerford, James G. Hannahan, R. G. Moser, T. J. Dolan, 177 votes.

Firemen, International Brotherhood of Stationary—Timothy Healy, M. C. Friel, Wm. J. Brennan, 114 votes.

Garment Workers of America, United—T. A. Rickert, B. A. Larger, Margaret C. Daley, V. Altman, Maler Schwarz, 464 votes.

Garment Workers' Union, International Ladies—Abraham Rosenberg, John A. Dyche, Aldo Cursi, John F. Pierce, Meyer Rosenberg, 584 votes.

Glass Bottle Blowers' Association of the United States and Canada—D. A. Hayes, Charles E. Heritage, Edward J. Marx, 100 votes.

Glass Workers' International Association, Amalgamated—David Ring, 11 votes.

Glove Workers' Union of America, International—Agnes Nestor, 11 votes.

Granite Cutters' International Association of America, The—James Duncan, James Garvey, Alex Archie, 135 votes.

Hatters of North America, United—Martin Lawlor, H. C. Shalvoy, Michael F. Green, 85 votes.

Hod Carriers and Common Laborers' Union of America, International—Dominick D'Alessandro, Joseph D'Andrea, Joseph B. Etchison, 125 votes.

Horse Shoers of United States and Canada, International Union of Journeymen—Hubert S. Marshall, Roady Keneshan, 52 votes.

Hotel and Restaurant Employees International Alliance and Bartenders International League of America—Edward Flore, Jere L. Sullivan, Thomas S. Farrell, George Miller, Otto Pattberg, 476 votes.

Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, Amalgamated Association of—Judson O'Neal, John Williams, 45 votes.

Lathers, International Union of Wood, Wire and Metal—William J. McSorley, John T. Taggart, 50 votes.

Laundry Workers' International Union—Charles F. Bailey, 26 votes.

Leather Workers on Horse Goods, United Brotherhood of—W. E. Bryan, 20 votes.

Leather Workers' Union of America, Amalgamated—Dennis Healey, 6 votes.

Longshoremen's Association, International—Thomas V. O'Connor, A. J. Chlopek, George E. Neisham, Thomas Harrison, 235 votes.

Machinists, International Association of—William H. Johnston, B. F. Lamb, Thomas Van Lear, A. O. Wharton, P. W. Buckley, 598 votes.

Marble Workers, International Association of—Walter V. Price, 28 votes.

Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, Amalgamated—Homer D. Call, 40 votes.

Metal Polishers, Buffers, Platers, Brass and Silver Workers' Union of North America—T. M. Daly, George Leary, Thomas Rumsey, 100 votes.

Metal Workers' International Alliance, Amalgamated Sheet—M. O'Sullivan, John D. Crane, John J. Hynes, Thomas Walsh, 166 votes.

Mine Workers of America, United—John P. White, John Mitchell, Frank J. Hayes, John H. Walker, T. L. Lewis, Duncan McDonald, William Green, 2,670 votes.

Miners, Western Federation of—John G. Williams, Daniel Holland, Edwin Young, Joseph D. Cannon, 506 votes.

Molders' Union of North America,

International—Joseph F. Valentine, John P. Frey, R. H. Curran, Jack L. Lanihan, 500 votes.

Musicians, American Federation of—Joseph N. Weber, Owen Miller, D. A. Carey, Joseph F. Winkler, 500 votes.

Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, Brotherhood of—George F. Hedrick, J. C. Skemp, Jacob Tazelaar, W. E. Rodriguez, Thomas Wright, Emil Arnold, 685 votes.

Paper Makers, International Brotherhood of—J. T. Carey, 28 votes.

Pattern Makers' League of North America—James Wilson, James L. Gernon, 60 votes.

Pavers, Rammermen, Flag Layers, Bridge and Stone Curb Setters, International Union of—Edward I. Hannah, 15 votes.

Paving Cutters' Union of the United States of America and Canada—John Sheret, 35 votes.

Photo-Engravers' Union of North America, International—Matthew Woll, 40 votes.

Plate Printers' Union of North America, International Steel and Copper—William D. Clark, 12 votes.

Plasterers' International Association of the United States and Canada, Operative—Edward J. McGivern, Peter G. Cook, Joseph J. McDermott, 157 votes.

Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers of United States and Canada, United Association of—John R. Alpine, William J. Tracey, James F. Malley, Patrick Murphy, 260 votes.

Postoffice Clerks, National Federation of—Oscar F. Nelson, 18 votes.

Potters, National Brotherhood of Operative—Edward Menge, E. J. Whitehead, 65 votes.

Printing Pressmen's Union, International—George L. Berry, W. G. Halpine, L. Hart, Harry Wilson, 190 votes.

Quarry Workers' International Union of North America—Fred W. Sutor, P. J. Dacey, 40 votes.

Railroad Telegraphers, Order of—H. B. Perham, C. A. Mulhall, J. F. Miller, T. J. Gallagher, 250 votes.

Railway Carmen of America, Brotherhood—Martin F. Ryan, Edwin W. Weeks, William J. Adames, Frank Paquin, 287 votes.

Railway Employees of America, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric—W. D. Mahon, Ben Commons, William Taber, 402 votes.

Seamen's Union of America, International—A. Furuseth, T. A. Hanson, I. N. Hylen, 160 votes.

Shingle Weavers' Union of America, International—J. G. Brown, 15 votes.

Slate and Tile Roofers' Union of America, International—George M. Huddleston, 5 votes.

Stage Employees' International Alliance, Theatrical—Charles C. Shay, John Suarez, James Lemke, 110 votes.

- Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union of North America, International—James J. Freel, Charles A. Sumner, 43 votes.
- Stonecutters' Association of North America, Journeymen—James A. Short, Octave Jette, William McKay, 89 votes.
- Stovemounters' International Union—Frank Grimshaw, 11 votes.
- Switchmen's Union of North America—S. E. Heberling, M. R. Welch, J. B. Connors, 87 votes.
- Tailors' Union of America, Journeymen—E. J. Brais, D. G. Biggs, Hugh Robinson, 120 votes.
- Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America, International Brotherhood of—Daniel J. Tobin, Thomas L. Hughes, William A. Neer, John M. Gillespie, J. J. Morris, 415 votes.
- Textile Workers of America, United—John Golden, James Starr, 109 votes.
- Tile Layers' and Helpers' International Union, Ceramic, Mosaic and Encaustic—Thomas J. Williams, 24 votes.
- Tip Printers, International Brotherhood of—Thomas J. Carolan, 2 votes.
- Tobacco Workers' International Union—E. Lewis Evans, 37 votes.
- Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers' International Union of America—Edward E. Shilling, 8 votes.
- Tunnel and Subway Constructors' International Union—Thomas J. Curtis, 18 votes.
- Typographical Union, International—James M. Lynch, Frank Morrison, Hugh Stevenson, Max S. Hayes, T. W. McCullough, 547 votes.
- Upholsterers' International Union of North America—John Hanley, 28 votes.
- White Rats Actors' Union of America—William J. Cooke, Abner All, Joe Birnes, 110 votes.
- Arkansas State Federation of Labor—Fred W. Holt, 1 vote.
- California State Federation of Labor—Andrew J. Gallagher, 1 vote.
- Colorado State Federation of Labor—Charles Moyer, 1 vote.
- Connecticut State Federation of Labor—Jeremiah A. Keane, 1 vote.
- Florida State Federation of Labor—Jackson W. Holder, 1 vote.
- Georgia State Federation of Labor—R. L. Corley, 1 vote.
- Illinois State Federation of Labor—Stephen Sumner, 1 vote.
- Indiana State Federation of Labor—William J. Pfeleger, 1 vote.
- Iowa State Federation of Labor—J. J. O'Brien, 1 vote.
- Kansas State Federation of Labor—W. B. Shaughnessy, 1 vote.
- Maine State Federation of Labor—Henry M. Donnelly, 1 vote.
- Maryland State Federation of Labor—P. J. Ryan, 1 vote.
- Massachusetts State Federation of Labor—Emmet T. Walls, 1 vote.
- Michigan State Federation of Labor—Joseph Smith, 1 vote.
- Minnesota State Federation of Labor—W. F. McGrath, 1 vote.
- Missouri State Federation of Labor—E. T. Behrens, 1 vote.
- Montana State Federation of Labor—M. M. Donoghue, 1 vote.
- Nebraska State Federation of Labor—C. L. Shamp, 1 vote.
- New Jersey State Federation of Labor—Henry J. Vanderveld, 1 vote.
- New York State Federation of Labor—Henry Prinz, 1 vote.
- Ohio State Federation of Labor—James P. Egan, 1 vote.
- Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor—William Young, Jr., 1 vote.
- Rhode Island State Federation of Labor—O. L. Preble, 1 vote.
- Tennessee State Federation of Labor—Clarence E. Swick, 1 vote.
- Texas State Federation of Labor—William L. Hoefgen, 1 vote.
- Virginia State Federation of Labor—James J. Creamer, 1 vote.
- Washington State Federation of Labor—W. J. Coates, 1 vote.
- West Virginia State Federation of Labor—H. P. Corcoran, 1 vote.
- Wisconsin State Federation of Labor—Fred Brockhausen, 1 vote.
- Wyoming State Federation of Labor—James Scyner, 1 vote.
- Alamosa, Colo., Trades and Labor Council—C. F. Darling, 1 vote.
- Albany, N. Y., Central Federation of Labor—Thomas D. Fitzgerald, 1 vote.
- Atlanta, Ga., Federation of Trades—O. A. Cone, 1 vote.
- Baltimore, Md., Federation of Labor—James H. Sullivan, 1 vote.
- Beaumont, Texas, Trades and Labor Assembly—F. S. Laurence, 1 vote.
- Birmingham, Ala., Trades Council—R. H. White, 1 vote.
- Elcomington, Ill., Trades and Labor Assembly—John B. Lennon, 1 vote.
- Boston, Mass., Central Labor Union—Frank H. McCarthy, 1 vote.
- Brockton, Mass., Central Labor Union—James H. Collins, 1 vote.
- Brooklyn, N. Y., Central Labor Union—John P. Coughlin, 1 vote.
- Chicago, Ill., Federation of Labor—Joseph Morton, 1 vote.
- Cincinnati, Ohio, Central Labor Council—Walter Mullen, 1 vote.
- Cleveland, Ohio, Federation of Labor—Frank Smith, 1 vote.
- Cinton and Lyons, Iowa, and Fulton, Ill., Tri-City Labor Congress—George C. Campbell, 1 vote.
- Cohoes, N. Y., Central Federation of Labor—J. P. McGinley, 1 vote.
- Denver, Colo., Trades and Labor Assembly—Harvey Garman, 1 vote.

Dunkirk, N. Y., United Trades and Labor Council—James G. Sause, 1 vote.

Fort Edward, N. Y., Trades Assembly Elmer Glidden, 1 vote.

Geneva, N. Y., Federation of Labor—Michael F. Tracy, 1 vote.

Granite City, Ill., Tri-City Central Trades Council (Granite City, Madison, Venice, Ill.)—T. M. Cavanagh, 1 vote.

Hamilton, Ont., Can., District Trades and Labor Council—S. L. Landers, 1 vote.

Hartford, Conn., Central Labor Union—Sol Sontheimer, 1 vote.

Haverhill, Mass., Central Labor Union—Patrick J. Burke, 1 vote.

Herrin, Ill., Trades and Labor Council—Abe Hicks, 1 vote.

Huntington, West Va., Trades and Labor Assembly—George W. Gillispee, 1 vote.

Indianapolis, Ind., Central Labor Union—Chas. A. Hays, 1 vote.

Jacksonville, Fla., Central Trades and Labor Council—J. C. Privett, 1 vote.

Jamestown, N. Y., Central Labor Council—J. M. Kane, 1 vote.

Kansas City, Mo., Industrial Council—John T. Smith, 1 vote.

Kensington, Ill., Calumet Joint Labor Council—Herman C. Diehl, 1 vote.

Logansport, Ind., Trades Assembly—Edwin S. Burns, 1 vote.

Los Angeles, Cal., Central Labor Council—L. W. Butler, 1 vote.

Louisville, Ky., United Trades and Labor Assembly—Peter Campbell, 1 vote.

Meriden, Conn., Central Labor Union—George W. Chance, 1 vote.

Milwaukee, Wis., Federated Trades Council—Frank J. Weber, 1 vote.

Mobile, Ala., Central Trades Council—P. J. Doherty, 1 vote.

Nashville, Tenn., Trades and Labor Council—C. P. Fahey, 1 vote.

Newark, N. J., Essex Trades Council—Morris R. Welch, 1 vote.

New York, N. Y., Central Federated Union of Greater New York and vicinity—James P. Holland, 1 vote.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Trades and Labor Council—Harvey C. Berry, 1 vote.

Olean, N. Y., Central Trades and Labor Council—Elmer E. Evans, 1 vote.

Omaha, Neb., Central Labor Union—George E. Norman, 1 vote.

Oneida, N. Y., Trades Assembly—Wm. R. Ferguson, 1 vote.

Ottawa, Canada, Allied Trades and Labor Association—P. M. Draper, 1 vote.

Philadelphia, Pa., Central Labor Union of and vicinity—Frank O. Bryan, 1 vote.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Iron City Central Trades Council—R. J. McGrath, 1 vote.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Trades and Labor Council—James C. Brower, 1 vote.

Raleigh, N. C., Central Labor Union—Edward R. Pace, 1 vote.

Richmond Borough, N. Y., Central Trades and Labor Council—William J. Bonner, 1 vote.

Richmond, Va., Central Trades and Labor Council—John Hirschberg, 1 vote.

Rochester, N. Y., Central Trades and Labor Council—Emanuel Koveleski, 1 vote.

Roundup, Mont., Central Trades and Labor Council—W. H. Morgan, 1 vote.

Sacramento, Cal., Federated Trades Council—W. P. Hannon, 1 vote.

St. Louis, Mo., Central Trades and Labor Union of, and vicinity—Louis P. Philippi, 1 vote.

St. Paul, Minn., Trades and Labor Assembly—Charles E. James, 1 vote.

St. Thomas, Ont. Can., Trades and Labor Council—William Stokes, 1 vote.

Salem, Mass., Central Labor Union—Silas N. Lapham, 1 vote.

San Francisco, Cal., Labor Council—Paul Scharrenberg, 1 vote.

Savannah, Ga., Trades and Labor Assembly—J. J. Keane, 1 vote.

Schenectady, N. Y., Trades Assembly—John J. Henley, 1 vote.

Slaron, Pa., United Labor League of, and vicinity—David Niven, 1 vote.

South Chicago, Ill., Trades and Labor Assembly—James C. Felio, 1 vote.

Springfield, Ill., Federation of Labor—James F. Morris, 1 vote.

Syracuse, N. Y., Central Trades and Labor Assembly—Edward Vincent Wood, 1 vote.

Toronto, Can., District Labor Council—James Simpson, 1 vote.

Troy, N. Y., Federation of Labor—Thomas J. Purcell, 1 vote.

Utica, N. Y., Trades and Labor Assembly—Edward A. Bates, 1 vote.

Waco, Texas, Central Labor Union—John R. Spencer, 1 vote.

Washington, D. C., Central Labor Union—Milton Snellings, 1 vote.

Watertown, N. Y., Central Trades and Labor Assembly—Stephen English, 1 vote.

Wilkes Barre, Pa., Central Labor Union—J. J. Youhon, 1 vote.

Yonkers, N. Y., Federation of Labor—H. Wildberger, Jr., 1 vote.

Zanesville, Ohio, Central Trades and Labor Council—John A. Voll, 1 vote.

Badge, Banner, Regalla, Button and Novelty Workers' Union No. 14065—Alice O'Rourke, 1 vote.

Badge, Banner, Regalla, Button and Novelty Workers' Union No. 14237—Kathryn M. Duffy, 1 vote.

Bookkeepers, Stenographers and Accountants' Union No. 12646—Elizabeth C. Morris, 1 vote.

Commercial Portrait Artists' Union No. 14286—Charles V. Lawlor, 1 vote.

Egg Inspectors' Union No. 8705—Edward Lampa, 2 votes.

Elevator Conductors and Starters' Union No. 11559—J. J. McAndrews, 3 votes.

Elevator Operators' Union No. 14214—John J. Cunningham, 1 vote.

Federal Labor Union No. 12362—Charles Woodhouse, 1 vote.

Fish Splitters and Handlers' Union No. 14270—John Sinclair, 2 votes.

Grain Workers' Association No. 11407—Ernest Bohm, 1 vote.

Laborers' Protective Union No. 8079—George Waldron, 6 votes.

Newsboys' Union No. 9077—Thomas J. Mulkern, 2 votes.

Newspaper and Mail Deliverers' Union No. 9463—John R. Dunne, 10 votes.

Railroad Helpers and Laborers' Union No. 14075—J. E. Johnson, 1 vote.

Riggers' Protective Union No. 11561—L. Beckman, 2 votes.

Sugar Refinery Employees' Union No. 13053—Manny Weiss, 4 votes.

Stenographers and Typists Association No. 12755—L. Plasterer, 1 vote.

Theater Employees' Union No. 14089—M. R. Labbee, 1 vote.

Theatrical Tailors and Dressers' Union No. 12719—Louis Gold, 1 vote.

British Trades Union Congress—J. A. Seddon, R. Smillie, 2 votes.

Canadian Trades and Labor Congress—John W. Bruce, 1 vote.

National Women's Trade Union League—Mrs. Raymond Robins.

Federal Council of the Churches of Christ—Rev. Charles S. Macfarland, Rev. Henry A. Atkinson.

American Federation of Catholic Societies—Rev. Peter Dietz.

Church Association for the Advancement of Labor—Rev. James Bishop Thomas.

EDWARD J. MARX, Chairman.

W. A. NEER,

DUNCAN McDONALD, Secretary.

Secretary McDonald—Certain credentials have been protested. These will be taken up by the committee. We will meet the delegates concerned in the committee room.

A motion was made by Secretary McDonald that the report as read be adopted. (Seconded).

Mr. John Mangan—May I be permitted to ask a question? In view of no mention having been made concerning the credentials of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers, may I ask what disposition has been made of them by the committee?

President Gompers—The question is upon the report of the Committee on Credentials of delegates entitled to seats. Any other matter will be acted on later.

Mr. Mangan—May I be permitted to ask the committee through the chair what disposition has been made of the credentials?

Secretary McDonald—The committee will give that question a hearing later.

The motion to adopt the partial report of the committee was carried.

Secretary McDonald—I desire to have representatives of the following organizations meet with the committee later:

The International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers, J. T. Kinsella, John Mangan. Protested by the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters Helpers.

The American Flint Glass Workers Union, T. W. Rowe, William P. Clarke, Charles F. Green. Protested by the International Association of Machinists.

Hudson County, N. J. Central Labor Union, Edward H. Mead. Protested by the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters Helpers.

Evansville, Indiana, Central Labor Union, John J. Keegan.

President Gompers—The chair desires to submit the following names for the respective offices of this convention and as assistants to us in our work:

Assistant Secretary, Peter Bohrer, Jr., Typographical Union No. 15; Sergeant-at-Arms, James Patterson, Sheet Metal Workers' Union No. 46; Messenger, John H. Baker, Painters and Decorators Union No. 150.

No objection being offered to the appointments, the chair stated that they were confirmed.

At 12 o'clock the convention was adjourned, to reconvene at 2 p. m. of the same day.

First Day—Monday Afternoon Session

The convention was called to order at 2 p. m., Monday, November 11th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Noschang, Baine, Thomas, Wheeler, Goelintz, Barnes, Zuckerman, Russell, McNulty, Feeney, Daley (Margaret), Altman, Dyche, Pierce, Rosenberg, Lawlor, O'Neal, Williams (John), McSorley, Taggart, Bryan, Healey (Dennis), O'Connor, Price, Call, Daly (T. M.), Leary (Geo.), White, Hayes (F. J.), Lewis, Green (Wm.), Holland, Curran, Weber (J. N.), Winkler, Carey (J. T.), Woll, Murphy, Nelson, Whitehead, Halpine, Hart, Wilson (Harry), Mulhall, Miller (J. F.), Gallagher (J. T.), Huddleston, Freely, Sumner, Grimshaw, Welch (M. R.), Brals, Biggs, Starr, Donnelly, Ryan (P. J.), Behrens, Young, Swick, Fitzgerald, McCarthy (Frank), Smith (Frank), Campbell, Glidden, Burke, Hicks, Kane, Doherty, Berry (H. C.), Ferguson, Draper, McGrath (P. J.), Pace, Morgan, James, Stokes, Henley, Morris (J. F.), Bates, Snellings, English, O'Rourke, Lawler (C. V.), Cunningham, Waldron, Plasterer, Labbee, Gold.

President Gompers—This morning the chair called attention to the fact that a letter had been received from the Governor of the State of New York. The Secretary will read the letter.

Secretary Morrison read the following letter:

State of New York, Executive Chamber,
Albany, November 8, 1912.

Hon. Samuel Gompers, President, American Federation of Labor, Rochester, N. Y.

Dear Mr. Gompers—Official business compels me to forego the pleasure of being present at your important meeting, which I had looked forward to with the idea of presenting to the delegates here present, some suggestions on the importance of the relation between the employer and the employee. I am able, therefore, only to offer a few suggestions for lines of thought in your deliberations.

In our land there is no honest and efficient worker who is not inspired by the vision of opportunity and ambition—especially when we consider the tremendous significance of the fact that the difference between America and other nations is that our contemporary countries are confronted with problems and evils that grow out of the hopeless and grinding poverty of the ill-paid and ill-fed masses of their population, while the problems with which we are confronted grow out of the boundless and ever-increasing industrial wealth of our people.

Our country still holds for the poor man a horizon not bounded by a vista of inevitable dependence on charity. Here any man can speak to another man without a lurking feeling of condescension, and a civil word from a poor man is not always a covert hint for a gratuity.

This Commonwealth has enacted laws pursuant to an enlightened public opinion giving to the toiler at the shuttle and spindle, at forge and loom better conditions and hours, and a better place of abode. The relations of capital to labor is a well-worn phrase. Yet capital and labor are, if not synonymous, at least interblending terms, for the capitalist is a toiler, even if only with his brain, and the laborer is a capitalist, even if his sole capital is that of brawn.

Employer and employee are coming to a better understanding. Industrial peace through arbitration is coming to be the rule, whereas a few years ago it was the exception. Neither employer nor employee can to-day say we have nothing to arbitrate. Public sentiment will not tolerate it, and public sentiment is, in such matters, common sense codified. Peaceful arbitration of industrial disputes is the demand of our day. Human conditions are rarely ideal; but we are making conditions better, and we must make them still better. For the wise solution of our economic and industrial problems depends upon the well-being and contentment of society; and we can look forward to the future with confidence; we can look the world in the face and promise a peaceful solution of every economic problem and a just settlement of every pressing social question.

With every good wish for the success of your meeting, and the hope that only good will result from the coming together of this representative body, I am,

Very truly yours,

JOHN A. DIX.

Secretary Morrison read the following telegrams:

"Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 11. 1912.

"Samuel Gompers, President A. F. of L., Convention Hall, Rochester, N. Y.

"Greetings to the delegates to the Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, the hope of the men and women of labor, the bulwark of democracy, the only militant organization demanding for the workers absolute political and industrial freedom, and the truest exponent of the Magna Charta.

"JEROME JONES."

New York, N. Y., Nov. 11, 1912.

"The American Federation of Labor, Convention Hall, Rochester, N. Y.

"United Hebrew Trades of New York are sending their hearty congratulations. We are happy to note your growing power and influence. We shall endeavor in the future as we have done in the past to group the Jewish workers under the glorious banner of the American Federation of Labor. Long live organized labor.

"B. WEINSTEIN, Secretary."

Appointment of Committees.

President Gompers—In compliance with the provisions of our law the President makes the following appointments for the respective committees, subject to the ratification of this convention.

Secretary Morrison read the following list of committee appointments:

Committee on Rules and Order of Business—T. A. Rickert, Jacob Fischer, W. J. Pfeiffer, John Sullivan, E. T. Walls, C. F. Bailey, C. C. Shay, M. M. Donoghue, J. T. Carey, D. G. Biggs, M. F. Green, M. F. Tracy, H. P. Corcoran, T. J. Carolan, H. M. Donnelly.

Committee on President's Report—A. Furuseth, Frank Duffy, G. L. Berry, James Wilson, W. D. Clark, Charles L. Baine, Owen Miller, William Green, Thomas F. Tracy, James J. Creamer, Hugh Stevenson, T. V. O'Connor, Homer D. Cail, Martin Lawlor.

Committee on Secretary's Report—R. H. Curran, Wesley Russell, D. F. Featherston, John M. Gillespie, I. N. Hylen, J. P. Miller, James F. Malley, Wm. McKay, Edw. E. Shilling, J. P. McGinley, S. L. Landers, John J. Henley, J. F. Morris, Chas. E. James, L. W. Butler.

Committee on Treasurer's Report—J. W. Kline, T. J. Dolan, T. J. Gallagher, William J. Adams, Daniel Harrington, Frank B. Glynn, Thomas L. Hughes, Harry Wilson, Joseph B. Etchison, Geo. E. Neisham, M. R. Welch, Jeremiah A. Kane, Clarence E. Swick, Geo. C. Campbell, C. W. Woodman.

Committee on Resolutions—James Duncan, John P. Frey, B. A. Larger, W. D. Mahon, M. F. Ryan, E. F. Ward, Joseph N. Weber, John T. Smith, John A. Voll, J. A. Franklin, E. C. Strelle, C. P. Fahey, Sol. Sonthelmer, Matt Comerford, Jas. R. Crozier.

Committee on Laws—John B. Lennon, J. C. Skemp, Daniel J. Tobin, Roady Kenehan, T. A. Hanson, S. E. Heberling, James P. Eagan, James H. Sullivan, Joseph Morton, Harvey Garman, Thomas Rumsey, Stephen Sumner, Chas. A. Sumner, Dennis Healey, James Starr.

Committee on Organization—James M. Lynch, John P. White, John Williams, T. M. Daly, Joseph Proebstle, John T. Taggart, John A. Dyche, A. J. Gallagher, Thos. D. Fitzgerald, A. A.

Myrup, John Hanley, Frank A. Scoby, Henry Prinz, Fred C. Wheeler, Charles E. Pfeil.

Committee on Labels—John F. Tobin, Jere L. Sullivan, Louis Kemper, M. Swartz, H. J. Conway, E. J. Brais, J. M. Barnes, F. X. Noschang, Max S. Hayes, Max Zuckerman, Henry Koch, Wm. L. Hoefgen, J. Birnes, J. J. Morris, Fred Brockhausen.

Committee on Adjustment—John Mitchell, Matthew Woll, John Goluen, T. W. McCullough, Frank H. McCarthy, E. Lewis Evans, Edward Flore, W. H. Fitzgerald, Ed. Anderson, Victor Altman, George Leary, Hugh Shalvoy, Hugh Robinson, W. E. Bryan, Wm. Taber.

Committee on Education—Joseph F. Valentine, James J. Freel, D. A. Carey, Ben Commons, John H. Walker, Paul Scharrenberg, James L. Gernon, Phil Mueller, Agnes Nestor, John F. Pierce, John D. Crane, Thomas Wright, C. A. Mulhall, Fred W. Sutor, Edwin W. Veeke.

Committee on State Organizations—John R. Alpine, Edward A. Bates, Wm. J. Kelly, P. J. Ryan, H. S. Marshall, Chas. P. Moyer, Chas. N. Glover, George W. Pring, Frank Butterworth, Judson O'Neal, Walter Price, J. L. Lanigan, Thomas Van Lear, Abraham Rosenberg, A. J. Chlopek.

Committee on Local and Federated Bodies—H. B. Perham, Oscar F. Nelson, James G. Hannahan, John J. Hynes, James F. Holland, Alvin C. Howes, Chas. E. Heritage, Martin Goellnitz, Thos. Harrison, Frank Grimshaw, Edw. Menge, L. Hart, J. W. Holder, Geo. Miller, Andries Meyer.

Committee on Building Trades—W. D. Huber, James A. Short, George Hedrick, Frank Feeney, W. J. Tracy, M. O'Sullivan, Wm. J. McSorley, F. J. McNulty, Frank E. Thomas, D. D'Alessandro, E. J. McGivern, W. H. Johnston, James Garvey, F. C. Gengenback, Thos. J. Williams.

Committee on Boycotts—D. A. Hayes, James B. Connors, Margaret C. Daley, Timothy Healy, Thomas S. Farrell, Frank J. Hayes, A. J. Kugler, J. F. Winkler, Alex. Archie, A. M. Schwartz, Frank O'Brien, Jos. Smith, T. M. Cavanaugh, William J. Cook, B. F. Lamb.

On motion, duly seconded, the committee appointments were confirmed by the convention.

Reports of Officers.

First Vice-President Duncan presided during the reading of the report of President Gompers. At the conclusion of the report the chairman stated that the report, following the usual custom, would be referred to the Committee on President's Report, and that printed copies would be distributed to the delegates.

President Gompers in the chair.

Secretary Morrison and Treasurer Lennon read portions of their reports, omitting the tabulated financial statements. The reports were referred to the Committee on Secretary's Report and the Committee on Treasurer's Report, and later printed copies were distributed to the delegates.

The Convention Committee distributed handsome souvenir badges to the delegates.

The chairmen of the various committees announced places of meeting for the purpose of organizing immediately upon the adjournment of the convention.

At 5 p. m. the convention was adjourned, to reconvene at 9 a. m. Tuesday, November 12th.

PRESIDENT GOMPERS' REPORT.

---

ROCHESTER, N. Y., November 11, 1912.

To the Officers and Delegates to the Thirty-second Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor:

FELLOW TRADE UNIONISTS: The past year has been one of steady, undeterred advances toward better conditions and a position of greater influence, despite severe trials. The events of the year have brought out the reasonableness and practicability of our methods and aims. What at the time our critics and antagonists declared to be the forerunner of our ultimate disintegration, only served to bring out the devotion and the tenacity of purpose of the membership of organized labor, the honesty and stability upon which our movement is builded. We have ever made progress surely and safely, undeceived by beguiling crusades that, like a will-o'-wisp, allure the unwary into treacherous bogs. It is no easy matter to maintain an open mind, aware of new forces and tendencies, able and alert to detect the real from the spurious, the lasting from the ephemeral, in a day when the minds of all mankind are pondering the problems of society and straining after solutions. With the progress of the ages has come a widening of men's thoughts and social vision, a new appreciation of the meaning of life with its attendant responsibilities and obligations. Among men and women of all walks of life has come this awakening; all manner of social solutions are urged; all kinds of associations for the promotion of special reforms have arisen. The accumulated momentum of all these activities has swept away the mental atmosphere generated by the old individualistic philosophy, made way for broader, more generous sympathies and impulses, and enlightened, scientific efforts to achieve the highest development industrially, politically, socially, and morally. In starting the forces that have led to these changes, our much misrepresented organized labor movement has wielded an influence previously little understood outside our ranks. As is just, we profit also by the changes we have created, for this wider social vision has enabled men to see the justice of our work and of our fundamental principles and purposes. Today we find innumerable organizations working independently, or willing to co-operate with us, to the end that workers shall be enabled to have better working conditions, a shorter working day and better wages, that our life may be wholesome, clean, and uplifting. All of these things are stepping-stones by which the toilers climb upward and onward—each step revealing a wider horizon and an increasing conception of human possibilities.

In reviewing the progress of Labor, two viewpoints are necessary to present the whole development: A dynamic examination to show advancement, tendencies, causes, etc.; a static examination, or a cross-section of the present civilization, to show relations with present conditions, problems, and needs. Contemplation of the progress of Labor reveals the journey upward through the centuries from the status of slavery to serfdom, to villanage, and finally to freedom, opening the road to a new plane of battle—legal, individual freedom did not as such secure industrial and social freedom. The struggle to secure for the individual, opportunity for development of mental, physical, and moral powers that he might enter into his rightful heritage, joy in life and work, began with juristic freedom and is the inspiration of our present activities. To show what progress we have made, one has only to turn the pages of history. The organized workman of today enjoys comforts of which feudal barons never dreamed—comforts of home, heating, furnishing, sanitation, food, and clothing; his children receive in the public schools an education more comprehensive than medieval universities could bestow; his opportunities for intellectual stimulation and social amusement have increased a thousandfold; his advantages in transportation and communication have revolutionized living. These same pages of history tell the story of how those who labor have been able to secure so much greater proportion of the social wealth. Wherever the working people have made progress, some form of organization has been the agency that has transformed individual impotency into collective strength—fraternities, lodges, merchant guilds, craft guilds have been helpful, but the labor unions, trade unions, have been the most potent factors in the forward movement. A survey of methods shows that the forms of "labor war" have been constantly refined; free workmen do not employ the methods of revolting slaves. As the workers' organizations were strengthened, more benefits were secured; as a result of these benefits, the workers developed physically and mentally and were able to produce more wealth; with a broader outlook and increased self-appreciation, new demands were formulated—so the cycle of progress continues. This dynamic examination presents achievements of which we are justly proud, affords encouragement for continuation of the struggle. The setbacks have been temporary; what seemed at the time disasters, the historic perspective reveals as incentives to new methods and activities; increased well-being has been permanent.

The static examination deals with the movement at close range, endeavors to present forces, relations, activities of a single epoch—as it were, snap-shots of the movement in action. Such a view enables one to take readings of our various records that indicate our progress at that time; allows us to get our bearings, sense our strength, our opportunities. Often dangers loom up large and threatening; injustice, suffering, sorrow on all sides, warn us that the fight is not yet ended. But these phenomena can not be estimated apart from their relations to the past in which they have their origin, and the satisfaction from the glance backward encourages us for the work before us.

The demand for higher wages represents our conviction that a constantly greater share of increased social wealth should go to those who create it. The progress of humanity results from the elimination of poverty. Poverty means degrading environment and influence that result in intellectual and moral degeneration. Permanent amelioration of the human lot must have as its basis material resources. The next step is to distribute these products so that the greatest number may fairly benefit thereby. As an element in the forces determining distribution, the trade union has been most potent. A comparison of conditions prevailing among unorganized with those that have employed collective bargaining, reveals unmistakable proofs of the beneficent results due to trade unionism. Higher wages mean better homes, better clothing, better food, better bodies and minds, recreation, a higher standard of life.

The aim for a higher standard of life is the incentive for the demand for a shorter workday. The verdicts of modern scientists are confirming the fundamental importance of this demand which the trade union has so long been pressing. These scientists are warning us against the danger to the race from the continuous industrial strain and concentration of energy in modern industry. Commerce and industry can be allowed to exploit the leisure of the workers only at the expense of national well-being. The shorter workday means increased efficiency of the worker in the shop, better, longer, and happier living, and development of the higher emotions and feelings. It increases the productive period of the worker, lengthens his life, and enables him longer to provide for those dependent upon him, that the children may have an opportunity to taste of the pleasures of child life before assuming the burdens of the human "struggle for existence."

This more efficient, more human worker, demands better working conditions, the aim being to conserve human resources. Much has been done to let pure air and sunshine into working places, to exclude conditions breeding organisms injurious to life, but ever-increasing knowledge and the widening of our conception forbid us to stop or stay in the crusade for human welfare. Among all the organizations on the American continent working upon the various phases of this great problem, the American Federation of Labor is the leader, and has often been the pioneer blazing the way.

These three demands of organized labor are comprehended in this larger and ultimate ideal—to enrich, enlarge, and magnify humanity. The influence and the potency of the American Federation of Labor are so well appreciated by the thinkers and leaders in our nation's affairs, that almost every considerable movement for humanitarian, economic, or political reform has endeavored to enlist our approval and support. Men of labor, we play an honorable and important part in the affairs of this great nation. We are daily helping to determine its destiny.

But in spite of many alluring proposals, many new prophets proclaiming, "Lo! here," and "Lo! there," the American Federation of Labor has ever cleaved to the old and tried fundamental propositions upon which we have builded our organization. We have not been deluded by fads or impractical visions, but have ever examined each new one to see whether it contained that one essential quality—furtherance of human welfare. We have been wedded to the cause and to the movement for the protection, development, and advancement of the people. We have ever endeavored to maintain an alertness, an awareness of the needs and tendencies of the times that members of our organizations and our fellow-workers might profit thereby. In the political field we have taken advantage of every opportunity, and often created opportunities, which, in a fair degree, promised tangible results in the interests of the workers, the masses of our people. In our movement the political methods and instrumentalities are of less consequence than the attainment of the objects which we seek. There has been no factor in all our land so effective in establishing the initiative and referendum as the American Federation of Labor, because we believe that through that system a safer method would exist by which, with a well organized labor movement, real democracy shall be realized. Here, as in all political problems, we realize that democracy will not come to pass automatically as a result of the machinery, but only as a result of political education and aroused sense of responsibility. Hence, the American Federation of Labor has ever endeavored to direct, warn, and rouse the voters of the country to the designs and activities of the forces that would sacrifice social welfare to individual, industrial, commercial, and political profits. When political machinery renders officialdom responsive to public opinion and humanitarian interest, an alert, educated, interested electorate will achieve democracy.

As a result of the recent awakening of the workers of the United States, this growing realization of their political power and influence, more progress in remedial, constructive legislation has been made this year than in the decade previous. We do need new devices and new methods of political expression, but not half as much as we need to realize and to use the power that we now possess, to consecrate ourselves and our ability to humanity's cause.

As labor organizations have been able to secure advantages for their members, they have endeavored as far as possible to share these with the workmen not enrolled in their ranks. We have endeavored to help them to help themselves, to organize, federate, and educate their fellow-workers so that we shall hasten the time when poverty, with its fear and degradation, shall be eliminated, and the way opened for lasting progress. Rights and privileges that are today entrusted to our care, are the fruits of past struggles. We are obligated to preserve inviolate the things entrusted to our keeping, and to account for them with interest to the next age.

As is my privilege and duty, I shall now present for your consideration some of the various phases of the activities of the American Federation of Labor not covered by the report of the Executive Council, which will be presented later. The phases dealt with were chosen as representative and distinctive. Study of them will reveal many reasons for encouragement and good cheer. Though shadow and darkness have passed over us, yet we have not lost in strength, influence, or organization. We are planning to enter upon big and difficult problems and undertakings.

ORGANIZATION AND GROWTH.

It is exceedingly gratifying to report the extension and growth of the American Federation of Labor, as well as the membership of affiliated organizations. The American Federation of Labor issued 260 certificates of affiliation (charters) during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1912, as follows:

Department.....	1
International unions.....	2
State federations.....	2
City central bodies.....	57
Local trade unions.....	149
Federal labor unions.....	49

At the close of the fiscal year there were affiliated to the organization:

Departments.....	5
International unions.....	112
State federations.....	41
City central bodies.....	560
Local trade unions.....	434
Federal labor unions.....	156

The average membership reported and upon whom per capita tax was paid by the affiliated organizations to the American Federation of Labor during the past year, was 1,770,145, an increase over the number reported for 1911, which was 1,761,835. On September 30, 1912, the membership of affiliated organizations was 1,841,268.

Perhaps it would be well to again repeat that our international organizations each have jurisdiction over the classes of work performed by their respective memberships within the American continent. Each international is composed of various local unions. Affiliated to the 112 internationals belonging to our Federation, are 20,964 local unions.

The success and the growing appreciation of the value of organization along international lines has been particularly gratifying during the past year. This progress is discussed under the section on Canada in this report and in the American Federationist for June and September, 1912.

The State and city central bodies are composed of representatives from various local organizations; such organizations are intended to secure for the workers advantages impossible of achievement by isolated organizations or those who often call themselves "independent." It is an isolation and independence on a par with the position of impotency of the non-union "independent" wage-worker.

The city central bodies and State federations have been of tremendous importance in securing for the workers in the local unions and for all wage-earners, improved conditions in all the affairs and interests of the working people.

Our international unions and our American Federation of Labor can do the cause of Labor no greater benefit than by encouraging and assisting, in strengthening and extending, the power and influence of the State federations and central bodies, and by seeing to it that the spirit, as well as the letter of our laws, shall be enforced requiring that local unions shall be represented in these bodies.

It will be seen that there are now 112 international unions affiliated, and from that bare statement a wrong inference may be drawn that there is a smaller number of organized workers in international unions. The fact is, that during the past few years there has been a process of amalgamation. Then, again, others have had their charters either revoked or suspended, as will be shown in Secretary Morrison's report.

CANADA.

The year 1912 marks a new epoch in the development of the international trade union movement in Canada. From the Atlantic to the Pacific there has been an awakening to the value of organization under international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The marked difference between the condition of members of trade unions and that of unorganized workers has induced thousands of indifferent workers, who had never identified themselves with the movement, to seek admission to the organizations of their craft or calling. In all the chief industrial centers unsolicited applications for membership were received by the business agents and secretaries of the different labor organizations. Government statistics show that wages have increased during the past ten years. These statistics also show that where increases in wages have been obtained they were almost entirely the result of the organization of the workers into international trade unions.

Reports from every industrial center indicate that by either collective bargaining or the use of the strike, remarkable progress has been made in shortening hours of labor and increasing wages. Statistics compiled by union officials show that wage increases in some cases have been as much as two hundred and fifty dollars a year and reduction in working time as much as twelve hours a week. Viewing the question of trade union membership from the standpoint of investment in dues and assessments, the returns for the year show the payment of dividends anywhere from 260 to 2,777 per cent. These splendid results, coming at a time when public attention has been constantly drawn to the surprising increase in the cost of living, have contributed to the widespread interest in the organized labor movement, while the value of international affiliations has been emphasized by that solidarity which alone can command the respect of the employing interests.

The organizers of the American Federation of Labor, the international unions, and the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, have worked harmoniously to build up trades and labor organizations wherever the workers could be brought together for that purpose. The consensus of opinion among these organizers is that this year has been the best in the history of the labor movement in Canada. On the other hand, there is every indication that the attempts to develop the purely Canadian type of trades unionism isolated from the general American movement, are doomed to failure. In the Province of Quebec, where the boot and shoe workers have been organized upon national lines, there has been a sudden breaking away from the Independent United Shoe Workers of America in Montreal so that only a remnant of that movement exists in the city of Quebec. This weakening of the forces of the nationalists was also emphasized at the recent convention of the "Canadian Federation of Labor" when a mere handful of delegates met to represent a few scattered local organizations of miners, boot and shoe workers, and miscellaneous trades. The International Boot and Shoe Workers' Union is now in complete control in Montreal, and has established unions in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland.

The convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, held at Guelph, Ontario, September 9-14, inclusive, was the most successful in the history of the Congress, and revealed remarkable development. Over 240 delegates, from Victoria, B. C., in the West, to Glace Bay on Cape Breton Island in the East, were present to represent between 60,000 and 70,000 international trade unionists directly, and over 140,000 indirectly. The report of the secretary-treasurer showed growth in the numerical strength and a surplus of about $5,500 in the treasury. Matters of great importance to the trade union movement of the Dominion were considered at the convention, including the preparation of Labor's case to be presented to the special committee on old-age pensions, appointed by the Canadian Federal Government; the report of the special committee on workmen's compensation for the Province of Ontario; the demand for the repeal of the Lemieux Industrial Disputes Act; strong opposition to the relaxation of restrictions on immigration; and an urgent demand for the appointment of a Royal Commission to investigate labor conditions among the mine and steel workers of Nova Scotia.

Owing to the method of intimidation used by the Dominion Coal and Steel Corporation to break up the international trade union movement, it was urged that a determined effort be made by the international unions interested to defeat the purpose of this powerful corporation. The president of the Congress and organizer O'Dell of the boot and shoe workers, while performing their duties as organizers, stated that in the coal and steel districts they were not only shadowed by the company's special police, but were prevented from holding meetings among the mine and steel workers in some districts. On this question the Congress took very definite action, and through its Executive Council will demand a thorough investigation by a Government commission. One serious phase of the situation in the Nova Scotia coal districts is the attitude of the Provincial Workmen's Association, an organization of miners acting as an ally of the coal and steel corporation and in bitter opposition to the bona fide international miners' organization. To unite the Provincial Workmen's Association and the United Mine Workers of America is the task to which the leaders in the international movement must apply themselves to effect a thorough and speedy organization of the mine and steel workers.

Through the joint action of the Ontario executive of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada and the officers of the Toronto Street Railway Employees' Union, the Provincial Legislature has passed an act guaranteeing to all employees of the street and electric railway companies one day off each week and a working day not to exceed ten hours. For violation of the provisions of this act the penalty imposed upon the employers is a fine of $250 for each offense. Similar legislation will be asked by the street and electric railway employees in the other Provinces of the Dominion. Obtaining such legislation by organized labor has been the means of strengthening the organizations of street railway employees. The Toronto union alone added over 500 new members to its roll during the past year, and obtained annual wage increases amounting to $140,000 under a three years' agreement.

Significant victories for organized labor were achieved by the garment workers of Montreal; by the freight handlers in the employ of the Canadian Northern Railway Company at Fort William, Ontario; and by the construction men on the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian Northern Railway in Western Canada. The Royal Commission on Industrial Training and Technical Education, a member of which is ex-Vice-President Simpson of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, is now completing its report. The result of the work of this commission will be presented to the Minister of Labor in the early part of December so that the Parliament of Canada may deal with it in the approaching session. The commissioners not only made a thorough survey of Canada with a view to ascertaining what the country had in equipment, what was needed and how these needs were to be met, but also visited the best industrial and technical schools of the United States and several countries in Europe investigating the system of industrial and technical education in operation. The findings of the Commission will be a valuable contribution to industrial and technical education.

The Quebec executive committee of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada has been successful in obtaining legislation abolishing property qualification for those running as candidates for municipal honors in the Province. This legislation will remove one of the most serious obstacles to working class representation in municipal councils. Several accounts of this splendid progress in Canada, furnished by Mr. James Simpson, have been published in the American Federationist, and have enabled the trade unionists in the Dominion to follow this significant development in the labor movement.

The trade unionists of Canada witnessed a wonderful development in the labor press during the past year, supplementing and aiding the development in organization. There is today a chain of well-edited labor papers from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

With the widening of commercial organization and the development of world-wide markets, has come the identification of the aims and purposes of the working-men of the countries on this continent and the breaking down of artificial boundaries.

PORTO RICO.

Statistics collected in Porto Rico show that from November, 1901, up to the present time, 290 local, federal, and central unions have been organized under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor and the various internationals. The record shows that there are 160 unions with 9,000 members in good standing at the present time. Last year 23 unions were organized in different towns of the Island. One daily labor paper is published, three weekly papers and bulletins for several local unions. This is indeed a creditable showing when the backward industrial conditions of the Island and the brief time that organized labor has been operating in that field, are taken into consideration.

Working conditions have been steadily improving as the trade and industry of the Island have increased, and with them organization of the workers. During the past year the external trade of Porto Rico reached a total of $92,000,000; nearly 90 per cent of this trade was with the United States. The Island brought from the mainland markets, during the past year, over $40,000,000 of manufactured products and supplied our markets with about an equal amount of products.

Legislation that the citizens of Porto Rico are extremely desirous of obtaining from the Congress of the United States includes the following measures: Citizenship for Porto Rico; Department of Labor and Agriculture, and a new Organic Law for the Island.

A sentiment of earnest and sincere loyalty for the United States has been developing upon the Island. The Islanders are rapidly becoming Americans in sympathy, ideals, and customs, and to no factor is this sentiment more due than to the American Federation of Labor and its organized fellow-unionists of the Island. During the year the representative of the labor organizations of Porto Rico, Mr. Santiago Iglesias, in co-operation with the American Federation of Labor, has been insistently pressing upon the attention of the members of Congress a bill which would grant citizenship to the people of Porto Rico. Progress made toward this end is taken up under the section on legislation in this report.

During the month of September, the first Bureau of Labor in Porto Rico was established. The second chief of the Bureau is a member of a carpenters' union at Mayaguez. This Bureau will be of special value to the labor people of the Island, as it will afford them a clearing house for the discussion of economic conditions and needs within the Island. Tactful work on the part of the Labor Bureau will bring about many needed reforms. Wages, hours, and misemployment of women and children are the grievances that need most immediate relief.

The public school system has been extended throughout the Island. Attendance has increased from 20,000 to 160,000. Although the system of education has been improved, there is a most evident need on the part of the school to connect intimately with the social needs of the Island. The system used in America has been introduced, with very little attempt to adapt it to the social and industrial conditions prevailing in Porto Rico. To produce most effective results, the school system should take into consideration the backward industrial conditions, the most immediate needs of the people for instruction in the practical things in life, that they may learn how to live and work. Since the greatest need of the Island from the vocational standpoint is improvement in agricultural methods and mechanical pursuits, the greatest service the school could perform for the country would be along these lines.

A most illuminating report of educational conditions was made at the request of Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, and George R. Colton, Governor of Porto Rico, by Meyer Bloomfield, Director of the Vocational Bureau of Boston. Mr. Bloomfield states that while the present schools may result in better citizenship, Americanizing the children and lessening illiteracy, that there has been no corresponding progress in safe-guarding the economic welfare of the children by fitting them to cope with their environment. There does not seem to be that creative localization of the school which Porto Rican conditions require, and the standard of living of the masses and the probable future of the majority of the children demand. There is an immediate need of provision for adequate vocational training through the public schools of the Island. The economic needs are home makers, producers, skilled workers, self-reliant, and efficient bread winners. American teachers have done much during the time of occupation in purely intellectual instruction, and this is a notable achievement, but there is a larger and a wider function the school may serve, corresponding to the movement for the socialization of our own schools. Each American school on the Island, Mr. Bloomfield thinks, should be made a home center, from which all manner of social influences could emanate. The instructors in the school, by fitting up model homes adapted to local needs, could give the people instructions in home making, home sanitation, cooking, and all other practical necessities. The teaching of hygiene is most important in that tropical climate. Hence, the teachers must also give instruction in the conservation of health. This should include proper food, clothing, personal cleanliness, and disinfectants. Such an educational policy would result in substantial development of the Island population, socially and economically.

The delegates from Porto Rico introduced in the Atlanta Convention of the American Federation of Labor, a resolution petitioning that the President of the American Federation of Labor be instructed, when possible, after the adjournment of the convention, to make a tour of inspection of Porto Rico, because the Island was less favored by visits of high officials than any other part of the labor movement, and because such a visit would awaken sincere enthusiasm and give needed impetus to organization. This resolution was adopted by the convention, but at no time during the past year has it been possible for me to make the trip as instructed. Circumstances have so shaped themselves that it has been impossible for me to be out of touch with headquarters for any considerable length of time, and in addition was the trial in the contempt proceedings against Mr. Morrison, Mr. Mitchell, and myself, the continuation of the Hatters' case, and the situation of legislation in Congress.

CITIZENSHIP FOR PORTO RICANS.

The bill H. R. 20048, providing for citizenship for the people of Porto Rico, passed the House on March 4, 1912, and has since been before the Senate Committee on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico. The chairmanship of that committee was held by former Senator Lorimer of Illinois, who during the session of Congress was so thoroughly absorbed in his personal defense that he had but little or no time to give to public affairs; hence this important measure failed to obtain a favorable report by the committee, although, from a careful poll made, it is known that the sentiment of the members of the committee is favorably disposed toward the bill. The new chairman, Senator Poindexter, of Washington, has given assurance that he will call a meeting of the committee for the special purpose of considering this bill immediately upon the convening of the next session of Congress. It is known that the administration, including the Secretary of War and the Chief of the Bureau of Insular Affairs, together with the Governor of Porto Rico, are all actively co-operating with the American Federation of Labor for the early granting of citizenship to the Porto Ricans.

BUILDING TRADES DEPARTMENT.

William J. Spencer, secretary-treasurer of the Building Trades Department, reports the following principal features of the work in his department for the past year:

Notwithstanding the fact that there has been considerable friction between affiliated organizations during the past year, there has been made an unusual degree of progress in solving the problems that have confronted these allied trades. While there have been many differences to be considered and harmonized, this condition does not indicate lack of progress, but on the other hand it is the normal result of progress and of the necessity of adopting methods and organization to meet new conditions and new methods within the industry, and to make mechanical inventions react for the betterment of the workers. The chief cause of differences in the building trades growing out of questions of jurisdiction, is the invention of machinery and methods for cheapening production by eliminating high priced skilled labor.

Perhaps the best evidence of steady and continuous development in the Building Trades Department is found in the fact that it has succeeded in promoting a higher type of contractual relationship between the employing interests of the building trades and the affiliated internationals. This condition has been produced by the activity and energy of the department and the affiliated organizations in removing the cause for trade conflict between allied bodies, thereby necessarily decreasing the number of sympathetic strikes. They have been able to reduce the number of sympathetic strikes and to settle effectually and with little friction grave and complex problems which a few years ago would have resulted in radical action. The department has served as a sort of general clearing house where the dissatisfied members might confer in regard to the conflicting trade jurisdiction and reach some mutually agreeable understanding, or at least postpone contemplated action, hoping that time and reason would meanwhile work out a solution. It is gratifying to report that several cases of this nature have been so disposed of during the year. There is a growing feeling of responsibility for the maintenance of contracts with the builders and contractors.

Healthy progress in the internal affairs of the department during the past year is unmistakably indicated by the following summary of affiliated bodies taken from the annual report of the secretary-treasurer to be presented to the convention of these allied trades which will convene upon the adjournment of that of the American Federation of Labor. Affiliated with the department are 19 international unions, 173 local councils, 2 State councils. The total number of organizations in good standing August 31, 1912, was 194. A gratifying increase in membership is indicated by the report. On the 31st of August, the total membership of the department was 476,238, an increase over the last year of 181,892. The financial resources of the department are equally encouraging. The balance on hand for September 1, 1911, was $3,235.96. The total receipts during the year were $23,592.44. The total disbursements during the year were $18,487.77, leaving a balance on hand September 1, 1912, of $8,340.63.

Several dual organizations were considered and acted upon during the year. Because of failure on the part of the organization to accept and abide by the terms of consolidation stipulated by the executive body of the American Federation of Labor, the American Federation of Labor revoked the charter of the Amalgamated Carpenters. In accordance with this action of the American Federation of Labor the Department notified the several local councils and advised them that locals of the Amalgamated Society were no longer eligible to membership. In several instances the instructions of the department have not yet been complied with. This is due principally to the negligence of the locals of the United Brotherhood in not affiliating with the councils. These cases are being taken up as rapidly as possible and the policy of the American Federation of Labor enforced. Effective maintenance of discipline in such cases requires unusual tact, firmness, and good judgment in order to secure voluntary and helpful co-operation.

The same course of conduct has been followed in the case of the electrical workers. So uniform and general has been the co-operation that few locals of the seceding body are identified with the local councils in good standing in this department.

Similar co-operation existed in the case of the steamfitters. Since the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor prescribed the terms and conditions under which the organization named is privileged to hold membership in the Federation and its subordinate bodies, the department has uniformly complied with the decision.

The Executive Council deemed it expedient to extend jurisdiction over the marble mosaic workers to the Ceramic, Mosaic, and Encaustic Tile Layers and Helpers' International Union. This arrangement will prevent the development of new jurisdictional disputes and will accord the workmen affected greater protection under a more resourceful organization.

With a single exception, all the eligible organizations of the building trades industry identified with the American Federation of Labor are in affiliation and hearty accord with the department. The only dissenting body is the Operative Plasterers' International Association. For more than a year this organization has failed to keep up its dues and has therefore been suspended. Since all overtures by the department and the Federation have been of no avail, it is the general opinion that the law governing departments should be invoked in the case of the Operative Plasterers' International Association.

METAL TRADES DEPARTMENT.

The secretary-treasurer of the Metal Trades Department, Albert J. Berres, has prepared a statement of the progress made by his department, the substance of which is herewith incorporated in this report:

The Los Angeles strike continued for a period covering more than twenty-one months. At the beginning of the fight organization among the workers of that city was in a deplorable condition. During the struggle, at the suggestion of this Department, the different internationals sent representatives to the coast and carried on an active and successful organizing campaign. In a short time, the number of strikers numbered 1,400; while the great majority of this number were new recruits in the labor movement, the report received from the secretary-treasurer of the strike committee shows that there were but twelve deserters during the long strike. It is generally conceded by those who were on the ground that our fight for the shorter workday would have been won, had it not been for the deplorable calamity in connection with the destruction of the Los Angeles Times building. Even with this handicap, after the public declaration of Labor's position and attitude toward the alleged crime, there was still a chance of winning, up to the time when the guilt of the McNamaras was established by their confession. Then it was recognized that there was no chance of winning the strike, or persuading the employers to make concessions. For the purpose of holding Los Angeles organizations together, in the latter part of February, 1912, at a conference between the California Metal Trades Association and the representatives of the Metal Trades, a resolution officially declaring the strike off was endorsed by all parties concerned. This department appealed to its various international organizations, having members employed in trades in Los Angeles, to render every assistance possible to keep the organizations there intact, and to extend them so that the fight for the eight-hour day might again be taken up at a more opportune time. Through these efforts the movement in Los Angeles has resulted in a healthier condition.

The Iron Trades Council of San Francisco and the California Metal Trades Association have so far been unable to agree upon terms regulating hours of labor and rates of wages in that city. Several conferences have been held by committees representing the Iron Trades Council and the California Metal Trades Association since the expiration of the last agreement. On July 12, 1912, the conferees representing both organizations agreed to recommend an agreement to their respective organizations. The agreement contained the following terms: A five-year contract on an eight-hour basis with the present wage-scale and the privilege to conform to shop conditions prevailing in the East. Grievances not relating to hours and wages covered by the agreement to be presented in writing by either party. A committee was to endeavor to settle the difficulty immediately. Grievances not settled in this manner to be referred to a conference. The agreement provided that the minimum wage of the craft should be raised from $3.50 per day to $3.75 per day, to continue at that rate for a period of twelve months, when the minimum should be raised to $4 per day. This agreement was submitted to both the Metal Trades Association and the Iron Trades Council for ratification, but received endorsement only by the Iron Trades Council. Since the rejection of the agreement by the employers, although much correspondence has passed between the two organizations, with the last report the whole matter was still in the hands of the San Francisco industrial conciliation board. The department is determined that nothing shall permanently deprive the Metal Trades of San Francisco of conditions which they enjoyed under the agreement which has expired.

Greater progress has been made since the last convention in securing the establishment of an eight-hour workday than has ever been achieved in any similar period. (This progress is enumerated under the caption "The New Eight-Hour law," in this report.)

It has been the conviction of this department that joint efforts are necessary to attain greater progress in organizing industries. During the year of 1911 the executive board decided to make a joint effort to organize the manufacturers of ice and refrigerating machinery. A number of affiliated organizations had made separate efforts to organize locals of their crafts among the men employed by the York Manufacturing Company, located at York, Pa. These separate efforts had failed. After conferring with the general superintendent of the plant in regard to organizing the plant, the various internationals responded readily to the call for assistance. A great enthusiasm among the men was stimulated, but the unusual progress alarmed the officials, who initiated a policy of intimidation of the employees. The department has met with considerable success in some localities in carrying out this work. We feel sure that persistent continuation of our policy will ultimately result in organization of these employees. The campaign has not been in vain, for it instilled into the men the spirit of co-operation, a conception of what can be attained through joint effort.

In accordance with the action of the Atlanta convention this department refused the per capita tax from the International Association of Steam, Hot Water and Power Pipe Fitters and Helpers of America, and has instructed all of its affiliated councils to comply with this decision of the American Federation of Labor. Only one council has refused to comply with the decision of the convention, and should it continue to maintain that position the department will take the necessary steps to require compliance.

Since the Atlanta convention of the Metal Trades Department the affiliation of the United Association of Plumbers, Gasfitters, Steamfitters, and Steamfitters Helpers of the United States and Canada has been secured. With the exception of one international organization, International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen, the department now has secured the affiliation of all eligible. So far, efforts to secure the co-operation of this international have not been successful. It is hoped that some action will be taken by the next convention of the American Federation of Labor relative to the affiliation of internationals that have been declared eligible to the department.

The Atlanta convention of the Metal Trades made a change in representation and voting strength in the conventions. For several years efforts had been made to secure to local councils representatives to the convention. After much discussion, the Atlanta convention agreed to grant local councils this representation. The internationals will have the same voting strength as they have in the conventions of the American Federation of Labor; each local council will vote, as do the central bodies and State federations of labor in the American Federation of Labor convention. In view of this change, the local councils given representation are required to pay dues to the amount of $12 per year, payable monthly. Since the majority of the metal trades are already affiliated with numerous labor organizations to which they pay dues, it is doubtful whether many of them can continue to pay this additional sum.

Another change determined upon by this convention was that of making the office of president of the department a salaried one. Since it was believed that more extensive and effective work could be performed if the president were enabled to give all of his time to this department, and since there was sufficient amount of funds on hand to give trial to the idea without increasing the per capita, the convention determined to pass the amendment.

The greatest weakness and hindrance in successfully carrying out joint movements result from the low dues prevailing in their organizations. Since joint effort is the special function for which this department was created, it has been carrying on a continuous campaign of education among the internationals. A high rate of dues and per capita adequate to carry on the work successfully, is necessary to co-operation with other trades, for the correction of bad conditions. The machinists, the metal polishers, the blacksmiths and boilermakers, have all enacted legislation for this purpose. Efforts will be continued until a higher rate of dues and per capita exists among all affiliated international unions as the basis for future success and progress.

From all reports an unusual condition exists in the ship-building industry. Every ship-building plant in the country is running at full speed. Some employers are trying to give the impression that it is impossible to get a sufficient number of mechanics for the operation of their plant. While the metal trades men are uniformly busy, there still remain some men unemployed who would accept work if the corporations paid a fairer rate of wages. Upon such a plea the Fore River Ship Building Company within the last few months has been granted permission by the Department of Commerce and Labor to import alien labor into this country, namely, template makers and loftsmen. This department and the other organizations of the metal trades protested against the granting of this privilege. The protest resulted in further investigation by the Department of Commerce and Labor to ascertain whether this corporation had made every effort to secure this kind of labor in this country under fair conditions. The effect of the department's activity and protest will prevent future recurrences of such permissions.

The Department of Commerce and Labor may be justified in criticizing the labor organizations on the ground that they do not give proper co-operation and assistance to that department. There should be more activity and watchfulness on the part of all organizations to prevent corporations from bringing in alien labor when the workers of this country are unemployed. The Metal Trades Department aims to inculcate individual responsibility so that workmen in all localities shall ascertain from immigrants what prompted them to come to this country, and under what conditions they came. Such individual efforts, especially in the centers where most of the immigrants are employed, will enable all organizations and the Department of Commerce and Labor to discover many of the schemes of the corporations. By joint effort and co-operation the law can be much more vigorously enforced.

During the past year charters to local councils have been issued in the following cities:

Belleville, Ill.; Kokomo, Ind.; Charleston, Mass.; Sacramento, Cal.; Akron, Ohio.

The total membership of the department on September 30, 1911, was 214,468. This represented a membership of eleven international organizations that were affiliated with this department. On September 30, 1912, the membership of the department was 222,012, showing an increase over the previous twelve months of 7,544. There had been deposited in the banks on September 30, 1912, $4,428.05. It is the earnest desire of this organization to educate metal trades men of the United States and Canada to the realization that sooner or later they will be compelled to take advantage of an organization which will enable them to cope with the present industrial conditions through joint effort. There is a growing inclination in the metal trades to unite for common progress and betterment.

MINING DEPARTMENT.

At the Atlanta Convention it was announced that the United Mine Workers of America and the Western Federation of Miners had organized a Mining Department and had presented their by-laws and constitution to the Executive Council asking for a charter. The charter was granted by the Executive Council. The secretary-treasurer of the department, Edwin Perry, reports that up to the present time the Mining Department has held two executive board meetings and extended invitations to the Longshoremen's and Iron Workers' organizations to affiliate with them. He reports that there is every reason to believe both of the organizations named will in the near future become a part of the department. The department had on hand a fund of $2,450. Their expenses so far have been purely nominal.

RAILROAD EMPLOYES DEPARTMENT.

H. B. Perham, chairman of the Railroad Employees Department, presented the following report:

"The work of the department for the past year has been principally along the lines of legislation and the advancement of the federation idea among railroad men.

"It has not assumed the protective phase as yet, but strong indications point to that as the next development. Up to the present time each organization affiliated has carried on its own work under its own laws as it did in the past, and there has been no interference between one organization and another.

"Democracy in action and fellowship have characterized its work, with the result that railroad employes are now closer together and better acquainted than they have ever been before. The unaffiliated organizations and those in the department are on good terms on every railroad system in the country, and the path towards perfect co-operation has been made easy wherever and whenever it may be needed.

"Amendments to the Federal arbitration law—commonly known as the Erdman Act—agreed upon and unanimously endorsed by the department, were introduced in the House of Representatives and referred to the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, from which body a favorable report is expected. It is altogether probable that Congress will adopt these amendments at the next session. They provide that all classes of employes on railroads engaged in interstate commerce may come under the act which in its present form only applies to engineers, firemen, conductors, brakemen, and telegraphers. Besides extending the scope of the law, the amendments provide for striking out the court features, which experience proved were ineffective in action and caused much vexatious delay and needless expense. The amendments will make the law a model of its kind, as experience with the old law has pointed out the weak clauses and the necessity for the additions which we hope to have inserted.

"The department unanimously endorsed amendments to the Hours of Service bill which affects telegraphers and signalmen, and provides for a straight eight-hour day for that class of employes. After exhaustive hearings before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, the bill containing the amendments was recommended for passage and is now on the calendar for consideration at the next session of Congress.

"There were several other bills affecting railroad employes that received attention, but owing to peculiar political conditions in the House and Senate they did not make the progress expected.

"Attention of railroad men is called to the recent decision of the Supreme Court of Kansas anent the 'Coercion Act' of Kansas. The act prohibits any employer, agent, etc., from demanding or influencing any person or persons to enter into any agreement, either written or verbal, not to join or become or remain a member of any labor organization or association as a condition of securing employment or continuing in the employment of such employer.' The decision of the Supreme Court of Kansas upheld this law. Legislative committees in all the States of the Union should now interest themselves in the matter and get a similar law enacted in every State in the Union."

UNION LABEL TRADES DEPARTMENT.

Thomas F. Tracy, secretary-treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department, presented the following review of the work performed during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1912:

"At the close of the fiscal year we have in affiliation with the department, 38 national and international unions, and with an approximate membership of 370,000. During the year three international unions affiliated with the department—the Leather Workers on Horse Goods' International Union, the Sheet Metal Workers' International Alliance, and the United Powder and High Explosive Workers of America.

"We have continued the work of organizing local departments as ordered by previous conventions, and during the year seventeen local departments, located in Scranton, Pa.; Cleveland, Ohio; Lancaster, Pa.; Kansas City, Mo.; St. Paul, Minn.; La Crosse, Wis.; Spokane, Wash.; Steubenville, Ohio; Springfield, Mass.; Birmingham, Ala.; Birmingham, N. Y.; Toronto, Canada; Danville, Ill.; Houston, Texas; Springfield, Ill.; Pittsburg, Pa., and Newark, N. J., were organized and affiliated, making a total of fifty local departments now in existence.

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

"While the number of local departments affiliated with us may appear to be a small number, yet when it is realized that practically every one of them was organized through correspondence, it can be seen that we have done fairly well in this direction in the last two years.

"The publication and issuance of a directory containing the names of manufacturers who are in agreement with our various affiliated organizations and who use the label of the same—which is really in fact what might be termed a fair list—has been continued by direction of the last convention. Three issues of this directory have been published during the year, a total of 55,000 directories in all.

"This directory has a wide circulation, and is sent to all local unions of international unions affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. There is a constant demand for it, not only from local unions, local departments and central labor unions, but from business men in various sections of the country who are desirous of purchasing union-made products.

"Several circular letters have been issued to all local unions, and other circular letters have been issued to central labor unions as well. In the work of publicity and distributing information that is of value and interest to our members and friends, during the year we have sent out from this office upwards of 150,000 pieces of mail and express matter, besides the regular correspondence of the office.

Union Labels.

"The increase in the output of union labeled products for the year 1912 as above the output for the year 1911 as compiled from reports received from the executive officers of our affiliated organizations is indeed gratifying, and for your information the following figures are quoted as reported:

	1911.	1912.	Increase.
United Brewery Workmen's Union.....	41,836,850	44,239,850	2,403,000
American Wire Weavers' Association.....	6,000	6,000	.....
Stove Mounters' International Union.....	20,000	22,000	2,000
United Cloth Hat, and Cap Makers.....	4,015,000	5,305,000	1,290,000
Tobacco Workers' International Union.....	383,900,000	408,925,000	25,025,000
Glove Workers' International Union.....	1,841,500	1,874,500	33,000
United Garment Workers.....	42,384,000	45,430,000	2,048,000
Bakery and Confectionery Workers.....	548,210,590	555,439,000	7,228,410
United Textile Workers.....	240,000	400,000	160,000
Travelers' Goods and Leather Workers.....	11,000	47,000	36,000
Journeyman Tailors' Union.....	511,000	529,681	18,681
International Molders' Union.....	.....	.....	28,100
Electrical Workers' Union.....	.....	.....	33,675
Cigarmakers' International Union.....	28,315,000	28,600,000	285,000
American Federation of Labor.....	9,309,000	9,423,000	114,000

"The International Brotherhood of Papermakers reports that during the year 24,000 labels were issued which were pasted upon bundles or rolls of paper. This is a material increase as above the year 1911. They further report that it is impossible to make any estimate on their watermark label, as this goes into the sheet and there is no means of knowing just how many of these labels are turned out.

"The Boot and Shoe Workers' International Union reports that during the year they have entered into agreements with and issued their union stamp to thirteen boot and shoe manufacturers, and that the membership secured from the organizing of these factories was 2,385. They further report that a conservative estimate of the output of the additional union factories organized during the year would be about 11,500 pairs of shoes per day.

"The International Photo-Engravers' Union reports that during the year 1912 they have issued their label to 31 employers, and that there are now a total of 296 employers using the label of their organization. This, of course, is independent of any work bearing the label of the Allied Printing Trades Council, of which they are a part.

"The Metal Polishers, Buffers, Platers, Brass and Silver Workers' Union of North America reports that during the year they have signed label agreements with nine firms, but do not state the number of employees affected.

"The Journeymen Barbers' International Union reports that on account of reissuing shop cards, many of which replaced others, that they could not give any reliable figures as to the number of shop cards issued during the year, but report that at the present time there are in use approximately about 17,000 union shop cards.

"The secretary-treasurer of the International Typographical Union reports: 'This office has sold more labels during the past year than ever before in its history.'

"The work of carrying on label agitation among the farmers was continued this year, and a considerable degree of success was reached in the State of Tennessee through the efforts of organizers C. P. Fahey, and A. E. Hill. Three other States were selected in which to carry on this work—Illinois, Indiana, and Texas. While a representative of the Department attended the State conventions, on account of the secret nature of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union, we were not in a position to obtain a list of the secretaries of their locals and the time and place of meeting so that representatives could address them on this important subject.

"The publication of cuts of union labels in official journals of the national and international unions, together with the publication of appropriate reading matter, has also been carried on with considerable success. A large number of the journals of international unions are publishing several cuts of labels monthly, free of charge. A number of labor papers have rendered the same service, and at no time has there been so much space devoted to union labels in official journals and the labor press as there has been during the past year.

"Under instructions of the last convention, we have given assistance to the Federal Convict Labor bill, as well as to bills of a like character in a number of various States. You are familiar with the status of the Convict Labor bill.

"We have also had introduced in the Federal Congress a bill protecting union labels and other emblems of organizations of labor located in the District of Columbia and the Territories. This bill was introduced in Congress by Congressman Maher of New York, the ex-treasurer of the United Hatters of North America, and is known as H. R. 20423. This bill has been reported favorably from a sub-committee to the full committee and it is expected that it will be reported by the full committee early in the next session of Congress.

"The income of the department for the year ending September 30, 1912, inclusive of the balance on hand, was $15,660.24. The expenses for the same period of time was $10,073.44, leaving a balance on hand September 30, 1912, of $5,586.80 deposited in the bank in the name of the Union Label Trades Department.

"In conclusion let me say, that the work of the department has progressed very favorably during the past year, and it is confidently hoped that the results of the coming year will far exceed the gain of the past year."

In connection with this departmental report, it is appropriate to refer to the plan of the New York Central Union Label Council to spread information concerning the union label, its purposes and underlying philosophy, and to stimulate the workers themselves to renewed activity and interest. That council proposed to prepare and conduct a series of stereopticon lectures on the union label. The Central Union Label Council presented this proposition and asked for financial assistance. The plan was endorsed and it was agreed to furnish two organizers to assist in the lecture part of the work. All other expenses for equipment, etc., were borne by the Central Union Label Council. The expenses were reduced by securing the use of several churches for the lectures.

The moving picture exhibition opened with views of the Ash Building fire. The lecturer brought out the fact that this was a non-union shop at the time of the fire, and that it was the shop where the shirt-waist makers' strike first started. Other pictures presented participants and scenes from the strike of the textile workers in Lawrence last February. The lecturers called attention to the attitude of the textile employers toward organized labor and to their opposition to organization among their workers. Reference was also made to recent developments in the "Lawrence dynamite conspiracy." To bring out the contrast between union and non-union conditions and ideals, exhibition of all the different labels, explanations of them and their purposes, and interesting historical data concerning them, were given by the lecturers. Union standards were still further illustrated and emphasized by pictures representing the evils of child labor and the mercenary greed that causes it.

This movement, conducted under the auspices of the New York Central Union Label Council and the American Federation of Labor, is extremely suggestive. In view of the fact that the moving picture exhibitions have become an important element in education and disseminating information of current happenings of the day they furnish a channel by which we could reach people not otherwise readily accessible, as well as our own people, to place conditions and incidents before them correctly, and in a most vivid and forceful manner.

Many requests were made for return engagements. Much literature on the union label and union ideals was distributed. The New York experience has been successful, and is presented to the members of this convention for consideration.

CARL LEGIEN'S VISIT.

Upon the invitation of the American Federation of Labor, Mr. Carl Legien, secretary of the International Secretariat and president of the Federation of Trade Unions of Germany, visited the United States last spring. I planned an itinerary for him that would afford him the best possible opportunities for learning the industrial conditions within our country and getting in touch with the labor movement in such a way as to understand its various relations. As Mr. Legien had been compelled the previous year to decline an invitation to make a tour of the country and had again been invited to make such a tour in 1912, he accepted it and at the same time accepted an invitation to address meetings held under the auspices of the Socialist party.

Upon the advice of American Federation of Labor officials, and it was agreed to by Mr. Legien, it was arranged that he should begin and complete the tour of meetings arranged under the auspices of the American Federation of Labor, and, upon its completion, then proceed on his tour lecturing under the auspices of the Socialist party. The itinerary mapped out afforded him an opportunity to visit all of the large industrial centers from Boston to Denver. It was arranged that Mr. Legien should make one speech in each city, and have the remainder of his time for conferences with various labor representatives, visiting various labor headquarters, investigating methods, ways and conditions, as well as seeing something of American civilization, progress and natural beauties.

Arrangements were made with various representatives of local organizations, international officers, and other labor representatives, so that every avenue would be open to Mr. Legien to obtain the greatest amount of information with the least amount of difficulty on his part. As he does not speak English, it was necessary for his addresses to be interpreted by his secretary, Mr. A. Baumeister, who accompanied him. Mr. Legien made two visits to Washington. It was arranged during the first visit that he be invited by the House of Representatives to address that body. The address was delivered in German and translated into English by Mr. Baumeister; then in recess the members greeted him in person. On the second trip to Washington, Mr. Legien's chief purpose was to study more thoroughly the work done at the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor.

Such exchange of international visits are of incalculable value to the different organizations. Personal contact of representatives and personal investigation enable the workers, though separated, to understand more thoroughly and more exactly the conditions and the problems under which the labor movement of the various countries operates. Correspondence is often the cause of misunderstanding; men may misunderstand or misrepresent and give biased or partial accounts. Mr. Legien expressed his astonishment at some of the conditions he found which were so different from any report that had been carried to him. The information acquired by Mr. Legien will be of greatest importance in correcting misinformation that had been carried abroad and in establishing more cordial and sympathetic co-operation between our respective countries. Mr. Legien is in a position to exercise influence in moulding popular opinion in his various capacities as secretary of the International Secretariat of trade unions of the world and president of the Federation of Trade Unions of Germany.

While here, on several occasions, both in public address as well as private conference, Mr. Legien emphatically declared that co-operation, not rivalry, was the basis for the success of organized labor in Germany; that the spirit of rivalry and opposition to trade unionism can not result in substantial progress. In Germany co-operation in trade union effort has produced best results. He made clear to all that in the United States the trade union movement as represented by the American Federation of Labor is the only one which is bona fide and that any or all antagonism or rivalry should be condemned. He emphasized as of considerable importance the fact that several years ago some so-called radical socialists of Germany organized "Socialist unions," and that the congress of the Socialist party of Germany then issued directions that these unions should not be recognized as bona fide organizations and that any socialist who became a member of a so-called "Socialist union" should be expelled from the party. Mr. Legien repeatedly expressed disapproval of antagonistic rival organizations and attempts to undermine the work of the American trade union movement.

The American Federation of Labor will gain in effectiveness and usefulness by establishing cordial relations and co-operation with the organized labor movement of Europe. Only through the exchange of personal representatives can correct impressions of our purposes and policies be conveyed. Misrepresentation resulting in false conceptions can be successfully refuted and counteracted only by having a representative participating in the discussions of the International Secretariat. Therefore, the attention of the convention is called to the fact that our organization should request a meeting of the International Secretariat in 1913, and the advisability of electing a delegate or authorizing the Executive Council to select some delegate in case a meeting is held that year. Should it be deemed inadvisable to hold a meeting in 1913, I suggest that this convention request that no convention be held until 1915. During that year the Panama Canal Exposition will be held in San Francisco between February 20 and December 4. Inasmuch as that will be an event of more than ordinary international interest, it would be most timely and fitting for this convention to extend a cordial invitation to the International Secretariat to hold its meeting for 1915 in San Francisco, immediately preceding or following the convention of the American Federation of Labor, which, I assume, will be held in that city in 1915.

LABOR FORWARD MOVEMENT.

The success and effectiveness of the Religion Forward Movement of the past year attracted the interest and attention of the thinking people of the country. The trade unionists of Minnesota recognized the value and possibility of such a method applied to the trade union movement. As a result, organized labor of Minnesota and St. Paul inaugurated and carried on a Labor Forward Movement. The aims of the campaign were to rouse the members to renewed activity and zeal, to develop more militant enthusiasm and to disseminate more widely information of the principles of trade unionism among all of the citizens. The efforts succeeded both in practical results in organization and in reviving trade and fraternal feeling. The success of the movement in Minneapolis and St. Paul induced Duluth to take up the plan. The constructive results and the enthusiasm stimulated by these local efforts brought the matter to the notice of the members of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor who investigated what had been done, thoroughly discussed the subject in all its bearings, and directed me to draft a tentative plan for such a campaign on a national basis. The plan I then presented to the Executive Council was approved and its adoption recommended to the various bodies of organized labor throughout the American continent. Its full text was published in the October issue of the American Federationist, and is recommended to all trade unionists for their most earnest study. The entire subject-matter is further recommended to this convention for its consideration and action.

It is most sincerely hoped the different organizations throughout the country will generally adopt the policy and inaugurate a nation wide campaign for better organization, increase of membership, and for the quickening and reviving of the feeling of comradeship and common interest of all the workers.

ORGANIZING STEEL WORKERS.

The American Federation of Labor, true to its mission, has stood by and aided the workers in every industry to uphold their rights and to promote their interests. In the earlier days of the organization, the workers in the iron and steel industry were in a condition requiring little outside aid. Indeed, aid was given rather than received by them. In later years the American Federation of Labor has stood faithfully by these men when engaged in contests of tremendous importance, but, owing to events and incidents which can not be recorded here at this time, a visible decline in the power of the iron and steel workers' organization ensued, particularly where the membership had been employed by the great steel corporations. However, no opportunity was permitted to pass without some effort being made to be of tangible assistance in maintaining and strengthening the organization and aiding the workers in that industry. It is gratifying to report a revival in the growth of that organization.

The American Federation of Labor was successful in calling the attention of the public, the administrative authorities, and Congress to the wretched conditions and social injustice prevailing among these workers. Public attention and condemnation roused the conscience of some of the directors of the Steel Corporation, so that they felt compelled to grant some of the workers better conditions. In an address which I made before the annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science last March, I took issue with the statement of the counsel for the U. S. Steel Corporation, and in reply to his statements, said in part:

"Today the United States Steel Corporation is practically free from any 'inconvenience' from the organized labor movement. It has 'peace' in its plant. It is the sort of peace that the Czar of Russia proclaimed when he said, 'Peace reigns in Warsaw.' The United States Steel Corporation, and all of the other corporations which have either by direction or indirection in the same or less degree succeeded in crushing out labor organization, are lulling themselves into a fancied security, but one morning or other they will wake up and find it was either a dream or a nightmare. They have crushed out the organizations of labor in many plants. They have, by direct or indirect methods, opened up a channel of immigration to their plants, and American workers no longer are there to any appreciable extent. The managers think—in a way know—that their immigrant employees are docile. They do their bosses' bidding without murmur, they go along patiently carrying their burdens, and the heads of the corporations feel safe. So did the proprietors of the textile mills of Lawrence. The effect of all schemes put in operation by these corporations has been to degrade their workmen, to tie them to their work, to take away from them the opportunity of protest. But some day they will protest."

Some months ago the American Federation of Labor inaugurated a campaign of education among the steel workers of the United States and Canada, with the purpose of bringing this great number of toilers into the beneficent and protective fold of the trade union movement. The history of the antagonism of the great steel companies toward the organization of their employees is a matter of common knowledge. Their evident purpose being to thwart any attempt made to organize the workers or for them to organize themselves, the plan of employing workmen speaking foreign tongues was adopted. The steel corporations, by the intermingling of the various races, nearly all endowed with pronounced racial characteristics, consider that these differences in temperament will provide an effectual barrier to successful organization. These workmen, many of whom are untutored, born in lands of oppression, surrounded by squalor, inured to hardship, reaching manhood without that full mental development which makes for independence and self-preservation, are lured to America. Upon arrival in this English-speaking country, the light of our civilization but slowly dawns upon them. The rights to which the American citizen is entitled are unknown to them—the struggle for subsistence being the great necessity. With languages not easily understood, and various tongues spoken in a single steel plant, it is not to be wondered that the workers' comprehension of the rights to which they are entitled comes as an exceedingly slow process.

These facts were the first to be considered in our preliminary arrangements for the educational and organizing campaign to be conducted by the American Federation of Labor.

There are nearly 150 cities and towns in the United States and Canada where steel and iron workers are employed. Twenty-eight States have steel mills or iron works.

Without recounting in detail the efforts already made, it is sufficient to say that city central bodies and general and volunteer organizers were directed to assist the American Federation of Labor in distributing literature to these workers. Circulars were printed in the various foreign languages and circulated broadcast among the steel workers. These circulars were prepared in a series of three, so that the presentation of organized labor's cause might be methodically and systematically brought to the attention of those whom it is desired to organize. Two of the series of these circulars have been issued.

Aside from these circulars, large editions of the Weekly News Letter, with the circulars incorporated therein, have been distributed, with the knowledge that many of the foreign workmen could read English, and thus secure labor news other than the information contained in the circulars. Several hundred thousand of these News Letters have been thus used, and from reports which have been received the campaign of education is making a deep impression upon the steel workers.

This campaign will be continued and every assistance rendered the workers in the steel mills to secure the right to have a part in the determination of the wages which they receive and the conditions under which they shall be employed.

MIGRATORY WORKERS.

The organization of migratory workers has been given all the attention that has been possible this year by the American Federation of Labor. The demands made by affiliated organizations upon the American Federation of Labor for organizers have precluded the continued assignment of many organizers to this particular field. Furthermore, the organization of the migratory workers largely depends upon the influence exercised by the unionists in the localities where the migratory laborers are employed at the time. With no permanent abiding place, with periods of employment of short duration and places of employment scattered over a wide area, the organization of these workers is exceedingly slow. Local unions in the localities where labor is intermittently performed can render valuable service by calling these workers together and informing them of the fraternal and helpful attitude of the general labor movement toward them, and at the same time give information of the fundamental principles upon which the organizations of labor are founded. However, some progress has been made, notably in California, where the American Federation of Labor is bearing part of the expense of an organizer who is devoting his entire time and devising plans for more thoroughly organizing the migratory workers. While the progress which has been made is encouraging, it has been necessarily slow. The problem is not one of easy solution.

It is suggested that State federations, city central bodies, and local unions in the sections of the country where migratory labor is employed in seasonal occupations, arrange to hold meetings during the seasons of employment and lay before these casual workers the benefits which accrue to those who are affiliated with the organized labor movement. The American Federation of Labor will also render assistance with organizers wherever it is possible. With this combined influence the aims and objects of our movement may be communicated to those whose opportunity is limited in the study and comprehension of the great influence and power exercised by the trade unions of our country.

ARBITRATION, MEDIATION, AND CONCILIATION.

(The Erdman Act—Extension of.)

The Committee on Resolutions at the Atlanta Convention reported a substitute for resolutions 46 and 61, which instructed the Executive Council to consider amending the Federal Arbitration law so as to include all railroad employes instead of only those actually engaged in train operation or train service, as the law now provides, and if, in the judgment of the Executive Council, such amendment should be desirable, to cause it to be framed and to endeavor to have it enacted into law. This substitute was adopted by the convention, with a memorandum directing that when the subject of this resolution was considered, the representatives of the railroad organizations directly interested in the proposition should be invited to be present.

I hesitated to proceed further, because, early in the year, it became apparent that the United Mine Workers would encounter difficulties in renewing their contracts in the bituminous and anthracite regions. Considerable newspaper discussion resulted, and several propositions for intervention were made by outside persons who perhaps meant well, but who were not acquainted with all the problems. These academicians suggested arbitration, mediation, conciliation, or peace at any price, in preference to allowing the toilers to work out their own salvation by means of their own well tried, thoroughly tested, reliable trade union agency. This sentiment was finally embodied in a bill to extend the Erdman act to persons engaged in and around coal mines, which was urged before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce. When this was called to my attention, I objected to its further consideration, as did the officers of the United Mine Workers. In the meantime, I had learned that several of our organizations, whose members are employed by railroad companies, had urged the extension of the Erdman act to cover their members. Anticipating that grave misunderstandings might arise and encouragement be given to legislation of a character freighted with great potential power that would be seriously injurious to the workers, I deemed it advisable at that time to discourage any discussion of this proposition in congressional committees until after the whole subject could be more fully discussed and considered in our conventions.

Some members of Congress and of State Legislatures would not hesitate to experiment with legislation of this character, in spite of its far-reaching possibilities and the grave dangers latent in such proposed measures affecting the rights of the workers and their labor power. There are too many who have so little knowledge or regard for the fundamentals of liberty and freedom that they would legally tie the workers to their toil as readily as they would physically tie a horse to his stake, and it is lamentable that there are some who can not distinguish the difference. Then again, there are even some workmen who with us seek to avoid the stress and strain of a strike, who are loud to advocate statutory compulsory investigation, State mediation, and arbitration, and the pronouncement of an award, with a supposed voluntary acceptance of such an award. They do not know that wherever these systems have been introduced they have led either to compulsory arbitration with compulsory award, compulsory obedience to the terms of the award, or else have resulted in a reaction demanding the repeal of the so-called State compulsory investigation and voluntary State mediation and award.

In Canada the reaction has set in against the Lemieux act. In one of the countries "without strikes" several strikes have occurred, and during this year a general sympathetic strike of all workmen occurred in Brisbane, Queensland. The American labor movement aims to avoid the stress and strain of strikes, but we are not led by glittering generalities or vain hopes. We have some realization of the elements and equation which prompt men to exercise on the one hand the power they possess to dominate for selfish, narrow greed, and on the other hand, the constant hope and aspiration of the toilers to be larger sharers in the wealth they create. The first take advantage of the opportunities which they can create to exercise their power for their narrow, selfish ends. The second, the toilers, realizing that their constant material improvement is necessary for the welfare and progress of the human race, will protest or strike, law or no law, in the effort to accomplish their justifiable purpose. Any attempt by law to curb the right of the workers to sever their relations with their employers, to strike, will be resented, as it should be resented. The American Federation of Labor years ago took a position of antagonism to any such policy, and it is a source of great gratification that I have in some measure aided in preventing, either openly or covertly, the introduction in the industrial affairs of our land of any species of compulsory arbitration or entering wedge that would facilitate such introduction.

We want peace in industry, but we want peace with honor, progress, and freedom. So-called peace, purchased at the price which would shackle the minds and the actions of the workers, is no real peace at all; it is the beginning of slavery. Before any definite instructions are given to the officials of the American Federation of Labor upon this subject, I trust that certain well thought out and properly defined principles will again be formulated, so that all possibilities of error or danger may be properly and safely avoided.

LABOR DAY AND LABOR SUNDAY.

The observance of Labor Day has now become generally customary on the American continent and in Porto Rico. This institution is of incalculable value in maintaining interest among union members, fixing the attention of those indifferent or unfamiliar with our work, and demonstrating publicly the power and conviction actuating our movement. Through such demonstration of loyalty and devotion to the great cause of humanity for which our movement stands, we stimulate again the underlying determining emotions and estimate the spirit of brotherhood and unity in the common life. It is one of the contradictions of human nature that when customs and institutions once established become familiar and sometimes, therefore, unappreciated, they gradually decline because they fail to receive due consideration and valuation. To guard against such a fate for Labor Day, the one day in the year secured by the toilers to give genuine dignity and worth to the underlying motives of the cause of organized labor, we must keep alive its finest and deepest sentiments.

Labor Day is not a time for mere merry-making and personal enjoyment, but a time for pledging anew our faith to our cause and to each other. It is worth to the movement far, far more than its cost in money, time, or physical expenditure.

There was never before a period when all of the people were so deeply interested in the social and economic problems as now. Those things which are vital to human welfare and fundamental for future progress, have become the chief topics of daily conversation, of the reporters' columns and of editorial comment, and are the central theme of political discussion. We can not, as an organization, afford not to use Labor's special day, Labor Day, as a time to set forth to the best advantage our needs, demands, and position with respect to what is of greatest interest to the thinking people. Labor Sunday is another means by which we can present our cause to many before whom we could not otherwise gain a hearing. Every opportunity to defend and interpret our much abused and misrepresented trade unionism, should be seized upon with avidity. In this age of publicity, it is not enough to be right, but we must also convince the world that we are right. Every invitation or opportunity to uphold the cause and purposes of unionism before the public, is a chance to put in telling blows for Labor. Let us regard these opportunities as sacred duties, and make Labor Day of each recurring year a milestone on the ever onward march of industrial, social, and human progress.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR POLITICAL CAMPAIGN—ITS RESULTS.

In 1906, the American Federation of Labor served notice upon Congress that it proposed to enter upon a campaign to secure justice through legislation. For many years Labor had appealed to Congress for the passage of remedial legislation. These appeals to a considerable extent had fallen upon deaf ears. It was decided that vigorous action should be taken. As a result of this decision, a campaign was inaugurated against one of Labor's most conspicuous enemies, Charles E. Littlefield, of the second district of Maine. That campaign was effectual, for Mr. Littlefield, although re-elected, finally felt compelled to resign as Congressman. The sentiment against him thus created was too strong to withstand.

This contest aroused the men of Labor. In practically every State efforts were made to have men, holding paid-up union cards, seek nominations on the various party tickets for election as Representatives in Congress. As a result, six labor men were elected to Congress in the fall of 1906—Messrs. Wilson and Nichols of Pennsylvania, coal miners; Sherwood of Ohio, printer; Hughes of New Jersey, textile worker; and McDermott and Cary, telegraphers, of Chicago and Milwaukee respectively. The influence of these men was felt in Congress. Their re-election in 1908 quickened labor men throughout the country to the possibilities of directly increasing the strength of union labor in the national legislature. In that same year additional union card men were also elected—Messrs. Anderson of Ohio, musician; Murphy of Missouri, telegrapher; Martin of Colorado, locomotive fireman, and Jamieson of Iowa, printer. The election of these four new members revealed the increasing influence of organized labor in the political and legislative field.

But Labor was not satisfied. The conviction prevailed that by adopting the slogan of "calling upon the workers of our common country to stand faithfully by our friends, oppose and defeat our enemies, whether they be candidates for President, for Congress, or other offices, whether executive, legislative or judicial." material additions could be made to the Labor group in Congress. The fall of 1910 witnessed the election of fifteen members of trade unions to the sixty-second Congress. They were:

Messrs. Wilson, miner, Pennsylvania; Lee, blacksmith, Pennsylvania; Martin, fireman, Colorado; Cary, telegrapher, Wisconsin; Berger, printer, Wisconsin; Hughes, weaver, lawyer, New Jersey; Buchanan, structural iron worker, Illinois; McDermott, telegrapher, Illinois; Lewis, miner and lawyer, Maryland; Smith, telegrapher, New York; Anderson, musician, Ohio; Sherwood, printer, Ohio; Roberts, miner, Nevada; Farr, printer, Pennsylvania; Maher, hatter, New York.

The campaign made by Labor in 1910 was, in a large measure, responsible for the change in the political complexion of the House of Representatives. Labor was recognized in the appointment of one of the important committees of the Sixty-second Congress. W. B. Wilson was named as Chairman of the House Committee on Labor. Three other labor men were associated with him on that committee, Messrs. Maher, Lewis, and Buchanan. The other members of the committee, although not belonging to any labor organization, have been friendly to, and sympathetic with, all measures coming before them in which Labor is interested. This committee did splendid work during the past session of Congress, having reported out favorably a number of important bills, three of which were also favorably reported by the Senate Committee on Education and Labor and were enacted into law—

Labor's Eight-Hour bill, now law.

Children's Bureau bill, now law.

Industrial Relations Commission bill, now law.

Other bills and their present status are:

From the floor of the House there was inserted an eight-hour provision in the Fortifications bill, providing for an eight-hour day, now law.

Extension of Federal Compensation for Injuries Act, now law.

Second-class postal rates for trade union publications, now law.

Popular Election of U. S. Senators, passed and referred to the States for ratification.

Eight hours in the Naval Appropriation bill, now law.

Right of hearing, petition, and association restored to post-office employees, passed and now law.

Eight hours for letter carriers and clerks in post-offices, now law.

Plate Printers' bill, now law.

The prohibition of the manufacture of phosphorus matches passed, now law.

Through the efforts and with the help of Labor, other remedial legislation has been enacted, or is on the calendar for early consideration.

The House Judiciary Committee reported favorably, and the House passed, the bill limiting the power of the courts to issue injunctions, now before Senate Judiciary Committee.

The same committee reported the Contempt bill which provides for a trial by jury in cases of indirect contempt, passed the House, now before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

House Committee on Labor reported favorably the Bacon-Bartlett bill to relieve the organizations of labor from the operation of the Sherman Anti-Trust law.

Bill to regulate convict labor, passed the House.

Department of Labor bill, with secretary a member of the President's cabinet, passed the House, favorably reported out of Senate Committee.

Committee reported favorably the Eight-Hour bill for Dredgemen, passed the House, reported out of Senate Committee.

The House Committee on Labor also reported favorably the resolution to investigate the "Taylor System." The Committees on Labor reported favorably the Anti-"Taylor System" bills.

The bill creating a Federal Bureau of Health was favorably reported to the Senate.

The Senate passed the Immigration bill, including the "illiteracy" test for immigrants. The "illiteracy" test provision has been favorably reported by the House Committee.

Seamen's bill, passed the House, now before Senate Committee on Commerce.

The Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation bill, passed the Senate.

The Porto Rican Citizenship bill, passed the House.

Obtained appropriation of $20,000 from the House for investigation of the working conditions in the iron and steel industries.

Increase in wages for the printing pressmen in the Government Printing Office, now law. (For a fuller understanding of these measures see October, 1912, issue of the American Federationist.)

The record thus given has been made possible from the fact that organized labor has pursued a practical policy leading to a considerable measure of success. And though it is true that in no other one session of Congress has so much remedial labor legislation been secured, Labor must yet be insistent and persistent in the effort to obtain the laws so necessary to our very existence.

In line with the pursuit of that policy, the last convention of the American Federation of Labor by unanimous vote adopted the following instructions:

"We recommend that this convention authorize and direct the Executive Council to urge the President of the United States to recommend in his forthcoming message to Congress the amendment of the Sherman Anti-Trust law upon the lines as contained in the Wilson bill to amend the Sherman Anti-Trust law; and further, that the Executive Council be, and it is hereby directed, either as a body or by the selection of a committee thereof, to obtain an interview with the President in furtherance of the purpose of this report.

"The Executive Council is hereby further authorized and directed to take such further action, as its judgment may warrant, to secure the enactment of such legislation at the forthcoming session of Congress as shall secure the legal status of the organized movement of the wage-workers for freedom from unjust discrimination in the exercise of their natural, normal, and constitutional rights, through their voluntary associations.

"And the Executive Council is further authorized and directed that in the event of a failure on the part of Congress to enact the legislation which we herein seek at the hands of the Congress and the President, to take such action as in its judgment the situation may warrant in the presidential and congressional election of 1912."

In compliance therewith, every effort was made to carry out the spirit and letter of the instructions, in the recent general elections for President and members of Congress, as well as Governors and State legislators, for it must be borne in mind that much of the legislation affecting Labor must find its expression in the Legislatures of the States. It was felt that with the true records furnished them, it was best to leave the formative judgment and action to the interest and the true patriotism of our fellow-workers and fellow-citizens, with the general additional incentive to increase the number of Congressmen with paid-up union cards in their pocket, and thus strengthen the Labor group.

Inasmuch as custom requires the report of the President of the American Federation of Labor be printed in advance of the convention, and this is written before the elections have occurred, it is not possible to herein state the results of the election. The results, I trust, will soon be tabulated, and in so far as Labor is more directly interested, published in the columns of the American Federationist.

This may be here stated that Labor's opponents, those who antagonize every effort made by the toilers to secure redress for their wrongs and improvement in their condition and the attainment of their rights, and others who discourage and ridicule the attempt of organized labor to use its political as well as its economic power upon practical lines; have not deceived and will not deceive Labor. The organized labor movement will contend against every wrong from which the toilers suffer and insist upon the attainment of every right to which they are entitled.

The American Federation of Labor is not partisan to any political party, but it is partisan to a principle—to achieve results in the interests of the great mass of the wage-earners of our continent. It resents the attitude of those who seek to force the workers back into the condition and character of serfdom, and with equal insistence it refuses to postpone to the far future, the advantages and benefits of a better life when we propose to secure them here and now.

Taking into consideration that which organized labor has already accomplished upon the economic, political and legislative fields to bring light and life into the homes and the workshops of our toiling masses, we are fully confident of greater success in the future. The spirit and humanitarianism cultivated and developed by the organized labor movement will find its full fruition in the material, social, and moral standards of our people, and will be crystallized in the written laws of our land, and in the unwritten laws of our every-day lives.

EXTENSION OF EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

The struggle of the American workers to obtain a normal workday of eight hours is replete with human sacrifice, resource, and success. At first the endeavor was attempted by means of legislation. This method proved to be slow, cumbersome, disappointing, and often inefficient. The workers were compelled finally to depend more upon their own efforts through their economic power, instead of waiting for recognition on the part of legislators to keep pace with industrial development. The history of the effort to obtain an eight-hour day for employes of the United States Government, and for employes of contractors and sub-contractors doing work for the United States Government, was covered in an article on "The Eight-Hour Day on Government Work" in the American Federationist for December, 1910, and supplemented in my report to the Atlanta Convention under the caption "Eight-Hour Law Extension." It is not my purpose at this time to cover that ground again, but it is essential that I should refer to efforts made since the enactment of the Federal Eight-Hour law of 1892.

Labor believed that that act covered contractors and sub-contractors doing work for the United States Government, but opinions of attorneys-general and decisions by Federal courts rendered that feature of the bill almost nugatory. Labor construed the words "on any of the public works of the United States" in a general, and not in a technical sense. It was expected that all work done for the Government would be public work and that the act would place nearly all, if not all, work by contract or by the Government direct under the eight-hour rule. It was because of the difference in the construed and the anticipated effects of the law of 1892 that organized labor has continued its efforts to obtain additional and more far-reaching eight-hour legislation.

Even the act of 1892 as technically and legally construed by the attorneys-general and courts to apply strictly to the "public works" of the Federal Government, instead of "public work," was not properly enforced; in fact, it may be truthfully stated that it was not enforced at all, where persons engaged on such public works were not members of labor organizations, and its enforcement was attended with great difficulty even where we possessed the economic power of our trade unions to insist upon the strict letter and spirit of the law being observed. Its violation became so flagrant that it was found necessary to make the following protest to the President and to Congress in our "Bill of Grievances" on March 21, 1906:

"The Eight-Hour law in terms provides that those entrusted with the supervision of Government work shall neither require nor permit any violation thereof. The law has been grievously and frequently violated. The violations have been reported to the heads of several departments who have refused to take the necessary steps for its enforcement."

This protest was to a considerable extent effective, so effective, in fact, that Attorney-General Wm. H. Moody, on October 31, 1906, issued an order to United States District Attorneys, directing their attention to the provisions of the Eight-Hour act of 1892. He said to them in part, as follows:

"The Government is determined upon a strict enforcement of this statute and you are directed diligently to investigate all complaints which may come to you from any source of violations of this law, and upon your own initiative to make investigation if there appears to you to be any reasonable ground for suspecting violation of this law. In every case in which you can secure sufficient evidence you will submit that evidence to the Grand Jury with a view to securing indictment.

"I impress upon you the importance of using every effort to secure these indictments. Be vigilant and active in this matter. You will make prompt and full report to me of all cases and your action thereon, with your reasons therefor. You will report immediately the action of the Grand Jury and the results of all trials, with a specific statement of the penalty imposed."

The American Federation of Labor has continued its efforts Congress after Congress since 1896 to secure an extension of the law. Hearings upon hearings were held, and many voluminous documents contain evidence of our effort. When we found difficulty in securing an extension of the act through a statute, we turned our attention to the Appropriation bills, and on April 21, 1910, and June 24, 1910, we succeeded in securing eight-hour contract provisions for the construction of revenue cutters and vessels for the navy in appropriation acts. On February 21, 1911, we secured a more sweeping provision in the Naval Appropriation act, which read:

"Provided that no part of this appropriation shall be expended for the construction of any boat by any person, firm or corporation which has not at the time of commencement and during the construction of said vessels, established an eight-hour workday for all employes, laborers, and mechanics engaged, or to be engaged, in the construction of the vessels named herein."

The debate upon this contractual provision in the Naval Appropriation bill in the House of Representatives established a most important precedent and principle; namely, that the House of Representatives decided in a most emphatic manner that it possessed power to include contractual specifications in its appropriation bills. For many years this important feature had been continuously disputed and often denied. Our success in this latter instance undoubtedly paved the way and made it easier to obtain the legislation we had so long sought. A remarkable change in sentiment was manifested among the members of the House of Representatives. This, which came with the change in the political complexion of the House, coupled with the fact that members were appointed to serve on the House Committee on Labor, who were industrial statesmen as well as political statesmen and were in sympathy with Labor's demands, makes it possible at this time to report the following material progress:

Provisions were inserted in the several appropriation bills providing for the construction of harbors, and in the fortification bill providing for ordnance and powder. The instructions of the convention were observed, with the result that the general Eight-Hour bill passed the House December 14, 1911, passed the Senate May 31, 1912, came out of conference June 8, 1912, and was approved by the President June 19, 1912. The pen used by the President in affixing his signature to this measure was presented to me immediately after it was signed. This act will become effective January 1, 1913, and will apply to Government work and work done for the Government by contractors and sub-contractors.

We succeeded in having all of the eight-hour provisions included in all the contracts of the appropriation bill for naval construction. The substance of the eight-hour measure was also included in the Fortification Appropriation bill, which passed June 1, 1912. There is also an eight-hour provision in the fortification bill applicable to contractors and sub-contractors furnishing powder for the army. We made an effort to secure an eight-hour proviso in the Naval Appropriation bill requiring that the coal should be mined on the eight-hour basis. We succeeded in having it included in the House bill, but failed to hold it in the bill in the Senate. The Dredgemen's Eight-Hour bill passed the House on July 17, 1912, with the same practical unanimity with which the other eight-hour measures passed the House. By mistake it was referred to the Committee on Judiciary of the Senate, but a change of reference was made after we called the attention of the Committee on Education and Labor to the error. Senator Borah favorably reported this bill on August 20. He made several efforts to have it considered by the Senate, but owing to the congestion of business during the closing days of the session, it was repeatedly "passed over," without losing its place on the calendar. I feel confident in saying that it will receive favorable consideration by the Senate at the next session and will be incorporated into law.

After many years of effort and controversy with officials in the Post-Office Department and others, we ultimately succeeded in obtaining hearings before the House and Senate Committees on Post-Office and Post-Roads, and finally secured the enactment of a mandatory eight-hour provision for post-office clerks and letter carriers.

A large number of post-office employes have gratefully acknowledged the assistance rendered them by the American Federation of Labor in behalf of the eight-hour day.

We have positively and repeatedly asserted that if the measures urged and advocated by the American Federation of Labor could ever be brought before the House of Representatives and the United States Senate, and be seen in the light of day instead of hidden in the desk drawers of antagonistic chairmen of committees, our bills would pass both Houses upon their merits, and that few, if any Congressmen, would openly oppose them. These assertions of ours were proven correct during the second session of the Sixty-second Congress. During the debates upon the eight-hour bills and eight-hour provisions in appropriation bills, lively discussions ensued, in which members of the House vied with each other in warmly advocating an eight-hour day for workmen. Even Representatives and Senators who in the past Congresses seemingly exerted every effort to smother eight-hour legislation and other bills urged in behalf of the workers, seemed most ardent and cordial in behalf of the eight-hour day. Evidently, they had seen the new light, the assertive power of Labor.

After the many years of struggle we have undergone in behalf of eight-hour legislation, it is a great gratification to be able to report to you such material legislative progress.

THE NEW EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

This law was enacted during the last session of Congress, providing an eight-hour day not only for laborers and mechanics employed directly by the Government but also for those employed by contractors and sub-contractors doing Government work and work for the Government. This act, together with the eight-hour provisions incorporated in appropriation bills, has extended the application of this principle. Although this law will go into effect January 1, 1913, many workers are already enjoying the benefits of the shorter workday. Its inauguration has brought advantageous conditions which have been invariably accompanied by increases in wages. The full text of the law appears on page 552 of the July issue of the American Federationist. Officers of various labor organizations whose members come under this law have, since its enactment, reported the following beneficial results in the form of increased wages and improved conditions of work:

"It is reported that all manufacturers of projectiles established an eight-hour day July 1, 1912. Concerning three industries, we are furnished reliable information—the Midvale Steel Company, the Washington Steel and Ordnance Company and the Tredegar Iron Works.

"The Midvale Steel Company at Philadelphia, Pa., has established the eight-hour day in several departments.

"The Tredegar Iron Works at Richmond, Va., decreased the hours of work from nine to eight and gives the same pay as was given for the nine hours.

"The New York Shipbuilding Company at Camden, N. J., decreased the working hours from ten and a half to eight, and increased pay from thirty-five cents to forty-two cents per hour.

"The Fore River Ship Building Company at Quincy, Mass., at once reduced the workday from nine to eight hours for pattern makers, molders and some machinists. Wages of these workers were increased from thirty-six cents to forty and a half cents per hour. The whole plant on an eight-hour basis November 4.

"The Firth-Sterling Steel Company at Giesboro Point, D. C., established the eight-hour day on July 22. There was an increase of three cents per hour in the rate of wages to workers who received less than twenty-two cents per hour. As soon as contracts are received under the new naval bill, the men will receive the same pay for eight hours as they formerly received for the longer workday. Most of the work done by this firm consists of contracts from the Government for the manufacture of heavy seacoast artillery and projectile shells. All will be on an eight-hour basis.

"The Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company at Newport News, Va., has under construction for the United States Government one battleship and two colliers. They are being built under the eight-hour law. The hull is sub-contracted to shipfitters. These contractors hire their own help. While they work but eight hours, the sub-contractors pay them the same as they did for nine hours. The day workers on Government work get the same pay for eight hours work as they formerly received for nine. If men start on Government work in the morning and are sent off to other jobs, they can only work eight hours that day."

These benefits attending the Federal Eight-Hour legislation will naturally increase as more contracts and work come under its provisions. The extent and scope of these beneficent influences can be much augmented by more complete organization, thereby increasing the economic power and improvement in the condition of the workers.

CONSTRUCTION BY THE GOVERNMENT.

The substance of resolutions 64 and 75, introduced at the Atlanta Convention, was contained in the substitute resolution by the Committee on Resolutions, which urged that efforts be made to have all naval vessels for the service of the United States constructed in its Government navy yards. The discussion in the House of Representatives on the Naval Appropriation bill was a long drawn out controversy; the declaration on the part of the majority was against the construction of any war vessels. Finally the construction of a number was authorized. When this decision was reached, largely in response to the efforts made by representative committees of the Metal Trades organizations, working in co-operation with the American Federation of Labor, a clause was included in the bill by which the Secretary of the Navy was empowered to build any or all of the vessels authorized in this act in such navy yards as he may designate.

While this discussion was at its height and when it was evident that members of Congress were not familiar with the efficient and economical accomplishments of the men employed by the Government in its navy yards, arsenals and other establishments doing work for the United States Government, and when it was also clearly apparent that self-interested persons and concerns were causing unfair and untruthful attacks upon the trade union workmen employed by the Government to be circulated, I prepared and published in the American Federationist for June, 1912, an article containing comprehensive data under the caption "Underhand Opposition to Trade Unionism." In that article, I proved by official statements and statistics that the cost of manufacture and construction was less in the Government establishments than the prices paid to private concerns. There is every reason to believe that after this article was brought to the attention of Congress, it was sufficiently convincing and effective in having incorporated in the act the clause giving instructions to the Secretary of the Navy for more construction directly by the Government.

INJUNCTION LIMITATION BILL.

It is difficult and almost impossible in this report to recount the work in connection with the passage of this bill in the House of Representatives to limit and define the issuance of injunctions as they have been made to apply in labor cases. The bill had a stormy career and it required watchfulness and action. The joint effort finally found its expression in the Clayton bill, which was reported favorably to the House, and then constant attention and work were necessary to secure its consideration by the House itself. It required a special rule from the Committee on Rules to bring the bill before the House. The bill was discussed for nearly a whole day in the House and then passed.

Nearly four months passed before the Senate Judiciary Committee took up the bill for consideration in sub-committee, and then the attorneys for the interests hostile to the workers, the attorneys whose presence has become so familiar to the men of Labor, the men who oppose every species of industrial, political, social, and moral reform which organized labor advocates, were present, and a few of them indulged in argument. They littered the record with vituperation and abuse, and the Senate Judiciary sub-committee seemed willing to hear.

Because of the splendid affirmative report by Chairman Clayton to the House, and because of the discussion on the bill in the House, I was at first disinclined to argue in favor of the bill, believing that these records would form the basis of all information for the committee upon the subject. But it was quite evident that the attorneys for the opponents by their methods of so-called argument and evidence, and under the pretense of argument, at least, not one particle of the latter having any relation to the bill under consideration, were desirous of prolonging the hearings.

The sub-committee had decided not to consider the bill further until the next session of the present Congress. I entered a protest against that procedure, and insisted at least upon an opportunity for hearing on the part of several trade unionists and myself against whom insinuations or charges had been leveled. Mr. Jos. F. Valentine, president of the International Molders' Union, Mr. John P. Frey, editor of the official journal of that organization, and I appeared before the committee and refuted the charges and insinuations of the attorneys of "big business." We were unable, however, to persuade the committee from its course, although, as stated, the protest which I entered against the Senate Judiciary sub-committee afforded us this limited opportunity for protest.

The Clayton Injunction Limitation bill is before the Senate, and if the men of organized labor but do their duty, and by conference with and communication to the Senators from their respective States make known that they insist upon the passage by the Senate of this bill, it will be passed before the close of the Sixty-second Congress.

JURY TRIAL IN CONTEMPT CASES.

That which I have recorded under the caption of "Injunction Limitation Bill" applies equally to the Clayton Contempt bill, which provides that in indirect contempt trial shall be before a jury. Its progress through the House Judiciary Committee and the House of Representatives was a duplicate of the progress of the Injunction Limitation bill. The bill passed the House, was sent over to the Senate, was referred to the Committee on Judiciary, but was never considered by the committee.

It is recommended that this convention take such action as will call upon the workers of our country (and that they be urged to respond) to meet with and write to the Senators of their respective States, insisting that this much needed legislation be enacted before the close of the Sixty-second Congress.

SEAMEN'S RIGHTS.

The Seamen's bill, H. R. 11372, by Representative Wilson of Pennsylvania, which was endorsed by the Atlanta Convention, was duly considered by the House Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries at several hearings. After considerable change had been made, the bill was reintroduced by Mr. Wilson as H. R. 23673. It was before the House on several occasions and openly opposed by Representatives Humphrey of Washington, J. Hampton Moore of Philadelphia, and John W. Weeks of Massachusetts. It was defended and championed by its sponsor, Representative Wilson, in an able and vigorous manner. The greatest credit is due him for his perseverance, persistent labor with individual members, and parliamentary tact in making the principles and benefits of the bill understood and securing its final passage without any votes cast in opposition.

The bill as passed meets with the complete approval of the seamen and their officials. It restores freedom to the seamen; it provides a standard of skill for seaman-ship. It is drafted with the design of equalizing the operating expenses of foreign vessels and American vessels. It will tend to build up the American merchant marine without resorting to subsidies or subterfuge. It will encourage the American to follow the sea as a profession. It will provide in a much greater measure improved conditions of life on board ship for seamen. Its safety provisions will, to a considerable extent, increase security of life and property at sea. Above all and of vastly most importance, it will abolish the last provisions in our statutory law for compulsory labor within the jurisdiction of the United States. Seamen will no longer be deprived of their individual liberty, or be compelled to suffer hardships and wrongs beyond what are naturally inherent in their dangerous, hazardous calling.

The bill is now in the Senate Committee on Commerce, of which Senator Nelson of Minnesota is chairman. He left it to a sub-committee, of which Senator Burton of Ohio is chairman. Every effort was exerted by us to get Mr. Burton to report the bill before Congress adjourned; all to no avail. Instead of giving this important bill the attention it merited, Mr. Burton departed for Europe previous to the adjournment of Congress and let this measure, freighted as it is with so much human weal or woe, pass over until another session of Congress. It is to be fervently hoped that no terrific marine disaster like that which happened to the Titanic, on April 14, 1912, will ever again occur and certainly not in the meantime, to rivet public attention upon the deplorable fact that the marine laws of the United States are behind those of all nations in the civilized world.

In behalf of justice for the men who go down to the sea in ships, the men of organized labor are urged to bring sufficient pressure to bear upon their United States Senators to secure favorable action upon this measure during the coming session of Congress.

IMMIGRATION AND CHINESE EXCLUSION.

The bill, S. 3175, reported by the Senate Committee on Immigration, according to general understanding, was intended to be a codification of the several acts regulating immigration and Chinese exclusion. Section 39 of the bill proposed to repeal "all laws relating to the exclusion of Chinese persons, or persons of Chinese descent, except such provisions thereof as may relate to the naturalization of aliens". Section 3 enumerated the persons, or classes of persons, to be excluded from admission to the United States, and added (evidently intended as a substitute for the Chinese exclusion laws, and a proposal to repeal them), that among the exclusions should be "persons who are not eligible to become citizens of the United States by naturalization, unless otherwise provided for by treaties, conventions, or by agreements as to passports, etc."

The members of the Senate Committee seemed to be generally of the opinion that the above quoted provision would be sufficient to maintain the exclusion of the Chinese, but I preferred to consult our attorneys for an opinion. On March 2, 1912, our attorneys replied in a very comprehensive brief, saying in substance that the Burlingame Treaty of 1868 recognized the full right on the part of the Chinese to enter, travel and reside in the United States. Those provisions have never been abrogated by treaty, but had only been modified by the Treaty of 1880, which regulated and limited the admission into and residence of certain professional classes of Chinese in the United States. In 1882 Congress passed the Chinese Exclusion Act, and subsequently amended it in 1892 and 1902. The statement of facts as to the treaties and laws was summed up by the attorneys as follows:

"The Treaties provide for the free admission of Chinese in the absence of certain specific findings of fact by the Government of the United States. It is proposed (in the Immigration codification bill, S. 3175), that the Congress shall repeal the laws containing such findings. Immediately upon this action being taken, we will revert to the condition which existed immediately consequent upon the signing of the Burlingame Treaty of 1868. The modification proposed to that Treaty by the Treaty of 1880, and itself dependent upon the action of the Government of the United States, not being invokable because of the failure of the Government to act, or, more strictly speaking, because of the revocation by the Government of the United States of its former action. The conclusion, therefore, is irresistible that if the pending bill becomes enacted in its present form, the right of Chinese to come to this country will be absolutely unrestricted."

Immediately our organizations in the inter-mountain and Pacific Coast States were urged to co-operate with us by protesting to the United States Senators and members of Congress against allowing any law, or any provision of law, to be enacted which would in any manner modify or repeal existing law relating to Chinese exclusion from the United States and its possessions. The responses were instantaneous. Their protests were so effective that when the Senate passed the bill on April 19, 1912, the following exclusion amendment in section 3 of the bill was adopted:

"Chinese persons or persons of Chinese descent, whether subjects of China or subjects or citizens of any other country foreign to the United States, persons who are not eligible to become citizens of the United States by naturalization unless otherwise provided for by existing agreements as to passports, or by treaties, conventions, or agreements that may hereafter be entered into."

The bill was perfected in other respects to conform to this provision, and passed.

The illiteracy test advocated by the American Federation of Labor was added to the bill and passed by the Senate. The head tax for immigrants was increased from four dollars to five dollars. The bill was then referred to the House Committee on Immigration where, after prolonged consideration, it was decided, on June 6, to strike out several important features. Many conflicting opinions developed in the House on the advisability of giving the amended measure consideration during the session. Many futile efforts were made to have the bill called up in the House, the general cause given being that other committees held the calendar ahead of the Immigration Committee. Efforts were made to obtain a special rule from the Rules Committee so that the bill could be then brought before the House. Hon. John L. Burnett, chairman of the Committee on Immigration and Naturalization made vigorous endeavors to obtain action, and in response to his request before the Committee on Rules, he finally secured the positive proposition that a special rule would be reported early in December of the next session of Congress.

Earnestly I urge our organizations to bring the subject-matter of this bill to the attention of their Representatives and emphasize the request for an early passage of this reasonable regulation or restriction of immigration.

CHILD LABOR AND CHILDREN'S BUREAU.

The recent session of Congress enacted a law providing for a Children's Bureau of the Department of Commerce and Labor. That Bureau is now in active operation. The measure was opposed by some so-called "child welfare organizations." It was supported by philanthropic and charitable organizations in co-operation with the American Federation of Labor. Its purpose is to secure more complete information and better insight into the nature and environment of child life, to investigate conditions relative to the employment of children and women in this country, and to throw light on the problem of the conservation of the child. This humane measure met with opposition from many Senators and Representatives upon the plea of unconstitutionality.

In some of our States protective legislation has been passed. In recent issues of the American Federationist there has been published a valuable statistical compilation of legislation enacted in the various States, together with data proving the influence and activity of organized labor in securing these laws. In some other States, the conditions that are allowed to obtain are not merely a disgrace to civilization but are calculated to impair in a grave degree the welfare of the American people, but because several special interests have found profit and advantage from such flagrant conditions, the Legislatures tolerate them.

A permanent Bureau of the Federal Government will be enabled to maintain continuous supervision, investigation and records, and thus educate and arouse public sentiment. Uniform laws embodying the best provisions of legislation regulating the employment of women and children can be enacted in all of the States, if our organizations in each State act as vigorously and faithfully in the future as they have in the past.

The measure establishing the Federal Children's Bureau is without doubt the beginning of a great reform. It is a great satisfaction to know that our organizations took such active part in successfully prevailing upon Congress to establish that Bureau.

INITIATIVE, REFERENDUM, AND RECALL.

The Committee on President's Report at the Atlanta Convention made this strong declaration:

"We renew our adherence to the principles of the initiative, referendum and recall, and we realize that these principles which we have long contended for are now being very generally accepted, and the last stand is being made upon the right of the recall of judges. We can not see the soundness of such a stand. Judges are like other men—good, bad, and indifferent. The selection of any man as a judge does not necessarily thereby change his character or make him infallible. It is not always possible to know in advance whether or not a person selected for a position is qualified to fill it, either mentally or morally, and whenever it becomes apparent that any one who has been selected as a judge is incapable of meting out justice to all parties coming before him, the safety of society itself requires that he should be recalled."

The last eleven words of this concise declaration tell the concrete and exact truth, with the greatest possible dynamic force; they are worthy of repetition: "The safety of society itself requires that he should be recalled." This is a complete answer to all of the mythical tradition, glibly voiced by the "elder statesmen," those who would hurl the Constitution at every new thought and every proposition made in behalf of the welfare of the whole people. In their mental desperate straits to preserve inviolate the strong grip of "vested interests" and privilege, they bandy words and terms, in the effort to confuse the public mind by unwarrantably inveighing the Constitution against all economic, political, and legislative reform.

That great English statesman, William Ewart Gladstone, is credited with saying that the Constitution of the United States is the greatest work ever written by the hand of man. The organized labor movement accepts this as a truism, but it suggests the thought that the Constitution, good as it is, and wonderfully comprehensive as its provisions are, was not expected nor intended by its authors to extend to the people of the United States for all time; neither was it ratified by the people of the several States after presentation to them as the last word in the progress of human government. Indeed, that this is true is evidenced by the provisions in the Constitution itself by which that instrument can be changed.

We, who are the accredited responsible representatives of the producers of our country, take issue with those who, in the language of the gambler, "stand pat," and who refuse to see or expect any thing good in the minds and hearts of the present generation.

We say that for the safety of society itself, judges who are incapable of meting out justice should be recalled. This country, this Government of ours in America, belongs to the people who for the time being live in it—while they are alive. We have had enough of government by dead men—dead issues—dead principles, and iron-clad restrictions. We must expand and progress; we can not stand still. We must have restored to the people the unrestricted power of changing their statutory or organic laws whenever they find the occasion and necessity warrant it, regardless of whether the "elder statesmen" should term it the "voice of clamor" or "the voice of the mob." As intelligent, aspiring American citizens, we resent such outrageous aspersions as are hurled at us when we urge humane social legislation, judicial restriction, and executive restraint.

The safety of society impels us to seek for ourselves the safest and sanest way to preserve our institutions. This can best be done by expanding the power of the people through direct legislation by means of the Initiative, the Referendum, and the Recall. How well this has been done, how much is being done, and what splendid service the men of Labor have given to this scientific, democratic system of government has been duly recorded in the American Federationist of August, September, October, November, 1912, and will probably be concluded in the December number. The story has been told either by our fellows in the States who were the pioneers in this movement, or it has been told by their closest associates, in plain, modest, unassuming terms, which are both a revelation and an inspiration. I hope that our membership generally will obtain as much gratification in reading these reports as it has afforded me to compile them. I rejoice in the fact that the people generally are accepting our advice, and that great States like California and Ohio have recently adopted the system by an overwhelming vote of the people. But we must not rest, or allow ourselves to become contented, until we have secured in all of the States uniformity of government on the same basis as Oregon, Arizona, and California have set as the standard, in which popular government versus delegated government has been made supreme and the recall has been made applicable to all officials of government, including the judiciary. When that time comes we can feel safe and secure that the government of the people is in the hands of the people themselves; it will be completely and absolutely with no one to say them "nay," with no power, executive, legislative or judicial, to thwart their desires and intents in behalf of better and wiser humane social legislation and in behalf of the full and complete reign of human rights when property rights make the conflict.

Men of America, we dare not halt! We must press forward or we will be driven back.

LIMIT JUDGES' TENURE.

In connection with the subject of the usurpation of power and extension of jurisdiction, as well as twisted interpretations by the courts, of law enacted in the interests of the people, the tenure of office of judges is an important factor. That the courts should remain untrammelled in independent judgment and decision in litigation and cases coming before them, no right-thinking citizen will dispute, but that such judgment and decision should be more in accord with the needs as well as the safety of our people and our country is equally true.

To accomplish this purpose the propositions of the recall of judges and the recall of decisions are receiving the consideration of our people. What I venture to suggest in addition is, that the judges of the courts created by acts of Congress (not the Supreme Court, which is created by the Constitution) shall have a time limit, say of four or six years for their terms, subject to reappointment by the President, by and with the consent of the Senate.

In the absence of the popular election of such judges it would afford the opportunity for the President and Senate not to reappoint the judge whose term has expired, who has proven by the course he has pursued that he is out of touch and out of sympathy with new legislation and the administration of the law, and yet whose conduct has not been of such a character as legally to warrant his impeachment or removal.

It has too often been demonstrated in our country that judges appointed for life, due to their trend of mind and their environment, are filled with a concept of the old; without the knowledge of the modern industrial and social condition; without the concept of present-day understanding of liberty, equality, and of social justice; have nothing but contempt for these principles or for the rights of the people. It is true that judges who pervert the law, who act arbitrarily, who deny equal justice to our people, are not necessarily corrupt or inefficient, and the course they pursue may not have carried with it moral obliquity, malfeasance, or misfeasance. Impeachment proceedings carry with them all these and are therefore cumbersome and have proven unsatisfactory to attain the ends which the people aim to secure. The limitation of the terms of office, subject to reappointment or not, at the discretion of the President and the Senate, would be materially helpful in securing more general satisfaction and the accomplishment of just results.

POPULAR ELECTION OF UNITED STATES SENATORS.

After many years of agitation we have finally succeeded in securing the passage of a measure through Congress providing for an amendment to the United States Constitution, making it possible for the people to cast a direct vote for their choice of men to represent them in the United States Senate.

The Secretary of State has submitted this constitutional amendment to the various States for their adoption. A number of the States have already ratified it, and it is expected, from the general sentiment prevailing among the people, that the Legislatures in practically all the States will ratify this amendment to the United States Constitution. It will be necessary for at least three-fourths of the Legislatures of the States to ratify this amendment before it can become part of the Constitution of the United States, and though the prospects are bright for its early ratification by the necessary number of States, yet I recommend that this convention urge upon all organized labor and friends to exert themselves in their various States to induce the ratification therein at the earliest possible date and thus bring the United States Senators nearer to the people, dependent upon their good will and votes to elect them to the United States Senate.

CITIZENSHIP RIGHTS RESTORED.

On January 25, 1906, an order was issued by President Roosevelt forbidding Government employees, directly or indirectly, individually or through associations, to solicit an increase of pay, or to influence or attempt to influence in their own interests, or through legislation before Congress or its committees, or in any way save through the heads of departments, on penalty of dismissal from the Government service.

This order arbitrarily deprived the employes in the Government service of the right of citizenship guaranteed to them under the Constitution. The departmental Government employes were gagged and their hands tied, without any means of redress. The only channel through which they could appeal for a remedy of any grievance was through their immediate superior officers, who usually were the source and cause of such grievance.

On November 26, 1910, President Taft issued a supplementary order extending and making more rigorous the order of January 25, 1906. This supplementary order provided that no bureau, office, division chief, or subordinate in any department of the Government, and no officer of the army, navy, or marine corps stationed in Washington, shall apply to either House of Congress, or to any committee of either House of Congress, or to any member of Congress for legislation or for congressional action of any kind, except with the consent and knowledge of the head of the department.

As a citizen, and as President of the American Federation of Labor, I immediately entered my protest when the executive order of 1906 was issued, and emphasized that protest upon the issuance of the supplementary executive order of 1910. The convention of the American Federation of Labor to which this matter was reported in 1906 took action denouncing and attacking the order, and demanding either a change of the executive order or legislation at the hands of Congress restoring to Government employes their rights of citizenship.

In consequence of the executive orders forbidding employes of the Post-Office Department to seek redress of grievances through direct appeal to Congress, a large number of the railway postal clerks organized and affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. This effort was made in order to enlist the assistance of the American Federation of Labor in an effort to secure remedial legislation. A number of these organizations were chartered by the American Federation of Labor. As soon as this became known, the Post-Office Department undertook to destroy them. Men employed in the service were victimized and compelled to seek other employment. Realizing the helplessness of the railway postal clerks, and desiring to render them all the assistance possible, the American Federation of Labor secured the introduction in both Houses of Congress of bills which, if adopted, would nullify the obnoxious executive orders to which reference is here made and restore to all employes of the Government their rights as American citizens.

While these bills did not reach consideration by either House, yet by an amendment to the Post-Office Appropriation bill, which is now a law, the right of petition, a right guaranteed to all citizens, was restored. Representatives of organized men in the classified civil service and in other departments of the Government, may now seek legislative relief from onerous conditions for these employes.

The effect of this amendment to the Post-Office Appropriation bill will be far-reaching and will preclude the possibility of the Post-Office Department assuming that men in the employ of the Government who organize for the protection of their interests, have no right to join the American Federation of Labor. The assumption of the officials of the Post-Office Department that they had the right to designate the organization or organizations of which the employes of the postal department should become members is at variance with the American idea of government. The American Federation of Labor is working out its destiny within the law, and will contest the assumption by Government officials of the right to dictate to the employes of the Government to which organizations they shall or shall not belong. The American people are not yet ready to take the position that because an individual accepts employment from the Government he thereby forfeits the rights guaranteed to him by the Constitution of the United States.

SECOND-CLASS POSTAL RATES.

Other amendments to the Appropriation bill secure an eight-hour day for letter carriers in city delivery service and clerks in first and second-class post-offices, and the advantages of second-class rates for trade union publications.

The law now provides that periodicals, publications issued not less than four times a year and published by trade unions, benevolent and fraternal organizations, organized under a lodge system, and having a bona fide membership of not less than one thousand, and other bona fide State institutions, shall have the benefit of the second-class postal rate; that is, one cent per pound.

Further features of the law are contained in this:

"Provided that the circulation through the mails of periodicals and publications issued by or under the auspices of . . . trade unions . . . as second-class mail matter, shall be limited to copies mailed to such members as pay therefor either as a part of their dues or assessment or otherwise, not less than fifty per centum of the regular subscription prices; to other bona fide subscribers; to exchanges, and ten per centum of such circulation as sample copies. Provided further, that the office and publication of any such periodical publication shall be fixed by the association or body by which it is published, or by its executive board. . . ."

The incorporation of this amendment has secured for our trade union publications, as for purely scientific and fraternal order publications, the second-class postal rates.

CONTRACT CONVICT LABOR SYSTEM.

From the first manifestation of the evils of the contract convict labor system, the American labor movement protested against its continuance, demanded a repeal of that system, and insisted that some more humane system take its place.

The history of the labor movement is replete with the evidence and the record of that unchanged, but insistent, attitude. This is due, not alone to humanitarian consideration, but for the protection of free workmen and their employers who suffered most directly from the abomination accompanying and resulting from contract convict labor competition.

On many occasions the conventions of the American Federation of Labor have gone on record emphatically denouncing the system. It is not necessary to review here the past consistent course which the American Federation of Labor has pursued upon this subject, but it may be interesting to call attention to the following paragraph in the report I had the honor to submit to the last convention:

"Prisoners should be required to work not for private profits of contractors, nor even for the financial profit of the State, but for the benefit of their dependents and for their own reformation."

The committee to which this subject was referred then made the following declaration, which was adopted unanimously by the convention:

"We are unalterably opposed to the labor of convicts being let out to contract. We believe that the ultimate solution of the problem will come when the convicts are engaged in the widest possible diversity of industry by hand labor for the use of eleemosynary institutions. By this method both body and mind will be strengthened. Men are imprisoned supposedly for the welfare of society, and their labor which may be utilized thereby should never be so handled as to become a menace to any portion of society.

"For the accomplishment of this purpose, we recommend the endorsement of the Booher bill, H. R. 5601, requiring convict made goods to conform to the laws of the State into which they are shipped, whether received in original packages or otherwise."

To what the committee stated, might be added that the Booher bill when enacted into law will authorize the States (which have or may enact legislation) to protect their citizens from the evil effects of convict labor. It would prohibit the importation and sale of the product of convict labor of other States, because such other States would be then required either to sell or consume the product of their own convicts within their own boundaries. As a consequence, conditions would so shape themselves that humane and practical legislation, so long urged by our organizations, would be enacted by the various States.

The Booher bill, amended to include the product of convicts in coal mines, passed the House of Representatives without division, and by practically a unanimous vote. It was then referred to the Senate Committee on Judiciary, and by that committee referred to a sub-committee consisting of Senators Brown of Nebraska, Brandegee of Connecticut, and Culberson of Texas. This sub-committee has been frequently urged to make a favorable report upon the bill. It seems that Senator Nelson of Minnesota, one of the influential members of the Senate Committee on Judiciary, is the chief opponent to this meritorious bill, the bill which is of much interest to free workers and fair-minded employers who are in competition with convict contract labor; but whether he is the sole obstacle in that committee to the favorable report upon this bill, has not been learned.

We can secure the enactment of this measure during the coming session of Congress, if the officials and members of our organizations will place the matter before their United States Senators in a direct and emphatic manner and urge prompt action. The time is most opportune. The sentiment among penologists, State officials, employers, merchants, public men in civic societies, is now sufficient to convince the general public and the United States Senate that the attitude of organized labor against the unfair competition of convict made goods upon the open market is correct. This sentiment can be made sufficiently powerful to influence the Senate to enact this measure and through its enactment induce State Legislatures to enact self-protecting laws within their own jurisdiction.

Let me use one illustration which is fairly indicative of the general sentiment in many of the States. A commission was appointed by the Governor of Iowa to investigate industrial conditions in Iowa penitentiaries. This investigation followed the complaints made by the members of our organizations in that State. The commission's report sustained in every particular the position so long maintained by us. It contained in part:

"The system of private exploitation by contractors of the convicts is the main cause of the cruelty reported and of the absolute failure of the institution as a reformatory."

The commission found that the contractors, as is always the case wherever the contract system prevails, had undertaken to control (and had managed to succeed) the Iowa prisons for their own profit. The most cruel punishments were inflicted upon those inmates who could not or did not accomplish the tasks set for them by the contractors. Good, willing workers among the convicts, who under ordinary circumstances, under more humane and just State requirements, would have been paroled, were detained in prison longer than others; their paroles were denied because they were too valuable to the contractors to be released.

These findings of the Iowa commission bear out the contentions that we have made in our protest against the abominable system of contracting convicts. Wherever the contract system has been investigated, the same results have been disclosed. All of the virtues of kindness, education, reformation, justice, maintenance of dependent ones, are lost sight of, and the penitentiaries with their inmates are ruthlessly turned over to the contractors for the purpose of grinding out profits. The contractors, of course, have no interest in the welfare of the State and no interest in the welfare, education or reformation of the prisoners—profits, more profits, actuate their every deed. We know this to be true, and we have converted the general public sentiment to our way of thinking. The Booher bill should pass and so end the unspeakable horrors committed in penitentiaries in the interest of conscienceless contractors and corrupt politicians.

The purpose of confining prisoners is for the protection of the community, and thereafter for their reform, not necessarily for punishment. It is better and cheaper for government and society that prisoners be reformed, rather than that they be turned over to unscrupulous and inhuman greed under the contract system. With the passage of the Booher bill, the States could protect the people within their borders from the unfair competition of the vicious system of contract labor.

Our movement does not contemplate keeping the inmates of prisons in idleness. They should be employed, and can be employed, in a diversity of industries for their own maintenance and the maintenance of those confined in the eleemosynary institutions of the State. They may even be employed in the much needed improvement of the public roads of our country.

The position of organized labor regarding the subject of the contract convict labor system has been confirmed and sustained by every man and organization investigating conditions and understanding our contention. Penologists and associations formed for the investigation of convict life and labor, of conditions obtaining in penal institutions, fully endorse organized labor's attitude.

Attention has already been called to the fact that this subject has been fully dealt with in reports and action of previous conventions of the American Federation of Labor. In addition, it may be interesting to call attention to the articles which were published in the April and July, 1910, and March, 1912, issues of the American Federationist. Due to the publication of these articles, the condition in the Maryland Penitentiary at Baltimore became the subject of a controversy between us and those who favor the continuation of the system. The beneficiaries of this system in the Baltimore Penitentiary, by pretense and device, led quite a number of well meaning people astray, among whom was no less a person than Mr. Lyman Beecher Stowe who vigorously defended the institution and the system. Later, when the truth was presented to Mr. Stowe's satisfaction, he voluntarily acknowledged the imposition that had been practiced upon him. He wrote me a letter apologizing for his previous utterances and declared that he was in full accord with Labor's contention upon the question of the evil effects of the contract convict labor system. Mr. Stowe took occasion to utilize the columns of the Outlook, the Baltimore Sun and the American Federationist for that purpose.

There are men and associations now in full accord and co-operating with the American labor movement for the abolition of this evil, and the time is not far distant when further publicity of the evils of the system will arouse the general enlightened conscience to more economic, safe, and humane methods which can and should be instituted for the employment of the unfortunates confined in our penal institutions. The fair-minded people of our country will be convinced of the justice of our contention and will, by law, prohibit this vicious system within the institutions intended to serve a reformatory purpose.

BOILER INSPECTION.

Resolution 136, adopted by the Atlanta Convention, commented upon the inefficiency of the inspectors in the service of the Federal Bureau of Locomotive Boiler Inspection, and requested the Executive Council to do all in its power to have the provisions of the law providing for the selection of competent inspectors properly enforced. I investigated the situation and found that the Civil Service Commission requires applicants for district inspectors to possess the following qualifications:

Minimum age 25, maximum 50; physical qualifications, not less than three years railroad experience in the capacity of master mechanic, road foreman of engines, boilermaker, boiler inspector, round-house foreman, shop foreman, locomotive engineer, or inspector of locomotive equipment under the Government of the United States, and the two years preceding date of application must have been spent in active service in any such former capacities. The experience required must be in addition to time served in apprenticeship or spent in attending a technical school. The Civil Service examination consists of:

Spelling, 5 points; arithmetic, 5 points; report writing, 5 points; practical questions relating to construction, repair, operation, testing and inspection of locomotive boilers and their appurtenances, 30 points; training and experience in one or more branches of railroad work as before specified, 30 points; general business experience, ability to make reports, investigate accidents, etc., 25 points.

The act in question became effective July 1, 1911. It took some time for the organization of the bureau and for examinations of district inspectors to be conducted by the Civil Service Commission.

On August 3, 1911, two district inspectors were certified to the bureau by the Civil Service Commission. By September 10, twelve inspectors were appointed and in the field. On December 31, forty-one inspectors were in service, and it was not until February 14, 1912, that the full complement of fifty district inspectors was in service.

Upon examination I find that the previous occupations of the inspectors were:

Boilermakers, 19; engineers, 15; machinists, 12; round-house foremen—no previous occupation recorded, 2; safety appliance inspectors under Interstate Commerce Commission—former occupation engineers, 2; total, 50.

Mr. John F. Ensign, Chief Inspector, has extended the courtesy of furnishing an advance copy of his report to the Interstate Commerce Commission, from which I glean the following summary of inspection work performed by his office during the first fiscal year of the service ending July 1, 1912, although, in fact the full force of inspectors had been in service less than five months:

Total number of locomotives inspected, 74,234; total number of locomotives found defective, 48,768; total number of defects found, 173,321; total number of locomotives ordered out of service, 3,377; total number of locomotives owned, 62,074.

This latter item includes only the locomotives owned by the railroads upon which inspections were made, some of them having been inspected more than once, and must not be confused with the total number of locomotives owned by all the railroads in the United States.

The following results were accomplished through the office of the Chief Inspector:

Number of locomotives on which the pressure was reduced to obtain a proper factor of safety, 699; number of locomotives which had seams re-enforced by welt plates to obtain a proper factor of safety, 327; number of locomotives "scrapped" on account of defective conditions, 698; number of locomotives on which the lowest reading of water glass was ordered raised to comply with the law, 992; number of locomotives on which lowest gauge cock was ordered raised to comply with the law, 408; number of locomotives ordered strengthened by having braces of greater sectional area applied, 351; number of locomotives on which additional support for crown sheet was required, 116.

The foregoing statement of inspections and results gives a complete list of locomotives inspected and defects found, but is not a complete record of all the work performed by the district inspectors during the year, details of which would be too tedious to enumerate.

Special tests and inspections of all boiler appurtenances are required, and it is also made the duty of the railroad company to know that all locomotives are in a safe and proper condition to operate before they allow them to be used. This places the burden of the inspection and the responsibility for the condition of all locomotives on the common carriers, which, of course, was the manifest intent of the law. District inspectors are instructed to report all defects which exist. Representatives of railroads have strenuously objected to this on the ground that certain defects which the inspectors reported did not constitute violations of the law. Investigations of these complaints made by railroad officials, usually disclosed the fact that such defects reported by the inspectors originated at points (shops and round-houses) where defective shop conditions existed and were mostly due to a desire on the part of the local officials to avoid censure due them for permitting such conditions. In practically every case where railroad officials have complained of the severity of the law and the rigid enforcement of it by the inspectors, and where hearings have been held and a proper investigation given to the complaints, it has been invariably found and so held that the inspectors were right and the railroad officials wrong. The Chief Inspector says:

"The present practice of reporting and insisting on the prompt repair of all defects before they become serious, has been so productive of good results that it will be vigorously continued, as we believe the purpose of the law can be best served by endeavoring to prevent violations rather than by waiting until violations occur and then filing suits to enforce the penalty. However, this should not be construed as meaning that suits will not be filed if necessary to enforce the provisions of the law or the lawful orders of any district inspector."

Information reaches me that occasionally the enforcement of the Locomotive Boiler Inspection law is lax in some localities. May I express the hope that when men employed by railroads can obtain evidence of such laxity or interference with the operation of the law, or against those who violate the law, they will promptly put the President of the American Federation of Labor in possession of the essential facts so that they can be presented to the Chief Inspector for his personal official attention? From the vigorous efforts which have been made and the good results secured in the brief time in which the law has been in effective operation, I feel confident that it has done much in saving life and human suffering.

The Boiler Inspector's report is now ready for free distribution. Copies can be obtained free on application to either the Boiler Inspection Department or the Interstate Commerce Commission.

SCIENTIFIC MANAGEMENT.

The subject of so-called "scientific management" has been made the hobby of many ambitious engineers and managers of corporate concerns. In my report to the Atlanta Convention this subject was presented in a general way, and critically discussed. I have given publicity to the evils of the system in special articles and editorials in the American Federationist. The subject I regard of such importance that our activities to thwart these schemes deserve detailed mention, so that the record may follow in proper and complete order.

On April 14, 1911, Representative Pepper of Iowa, introduced House Resolution No. 90, calling for an investigation of the Taylor system of shop management. This resolution was referred to the Committee on Labor. The committee held hearings. Several representatives of Labor joined in urging the committee to report the resolution. The committee made a favorable report to the House, in which it was recommended that the investigation be extended to other systems of so-called scientific management.

On August 21, 1911, a resolution was considered by the House, and in spite of the filibuster led by Congressman Mann, of Illinois, the House authorized the investigation to be made by a special committee, to be appointed by the Speaker. The committee appointed consisted of Representatives William B. Wilson of Pennsylvania, William C. Redfield of New York, and George P. Lawrence of Massachusetts. Before the investigation was commenced Mr. Lawrence withdrew from the committee and Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, was substituted. The committee was instructed to report to the House not later than December 10, 1911.

The committee commenced its investigation at the Watertown Arsenal in Massachusetts, in which the Taylor system had been established by the War Department. This arsenal had also gained considerable notice throughout the country because of the strike of the molders against the "stop watch" feature of the system. Hearings commenced October 4, and continued until October 11, 1911. Several representatives of Labor were present to give and hear testimony, and were permitted by the committee to ask questions of the witnesses employed at the arsenal.

On October 25 to 27, 1911, the committee took testimony from employes of the New York Navy Yard, efficiency engineers, scientific management advocates, and others. These inquiries developed the fact that the subject covered too great a sphere to be adequately investigated in the time allotted. On December 9, 1911 the day before the period set for a report from the committee, chairman Wilson requested and obtained an extension of time. The committee resumed its investigation in the office of the Committee on Labor from day to day until February 12, 1912. The investigation was thorough; all persons desiring to be heard were given ample opportunity. The committee permitted representatives of Labor, officers of the War and Navy Departments and efficiency engineers to be present throughout the hearings and interrogate witnesses at their will. Several employes of the Rock Island Arsenal, where the original complaint against the Taylor system emanated, several employes of the Norfolk Navy Yard who had protested against the installation of the system, and employes of private establishments in Philadelphia, where the Taylor system was in operation, appeared before the committee and gave testimony. Officers of the War and Navy Departments were heard at length. Efficiency engineers, including Mr. Taylor himself, as well as several of their favored employes, were rigidly examined. When the hearings were concluded the committee went to Philadelphia, Pa., and Stamford, Conn., and personally investigated certain manufacturing plants in which the Taylor system is installed.

The committee made its report to the House on March 9, 1912. Its findings were against all of the features of the system to which our organizations objected, such as abnormal high speed forced upon workmen, the "stop watch" practice, the premium-bonus system, and the harsh disciplinary features of "Taylorism."

The congressional investigation was primarily instituted for the purpose of obtaining facts upon which to base legislative action, and when it became evident that department officials did not intend to abide by the findings of the investigating committee unless directed to do so by Congress, it became necessary to introduce remedial measures. Mr. Pepper, of Iowa, then introduced bill H. R. 22339, on March 27, 1912, which aimed to prohibit Government officials from making use of the "stop-watch" practice and the premium-bonus system of compensation, which Labor regards as the two chief objectionable features of the Taylor system, and which the author of the system regards as the basis upon which the balance of his scheme rests. This bill was referred to the Committee on Labor. On April 4, 1912, Senator Poindexter, of Washington, introduced S. 6172, an identical bill, in the Senate. It was referred to the Senate Committee on Education and Labor.

The House Committee on Labor gave the bill careful consideration and directed that amendments be made to the original wording in order to strengthen it. On July 15, 1912, chairman Wilson reported the Anti-Taylor System bill with a new number, H. R. 25305 with the recommendation that it be passed. Mr. Wilson succeeded in having it given a position of advantage on the special calendar for suspension of the rules which is kept by the Speaker but, owing to the pressure of business in the House on appropriation bills, the special calendar was not reached and the bill was postponed until the next session.

The Senate Committee on Education and Labor considered it unnecessary to hold hearings on S. 6172, owing to the thoroughness with which the general subject had been considered by the special committee of the House. Chairman Borah of the Senate Committee reported the Poindexter bill on July 17, 1912, with a recommendation that it be passed, and in his report he critically analyzed the Taylor system and pointed out its evils.

In part the report says:

"The terms of this bill (S. 6172) and the practices which it is intended to prohibit, are directed against the excesses of certain systems of shop management which it is the intention of the War Department and the Navy Department to install in their manufacturing establishments and which we believe to be oppressive to workmen, as they have a tendency to reduce the employe to a mere machine, deprive him of his self-reliance, and in the long run would reduce Government employes to a condition of unresisting vassalage."

Senator Borah made several endeavors to bring the bill before the Senate for action, but, owing to the parliamentary situation on the appropriation bills, he could not get the desired action. This delay has not, however, jeopardized the bill in the Senate any more than it has in the House. We feel thoroughly assured that Chairman Borah and Chairman Wilson, of the respective committees on labor, strongly advocate this legislation, and that the prospects are bright for its passage in both Houses.

The public discussion which has ensued on these intensive production schemes since the congressional investigation and report has been very instructive, wholesome, and beneficial to all, and the protest lodged by Labor against the practice has not only been justified by the investigation but will bear fruit in legislation. Attention is called to the interesting reports of both the House and Senate committees, copies of which may be had without cost upon application.

EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY AND WORKMENS' COMPENSATION.

On January 15, 1912, the Supreme Court of the United States gave its unanimous approval to the Employers' Liability law, enacted by Congress in 1908. The court rejected all of the defenses that had been raised by attorneys for the railroads which were litigants before the courts in which strenuous efforts were made by the attorneys to retain the "fellow-servant" and "contributory negligence" defenses. The court held (and in this respect, practically reversed its former decision of February, 1908, on relation of master and servant), that Congress had the power to regulate the duties of common carriers, both in respect to the safety of their employes and the liability of the carrier as an employer, for injuries sustained by the employes (or servants) while on duty. The court also held that "since Congress had acted, the laws of the States, in so far as they covered the same field (common carriers by railroads) are superseded, for necessarily that which is not supreme must yield to that which is." This expression, coming as it did from the highest court, therefore, the highest legal authority in the land, is a most significant suggestion which I deem of sufficient moment to bring to the attention of all the members of all the organizations of labor throughout the United States. I consider this declaration equivalent to a recommendation by the Supreme Court that the Federal law should be used as a model by the States. Effective laws upon this most important subject, of vital interest to the workers, would constitute an auspicious beginning in the movement to secure uniformity in State legislation.

Your attention is directed particularly to this subject, to the end that the State federations of labor may demand the enactment of laws in all the States along the same line as the Federal Employers' Liability law; and further, that all contemplated legislation in the several States for employers' liability be made applicable to all employments in the State so as to cover all of the workers in all of the industries and not be confined merely to common carriers by railroads. The importance of this is emphasized, because in some States laws for the protection of workmen in the railway service have failed to include the rights and claims of workers in other lines of industry.

A State Legislature might, with desire to attain popularity, readily and cheerfully pass an employers' liability law for supposedly intrastate commerce and in uniformity with the Federal law applicable to interstate commerce; when, in reality, such a law, if enacted by a State, would not be of much relative value, as but few of the railroads in any of the States now confine themselves strictly to commerce within the State.

Therefore, it is extremely important that efforts should be made to have the States enact workmen's compensation laws in preference to employers' liability laws and insist that the workmen's compensation laws shall contain a generous scale of awards and include all the workers of all industries in the State.

The Federal Commission which had under consideration during 1911 the subject of workmen's compensation for injuries and employers' liability, worked industriously and intelligently in behalf of a comprehensive compensation bill based on different schedule rates for specific injuries which would provide automatic compensation for employes engaged in interstate commerce. The representatives of Labor appeared before this commission, participated in the discussion and argument, and aided in the preparation of the provisions of the bill.

The Commission completed its report and drafted a tentative bill. This bill was introduced in the House and Senate on February 20, 1912, by two members of the Commission, Senator Sutherland and Representative Brantley, and was referred to the respective committees on judiciary. The Judiciary Committee of the Senate favorably reported Senate bill 5382 on April 3. It was debated at many sessions. It met with vigorous opposition, but despite that fact, it finally passed with amendments which strengthened it. The bill then went to the House Committee on Judiciary and was considered by that committee as a substitute for the H. R. 20487. That committee gave extended hearings at which representatives of Labor, including myself, made arguments and urged that the committee report the bill favorably and press its passage in the House.

There were two elements of opposition—one composed of those in the legal profession who would lose a very large portion of their business which is now so profitable to them because of litigation under employers' liability; the other which urged that an injured employe should have the alternative right of compensation or litigation. The House Judiciary Committee did not make a report upon the bill to the House. The bill, however, retains its position before the remaining session of the Sixty-second Congress.

We were all led to believe that there was unanimity of opinion and action among the representatives of the railroad brotherhoods. Later some opposition among some of the railroad men became manifest. Inasmuch as the bill would primarily affect the railroad men, I felt it incumbent upon me to refrain from further urging its enactment until practical agreement had been reached by them. I am quite confident that had the railroad brotherhoods' representatives been in accord; had they taken the bill advocated by the Federation's representatives, the House Judiciary Committee would have reported the bill favorably and it would have passed and been now enacted into law.

The Government Employes' Compensation Act was extended to include the employes in the Bureau of Mines.

In the report of the solicitor of the Department of Commerce and Labor made on October 28, 1912, it is shown that the money benefits paid under the Government Employes' Compensation for Injuries Act between the dates of August 1, 1908, when it went into effect, and December 1, 1911, amounted to $1,117,693.

The solicitor states that over 17,000 accidents were reported under the act during the first three years of its operation, and only about 8,000 claims were filed, due to the limited scope of the law.

From the best available data that I have been able to secure, I find that 334 of such accidents were fatal. These data are furnished in detail at this time in order to show by the official records of the Government the many hazards which workmen in the manufacturing establishments and public works of the United States Government have to face, and for the additional purpose of calling attention to observations made by officials of the Government and representatives in Congress who unhesitatingly said at the time we asked Congress for this legislation, that very few accidents happened to workmen in the Government employ, and that fatal accidents were practically unknown. This report by the solicitor discloses the fact that even when the best care is taken, and probably the best safety devices are in vogue, yet accidents to workmen are very frequent. The report also emphasizes the need of increased benefits for injured workmen and the need of having the act extended to all Government employees, in addition to those engaged in hazardous employment.

On the other hand, it is particularly gratifying to know that the efforts made and expense undertaken by the American Federation of Labor have been productive of so much benefit to the organized and unorganized employees in the United States Government who have unfortunately met with accidents.

Eight thousand persons injured, in addition to the members of the families of the injured, have been saved from legal expense and an unnecessary suspense concerning the benefits they were to receive, and when they would receive them. The two latter features, to my mind, are two of the best virtues connected with the system of automatic compensation for injuries. The Government data now at hand should be instrumental in the future in preventing human injury by the adoption of more and better safety methods.

In harmony with a resolution adopted by the Atlanta Convention, relative to increasing the benefits awarded Government employees in case of injury and for the extension of the Federal Compensation Act, a separate bill was duly urged. However, Representative Howland introduced a bill amending the act so as to make the benefits for the Government employees equivalent to the schedule of benefits and awards provided in the bill reported by the Federal Commission on Workmen's Compensation for employees in interstate commerce. The Howland bill, H. R. 20995, was also extended so as to possess the full scope of the original bill for Government employees introduced at the instance of the American Federation of Labor and urged by it—that is, including all employees of the Federal Government without regard to hazard of occupation. The House Committee on Judiciary reported the Howland bill favorably. If enacted it will simplify the problem of special legislation of this character.

While it may be admitted that the scale of benefits provided in both bills is comparatively small, yet this scale thus provided is greater than that allowed by any State laws, or by any of the laws in vogue in foreign countries, and exceeds by far the scale originally sought in the Federal act or the State acts proposed by the American Federation of Labor. If it be found that the scale of benefits works an injustice in any particular, even though the scale is not as high as we should like it to be, the establishment of the system by the enactment of the law will make a good beginning. When the system is once established and the ripper judgment and more generous conception of the people have become manifest, Congress will amplify and increase the benefits to be awarded the injured employee or the dependents of the deceased worker. We should redouble our efforts at the next session of Congress to urge the passage of the Howland bill for Government employees.

Inasmuch as the political parties, in compliance with the demands of the American Federation of Labor, have declared in favor of workmen's compensation, both Federal and State, there should be no doubt of the early establishment of the system by act of Congress, as well as of the State Legislatures, providing the men in the organized labor movement are persistent and insistent upon the early enactment of such legislation.

According to the latest information, the following sixteen States have enacted compensation laws since we secured the enactment of the Federal Compensation law for Government employees in May, 1908:

Arizona, California, Illinois, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan,

Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Nevada, Ohio, Rhode Island, Washington, and Wisconsin.

The following nine States have commissions inquiring into the subject:

Delaware, Iowa, Louisiana, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, Oregon, Pennsylvania, and West Virginia.

The provinces of New Brunswick and Saskatchewan in Canada have also enacted compensation laws. Ontario and British Columbia have commissions at work.

OLD-AGE PENSIONS.

The attitude of the American Federation of Labor upon the subject of Old-Age Pensions is a matter of common knowledge, and also on record in the official printed proceedings of the several annual conventions. The Atlanta Convention concurred in the sentiment expressed in resolutions 2 and 57 for the passage of a law providing Old-Age Pensions to Government employes. That convention also took favorable action upon a resolution providing for a comprehensive national Old-Age Pension system of a general character.

At a conference between Congressman W. B. Wilson, of Pennsylvania, and the Executive Council, the draft of a general Old-Age Pension bill was submitted by him, discussed at the conference, and approved. Mr. Wilson introduced his bill on December 14, 1909, and again April 11, 1911.

July 31, 1911, Congressman Berger also introduced an Old-Age Pension bill. Up to this time no action has been taken by Congress on either of these bills.

OCCUPATIONAL DISEASES.

The bill providing for a tax upon white phosphorus matches which had been urged before Congress for several terms was passed without amendment or division, and is now law. The humanitarian purpose of this law was secured through the exercise of the taxing power of the Federal Government.

The New York Legislature in its session during 1912 added a new chapter to the factory sanitation laws, specifically aimed at the prevention of industrial poisoning, the menace of which is becoming more and more evident in the light of recent investigations. The new law requires that workers in all factories where poisonous substances are used, or harmful fumes, dust or gases are given off, must be provided with washing facilities which shall include hot water and individual towels. Employes are forbidden to take food into workrooms of such establishments, or to remain in them during meal time. Employers are required to make suitable provision for employes to take their meals elsewhere. It is also wisely provided that these regulations shall apply to mercantile establishments, commercial institutions, as well as to those workplaces where poisonous substances are used, or injurious fumes, dust or gases exist.

The Indiana Legislature made it compulsory for all contractors to lay flooring between every two floors during the construction of buildings above two stories. It is also obligatory upon the contractor to safeguard scaffolds, and surround them with a hand rail three feet high.

Wisconsin made it obligatory that builders and architects must submit plans and specifications of proposed factory buildings to the Industrial Commission for its approval and prohibits constructions without such approval. This commission is directed to obtain information to enable it to work out practical methods and safe and sanitary conditions for the prevention of occupational diseases.

The Maryland Legislature directed that physicians shall report to the State Commissioner of Labor all diseases resulting from lead, phosphorus, arsenic, mercury and other poisonous compounds, or diseases resulting from compressed air, or arising from the nature of patient's employment. Failure to send report makes physicians liable to a fine.

The States of California, Connecticut, Illinois, Michigan, New York and Wisconsin have enacted laws requiring physicians to make special reports upon all cases of sickness under their observation that are directly traceable to a disease acquired in an occupation. This information will be helpful in a way, but until such data are compiled in standardized form the best results will not be forthcoming.

The most complete occupational disease law passed by any of the States was that enacted by the State of Illinois, to which reference was made in my report to the Atlanta convention, but it is germane that I should touch upon the practical method adopted previous to the writing or enactment of that law. It was formulated by a commission which inquired into existing conditions and sought expert information. After this valuable knowledge had been secured the commission drew up devices for the prevention of occupational diseases among people working with poisonous and injurious materials. Some of these devices required that special attire shall be furnished the employees while they are at their work, and that monthly medical examinations shall be made of the workers who are exposed to the hazard of disease. Washing and dressing rooms will be provided for them, and special precaution taken in connection with the preparation of materials upon which they work.

Legislation of this character is secured through the demands of the workers for protection.

The enactment of workmen's compensation laws by some of the States and the discussion of such legislation has aroused the employers to consideration of the subject of the health of their employees. It is hoped that improved conditions will grow out of co-operation between employers and employees for the better safe-guarding and protection of employees from diseases and accidents.

The Illinois Occupational Disease law has been approved by the Supreme Court of that State. It is not only the first law of this character which has been enacted, but it is so good and so broad in its scope that I recommend that all State federations of labor should obtain a copy of that law for study, with the purpose in view of having similar legislation enacted in their respective States.

ANTI-WATERED-STOCK GAMBLING.

Resolution 38, adopted by the Atlanta Convention, declared against wholesale robbery of the people under the cloak of lawful and legitimate business by speculators and gamblers, who exploit the masses by over-capitalizing railroad properties and other interstate enterprises. The resolution also directed that a campaign should be inaugurated against watered-stock gambling in the several State Legislatures and in the United States Congress. The subject-matter of this resolution and the best methods to adopt in behalf of the ends at which it aims, are deserving of more than casual attention. To adopt a sweeping resolution of this character in our conventions is quite different from putting its intent into practical effective, concrete form for consideration and action by the State Legislatures and the United States Congress. It is therefore recommended that more detailed consideration be given to this important subject during this convention, and that the character of legislation desired be more accurately defined.

During the last session of Congress, so many subjects occupied our time and attention that we found it was physically impossible to keep informed upon all of the many matters which we have been instructed by past conventions to advance. As a consequence, some of the new matters referred to me were held in abeyance pending the enactment of legislation affecting the very life of our organizations and humanity's best and most urgent interests.

There is no doubt but that the thinking people of the United States are commencing to look with anxiety upon the brutal gambling in necessities by financiers on the stock exchanges, and they view with alarm the tremendous amount of "water" or fictitious capital upon which the masses of the people are compelled, under our present financial system, to pay dividends. This condition increases the cost of living of which the people of our country now so justly complain.

According to one of the greatest financial authorities in the United States, sixty billion dollars of the nation's wealth is represented in stocks and bonds. These stocks and bonds are the paper titles of ownership to the nation's incorporated industries. Over fifty-five billion dollars of this sixty billion represented by stocks and bonds has come into existence during the past forty years. The actual capital employed in the nation's industries forty years ago was five billion; that was supposed to be invested capital. At the "going" rate of interest of five per cent such investments would mean an annual charge of two hundred and fifty million dollars. The sixty billion of stocks and bonds takes from the people at the same five per cent rate, three billion dollars annually in interest, instead of two hundred and fifty million as before. The author adds this:

"Over forty billion of the sixty billion of stocks and bonds capital is counterfeit. It represents nothing but a trick, and this forty billion fictitious capital is largely owned by ten thousand people, who every year receive two thousand million dollars interest for it."

Therefore, this two thousand million of dollars added to the price of the people's necessities each year has to a large degree brought about the present high cost of living. The particular agencies through which these tricks are worked are the stock exchanges. If these sharp practices are permitted to continue or to be extended, our people will be compelled to bear the burden. There is no need of my going into further details, because I am of the opinion that we are thoroughly agreed as to the existence of the suffering and the tremendous influence this evil is having upon our lives. Therefore, agreeing as to the grievance, what steps shall we take to provide a remedy, and what remedies can be most quickly and effectively secured? It would be idle for us to inaugurate a campaign to outlaw the stock exchanges. It would be almost as difficult to obtain enforceable laws to regulate them. The readiest and most practicable way by which the people can protect themselves from robbery through fictitious investments and charges, is to insist upon the enactment of a national law providing physical valuation for all railroads and all corporations doing an interstate business and prohibiting the creating or making of any watered or fictitious values in addition to the actual, physical values. State Legislatures should work in harmony with the Federal Congress to secure the same restrictions on corporations engaged in purely intrastate business.

Senator La Follette and Representative Lenroot, both of Wisconsin, have measures before the Senate and House dealing with this subject from a Federal standpoint. The time has come when we should give this feature of the remedy our close study, and if we reach the conclusion that this is the wisest course to pursue, we should bend every effort to secure the passage of strict physical valuation laws.

WIDER USE OF THE SCHOOLS.

From many of those in school work comes insistent protest against the abnormal ideals and conditions obtaining there, against isolation from the practical, vital affairs of life and work. To such, the present tendency in some localities to depart from these time-honored customs is a cause for satisfaction. Increasing demand for social centers has coincided with an appreciation of our failure to realize the greatest returns on the funds invested in school buildings. We Americans have prided ourselves upon the sums we have expended for school buildings, and then have usually permitted these buildings to be controlled by school directors chosen from the "representative citizens" of the town—usually men representing financial interests and the classical ideal in education, out of touch with modern social and economic thought and standards. These directors, as the custodians of the public schools, scrupulously maintained "high educational standards" that all students might have an opportunity "to prepare for the University," guarded the buildings that no "intruders" might infringe on the children's territory, and, by innumerable, well intended regulations, shut off the schools, teachers, and students from contact with life and the work-a-day world. Such directors lack in efficiency because they are out of touch with modern problems, needs, and outlook on life.

Experimentation has given a scientific basis for physical and psychological development and training, transforming the pedagogic objectives until now the modern school ideal is to teach each child how to live and work—how to live fully and completely that he may do the best work he is capable of doing, and how he may best work in order to attain the fullest life. In order to satisfy these wider ideals, school instructions must be individualized so that the needs and abilities of each pupil may be considered and met. The old order changes, and it is no longer necessary for boys or girls to be sentenced to reform schools in order to secure a type of education that appeals to their utilitarian instincts.

There is a distinct movement within the school to bring it in touch with life and life problems. There is a supplementary movement on the outside to gain contact and familiarity with school affairs. Distinct social, political, economic, and moral currents contribute to this movement. The public has become conscious that more might be realized from the investments in school buildings; that it is unbusiness-like to keep these buildings closed during so much of the time, while they hire or build other congregation places. This is but a revival of the good old American custom of the days when the school house was the place of public assembly—the social center of the community life.

Wisconsin has been one of the leaders in a movement to use school houses for political purposes. Two years ago the Wisconsin Legislature passed a law requiring school boards to grant free use of school houses as neighborhood headquarters for political discussion. Dr. Strong, president of the Social Center Association of America, has written the chairmen of the national political party committees, recommending that the school houses be used as places for political discussion. This question has been discussed in New York City. Other cities, as Los Angeles, have found that using the school houses for polling places was a saving of public money, and not only did not interfere with school affairs but created common interests. This wider use of the school building for political purposes would constitute each building an American forum where the people could discuss public issues under the best influence and surroundings. Political education of the electorate which must precede and accompany political reforms and progress, is stimulated and kept healthy by such gatherings.

The demand for social centers gains in definiteness and intensity due to the increasing conviction that the affairs of the common life can best be managed by co-operation and mutual helpfulness. When neighborhood clubs and centers were first established in the cities, there naturally arose the question of the use of the school building as the logical place for these activities. With the movement to enrich rural life, the grange, and "the ruralization" of the country school, has come a similar wider use of the school.

The Direct Legislation League of Colorado presented to the voters for their approval in the recent election a very comprehensive amendment, proposing that playgrounds, recreation, neighborhood and social centers, public baths, public libraries and schools be placed under the same authority, and that, except during school hours, school houses shall be opened to the people for the discussion of public questions concerning their civic, social, business and political affairs. The evident purpose of the amendment is to eliminate jurisdictional conflicts and to render all these public institutions harmonious factors in a great plan for the enrichment of the life of all the people.

The policy of the New York Board of Education is very broad. Permission was granted for the holding of sixty-eight political meetings in public school buildings in the campaign just closed. These privileges have been equally accorded to the different political parties.

Recently a New York School was formally opened as a social center. In the neighborhood meeting which followed the speeches, it was decided to give dances in the building once a week, singing, societies, lectures and moving picture shows were suggested as means of bringing the people together and fostering a neighborhood spirit. The annual public lecture courses of the New York schools arranged for by the Board of Education, in the establishment of which I was helpful, have long been famous. Some of the most noted people of the world contribute their services to this course. Any school might map out similar programs adapted to local or general needs, and so serve as a healthy stimulus to public thought and help to solve the difficult problem of wholesome recreation.

In 1910 Chicago entered upon the execution of a general plan for the maintenance of social centers at public school buildings. These are intended to serve as neighborhood amusement centers, affording opportunities for singing, gymnastic training, dramatics, orchestral organization, debating, reading, and social dancing. Nine of these centers are open two evenings in the week until the middle of April. Seventeen high school and one hundred and eighty-seven elementary school assembly halls may be used free of charge for meetings relating directly to school life. With approval of the Chicago Civic Club, its sub-committee on social centers, a division of the Public Education Committee, has united with the Committee on Parks in recommending the use of school buildings as field houses for small parks. This sub-committee had created considerable sentiment in favor of using school buildings for civic purposes and political gatherings.

The sub-committee on Vocational Guidance is preparing recommendations and plans looking towards co-operation between the schools and business organizations, in directing school children toward proper occupations and securing additional training for children in occupations. According to an agreement between the Carpenters' Union and the Carpenters and Builders' Association, apprentices may attend school for the first three months of each year. The special course arranged for them includes architectural drawing, plan reading and estimating, English, mathematics, and United States History.

It will be remembered that in my annual report for 1904, and several subsequent years, I recommended that trade unionists secure the privilege to use public school buildings as meeting places. The suggestion was favorably reported and endorsed by the conventions. The increasing liberality of public opinion presents an opportunity for making such arrangements more general, and I recommend that the members of our organizations renew their efforts to secure wider usage of public school buildings, and utilize these convenient public buildings for trade union and central body meetings. Such meeting places would ensure an environment with wholesome, moral influences.

Many have conceived of the functions which our educational institutions may be made to serve—a conception which rouses them to attain the better things. In this movement organized labor must do its part. As in the past the workmen were foremost in the movement for free public schools, free books, and the legislation that secured to all educational opportunities, so in the movement for wider usage of school buildings and humanization of education, Labor's influence has enlisted many of the forces which are striving to connect our schools more intimately with our social needs.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR EXHIBIT AT SAN FRANCISCO, 1915.

In 1915, the Panama Canal Exposition to be held in San Francisco will celebrate the completion of one of the most difficult engineering achievements in the world's history and the inauguration of a commercial innovation of international importance. It is just and fitting that in this celebration, credit and honor should be paid to the human labor and to science to which this tremendous construction is such a magnificent monument. Men who dig and delve, who brave industrial dangers and hardships of construction, should be accorded a just and honorable position in our appraisal of those achievements. The directing and originating mind must have the labor power for execution, and it is only just and expedient that attention should be called to the human labor element in construction and in all industrial and commercial progress.

In similar expositions the American Federation of Labor has been represented by fitting and highly creditable exhibits. Within the last twelve years, it has made exhibits at Buffalo, St. Louis, Jamestown, Paris and Turcoing. Our display of union made goods, our presentations of union working conditions, and literature explaining our history, organization, methods, aims and policies, the sociological and humanitarian aspect of the labor movement, as well as our achievements, have always attracted general interest and have been means of giving correct information and impressions invaluable to our progress. Gold medals were awarded to our exhibits at Paris, St. Louis, and Jamestown.

It is, therefore, recommended that this convention consider the advisability of directing that preparations for an ample exhibit be made to represent the workers of America at the San Francisco Exposition that the human element in production be so presented that honor may be paid where honor is due.

ORGANIZERS.

The success of every undertaking is in a large measure dependent upon those entrusted to carry out policies, instructions, and execute routine work. Their work, though often inconspicuous and seemingly less important, is that which daily tests character, loyalty, and genuineness of purpose and conviction. The master minds may conceive the ideal, devise the plans and methods, but the builders day by day erect the structure by which the ideal becomes reality. Faithful, honest, competent work, often undervalued or not duly recognized, is necessary to the ultimate success of the whole. The structure can be no stronger than its weakest part—the daily work of each builder conditions the resistance and the permanence of the whole. Such, I take it, is the nature of the function served by the organizers of the American Federation of Labor. They are the men to whom is entrusted the success and safety of plans that have been formulated. Their work has been an important element in determining the growth and power of the American Federation of Labor. Their efficient, loyal support has been unflinching. Their self-sacrifice and devotion to the cause of Labor can not be too highly commended. Our gratitude should be unstinted and expressed tangibly in the most adequate manner within our power.

Our organizers are men of unusual activity, ability, courage, and personality.

They are a select group who must cope with men of affairs, with complex industrial and social problems. As our field and problems become more complex our force of workers must be increased, or progress is impossible. As the workers lose homogeneity by the influx of those from foreign lands, we must add to our corps of organizers those who speak the languages of these new-comers, that we may teach them American standards and customs, and make of them American workmen, members of organized labor, understanding and valuing our practical methods and organization. America is sometimes referred to as the "melting pot"—if this be true, the most potent element in the assimilation of these strangers within our gates, is the American trade union movement. The organizers have performed excellent work, too, in the field of union label agitation, a duty assigned to them at our conventions. I have no doubt but that the greater increase in the already large number of union labels issued by international union officers, as shown by their reports, was materially aided by the American Federation of Labor organizers.

The total number of American Federation of Labor organizers to whom I issued commissions during the past year, is 1,662, an increase of 68 over the year 1911. The number of salaried organizers employed during the year for the entire time or for part of the year, was 63—14 more than the previous year; eight of these organizers speak more than one language. This number of organizers does not, of course, include the organizers of international unions, or business agents in many trades and localities, the services of whom are greatly in the nature of organizing.

LABOR PRESS.

That which constitutes the chief reading matter of Americans, and therefore the greatest influence in molding their opinions, is the newspaper. It is of great importance that information dealing with labor affairs shall be correctly reported by the press. The average paper gladly avails itself of sources that furnish reliable information. This is one of the functions so creditably performed by the labor press of the country—furnishing correct accounts of controversies between employers and employes, discussing new problems that are daily arising, informing laboring men of progress made in other sections of the country, and of the success or failure of different methods tried. As an educational force, the labor press is invaluable.

To assist these faithful agents of unionism struggling against great financial odds, for about a year and a half the American Federation of Labor has been printing and distributing a weekly news letter. The Weekly News Letter has not only been a boon to the labor press, but by furnishing information to the daily press of the country, it has been a channel through which we have secured wider publicity and circulation for accurate accounts of Labor's position, reasons for adopting such position, and course of action.

It is often of strategic importance in an industrial struggle to get before the general public a correct version of facts and conditions leading up to a difficulty, that we may derive the advantage attaching to sympathetic public opinion. Often the labor paper is the only means for accomplishing this. That union men should support a labor press financially becomes therefore a matter of self-protection in addition to the obligation devolving upon them as a matter of principle.

The report which the Executive Council will submit to this convention contains a discussion of both publications of the American Federation of Labor, its official magazine and the Weekly News Letter. The Executive Council makes recommendations for authority to act, which in my judgment ought to be given by this convention.

AMERICAN FEDERATIONIST.

The representatives of the American Federation of Labor have been making a notable fight for a free and untrammelled press. In line with this policy our official magazine is maintained as a free forum for the presentment of Labor's aims, policies and achievements. Since it is recognized as the official mouthpiece of organized labor of America, its utterances are copied far and wide by the press of many lands. The discussion of current industrial problems, official publications, accounts of activities and policies, makes the American Federationist a means of educating thoughtful readers and a source of invaluable historical data for students and public leaders.

During the past years the American Federationist has dealt with various current subjects related to Labor's organization, with economic, social, and political matters affecting the welfare of the workers. In all matters the aim has been to maintain an attitude of entire fairness toward critics and opponents, and to be ever ready to defend Labor's rights from injustice and invasion. The various numbers have dealt with important crises and significant tendencies in the labor world so that students, public officials, and interested persons as well as trade unionists have eagerly sought the current issues. As the magazine deals with the whole labor field, and advises labor men of the progress made and the tendencies of the age, there is every reason to desire for it a greater number of readers for the disseminating of information and the strengthening of fraternal ties.

As befitting this year's needs, the political and legislative situation has been dealt with very fully. From time to time, reports from the Legislative Committee of the American Federation of Labor have been published which were of vital importance to every working man that he might keep in touch with his representatives in Congress and know how they were dealing with his interests. Legislative achievements have been duly chronicled. All of this information had a direct bearing upon the recent election, and served an educational purpose well adapted to make the trade unionist an intelligent enlightened participant in governmental affairs. The political facts were honestly and impartially laid before the reader; he was left to draw his own conclusions.

Through the American Federationist the feeling of identity of interest and fraternity is promoted not only in this country, but on the whole continent of America, and in many foreign countries. The files of the American Federationist are recognized as an important part of the historical records of organized labor. They not only officially chronicle policies and decisions, but reflect the ideals and sentiments of the organization and of the age. Labor has played no unimportant part in the affairs of this country, and that part should be appropriately recorded that future generations may interpret our history aright.

CONCLUSION.

The past year has been one of tremendous stress, responsibility and activity—problems, duties, difficulties, opposition have presented themselves in rapid succession. Yet, with an honest and justifiable feeling of gratification, organized labor can review the progress made, for despite all hindrance and obstacles, we have made steady progress. The struggle has been hard, the strain intense, the forces arrayed against us more relentless than at any time before—and yet organized labor is stronger than ever.

We have fought a good fight, and are cheered and heartened by our progress and victories. Organize! Organize! Organize! has been our slogan, and will be our inspiration for the work of the new year and the years to come.

By the magic token of that one word, "organization," the wrongs of Labor will vanish; the rights, hopes, and aspiration of the toilers will be realized.

The hearty and sincere spirit of co-operation that has existed between my colleagues of the Executive Council and myself, has facilitated the determination of policies and the execution of our work and duty. We have been unanimous as to policies and methods for furthering the cause of organized labor on the American continent. The support and good will of the men of labor—the rank and file—so generally and so generously given me in my efforts to be helpful to them and to all our people, are appreciated far beyond my power of verbal expression. My only hope and aim is to serve our cause to the fullest limit of whatever strength and ability I may possess and thereby, in a measure, justify the respect, confidence, and co-operation of my fellow-workers.

This report is necessarily incomplete, and leaves much to be desired, but the field of organized labor is too broad to be covered by any one single account. Our field is as broad as life; our problems are the difficulties, the injustice, the sorrow, the ideals, of the toilers of our broad land. Our movement is a part of life, with all of its imperfections, aspirations, and strivings for the things we would achieve. It is only possible to deal most briefly, even with matters that have required special attention during the year. There are many others, some just as important, that have not been brought into prominence because of new problems or changing conditions—these, though just as essential to the movement, can not be here considered. But I trust that this report will convey some adequate conception of the work I have tried to direct and accomplish, and something of my desires and yearnings for the cause to which I have been giving all of my energy, thought, and zeal. But I count it well spent if the results bring freer, better, happier life to all the people. There was never a cause or a work more worth while than this. It is an honor to have even the smallest part in our struggle for human welfare.

Entrusted to the keeping of organized labor, are power and opportunity to fight for the right, to strike down the wrong, to secure for all the right to a free life and to work which will best express the real and better self. For the achievement of those ennobling aspirations it is an honor to enlist, not for a battle or a campaign, but for all time, so long as life lasts.

Again let me say, organize, that shoulder to shoulder we may press onward and upward.

Fraternally submitted.

A large, stylized handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Samuel Gompers." The signature is written in a cursive script with a prominent initial 'S'.

President, American Federation of Labor.

SECRETARY MORRISON'S REPORT.

To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-second Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor:

FELLOW-UNIONISTS—I have the honor to submit a report to you of the receipts and expenditures for the past twelve (12) months, beginning October 1, 1911, and ending September 30, 1912.

It is with satisfaction that I report at the close of this fiscal year $119,473.93 in the treasury. Of the amount on hand, $85,663.27 is in the defense fund for the local trade and federal labor unions, and can be used to pay benefits only in the case of a strike or lockout of the members of these local unions. The balance, $33,810.66, is in the general fund. Of that fund only $11,461.34 is available for the general expenses of the American Federation of Labor. The balance, $22,349.32, is divided as follows: In the fund created by the one-cent assessment levied in accordance with the recommendation of the Norfolk Convention, and the receipts from the appeals issued for the same purpose, i. e., to be used for the legal defense of the officers of the American Federation of Labor and officers and members of affiliated unions in the injunction suit, $9,727.93. In the fund created by the two-cent assessment levied to take an appeal from the decision rendered against the United Hatters in favor of Loewe & Company, $12,621.39.

The total receipts from all sources are $207,373.60, the total expenses are $277,479.23, which makes an excess of expenditures over receipts of $70,105.63.

The following are the receipts and expenses for the twelve months ending September 30, 1912:

RECEIPTS.
Balance on hand September 30, 1911.....		$189,579 56
Per capita tax.....	$153,433 89
Supplies.....	9,508 51
Interest on funds on deposit.....	4,591 32*
American Federationist.....	17,240 19
Assessment, United Hatters (2c).....	553 36
Defense fund for local trade and federal labor unions.....	19,336 26
Premiums on bonds of officers of affiliated unions.....	2,710 07
Total.....		207,373 60
		$396,953 16

EXPENSES.
General.....	$183,361 53
Defense fund for local trade and federal labor unions.....	67,455 33
American Federationist.....	18,731 77
Premiums on bonds of officers of affiliated unions.....	2,089 15
Assessment, United Hatters (2c).....	5,841 45
		277,479 23
Balance on hand September 30, 1912.....		$119,473 93

RECAPITULATION.
In general fund.....		$33,810 66
In defense fund for local trade and federal unions.....		85,663 27
Total.....		$119,473 93

The following is the grouping under their respective heads of the detailed monthly expenses:

Appropriations:
Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.....		$500 00
National Women's Trade Union League of America.....		600 00
Union Label Trades Department.....		70 80
Rent.....		5,008 66
Refunds of premiums on bonds and supplies returned.....		86 36
Premiums:
Bonds, local unions.....		2,068 01
Treasurer's bond.....		125 00
Secretary's bond.....		20 00
Fire insurance.....		15 00
Committee on Industrial Education.....		928 28
Expressage, freight and drayage.....		1,373 65
International Secretariat per capita tax for 12 months on 1,800,000 members.....		645 47
Legislative expenses.....		8,058 34
Newspapers, magazines, and books.....		169 02
Office fixtures.....		881 00
Postage stamps.....		4,549 60

* Six hundred dollars of this amount was collected by Treasurer Lennon last year and included in his report, but it was not received by me in time to incorporate in my last year's report.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

61

Printing and binding bound proceedings of Atlanta Convention.....	$1,867 50
Stamped envelopes.....	1,017 24
Supplies and printing.....	18,238 20
Telegrams.....	1,145 65
Expenses American Federation of Labor delegate to Atlanta Convention of the Union Label Trades Department.....	98 50
Expenses entertaining fraternal delegates from Great Britain and Canada.....	339 61
Expenses of fraternal delegates to British Trades Union Congress and Canadian Trades and Labor Congress.....	1,313 80
Atlanta Convention.....
Committee rooms.....	159 00
Expenses Secretary attending Atlanta Convention.....	154 60
Messenger, Sergeant-at-Arms, and Assistant Secretary.....	290 00
Printing and supplies.....	99 79
Printing daily proceedings.....	1,197 20
Stenographers.....	1,045 52
Telegrams, telephone, stamps, porters, baggage, stationery, reading proof, sending out daily proceedings, rent of typewriters, photographs.....	295 44
Salary:
President.....	5,000 00
Secretary.....	4,000 00
Treasurer.....	250 00
Office employees.....	29,752 61
Addressing, folding, and enclosing circulars in envelopes.....	1,407 84
Janitor service.....	26 50
Expenses.....
Auditing and Credential Committee.....	237 00
Executive Council meetings.....	6,175 26
President.....	2,115 79
Secretary.....	361 22
Defense Fund:
Strike benefits.....	67,455 33
Assessment:
For United Hatters of America (2-cent).....	5,841 45
Appeal:
Legal defense fund.....	12,702 61
Organizing expenses.....	71,060 95
Printing and publishing American Federationist .....	18,731 77
Securing trade-mark for American Federation of Labor.....	25 00
Expenses entertaining Carl Legien and A. Baumeister.....	194 11
Claim against International Union of Flour and Cereal Mill Employes before its charter was revoked by American Federation of Labor.....	301 55
Total.....	$277,479 23

APPEALS FOR VOLUNTARY CONTRIBUTIONS.

These appeals were issued to local unions requesting contributions, to be used for the legal defense of the officers of the American Federation of Labor and officers and members of affiliated unions in the Buck's Stove and Range Company suit and contempt case. The following is an itemized statement of the moneys paid out of that fund during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1912:

RECEIPTS.
Balance on hand September 30, 1911.....	$22,430 54
EXPENSES.
On account of attorney fees and expenses:
Ralston, Siddons & Richardson.....	$6,837 57
Parker, Hatch & Sheehan.....	506 24
Stenographic services in the contempt proceedings against officers of the American Federation of Labor, Smith & Hulse.....	5,000 00
Premium on bonds of President Gompers, Vice-President Mitchell, and Secretary Morrison.....	255 00
Expenses incurred in attending conferences relative to the injunction and contempt proceedings:
Frank Morrison.....	47 55
John Mitchell.....	37 85
Expenses for hauling records of the contempt case to and from Equity Court No. 2, District of Columbia, and American Federation of Labor headquarters.....	10 90
Binding three volumes of the proceedings of the contempt case.....	7 50
Total.....	$12,702 61
RECAPITULATION.
Receipts.....	$22,430 54
Expenses.....	12,702 61
Balance on hand September 30, 1912.....	$9,727 93

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

TWO-CENT ASSESSMENT.

This assessment was levied on the membership of all affiliated organizations on April 22, 1910, upon the application of the officers of the United Hatters based upon the instructions of the Denver Convention of the American Federation of Labor to the Executive Council to take whatever action was necessary to carry into effect the resolution adopted by that Convention, pledging the moral and financial assistance of the American Federation of Labor to the hatters in their effort to defend themselves against the suit carried on against them by the Anti-Boycott Association in the name of Loewe & Co. The following is a statement of the receipts and expenses for this fiscal year, ending September 30, 1912:

RECEIPTS.
Balance on hand September 30, 1911.....	$17,909 48
Receipts .....	553 36
Total.....	$18,462 84

EXPENSES.
On account of attorney fees and expenses:
Frank L. Mulholland.....	$3,774 69
Bristol, Stoddard, Beach & Fisher.....	799 27
Stenographic services in the United Hatters' case, W. B. Kirby.....	1,231 09
Expenses Washington, D. C., to Hartford, Conn. and return, as a witness in the United Hatters' case, Frank Morrison, Secretary.....	36 40
Total.....	$5,841 45

RECAPITULATION.
Receipts.....	$18,462 84
Expenses.....	5,841 45
Balance on hand September 30, 1912.....	$12,621 39

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES 1881 TO 1912.

I herewith furnish a table giving the receipts and expenditures for the past 32 years:

YEAR	Receipts.	Expenditures.
1881.....	$174 00	$154 00
1882.....	268 20	252 25
1883.....	690 19	352 32
1884.....	357 42	543 20
1885.....	584 03	450 58
1886.....	474 11	635 08
1887.....	1,939 82	2,074 39
1888.....	4,512 55	3,933 67
1889.....	6,838 40	6,578 33
1890.....	23,849 74	21,070 57
1891.....	17,702 36	13,190 07
1892.....	17,834 51	18,324 69
1893.....	20,864 62	21,383 36
1894.....	15,346 43	17,302 08
1895.....	13,751 75	15,612 42
1896.....	16,290 18	15,452 95
1897.....	18,639 92	19,113 83
1898.....	18,894 15	19,197 17
1899.....	30,757 13	30,599 22
1900.....	71,125 82	68,373 39
1901.....	115,220 89	118,708 39
1902.....	144,498 21	119,086 74
1903.....	247,802 96	196,015 67
1904.....	220,995 97	203,991 15
1905.....	207,417 62	196,170 10
1906.....	217,815 18	218,540 04
1907.....	174,330 26	159,960 84
1908.....	207,655 23	196,937 36
1909.....	232,377 64	203,702 07
1910.....	193,470 84	177,859 34
1911.....	182,188 68	175,524 08
1912.....	207,373 60	277,479 23
Total.....	$2,638,042 41	$2,518,568 48

RECAPITULATION.
Receipts.....	$2,638,042 41
Expenses.....	2,518,568 48

Balance on hand September 30, 1912.....	$119,473 93
---	--------------

CHARTERS ISSUED.

During the twelve months ending September 30, 1912, there have been issued 260 charters to National and International, Central, Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions.

Of this number, two were granted to the following Internationals:

Diamond Workers' Protective Union of America.

Brotherhood of Railway Express Messengers of America.

One Department: Mining Department.

Two State branches: North Dakota, Louisiana.

Trade unions, 149; Federal Labor unions, 49.

Fifty-seven Central bodies, as follows:

Alabama:	Idaho:	Nebraska:
Anniston.	Boise.	Grand Island.
Arkansas:	Kansas:	Oklahoma:
Paragould.	Emporia.	Ardmore.
Canada:	Louisiana:	Ohio:
St. Catharines, Ont.	Baton Rouge.	Findlay.
St. Thomas, Ont.	Lake Charles.	Porto Rico:
Colorado:	Shreveport.	Caguas.
Cripple Creek.	Maine:	Pennsylvania:
Connecticut:	Bangor.	Harrisburg.
Wallingford.	Woodland.	Shenandoah.
Willimantic.	Michigan:	South Carolina:
Florida:	Pontiac.	Charleston.
West Palm Beach.	Massachusetts:	Texas:
Illinois:	Greenfield.	Gainesville.
Beardstown.	Marlboro.	Waco.
Bockemeyer.	Millers Falls.	West Virginia:
Benton.	Northampton.	Parkersburg.
Christopher.	Westfield.	Washington:
Pana.	Montana:	Ellensburg.
West Frankfort.	Kalspel.	Centralla.
Indiana:	Minnesota:	Everett.
Anderson.	Little Falls.	Pasco.
Clinton.	Red Wing.	Wisconsin:
Linton.	Maryland:	Neenah.
Peru.	Hagerstown	Wyoming:
Iowa:	New York:	Cheyenne.
Creston.	Gloversville.
Keokuk.	New Rochelle.
Sioux City.	Plattsburg.

CHARTERS ISSUED 1897-1912.

YEAR.	International	Department.	State.	Central.	Trade Unions.	Federal Unions.	Total.
1897.....	8		2	18	154	35	217
1898.....	9		0	12	129	53	203
1899.....	9		1	35	303	101	449
1900.....	14		5	96	484	250	849
1901.....	7		4	123	575	207	916
1902 (eleven months).....	14		6	127	598	279	1,024
1903.....	20		3	171	743	396	1,333
1904.....	11		5	99	179	149	443
1905.....	3		1	67	143	73	287
1906.....	6		4	53	167	87	317
1907.....	3		1	72	204	93	373
1908.....	0	2	4	73	100	55	234
1909.....	3	2	2	40	77	52	176
1910.....	2	0	1	83	152	96	334
1911.....	3	0	0	61	207	55	326
1912.....	2	1	2	57	149	49	260

International.....	2
Departments.....	1
States.....	2
Central.....	57
Federal Labor Union.....	49
Local Trade Union.....	149
Total.....	260

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

VOTING STRENGTH.

The following table shows the voting strength of the affiliated unions of the American Federation of Labor for the years 1904 up to and including 1912. This table is based upon the average membership reported or paid upon to the American Federation of Labor by affiliated organizations:

ORGANIZATIONS.	1904.	1905.	1906.	1907.	1908.	1909.	1910.	1911.	1912.
Allied Metal Mech. Intl.	70	a	a	a	a	a	a	a	a
Bakery & Confectionery Wkrs. Intl. U. of A.	162	120	106	110	105	107	127	138	146
Barbers' International Union, Jour.	236	227	231	241	255	255	265	285	299
Bill Posters	13	14	14	14	14	14	14	14	14
Blacksmiths, Intl. Brotherhood of	105	100	82	93	100	100	100	100	93
Boilermakers and Iron Shipbuilders	190	134	128	157	152	126	161	190	167
Boot and Shoe Workers' Union	320	320	321	320	320	320	325	327	333
Bookbinders, Intl. Brotherhood of	65	68	68	89	79	71	78	79	85
Bottle Blowers' Asso. of U. S. and Canada	66	70	78	80	88	93	100	100	100
Brewery Workmen, International Union	305	340	360	*	400	400	400	450	450
Brick, Tile, and Terra Cotta Workers	73	41	64	43	28	25	38	34	34
Broom and Whisk Makers' Union, Intl.	11	10	10	9	8	8	6	7	7
Brushmakers' International Union	7	7	5	5	4	2	2	2	2
Building Employes of Amer., Intl. Union of	8	*	*	*	*	*	*	*	*
Carpenters and Joiners, Amalgamated	50	48	43	58	81	73	71	78	*
Carpenters and Joiners, United Bro. of	1554	1432	1637	1929	1796	1640	1904	1946	1923
Carriage, Wagon, & Automobile Workers	55	32	31	31	15	15	11	20	27
Carvers' Union, International Wood	21	16	16	16	13	13	12	12	10
Car Workers, International Association of	102	50	49	50	44	50	50	46	**
Cement Workers	44	36	42	58	73	90	90	90	90
Chainmakers' National Union	6	6	6	6	6	3	2	c	c
Cigar-makers' International Union	405	414	391	399	400	398	432	436	415
Clerks, Bro. of Railway						56	50	50	50
Clerks, Intl. Protective Asso., Retail	500	500	500	500	500	150	150	150	150
Clerks, National Post-office				9	12	13	14	15	18
Cloth Hat and Cap Makers, United	29	26	21	23	13	15	21	22	28
Commercial Telegraphers	20	20	20	35	19	10	10	10	10
Compressed Air and Foundation Workers	12	12	13	13	13	8	6	6	6
Coopers' International Union	71	56	55	53	49	41	41	43	45
Coremakers' International Union	b	b	b	b	b	b	b	b	b
Cutting Die and Cuttermakers, Intl. Union		3	3	3	3	3	3	3	3
Diamond Workers Prot. Union of A.
Electrical Workers, International Bro.	210	210	210	302	321	138	160	189	196
Elevator Constructors	22	22	22	23	25	20	21	21	23
Engineers, International Union of Steam	176	175	175	175	168	161	160	160	177
Express Messengers of A., Bro. of Railway	180	122	123	125	173	107	81	80	114
Firemen, International Bro. of Stationary				6	6	+	+	+	+
Fishermen's National Prot. Asso., Lobster	33	34	32	63	78	46	47	40	25
Freight Handlers, Bro. of Railroad	21	9	7	7	8	8	3	*	*
Flour and Cereal Mill Employes	10	10	10	10	7	5	7	5	5
Foundry Employes, International Bro. of	3	4	4	4	4	2	2	c	c
Fur Workers, International Association of	15	15	++	++	++	++	++	++	++
Furnace Workers and Smelters of America	457	319	240	334	459	534	542	525	464
Garment Workers of America, United	17	17	16	14	12	11	12	12	11
Glass Workers' International Asso., Amal.			58	61	++	++	++	++	++
Glass Workers of America, Amal., Window	6	2	2	++	++	++	++	++	++
Glass House Employes' International Asso.	11	12	10	6	*	*	*	*	*
Glass Snappers, Window	20	11	8	8	8	8	8	9	11
Glove Workers	3	3	3	5	5	+	+	+	+
Gold Beaters' Protective Union, National	3	3	3	3	3	2	2	+	+
Grinders' National Union, Table Knife		2	3	3	3	3	3	3	3
Grinders and Finishers, Pocket Knife Blade	99	103	113	126	130	131	134	135	135
Granite Cutters' International Asso. of A.	85	85	85	85	85	85	85	85	85
Hatters of North America, United	7	3	5	5	8	6	5	8	8
Heat Frost, Genl. Insulators, and Asbestos	85	47	50	97	112	88	114	127	125
Hodcarriers and Common Laborers	42	42	41	44	61	72	72	49	52
Horseshoers of United States and Canada	494	387	345	363	386	368	370	430	476
Hotel and Restaurant Employes, etc.	135	100	100	100	100	60	80	45	45
Iron, Steel, and Tin Workers' Amal. Asso.	115	100	100	100	100	100	100	100	100
Iron Workers, Bridge and Struc. Intl. Asso.	24	7	4	6	4	3	4	3	2
Jewelry Workers' International	6	7	8	8	8	8	8	9	10
Lace Operatives, Amal.	22	18	13	23	16	18	187	668	584
Ladies' Garment Workers, International	59	43	40	40	58	50	50	50	50
Lathers, Intl. Union of W. W. and Metal	65	46	55	31	40	35	29	26	26
Laundry Workers, International Union	46	40	40	40	40	40	37	26	20
Leather Workers on Horse Goods	25	10	10	10	8	8	8	6	6
Leather Workers of America, Amal.			30	23	11	13	17	21	24
Lithographers' Intl. P. and B. Asso.						10	9	9	9
Lithographic Pressfeeders	500	478	340	320	315	213	208	250	235
Longshoremen's Association, International	557	485	500	560	621	484	569	671	598
Machinists, International Association of	4	4	5	5	5	5	5	5	5
Machine Printers and Color Mixers	123	120	120	132	135	100	87	100	91
Maintenance of Way Employes, Intl. Bro. of	6	19	17	20	22	24	27	28	28
Marble Workers, Intl. Association of

VOTING STRENGTH—Continued.

ORGANISATIONS.	1904.	1905.	1906.	1907.	1908.	1909.	1910.	1911.	1912.
Mattress, Spring, and Bedding Workers.....	15	15	++	++	++	++	++	++	++
Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.....	344	62	50	53	63	63	54	31	40
Metal Workers' Intl. Alliance, Amal. Sheet.	153	130	129	153	161	180	162	172	168
Metal Polishers, Buffers, and Platers, etc.	128	103	109	100	100	100	100	100	100
Metal Workers' Intl. Union, United.....	96	+	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Mine Workers of America, United.....	2577	2619	2379	2549	2525	2670	2337	2504	2670
Miners, Western Federation of.....								513	508
Mine Managers and Assts. Mutual Aid Asso.	4	4	4	+	+	+	+	+	+
Molders' Union of North America, Intl.	300	300	450	500	500	500	500	500	500
Musicians, American Federation of.....	220	308	354	375	375	394	400	500	500
Oil and Gas Well Workers' Union, Intl.	4	4	++	++	++	++	++	++	++
Painters of America, Brotherhood of.....	607	542	555	624	648	596	635	676	685
Paper Box Workers, International Union of.	12	9	7	+	+	+	+	+	+
Papermakers, United Brotherhood of.....	88	50	35	31	43	10	16	24	28
Patternmakers' League of N. A.....	37	36	40	50	55	50	52	56	60
Pavers and Rammermen, Intl. Union of.....		10	12	15	15	15	15	15	15
Paving Cutters' Union of U. S. of A. & Can.	12	13	15	18	20	26	32	32	35
Photo-Engravers' Union of N. A., Intl.	17	22	22	28	29	32	35	37	40
Plano and Organ Workers' Union of A., Intl.	99	90	80	50	50	40	40	40	20
Pilots' Association of the Great Lakes, Lake.			10	+	+	+	+	+	+
Plasterers' Intl. Asso. of U. S. & Can., Oper.						145	152	147	157
Plumbers, Gasfitters, Steamfitters, etc.	165	150	150	160	180	184	200	237	260
Powder and High Explosive Workers.....	7	6	6	5	5	2	2	2	2
Potters, National Brotherhood of Operative.	58	56	56	58	59	59	58	59	65
Printing Pressmen, International.....	160	170	166	166	172	178	186	190	190
Printers, Plate, of U. S. A., Intl. S. and O.	10	11	12	12	12	12	13	13	12
Print Cutters' Asso. of A., Natl.....	3	4	4	4	4	4	4	4	4
Printers, Machine Textile.....	4	4	4	..	..	..	..	..	..
Pulp, Sulphite, and Paper Mill Workers						10	7	28	35
Quarry Workers, International.....	26	36	38	41	45	45	50	35	40
Railway Carmen of A., Bro.....							228	269	287
Railway Clerks.....	6	++	++	++	++	++	++	++	++
Railway Employes' Amal. Asso., St. & Elec.	300	300	300	320	320	333	367	393	402
Railway Expressmen.....	3	++	++	++	++	++	++	++	++
Roofers, Comp. Damp & Waterproof Wks.				10	10	10	11	12	12
Rubber Workers.....	2	1	+	+	+	+	+	+	+
Sawsmiths' National Union.....	3	3	3	3	3	3	3	1	1
Seamen's Union of America, Intl.....	201	195	194	248	255	168	160	160	160
Shingle Weavers.....	14	16	17	18	17	18	18	15	15
Shipwrights, Joiners and Calkers.....	34	24	20	19	16	16	9	+	+
Slate and Tile Roofers.....	7	6	5	6	6	5	5	5	5
Slate Workers.....	8	9	18	30	27	21	14	7	4
Spinnners' Intl. Union.....	25	22	22	22	22	22	22	22	22
Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers.			54	55	56	56	56	56	d
Steel Plate Transferrers' Asso. of America.			1	1	1	1	1	1	1
Stereotypers & Electrotypers' Union of N. A.	24	28	28	29	31	35	40	42	43
Stonecutters' Association, Journeymen.....			85	83	89	80	86	86	89
Stove Mounters' International Union.....	17	15	15	15	14	10	9	11	11
Switchmen's Union of North America.....			81	92	93	80	80	87	87
Tackmakers.....	2	2	++	++	++	++	++	++	++
Tailors' Union of America, Journeymen.....	159	160	166	167	161	132	117	120	120
Teamsters, Chauffeurs, etc., Intl. Bro. of.	840	783	402	366	377	320	358	382	415
Telegraphers, Order of Railroad.....	150	150	150	150	150	150	200	250	250
Textile Workers of America, United.....	105	100	100	114	129	100	100	100	109
Theatrical Stage Employes, Intl. Alliance.	50	55	60	60	62	80	91	98	110
Tile Layers and Helpers, Intl. Union.....	17	14	19	21	19	17	19	21	24
Tin Plate Workers, Intl. Protective.....	16	14	14	14	14	15	8	3	3
Tip Printers.....	2	2	2	1	2	2	2	2	2
Tobacco Workers' Intl. Union of America.	56	54	55	51	46	43	41	40	37
Travelers' Goods & Leather Novelty, Intl.	15	13	9	7	5	5	6	8	9
Tube Workers of United States & Canada.	15	++	++	++	++	++	++	++	++
Tunnel & Subway Constructors, Intl. Union.							13	17	18
Typographical Union, International.....	467	467	438	428	440	455	491	518	547
Upholsterers, International Union of.....	30	28	26	26	28	28	28	28	28
Watch-case Engravers, International.....	3	3	2	2	2	2	2	2	c
Weavers, Elastic Goring.....	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1	1
White Rats Actors' Union of A.....	11	11	11	11	11	11	11	80	110
Wire Weavers' Protective, American.....	3	3	3	3	3	3	4	4	3
Woodsmen and Saw Mill Workers.....		11	12	10	3	7	6	+	+
Wood Workers, Amalgamated.....	283	200	150	93	40	41	32	31	e
Centrals.....	569	601	538	574	606	594	632	631	560
Locals.....	553	1046	759	713	616	608	647	680	590
State Branches.....	32	34	36	37	38	39	39	38	41
Total vote of Unions.....	17355	16338	15639	16425	16892	15880	16737	18693	18499

* Charter rev. ked. + Suspended for non-payment of per capita tax. ++ Disbanded.

c Merged with Machinists. d Merged with Molders. c Surrendered charter. d Not recognized. e Merged with Carpenters. ** Withdrew.

From time to time some well-meaning people, as well as our enemies, go to a great deal of trouble to point out to the trade unions what they consider the mistakes in their methods. One of the chief objects of attack and criticism is the strike, and arguments and figures are arrayed to prove that strikes are failures and a very bad investment for organized labor. Articles of this character are rarely given serious consideration by members of organized labor, for the reason that, as a rule, the writers arrive at their conclusions by theoretical study and deductions, and not by any sound or practical knowledge of the needs or circumstances surrounding the workings of the labor movement. These writers sometimes assert that in their calculations they have used the statistics supplied by the officers of international trade unions and the United States Labor Bureau, and present the arithmetical results reached by adding, multiplying, subtracting and dividing these figures, to prove that the strikes engaged in by labor organizations have been failures, and that the money spent to support them was wasted. They appear to reason that the only motive for a strike is to secure an increase in wages, and count a strike a failure when they can not figure an increase in wages in the result, or that members, upon returning to work, made up by their earnings all the money spent in supporting the strike, including their losses in wages. Such persons lose sight of the fact that in a very large measure, strikes are inaugurated in defense of principle alone—for the recognition of unions, to resist reductions in wages, for reductions in the hours of labor, for the reinstatement of members who have been discriminated against on account of loyalty to their union, and for other causes, which do not involve the question of increasing the earnings of the members. When members of organized labor are fighting for a principle or for justice, they do not count the cost—they do not consider the cost; they wage the fight as long as they have a cent to put into it, and as much longer, at great sacrifice and hardship, as may be necessary, and they regard the issue at stake as well worth the struggle.

The strike is never pictured as a boon by trade unions. It is not a boon, except in the sense that the right to strike is the difference between free labor and slave labor. When we point to what the strike has done in the march of progress of labor, we do not hold it up as a boon; when we cite that in the history of labor the strike has been the most formidable and powerful weapon in achieving its successes, we are not holding it up as something to be desired, but merely stating a fact. Organized labor does not proclaim the strike as a boon. Strikes are hardships; at times they are very great hardships, but labor has had to endure them to secure recognition and improved conditions. Even though strikes fail to bring about all the desired reforms this year, or next year, or the year after, this would not convince wage-workers that the strike is without force, and should be abandoned as a means of protest. Organized labor will, I am sure, reserve to itself the privilege of exercising its own discretion as to the wisdom of a strike when employers of labor refuse to consider any other argument upon the justice of their demands.

It must be borne in mind that few of our national and international unions have means of keeping complete statistical information in regard to local strikes, either for improved conditions or of a defensive nature. Local unions fail to report in detail, in many cases, as to actual results of such movements, and international officers can only furnish figures of which they have actual record. In few cases are these reports complete. Our conventions have urged that better attention be given to such statistics, because they furnish to those requiring arithmetical evidence, valuable proof of the benefit trade unions are reaping for their members and in the cause of humanity. However, the funds of our organizations are needed for more urgent and important work than the keeping of statistics, and therefore the international officers can not be blamed for not being able to supply complete data. The reports from national and international unions compiled in my annual reports deal mostly with strikes, and they contain scarcely any statistics in dollars and cents, showing the advances that have been made in the way of gains in wages and reductions in the hours of labor secured as a result of agreement, which the organizations, because of the strength behind them, have been able to carry through. Nothing creates respect or commands consideration for a trade union among employers who are reluctant to recognize organized labor, so much as the knowledge that the organization has a substantial defense fund, and that the members are determined to enforce the recognition of every just demand.

With a view to securing figures showing exactly how much more the members of trade unions earned this year as wages, through the assistance of their unions, over and above the earnings before their last increase in wages, international officers were requested to take the latest gains in wages of which they have actual knowledge, the number of members securing them, and the reductions in the hours of labor, and to state how much these gains in wages and reductions in hours total in dollars and cents for one year. This data could not be furnished by all of the international unions, for the reasons that in many cases local unions do not report, or if reported the information was not in such form as would enable the international officers to compile it in time for this report. However, forty-nine national and international organizations were able to furnish reports and they are herewith submitted for your information:

ORGANIZATIONS.	Total increase in wages for one year.	Total number of hours re- duced for one year.	Total amount which reduction in hours repre- sents for one year.
Boot and Shoe Workers.	$2,200,000 00	400,000	$120,000 00
Brick, Tile and Terra Cotta Workers.	40,000 00
Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.	669,735 00	8,961	4,673 62
Brushmakers.	11,124 00	3,744	936 00
Carvers, Wood.	6,838 00	33,280	16,640 00
Cloth Hat and Cap Makers.		429,624	171,849 60
Commercial Telegraphers.	60,000 00
Compressed Air Workers.	92,700 00
Diamond Workers.	62,400 00	93,600	93,600 00
Electrical Workers.	417,150 00
Elevator Constructors.	20,798 24	54,080	21,632 00
Foundry Employees.	1,390 50
Freight Handlers.	370,800 00
Garment Workers, United.		3,000,000	300,000 00
Garment Workers, Ladies.	1,092,000 00	1,040,000
Granite Cutters.	1,012,500 00	4,050,000	2,025,000 00
Hodcarriers.	786,083 64	618,000	179,220 00
Horseshoers.	76,250 00	610,000	183,000 00
Lathers.	50,000 00
Laundry Workers.	900 00	185,400	39,080 00
Leather Workers Amalgamated.	23,400 00	92,400
Machine Printers and Color Mixers.	16,000 00
Machinists.	247,209 00	218,000	86,300 00
Maintenance of Way Employees.	2,000,000 00	195,650
Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.	780,000 00	3,708,000	927,000 00
Mine Workers, United.	8,000,000 00
Miners, Western Federation of.	3,244,500 00	3,090,000	772,500 00
Painters.	1,750,000 00
Pattern Makers.	120,686 00	171,070
Pavers and Rammermen.	67,860 00
Potters, Operative.	97,335 00
Powder and High Explosive Workers.	1,736 58	1,236
Print Cutters.		30,900	11,742 00
Railroad Telegraphers.	983,622 03
Railway Employees, Street and Electric.	1,777,370 00	2,190,000	547,500 00
Seamen.	1,030,000 00
Shingle Weavers.	24,333 85
Spinners.	205,920 00	228,800	463,500 00
Stage Employees, Theatrical.	3,000 00
Stereotypers and Electrotypers.	14,881 44
Stone Cutters.	1,000,000 00
Switchmen.	972,000 00
Tailors.	374,400 00	419,328	223,532 00
Teamsters.	280,000 00
Tile Layers.	77,850 00
Tin Plate Workers.	10,800 00
Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers.	37,265 40	117,420	26,419 50
Tunnel and Subway Constructors.	77,250 00	123,600	56,856 00
Typographical Union.	3,608,234 00	109,824	43,929 60
Totals.	$33,796,322 08	21 222 917	$6,314,910 32

a For 4,550 members. b For 300 members. c For 6,000 members. d For 10,000 members. e For 10,000 members. f For 300 members. g For 6,000 members. h For 12 cities. i For 810 members (220 working days for the year). j For 12,000 members. k For 45 members. l For 400 members. m For 18,623 members. n For 6 months working season. o For 9,000 members. p For 300 members. q For 1,200 members.

I believe we are safe in saying without endeavoring to claim for our organizations greater benefits than they are realizing, that the above reports average what the majority of our other organizations, whose officers were not in a position to furnish actual figures, are doing for their members.

BENEFITS PAID TO MEMBERS BY INTERNATIONAL ORGANIZATIONS DURING THE PAST YEAR.

ORGANIZATIONS.	Death benefits.	Death benefits members' wives.	Sick benefits.	Traveling benefits.	Tool in- surance.	Unem- ployed benefits.
A. F. of L. locals.....	$5,267 50		$5,090 21	$802 55	$219 00	$1,369 05
Asbestos Workers.....	500 00
Bakers.....	3,226 40	$800 00	29,169 45
Barbers.....	24,750 00		46,311 77
Boilermakers.....	2,100 00
Bookbinders.....	5,475 00
Boot and Shoe Workers.....	15,675 00		76,986 96
Brick, Tile, and Terra Cotta Workers.....	150 00
Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.....	12,400 00
Brushmakers.....				25 00
Carpenters, Brotherhood.....	258,074 30	36,225 00
Carriage and Wagon Workers.....	1,050 00
Carvers, Wood.....	2,850 00				141 75
Cigarmakers.....	251,677 41		201,296 03	38,543 47		36,942 50
Cloth Hat and Cap Makers.....			720 00
Coopers.....	2,950 00
Cutting Die and Cutter Makers Diamond Workers.....	500 00					1,068 00
Electrical Workers.....	8,250 00		8,000 00
Firemen, Stationary.....	3,700 00	800 00	1,200 00
Foundry Employes.....	400 00		390 00
Glass Bottle Blowers.....	63,881 31					164,747 25
Glass Workers, Amal.....	600 00
Glove Workers.....	100 00
Grinders, Pocket Knife Blade.....			36 00
Hatters.....	49,889 25
Hodcarriers.....	2,800 00
Hotel and Restaurant Employes.....	26,450 00		34,345 75
Iron and Steel Workers.....	4,150 00	600 00	8,955 00
Lace Operatives.....	1,300 00	350 00
Lathers.....		5,300 00
Leather Workers on Horse Goods.....	1,400 00		2,125 00
Leather Workers, Amal.....						300 00
Machinists.....	56,231 25
Maintenance of Way Employes.....	14,000 00
Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.....	1,400 00		4,000 00
Metal Polishers.....	3,150 00
Metal Workers, Sheet.....	96,000 00
Miners, Western Federation of Molders.....	27,069 47		115,277 32			10,971 80
Painters.....	61,900 00	12,375 00	152,456 20
Papermakers.....	99,525 00
Patternmakers.....	600 00
Paving Cutters.....	1,700 00		5,596 14		1,842 61
Photo-Engravers.....	2,200 00
Plate Printers.....	1,885 00		6,265 17
Plumbers.....	1,381 75
Potters, Operative.....	14,300 00		43,055 00
Printing Pressmen.....	5,975 00
Quarry Workers.....	16,700 00
Railroad Telegraphers.....	1,450 00
Railway Employes, Street.....	86,700 00		18,708 66
Roofers, Composition.....	125,453 45		1,500 00
Shingle Weavers.....	2,300 00		2,036 00
Slate and Tile Roofers.....	1,200 00
Slate Workers.....	300 00	100 00
Spinners.....	1,000 00
Stage Employes, Theatrical.....	10,000 00
Stereotypers and Electrotypers.....	4,900 00
Stove Mounters.....	1,000 00
Switchmen.....	168,957 50
Tailors.....	12,765 59		23,366 95
Textile Workers.....	1,100 00
Tobacco Workers.....	1,350 00		5,114 00
Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers.....	125 00		300 00
Tunnel and Subway Con- structors.....	1,800 00		340 00	1,200 00
*Typographical Union.....	74,698 85
Weavers, Elastic Goring.....	300 00
Weavers, American Wire.....	200 00		614 00
✓ Totals.....	1,649,184 03	56,550 00	793,255 61	40,571 02	2,203 36	215,398 60

•(Fiscal year ending May 31, 1912.) Old-age pension $169,657.

Your attention is called to the fact that the amounts herein reported as having been expended by the international unions on account of various benefits in the past year, are those paid directly by the internationals, and therefore the totals represent but a small proportion of the aggregate sum paid by trade unions in the way of benefits. A number of international unions have not as yet established benefit features, and others pay only partial benefits. It must be borne in mind that in every trade, local unions have existed independently prior to the formation of the international union, and almost without exception, they provide death, sick out-of-work, etc., benefits for their members. In these instances benefit features have thus become identified and recognized as belonging to the jurisdiction of a local union. This system has retarded international unions in establishing and extending benefit features, for the reason that it is difficult to bring locals that have to support their own benefit funds to consent to increase the tax to such an amount as would enable the internationals to secure the means for such purpose. In most instances, benefits paid by internationals are supplemental relief, paid to members in addition to the benefits provided by their local unions.

INTERNATIONAL UNIONS.

- Asbestos Workers.—Charters issued, 5; surrendered, 2. Gain in membership, 300. Number of strikes, 5; won, 3; compromised, 1; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 200; benefited, 200. Wages increased 50 cents per day for 75 men; hours of labor reduced 1 per day for 50 men. Death benefits, $500.
- Bakery and Confectionery Workers.—Charters issued, 20; surrendered, 6. Gain in membership, 2,185. Number of strikes, 25; won, 15; compromised, 2; pending, 8. Number of persons involved, 2,002; benefited, 1,893; not benefited, 109. An average gain in wages of ten per cent. Hours of labor reduced 1 per day. Also secured a 10 per cent increase in some instances without strike. Gains in other respects: sanitary conditions in shops. Death benefits, $3,226.40; death benefits, members' wives, $800; sick benefits, $29,169.45. Donations to other unions, $2,859.66. Cost of strikes, $22,133.
- Barbers.—Charters issued, 34; surrendered, 22. Gain in membership, 1,160. Number of strikes, 2; won, 2. Number of persons involved, 21; benefited, 21. 20 cents gain in wages per member per day. Hours of labor reduced one-half hour per day. In some instances, attempts were made to reduce wages, but were successfully resisted. Death benefits, $24,750; sick benefits, $46,311.77. Donations to other unions, $8,041.90. Cost of strikes, $343.
- Bill Posters.—Strike pending; number involved, 16.
- Blacksmiths.—Charters issued, 14; surrendered, 15. Number of strikes, 1; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 3,800; benefited, 3,400; not benefited, 400. Gain in wages of 12 cents per member per day, with better working conditions. Attempts to reduce wages were successfully resisted. Cost of strikes, $55,000. As a result of organization, wages have been increased, hours of labor reduced, and better sanitary conditions have been enforced, particularly proper toilet and wash rooms, and ventilation of shops.
- Bollermakers.—Charters issued, 33; surrendered, 35. Number of strikes, 95; pending, 90; lost, 5. Number of persons involved, 6,020; not benefited, 2,953. In some cities, hours of labor were reduced from 9 to 8 per day, and in others local lodges had contracts signed without strike. Cost of strikes, $147,819.58. Death benefits, $2,100. Donations to other unions, $723.30. As a result of organization, wages and conditions are constantly improving, and there is a more wholesome respect for working contracts on the part of employers.
- Bookbinders.—Charters issued, 10; surrendered, 2. Number of strikes, 4—inaugurated principally against introduction of open shop. Advance in wages of 10 per cent secured without strike. Death benefits, $5,475. Cost of strikes, $3,082.51.
- Boot and Shoe Workers.—Charters issued, 15; surrendered, 13. Gain in membership, 1,167. Number of strikes, 4; won, 2; pending, 1; lost, 1; places filled by hostile independent union. Number of persons involved, 439. Impossible to estimate number benefited, as many were benefited who were not involved in the strikes. Number involved not benefited, 19. Where attempts were made to reduce wages, they were successfully resisted. Death benefits, $15,675; sick benefits, $76,986.96; disability benefits, $3,350. Donations to other unions, $15,000. Cost of strikes, $17,157.57. As a result of organization, there has been a substantial reduction in the hours of labor in the factories where members are employed. Increases in wages secured for members during the past year, at a conservative estimate, total $2,200,000 for the year.
- Brewery Workmen.—Charters issued, 16 local, 28 branches; surrendered, 15 local and 28 branches. Number of strikes, 40; won, 31; compromised, 3; pending, 3; lost, 4. One strike was partly won and is also in progress, as 2 firms have not yet made settlement. Number of persons involved, 2,026; benefited, 1,902; not benefited, 124. Secured a gain of 25 cents per member per day. The 8-hour day was inaugurated wherever not already in force. Improved sanitary conditions and employment of men in place of boys, were other gains secured. Increases in wages and reduction in working hours were secured in some cities without strike. Attempts were made to reduce wages in some plants, but were successfully resisted. Donations to other unions, $2,752.90. Cost of strikes, $8,210.

Brick, Tile and Terra Cotta Workers.—Charters issued, 12; surrendered, 5. Number of strikes: 3 strikes and 2 lockouts; won, 1; compromised, 1; pending, 2; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 700. Number benefited, 450 at Canton, Ohio, wages increased 15 per cent; 400 at New Lexington, Ohio, wages increased 15 per cent; 85 at East Peoria, secured increases of from 15 cents to 65 cents per day. Secured 3 union shop agreements without strike. No reductions in wages in the past year. Death benefits, $150. Cost of strikes, $2,000.

Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.—Charters issued, 7; surrendered, 4. Gain in membership, 1,000. Number of strikes, 4; won, 3; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 2,000; benefited, 2,000. Secured a gain in wages of from 5 to 10 cents per hour. Attempts were made to reduce wages, in some instances, but these were successfully resisted. Death benefits, $12,400. Donations to other unions, $3,000. One of the advantages of organization has been reducing the hours of labor from 10 and 9 to 8 per day.

Broommakers.—No report.

Brushmakers.—Charters issued, 1. Gain in membership, 11. Number of strikes, 2; won, 1; compromised, 1. Number of persons involved, 14; benefited, 14. An advance in wages of $2 per member per week. Hours of labor reduced from 59 to 55 per week. Traveling benefits, $25. Donations to other unions, $10. Cost of strikes, $134.

Carpenters, Brotherhood.—Charters issued, 153; surrendered, 162. Gain in membership, 4,000. Number of strikes, 15; won, 10; compromised, 4; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 1,000; benefited, 1,000. Wages advanced  $2\frac{1}{2}$  to 5 cents per hour. Hours of labor reduced one per day. Attempts were made to reduce wages, which were successfully resisted in most cases; in a few cases, wages were adjusted on a compromise basis. Death benefits, \$258,074.30; death benefits, members' wives, \$36,225. Cost of strikes, \$16,446.

Carriage and Wagon Workers.—Charters issued, 7; surrendered, 2. Number of strikes, 2; won, 2. Number of persons involved, 200; benefited, 200. Wages advanced 25 cents per member per day. 20 cents per day advance in wages was secured for members without strike. There were attempts to reduce wages, but these were successfully resisted. Death benefits, $1,050. Cost of strikes, $600.

Carvers, Wood.—Number of strikes, 1; won, 1. Number of persons involved, 3; benefited, 98.  $2\frac{1}{2}$  cents per hour per member advance in wages. Hours of labor reduced from 50 to 44 per week. Death benefits, \$2,852; tool insurance, \$141.75. Cost of strikes, \$89.33. As a result of organization, working hours in custom shops in Philadelphia, Pa., and Rochester, N. Y., have been reduced from 50 to 44 per week, and in Detroit, Mich., and Syracuse, N. Y., wages have been raised  $2\frac{1}{2}$  cents per hour.

Cement Workers.—Charters issued, 23 (new locals), 9 (re-organized); surrendered, 5. Several localities report securing increases in wages.

Cigarmakers.—Charters issued, 12; surrendered, 5. Number of strikes, 55; won, 35; compromised, 1; pending, 15; lost, 4. Number of persons involved, 2,873; benefited, 2,831; not benefited, 42. Attempts to reduce wages were successfully resisted, except in one case.

Clerks, Retail.—No report.

Cloth, Hat and Cap Makers.—Charters issued, 1; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 579. Number of strikes, 19; won, 15; pending, 2; lost, 2. Number of persons involved, 188; benefited, 188. Hours of labor reduced one-half hour per day. Free sewing machines and Saturday half-holiday were secured for some of the members without strike. Sick benefits, $720. Donations to other unions, $2,487. Cost of strikes, $13,353. As a result of organization, the following benefits have been realized: From 1902 to 1907 hours of labor reduced from unlimited number to 56 per week, 8 holidays, and increase of 50 per cent in wages. From 1907 to 1912, free thread, free electric power, free sewing machines, reduction in hours of labor from 56 to 50 per week and 10 per cent increase in wages.

Commercial Telegraphers.—Charters issued, 3; surrendered, 1. Average wage of 1,000 members increased from $60 to $66 per month. Typewriters furnished by Western Union Company, saving in rental to operators an average of $2 per month for 10,000 men, amounting to $240,000 per year. This was one of the demands made in the strike of 1907. Donations to other unions, $300.

Compressed Air Workers.—No report.

- Coopers.—Charters issued, 8; surrendered, 5. Number of strikes, 14; won, 5; compromised, 6; pending, 1; lost, 2. Number of persons involved, 422; benefited, 334; not benefited, 88. 35 cents per member per day advance in wages. Hours of labor reduced one hour per day. Numerous contracts were secured without strike. Attempts to reduce wages were successfully resisted, and in some cases settlement was made on the basis of an increase. Death benefits, $2,950. Cost of strikes, $3,114.
- Cutting Die and Cutter Makers.—Number of strikes, 3; won, 2; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 170; benefited, 160; not benefited, 10. Secured 10 per cent per week advance in wages, and reduced hours 2 per week. No reduction in wages in the past year. Death benefits, $500. Cost of strikes, $8,000. As a result of organization, hours of labor have been reduced from 60 to 48 per week.
- Diamond Workers.—Number of strikes, 1; compromised. Number of persons involved, 20; benefited 20. Secured the union shop. Slight increases in wages were secured without strike. Unemployed benefits, $1,068. Cost of strikes, $9,420. As a result of organization, 48-hour week has been established, with sliding scale of wages of from $28 to $75 per week.
- Electrical Workers.—Charters issued, 78 (including returning seceding unions); surrendered, 10. Number of strikes, 4; won, 4. Number of persons involved, 340; benefited, 340. 850 members received an advance in wages of 50 cents per day; 3,700 secured an advance of 25 cents per day. Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully. Death benefits, $3,250. Donations to other unions, $12,000. Sick benefits, $8,000.
- Elevator Constructors.—Charters issued, 4; surrendered, 2. Gain in membership, 163. Number of strikes, 1; compromised, 1. Number of persons involved, 50; benefited, 70. Advance in wages of 40 cents per member per day; hours of labor reduced one per day; recognition of the union.
- Steam Engineers.—Charters issued, 46; surrendered, 20. Gain in membership, 3,500. Number of strikes, 23; won, 9; compromised, 2; pending, 9; lost, 3. Number of persons involved, 116; benefited, 89; not benefited, 12. Secured increase in wages and established 8-hour day in many localities. A large number of agreements secured without strike. Cost of strikes, $3,243.
- Firemen, Stationary.—Charters issued, 28; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 8,000. Number of strikes, 5; won, 4; pending, 1 (20 men). Number of persons involved, 148; benefited, 128. Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully, and in one instance secured an increase in the settlement. Death benefits, $3,700; death benefits, members' wives, $300; sick benefits, $1,200. Donations to other trade unions, $1,000. Cost of strikes, $1,240. As a result of organization, wages have been advanced 20 per cent; 1,400 reduced working hours from 12 to 8 per day; 2,174 secured 6-day working week instead of 7; 4,028 gained a week's vacation with pay for each year.
- Foundry Employees.—Charters issued, 2. Gain in membership, 27. Advance in wages secured in one city without strike. Death benefits, $400; sick benefits, $390. Donations to other unions, $167.40.
- Freight Handlers.—No report.
- Garment Workers, United.—No report.
- Garment Workers, Ladies.—Charters issued, 9; surrendered, 6. Number of strikes, 11; won, 2; compromised, 1; pending, 5; lost, 3. Number of persons involved, 2,800. Hours of labor reduced one per day. Attempts to reduce wages resisted successfully. As a result of organization hours of labor have been reduced from 54 to 50 per week, and legal holidays are observed.
- Glass Bottle Blowers.—Number of charters issued, 4; surrendered, 2. Death benefits, $63,881.31; unemployed benefits, $164,747.25. Donations to other unions, $5,442.25.
- Glass Workers, Amalgamated.—Charters issued, 2; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 100. Agreements secured in six cities without strike. Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully. New York conditions cited as an instance of the benefit secured from organization—wages there were formerly $14 for 56-hour week, minimum wage now being $20 for 48-hour week. Death benefits, $600.
- Glove Workers.—Charters issued, 6; surrendered, 2. Gain in membership, 275. Number of strikes, 6; won, 3; compromised, 2; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 230; benefited, 265. Agreements were secured with 10 firms with advance in wages of from 5 to 10 per cent, without strike. Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully except in a few shops; in one instance the settlement secured an increase in prices on long gloves, and the local union increased in membership from 77 to 250. Death benefits, $100. As a result of organization, wages for block cutters have been increased 40 per cent, established uniform

- prices for work, abolished the system of paying for machine rent and use of power, established weekly pay-day in New York City, 54-hour week and Saturday half-holiday.
- Granite Cutters.—Charters issued, 5; surrendered, 2 (due to jobs being completed). Number of strikes, 14; won, 12; pending, 2. Number of persons involved, 1,800; benefited, 1,800. Secured an advance in wages of about 16 cents per member per day. Gains in other respects: elimination of unhealthy machine; improved sanitation. Donations to other unions, $5,860. Cost of strikes, $27,367. As a result of organization, arrangements made for general recognition of a $4 per day minimum wage rate, with a 44-hour work week; heating sheds and ventilation in winter.
- Grinders, Pocket Knife Blade.—Number of strikes, 1; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 36. Sick benefits, $36. Donations to other unions, $41.50. Cost of strikes, $3,378.27.
- Hatters.—Attempts to reduce wages resisted successfully. Death benefits, $49,889.25. Donations to other unions, $4,425.
- Hodcarriers.—Charters issued, 52; surrendered, 57. Number of strikes, 11; won, 9; compromised, 2. Death benefits, $2,800. Donations to other unions, $1,162.85.
- Horseshoers.—Charters issued, 11; surrendered, 5. Gain in membership, 200. Number of strikes, 3; 1 lockout; won, 3; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 300; benefited, 300. Gains in wages secured of from 25 to 50 cents per day. Gains in other respects: recognition of label and regulation of apprentices. Increased wages and shorter hours were secured in some cases without strike. Donations to other unions, $1,310. Cost of strikes, $3,000. As a result of organization hours of labor have been reduced from 10 and 11 to 9 per day; wages formerly $2.50 and $3, now from $3 to $5, and Saturday half-holiday in summer months in a number of cities.
- Hotel and Restaurant Employees.—Charters issued, 70; surrendered, 33. Gain in membership, 3,745. Number of strikes, 43; won, 29; compromised, 7; pending, 4; lost, 2. Number of persons involved, 744; benefited, 534; not benefited, 210. Advance in wages of about 7 per cent per member per day. Death benefits, $26,450; sick benefits, $34,345.75. Donations to other unions, $19,226.02. Cost of strikes, $12,710.73. As a result of organization employees are treated more reasonably by employers, with shorter hours and less irksome conditions of labor.
- Iron and Steel Workers.—Charters issued, 5; surrendered, 4. Members in bolting department secured an advance in wages of 8 per cent per member per day. Death benefits, $4,150; death benefits, members' wives, $600; sick benefits, $8,955. Donations to other unions, $300.
- Jewelry Workers.—No report.
- Lace Operatives.—Number of strikes, 1; won 1. Number of persons involved, 100. Secured reinstatement of member who had been discriminated against. Death benefits, $1,300; death benefits, members wives, $350. Donations to other unions, $700. Cost of strikes, $500.
- Lathers.—Charters issued, 11; surrendered, 13. Death benefits, $5,300. Wages have advanced 100 per cent as a result of organization.
- Laundry Workers.—Charters issued, 14; surrendered, 12. Gain in membership, 500. Number of strikes, 1; lost; number of persons involved, 300. Increases in wages and reduction in working hours were secured in a number of instances without strike. Attempt to reduce wages were resisted successfully. As a result of organization, members are enjoying 8 and 9 hour day, with pay for overtime. Unorganized workers are working unlimited hours with less pay.
- Leather Workers on Horse Goods.—Death benefits, $1,400; sick benefits, $2,125. Donations to other unions, $1,000.
- Leather Workers, Amal.—Unemployed benefits, $300. Donations to other unions, $600. As a result of organization, hours have been shortened from 10 to 9 per day, and 400 men have secured an advance of 20 per cent in wages. In all districts where there are locals, prices paid on the different classes of work are far superior to those paid in unorganized districts, and the hours per day or week much shorter.
- Lithographers.—Charters issued, 2. Gain in membership, 416. The 48-hour week prevails as a result of organization.
- Lithographic Press Feeders.—No report.
- Longshoremen.—Charters issued, 33; surrendered, 19. Number of strikes, 4; won, 4. No reductions in wages in the past year.
- Machine Printers.—No report.
- Machinists.—Charters issued, 76; surrendered, 28. Gain in membership, 7,000. Number of strikes, 13; won, 5; compromised, 3; pending, 5. Number of persons involved, 2,691. Advance

- in wages of 20 cents per member per day. 25 agreements were secured without strike. Death benefits, $56,231.25. Cost of strikes, $527,104.
- Maintenance of Way Employees.—Charters issued, 51; surrendered, 15. An average increase in wages of 5 per cent per member per day. Death benefits, $14,000.
- Marble Workers.—Charters issued, 4; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 100. Number of strikes, 9; won, 6; compromised, 1; pending, 1; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 2,065; benefited, 1,100; not benefited, 965. Advance in wages of 35 cents per day. Donations to other trade unions, $4,000. Cost of strikes, $9,000. Of the 965 reported as not benefited, negotiations are under way for an agreement, which it is expected will carry an increase in wages when signed.
- Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.—Charters issued, 9; surrendered, 8. Gain in membership, 800. Advances of 25 cents per day have been secured, and hours of labor reduced 2 and 3 per day. Death benefits, $1,400; sick benefits, $4,000. Donations to other unions, $3,000. Results of organization: former wages from $9 to $12, minimum is now $15 and many receive more; former hours, 13 to 16 per day, now 10 hours straight.
- Metal Polishers.—Charters issued, 11; surrendered, 16. Gain in membership, 1,000. Number of strikes, 29; won, 20; compromised, 4; pending, 4; lost, 1. Number involved, 800; benefited, 800. An average advance in wages of 15 per cent per member per day, and hours of labor reduced one-half hour per day. Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully, except in a few cases, which were settled on the basis of a compromise. Death benefits, $3,150. Donations to other unions, $1,800. Cost of strikes, $4,470. As a result of organization, there has been a gradual increase in wages to a uniform standard, with gradual shortening of hours, with better sanitary conditions, and better consideration of grievances by employers.
- Metal Workers, Sheet.—Charters issued, 52; surrendered, 20. Number of strikes, 5; won, 3; pending, 2. Number of persons involved, 2,200; benefited, 125. An average advance in wages of 40 cents per member per day. Past year has seen a general improvement in wage-scale and hours of labor. Death benefits, $96,000. Donations to other unions, $5,000. Cost of strikes, $23,565.
- Mine Workers, United.—Charters issued, 170; surrendered, 122. Gain in membership, 153,309. Number of strikes, 8; won, 3; pending, 5. Number of persons involved, 7,500; benefited, 165,000. An average increase in wages of 10 per cent per member per day.
- Miners, Western Federation of.—Charters issued, 23; surrendered, 20. Number of strikes, 6; won, 2; pending, 2; lost, 2. Number of persons involved, 3,000; benefited, 500. 7,000 miners at Butte, Montana, have secured an increase of 50 cents per day; 14,000 men in various districts received an increase of 25 cents per day. A slight increase in three districts affecting about 700 men. Attempted reduction at Blair and Silver Peak, Nevada, is now being resisted by strike. An 8-hour law has been secured in Arizona, governing mines, mills, and smelters. Death benefits, $27,069.47; sick benefits, $115,277.32. Donations to other unions, $10,156.11. Cost of strikes, $108,126.95.
- Molders.—Charters issued, 9; surrendered, 19. Strikes pending, 38. Number of persons involved, 1,425. Death benefits, $61,900; sick benefits, $152,456.20. Unemployed benefits, 10,971.80. Cost of strikes, $262,968.28.
- Musicians.—Charters issued, 42; surrendered, 12. Gain in membership, 1,000. 20,000 members were involved in a lockout by the Theatrical Syndicate. Ended in victory for the Musicians. Advance in wages averaging 10 per cent per day. Members have secured recognition of union in many instances without strike. Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully. Donations to other unions, $5,000. Cost of strikes, $5,000. As a result of organization, members have secured advance in wages, and enforcement of union shop.
- Painters.—Charters issued, 93; surrendered, 85. Gain in membership, 33. Death benefits, $99,525; death benefits, members' wives, $12,375; disability benefits, $20,250.
- Papermakers.—Charters issued, 20; surrendered, 4. Gain in membership, 2,000. Number of strikes, 3; won, 1; pending, 1; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 800; not benefited, 180. An advance in wages averaging 5 per cent per day. Hours of labor were reduced from 11 to 8 per day for 2,000. Gains in other respects: better sanitary conditions. Locals secured advances in wages in some instances without strike. Death benefits, $600. Cost of strikes, $17,000. Through the efforts of the organization, hours of labor have been reduced from 11 hours per day and 13 hours per night to an 8-hour day in 42 mills. Increases in wages and reduction in hours have been granted by a number of non-union mills, after these improvements had been secured in union mills.
- Patternmakers.—Charters issued, 4; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 500. Number of strikes, 11; won, 6; pending, 4; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 238; benefited, 238. An advance in wages of 10 per cent per day. Hours of labor were reduced from 9 to 8 per day for 100 members. Most of the gains made were secured without strike. Death benefits, $1,700; sick benefits, $5,596.14; tool insurance, $1,842.61. Cost of strikes, $19,074.03.

Pavers and Rammermen.—Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully.

Paving Cutters.—Charters issued, 14; surrendered, 6. Gain in membership, 200. Death benefits, $2,200. Donations to other trade unions, $800. Cost of strikes, $532.

Photo-Engravers.—Charters issued, 4. Gain in membership, 271. Number of strikes, 2; pending, 2. Number of persons involved, 20. Death benefits, $1,885; sick benefits, $6,265.17 (tuberculosis benefits). Cost of strikes, $986.

Piano and Organ Workers.—No report.

Plasterers.—No report.

Plate Printers.—Charters issued, 1. Gain in membership, 14. No reductions in wages in the past year. Death benefits, $1,381.75.

Plumbers.—Charters issued, 72; surrendered, 18. Number of strikes, 60; won, 45; compromised, 2; pending, 10; lost, 3. Wages were increased and shorter hours secured in a number of instances without strike. Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully. Death benefits, $14,300; sick benefits, $43,055. Cost of strikes, $82,295.

Post-office Clerks.—Charters issued, 10; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 300.

Potters, Operative.—Charters issued, 3; surrendered, 2. Gain in membership, 46. Number of strikes, 1, pending. Number of persons involved, 14. Death benefits, $5,975. Cost of strikes, $2,714.98.

Powder and High Explosive Workers.—Charters surrendered, 2. Wages were advanced 12½ per cent and hours reduced from 10 to 9 per day at one point as a result of a strike. 48 members secured 12½ cents per day advance in wages, without strike. Cost of strikes, $70.

Print Cutters.—No report.

Printing Pressmen.—Charters issued, 28; surrendered, 11. Gain in membership, 1,000. Number of strikes, 11; won, 5; compromised, 3; pending, 1; lost, 2. Number of persons involved, 650; benefited, 400. Advance in wages of 25 cents per day. Advantages gained in 78 cities without strike. Death benefits, $16,700. Cost of strikes, $41,000.

Pulp and Sulphite Workers.—Charters issued, 5; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 800. Number of strikes, 2; pending. Number of persons involved, 150. Advance in wages, averaging 5 per cent per member per day was secured. 8-hour day secured in union mills. Donations to other unions, $1,000. Cost of strikes, $500.

Quarry Workers.—Charters issued, 10; surrendered, 3. Gain in membership, 1,000. Number of strikes, 11; won, 8; compromised, 2; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 800; benefited, 800. Advances in wages of from 1 to 3 cents per hour. 3 branches secured Saturday half-holiday. Shorter hours and better pay for 500 members were secured without strike. Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully. Death benefits, $1,450. Donations to other unions, $385.45. Cost of strikes, $11,724.50.

Railroad Telegraphers.—Charters issued, 5. Gain in membership, 3,000. Death benefits, $86,700. Donations to other unions, $1,200. Advances in wages aggregating $995,850 were secured without strike.

Railway Carmen.—Charters issued, 71; surrendered, 58. Number of strikes, 3, pending. Improved working conditions and advances in wages were secured on many railroads without strike. Cost of strikes, $67,897.27.

Railway Clerks.—No report.

Railway Employees, Street.—Charters issued, 27; surrendered, 8. Gain in membership, 1,000. Number of strikes, 9; won, 5; lost, 4. Number of persons involved, 7,000; benefited, 6,550; not benefited, 450. Advances in wages of from ½ to 5 cents per hour. Wages were increased in many cities without strike. Death benefits, $125,453.45; sick benefits, $18,708.66 (local divisions). Donations to other unions $13,378.80. Cost of strikes, $80,264.94.

Railway Express Messengers.—No report.

Roofers.—Composition. Charters issued, 3; surrendered, 3. Gain in membership, 50. Number of strikes, 2; won, 1; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 72; benefited, 36; not benefited, 36. Wages advanced 25 cents per day. Hours of labor reduced 1 per day. Death benefits, $2,300; sick benefits, $1,500. Donations to other unions, $600. Cost of strikes, $1,000. As a result of organization, wages have been raised from $1.75, $2 and $2.50 to an average of $4.50 per day; formerly the workday was 9 and 10 hours per day, at present the 8-hour workday prevails.

Sawsmiths.—No report.

Seamen.—Charters surrendered, 1. Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully. Through

- the efforts of the organization, wages have about doubled and working hours in some localities have been reduced 2 per day.
- Shingle Weavers.—Charters issued, 3; surrendered, 2. Number of strikes, 4; won, 1; pending, 2; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 100; benefited, 40. Wages advanced 12 per cent per day. Increases in wages were secured from a number of companies without strike. Sick and accident benefits, $2,036. Cost of strikes, $4,000.
- Slate and Tile Roofers.—Charters issued, 1; surrendered, 2. Gain in membership, 150. Number of strikes, 2; won, 2. Wages advanced 2½ cents per hour. Death benefits, $1,200.
- Slate Workers.—Charters surrendered, 2. Number of strikes, 3; won, 2; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 400; benefited, 1,000. Death benefits, $300. Death benefits, members' wives, $100.
- Spinners.—Number of strikes, 6 (including lockouts); won, 3; compromised, 1; pending, 2. Number of persons involved, 1,000. A 10 per cent advance in wages was secured without strike. Death benefits, $1,000; unemployed benefits, $5,000. Cost of strikes, $35,000.
- Stage Employes.—Charters issued, 40; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 1,000. Number of strikes, 10; won, 8; pending, 2. Number of persons involved, 750; benefited, 3,250. Advance in wages of $1 per day. Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully. Death benefits, $10,000. Cost of strikes, $25,000. Through the efforts of the organization, wages have been increased for stage employes from 25 to 50 per cent all over the United States and Canada.
- Steel Plate Transferrers.—Have secured many advantages as a result of organization.
- Stereotypers and Electrotypers.—Charters issued, 3; surrendered, 1 (revoked). Gain in membership, 90. Number of strikes, 6; lost, 6. Increases in wages aggregating $12,076.20 annually, have been secured without strike. Death benefits, $4,900. Cost of strikes, $5,400.80. Through the efforts of the organization, wages have been increased and better conditions generally inaugurated.
- Stonecutters.—No report.
- Stove Mounters.—Charters issued, 8; surrendered, 4. Number of strikes, 2; compromised, 2. Number of persons involved, 94. Death benefits, $1,000. Donations to other unions, $25. Cost of strikes, $4,110.38.
- Switchmen.—Charters issued, 15; surrendered, 4. Gain in membership, 316. Death benefits $168,957.50.
- Tailors.—Charters issued, 26; surrendered, 8. Number of strikes, 21; won, 6; pending, 10; lost, 5. Number of persons involved, 504; benefited, 28; not benefited, 164. Advance in wages of 5 per cent per day. 700 members secured the 8-hour day. Wages increased in 61 establishments without strike. Death benefits, $12,765.59; sick benefits, $23,366.95. Donations to other unions, $935.30. Cost of strikes, $52,134.10.
- Teamsters.—Charters issued, 206; surrendered, 175. Gain in membership, 1,000. Number of strikes, 12; won, 11; pending, 1. Number of persons involved, 2,200; benefited, 2,200. Advance in wages of 35 cents per day. Attempts to reduce wages were resisted successfully. Cost of strikes, $20,000.
- Textile Workers.—Charters issued, 50; surrendered, 10. Gain in membership, 2,000. Number of strikes, 12; won, 9; compromised, 1; pending, 1; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 1,000. Death benefits, $1,100. Cost of strikes, $16,000. The victory of the Textile Workers in Lawrence in their strike against a reduction in wages, when the 54-hour week law went into effect, which reduced the hours of labor two per week, served as an impetus to the Textile Workers in other centers in their efforts for improved conditions. In Fall River and New Bedford, a full 10 per cent increase in wages was secured without strike. A strike in Lowell, Mass., was won after 5 weeks. The dyers of Philadelphia went on strike to establish a minimum wage of 25 cents per hour, and in about 40 shops the demand was granted. The Silk Workers and Thread Workers of Willimantic, Conn., struck for a 10 per cent advance in wages. The Thread Workers secured the advance after four days, but the Silk Workers had to remain out 13 weeks, when a compromise was effected, granting a 7½ per cent advance to all the operatives. The strike at Rifton, N. Y., which has been on for 14 months, was against a reduction in wages; the Textile Workers there are as firm in their attitude as they were on the first day of the strike. In New York State a law was passed, reducing the hours of labor of the Textile Workers from 60 to 54 per week.
- Tile Layers.—Charters issued, 12; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 216. Number of strikes, 3; won, 2; compromised, 1. Advance in wages of 40 cents per day for tile layers, and 25 cents per day for helpers. Several locals received increases, without strike. Average wage is $4.50 for tile layers and $2.50 for helpers. Hours of employment with but two exceptions (Canadian locals) are 8 hours. Donations to other unions, $350.

Tin Plate Workers.—3 per cent advance in wages secured without strike.

Tip Printers.—No report.

Tobacco Workers.—Improvements have been light this year, although such changes as were made were in our favor, reducing hours slightly and small increases in wages. Death benefits, $1,350; sick benefits, $5,114. Donations to other unions, $300.00.

Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers.—Charters issued, 2; surrendered, 1. Gain in membership, 175. Number of strikes, 5; won, 2; pending, 3. Number of persons involved, 428; benefited, 380; not benefited, 48. Wages advanced 10 per cent. Hours of labor reduced from 10 and 9½ to 9 per day. Reduction in hours and slight increases in wages secured in some localities without strike. Death benefits, $125; sick benefits (locals), $300. Donations to other unions, $58. Cost of strikes, $1,700. As a result of organization wages have been advanced from $13.50 to $15 per week, and in some localities still more.

Tunnel and Subway Constructors.—Charters issued, 1. Gain in membership, 140. Number of strikes compromised, 15. Wages advanced 25 cents per day. Hours of labor reduced from 10 to 8 per day. Death benefits, $1,800; sick benefits, $340; traveling benefits, $1,200. Donations to other unions, $300.

Typographical Union (for fiscal year ending May 31, 1912).—Charters issued, 16; surrendered, 23. Gain in membership, 3,518. Number of strikes, 12; won, 5; pending, 6; lost, 1. Number of persons involved, 161; benefited, 67; not benefited, 38; involved in pending strikes, 56. 101 local unions, under their new agreements, secured substantial increases in wages, and in addition to these gains 21 offices were unionized. Total yearly wages received by members $53,378,902. Death benefits, $74,698.85; old age pension, $169,657.00. Donations to other unions, $15,819.08. Expenditures from defense fund, $69,330.79.

Upholsterers.—No report.

Weavers, Elastic Goring.—Death benefits, $300. Donations to other unions, $25.

Weavers, Wire.—Death benefits, $200; sick benefits, $614.

White Rats Actors.—Donations to other unions $50.

UNION LABELS.

There are now 56 labels and 10 cards issued by the following organizations, which have been indorsed by the American Federation of Labor:

ORGANIZATIONS USING LABELS.

American Federation of Labor.
Bakers and Confectioners.
Bill Posters and Billers.
Boilermakers.
Blacksmiths.
Bookbinders.
Boot and Shoe Workers.
Brewery Workmen.
Brickmakers.
Broommakers.
Brushmakers.
Carpenters and Joiners, Brotherhood.
Carriage and Wagon Workers.
Carvers, Wood.
Cigarmakers.
Cloth Hat and Cap Makers.
Coopers.
Garment Workers, United.
Garment Workers, Ladies.

Glass Workers.
Glove Workers.
Grinders and Finishers, Pocket Knife Blade.
Hatters.
Horseshoers.
Jewelry Workers.
Lathers.
Laundry Workers.
Leather Workers.
Leather Workers on Horse Goods.
Lithographers.
Machine Printers and Color Mixers.
Marbinists.
Marble Workers.
Metal Polishers.
Metal Workers, Sheet.
Molders.
Painters.

Papermakers.
Photo-Engravers.
Piano and Organ Workers.
Plate Printers.
Powder Workers.
Pressmen, Printing.
Print Cutters.
Sawsmiths.
Shingle Weavers.
Slate Workers.
Stove Mounters.
Tailors.
Textile Workers.
Tip Printers.
Tobacco Workers.
Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers.
Typographical.
Upholsterers.
Weavers, Wire.

ORGANIZATIONS USING CARDS.

Barbers.
Clerks.
Engineers, Steam.
Firemen, Stationary.

Hotel and Restaurant Employees.
Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.
Musicians.

Stage Employees, Theatrical.
Teamsters.
White Rats Actors.

The following crafts and callings are using the American Federation of Labor label: Badge, Banner, Regalia, Button, Novelty and Lodge Paraphernalia Workers, Bottlers (Soda and Mineral Water), Coffee, Spice, and Baking Powder Workers, Nail (Horseshoe) Workers, Neckwear Cutters and Makers, Paper Box Makers, Spendermakers, Garter, Arm Band, and Hose Supporter Makers, Flour and Cereal Mill Employees, Soapmakers, Turpentine Workers, Vacuum Bottle and Apparatus Glass Blowers, Clam Diggers, Tent, Awning and Canvas Workers, Cleaners and Dyers, Creamery Workers, Lead, Paint, and Varnish Makers and Mixers, Milk Manufacturing Employees, Shoe Polish and Dressing Workers.

CHARTERS REVOKED, SUSPENDED, SURRENDERED, DISBANDED, JOINED INTERNATIONAL UNIONS, AND RESTORED.

INTERNATIONAL UNIONS. Revoked 1; Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, membership 7,878. Surrendered 1; International Association of Car Workers, membership 7,500. Merged 1; Amalgamated Wood Workers' International Union, membership 2,919; joined United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners. Per capita tax refused after August 1, 1912; Steamfitters and Helpers, membership 8,500.

CENTRAL BODIES. Revoked, 2; disbanded, 24; suspended for non-payment of per capita tax, 98; charters restored, 2.

LOCAL TRADE UNIONS. Disbanded, 39; suspended, 116; joined international, 28; merged with other unions, 3; revoked, 3.

FEDERAL LABOR UNIONS. Disbanded, 20; suspended, 89; revoked, 1.

VOTING STRENGTH OF FEDERATION, 1897 TO 1912.

Year.	No. Votes.
1897	2,747
1898	2,881
1899	3,632
1900	5,737
1901	8,240
1902	10,705
1903	15,238
1904	17,363
1905	16,338
1906	15,621
1907	16,425
1908	16,892
1909	15,880
1910	16,737
1911	18,693
1912	18,499

MEMBERSHIP.

The average paid-up and reported membership for the year is 1,770,145, an increase of 8,310 members over last year. National and international organizations are required to pay only the per capita tax upon their full paid-up membership, and, therefore, the membership reported does not include the large numbers of members involved in strikes during the fiscal year, for whom tax was not paid, otherwise the average membership would have exceeded the 1,800,000 mark.

That the membership of affiliated organizations is steadily on the increase is indicated by the fact that the paid-up and reported membership of affiliated organizations for the month of September of this year is 1,841,268, an increase of 72,654 over the September membership of last year, and 79,433 over the average membership of last year.

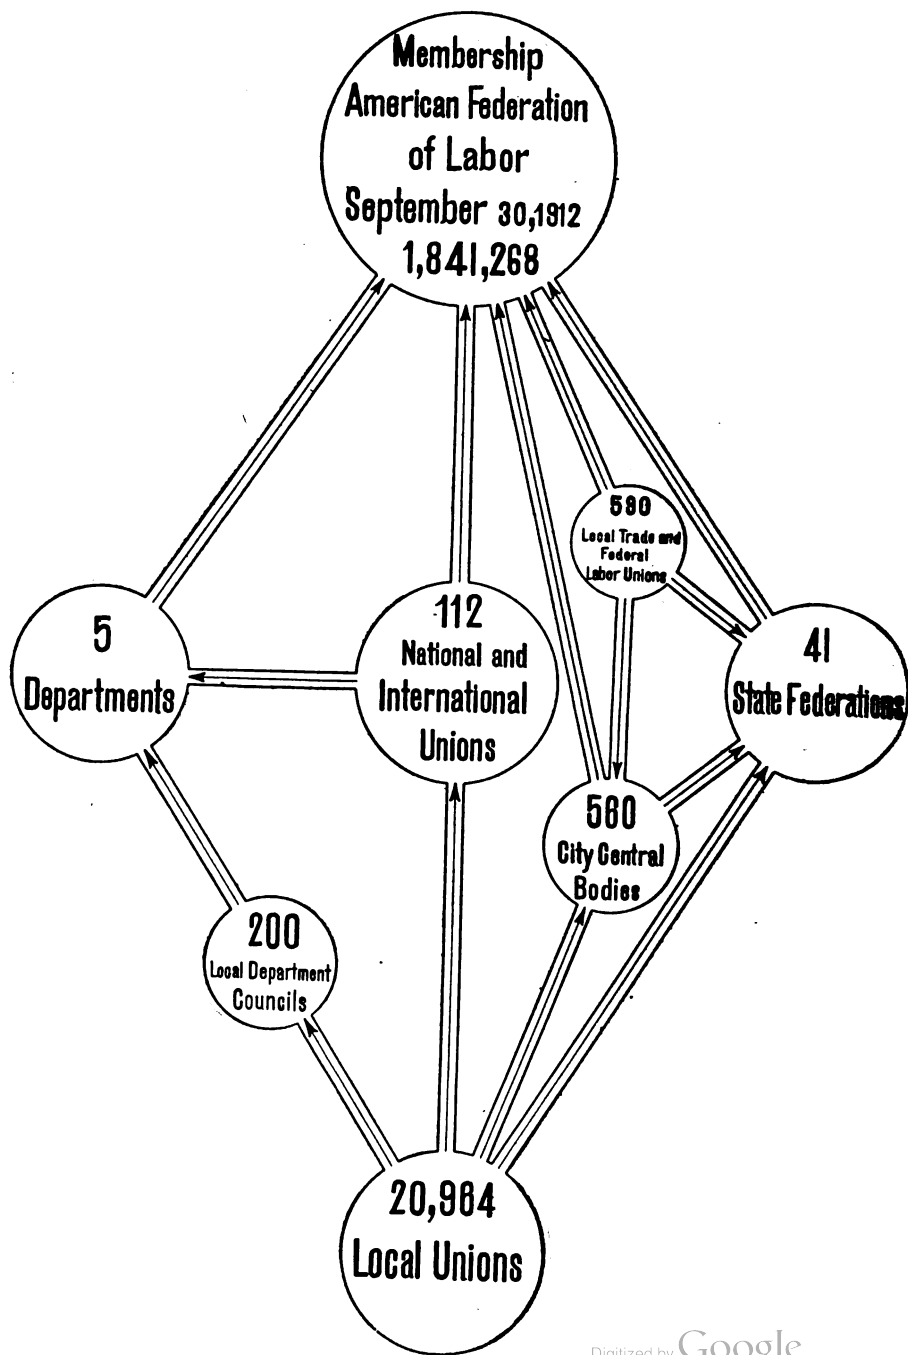

The following is the average membership reported or paid upon for the past sixteen years:

Year.	Membership.
1897	264,825
1898	278,016
1899	349,422
1900	548,321
1901	787,537
1902	1,024,399
1903	1,465,800
1904	1,676,200
1905	1,494,300
1906	1,454,200
1907	1,538,970
1908	1,586,885
1909	1,482,872
1910	1,562,112
1911	1,761,835
1912	1,770,145

So that the delegates and membership at large can at a glance note the steady increase in membership of the American Federation of Labor, a chart will follow on the next page, indicating the membership for each year since 1881, up to and including 1912—thirty-two years. In addition, another chart has been prepared showing clearly the manner in which the American Federation of Labor is organized, commencing with the local unions of the international organizations as the source from which all funds are secured to carry on every activity in the labor movement. Local unions of the national and international organizations and the local unions affiliated direct with the American Federation of Labor, constitute the State and city central bodies, as well as department councils. The chart will show that there are 20,964 local unions in the 112 national and international unions and 590 local trade and federal labor unions directly affiliated to the American Federation of Labor, with a paid-up and reported membership of 1,841,268 for the month of September.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR

83

AMERICAN FEDERATIONIST.

The receipts on account of the American Federationist for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1912, are $17,240.19, which is $1,491.58 less than the expenses. Notwithstanding that fact, the receipts from the American Federationist for the past eight years has come within $2,436.83 of paying expenses, or a little over $300 per year.

The following is a statement of the receipts and expenses for the twelve months ending September 30, 1912:

RECEIPTS.
Receipts.....	$17,240 19
EXPENSES.
Attorney fees.....	$3 00
Commissions on advertising contracts.....	7,889 92
Contributions.....	52 00
Cuts.....	5 00
R. G. Dun & Company.....	75 00
Hauling.....	32 00
Postage Stamps.....	40 90
Postage pound rate.....	317 34
Printing American Federationist .....	8,310 87
Printing and supplies.....	42 00
Refunds.....	60
Salaries.....	1,963 14
Total.....	$18,731 77

RECAPITULATION.
Receipts.....	$17,240 19
Expenses.....	18,731 77
Excess of expenses over receipts.....	$1,491 58

The following are the receipts and expenses of the American Federationist since it was first issued:

YEAR.	Receipts.	Expenses.	Receipts Exceed Expenses.	Expenses Exceed Receipts.
1893-94.....	$2,418 30	$2,684 66		$266 36
1894-95.....	3,184 21	2,675 98	$508 23
1895-96.....	1,917 61	2,100 08		182 47
1896-97.....	3,408 39	3,094 87	313 52
1897-98.....	2,287 83	2,541 75		253 92
1898-99.....	3,171 00	4,033 19		862 19
1899-00.....	4,162 03	4,466 91		304 88
1900-01.....	10,498 22	10,900 54		402 32
1901-02.....	17,170 70	25,406 46		8,235 76
1902-03.....	27,718 43	42,883 68		15,165 25
1903-04.....	32,639 89	30,699 92	1,939 97
1904-05.....	25,726 57	24,929 86	796 71
1905-06.....	25,912 87	26,868 12		955 25
1906-07.....	25,310 56	23,560 70	1,749 86
1907-08.....	20,722 41	20,649 84	72 57
1908-09.....	20,148 73	22,703 57		2,554 84
1909-10.....	21,326 50	20,621 19	705 31
1910-11.....	18,213 98	20,913 56		2,699 58
1911-12.....	17,240 19	18,731 77		1,491 58

HEADQUARTERS.

The following statement shows that during the twelve months ending September 30, 1912, there has been issued from headquarters an average of 1,597 letters, circular letters, and packages per day, as follows:

Packages of supplies forwarded by express and post.....	3,419
Packages of literature and miscellaneous supplies for organizers and others.....	236,993
Official and circular letters in two-cent envelopes.....	65,164
Circulars and circular letters in one-cent envelopes.....	183,036
Total.....	488,612

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

ORGANIZING EXPENSES.

The following list of organizers, who were engaged in various States under salaries from the American Federation of Labor, shows that there has been expended for organizing work during the past twelve months $71,060.95. Of this amount $2,280.06 was paid to district or volunteer organizers, in sums ranging from $5 to $50, for organizing central bodies and local trade or federal labor unions, and adjusting strikes and grievances of local unions affiliated directly or indirectly with the American Federation of Labor:

NAME OF ORGANIZER.	STATE WHEREIN WORK WAS DONE.	Amount Received.
1. Cal. Wyatt.....	Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maine, Vermont, West Virginia, New York.....	$3,558 19
2. *William Bork.....	New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia.....	3,071 82
3. T. H. Flynn.....	Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio.....	3,045 88
4. Hugh Frayne.....	New York.....	3,045 03
5. E. T. Flood.....	Iowa, Illinois, New York.....	3,018 83
6. C. O. Young.....	Vancouver, B. C., Washington, Oregon.....	2,909 00
7. J. L. Lewis.....	Pennsylvania, Illinois, West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Louisiana, Georgia, New Mexico.....	2,857 70
8. W. E. Terry.....	Florida.....	2,691 70
9. H. L. Elchalberger.....	Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware.....	2,662 21
10. J. A. Flett.....	Ontario, Quebec, New York.....	2,600 01
11. H. T. Keating.....	New York.....	2,514 00
12. J. D. Pierce.....	Pennsylvania, Massachusetts.....	2,453 33
13. J. D. Chubbuck.....	Minnesota, North Dakota.....	2,340 08
14. F. H. McCarthy.....	Massachusetts.....	2,294 85
15. J. J. Fitzpatrick.....	Illinois, Mississippi, Missouri.....	2,293 90
16. P. F. Duffy.....	Rhode Island.....	2,104 65
17. O. E. Finnegan.....	Iowa.....	2,096 45
18. *Joseph Tylkoff.....	New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island.....	1,992 40
19. J. J. Cunningham.....	Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut.....	1,835 45
20. S. A. Bramlette.....	Kansas, Missouri.....	1,805 92
21. *Santiago Iglesias.....	Porto Rico.....	1,714 50
22. O. A. Miles.....	Massachusetts, New York, Vermont, Virginia, New Jersey.....	1,607 69
23. J. J. Keegan.....	Indiana.....	1,587 86
24. Henry Streidler.....	New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island.....	1,486 14
25. C. P. Taylor.....	Idaho, Washington, Oregon.....	1,184 55
26. Jacob Tazelaar.....	New York.....	1,128 81
27. Israel Solon.....	New York, Illinois.....	983 88
28. Joseph Sorensen.....	Washington, California, British Columbia.....	695 05
29. *A. J. Kwaterski.....	Pennsylvania.....	559 34
30. J. B. Dale.....	California.....	510 00
31. C. W. Woodman.....	Texas, Louisiana.....	488 30
32. *Placido Comunale.....	New York, New Jersey.....	426 50
33. *Joseph Minzowski.....	Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire.....	425 00
34. T. J. Reagan.....	Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island.....	420 00
35. *Pasquale DiNeri.....	New York, New Jersey.....	376 20
36. G. E. Neesham.....	Pennsylvania.....	376 05
37. *Guisepe Cardinale.....	New York, New Jersey.....	269 46
38. J. B. Lennon.....	Illinois, Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Tennessee.....	256 80
39. L. A. Tanquary.....	New Mexico.....	226 40
40. A. E. Holder.....	Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Pennsylvania, Ohio.....	224 04
41. R. P. Rubin.....	New Mexico.....	211 95
42. J. W. Kline.....	Illinois.....	209 38
43. George Heatherton.....	Vancouver, B. C.....	200 00
44. M. Grant Hamilton.....	Colorado.....	194 65
45. D. F. Manning.....	Iowa.....	190 45
46. Jerome Jones.....	Georgia.....	169 81
47. B. F. Shearod.....	Texas.....	140 00
48. P. J. Flannery.....	Massachusetts.....	135 00
49. Stuart Reid.....	District of Columbia.....	127 20
50. Daniel Harris.....	New York.....	122 92
51. H. G. Kelly.....	Pennsylvania.....	118 10
52. M. M. Donoghue.....	Montana, Canada.....	105 10
53. J. A. Franklin.....	Kansas.....	85 32
54. H. T. Hilfers.....	New Jersey.....	77 25
55. F. L. Rist.....	Ohio.....	78 00
56. Cornelius Ford.....	New Jersey.....	74 45
57. Fred Reilly.....	Pennsylvania.....	74 00
58. David Kreyling.....	Missouri, Illinois.....	63 75
59. Pasqual Jordan.....	Porto Rico.....	60 00
60. J. E. Galligan.....	Pennsylvania.....	53 50
61. J. A. Moffitt.....	New Jersey.....	52 10
62. E. N. Nockels.....	Illinois.....	50 00
63. F. A. Fitzgerald.....	Louisiana.....	50 00
	Paid to District Organizers in amounts less than $50.....	2,280 06
	Total.....	$71,060 95

LOCAL TRADE AND FEDERAL LABOR UNIONS.

On September 30th of this year we had 590 local trade and federal labor unions with a membership of 27,945 in good standing, and a defense fund of $85,663.27 to protect the members of these unions in case of strike or lockout, many strikes that would have cost the American Federation of Labor a large sum were averted during the past year through the assistance of organizers of the American Federation of Labor in adjusting the differences with employers and securing conditions desired by the unions.

DEFENSE FUND.

The following is an itemized statement of the amounts received from and paid to our Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions, giving average membership, number of weeks benefit, and the amount received by each organization during the fiscal year ending September 30, 1912.

RECEIPTS.

Receipts from Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions for Defense Fund..... $19,336 26

EXPENSES.

	Average membership.	Weeks.	Amount.
*Button Workers' Protective Union, No. 12854, Muscatine, Iowa.....	188+	32	$24,132 00
Federal Labor Union, No. 10829, Chicago, Ill.....	68+	40	11,021 33
*Federal Labor Union, No. 9993, Centralia, Ill.....	44+	48	8,608 00
Federal Labor Union, No. 9626, Waterloo, Iowa.....	32+	43	6,252 00
*Machinists Helpers, No. 12345, Paducah, Ky.....	25+	45	4,576 00
Machinists Helpers and Laborers, No. 12952, Pocatello, Idaho.....	24+	30	2,948 00
Mechanics' Helpers, No. 12864, Sparks, Nev.....	14+	48	2,790 00
Machinists Helpers, No. 12561, Clinton, Ill.....	10+	46	1,952 00
*Machinists Helpers, No. 13042, Los Angeles, California.....	12+	35	1,700 00
Federal Labor Union, No. 9955, Uhrichsville, Ohio.....	37+	6	904 00
Suspender Workers, No. 11294, Aurora, Ill.....	35+	5	708 00
Machinists' Helpers, No. 12764, Denver, Colorado.....	5+	30	688 00
Federal Labor Union, No. 14073, Monaca, Pa.....	16+	6	404 00
Tobacco Strippers, No. 12690, Uruado, P. R.....	14+	6	344 00
Fur Dressers, No. 13185, Brooklyn, N. Y.....	12	6	288 00
Tobacco Strippers, No. 10422, Denver, Colorado.....	8+	2	68 00
Agricultural Workers, No. 11827, Juncos, P. R.....	1	3	12 00
Total.....			$67,455 33

Returned, receipted for, and redeposited in Defense Fund.

Button Workers' Protective, No. 12854..	$2,410 00
Federal Labor Union, No. 9993.....	32 00
Machinists' Helpers, No. 13042.....	12 00
Machinists' Helpers, No. 12345.....	4 00
Ladies' Felt and Straw Hat Workers, No. 12815.....	4 00
Total.....	$2,462 00

RECAPITULATION.

Balance on hand in Defense Fund, September 30, 1911.....	$133,782 34
Received in Defense Fund (including the $2,462 refunded by local unions enumerated above for benefits that were not distributed).....	19,336 26
Paid out of Defense Fund.....	$153,118 60
Balance in Defense Fund for Local Trade and Federal Labor Unions September 30, 1912.....	$85,663 27

Strike benefits to the amount of $67,455.33 were paid to the members of seventeen local unions who were qualified to receive them, under the requirements of the constitution of the American Federation of Labor. The periods for which these benefits were paid ranged from two weeks to forty-eight weeks. Five local unions refunded benefits to the amount of $2,462. A regular official receipt was issued to each local for benefits so refunded and this total amount was redeposited and credited in the receipts for the defense fund. Deducting this refund of $2,462 from the $67,455.33, which was drawn from the defense fund to cover the strike rolls as they were received, reduces the actual expenditure from the defense fund to $64,993.33. The total of $67,455.33 is carried as expenses drawn from the defense fund, as this amount was actually drawn out, and to save confusing the accounts, when the refunds were made they were recorded and carried through our books as receipts and entered in this form to the credit of the fund.

REPORT OF PROCEEDINGS

The following table will show that since the time the fund was inaugurated in 1902 up to and including this fiscal year there has been received into the fund $227,102.96 and paid out $141,439.69.

	Receipts.	Expenses.	Balance on hand.
1902.....	$20,423 00		$20,423 00
1903.....	49,663 40	$6,690 00	63,396 40
1904.....	33,722 55	15,972 00	81,146 95
1905.....	16,966 63	3,197 18	94,916 40
1906.....	15,556 02	13,643 40	96,829 02
1907.....	17,143 65	10,893 78	103,078 89
1908.....	14,327 20	12,124 00	105,282 09
1909.....	11,383 05	788 00	115,877 14
1910.....	12,570 45	6,484 00	121,963 59
1911.....	16,010 75	4,192 00	133,782 34
1912.....	19,336 26	67,455 33	85,663 27
	$227,102 96	$141,439 69

CONCLUSION.

In conclusion, I desire to express, through the delegates present, my appreciation of the splendid efforts put forth by the organizers, and the assistance and encouragement received from the officers of the international organizations, and from my colleagues of the Executive Council. Respectfully submitted.

Frank Morrison

Secretary, American Federation of Labor.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-second Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, Greeting:

At the close of this, my twenty-third consecutive year as Treasurer of the Federation, I submit this report with my best wishes and kind regards to every officer, delegate, and member of the affiliated unions.

The fiscal year just ended, to me seems more full of justification for conviction in the minds of trade unionists that we are nearing the day when real industrial justice shall be realized by the toilers of our country. Evidences of the effective educational work of the Federation are to be seen and heard on every hand. The national political campaign just closed has been unprecedented in agitation for social and industrial reform, and human uplift. I have heard many candidates and speakers of the Democratic, Republican, Progressive, Socialist, and Prohibition parties, and the paramount themes of their talks were on social and industrial issues, so much so in many cases that I imagined that I must be at a trade union meeting, rather than a partisan political gathering. The themes were the improper use of injunctions in labor disputes, the eight-hour workday, seamen's measures, child labor, women labor, a living wage, human rights above property rights, etc., etc.

This agitation is the child of the trade union movement. We were the pioneers that blazed the trail that leads to industrial justice.

The agitation of these subjects on so great a scale, has awakened the interest of the masses of our citizens, and even though the politicians may be in many instances insincere, and without any real interest to bring about the reforms advocated, the people have been aroused and they will see to it that promises are fulfilled. I am personally confident that the near future will see much valuable fruit harvested as the result of the work done in past years by our trade union movement. We can not, however, afford to depend entirely, or even partly, on the promises we have heard so often repeated, but must continue to do our work ourselves, welcoming, however, the assistance of all who are willing to travel with us toward the goal of industrial justice. He who would be free himself must strike the blow.

You will note that the funds in the hands of the Treasurer are in round numbers $70,000 less than they were one year ago. This decrease was principally caused by the strike of the Button

Workers, and our Machinists' Helpers on the Illinois Central and the Harriman lines. This large sum expended in benefits in two contests has clearly demonstrated the practicability of our defense fund, and therefore has been expended to good purpose. The unions receiving this benefit have not been destroyed, but, on the contrary, are ready to again defend themselves from injustice and wrong.

By direction of the Executive Council, I secured from the bank in which our money is deposited (at the bank's expense) a bond from the American Surety Company guaranteeing the safety of the deposit, thus adding security for the safety of our funds.

Below you will find my financial statement for the year:

INCOME.		EXPENSES.
Received of Secretary Morrison:		Warrants paid:
1911.		1911.
October 31.....	$14,481 32	October 31.....	$16,686 20
November 30.....	11,269 27	November 30.....	20,419 48
December 31.....	16,884 31	December 31.....	20,922 91
1912.		1912.
January 31.....	12,482 81	January 31.....	20,900 10
February 29.....	15,602 58	February 29.....	22,499 15
March 31.....	18,550 55	March 31.....	44,353 88
April 30.....	17,434 95	April 30.....	24,533 48
May 31.....	16,559 94	May 31.....	25,208 45
June 30.....	15,924 54	June 30.....	20,079 06
July 31.....	16,945 37	July 31.....	23,865 76
August 31.....	17,321 50	August 31.....	18,781 68
September 30.....	33,916 46	September 30.....	19,229 08
Total income for year.....	$207,373 60	Total expenses for year.....	$277,479 23
Add balance on hand Oct. 1, 1911..	187,579 56
Makes total funds.....	$394,953 16

RECAPITULATION.

Total funds (balance and income).....	$394,953 16
Deduct total expenses (warrants paid).....	277,479 23
Balance in hands of Treasurer, October 1, 1912.....	$117,473 93
Balance in hands of Secretary, October 1, 1912.....	2,000 00
Total funds September 30, 1912.....	$119,473 93
Where deposited—Treasurer's balance:
McLean County Bank, Bloomington, Ill., subject to check.....	$17,473 93
McLean County Bank, Bloomington, Ill., interest bearing certificates.....	100,000 00
Total in hands of Treasurer.....	$117,473 93
Interest collected and paid to Secretary Morrison during year.....	$3,991 32
Amount of funds handled during twenty-three years I have been Treasurer.....	$2,598,353 95

Trusting that my performance of the duties as Treasurer has been satisfactory, I remain,
Fraternally yours,

JOHN B. LENNON,
Treasurer, American Federation of Labor.

BLOOMINGTON, ILL., October 1, 1912.

Second Day—Tuesday Morning Session

The convention was called to order at 9 a. m. Tuesday, November 12th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Noschang, Strelle, Genzenback, Tracy (T. F.), Barnes, Zuckerman, Russell, Ford, Hannahan, Dolan, Rickert, Langer, Dyche, Fiore, Patberg, O'Neal, McSorley, Taggart, Bryan, Healey, O'Connor, Johnston, Price, Call, Leary, Crane, Walsh (Thos.), White, Hayes (F. J.), Holland, Young (Wm.), Weber, Winkler, Wilson (James) Hannan, Murphy, Nelson, Whitehead, Miller (J. F.), Mahon, Taber, Huddleston, Welch (M. R.), Starr, Williams (T. J.), Carolan, Donnelly, Behrens, Young (Edwin), Swick, Darling, Laurentz, Campbell, Glidden, Tracy (M. F.), Burke, Hicks, Kane, Mead, Doherty, Welch, Berry (H. C.), Ferguson, Pace, Morgan, Stokes, Morris (J. F.), O'Rourke, Lawler, McAndrews, Cunningham, Waldron, Beckman, Plasterer, Weiss, Labbee, Gold.

Report of Committee on Rules and Order of Business.

Delegate Fischer (J.), secretary of the committee, reported as follows:

To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-second Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Greetings:

We, your committee on rules and order of business, beg leave to submit the following report:

We recommend the adoption of the following rules for the government of the Convention:

Rule 1—The Convention shall be called to order at 9:30 a. m., and remain in session until 12:30. Convene at 2 p. m. and remain in session until 5:30 p. m., except on Saturday, on which day the session shall be from 9:30 a. m. to 12:30.

Rule 2—If a delegate, while speaking, be called to order, he shall, at the request of the chair, take his seat until the question of order is decided.

Rule 3—Should two or more delegates rise to speak at the same time, the chair shall decide who is entitled to the floor.

Rule 4—No delegate shall interrupt another in his remarks except it be to call him to a point of order.

Rule 5—A delegate shall not speak more than twice upon a question until all who wish to speak shall have had an opportunity to do so.

Rule 6—A delegate shall not speak more than twice on the same question without permission from the Convention.

Rule 7—Speeches shall be limited to ten minutes, but the time of speaking may be extended by vote of the Convention.

Rule 8—A motion shall not be open for discussion until it has been seconded and stated from the chair.

Rule 9—At the request of five members, the mover of a motion shall be required to reduce it to writing.

Rule 10—When a question is pending before the Convention, no motion shall be in order, except to adjourn, to refer, for the previous question, to postpone indefinitely, to postpone for a certain time, to divide or amend, which motions shall have precedence in the order named.

Rule 11—Motions to lay on the table shall not be debatable, except as limited by Roberts' Rules of Order.

Rule 12—A motion to reconsider shall not be entertained unless made by a delegate who voted in the majority, and shall receive a majority vote.

Rule 13—That the reports of committees shall be subject to amendments and substitutes from the floor of the Convention, the same as other motions and resolutions.

Rule 14—Any delegate failing to present his card within 30 minutes after the convention is called to order shall be marked absent, but in the event of unavoidable absence he may so report to the Secretary and be marked present.

Rule 15—It shall require at least 30 members to move the previous question.

Rule 16—All resolutions shall bear the signature of the introducer and the title of the organization he represents and shall be submitted in duplicate.

Rule 17—No motion or resolution shall be voted upon until the mover or introducer has had a chance to speak, if he or she so desires.

Rule 18—No resolutions shall be received after Thursday's session, November 14th, without unanimous consent of the Convention.

Rule 19—When a roll-call vote has been taken, and all delegates or delegations present have had the opportunity to record their votes, the ballot shall be declared closed.

Rule 20—When a roll-call ballot has been ordered, no adjournment shall take place until the result has been announced.

Rule 21—Roberts' Rules shall be the guide on all matters not herein provided.

Rule 22—The main body of the hall shall be reserved for delegates.

Order of Business.

1—Reading Minutes of previous session, which will be dispensed with unless called for.

- 3-Report of Committee on Credentials.
- 3-Report of Officers.
- 4-Report of Regular Committees.
- 5-Report of Special Committees.
- 6-Unfinished Business.
- 7-New Business.
- 8-Election of Officers.
- 9-Selection of next meeting place.
- 10-Good of the Federation.
- 11-Adjournment.

Respectfully submitted,

T. A. RICKERT,
Chairman.
JACOB FISCHER,
Secretary.

W. J. PFLEGER,
JOHN SULLIVAN,
E. T. WALLS,
C. F. BAILEY,
C. C. SHAY,
M. M. DONOGHUE,
J. T. CAREY,
D. G. BIGGS,
M. M. GREEN,
M. F. TRACY,
H. P. CORCORAN,
T. J. CAROLAN,
H. M. DONNELLY.

Delegate Fischer moved the adoption of the report. (Seconded.)

Delegate Furuseth—I move to amend by inserting after the word “delegates,” “and ex-delegates,” in the rule that provides that the floor of the convention be occupied by nobody but delegates. (Seconded by Delegate Sullivan, J. L.)

President Gompers stated that if the amendment were adopted the rule as amended would probably be repeated in future conventions, and the time might come when the ex-delegates would occupy the main floor and the regular delegates would be on the outskirts. He stated further that no rule would be so rigidly enforced by him as to refuse an honored ex-delegate a seat on the main floor.

The amendment was withdrawn and the motion to adopt the report of the committee was carried.

President Gompers announced that the report of the Executive Council would be read by First Vice-President Duncan, and called attention to the comprehensiveness and importance of the report. He stated that he would bespeak undivided attention for the report, as it dealt with matters of interest to every delegate and affecting nearly every affiliated organization.

First Vice-President Duncan, for the Executive Council, read the attached report:

The report not being completed at 12:30 reading was suspended until 2 p. m.

President Gompers announced that ten minutes would be given to introduce resolutions, and the following resolutions were presented and referred to the proper committees:

Resolution No. 1—By Delegate Wm. D. Huber, Frank Duffy, Fred Wheeler, A. M. Swartz, Dan Featherston, William J. Kelly, W. E. Hemsell, of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America:

At the Seventeenth Biennial Convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, held in Washington, D. C., from September 16th to 28th, 1912, the Special Committee on Injunctions submitted the following report, which was concurred in by the convention:

“We, your special committee appointed by this convention to consider the court injunction in labor matters, and in special regard to the resolution from the New York State Council of the United Brotherhood, report as follows:

“That the reckless and unwarranted use of court injunctions has resolved itself into mere judicial anarchy. The frightful usurpation of unwarranted power has caused hundreds of thousands of the workers and toilers of our land to be lead like sheep to the shambles. Of the hundreds of injunctions issued scarce one has been issued for the protection of the lives or fortunes of the laborer, but on the contrary, they have been issued upon the slightest pretext to harass and annoy those who are engaged in a desperate struggle for existence. We agree with Thomas Jefferson, who with prophetic vision said: ‘I regard the courts as a subtle corps of sappers and miners, who if left unrestrained, taking a little here and gaining a little there, will eventually undermine the liberties of the American people.’

“We believe the time has long passed when we, as representatives of the working class of America, should arouse the people to these facts, and do here and now protest against our judiciary taking unto itself such powers as were never contemplated by the founders of this republic and which if allowed to continue will result in a judicial oligarchy that would shame a Russian Czar.

“Solemnly believing this to be true, we submit to this convention this declaration; therefore, be it

“RESOLVED, that this Seventeenth General Convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America do declare as being in favor of the right of recall of judges and judicial decisions and that we use every lawful means at our command to secure its adoption; and, be it further

“RESOLVED, that a copy of this resolution be sent to the American Bar Association and to the Bar Association of New York State, and that our delegates to the

A. F. of L. Convention at Rochester be instructed to present a copy of the same to that convention and to work for its passage."

Referred to committee on President's Report.

Resolution No. 2—By Flour and Cereal Mill Employees Union No. 14,039 of Lethbridge, Alta.:

WHEREAS, The paper sticker issued by the American Federation of Labor to locals of the flour and cereal mill workers does not fulfil the object in view; and

WHEREAS, The said sticker is expensive in that it entails upon the local unions the cost of labels and the labor of affixing the same to the bags; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor be asked to issue cuts of the label, and the label be printed upon the sacks when the same are made; and that, in the event of any firm or company not living up to an agreement, the local union shall have the right to cancel the label by a cancellation stamp placed over the original label on the sack to show purchasers that the product is unfair; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That the object to be attained is that the union shall remain in control of the label without being at unnecessary expense, but shall take direct action when the contract appears to be broken.

Referred to Committee on Labels.

Resolution No. 3—By Central Labor Union of Elkhart, Ind.:

WHEREAS, There are a number of locals not affiliated with central bodies but affiliated with the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, We believe that all locals affiliated with the American Federation of Labor should be affiliated with central bodies; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, in session at Rochester, N. Y., change Article XI, Sec. 2, by striking out the word "shall" and inserting the word "must."

Referred to Committee on Laws.

Resolution No. 4—By Delegate C. F. Bailey, of the Laundry Workers' International Union:

WHEREAS, The laundry workers of the country are still poorly organized notwithstanding the efforts of our organization and of many of the organizers of the American Federation of Labor; and

WHEREAS, the Laundry Workers International Union, is composed of only 47 locals, 15 of which are in the states of Montana and California, thus showing an extremely large field for organization; and

WHEREAS, On account of the small number of members our funds for organization purposes are necessarily limited; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor be authorized and instructed by this convention to issue a special letter to organizers under their jurisdiction to give particular attention to the organizing of the workers of this craft.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 5—By Theatrical Tailors and Dressers Union No. 12,719:

WHEREAS, Theatrical companies are playing on the road in different cities of the United States of America and Canada in which members of local 12,719 are employed; and

WHEREAS, In all theaters in these cities in which Hebrew companies are playing men are employed on the stage as stage hands, electricians, etc., who are members of the Theatrical Stage Employees International Alliance; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this convention of the American Federation of Labor request the Theatrical Stage Employees International Alliance to demand that every Hebrew company playing in the cities of the United States and Canada have a costume dresser who is a member in good standing of the Theatrical Tailors and Dressers Union No. 12,719.

Referred to Committee on Adjustment.

Resolution No. 6—By Amalgamated Leather Workers' Union of America:

WHEREAS, The labor employed in the production of leather in the United States aggregates, approximately, 80,000 persons; and

WHEREAS, The Amalgamated Leather Workers Union of America, under whose jurisdiction this class of labor comes, is not at present in a condition financially to prosecute a campaign of organization; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the president of the American Federation of Labor be empowered to appoint an organizer who shall specially devote at least six months to organizing that class of labor, and that the expense of said organizer be defrayed by the American Federation of Labor.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 7—By Delegate J. H. Collins, of Brocton (Mass.) Central Labor Union:

WHEREAS, The President of the United States has submitted to the meeting of the Governors of the states to be held in December a proposition for the creation of additional banks for the benefit of the farmers as wealth producers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled endorses the proposition with the following conditions:

First, that if any system for more adequate money and banking facilities is to be created it should include provisions whereby the wage workers of the nation also may obtain credit at cost. The only source now available is a monopoly enforcing its excessive high prices for the use of the private credit by the power of the defects of our present financial system—wealth producers are thus forced to become and remain renters of farms and homes when they should own them.

Second, that the credit used by any banks established for the benefit of the common people should be the credit of all the people coined into legal tender and circulating as a medium of exchange for the wealth production of the country, thus replacing the vicious system that uses the credit of all the people as an endorser of the private credit of a few of the people, who under the special privileges now given to them circulate their credit as bank credit, enabling these few people to draw interest on what they owe and thus continue to concentrate, as the system already has concentrated the wealth of the country in the hands of the few. We declare that this financial system which uses an evidence of its debt as the tool of exchange for labor's products, this system that is drawing interest on what it owes, has been denounced in all conventions of labor men which have preceded this convention, and that their prophecies that it would develop the economic and social ills that now afflict the country have been fulfilled.

Resolved, That we reiterate labor's long continued demand for a reform in banking and currency that will stop the abuses that yield monopolistic profits to large institutions and combinations, which profits are taken from the annual wealth production of the country, without rendering an adequate equivalent, thus creating a useless burden that is a prolific source of disease, poverty and crime.

We declare that the voice of the representatives of organized labor is as much entitled to be heard on this problem as that of representative bankers, or representative business men, for in the end all fixed charges, all annual costs of national housekeeping must be paid out of the annual wealth production of the nation's wealth producers, thereby lessening the returns to labor if these annual costs are excessive or unnecessary. When selfish interest is given any special privilege to encroach upon the natural rights of the individual its greed will know no limit. Labor declares that the natural rights of every individual include christian living wages and conditions that will bring universal peace and prosperity. No system has any moral right and therefore it should have no legal right to call upon labor to surrender any of its product unless the system renders in return a full equivalent.

Referred to Committee on Resolutions.

Resolution No. 8—By Delegate H. L. Vanderveld, of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor:

Whereas, But a very small percentage of the jewelry workers of Newark, N. J., are members of the local of their craft in that city; and

Whereas, the Executive Board of the New Jersey State Federation of Labor, after a careful investigation into the conditions of the jewelry workers of Newark, N. J., from a union standpoint, have come to the conclusion that an organizer of the American Federation of Labor should be placed in that city; therefore, be it Resolved, That this convention authorize the placing of an organizer in Newark, N. J., to assist in unionizing the jewelry workers of that city.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 9—By Hair Spinners Union, No. 12553:

WHEREAS, We, Hair Spinners Protective Union 12553, A. F. of L., do consider the strike benefits paid by the American Federation of Labor too small compared with the high cost of living, high prices for wearing apparel and so on, and we think we can get better results in case of trouble if a higher benefit is paid, for we find when the money runs down some of the persons on strike or lockout become indifferent to their obligations and duty; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That Section 5 of Article XIII of the constitution of the American Federation of Labor be amended by striking out four ($4.00) dollars per week for each member and inserting six ($6.00) dollars per week for each member.

Referred to Committee on Laws.

Resolution No. 10—By Delegate Edw. E. Shilling of the Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers International Union:

WHEREAS, A large number of trades and crafts affiliated with the American Federation of Labor have a union label of their own, its use being that of affording a mark of distinction to the purchaser to be used as a guide to the purchasing of union made products; and

WHEREAS, It becomes the duty of each and every union man to use his purchasing power to advance the interests of fair products by purchasing only such products as bear the union label; and

WHEREAS, The Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers International Union has a paper label for trunks and a stamp label for leather goods, which it advertises as a mark of distinction between the union and non-union trunks, bags, suit-cases and leather novelties; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the delegates representing the international, state, central and federated unions, in convention of the American Federation of Labor, assembled in Rochester, November, 1912, will use our utmost endeavor in creating a greater demand for the goods, bearing the label of the Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers International Union; be it further

RESOLVED, That we earnestly request the members of our respective local unions to observe carefully when making purchases of trunks, bags, suit-cases, pocketbooks, belts or other leather novelties, that the purchases made have the union label of the Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers International Union, as none are genuine union made unless the label is there to be seen.

Referred to Committee on Boycotts.

Resolution No. 11—By Delegate Edw. E. Shilling of the Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers International Union:

WHEREAS, Comparatively a small per cent of the workers of our craft are organized in the United States and Canada, and the larger portion of them have to work long hours and under bad conditions for the lack of being organized; and

WHEREAS, This vast number of leather workers is by far the largest contingent of unorganized labor embraced in a single class now in existence; and

WHEREAS, The Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers International Union has organized a certain per cent of this class and increased their wages and shortened their hours to nine hours per day through such organization; and

WHEREAS, The Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers International Union had to withdraw their International President from the pay roll on account of no funds being in the treasury, and as the General President has been acting as the organizer for our craft, and without an organizer being in the field the Travelers' Goods and Leather Novelty Workers Union will soon be on the decline; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor be authorized by this convention to give to our organization assistance in the way of appointing a special organizer for a certain period of time or by giving financial aid for that period.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 12—By Delegate Emmet T. Walls of the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor:

RESOLVED, That we favor embodying the initiative and referendum in the Federal Constitution; we favor a small tax on land values to replace some of the more burdensome tariff taxes on the necessities of life; we urge that the government loan the deposits coming in to the Postal Savings Banks to individuals in small sums, in the communities where the deposits are made, preferably to working people seeking to acquire homes; and we request our delegate to the American Federation of Labor to introduce and support resolutions on these subjects at the annual national convention.

Referred to Committee on Resolutions.

Resolution No. 13—By Delegate George L. Berry, of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union:

RESOLVED, By the Thirty-second Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, that the Executive Council of this Federation be instructed to arrange conferences between the representatives of the various International Unions where there is more than one international membership employed in any given industry, and that every effort by the Executive Council be extended to bring about a federation of such unions to the end that joint action may be assured in all disputes between organized labor and the employing classes.

Referred to Committee on Adjustment.

Resolution No. 14—By Delegation of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union of North America:

WHEREAS, In the lock-out instituted against the members of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union by William Randolph Hearst, in the City of Chicago, and joined later by all members of the Publishers' Association of that City; and,

WHEREAS, It became necessary for the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union to bear the expense of financing the controversy for other organizations that joined in sympathy; and

WHEREAS, The Executive Board of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union requested financial assistance from the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, and an endorsement of their position, and same having been given through the authorization of the issuance of an appeal to organized labor and its sympathizers for financial assistance; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this resolution of thanks submitted by the representatives of the International Printing Pressmen and Assistants' Union to organized labor and its sympathizers throughout the North American continent, be adopted.

Referred to Committee on Adjustment.

Resolution No. 15—By M. M. Donoghue, President Montana State Federation of Labor:

WHEREAS, In the western portion of the state of Montana, there are many thousands of men employed in the lumber industry; and,

WHEREAS, These men were formerly organized under various heads and forms; and,

WHEREAS, They now are thoroughly disorganized, there not being a local union of any kind, connected with this industry in the state of Montana; and,

WHEREAS, We believe that the time is now opportune for the organization of the employes engaged in this industry, under the banner of the A. F. of L.; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. fully consider and grant the request of the Montana State Federation of Labor, and its affiliated locals, that an organizer be specially sent into this district, said organizer to be under the direction of the President of The Montana State Federation of Labor and under salary from the A. F. of L. for a period of not less than four months in each year, not exceeding two years.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 16—By Delegate Milton Snellings of the Washington (D. C.) Central Labor Union:

WHEREAS, The people of the District of Columbia have been deprived of the right of local self-government, and a form of government under which an immense majority have neither voice nor influence has been forced upon them by Congress without their consent; and,

WHEREAS, The present form of government in the capital of the republic—the political heart of the nation—is contrary to the fundamental principles of American liberty, to establish which our revolutionary forefathers pledged their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honor; and,

WHEREAS, The ballot is the workers' most effective weapon, deprived of which they are powerless to redress many of their grievances or to prevent the few from despoiling the many; and,

WHEREAS, The Central Labor Union of Washington, D. C. has repeatedly petitioned the Congress of the United States for the restoration of a republican form of government in the national capital, and has presented a plan for such a form of government; and,

WHEREAS, The people in no other city in this country are deprived of the right and opportunity to express their views and register their will through the ballot box; and,

WHEREAS, Opportunity having been afforded the people of the Federal District on the recent general election day, to express themselves by a "straw ballot," nearly ninety-three per cent of those availing themselves of this opportunity thereby declared that "The people of the District of Columbia should be allowed to vote"; therefore be it,

RESOLVED, That it is the sense of the American Federation of Labor that, while maintaining Federal control of Federal affairs, the Congress should at once re-establish in the District of Columbia a government of the people, by the people and for the people;

RESOLVED, That organized labor throughout the United States, and especially in the District of Columbia, should exert itself to the utmost to promote the enactment of such legislation; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council is hereby directed to lend such aid as they may deem wise and helpful to secure for the citizens of Washington such a change in the form of government.

Referred to Committee on Resolutions.

Resolution No. 17—By Delegates Kline, Kramer and Glover, of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths:

WHEREAS, The St. Louis Convention of the American Federation of Labor acting upon the report of the committee on Adjustment in reference to Resolution 22-81 and which subject matter was referred to the Executive Council and the said Executive Council directed President Gompers and Secretary Morrison to act for them in the matter; and,

WHEREAS, The deputized officers of the Executive Council succeeded in bringing the International officers of the several organizations mentioned in the resolutions together; and,

WHEREAS, The result of this meeting was, that an agreement between all parties concerned was signed on the 19th day of April, 1911, for the purpose of organizing the carriage, wagon and automobile industry, according to the several clauses specified in said agreement; and,

WHEREAS, The agreement entered into has been willfully and grossly violated by the Carriage and Wagon Workers International Union and are guilty of disrupting Unions formerly existing under a charter issued by the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers; and,

WHEREAS, The Carriage and Wagon Workers International Union has repeatedly issued "shop cards" to firms whose plants were not unionized or connected with the Carriage and Wagon Workers Union except probably by one branch of the wagon and automobile industry, namely the woodworker or painter, thus permitting the blacksmith and blacksmith helper to remain at work and outside of any legitimate labor union; and,

WHEREAS, The Carriage and Wagon Workers International Union have taken persons into their ranks for less than one-third the amount specified in Rule 4 of the agreement; and,

WHEREAS, The Carriage and Wagon Workers International Union are not using their best efforts in trying to organize the carriage, wagon and automobile industry, but try to get members already in our organization; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That we, the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers, protest against the methods adopted by the Carriage and Wagon Workers, which is in direct violation of the agreement entered into; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That we, the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers, cease to recognize the further existence of said agreement entered into with the Carriage and Wagon Workers International Union, April 19th, 1911, and purpose to organize the carriage, wagon and automobile industry regardless, but will deal justly with organizations who recognize the value of an agreement and respect jurisdictional lines.

Referred to Committee on Adjustment.

Resolution No. 18—By W. J. Kelly, U. B. of C. and J. of A.:

WHEREAS, The City Firemen's Protective Association of the City of Pittsburgh has been actively engaged in organizing the city firemen, that they may be better enabled to demand better conditions, a more humane mode of living, and that they get the proper recognition for the services they render to their fellow men; and

WHEREAS, We believe that the American Federation of Labor can, by the use of its good offices in this movement, be the means of bettering the conditions of firemen throughout the whole of the United States and thereby disenfranchise thousands of families from the present unnatural mode of living, and give these families an opportunity now denied, of becoming acquainted with their husbands and fathers; and,

WHEREAS, The firemen of the City of Pittsburgh have been organized since 1903 and affiliated with this A. F. of L. and thereby have been enabled (in the face of strenuous opposition on the part of their superiors in the fire department) to better their conditions wonderfully in the past nine years; and

WHEREAS, The fight to organize the city firemen has been and still is an uphill fight and while we have not organized all the members of the Pittsburgh department, but are slowly and steadily winning them to seeing the value of organization because they cannot shut their eyes to the fact that we are from time to time achieving something to better their conditions; and

WHEREAS, The firemen of the City of Pittsburgh lay dormant for twenty years until the rank and file of the department awoke to the fact that there should be something more than serfdom for their lot in life, even though they were servants of the public, therefore, some of the most aggressive and progressive jumped into the fray at the time of an upheaval in this city's politics, and at a, I may say, dangerous time and organized and since have attained more real, good, permanent results than were ever dreamed of by the oldest members of the department; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the officers and organizers of the A. F. of L. be instructed and that they are hereby instructed to take up the question of organizing the fire departments throughout the United States, and lend every assistance towards obtaining better conditions of employment than these firemen have at the present time; and be it further RESOLVED, That the officers and organizers be instructed also to submit a report of their progress along these lines to the next annual convention of the A. F. of L.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 19—By Delegate J. R. Crozier:

WHEREAS, The Carriage, Wagon and Automobile Workers' International Union are making a determined effort to organize this industry throughout the country;

WHEREAS, The finances of this organization will not permit them to put organizers in the field where most needed; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor appoint a special organizer to assist this craft in their struggle against great odds.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 20—By Delegate Henry Prinz:

WHEREAS, The trade union movement is on record for bettering and uplifting the conditions of women wage workers; and

WHEREAS, A great majority of the women wage earners of the state of New York receive far less than living wages; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this convention place itself on record for a statute establishing a minimum wage for women and that the Legislative Committee be instructed to draft a minimum wage bill and have same introduced in the 1913 session of the Legislature.

Our committee reported that the subject matter be referred to the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, for such consideration as they deem best on this subject.

Referred to Committee on Resolutions.

Resolution No. 21—By Delegate John Sinclair, Fish Splitters and Handlers Union No. 14,270:

WHEREAS, The spirit of unionism requires stimulation in Gloucester and vicinity; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the delegates in convention assembled take such action as will result in sending a member of the Executive Council to the City of Gloucester, Mass., sometime during the months of March or April of 1913, to strengthen and stimulate unionism.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 22—By John Henley, Upholsterers' International Union of North America:

WHEREAS, The Carpet Mechanics' Union of San Francisco, Cal., is affiliated with the Building Trades Council of San Francisco, Cal.; and

WHEREAS, The Carpet Mechanics' Union referred to is a dual union and not affiliated with the Upholsterers' International Union of North America, whose jurisdiction covers the carpet layers, cutters, measurers and estimators; and

WHEREAS, Resolutions have been introduced at several conventions of the A. F. of L. by the representative of the Upholsterers' International Union of North America requesting that the Carpet Mechanics of San Francisco affiliate with the Upholsterers' International Union of North America or to be denied affiliation with central bodies affiliated with the A. F. of L.; and

WHEREAS, No action has been taken by the Building Trades Council of San Francisco indicating the compliance with the action requested by the Convention of the A. F. of L. in the case of the union referred to; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to appoint a representative who shall, in conjunction with the representative of the Upholsterers' International Union, confer with the Carpet Mechanics of San Francisco, Cal., for the purpose of inducing them to affiliate with the Upholsterers' International Union; and, be it further RESOLVED, Should the Carpet Mechanics of San Francisco fail to apply for a charter to the Upholsterers' International Union before February 1, 1913, the officers of the American Federation of Labor shall instruct one of their organizers to organize a union of Carpet Mechanics of San Francisco, under the jurisdiction of the Upholsterers' International Union of North America.

Referred to Committee on Adjustment.

At 12:45 the convention was adjourned, to be reconvened at 2 p. m.

Second Day—Tuesday Afternoon Session

The convention was called to order at 2 p. m., Tuesday, November 12th, President Gompers in the chair.

Absentees—Gengenback, Barnes, Fitzgerald (W. H.), Zuckerman, McNulty, Yount, Ford, Feeney, Rickert, Langer, Daley (Margaret), Dyche, Pattberg, Taggart, Bryan, Healey (Dennis), Price, Leary, Crane, Holland, Curran, Weber, Winkler, Rodriguez, Hannah, Murphy, Whitehead, Halpine, Miller (J. F.), Gallagher (T. J.), Paquin, Huddleston, Welch, Tobin, Starr, Young (Wm.), Swick, Brockhausen, Darling, Fitzgerald, Laurentz, Campbell, Sause, Gildden, Landers, Burke, Hicks, Kane, Ferguson, Drackert, Pace, Morgan, Stokes, Simpson, Bates, Cunningham, O'Rourke, Bohm, Waldron, Beckman, Plasterer.

Vice-President Duncan continued reading the report of the Executive Council until it was completed. (See Executive Council's report. Pages 104-179.)

President Gompers—The report of the Executive Council will be printed with today's proceedings and distributed to-morrow morning, at which time reference will be made of the various subjects to the appropriate committees. The Secretary will now read the reference of the various matters in the President's report.

Secretary Morrison read the following list of references:

References of sections of the President's report:

That section under the caption "Citizenship for Porto Ricans" referred to Committee on Resolutions.

That section under the caption "Union Label Trades Department" referred to Committee on Labels.

That section under the caption "Carl Legien's Visit" referred to Committee on President's Report.

Those sections under the captions "Labor Forward Movement," "Organizing Steel Workers," "Migratory Workers" referred to Committee on Organization.

That section under the caption "Arbitration, Mediation and Conciliation (The Erdman Act—Extension of)" referred to Committee on President's Report.

That section under the caption "Labor Day and Labor Sunday" referred to the Committee on Education.

Those sections under the captions "American Federation of Labor Political Campaign—Its Result," "Extension of Eight Hour Law," "The New Eight Hour Law," "Construction by the Government," "Injunction Limitation Bill," "Jury Trial in Contempt Cases," "Seamen's Rights," "Immigration and Chinese Exclusion," "Child Labor and Children's Bureau," "Initiative, Referendum and Recall," "Limit Judges' Tenure," "Popular Election of United States Senators," "Citizenship Rights Restored," "Second Class Postal Rates," "Contract Convict Labor System," "Boiler Inspection," "Scientific Management," "Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation," "Old Age Pensions," "Occupational Diseases," "Anti-Watered Stock Gambling" referred to Committee on President's Report.

That section under the caption "Wider Use of the Schools" referred to the Committee on Education.

That section under the caption "American Federation of Labor Exhibit at San Francisco, 1915" referred to the Committee on Labels.

That section under the caption "Organizers" referred to the Committee on Organization.

Those sections under the captions "Labor Press," "American Federationist" referred to the Committee on Education.

Delegate Gallagher (A. J.)—I may be out of order at this time, but the Executive Council in its report mentions the revocation of the charter of the Alameda County body and makes reference to committees of dual organizations on the Pacific Coast. The decision of the Executive Council will be appealed from. I now rise to ask that the proof your Executive Council has been brought here, if it is not here now. It will be called for, I believe, when the discussion comes on the appeal that will be made.

Supplemental Report of Committee on Credentials.

Delegate McDonald, Secretary of the Committee, reported as follows:

During the day some credentials have been presented that the committee has not had time to act on. They will be taken up later and another report made. Following is the partial report we now desire to submit:

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 12, 1912.

To the Officers and Members of the Thirtieth Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor:

Your Committee on Credentials desires to make a further partial report:

We recommend the seating of John H. Mallin, representing the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, with 35 votes.

On the request of the United Association of Plumbers, Gas and Steam Fitters, we recommend that E. W. Leonard be seated as delegate from the United Association in the place of James Malley.

On the request of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, we recommend the seating of W. T. Brown as delegate from the Railroad Telegraphers, in the place of C. A. Mulhall.

On the matter of the protest filed by the International Association of Machinists against the seating of the delegates from the American Flint Glass Workers Union, your committee gave both parties in interest a hearing, and after listening to the arguments presented, have decided that under Section 6, Article 4 of the constitution of the A. F. of L., they could not be seated. Said article provides as follows:

Sec. 6. No organization shall be entitled to representation unless such organization has applied for and obtained a certificate of affiliation at least one month prior to the convention, and no person shall be recognized as a delegate who is not a member in good standing of the organization he is elected to represent.

Owing to the fact that the charter to the American Flint Glass Workers Union was granted on October 21, 1912, the organization has not been affiliated one month, and your committee recommends that they be not seated.

Credentials have been presented to the committee from John Mangan and J. T. Kinsella, representing the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers of America. The seats of the above named delegates have been contested by John R. Alpine, President of the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters Helpers. Your committee gave both sides a full hearing. President Alpine, in presenting his protest, cited the action of the Atlanta Convention, which instructed the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. to bring about an amalgamation of the two organizations, and the subsequent action of the Executive Council on this matter. The representatives of the International Association of Steam, Hot Water and Power Pipe Fitters claimed that Section 12, Article 9 of the Constitution of the A. F. of L., which provides as follows, had not been complied with:

Sec. 12. The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor shall only have power to revoke the charters of an affiliated national or international union when the revocation has been ordered by a two-thirds majority of a regular Convention of the American Federation of Labor by a roll call vote.

The representatives of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters also claimed that they had not been notified to turn in their charter. Both sides presented able arguments before the committee. On account of the complications in connection with this matter, and believing that the matter will in all probability be discussed on the floor of the convention, no matter what action the committee should take, we refer the matter of seating John Mangan and Thomas Kinsella as delegates from the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers, to the convention, without recommendation, with the hope that this long drawn out controversy will be settled in this Convention for all time.

In the case of the protest of the United Association of Plumbers, Gas and Steam Fitters against the seating of Edward H. Mead, representing the Hudson County, N. J., Central Labor Union, your committee is of the opinion that the action of the convention on the protest entered against the credentials of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers by the United Association of Plumbers, Gas and Steam Fitters, will decide the case of the representative of the Hudson County, N. J., Central Labor Union, he being a member of the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters, for which reason the protest was entered, and your committee recommends that whatever decision applies in the case of the credentials presented by the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers, shall apply in the case of Edward H. Mead, representing the Hudson County Central Labor Union.

Respectfully submitted,

EDW. J. MARX, Chairman.

W. A. NEER,

DUNCAN McDONALD, Secretary.

Delegate Bonner (W. J.)—I move you that the report of the committee be received and the delegates seated. (Seconded.)

Treasurer Lennon—I offer as a substitute for the motion that the report of the committee, so far as no contests appear, be approved and the remainder be taken up seriatim. (Seconded.)

The substitute was accepted by the mover of the original motion, and was carried by a unanimous vote.

Delegate McDonald, Secretary of the Committee, read the report on the protest of the International Association of Machinists against the seating of the delegates of the American Flint Glass Workers' Union.

Delegate Van Lear moved concurrence in the report of the committee. (Seconded.)

Delegate Williams (J.)—I move that the report of the committee be received, that we suspend Section 6 of Article 4 of the Constitution, and seat the representatives of the American Flint Glass Workers' Union. (Seconded.)

Vice-President Duncan, in discussing the question, said in part: The constitution provides how it shall be changed, but there is nothing in the constitution that authorizes the convention to suspend any part of it. It is true the American Federation of Labor is greater than its constitution, because it may change it; but except when the American Federation of Labor is changing its constitution the constitution is greater than the American Federation of Labor. If the American Federation of Labor cannot conform to the provisions of its own constitution it has no right to expect any affiliated body will be respectful towards the provisions of the constitution.

The information I desire from the committee is this: As I understand it, the protest of the Machinists against seating the Flint Glass Workers is not because a month has not elapsed since they got their charter, but on jurisdiction lines. There is a clear way out of the difficulty if the committee is satisfied and can report to this convention that, inasmuch as the jurisdiction question is concerned, there may be no objection to the seating of the delegates of the Flint Glass Workers. It is true a month will not have elapsed until about the 21st of November. After that time they will be entitled to a seat. If, therefore, the report of the committee means there is nothing against the seating of the Flint Glass Workers but the fact that a month has not elapsed since the issuing of the charter, the matter might remain in abeyance until the 21st of this month when the delegates can be seated. That is not a new policy; it has been followed out in two or three instances.

Delegate McDonald—The committee took into consideration only constitutional points. If there is any constitutional matter connected with the granting of the charter it is outside the work of this committee. Whether the Executive Council erred in granting the charter was not our affair. Our affair was to decide on the constitution as laid down, and it distinctly says, "No organization shall be entitled to representation unless such organization has applied for and obtained certificate of affiliation at least one month prior to the convention." It may be a precedent has been established, but the constitution does not provide for that.

The committee considered this provision of the constitution. It does not say they can come in late in the convention and be seated. The committee did everything possible to get the parties together, because we wanted the Flint Glass Workers seated. Under the terms of the constitution, however, we could take no position other than the one we have taken.

Delegate Johnston, in discussing the question, said in part: Our grounds for protesting the credentials of the Flint Glass Workers were for the reason that they had not been affiliated with this organization the time required by the constitution, and for the further reason that, in our judgment, the Executive Council erred in granting the charter, which is, of course, not a subject to be discussed here. If the constitution means anything it means everything and it should not be suspended at the suggestion of any man. There may be established precedents in this matter, but I hope you will not be guided by precedents. We are not following dead men; we are living in a progressive age; and if the convention has erred in the past it is no reason, in my judgment, why we should continue to err. If the constitution is not right then let us change it in the proper manner.

Delegate McCullough (T. W.) called attention to the fact that the section read "unless such organization has applied for and obtained a certificate of affiliation," and asked if the matter dated back to the time of the application or from the time of the issuance of the charter. He referred to the fact that the charter of the Flint Glass Workers' Union had been held up through no fault of the applicants, and stated that he did not think any delegate would desire to exclude them from representation in the convention on a mere technicality, and that a reasonable construction of the constitution would give the organization the benefit of the time that had elapsed after the application for a charter had been made.

Treasurer Lennon in discussing the question said: They made application in ample time and the Council was restrained from issuing the charter because we were directed by the Minneapolis convention that a certain thing must be done before the charter was issued. And when that thing was done, when that agreement was reached with the Glass Bottle Blowers, it then became the duty of the Executive Council to issue the charter, and I say that the law, so far as it applies to this case, is governed by the matter of the application of the Flints for the charter, not the mere issuance of the document, and the law does not apply in this case as it would apply had the application come in within thirty days.

Delegate Hayes (D. A.), in discussing the question, said in part: Treasurer Lennon covered the point I desired to make. Our convention last August telegraphed the Executive Council while in session in Atlantic City that the terms of the agreement made last April at Pittsburg with the Flint Glass Workers Union had been carried out and we therefore withdrew our protest against their affiliation. Then the Machinists put in a protest. Their protest came in after the Flint Union had made its application. I approve of the sentiments expressed by former speakers in regard to the applicants being seated in this convention. The principle at issue between the Flint Glass Workers and the Glass Bottle Blowers was vital; it meant the preservation of our union. The danger has been overcome, the cause removed and the dispute settled.

Delegate Barnes (J. M.)—I do not believe there is time to amend the constitution as the motion provides, but since hearing Delegate Hayes' and Delegate Lennon's opinion on the subject, I rise to amend that the Flint Glass Workers' delegates be seated. (Seconded.)

Delegate Woll raised a point of order on the amendment offered by Delegate Williams and the amendment offered by Delegate Barnes. He stated that the provisions of the constitution did not provide for its suspension.

President Gompers stated that two points of order could not be considered at one time, and ruled that the point raised on the amendment of Delegate Williams was well taken.

Delegate Walker (J. H.) stated that under ordinary circumstances he would favor the report of the committee, but, inasmuch as the law was enacted to cover entirely different cases, he would favor the seating of the delegates of the Flint Glass Workers' Union. He stated that under the circumstances he felt no law would be violated by seating them, and the best interests, not only of the Flint Glass Workers, but of the two organizations that had disputes with them would be served by that course.

Delegate Lynch (J. M.)—In order that the precedent, if established, may be established clearly, I move that the section of the constitution referred to in the report of the committee be interpreted to mean the time of application, and that the Flint Glass Workers be seated.

President Gompers made an extended statement, and said in part: The American Flint Glass Workers' Union had its representatives at the birth of the Federation in 1881 at Pittsburgh and remained in affiliation until seven or eight years ago. A dispute arose between them and the Glass Bottle Blowers Union. Because a decision was rendered unsatisfactory to the Flints they withdrew from the Federation. Six years ago at the Minneapolis Convention the Flints made application for affiliation. The Executive Council decided that provided certain provisions were complied with, in accordance with the decision of the council, a charter would be issued. A promise was made by the Flint Glass Workers' representatives that they would comply. The matter was reported to the Convention later and the Convention endorsed the position of the Council. The Council believed it better to have compliance prior to the issuance of the charter. The application has been pending all these years. Several conferences were held by the representatives of both the contending organizations and the representatives of the American Federation of Labor. The contention was not settled until early in this year.

At the convention of the Glass Bottle Blowers, an agreement having been reached between that organization and the Flint Glass Workers, satisfactory to both, in which the questions at issue were settled to the satisfaction of both, the Convention instructed the President of the Glass Bottle Blowers to immediately telegraph the Executive Council of the American Federation that, inasmuch as an agreement had been reached and the decision of the Executive Council complied with by the Flint Glass Workers Union, therefore the Glass Bottle Blowers Union withdrew its protest against the issuance of the charter. The Executive Council would have immediately ordered the issuance of that charter but objection was interposed on the part of the International Association of Machinists. The Executive Council feels it would have been justified in issuing that charter there and then, by reason of the fact that the Convention instructed the Executive Council to issue the charter whenever the Flint Glass Workers Union complied with the decision; but the Council believed an effort ought to be made to bring the Machinists and the Flint Glass Workers representatives together to see whether those differences could not be adjusted. A conference was called, but they failed to agree. In view of the fact that nothing could be done to effect an adjustment of their differences, the Executive Council felt it had no alternative but to comply with the decision of the Convention and issue the charter.

As to the question of their representation to-day, it is a question for the Convention to decide by its vote, to interpret the law by its vote, rather than through a direct motion. As was stated here to-day, the provision of the constitution referred to was enacted for a purpose, and that was that some interloper might not come to this convention under the guise of representing an organization perhaps organized for a purpose in entire contravention to the purposes of the American labor movement. It never was contemplated that it would act as an estoppel for a bona fide organization of a trade such as the American Flint Glass Workers' Union.

Delegate Woll—I move you that we interpret the issuance of the charter to the American Flint Glass Workers Union as having applied to the time they complied with the instruction of the Executive Council at their convention, and that the Committee on Credentials be instructed to bring in a report accordingly.

Delegate Tracy (T. F.)—I move that the report of the committee be non-concurred in and that the delegates from the American Flint Glass Workers Union be seated in this convention. (Seconded).

Delegate Barnes—I will accept that.

Delegate Egan discussed the question briefly, and Delegate McDonald made a short statement for the committee.

On motion debate was closed.

The motion offered by Delegate Tracy was carried by a vote of 177 in the affirmative to 29 in the negative.

Secretary McDonald read the report of the committee on the protest offered by the United Association of Plumbers, Gas Fitters, Steam Fitters and Steam Fitters' Helpers against the seating of John Mangam and J. T. Kinsella as delegates from the International Association of Steam and Hot Water Fitters and Helpers.

Delegate Carolan—I move that the report of the committee be received and the delegates of the International Association seated. (Seconded).

Vice President Duncan—I offer as a substitute to the motion, as the subject matter was dealt with in the report of the Executive Council to-day and will be in printed form for all the delegates to see to-morrow, that consideration of the subject be deferred until 10 o'clock to-morrow when all the information will be in the hands of the delegates. (Seconded and carried).

Resolution No. 23—By Delegates W. D. Huber, Frank Duffy, Fred C. Wheeler, A. M. Swartz, D. F. Featherston, William J. Kelly, W. E. Hemsell, of the U. B. of C. and J. of A.:

WHEREAS, The United Trades and Labor Council of Buffalo, N. Y., has illegally and in violation of the laws of the A. F. of L. seated in said central body a dual union of millwrights unaffiliated with the U. B. of C. and J. of C.; also two local branches of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters, a dual organization of electrical workers, and representatives of the Amalgamated Wood Workers; and

WHEREAS, The matter relative to this rump organization of Millwrights has occupied the attention of several conventions of A. F. of L., and representatives have been deputized to investigate charges made by U. B. and said central body has always denied to said representatives that this rump organization was represented in the central body, further that these investigations were positively one sided, the complainants never being considered in the investigations; and since the reaffiliation of the U. B. in Central and B. T. Dept., we find delegates from these dual organizations seated in both bodies, and upon objections of U. B. delegates to the seating of dual and unaffiliated organizations, the representatives of said central body openly defied the A. F. of L. to discipline them; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this 32d Annual Convention of the A. F. of L. do at once order the United Trades and Labor Council of Buffalo, N. Y., to unseat the dual, and all local unions whose national or international are not affiliated with the A. F. of L.; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That failure upon the part of the U. T. and L. C. of Buffalo, N. Y., to comply with the action of this 32d Annual Convention, within thirty days from adjournment, that the charter of the United Trades and Labor Council shall stand revoked, without further action, and immediate action taken to reorganize a central body of bona fide trades affiliated with the A. F. of L.

Referred to Committee on Adjustment.

Resolution No. 24—By Delegate Manny Weiss of the Sugar Refinery Employees Union No. 13,053, Yonkers, N. Y.:

WHEREAS, The Sugar Refinery Employees Union No. 13,053 of Yonkers, N. Y., has and does hold a charter of the A. F. of L. for the past two years; and

WHEREAS, There are between 75,000 and 90,000 unorganized men in this industry throughout the United States, who are only too anxious to be organized; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this convention instructs its officers and organizers to do everything within their power to organize the men in this industry.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 25—By Delegates A. W. Wharton, William H. Johnston, Thomas Van Lear, P. W. Buckley, B. H. Lamb of the I. A. of M.; William P. Hannon of the Sacramento, Cal., Federated Trades and Labor Assembly; Edward V. Wood of the Syracuse (N. Y.) Central Trades and Labor Assembly; J. W. Holder of the Florida State Federation of Labor; R. L. Corley of the Georgia State Federation of Labor; J. J. Keane of the Trades and Labor Assembly, Savannah, Ga.:

WHEREAS, It has been very forcibly brought to the attention of a number of delegates attending the 32d Annual Convention of the A. F. of L. that Section 11 of Article 9 has not been complied with by the President and Executive Council inasmuch as they granted a charter to the American Flint Glass Workers Union on October 21, 1912, notwithstanding that the issuance of this charter was protested by the International Association of Machinists, said protest being based upon the fundamental law of the A. F. of L., which guarantees protection to affiliated organizations in the maintenance of jurisdiction as per their charter rights; and

WHEREAS, The charter granted to the American Flint Glass Workers Union concedes this organization jurisdiction over all mould makers; and

WHEREAS, Mould making is a class of work, the entire product of which is of metal construction, requiring the use of machinery and tools and a well-equipped machine shop; and

WHEREAS, The American Flint Glass Workers Union is composed of men engaged in the making of glassware, which is a separate and distinct operation in connection with the completion of the article manufactured, the comparison being as between a pattern maker and a moulder; and,

WHEREAS, The granting of a charter to any organization claiming jurisdiction over work which would be a trespass on the jurisdiction of existing affiliated unions is in direct violation of law; and

WHEREAS, Such action not only fails to bring about the solution of the question at issue, but establishes a more serious state of affairs; and

WHEREAS, This organization that has now been granted a charter withdrew from the A. F. of L. some ten years since because of differences arising and their unwillingness to abide by the laws of the A. F. of L. and no assurance that they would not do so again; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By this convention that the President and Executive Council are hereby instructed to immediately revoke the charter illegally granted by them to the American Flint Glass Workers Union on October 21, 1912, and thus protect the affiliated unions in their charter rights and maintain the integrity of our laws.

Referred to Committee on Adjustment.

Resolution No. 26—By William P. Hannon, Sacramento, Cal., Federal Trades and Labor Assembly; M. F. Ryan, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen; J. W. Kline, Brotherhood of Blacksmiths; William H. Johnston, A. V. Wharton, International Association of Machinists; J. A. Franklin, Brotherhood of Boilermakers; M. O'Sullivan, Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers:

WHEREAS, The Machinists, Boilermakers, blacksmiths, sheet metal workers, railway carmen, pipe fitters, railway clerks, painters, electricians and other shop employees of the Harriman and Illinois Central Railroad lines have been on strike on the above mentioned lines for the past fourteen months; and,

WHEREAS, Despite the fact that all efforts to bring about a settlement of the strike by the international officers of the various unions have been unsuccessful up to the present time, it has been demonstrated that the strike has proven to have been most effective; and

WHEREAS, Among those on strike are many unskilled men who belong to the federal labor unions and many who are not members of any organization; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this, the 32d Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor does hereby approve of the gallant struggle being waged by the members of these organizations and extends to them our moral support in their efforts to secure the shorter work-day and other favorable working conditions; and be it

RESOLVED, That the convention urge the national and international organizations affiliated with the A. F. of L. to render all financial aid possible to the strikers on the Harriman and Illinois Central Railroad lines until such time as an amicable adjustment of the questions at issue have been reached.

Referred to Committee on Resolutions.

Resolution No. 27—By Delegate Edwin S. Burns of Logansport Trades and Labor Assembly;

WHEREAS, We recognize the trade union as the legitimate agency through which the working class will secure the just rights of labor; and

WHEREAS, There exists in many localities a wrong apprehension and misconception of the true purposes and aims of the American Federation of Labor, thereby causing confusion among the membership, and tends to create a wrong impression as to the legitimate intent and purpose of the parent body, and as this unsatisfactory condition is an impediment to the growth of our organization and our influence for progress among the toilers; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council at the earliest possible date take up the question of arranging for lecture courses to be held under the auspices of the central bodies of organized labor holding charters from the American Federation of Labor throughout the United States, Canada and our insular possessions, said lecture course to be held during the winter months from January to April of each year; and be it

RESOLVED, That the salaries and traveling expenses of said lecturers be borne by the American Federation of Labor and all local expense, such as hall rent, advertising, etc., be paid by the local central bodies where such lectures are held.

Referred to Committee on Education.

Resolution No. 28—By Delegate J. P. Coughlin of Brooklyn Central Labor Union;

WHEREAS, The Central Labor Union of Brooklyn and Queens, New York, composed of local unions of the A. F. of L., are enforcing a regulation that no delegate be seated who has not the union label on his clothing, hat, shoes, etc.; and

WHEREAS, This body has made an exhaustive investigation as to the conditions under which the union label of the Journeymen Tailors Union is being issued; and

WHEREAS, We find that the label of the Journeymen Tailors Union does not cover all branches of the industry, as the cutters and helpers are non-union men and women; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That this Convention condemn the method of the Journeymen Tailors Union in placing their label on a product that is not strictly union made; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Executive Council be instructed to send copies of these resolutions to all state and central bodies of labor.

Referred to Committee on Labels.

Resolution No. 29—By Delegate Thomas J. Curtis of Tunnel and Subway Constructors International Union of North America;

WHEREAS, It is an indisputable fact, that the work performed by the members of the International Union of Compressed Air Workers is identical in every particular with that of the International Union of Tunnel and Subway Constructors, including similarity of tools; and

WHEREAS, We, the International Union of Tunnel and Subway Constructors, believe that the best interests of the workers in both of these vocations can be best conserved by the joining and amalgamating of the two organizations into one compact and solid organization; and

WHEREAS, The International Union of Compressed Air Workers have expressed a desire to so join and amalgamate with the International Union of Tunnel and Subway Constructors; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That this 32d Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor assembled at Rochester, N. Y., November, 1912, direct the Executive Council to at once adopt such measures and plans as will bring about this desired result in the interest of the members of both organizations, thereby concentrating the power and effort in that industry and calling.

Referred to Committee on Adjustment.

Resolution No. 30—By Delegate Sol Sontheimer, Hartford, Conn., C. L. U.;

WHEREAS, There exists in the city of Hartford a condition in the labor movement wholly at variance to the best interests of the movement, to wit: In this city there is a Central Labor Union, working under a charter of the American Federation of Labor, living up to and abiding by the rules, laws and regulations of the American Federation of Labor; there also exists an independent organization known as the Building Structural Alliance, composed of the Brotherhood of Joiners and Carpenters, United Association of Journeymen Plumbers, an independent Union of Mason Tenders and the Bricklayers Union, all the other building trades crafts being affiliated with the Hartford Central Labor Union, which has perfected a Building Trades Council, but for unknown reasons the aforesaid unions refuse to affiliate with the council recognized by the American Federation of Labor; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That, we the delegates in convention assembled, request the Executive Council to use their best endeavors, with the national and international unions, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, to request their local unions to affiliate themselves with central labor unions, which are chartered under the American Federation of Labor to the end, that the deplorable situation existing in Hartford, Conn., may be brought to a speedy end.

Referred to Committee on Building Trades.

Resolution No. 31—By Delegates C. L. Shamp and George E. Norman representing the Nebraska State Federation of Labor and the Omaha, Nebraska, Central Labor Union:

WHEREAS, In the state of Nebraska there are thousands of unorganized wage workers of different trades and callings who, we believe, could be organized if visited by an organizer; and

WHEREAS, The Nebraska State Federation of Labor has at all times spent all the means at their command to organize the unorganized, but are not in a position to maintain organizers to cover only a portion of the territory that should be covered; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the incoming Executive Council be and is hereby instructed to at the earliest possible date place an organizer in the state of Nebraska and keep him there as long as he can organize the unorganized wage workers, and the Nebraska State Federation of Labor pledges itself to lend said organizer all the possible assistance it can to the end that all of the unorganized wage workers of the state be organized if possible in unions of their respective trades and callings.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 32—By Delegate George E. Norman, Omaha, Neb., C. L. U.:

WHEREAS, The Building Trades Council of Omaha, Neb., is not chartered by the Building Trades Department of the A. F. of L.; and,

WHEREAS, The conditions in the building trades of that city is very unsatisfactory to the C. L. U. and hindering it in improving the conditions of the workman of Omaha; therefore, be it RESOLVED, That this convention request the Building Trades Department of the A. F. of L. to send a representative to Omaha, Neb., at an early date to organize a local Building Trades Council under the Building Trades Department of the A. F. of L., and in conformity with the laws of the A. F. of L.

Referred to Committee on Building Trades.

Resolution No. 33—By Delegate Wesley Russell of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union:

WHEREAS, Commercial telegraphers are among the pioneers in the labor movement of this country; first organized in 1864, they have struggled nearly fifty years for the right to organize and to build up a strong union of their craft, striking in defense of their rights in 1870, 1883 and 1907; and

WHEREAS, They were probably the earliest organized craftsmen to feel the effects of monopolistic power, being opposed from 1866 by a powerful corporation having an almost complete monopoly; control of which corporation has now passed to the telephone trust, making a combination of capital aggregating five hundred million dollars, second in size only to the notorious steel trust; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled, that this half-century fight of the commercial telegraphers for a principle deserves our hearty commendation and support, and that the membership of the present union, organized in 1902, and the longest lived in the history of the craft, may be encouraged to persevere in their struggle to ultimate victory, the Executive Council is hereby requested to instruct its organizers, city, central and state bodies, to make especial effort during the ensuing year to bring all commercial telegraphers into the Commercial Telegraphers Union of America.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 34—By Delegate R. J. McGrath, Iron City Central Trades Council:

WHEREAS, Organizers are at all times needed in the different districts throughout the country for the purpose of helping to organize more thoroughly the different organizations and adjusting grievances; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the officers of the A. F. of L. instruct its organizers to have a certain headquarters in all cities where they can be reached without difficulty when wanted for assistance by any organization affiliated with the A. F. of L.; and be it further RESOLVED, That all organizations in any city affiliated with the A. F. of L. be notified of said headquarters.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 35—By E. Lewis Evans, of the Tobacco Workers International Union:

WHEREAS, The trade union label is one of the vital instruments in advancement of the interests of the labor movement; and

WHEREAS, It is the effort on the part of every trade unionist to give the greatest possible publicity to the union label, so as to indelibly impress it upon the mind of the consuming public; and

WHEREAS, A number of state federations and central bodies have established a principle of requiring the delegates representing the various trades to stand an examination for efficiency as a delegate and be able to show that he has at least a reasonable number of labels about his person; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor heartily commends the state federations and central bodies that have already adopted this principle as part of the efficiency of a representative from a local union affiliated; be it further

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled in Rochester urges the extension of the aforesaid principle and that all state federations and central bodies establish by legislation a requirement that all delegates must be able to pass an examination which requires an exhibit of not less than three labels on or about his person.

Referred to Committee on Local and Federated Bodies.

Resolution No. 36—By E. Lewis Evans of the Tobacco Workers' International Union:

WHEREAS, The products of union and non-union labor are in severe competition with each other in the market; and

WHEREAS, It is the duty of all the union workers to increase the sale of union labeled products as much as possible; and

WHEREAS, The Tobacco Workers among the other trades have adopted a union label to give distinction between the fair and unfair brands of tobacco, snuff and cigarettes offered for sale; and

WHEREAS, A larger consumption of the union label brands of tobacco, snuff and cigarettes is necessary to the continued betterment of the conditions of the Tobacco Workers; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That it is the sense of all members of the American Federation of Labor that a greater measure of patronage should be given to the brands of tobacco, snuff and cigarettes bearing the union label; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That inasmuch as tobacco, snuff and cigarettes bearing the union label are on sale in all cities and towns in the United States and Canada, the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled in Rochester, New York, hereby pledges itself to the duty of creating a greater demand for union labeled tobacco, snuff and cigarettes by purchasing only such brands as do bear the Blue Label, accepting nothing as a substitute, the dealers' persuasive powers to the contrary notwithstanding.

Referred to Committee on Labels.

Resolution No. 37—By Delegate O. L. Preble of the Rhode Island Branch of the A. F. of L.:

WHEREAS, The state of Rhode Island has within its bounds a large number of manufacturing establishments, among which are many textile and jewelry plants, the employees of which are to a great extent unorganized and working under very poor conditions; and

WHEREAS, In the state of Rhode Island is a city which in size is about the eighteenth in the United States, namely Providence, and is centrally located in a thickly populated part of the country, being within an hour's ride of nearly two million people; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, By the American Federation of Labor in regular convention assembled, that we establish a permanent office in the city of Providence, R. I., and place one of our organizers in charge of the same, with instructions to work in that locality and use every honorable means to aid in building up the now existing organizations, to organize the unorganized and assist them in maintaining their organizations, to the end that better conditions of employment may obtain for the workers in that locality and that the influence of organized labor under the banner of the American Federation of Labor Day may be still further increased.

Referred to Committee on Organization.

Resolution No. 38—By Frank Scoby and James Doyle of the Coopers' International Union:

WHEREAS, At a convention of the Coopers' International Union, held at St. Louis in September, 1912, it was deemed advisable to establish a repair label, the same to be placed on all beer and ale cooperage that has been repaired by members of the Coopers' International Union; and

WHEREAS, Through the process of repairing beer kegs and barrels, the union label that is placed on the bung stave where the package is newly made, is removed when a broken bung stave is replaced by a new stave; thereby leaving the package without any guarantee that such was made by union men and under union conditions; and,

WHEREAS, In justice to the patrons who at all times insist that only union made packages shall be used to supply their needs; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That we, the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled, do hereby endorse the beer barrel repair label of the Coopers' International Union and call on all members and friends of organized labor to see to it that the repair label is placed on new heads and staves when such packages are placed upon the market.

Facsimile of repair stamp.

Referred to Committee on Labels.

At 5 p. m. the convention was adjourned, to reconvene at 9.30 a. m., Wednesday, November 13th.

Report of Executive Council

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 12, 1912

To the Officers and Delegates of the Thirty-second Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor:

Greeting: One of the duties devolving upon, and which is the privilege of, the Executive Council, is the submission at each convention of a report of the more important matters to which attention has been given during the year. To attempt to touch upon all of the many subjects with which we have dealt since the adjournment of the last annual convention, would make our report too voluminous for your time. Therefore, in coming before you now with this, our report to the Thirty-second Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor, we shall endeavor to be as brief as the importance of the various subjects contained herein will permit.

The Executive Council has held six meetings since we last met in convention, as follows: November 27, 1911; January 8-13; May 17-22; August 12-21; October 18-23; and November 9-10, the last meeting having been held in this city previous to the opening of this Convention.

Our President submitted by mail to the Executive Council during the year 88 documents dealing with various matters, some of the most important of which we shall make part of this report.

In view of the engrossing and immediate work of the Convention, not only during its actual sessions, but in committee meetings, the members of the E. C. being required to serve upon committees, as well as to perform their full share of the work on the floor and in the proceedings of the convention, the hope is entertained that, so far as consistent with the necessity, the urgency or importance of the subjects which you may desire to lay before the Executive Council, that all such matters may be kept until the meeting which we shall undoubtedly hold immediately after the adjournment of this Convention.

Charters Granted.

For the fiscal year of 1911-1912 we issued charters to 2 national and international unions as follows:

Diamond Workers Protective Union of America.

Fraternity of Railway Express Messengers of America.

We also issued charters to 1 department, 2 State federations of labor, 57 central labor unions, 149 local trade unions of which there are no national or international unions of the trades represented, and where there were an insufficient number of workmen of any one trade to form a local trade union we issued charters to 49 federal labor unions.

We are proud of the record thus made, the organizations formed, the charters issued, the increase in membership of affiliated unions, but we are also proud to say that some applications for charters have been denied. We insist that an organization must be bona fide in character and purpose before it may be afforded the privilege of being recognized as one among the great family of trade unions under the head of our Federation.

Again, other applications are being held pending adjustment of jurisdictional claims with other organizations.

Attention should be here called to the folder issued at headquarters in which is published a chart showing the growth of the Federation since its beginning in 1881. Copies of these can be secured upon request at our Washington headquarters. The chart is also printed in the official proceedings of the Atlanta Convention, 1911.

Despite the heavy obstacles our Federation has had to overcome during the year, its growth has not been retarded, but it has steadily advanced as evidenced by the reports already submitted to you by our President, Secretary and Treasurer.

Extension of Jurisdiction.

TAILORS

Upon the application of the Journeymen Tailors for extension of jurisdiction over cleaners, pressers and dyers, the application was granted and the local unions of these workers directly affiliated to the A. F. of L. were transferred to the jurisdiction of that organization.

METAL POLISHERS

We approved the application of the Metal Polishers, Buffers, Platers and Brass Workers' International Union of North America for change in title so as to include silver workers, the title of that organization now reading "Metal Polishers, Buffers, Platers, Brass and Silver Workers' Union of North America."

GLOVE WORKERS

The application of the International Glove Workers for jurisdiction over cloth glove workers was granted.

BLACKSMITHS

Your Executive Council also approved the application of the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths for jurisdiction over chain makers.

TILE LAYERS

Upon the application of the Ceramic, Mosaic and Encaustic Tile Layers and Helpers' International Union, the local unions of marble and mosaic workers directly affiliated to the A. F. of L. were transferred to the jurisdiction of that organization.

HOD CARRIERS

By Resolution No. 129 of the Atlanta Convention, the International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers Union of America made application for extension of jurisdiction over "common laborers" employed in the construction of streets, sewers and tunnels. A thorough investigation was made of the matter through correspondence with each local laborers' union and Federal Labor Union affiliated directly with the A. F. of L. From the information gained through that correspondence we deemed it to be the best interests of this particular class of workers that the application should be granted, and that organization is now recognized under the title of "Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers' International Union."

BREWERY WORKERS

The International Union of United Brewery Workmen made application for extension of jurisdiction so as to include Distillery Workers. A conference is to be held during this convention between the representatives of that organization and the representatives of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen and the Coopers' International Union of North America. We hope later, during this convention, to make a report as to the result of this conference.

CARRIAGE WORKERS

Application of the International Union of Carriage and Wagon Workers for change in title so as to read "International Union of Carriage, Wagon and Automobile Workers of North America" was granted, it being understood that the jurisdiction of this international union under its newly adopted title should conform to the agreement entered into at the Atlanta Convention of the A. F. of L. between the Carriage and Wagon Workers', the Blacksmiths', the Upholsterers' and the Painters' organizations.

We trust that the course we have taken in these matters will be given your endorsement and approval.

Bricklayers' and Masons' International Union.

Obedying the instructions given by you at our last Convention that the Bricklayers and Masons should again be invited to affiliate with the A. F. of L., we authorized President Gompers and Mr. James Short, President of the Building Trades Department of the A. F. of L., to attend the Convention of the Bricklayers' and Masons' International Union, then in session at St. Joseph, Missouri, and as duly appointed representatives of the A. F. of L., to urge the affiliation of that organization with the Federation. Important matters in connection with our movement having arisen to prevent President Gompers attending the Convention, he addressed a letter to the officers and delegates of that Convention, which President Short submitted.

President Short was cordially received, read President Gompers' letter and addressed the Convention. The matter of affiliation was thereafter ordered to be submitted to a referendum vote, which thus far has not been taken, but we are advised that the matter will be submitted to a referendum vote of the membership in the very near future.

Unaffiliated Organizations.

Our Federation was organized in 1881. It has ever, without diversion, served the cause of labor. It has demonstrated its right to existence. It has earned the good will and confidence of the people, and particularly the working people of our continent. Its work, its achievements, are known and recognized abroad. Other movements inaugurated in behalf of the toilers have degenerated, have been diverted into improper channels, have been destroyed, but our Federation has stood the acid test of time for the thirty-two years of its life and demonstrated its service to the toilers. It can be made of immeasurably more help by greater unity, extension and federation.

We have continued our efforts to secure the affiliation of those national bodies of wage earners which have thus far not identified themselves with our Federation. Advances have been made and invitations extended to them to join the A. F. of L. It is the policy of our Federation to pursue a consistent course toward all unions even though they are not affiliated. It respects their jurisdiction and refrains from chartering any union which would intrench upon their territory. In pursuance of this policy, President Gompers on May 17, upon the invitation of its officers, attended and addressed the Convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers at Harrisburg, Pa. His address to the Convention was published in the July, 1912, issue of the official journal of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Vice-President Perham addressed the Convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen at Minneapolis, and he, President Gompers and several other members of the Executive Council addressed several conventions of affiliated internationals, namely: Vice-President O'Connell, the Convention of the Molders at Milwaukee; President Gompers and Vice-President Alpine the Granite Cutters at Quincy; Secretary Morrison the Garment Workers at Toronto; and President Gompers and Vice-President Alpine the Carpenters and Joiners at Washington.

We believe that if it were possible to make more frequent addresses to the conventions of international unions, a better understanding of trade unionism and a greater spirit of unity and fraternity would result, much to the advantage of the general labor movement and to the great interests of the toilers in general.

In connection with the subject of the attitude of the international unions unaffiliated to the American Federation of Labor, we are impelled to call attention to the fact that generally members of unaffiliated internationals work with the members of affiliated internationals, enjoying advantages and receiving protection from comradeship and co-operation. We hold that such advantages and benefits carry with them duties and responsibilities. The members of unaffiliated unions enjoy much of the prestige of our movement or they share in every advantage secured on the economic field, as well as by laws enacted through the efforts of the American Federation of Labor. They should share in the performance of the work and in the duties and the responsibilities. The question of moral rights and moral obligations in the labor movement is also involved, for it logically follows that the deprivation of the right to hold aloof and remain apart from the American Federation of Labor involves the very same principle as for a local union to hold aloof from the international union of its craft, and further involves the moral right of a workman to remain and hold aloof from the union of his trade.

In no civilized country on the face of the globe does any bona fide national trade union hold itself aloof from affiliation with the general labor movement of the country, and the general labor movement of America regards it as an unappreciative and unjustified position when any bona fide eligible international trade union of America remains unaffiliated to the American Federation of Labor.

New Departments.

There were two resolutions submitted to the Atlanta Convention calling for a conference of the representatives of the organizations comprising the wearing apparel industries for the purpose of the formation of a Wearing Apparel Trades Department, and that the Executive Council should take such steps as might be deemed necessary for the formation of a Transportation Department. Upon correspondence with the various organizations representing the several trades and callings that would naturally be expected to make up the two suggested departments, it was found that a decided majority of them was opposed to the formation of the departments. Therefore, the project was abandoned and nothing further will be done in the matter until the international unions which would be affected can be persuaded to favor their establishment.

However, it should be here stated that on January 22, 1912, the Executive Council issued charter to the Mining Department of the A. F. of L., this Department having notified the Atlanta Convention of its formation and having made application for charter.

Carpenters—Building Trades Department.

In accordance with the action of the Atlanta Convention our best endeavors were exerted to re-establish harmony and have the U. B. again become part of the Building Trades Department. The Building Trades Department at its Convention immediately after the close of the A. F. of L. Convention agreed with the position taken by our Atlanta Convention, and directed its officers to be helpful in having the Brotherhood of Carpenters resume its relations with the Department. The officers of the Department aided materially in carrying that into effect.

We are pleased to be able to report that the matter having been submitted to a referendum vote of the membership of the U. B., it was acted upon favorably and that organization is again part of the Building Trades Department.

Building Trades Department—Plasterers.

The officers of the Building Trades Department entered protest to your Executive Council against the Plasterers' International Union refusing to affiliate with the Department.

The matter was considered and discussed at length and much correspondence ensued in the effort to have the Plasterers' International Union conform to the provisions of the Constitution of the American Federation of Labor by re-affiliating with the Building Trades Department.

Former President Donlin finally answered that he would leave the entire matter to the Convention of the Plasterers' International Union, which was then about to be held. Up to the time of our October meeting, no information having been received as to the Convention having taken action in the matter, we directed President Gompers to enter into immediate telegraphic communication with the officers of that organization. As a result, the latest advice from President McGivern is to the effect that he will be present in Rochester during this Convention, and sincerely expects that arrangements will be made to bring about the re-affiliation of the Plasterers' International Union with the Building Trades Department.

Building Trades Department—Hod Carriers—Cement Workers.

The International Hod Carriers and Building Laborers Union appealed to your Executive Council from the decision of the Tampa Convention of the Building Trades Department of the A. F. of L., jurisdiction over laborers doing the mixing of concrete having been thereby conceded to the American Brotherhood of Cement Workers. After all parties in interest had been afforded a full opportunity of presenting their respective claims of jurisdiction, our best judgment was that the appeal of the Hod Carriers and Building Laborers should be sustained.

U. B. Carpenters—Wood Workers.

We are gratified to be able to report that the amalgamation of the Amalgamated Wood Workers' International Union with the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners has been effected. The agreement for amalgamation as signed by the representatives of both organizations and endorsed by the Executive Council was published in the February, 1912, issue of the American Federationist.

The referendum vote of the Wood Workers being favorable to the plan of amalgamation, the merging of the two organizations was effected on April 1, 1912.

U. B. Carpenters—Amalgamated Carpenters.

Our last annual convention declared that, both for harmony and for practicability, the carpentry trade should be represented in the American Federation of Labor, and also in the Building Trades Department by one general organization of the carpentry industry—the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America—and instructed the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. and requested the Executive Council of the Building Trades Department, to carry that declaration into effect. The Convention further directed that the President of the A. F. of L. should arrange a conference between the representatives of the two organizations for the purpose of carrying out its declarations and instructions.

The representatives of the two organizations were invited to meet in conference with President Gompers beginning Monday, January 15, at Washington, D. C. The conference lasted nearly the entire week. At the outset a difference arose as to one provision of the action of the Atlanta Convention in regard to the conference of these two organizations. President Gompers was called upon for an interpretation of that action. He gave the following:

"A Committee consisting of W. D. Huber and James Kirby, representing the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and Herbert Crampton and William Fyfe, representing the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, called upon me for an interpretation of the recommendation of the Committee on Adjustment and adopted by the Convention; the recommendation of the committee printed in the first column on page 311 of the official printed proceedings of the Atlanta Convention of the American Federation of Labor, is as follows:

"Your committee recommends that the President of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to arrange a conference between representatives of the two organizations involved within ninety days from the adjournment of this Convention, with a view of arranging a basis of amalgamation of the two organizations, and in case of disagreement upon the terms of amalgamation agreed upon and submitted by the President and Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, the differences shall be referred to the President and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor for a final decision, which decision shall be rendered not later than June 1, 1912.

"Should the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners fail to amalgamate with the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners on or before July 1, 1912, the President of the American Federation of Labor is hereby instructed to revoke the charter of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners."

"The difference being as to whether an endeavor should first be made to reach terms of agreement between the representatives of both organizations, or whether the terms of agreement should, in the first instance, be submitted by the President and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor.

"The gentlemen named requested an interpretation of the Committee's recommendation regarding this difference.

"At the outset, I should say that the language employed in the committee's report is, in my judgment, involved, but it is quite evident that the recommendation contemplated a conference between the representatives of the two organizations involved within a specified period 'with a view of arranging a basis of amalgamation of the two organizations.' That statement is clear and unmistakable and is not modified or nullified by any later language of the committee's recommendation. My understanding of the later language of the committee's report is that if there be a failure to agree upon terms of amalgamation by the representatives of both organizations, then the disagreement is to be reported to the President and the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, who shall jointly render a final decision not later than June 1, 1912.

"I shall submit this interpretation of the action of the Convention to Mr. James O'Connell who was chairman of the committee which submitted this report to the Atlanta Convention, and who, as President of the Metal Trades Department, has offices in this building and who will be available within a short time to review this interpretation."

"SAMUEL GOMPERS.

"President A. F. of L."

Washington, D. C., January 15, 1912.

The matter being submitted to Vice President O'Connell, who acted as chairman of the Adjustment Committee of the Atlanta Convention, he made the following statement:

Washington, D. C., January 15, 1912.

"Mr. S. Gompers, President, American Federation of Labor, Ouray Building, Washington, D. C.

"Dear Sir and Brother:

"I have read carefully the report you make regarding the conference held between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America and the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, and the interpretation you give upon the report made by the Committee on Adjustment at the A. F. of L. Convention, held in Atlanta, November, 1911. As Chairman of the Adjustment Committee, my interpretation of the recommendation made by that committee to the convention, is, as stated by you, namely:

"If the committees of both organizations cannot agree upon a plan of amalgamation, then the differences between the committees or the reasons for failure to agree upon amalgamation are to be submitted to the President and Executive Council of the A. F. of L. for final decision or in other words if the two committees fail to agree upon a plan of amalgamation, the subject matter is then submitted to the President and Executive Council of the A. F. of L. to decide upon any differences that may exist between the committees or to outline a plan of amalgamation which would be a basis upon which the two organizations should amalgamate.

Fraternally yours,
JAS. O'CONNELL."

